Moreman Elected To Board

Don Donaldson, President of Community Bank, Wellington/Hedley, announced that Jack Moreman has been elected to the Board of Directors of the bank.

Moreman graduated from high school at Hedley and graduated Texas Tech University with degrees in Animal Science and Agricultural Education. After serving in the U.S. Army, he taught vocational agriculture at Clarendon High School and was later called back in the army during the Cuban Missile Crisis and in the war in Vietnam. Upon his return he became manager of the Doneghy Ranches in Wellington for almost eight years. He later became Assistant Director of the Ranch Management Program at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, returning to the Texas Panhandle as General Manager of the J.A. Land and Cattle Company, Palo Duro, Texas for two years. Jack then became the founder and Director of the Ranch and Feedlot Operations Program at Clarendon College for 20 years retiring from teaching in 1994. He presently operates L & M Seed Company at Clarendon, which seeds up to 10,000 acres of improved grasses each year and also is Vice President of bio-Ag Technology, Inc., a company doing oil field and agricultural bio-remediation.

He and his wife, Fredie Jo, live in Clarendon, where he is a director of the Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District and Lay Leader and Board Member of the First Methodist Church, Clarendon.

Donaldson said, "We are very pleased to have Jack Moreman join our Board of Directors. With his knowledge of both the Hedley and Wellington areas, we feel he will be of great assistance in the bank's service of these areas."

Texas Historical Commission Conference Coming To Area

The Texas Historical Commission's annual Preservation Conference will be held in Amarillo in April 1996. This is usually a single sponsoring County Historical Commission, however they have decided to have all the Panhandle's County Historical Commissions and other Preservation Organizations to help sponsor this event.

This conference has never been in the Panhandle, and the Donley County Historical Commission would like your assistance in showing Donley county and the surrounding area's historical sites to the rest of the state.

The Donley County Historical Commission would like to invite the public to the first planning meeting for this event to be held July 29, at 12:00 at the Big Texas restaurant in Amarillo. They will be appointing committees and beginning to formulate plans for this conference. If you are unable to attend, but would like to participate in some way, call Brian Barrett at (806) 655-7570.

Magician To Perform

Sebastian has gained a reputation for performing unbelievable acts of magic. He will be featured in the show "The Magic of Sebastian," scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 26 at the Memphis Auditorium, located at 1501 High in Memphis, and Sunday, August 27 at 8:00 p.m. at the Harned Sister Auditorium on the campus of Clarendon College in Clarendon.

The show will last a full ninety minutes with special costumes, music, and equipment. It is a show rocked with excitement, laughter, and spellbinding illusions. It is strictly Family entertainment, and Sebastian and his company of wonder workers promise to baffle the imagination, tickle the funnybone, and fill your evening with wonder.

The production is being sponsored by Panhandle Community Services, Clarendon. The service area of this agency encompasses the counties of Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Donley, and Hall counties. Advance tickets are $4.00 and admit either a child or an adult. Tickets are $1.00 higher at the door. Call (806) 874-2573 for tickets or information.

Farmers May Be Eligible For USDA Loans

Armstrong, Donley, and Collingsworth County farmers and ranchers may be eligible for emergency loans to help cover losses they sustained as a result of the disaster during 1994, according to Jacqueline Morgan, Consolidated Farm Service Agency County Supervisor.

Morgan said that any farmer who was denied an emergency loan or discouraged from applying for a loan because he or she did not have crop insurance for the 1994 crop might be eligible for a loan since the crop insurance requirement for 1994 has been waived by the Agency.

"Any farmer or rancher in that category who is interested in a loan should visit the Consolidated Farm Service Agency county office as soon as possible," Morgan said. "In any case, they must apply no later than August 19, 1995. However, no applications may be accepted after the 8-month termination date for the particular disaster."

FCC Accepting Applications For Station

By James E. Price, III, Sterling Communications, Inc

The procedure specified by the Federal Communications Commission for filing application for a new FM channel may be summarized as follows:

The FCC will issue a public notice announcing the opening of a period of time or "Filing Window," when applications for that particular channel must be filed. The FCC has announced it will accept applications for Clarendon, FM 99.3 Mhz, through August 28, 1995.

The FCC will choose an applicant by using the comparative hearing process it has evolved over the years. They weigh numerous factors in assessing which application will be granted the construction permit. The major comparative factors are listed below, in order of importance:

- Diversification: The FCC attempts to diversify the ownership of broadcast stations so that no company or group of companies monopolizes sources of news and information. Thus, applicants who already own or control communications media, while not disqualified from owning new broadcasting stations, are at a disadvantage to applicants who have no such interests.
- Integration of Ownership and Management: The FCC gives a significant credit to applicants controlled by persons who agree to work full-time at the station in management level position. This policy encourages owners of broadcast stations who are shareholders or general partners) to work at the station. The FCC believes that this will promote program-able to vote stock in the company or otherwise control the station (i.e., voting which is responsive to the needs, concerns, and interests of the local community. In a broadcast comparative hearing, the FCC isolates the percentage of ownership with voting or managerial control which will be "integrated" into station management. Once this percentage is determined, the FCC looks to certain enhancing characteristics of the integrated principals, which are as follows: A significant credit is given to applicants whose integrated principals are minorities, i.e., Blacks, Hispanics, American Indians, Asians, Pacific Islanders, and Alaskan Eskimos. A lesser, but still significant, credit is given to applicants whose integrated principals are female. This credit is cumulative to the minority credit; thus, a female minority gets "double credit." Enhancement credit is also given to applicants controlled by persons who reside within the city limits of the proposed community and who have been active in civic and community affairs there. Lesser enhancement credit is also given to applicants controlled by persons who do not reside in the community of license, but reside in the service area of the station, and have made contributions to their communities. A relatively minor credit is given to applicants who have prior management level experience in broadcasting. Finally, there is a preference given to AM daytime station owners that meet certain strict requirements. The broadcast experience of the daytimer must be based on previous substantial participation in the day-to-day operation of the station in the same market as the sought after FM channel. The daytime-only station must have been owned by the daytimer for three consecutive years prior to designation for the FM application for hearing. The applicants must propose to be integrated into the operation of the FM station.

- Comparative Coverage: Applicants who purpose coverage greater than that proposed by their competitors, particularly when the coverage serves areas that have little or no service form existing broadcast stations, have an advantage in comparative hearings.

The FCC is committed to get new FM stations authorized and on the air promptly. The Commission realizes, however, that many applications will be merely "speculative" in nature. Therefore, it has warned that it will take a "hard look" approach to processing applications. This approach includes: (1) Site availability certification. (2) Strict enforcement of construction permit schedules. (3) Use of multiple ownership rules to limit the number of applications that may be filed. Strict evaluation of applications for acceptability and the using the comparative hearing process to choose winning applicants, it urges applicants to use the services of professionals.

Soup to Nuts

On a fact finding mission to New Mexico, we ate some food like we had never seen before. This one seems like an Italian/Mexican combo. Kind of an odd combination, but tastes pretty good!

Santa Fe Linguine

- 4 Oz. Canned, Chopped Green Chile's
- 1/2 Cup Chopped Green Bell Pepper
- 1/2 Cup Chopped Red Bell Pepper
- 1/2 Pint Heavy Cream

Pointers For Parents

Education Expert Says Summer Is Not A Vacation From Learning

(NAPS)—Academic skills mastered during the school year may fade in the summer from lack of use, says a leading education expert.

According to Dr. Robert Minor, senior vice president of education at Sylvan Learning Centers, the retention of new information begins to decrease within 24-48 hours unless it is reinforced or applied immediately.

"After a month without reinforcement, nearly 80 percent of what your child has learned previously is lost," says Dr. Minor. "Imagine how little your child will retain from June to September if you don't make education a year-long priority."

As summer vacation approaches, families often make plans to put away the deadlines that come with schoolwork and look forward to a less pressured schedule for learning activities. While this is a perfectly appropriate expectation, Dr. Minor says, parents should remember that summer isn't an excuse for children to take a vacation from learning.

"Summer can be as much a time of learning growth as any other time of year if parents let their children know that structured activities are an important part of the summer vacation plan," says Dr. Minor.

Sylvan suggests the following tips to span the summer learning gap:

- Speak with your child's counselor to determine academic strengths and weaknesses. This will help you design activities to prepare your child for the upcoming school year.
- Stimulate learning by planning family trips to the zoo, museums, local newspaper office, beach and other places packed with learning opportunities.
- Have your child write to grandparents, long-distance family members or a pen pal. This activity will tell you a lot about your child's achievement in language, spelling and reading. If your child is older, have him or her keep a diary.
- Develop a reward system for meeting specific goals, such as reading three books or cooking five meals.
- Consider enrolling your child in a summer enrichment program such as those provided by Sylvan Learning Centers.

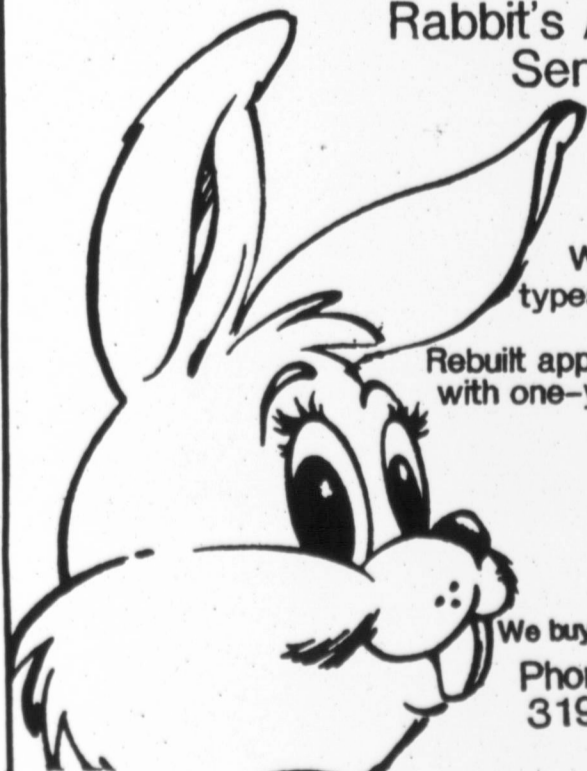

Remember, there are plenty of learning opportunities for you and your child to explore during the summer. By using summer as a time to encourage continued learning, you can help set the stage for a sound performance next fall. For the Sylvan Learning Center nearest you, call 1-800-EDUCATE.

Grant Awards Bring Information Technology To Rural America

Temple - "The Information Superhighway is being introduced to rural America through $7.5 million in grants to 29 education and health care organizations in 23 states," said George Ellis, State Director of Rural Economic and Community Development Service (RECD), formerly Farmers Home Administration. "The grants for this type of technology are developed through the Rural Utilities Service (RUS), an agency within USDA's Rural Economic and Community Development mission area."

The grants will help to build the infrastructure needed in rural America as we enter a new century, a new era of technological innovation, according to Wally Beyer, RUS National Administrator. "These grants will improve the quality of life for real people through improved educational and health care services, both of which are priorities of the Clinton Administration."

This year, the RUS' Distance Learning and Medical Link Grant Program is dispersing grants between $67,000 and $350,000 - 19 of which are over $222,500. The grants will help link rural schools to other classrooms in rural and urban areas, providing advances courses and interactive educational opportunities. The grants to health care organizations will help allow rural citizens access to telemedicine services bringing specialized and general care closer to home.

"This is where the county road meets the Information Superhighway," Beyer said. "These grants will improve the educational opportunities for over 95,000 young people in school and give them an equal footing in the increasingly competitive market place. The medical grants will expand the health services available to approximately 108,000 rural Americans and make it easier and more affordable for them to receive quality health care."

A total of 16 educational organizations nationwide were granted more than $4.5 million and 13 health care groups received almost $3 million. Each grant will be supplemented, or leveraged, with funding from state and local sources. The supplemental funding totals more than $15 million.

According to Ellis, RUS received 247 applications requesting a total of $79.8 million in funds. The selection process, including a review by federal officials and participants outside the government, took five months.

The President's budget for fiscal year 1996 calls for doubling the grant program to $15 million and creating a new $100 million distance learning and telemedicine loan program. In addition, the budget would establish a new $15 million loan program for rural businesses to be known as Rural Telecommunication Partnership Loans.

"In Texas, one grant for $340,000 was awarded to Sam Houston State University," said Ellis. "The University will provide medical and educational services in southeast Texas. The system will link a medical clinic, hospital, an Indian reservation, and two county extension offices."

RUS plans call for a deadline of January 14 to file applications for next year's educational and medical link grants. It will be the only application period during the year. If your organization is interested in obtaining a grant of this nature, please contact Rural Utilities Services, 101 South Main, Suite 102, Temple, Texas 76501, or call (817) 774-1306.

Recycling Grass Clippings Is No Sweat

It's summertime. Kick back, relax, and "Don't Bag it. Leave It A Lawn."

"By not bagging your grass clippings, you not only save yourself a lot of hard work but you also can keep a beautiful lawn by returning valuable nutrients to your soil," says Kitty Coley of the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC). "You'll also save landfill space and disposal costs for your community. And because less fertilizer is needed, you'll also reduce the risk of fertilizer runoff polluting your streams."

In the summer, grass clippings and other yard trimmings can account for up to half of what goes to landfills. The annual yard trimmings disposal cost to Texas is estimated to be $150 million a year.

"Don't Bag It has proven to be a very simple, easy program that allows an individual homeowner to participate in something positive for our environment," says turfgrass specialist Dr. William Knoop, creator of the Don't Bag It lawn care program.

Using golf courses as his model (they're healthy, green, and never bagged), Dr. Knoop developed a conservative program of mowing, watering, and fertilizing that keeps lawns looking good and grass clippings out of landfills.

Here are a few tips based on the Don't Bag It plan:

- Don't cut more than one-third of the grass leaf surface at any one time. For best results, mow every five to six days.
- Water in the early morning when less will be lost to evaporation.
- Cut fertilizer use by one-third to one-half. For slow, even lawn growth, use slow-release nitrogen fertilizers.

Unclaimed Scholarships Seeking Students

With confusion over federal student grant approvals, direct government student loans, and changes in college financial aid guidelines, many students are finding it difficult to identify and understand their financial aid options and are missing out on receiving assistance that could be available to them.

Students taking the traditional path of relying on federal, state, and college financial aid and loans are becoming frustrated as they discover they can't afford to pay the increasing dollars they are asked to contribute each year. These extra payments are straining family budgets and assets as many families try to fund schooling through burdensome debt.

Yet unknown to most people, there are over 375,000 scholarship and grant sources available which do not have to be paid back. Eighty percent of these scholarships do not depend on family need or exceptional grades but are awarded based on factors such as the student's interests, hobbies, academic focus, age, heritage, parent's work, or military service.

Remarkably, according to the National Commission on Student Financial Aid, over $6 billion of funding goes uncollected each year simply because people do not apply for it. Now, through the assistance of the National Academic Funding Administration (NAFA), an expanded publication for 1995-96 is available which spells out the changes and guidelines for financial aid.

For information on how to receive academic funding and scholarships send a No. 10 self addressed, double stamped business envelope plus $2.00 to cover handling to NAFA, 815 Middle Street, Suite 1400, Portsmouth, NH 03801.

Comptroller Forecasts Economic Rebound

AUSTIN — "It looks like the economic slowdown that is occurring across the nation will have a temporary and barely noticeable effect on Texas. The devaluation of the Mexican peso is slowing our economy only slightly," State Comptroller John Sharp said today.

"A month ago, the Index of Leading Texas Economic Indicators showed a slight cooling of the Texas economy, but the latest Index forecasts a rebound, with expectations of moderate growth in the next six to nine months," Sharp said.

Consumer confidence is one of the biggest factors in the growth of the Texas economy. Consumers are 24 percent more optimistic than they were a year ago, and 3.9 percent more optimistic than they were a month ago.

"Texans may hear gloomy forecasts of an economic slowdown in the rest of the nation, but when we look close to home we see a strong economy, a steady job market and new homes and business under construction. Those healthy signs give people confidence to go out and spend money, which stimulates the economy even more," Sharp said.

Texas retail sales remain strong, increasing by 7.5 percent in May compared to the same period last year. This is especially good news heading into the normally slow retail sales of the summer months.

Texas crude oil prices are up 10.9% compared to this time last year. At $17.70 per barrel, oil prices are down 0.8% compared to April levels, as refiners try to absorb the excess supply of oil and replenish gasoline stocks. This will bring good news for consumers, because the prices of gasoline is expected to drop in the near future.

The Texas Help Wanted Index is up by 10.6% compared to one year ago. Help wanted advertising in Texas newspapers expanded by 1% compared to the previous month, indicating renewed employment demand. Since May 1994, Texas has added more than 278,000 jobs — an increase of 3.7%.

In other job-related indicators, new business incorporations are up 3.7% compared to one year ago. Unemployment claims have dropped 3.2%, and the unemployment rate is down 0.9%.

Air Conditioning Keeps Economy Running

Austin — "The dog days of summer are here, and Texans are cranking up the air conditioning to survive the heat. If it weren't for air conditioning, much of the population growth and economic expansion Texas has experienced in the last 30 years probably wouldn't have happened," State Comptroller John Sharp said.

"The migration of people and businesses from the North to the Sunbelt didn't really begin until air conditioning came along," Sharp said.

"Many industries couldn't exist without the ability to control the air's temperature, humidity, and purity. The list includes computers and other high tech equipment, pharmaceutical, food service, and textiles. In fact, air conditioning got its start in textile factories, to control the heat and humidity," Sharp said.

The July issue of Fiscal Notes, a publication of the comptroller's Research Division, explores the development of modern air conditioning, much of which occurred in Texas, and the enormous significance of being able to tame Texas' famous heat and humidity with the flip of a switch.

Fiscal Notes reports that air conditioning as we now know it was invented by Willis H. Carrier in 1906. Theaters and other businesses began installing air conditioning in the 1920s and 1930s. Home air conditioning began in the 1950s and became common by the mid-'60s. But it was not until the mid-1980s that nine out of ten homes in the South were air conditioned.

Texas cannot claim to be the birthplace of air conditioning, but it was a trailblazer in using the technology. In 1924, the Palace Theater in Dallas and the Texas and Iris Theaters in Houston became the nation's first air conditioned theaters. The Milam Building, which opened in San Antonio in 1928, was the first office building designed with a built-in cooling system. San Angelo's Belaire Elementary School opened in 1955 as the nation's first air conditioned school. In 1965, Houston really made air conditioning history with the opening of the first domed and air conditioned stadium, the Astrodome. Houston also boasts a system of air conditioned tunnels beneath the downtown area, so shoppers and workers don't have to brave the heat.

Texans pay a price to cope with the climate. Texas leads the nation in electricity consumption. Sixty-five percent of the energy used in our homes goes for heating and cooling, mostly cooling. In summer, the average electrical usage per customer in Houston is the highest in the world. The average Houston customer uses more than 13,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per year.

The Lions Tale

By Gene Alderson

The Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, July 25, 1995 at the Lions Hall with eight members and four guests in attendance. The club was very pleased to have Don and Mary Berrig to prepare the meal. The tables were very nicely set and the blue table clothes added to the appearance of the meeting room. A delicious meal consisting of roast beef or ham and all the trimmings and topped off by strawberry shortcake was enjoyed by all.

Following the meal, Boss Lion Johnson led the Pledge of Allegiance and Lion Lowe gave the prayer. Lion Alderson introduced the guests including Rodney Harris, a truck driver from Happy, who was the guest of Lion Garland. Several items of business were discussed and the meeting was adjourned.

Athletes Need Pre-Season Checkup To Stay Healthy

Houston - High school athletes may be only "second string" without a pre-season checkup, says a sports medicine expert.

Now's the time to prepare for the upcoming athletic season and for the demands of physical education classes.

"Anyone involved in school athletics should have an annual history and exam as a necessary step for performing optimally," said Dr. Albert C. Hergenroeder, head of Adolescent Medicine and Sports Medicine, in the department of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine, and Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

Hergenroeder says young athletes often will not admit to having problems related to exercise and sports. These include old and current injuries that may not have been diagnosed and fully rehabilitated.

"The nature of athletics is to deny problems, even if they are exercising with pain," he said. "I always tell the students to have an annual evaluation prior to the school sports season startup, to make sure they don't wind up performing poorly simply because of an injury or training problem that may be easy to fix. I ask them if they want to operate at only 80 percent of their athletic ability. The answer is always no."

Hergenroeder says not rehabilitating an old injury may make the difference between making team, being just second string, or performing poorly. He advises having the annual evaluation three to four weeks prior to the beginning of school athletics.

"If there is a problem, they need time to rehabilitate the injury," Hergenroeder said. "For example, waiting until the day before practice starts knowing there is a shoulder problem does not make good sense. Rehabilitation of that injury could keep them off the team or at least hinder their progress with the team."

Hergenroeder says that one study showed that one of the leading reasons for not participating in school sports was old, unrehabilitated injuries.

Students not participating in high school sports could benefit from a pre-school evaluation, as well, particularly if they have old injuries, or medical problems such as obesity, asthma, or chest pains.

Hergenroeder says for the majority of healthy high school students, returning to school athletics or physical education courses is no problem.

Taking steps before a health problem becomes worse is the key for students involved in high school sports or physical education.

Roll-Over 'Convincer' May Persuade Texans To Buckle Up

College Station - For years Texans have been told that buckling up can save their lives. Now they are about to be shown.

With the use of a "roll-over convincer," the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Department of Transportation are demonstrating how people can be tossed about or even thrown from a motor vehicle in a roll-over crash when they are not wearing their safety belts.

"In the convincer, which is a pickup cab mounted on a trailer, dummies representing an adult and a young child are placed in the vehicle without seatbelts to illustrate what happens to occupants when they are not belted," said Janie Harris, Extension passenger safety specialist, based at Texas A & M University.

Typically, the dummies flop and fly about, sometimes out the windows, as the cab is rolled over on a mechanical pivot.

"The dummies are then buckled in and the machine is operated again to demonstrate how the occupants are held in position during the roll-over crash," Harris said.

County Extension agents, law enforcement officers and traffic safety specialists can use the convincer at health fairs, county fairs, automobile shows, and other events to demonstrate seat belt safety, she said. The reality of what actually happens to people who do not use their safety belts is made more visible with the roll-over device.

Clean up, repaint and replant Clarendon. Make it pretty.
