Land Survey to be Conducted

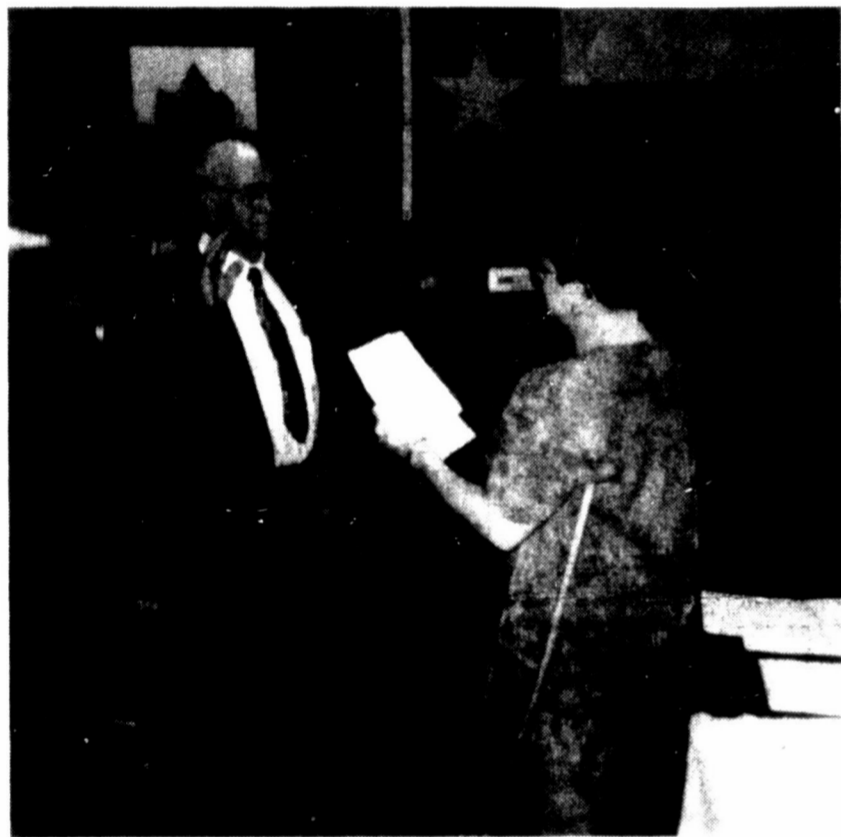

A Department of energy subcontractor is conducting a survey that will assess how land is used within the 50-mile radius of Pantex Plant.

The survey is part of the Pantex Plant Site-wide Environmental Impact Statement. The firm Burns & McDonnell of Kansas City, Mo., will be conducting the survey for Pantex.

A detailed survey will be taken of the land use within a ten mile radius of Pantex and the nearby communities of Panhandle and Washburn. A more general survey is planned for the rest of the land within a fifty mile radius of the plant.

For the detailed survey, Burns & McDonnell will contact and interview individual residents in person or by mail during January and February. Representatives of Burns & McDonnell will present themselves with both a photo I.D. and a letter from the Department of Energy. The generalized survey is expected to be completed by contacting state and county agencies or officials.

The land-use survey will provide critical data for the development of the Pantex Plant Site-wide Environmental Impact Statement. Topics will focus on the number of residents, agricultural and garden use of the land, water supplies and the presence of domestic animals. This information will aid in the development of any future offsite monitoring plans and in emergency management planning.

Smoking Cessation

We routinely ask people to stop using tobacco products in an attempt to reduce the chances of their developing cancer, heart and lung disease. People are usually curious about how soon they can expect to experience the benefits of cessation of tobacco use. According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and the American Cancer Society, a smoker who quits can expect both immediate and long term benefits. Based on the time since their last cigarette, a person who stops smoking can expect the following improvements.

20 minutes-blood pressure, pulse rate, and temperature of hands and feet drop to normal, 8 hours-carbon monoxide level in the blood drops to normal and blood oxygen increases to normal, 24 hours-the chance of a heart attack begins to decrease, 48 hours- nerve endings in the lining of the nose and mouth begin to regrow and the ability to smell and taste improves, 2 weeks to 3 months- circulation improves, exercise capacity begins to improve, and lung function can improve as much as 30%, 1 to 9 months-coughing sinus congestion, fatigue, and shortness of breath decrease, 1 years-50% reduction in the smoking-related excess risk of lung cancer, 10 years-lung cancer death rate similar to that of a non-smoker, and 15 years-risk of heart disease decreases to that of a non-smoker.

Change Of Date For PTA

The monthly meeting for P.T.A. will be held January 10, 1995 7:00 p.m. This meeting will be held in the High School Auditorium. This meeting will be to give parents more information about the University Interscholastic League Academic Contests that will involve students from 2nd grade through high school.

All You Wanted To Know About U.I.L.

Every spring Clarendon Independent School District competes in the University Interscholastic League Academic Contest Activities (U.I.L.). This contest consists of literary, written, math, maps, graphs and charts, and speaking events in which our students compete with other students from the District 2-2A. These schools include Canadian, Wellington, Memphis, Panhandle, Highland Park, and Clarendon. Each event is coached by a teacher. The teams are selected by audition or an elimination process.

The January 10, 1995 meeting of the P.T.A. is designed to give parents a better understanding of the U.I.L. meet. Several teachers will be presenting a description of each event, the specific skills needed to compete well in each event and how the teams are selected. It is our goal that with more information parents can guide their students in choosing an event best suited to their skills and assist in coaching at home. Because of our community's involvement in sports activities and the need for time to prepare for the U.I.L. meet, we hope that more information will help parents and students make choices that will benefit both programs. We hope that by home and school working together we can give our children a higher degree of success in academics and sports.

Utility Assistance Offered

Panhandle Community Service will once again be taking applications for utility assistance for the winter months, beginning in January, 1995. It will not do any good to try to apply before that date because the funds will not be available before then!

While you are waiting for time to apply, you need to contact the gas company (or the butane company) that services your area, and the electric company. Please ask each of these companies to mail to you a history of your energy usage for the twelve months of 1994. It will be necessary that you have these in hand, plus current (for past 30 days) proof of income.

Donley County residents will need to bring the above mentioned items to the offices of Panhandle Community Services at 416 S. Kearney in Clarendon. Carlene Hollar, Center Coordinator, will take applications on Tuesdays and Wednesdays only. Please call 806-874-2573 to schedule an appointment to save waiting time.

have in common? A young adult in an coma after an automobile accident, or an older adult with Alzheimer's Disease, and an adult who is unconscious following a stroke?

While these people have many non-similar characteristics, the characteristic that they do share is that they are not able to assert their own wishes as to the type of health care that they will receive. Our medical and legal systems prize human life, and while this is a positive aspect of these social systems, it also restricts our options once we have lost competency within our medical/legal systems to make our desires known. Consequently, the people in these examples may be the recipients of various life sustaining treatments

Contest To Be Held For MDA

J.C. Penney, Studio C School of Modeling and KFDD-TV are sponsoring a Kids Are Cute Contest on Saturday, January 28, 1995 at Westgate Mall (located near the Cattle Call entrance). The contest is open to boys and girls between the ages of 6 months and 10 years.

Experienced judges provided through the Miss Amarillo Area Scholarship Pageant will judge kids on appearance, stage personality and overall stage presence. An optional photo contest is also available. Prizes include trophies, gift certificates from J.C. Penney's, modeling scholarships from Studio C and more.

Join Miss Amarillo Area, Soñna Solano and KGNC's Mary Lyn Haley for Kids Are Cute to benefit MDA. Registration is $25.00 and entry forms can be picked up at J.C. Penney, Cattle Call Restaurant, or by calling the MDA Office at 359-3141. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, January 25, 1995.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association, Panhandle Chapter provides program services to over 250 individuals diagnosed with one of 40 neuromuscular diseases. Both patients and their families have access to monthly clinics and support groups, educational materials, referral services, summer camp and financial assistance for wheelchairs.

Resolve To Prevent Fires in 1995

Start 1995 with a resolution to prevent fires. That's the recommendation from the Texas Commission on Fire Protection, a state agency involved in various aspects of fire prevention and fire suppression.

"The beginning of the new year is a good time to start new fire-safety habits that could save your life and your home," said Michael E. Hines, executive director of the commission. "By taking a few simple steps, you can develop new habits that can significantly reduce the risk of losing your home or family to fire."

Hines explained that the threat of fire is so frightening that many people refuse to think about how they can prevent fires or to become better prepared to deal with fire. "But compared to some of the popular new year resolutions, such as losing weight or learning a new language," he said, "fulfilling a resolution to practice fire safety in the home is actually very easy."

The Commission of Fire Protection suggests the following steps to get your family started on a fire safe year: (1) Get rid of your dead Christmas tree. The largest number of Christmas tree fires occur during January when the trees have been put out for trash collection. Take used trees and branches to recycling centers or landfills. This will keep children from being tempted to experiment with matches or lighters and the dried greenery. (2) Pick a day to check your smoke alarms each month. Pick one day each month, such as the day your mortgage payment or rent is due, and mark that day on your calendar as "Test the smoke alarm" day. That's a good use for the calendar you got for Christmas. (3) Buy new smoke alarms. Fire incident reports gathered by the Commission on Fire Protection show that, in homes where fires occur, only one in every three has a smoke alarm and about half of those do not operate properly. If your smoke alarm is more than 10 years old or sound "false alarms" frequently, replace it with a new one. Buy more so that each bedroom has its own smoke alarm. Read and follow the directions to be sure that the alarms are installed correctly. (4) Resolve to stay in the kitchen whenever you are cooking. Unattended cooking is the leading cause of fires in Texas each year. "We could save millions of dollars in property loss and prevent tremendous personal suffering that if everyone in Texas simply watched the stove while they were cooking," Hines said. Start cooking only when you are sure that you will not have to leave the room. If you need to leave the room, turn off the stove, fryer or other cooking appliance. (5) Replace your cigarette lighter with a new child-resistant disposable lighter. Fires caused by children playing with lighters and matches are the leading cause of fire injuries to children, according to Commission statistics. Look for labels that say "child-resistant" when you buy lighters. (The lighters meet new Consumer Product Safety Commission standards that went into effect during 1994.) Then keep the lighter, as well as matches, in a place that cannot be reached by children. If you have old-style lighters or if your child has shown an interest in playing with matches or lighters, consider keeping matches and lighters in a locked container or cabinet.

Early Detection Key To Breast Cancer Survival

Recent advances in genetic research have brought breast cancer again to the forefront of the national discussion about health and disease.

But while a true test for genetics predisposition toward breast cancer may be years away, education and early detection can greatly increase the chance of survival for breast cancer patients today.

The Society recommends that women have a screening mammograms by age 40; women 40 to 49 have a mammogram every 1-2 years; women age 50 and over have a mammogram every year.

Also, a doctor should contact a breast examination every three years for 20 to 40 and every year for those over 40. The Society recommended monthly breast self-examination for women 2 years and older.

Breast Cancer is the most prevalent form of cancer among women, and it is second only to lung cancer in its deadliness. The American Cancer Society estimates that about one of every nine American women will develop breast cancer by the age 85.

An estimated 9,200 new cases of breast cancer will be diagnosed in Texas women during 1994. About 2,300 Texas women die of the disease this year.

Ninety-three percent of women diagnosed with localized breast cancer survive five years. For cancers that haven't spread to other parts of the body, the survival rate approaches 100 percent. Seventy-one percent of women whose breast cancers have spread regionally survive, while 18 percent of women whose cancers have spread further survive five years.

Risk factors include: age over 40; personal or family history of breast cancer; and never had children or had children late in life.

For more information on breast cancer detection and treatment, contact your local American Cancer Society office.

that they would not have chosen to receive had they been competent to make their wishes known.

How can we prevent this from happening? One way is to create a document that expresses our wishes as to the type of care that we were unable to make our own medical decisions. The Texas Directive to Physicians is a document that lets us record our wishes about our medical care in the event that we develop a terminal condition and can no longer make our own decisions.

A second way would be to appoint someone else to make (medical) decisions for us if we were unable to do so for ourselves. (Naturally the person that we appoint must be a person that we would trust to make such decisions should the need arise.) The Texas

Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care is a document that enables us to name another person to make medical decisions for us, including decisions about life support, if we can no longer make those decisions or ourselves. The Texas Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care is broader in scope than the Texas Directive to Physicians in that it appoints another adult to speak for us any time that we are unable to make our own medical decisions, not just at the end of life. Both of these instruments are important in the setting for which they were intended and they help us to retain our ability to control the type and amount of medical care that we receive.

The Honorable Larry Combest
5809 S. Western
Amarillo, TX 79110

Mr. Thornberry and Mr. Combest,

I am very concerned about the proposals in the "Contract with America" to consolidate senior nutrition programs into a larger block grant with other federal nutrition programs. I am also concerned that the Older Americans Act be kept intact and not be "block granted" into other welfare programs. The Senior Nutrition Program is currently implemented under Title III of the Older Americans Act, provides meals and other nutritional services to older people at congregate sites, and to the homebound elderly. The Senior Nutrition Program must remain a part of the Older Americans Act. It is not a welfare program and should not be included in welfare reform proposals. The legislative language of the "Personal Responsibility Act-Welfare Reform" bill includes OAA Title III programs. These food programs should not be lumped together with welfare programs. Please do everything in your power to defeat this bill!

Thank You,
Sandra Minatrea

The family requests that memorials be to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department, Clarendon EMS Equipment Fund, or Clarendon College.

Apology

Last week's paper congratulated James Howell & son for selling their real estate in Ragtown. Unfortunately the paper misspelled Leanne's name. It also reported that Howell's Chili House would be closed on Thursday. Actually the Chili House was open from 11:00 to 1:30. The newspaper would like to apologize to any of the Howell's fanatical, devoted customers who missed eating there on Thursday, and to Leanne for missing up her name.

When to Sell a Stock

By: Edward Herring

The key to success in owning equities is to base your investment decisions on factual information — not on your emotions. That is why you should talk to your broker and review appropriate print materials (such as corporate annual reports and articles in the financial press) whenever stocks you own undergo a significant rise or fall in price. These sources will generally provide the information you need to help decide whether or not it is time to sell.

When Is It Time To Reevaluate?
 There are several indications that a stock may be ripe for selling, not the least of which is a sharp rise or fall in the price or price-to-earnings (P/E) ratio. Also, unusually strong buying volume can mean that a stock is approaching its high. Moreover, if you find yourself with a stock that everyone wants, consider selling it to them. "Winning Streaks" of good news rarely last forever. Some investors decide when they're going to sell before they've even bought by selecting a target price and reevaluating when the stock price reaches that level. A more subtle sign that it could be time to sell is when the stock price does nothing for a long period of time. Although you've incurred no losses other than commission costs, you have foregone potentially higher returns from other investments. Perhaps the rapid growth that the company expected didn't materialize. Stagnant investment funds are a good reason to take another look at your holdings. As a rule of thumb, ask yourself, "If I had the money right now, would I buy this stock again?"

Signals That It May Be Time To Sell
 A cut in the dividend

Quarterly earnings that are 10% or more below analysts' expectations
 A slowdown in the growth of trailing 12-month earnings

How Do I Know If The Company Is In Trouble?

Once you've decided to review your investment, the next step is to determine whether your original premise for buying the stock remains intact. Looking at the company's "Four-M's" can help you decide.

Merchandise. Has the nature of the company's product or service changed? Has a new technology been developed that may render their product obsolete?

Market Share. Has a new competitor entered the marketplace? Has a substitute for the company's product been introduced that is more cost-effective or convenient?

Margins. What has been driving earnings growth—efficient operations that enable a greater percentage of revenue to make it to the bottom line, expanding market share or price increases? Are these trends sustainable?

Management Strategy. Has the company launched an advertising campaign geared toward children when historically it targeted adults? Has it been attempting to penetrate the northeast market when its past successes have been in the southwest? Has it changed its image from lower cost to higher quality? Although changes in these factors do not necessarily mean trouble, they could explain weakness or strength in the stock. If you have questions, call your broker. You can even call the company. Most have investor relations specialists who can provide timely information.

The most important rule in deciding when to sell is to have a rule. The more you lose on an investment, the more you will have to recoup just to break even. So whether you sell when your stock reaches its book value, when it hits a predetermined target price, when earnings growth slows or just when you see a better opportunity, a systematic approach is preferable to a whim.

If you would like more information about stocks, please write to me in care of this publication. Information and data in this report were obtained from sources considered reliable. Their accuracy or completeness is not guaranteed and the giving of the same is not to be deemed a solicitation on Dean Witter's part with respect to the purchase or sale of securities or commodities.

Prices Increase

The prices for advertising in The Clarendon News will increase by 4 percent as of January 1, 1995.

This increase was made necessary by increases in the cost of newsprint (paper), postage and other costs.

As of late 1993, the Federal government created requirements that newsprint had to contain increasing amounts of recycled paper. The paper companies claim that this increases their costs, and passes the cost on to newspapers. The paper companies' increases for 1995 are rather large percentages. Printing costs (which includes paper as a major component) are the largest single expense many newspapers must pay.

On top of the increased paper cost, the United States Postal Service is now increasing its rates for Second Class Postage. Subscription rates will have to follow.

Not all of this news is negative, however. At least some analysts expect the quality of the newsprint to improve as the recycled content increases.

If you're looking for a new enjoyable book that will be appealing to your children, you'll be pleased to know that Burton Memorial Library has received several new ones lately, and is anticipating the arrival of more.

Healthy eating habits seem to be a growing concern among many today. Eating The Alphabet by Lois Ehlert and Eating Fractions by Bruce McMillan are two books for young children which will help develop their awareness for healthy food importance. Eating The Alphabet is an attractive picture book with which very young children can identify and learn. They will enjoy full page photographs of vegetables and fruits with word identification. The pages are arranged from A to Z. A glossary in the back provides a brief history of interesting information about each vegetable and fruit. Each entry describes the food, its native country, its foliage type, and its origin, some dating back to pre-historic time. This additional interest also makes the book appropriate for primary children. Teachers will recognize the publisher, Harcourt Brace Jovanovich.

Eating Fractions, published by Scholastic, Inc., attractively illustrates division of foods into halves, thirds, and fourths. The author enjoys cooking, and has included four recipes enticing to children: Bruce's Cloverleaf Rabbit Rolls; Pepper Pizza Pie; Wiggle Pear Salad; and Fresh Strawberry Pie. The fractional quantities of ingredients can be measured by children, but assist in developing math concepts, alphabetizing and reading skills, and brief historical interests.

Is your youngster a "fussy eater"? If so, Bread and Jam For Frances by Russell Hoban might hold interest for him or her. Stan Berenstain's The Berenstain Bears and Too Much Junk Food is another cleverly written book to encourage young readers in giving a little more thought to what they eat. Incidentally, these books have been recommended by Donley County Extension Agent, Jeanene Sinclair, for the purpose of helping children learn more about food.

Changes for Addy-A Winter Story, from The American Girl Collection and Smokey Night by Eve Bunting are two more recently received children's books at the library.

Caldecott Award Winner, Blueberries For Sal by Robert McCloskey is also on display with the new books. The Caldecott Award is given each year for the best picture book with a story. Mr. McCloskey's story is humorously written with just enough suspense for small children.

Librarian, Mary Green, informed me that she will soon be receiving a collection of the new Bluebonnet books. Children in grades 4, 5, and 6 will be especially interested in these. More will be said about the bluebonnet books in a later article. In the meantime, why not check it out?

No one ever said it was easy to be a parent. Yet one part of parenthood can be easier than you thought - saving for college with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're the easy way to make sure the money you save will be there by the time your child goes to college.

First, U.S. Savings Bonds are affordable. Invest just a few dollars each payday through your employer's Payroll Savings Plan or at your bank.

Second, U.S. Savings Bonds are secure. They're backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Third, U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed to grow. They earn interest at a competitive market-based rate, if held five years or longer, or a guaranteed minimum rate, whichever produces the higher value, compounded semiannually.

And U.S. Savings Bonds offer tax advantages. The interest they earn is exempt from state and local taxes, and you can defer federal income tax payments on the interest until you cash your bonds. Plus, if you use U.S. Savings Bonds to pay for college, you may be able to receive additional tax benefits.*

Ask your employer or banker about saving for college with U.S. Savings Bonds. Or write: U.S. Savings Bonds for Education, Department of the Treasury, Washington, DC 20226.

For a detailed message of current rate information, call 1-800-455-6233 • 1-800-455-3855.

Many Employers Face Year-End IRS Deadline to Amend Retirement Plans

By: Edward Herring

A final IRS deadline of December 31, 1994 is fast approaching for employers to amend their plans to comply with tax law changes that were made as far back as 1986. The new year may trigger the loss of tax-qualified status for many retirement plans whose employers fail to make the required filings.

Some Background
When Congress passed the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (TRA '86), it included legislative provisions affecting all qualified retirement plans, which include profit-sharing plans, money purchase pension plans, and 401(k) plans. As a result, employers must take action by December 31, 1994 to keep their qualified retirement plans in compliance.

Why Now?
Because many of the changes made in 1986 were too complex to be implemented immediately, Congress instructed the IRS to set 1989 as a deadline for employers to comply with most of the TRA '86 changes. The IRS was instructed to develop guidelines that employers could use to "simplify" the process of amending their plans. As 1989 approached, it became apparent that the IRS would not meet the deadline for providing guidance to employers. The deadline continued to be extended. To complicate matters, tax law changes enacted in 1991, 1992, and 1993 also affected qualified retirement plans. Eventually, a final calendar year deadline of December 31, 1994 was set for employers with qualified retirement plans to amend their plans and request determination letters from the IRS for all changes made during the past few years.

Good News, Bad News
The good news is that many of these changes require either very little or no action by the employer. Much of the updating burden fell on the prototype plan sponsor (i.e., brokerage firm, insurance company, mutual fund, bank, etc.) to obtain IRS approval of an amended plan document. The prototype plan sponsor also must forward to the employer copies of the pertinent amendment for the employer's records. The bad news is that the original changes made in the TRA '86 require that the employer take action by the end of 1994 to execute documents to amend the plan. Also, if the employer uses a "non-standardized" prototype plan or cannot otherwise rely on the IRS opinion letter given to the prototype plan sponsor, the employer must submit the amended plan to the IRS for a determination letter. With the December 31 deadline finally in place, there is currently a scramble among employers and prototype plan sponsors to amend qualified retirement plans before year end. Companies with a qualified retirement plan must update and amend their plan and provide proper notice of the amendment to the plan participants (employees). The prototype plan sponsor should have amended its adoption agreement and all other plan documents to reflect all of the tax law changes of the past few years. prototype plan sponsors must make sure their clients—the employers—amend and return any needed documentation. If employers do not amend their plan by December 31 (assuming the plan year ends on this date), they risk having the retirement plan disqualified by the IRS.

ABC intends to restructure its retirement plans. If the IRS finds that ABC did not properly amend its plan by December 31, 1994, it could disqualify the profit sharing plan from tax-exempt status. This could result in ABC having to return all monies in the plan to the plan participants on a fully taxable basis. Not only would abc lose its retirement plan tax benefit, but it would have some very unhappy employees who would receive their future retirement fund prematurely and find that it now becomes fully taxable. Since this would represent a distribution from a non-qualified plan, the distribution would not be eligible to be rolled over into an IRA.

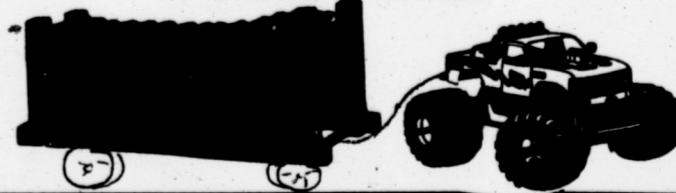

What Should Employers Do?
If you are a director of human resources, a financial officer, or even a participant in a qualified retirement plan, check immediately to see if your plan has been amended in accordance with the Tax Reform Act of 1986 and other tax law changes made since then. Prototype plan sponsors should have sent your company an appropriate amendment package with instructions urging you to return the completed paperwork by December 31, 1994. Employers who have given this amendment package to their accountant or other financial advisor should follow up with their prototype plan sponsor to be sure the plan was updated and that it now complies with recent tax law changes. If you would like more information, please write to me in care of this publication. Dean Witter is not a tax advisor. Employers and employees should consult their personal tax advisors before making any tax-related investment decisions. Information and data in this report were obtained from sources considered reliable. Their accuracy or completeness is not guaranteed and the giving of the same is not to be deemed a solicitation on Dean Witter's part with respect to the purchase or sale of securities or commodities.

What Happens If a Plan Is Not Amended
Typically, the IRS learns that an employer has not amended its plan through an audit. For example, an employer may face an IRS audit when a retirement plan is terminated. Consider this hypothetical scenario: "ABC" Corporation has a profit-sharing plan but did not amend its plan for tax law changes under the TRA '86. Five years from now, ABC wants to expand its employee benefits by adding a 401(k) plan and ending its profit-sharing plan. The IRS may want to examine the terminated plan once it receives notice that

Thank You

We would like to take this opportunity to say a big "Thank You" to Bret, Virginia and Abby Patton for their help and participation in Traci's Wedding. Also, we would like to thank everyone who took the time out of their busy New Year's Eve to attend. Thank you to Jim Shadle for singing and Valorie Ashcraft for playing. Bryan Knowles did a wonderful job officiating. Thank you to Jack & Eileen Davidson for all of their time and work. All at Harlan's, who worked such long hours and made everything really pretty. Anyone I've left off naming, I'm sorry, but we did know you were there. Thank you!

Thank You,
 It is hard to find the words to express our feelings of love and gratitude to each and everyone of you for your comfort, love, and prayers you gave to us during the loss of Junior.

We deeply appreciate all the food, flowers, cards, and visits during our time of sorrow.

A special thank you to the ladies of the First United Presbyterian Church for the wonderful meal for the family, and the First Baptist Church for providing their lovely sanctuary for the services.

Also, a very special thank you to the EMS staff and volunteers for your dedication and hard work. Your services not only to us, but also to everyone in the community.

You do not realize the abundance of friends one has until a time like this. We appreciate each of you.
