Bronchos Pop Skyrockets, Set To Play Highland Park

Running back Lorenzo Moore rushed for 196 yards and three touchdowns Friday as Clarendon rolled over Wellington, 52-6, during the Bronchos last home stand of the year.

Clarendon improved to 6-3 and 2-2 in District 2-2A with the win.

Canadian and Panhandle tied 6-6 during their Friday night contest in Canadian eliminating any chance of a Broncho play-off spot. Canadian and Panhandle nabbed post-season berths with the tie.

A Panhandle loss would have kept the Broncho play-off hopes alive.

Breaking the news of the Canadian-Panhandle tie to his players after a spectacular performance against Wellington was difficult, according to Bronchos head coach Kent Allison.

"That was the first thing they asked after the game," Allison said. "It was hard, but we can't let down this week."

Clarendon faces Amarillo Highland Park Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Highland Park. Highland Park has won one district contest beating winless Wellington.

Despite their record, Highland Park has been impressive, Allison said. "It's their last game of the year and their last home game for their seniors. Their seniors will want to play well in front of their home crowd."

"But we'll (Clarendon) stay focused and play like we're playing for all the marbles," Allison said. "Even when we didn't have anything to play for last year they played hard."

The Hornets boast a sophomore quarterback who throws and runs well. Their offense runs a well-executed draw with a strong offensive line and a talented running back, he said.

But Allison believes the Bronchos defense which shined Friday will negate the Hornets offensive threat.

Defensive back Kareem Abdulah intercepted a Skyrocket pass early in the Wellington game that set the tone for the remainder of the contest, Allison said.

Moore, who eclipsed 1,000 yards rushing in eight games Friday struck first at the 8:45 mark on a 5-yard scamper. Abdulah's run tacked on 2 points giving the Bronchos an 8-0 lead they would never relinquish.

Fullback Clemmie Smith cradled a 4-yard pass from Phillip Hearn with 3:11 left in the first quarter to give the Bronchos a two-touchdown lead. Freshman Blake Bass' kick was good and the Bronchos led 15-0.

Running back Ebony Butler chipped in his first of two touchdowns of the evening early in the second quarter on a 42-yard breakaway run. Bass made his second PAT.

Broncho coaches went to Moore again with 4:02 before the half and the senior workhorse didn't disappoint them. He romped 80 yards adding to his 1,110 yards rushing for the season.

The third PAT by Bass was good and the Bronchos led 29-0 before the half, but they weren't finished. Hearn threw a 45-yard bullet to Butler for the TD with no time left before halftime.

The PAT was blocked and Clarendon headed into the locker room with a sizeable 35-0 lead.

Butler showed he can do it all by booting a 40-yard field goal at the 7:51 mark. The sophomore running back carried 8 times for 149 yards. Butler rushed for 623 yards in six games.

Moore took charge again nearly 30 seconds later romping on a 5-yard run. Dean Stanzione's pass from Abdulah was good, and Clarendon led 46-0.

Wellington's lone score came on a 35-yard fumble return by Brian Ward in the fourth quarter. The kick failed.

Offensive lineman Chris Brown barreled in from the 3-yard line with 43 seconds left in the game for his second TD of the year.

Clarendon's offense was on fire Friday rushing for 444 yards and chipping in a 536-yard offensive performance and earned 19 first downs.

The defense held the young Skyrockets team to 236 total offensive yards.

Oren Shields rushed for 35 yards on six carries and Robert Taylor carried the ball four times for 55 yards. Taylor was a great asset in the backfield blocking for Moore and Butler, Allison said.

Stanzione pulled in two passes for 43 yards, and Butler caught one pass for 45 yards. Hearn ran the option well, Allison said. Abdulah intercepted two passes increasing his interceptions for the year up to nine.

Evan Williams had 20 tackles even though they were trying to trap him, Allison said.

"This was a big game for the seniors," Allison said of their last home game. "They were real emotional about the game. I was afraid they were too tight, but they loosened up as the game went on."

Seniors playing in their last home game were Theo Oliver; Lorenzo Moore; Robert Taylor; Brad Mills; Clint Green; Chris Brown; Evan Williams; Seth McAfee; and Mark Barefield.

Senior Drew Jeffers was injured and did not play and Brandon Brock is a senior manager.

Clarissa Smith Competes In Regional Meet

Lady Broncho Clarissa Smith ran her fastest time of the season Saturday during the Region I track meet in Lubbock, but it wasn't quick enough to earn her a trip to Austin.

The sophomore Smith ran a 13:33.06 on the 2-mile course during a blustery morning and placed 27th.

The top 10 runners and top three teams advance to the state meet in Georgetown held later this month.

Smith headed the pack of about 150 runners from the South Plains and Panhandle for the first 250 yards, Schmidt said.

"She likes to show her sprinting ability, but that first hill took a lot out of her and it took awhile for her to catch her breath. She used her strength and got out in front and ran as hard as she could."

"It was really cold and the wind gets you right in the middle of the race," Schmidt said.

The large number of runners participating may have overwhelmed Smith, who participated in the state track meet in Austin last year as a freshman.

"She liked the course, and she gets two more years," Schmidt said. "She's been a real class act all year. She gives it all she has."

Clarendon cross country coach Steve Schmidt expects a good showing from this region at the state meet.

Thornberry Reports On Federal Project Funds Appropriated For Dist. 13 In Fiscal Year 1996

WASHINGTON, DC -- U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) today released a list of 13 District projects that are slated to receive federal funds as a result of two appropriations bills which recently passed the House of Representatives.

"With Congress voting on the remaining appropriations bills which must be approved each year," Thornberry said, "the 13th District will be seeing federal funds headed toward various projects in the area."

"I can't take credit for all of these things, but I do think it's important for people to know some of the things we were able to achieve and — most importantly — how their federal tax dollars are being spent locally."

Over the past two weeks, the House approved the Agriculture Appropriations Act and the Energy and Water Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 1996. Thornberry stated that each of these bills contained federal funding targeted for several projects throughout the 13th District.

On two of these projects — the Plant Stress Lab at Texas Tech and the desalination program at Lake Meredith — Thornberry noted that he and Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) jointly wrote letters of support to the chairmen of the appropriating committees in the House and Senate.

Thornberry also worked extensively with members of both the House and Senate to secure funding in two critical areas of Pantex.

First, he successfully fought for a provision in the final conference report that would provide $106 million for the four stock pile management facilities nationwide. Pantex's share of this amount was around $26 million.

Prior to Thornberry's intervention no funds had been appropriated in the House-approved version of the bill. In addition, Thornberry worked closely with House and Senate members to ensure that $10 million in funding for the Plutonium Center was secured for 1996.

WORK IS UNDERWAY FOR THE DONLEY COUNTY VETERANS MEMORIAL. Officials had hoped to be finished by Veteran's Day this weekend, but things aren't progressing as fast as they had wished.

Oops! We Goofed!

The News staff extends its sincere apologies to Clarissa Smith. It was Clarissa Smith who should have been the one featured on the front page last week as being scheduled to compete in the UIL Regional Cross Country Meet. Our article confused her name with that of Clarissa Davis, a track star at the University of Texas.

Also, we must apologize to Kim Wooten for misspelling her name in the article about the election of officers to the Clarendon College Student Senate. Kim grew up just down the street from the editor, and he would like to assure her and her family that he does know how to spell their name.

What Athletics Can Teach Our Kids

(Editor's Note: The following editorial comes from the Oct. 18 edition of the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches newsletter. The article was copied from the Wisconsin state newsletter, which the TABC receives. The TABC felt the message was particularly timely.)

In Wisconsin, a high school girls basketball coach announced that he was quitting his job at the end of the season. He had guided his team to two state championships, but parents complained that he made some players cry.

In Virginia, another basketball coach is starting over. Shortly after she coached her girls team to the state championship, she was relieved of her duties because players — and their parents — complained she was "verbally abusive."

According to the unhappy player, "A sport...should be fun and coaches shouldn't interfere and make life miserable."

With increased frequency the players — and their parents — want to run the locker room.

An article in USA Today cited 11 recent cases in which high school or college coaches faced open rebellion from their players. Along with "verbal abuse" and "making them cry," the coaches were accused of "invasion" and "poor communication with players and parents."

In my career as a sports parent, four of my kids were on high school athletic teams. I'm not sure how many of their coaches played favorites. I can't say whether or not they had poor relationships with their players. My communication with their coaches was pretty much limited to trying to find out what time they thought practice might end, if ever.

Which doesn't mean I wasn't interested in my kids' athletics.

I went to every one of their games and plenty of their practices. I sat in bleachers and watched them roll around on muddy football fields. I stood at the edge of lumpy soccer fields and watched them kick each other in the shins. I drove through hail to find basketball courts that had no heat or zip codes.

Just about the only place I never went was into the coach's office to fight my kids battles for them.

Not because I didn't care about my kids. But because I did. My feeling was that there came a time when parents have to let their kids learn about life. And high school sports is a great time to start. High school sports does a lot more than teach kids how to pass, punt and dribble. It has a lot of other valuable lessons.

It teaches them that not all coaches are fair. Which might ease the shock when they find out that not all bosses are fair.

It teaches them that coaches don't always have the time, or inclination to worry about whether something they say might bruise a player's feelings. Which might prepare them for a world that does not always have the time, or inclination, to worry about bruising their feelings.

It teaches them that, no matter how wonderful mommy and daddy have told them they are, there are plenty of other kids just as wonderful. Which might make it easier for their egos to handle the blow on the inevitable day they discover that mommy and daddy were wrong and they are not the center of the universe, after all.

Some parents feel high school sports is too early for their kids to learn lessons like those.

I think it's almost too late.

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to the new editor! Henry for you!

I am most elated to know the publication is under new management. It is great to have Estlack "blood" back in my hometown paper. Yesterday, the Oct. 19 issue was received, and it made me happy to see the numerous changes (all for the better).

I was born in Clarendon and attended the local system from the first grade through junior college. After receiving my degree, I returned to teach the first grade in the same room where I was a first grade student. I attended the junior college during the same period your grandparents, Homer and Abby, were enrolled there.

For the past fifty years I have not resided in Clarendon, yet I have always continued to take the paper regardless of my extreme dissatisfaction over a period of years. Now I am a Senior citizen who has read the Clarendon paper all of my life. During the depression my father, Bob McGowan, who was a barber, cut your great grandfather's hair in exchange for the local paper.

The publication has never been the same since George Wayne and Ruby Dell sold (the Leader) to a new owner. Frequently, the thought occurred to me, "Why do you continue to pay $22.50 per year for the Clarendon ads?" There was very little news in the paper. Yet the desire to keep in touch with the old hometown prevailed, and my subscription was renewed annually.

Keep up the good work; you have a great challenge to give us a good publication once again.

May you have nothing but great success. I wish the very best for you.

Fannie McGowan Daugherty
a.k.a. Mrs. Emmett Daugherty

Thank you for your letter, Mrs. Daugherty. It is always nice to hear from hometown folks who have moved on and especially from old friends of the family. I hope that we can continue to keep you touch with Donley County happenings for a long time to come and that you will always be pleased with our work.

"Judging Good Stock"

Before coming to Clarendon College, the only judging team I knew about was my in-laws.

Yeah, "Mom" has been sizing me up (and down) for about 23 years now. She always wanted Claudia to marry a doctor. Problem is - I'm not that kind of doctor. Oh, well.

But back to judging teams. Little by little, the sagely Mr. Hawkins is teaching me about this livestock business. I visited his class the other day, and he was lecturing about horses - Paints, Appaloosas, and the like.

Now, I'm not saying that I don't know much about horses, but when Hawkins started telling his students about how many hands this stallion had, well, I got a tad confused. I just couldn't quite picture a horse with 14 hands.

(Just joking. Even a tenderfoot like me knows a hand is a unit of measurement - four inches to be exact.)

I'm not joking, though, when I confess to ignorance about judging livestock. I've got to believe, however, that it parallels the evaluation of many things in life.

Whether it's assessing stock, shopping for clothes, channel surfing, or trying to select the best three tomatoes in a box of 40, all of us are engaged daily in making determinations about quality.

I guess one of the first things I associated with "judging" is an old saying my parents repeatedly drilled into my noggin. "A man is judged," they stressed, "by the company he keeps."

That's an axiom older than dirt, but just as valid today, I think, as when I first heard it a couple score ago. In fact, it's probably more apropos now than ever.

I believe we are not only judged, but also profoundly influenced, by the company we keep. Looking back on my youth, I know that being embraced by those generally regarded as "cool" became far too important. My priorities were misplaced.

One of my earliest wake-up calls unfolded near the end of the last football game in my undistinguished prep career. I remember having victory well in hand at the fourth quarter's start; so, the seniors huddled on the bench together, reminiscing about our shared experiences.

Our head coach then began walking in front of the bench, stopping to shake hands with each senior and relating a few words of wit and wisdom by which we could remember him. When the burly, tobacco-chewing mentor got to me, he spit out something pretty vanilla like, "Scott, you had a solid year at quarterback. Threw the ball good. Good luck to ya, kid."

Sitting next to me was a stocky young man named Steve Eller. I was never great friends with Steve, just "hi and bye" acquaintances. He wasn't quite "in" enough for the likes of me. Steve was an all-A student, president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, sang in the school choir, etc., etc.

But when our coach stopped to jaw with Steve, he said, "Steve, all I can say is that I've been proud to be associated with you. You are a fine young man, and if I ever have a son, I hope he grows up to be like you."

Wait a dad-gummed minute, I thought. The guy never even made the starting lineup. Didn't even letter, come to think of it!

Suddenly, a rush of envy, if not jealousy, befell me like a blue norther. Funny - in all my shallow life, I never thought I'd want to be like Steve Eller. I had always sought to be an All-American quarterback, not an All-American boy.

My coach's comments hit me like a 210-pound blitzing linebacker. I had just played one of the best games of my life, but in the game of life, I felt like a third-stringer. In the game that really mattered, Steve was the star.

Of course, that was a long, long time ago. Back then I wouldn't have made much of a hand for Mr. Hawkins because I couldn't recognize quality. I didn't gravitate toward quality. I hope I'm a better judge now.

And I hope our youth of today are better judges, too. One thing hasn't changed - there are people everywhere who relish in turning winners into losers. Moreover, I think it's easier to become a winner than to stay one. Mediocrity and complacency are cancers forever seeking new victims.

Hmmm...I sound a little like a real doctor. "Mom" might be proud.

Dr. Scott Elliott is the President of Clarendon College.

Gifted And Talented Holds Mini Metric Olympics

By Lindy Helms

The Gifted and Talented Class of Clarendon Junior High School held a Mini Metric Olympics on October 30. The purpose was to teach sixth and seventh grade math students how to use metric measurements by using Olympic events. The events included the javelin straw throw, the cotton ball shot put, a paper discus throw, a rubber band shoot, a pencil toss, and a box measuring contest.

To score points, the students would shoot, throw, or toss an object, estimate how far it was thrown, and then measure the distance in metric measurements. Next they found the difference in their estimates and the exact measurements. The team or individual with the lowest score won.

Winners for the sixth grades were the group of Greg Wooten, Landon Shields, Claire Rodrigues, Micah Sparks, and Andrew Winkle; and the group of Dana Stevens, Kyle McQuisen, Amy Shields, and Emily Simpson.

In the seventh grade girls' division, Courtney Newhouse was first; Jamie Sawyer, second; and Nicole Terrell, third.

Donley County Soil & Water Conservation Service

ANNUAL REPORT

The directors of the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation Service represent five zones that cover all of Donley County. The district is currently in its 50th year of service to farmers and ranchers in Donley County.

Regular monthly meetings are held on the second Monday of each month at 7:00 p.m. at the Natural Resources Conservation Service office at 321 S. Sully in Clarendon. All meetings are open to the public.

The Donley County SWCD encompasses 597,344 acres. Land uses include: 83,626 acres of dryland cropland, 10,712 acres of irrigated cropland, 454,031 acres of rangeland, 19,000 acres of pasture and hayland, and 29,975 acres of other land which includes urban and water acres.

With technical assistance provided by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, the District Board promotes wise use of our natural resources through sound soil and water conservation programs and activities on farm and ranch land within Donley County. The District Board also serves as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation and environmental matters and other issues affecting private property rights of land owners.

A high priority of the Donley County SWCD is the conservation tree program. Hundreds of trees are planted each year for windbreaks, wildlife plantings, and beautification through this annual program.

Water conservation through the use of more efficient application techniques and equipment will maintain this essential resource.

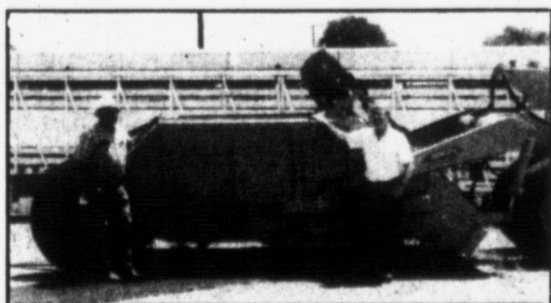

Conservation practices such as wind strip cropping, the use of cover crops, crop rotations, and crop residue use have helped reduce the amount of wind erosion in recent years.

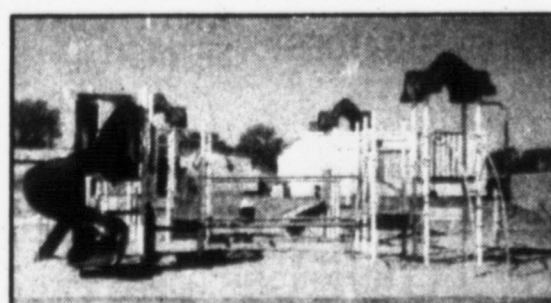

Clarendon Field Office Staff: James Lewis, Range Conservationist; Dana Monroe, District Technician; and Weldon Sears, District Conservationist.

Proper grazing use, planned grazing systems, and correct stocking rates are important management practices which will help to maintain the productivity of our native rangeland.

As a service to county landowners, Donley County SWCD provides rental equipment such as grass drills and the elevating scraper pictured above.

The Resource Conservation and Development Program within the NRCS helps rural communities with grant searches and proposals for a variety of projects. This playground at Clarendon Elementary was partially funded through RC&D funds.

THE CONTINENTALS will present a concert of contemporary Christian music in Memphis on November 14, at 7:00 p.m.

Continentials Set Concert In Memphis

The 25th Anniversary World Tour of The Continentals will present a concert of contemporary Christian music on Tuesday, November 14, 1995, at 7:00 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, in Memphis.

Featuring 25 vocalists with live instrumentation, The Continentals' program will include an exciting variety of popular inspirational and gospel favorites. These energetic young people will uplift, challenge, and encourage audiences of all ages as they present their program.

In addition to majestic anthems, spirituals, and children's songs, the program will recognize the many contributions of some of the top gospel songwriters of the last 25 years.

"I am very excited about this year's anniversary program," said Jim Chaffee, executive vice president of The Continentals. "The audience will not only experience songs that have had a lasting positive influence over the last quarter century, but also music that is continuing to shape gospel music today."

All of the young people who are part of The Continentals are carefully selected from among thousands who audition annually from around the world. The program is then fine-tuned during an intensive nine day rehearsal camp in Denver, Colorado, before each group heads out for an approximate three month tour throughout the United States and many foreign countries.

In the last 25 years, at least 10,000 young people have been a part of The Continentals traveling over two million miles to every continent in the world except Antarctica and more than 70 countries.

Highlights of the organization include a Dove Award for "Best Musical" from the Gospel Music Association in 1982 for "Dreamer," a musical based on the life of Joseph. In 1985, the organization led a successful campaign in conjunction with World Vision to raise nearly two million dollars to fight world hunger. The Continentals have released more than 35 gospel albums.

Touring groups of The Continentals have been the training group for countless individuals who are currently involved in many different arenas of the gospel music industry and church leadership. In addition, numerous well-known Christian artists, representing a wide variety of styles, have honed their skills on a tour with The Continentals, including Wayne Watson, Paul Smith, Karla Worley, and Steve Taylor, among others.

Cattle Baron's Ball to Feature Doug Stone

Country performer Doug Stone, who's seen eight of his singles hit number one on the charts in the past five years, will headline the American Cancer Society's 1995 Cattle Baron's Ball Saturday, November 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Rex Baxter Building on the Tri-State Fairgrounds in Amarillo.

Stone's first album, "Doug Stone, 170 went Platinum, as did his second, "I Thought It Was You." Three more albums have gone Gold.

The last time Stone performed in Amarillo, it was to a sell-out crowd at the Civic Center in 1992. His Amarillo-area fans remember him for such hits as "Fourteen Minutes Old," "In A Different Light," "I Thought It Was You," "A Jukebox With A Country Song," "Come In Out of the Pain," "Too Busy Being in Love," "Why Didn't I Think of That?," and "I Never Knew Love."

The Cattle Baron's Ball is billed as a casual, comfortable good time. In addition to Doug Stone's private concert, the event will include dancing to Young Country, a lavish buffet, open bar, casino games, pig races, a silent auction, and general store.

Proceeds from the Ball fund cancer research, public education and detection and patient services of the American Cancer Society. For ticket information, call the American Cancer Society office at (806) 3353-4306.

Amarillo Symphony Starts New Scholarship For Young Musicians

The Amarillo Symphony Youth Orchestra announced a new scholarship program to assist music students who would like to supplement their musical education during the summer.

This new scholarship will be awarded annually to non-graduating members of the Youth Orchestra. The scholarship has been named after the former Music Director of the Amarillo Symphony, Dr. Clyde Roller. The Roller Scholarship will be $500 and may be awarded to one student or may be divided and awarded to several students.

Dr. Roller guest conducted the Amarillo Symphony in February, 1994, as part of the 70th Anniversary Season. During that week 75 former members of the Symphony from around the country returned to Amarillo to honor Dr. Roller. This group of "Roller Rooters" donated $2,000 to the Youth Orchestra in celebration of their reunion. The Youth Orchestra Committee has placed this gift in the Youth Orchestra Endowment, and income from this fund will be used to help fund this new scholarship. Dr. Roller commented, "Having been associated with summer camps for so many years, and with young people - nothing is more thrilling to me than to know that money is being spent in this manner. After having the experiences in the music camps they can bring back that knowledge and experience to the Amarillo Symphony Youth Orchestra."

Judy Sell, Amarillo Symphony Board member and Youth Orchestra Committee member, said that applications for the Roller Scholarship would be available to Youth Orchestra members in January. The Youth Orchestra will present the first Roller Scholarship this summer.

Livestock Judges Produce Strong Showing For CC

The Clarendon College livestock judging teams made their presence known at the Louisiana State Fair Livestock Judging Contest winning the novice and placing fifth in the junior pro divisions. A total of 18 freshmen and 8 sophomore members of the Clarendon College livestock judging program competed at the contest held October 24 in Shreveport, Louisiana.

The Louisiana contest proved to be a confidence builder for the freshman judging team. Clarendon College entered three teams in the field of 26 and placed all three in the top twelve. Members of the winning team were: Leo Canales, Hebronville; Jeremy Blount, White Deer; Donny Howard, Clarendon; Julie Pound, Socorro, New Mexico; and Matt Wallace, Grady, New Mexico. Clarendon brought home top honors in the sheep division and a third and fifth place finish in the cattle portion of the contest.

Donny Howard of Clarendon made the strongest individual showing of the freshmen as he was named high individual of the contest. Howard showed consistency across all three categories placing fifth in the swine division, twelfth in beef and eleventh in sheep. Team member Jeremy Blount also received individual recognition as he placed second in the swine division.

In the junior pro division Clarendon College team member Kevin Potter of New Plymouth, Idaho, was the high individual of the contest. Potter also won top honors in the swine and sheep divisions. Abilene native Kelby Cowley was the ninth high individual in the swine division. The team, consisting of Joe Chaves, Terson, New Mexico; Kelby Cowley, Abilene; Mandy Stanfield, Clovis, New Mexico; Justin Dauer, Portales, New Mexico; and

Trevor Tuell, Eckley, Colorado, brought home third place honors in the sheep and fourth place in the cattle portions of the contest.

The sophomore team will travel this month to Kansas City to compete in the American Royal Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Contest and to Louisville, Kentucky, for the North American Livestock Exposition.

Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum To Open Art Exhibition This Weekend

On November 11, 1995, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will open an exhibition of sculpture, paintings, and prints by Derald T. Swineford (1908-1990), a former WTAMU art professor. The exhibit will be open through January 7, 1996.

An Oklahoma artist, Swineford studied with Oscar B. Jacobson at the University of Oklahoma before he began teaching at the University of Wichita (Kansas) and West Texas State College in the early 1940's.

Swineford painted murals and carved bas-reliefs under the New Deal in the early 1930's, including door panels for the University of Oklahoma Art Museum. He returned to Oklahoma after World War II to chair the art department of the College of Liberal Arts (now the University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma) at Chickasha.

Primarily a sculptor, first in wood and later in metal, Swineford also painted and made block prints; then later he sent them to friends as Christmas Cards.

The Collection of Swineford works will be lent by his widow and two sons.

Bulldogs Come Up Short In First Games Of The Season CC Men Host Okla. Christian Next Week

It was a hard way to start the season when the Clarendon College Bulldogs went 0-2 at the Western Oklahoma Basketball Classic last weekend.

The team opened play with Temple Junior College and fell short, 105-92, in a fast paced game. Temple returned four starters off last year's squad, and their experience was the deciding factor in the game.

Leading scorers for the Bulldogs were Randy Williams (26) and Angel Gutierrez (12).

Saturday, the men also lost to Western Oklahoma in a close game at the end. The Bulldogs were down by 23 at one point but closed that margin for a final score of 91-88. Gutierrez led scores with 21, followed by Eric Brown with 19.

The Lady Bulldogs came up three points short in their first game to lose to Temple, 54-51. The women got off to a slow start but took the lead at half-time by two and had a five point lead with 1:50 left on the clock. Poor shot selection and fouls ended the lady's run and saw Temple go ahead by three to win the game.

Returning starter Brandy Thomas led the Lady Bulldogs with 18 points. Deborah York followed her with nine points, and Thais Dunbar had three blocked shots.

The men and women will be playing in the Garden City Classic on Nov. 9-11 and will return home for the Bulldog Classic on Nov. 17 and 18.

The men will host Oklahoma Christian University's Junior Varsity here next Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bulldog Gymnasium.

Everyone come out and support the Bulldogs!

Destiny is an invention of the cowardly and the resigned.

Business Matters

By Brenda F. Arnett

Texas Commerce Dept. Creates World Wide Web Site

The Texas Dept. of Commerce has recently developed the Texas Economic Development World Wide Web page information service. This new service dramatically expands Commerce's Internet presence from its original product, TEXAS-ONE, which was introduced in June 1994.

While TEXAS-ONE targets small business information needs, the new expanded service addresses the information needs of a much larger constituency. From a single address, users can access a wealth of timely information.

Welcoming users to Texas, this new initiative is a comprehensive electronic resource designed to serve the needs of a global market. With this service, the citizens of Texas, as well as a global audience, can access vital information relevant to economic development activity in Texas, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. We have only begun to develop this technology. The future holds many more possibilities as we continue to expand into new interactive services.

Internet World Wide Web users can access the Texas Economic Development home page at <http://www.tdco.stat.tx.us>, where they will be presented with a set of 10 graphical buttons that launch into the following topic areas:

- Business Assistance
- Manufacturing Assistance
- Community and County Demographics
- Texas Education

- Defense Transition
- Texas State Government
- Commerce Programs and Services
- Work Force Training
- Tourism
- Expanding or Locating Your Business in Texas

For example, selecting the Manufacturing Assistance option, users will be presented with an electronic brochure on the Texas Manufacturing Assistance Center (TMAC), a recently launched Commerce initiative designed to increase the productivity of small Texas manufacturers. The TMAC web page will also manage wide range of statistical and demographic reports, as well as a collection of linkages to public manufacturing information throughout the world.

Businesses will find the Expanding or Locating Your Business in Texas option ready with licensing, permit, and demographic information. In addition, communities throughout Texas are represented by the Community and County Demographics button, which offers users linkages to Internet effort at the local level. Commerce representatives also provide guidance to Texas communities wishing to publish on the Internet.

The Tourism button, created with the Texas Dept. of Transportation, offers a visually entertaining host of user-friendly graphics that promote statewide events and attractions to a world wide audience. It is exciting to market the economic development activity of Texas communities through the Internet. Our technological position is a simporatnt as our geographical location when it comes to maintain our economic advantage.

While most of the information contained in the Texas Economic Development page was developed by the Texas Dept. of Commerce, information contained under the Education and State Government buttons involved the resources of several state agencies. These include the Texas Dept. of Information Resources, Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, Texas Education Agency, University of Texas - Austin, and the Texas Stat Technical College.

For more information, contact the Texas Dept. of Commerce at (512) 936-0101.

Senator Gramm Receives Guardian Of Medicare Award

Washington - U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm has been named a recipient of the 1995 Guardian of Medicare Award presented by the United Senior Association "in recognition of remarkable dedication to maintaining and improving the quality and stability of seniors health care."

The award is presented by the leading organization of senior citizens opposed to high taxes and big government, "...to Senators who support the responsible Medicare reforms approved by the Senate Finance Committee and incorporated in S. 1357, the Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995."

Medicare has been "a lifeline for many senior citizens," said Gramm, "and I want my 82-year-old mother to be able to go to sleep at night knowing that the problems in Medicare have been solved."

"I want to ensure that the blessings of the Medicare system will be available not just for the next seven years, but for future years and future generations of seniors," the senator said.

ference. The course, sponsored by the Texas Economic Development Council and Texas A&M University, has two major objectives: first, to provide a medium for the exchange of ideas on the principles, practices, and ethics in the field of economic development; and second, to provide the background theory and practical application of economic development techniques.

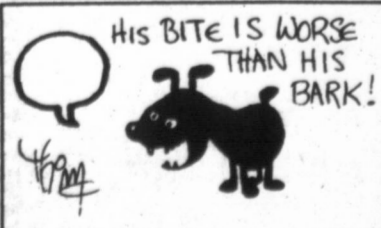

"We strongly believe the principles of economic and community development offered in this course will aid in helping West Texas communities grow and prosper," said Eric Geisler, WTU director of Business Development. "WTU is proud to have provided the scholarship allowing Pat Archuleta to attend the course."

The course covers a variety of topics including: Communications for Economic Developers, Project Financing for Your Town, Community Development, Industrial Sites and Buildings, Business Retention and Expansion, and Group Prospecting and Prospect Handling.

Also attending from Clarendon will be WTU area manager Charles Moore. The course is accredited by the American Economic Development Council.

C. Burgess Made New Chairman For Boys Ranch

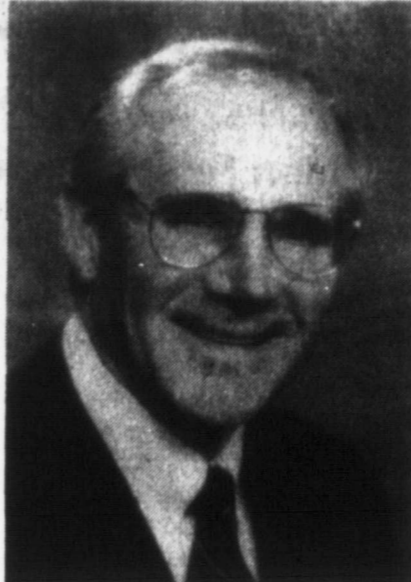

Concluding his year of service as Chairman of the Board for Cal Farley's Boys Ranch and Girlstown, U.S.A., Avery Rush, Jr. passed the responsibility of leadership to C. Coney Burgess on September 13.

The honor of serving as the Ranch's top official climaxed Mr. Rush's 18 years of devotion as a member of the Board of Directors. A resolution issued during the quarterly meeting of the Board recognized his "firm leadership, caring advice and gentle guidance while providing for us all an example of Christian conduct and principles." Mr. Rush will continue his service to Boys Ranch and Girlstown as an Advisory Board member.

Accepting the unanimous support of other Directors, C. Coney Burgess became the seventh Board Chairman of the Ranch. Elected to the Board of Directors in 1986, he is a member of the Executive Committee and also serves on the Board of Trustees for the Boys Ranch Foundation.

Mr. Burgess' professional interests lie within banking, ranching, oil, and gas industries. Business affiliations include Chairman of the Board, Herring Bancorp in Vernon, Wichita Falls, and Amarillo; Chairman of the Board, Herring Bankshares, Frederick, Oklahoma; Director, First Bank and Trust, Clarendon; President, Monarch Trust Company, Amarillo; Director, Southwestern Public Service Company; President, Director, Burgess-Herring Ranch Company, Stinnett; President, Chain-C Land and Cattle, Dumas; President, Flagg Land & Cattle Company, Dimmitt.

Mr. Burgess holds B.S. and B.A. degrees from Mississippi State University of Starkville, Mississippi, and attended Law School at the University of Mississippi at

C. Coney Burgess

Oxford. A member of the Presbyterian Church, Mr. Burgess also serves on the boards of Amarillo Country Club, Amarillo Symphony, the Marine Military Academy at Harlingen, Texas; Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers, Fort Worth; American Quarter Horse Association, Amarillo; National Cattlemen's Association, Washington, D.C. and Denver, Colorado; and the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce. He and his wife, Jane Slemp Burgess, have three sons and one daughter.

Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, located 36 miles northwest of Amarillo, is home for more than 300 boys and girls. Many youth come from broken home situations in need of parental guidance, positive recognition, and education. Academic, vocational, and nondenominational religious instruction is provided to youth whose goal is graduation from Boys Ranch High School.

Two affiliates, Girlstown, U.S.A. and Cal Farley's Family Program at Whiteface and Borger, Texas, respectively, provide additional opportunities for children in need. Because the Ranch is supported by voluntary contributions, all youths within the organization are accepted without cost to parents or government agencies.

Archaeological Society Presents Guest Speaker At November 14 Meeting

The Archaeological Society will meet Tuesday, November 14, 1995, at 7:00 p.m. at the Burton Memorial Library. The guest speaker will be Margaret Smith of Silverton.

Margaret Smith will show and tell about several artifacts found on her family ranch by members of her family. She will also bring examples of her dried native plant arrangements. Her "weed" business started in a small way in 1992, and like weeds do, soon grew so large that she now ships broom weed and other native plants all over the United States and to several foreign countries.

The members would like to invite everyone to come to hear this interesting program. The meeting is open to the public.

THANK YOU

Thank you to Sandra Minatrea, board of directors, and all who gave me the key chain and gift of money.
