Amarillo Opera To Perform My Fair Lady

One of the most popular musicals ever written, Lerner and Lowe's "My Fair Lady" will grace the Amarillo Opera stage September 15, 16, and 17 at 7:30 p.m. and September 18, at 2:30 p.m. at the Amarillo College Concert Hall Theater.

The classic George Bernard Shaw Pygmalion story, revived in "My Fair Lady" as bedraggled flower girl Eliza Doolittle and arrogant Professor Henry Higgins, tells the story of the transformation of an English waif into a fine lady through the efforts of an expert in linguistics.

"Beautiful clothing is an integral part of this story of transformation," Mila Gibson, Amarillo Opera Founder/Director, said. "We have made 63 costumes, and rented over 30 that are similar to the Academy Award-winning costumes in the movie."

Conductor and Music Director Lee Kendle said that the play features some very familiar songs, including "On the Streets Where You Live", "I Could Have Danced All Night", "Wouldn't It Be Lovely", "With A Little Bit of Luck", and "Get Me to the Church on Time." "These beautiful show tunes are one of the chief reasons this musical has been performed all over the world, and run on Broadway for years," Kendle said.

Rock Mathis plays the role of Higgins, and Gracie Eddins is Eliza. Jerry Williams plays her father, Alfred P. Doolittle, and J.P. (Phil) Wedding, Jr. is Higgins' cohort Colonel Pickering. Other performers include Danny Tucey as Freddy Eynsford-Hill, Gene Murray as Harry, and Kelly Murry as Jamie.

Making his debut as a stage director and set designer, Timothy Tucker, Amarillo Opera's artist-in-residence, joins the "My Fair Lady" production staff. Canyon resident Gene Murray, is the assistant director and choreographer; Joan Webber, chorus director; Ben Webber, stage manager and technical director; Jim Elliott, lighting design; and Beth Nelson, chief costumer.

The production is made possible by shared resources of Amarillo Opera, Inc. and Amarillo College. Sponsors include the Texas Commission on the Arts and the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce - Arts Committee.

Dr. Robert Krause, professor at West Texas A&M University will give a free lecture about American Musicals and "My Fair Lady," Friday at noon in the Amarillo College Student Union building, and Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the Music Building, room 102.

Open seating tickets to "My Fair Lady" are $10 for all performances. Tickets are available at the box office in the common lobby of the fine arts complex at Amarillo College from 1:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday - Friday. Information about the performance is available by calling 371-5360.

Lottery Sales Exceeds Official Estimates

(Austin) - "A host of new games, prudent spending and a bit of luck combined to boost Texas Lottery profits this fiscal year to $869 million, that's 44 percent better than the official projections - and a new record," Nora Linares, Executive Director of the Texas Lottery Commission, has announced.

"(169) We've tried our best to run the Lottery like a business," Linares said. "And now we're turning over this dividend to our stockholders - the people of Texas."

Linares said the Lottery paid $869,073,948 to the General Revenue Fund of the State of Texas for profits earned during fiscal year 1994. That is $268 million more than the official estimate for the year.

"Since the Lottery began, we have consistently delivered more than the Legislature expected," Linares said.

The $869 million includes $782 million in operating profits and an additional $87 million in unspent administrative funds. Fiscal 1994 ended August 31.

Linares attributed the record profits to several factors, including:

- * The introduction of 19 new scratch games and Pick 3, the daily game;
- * Record Lotto Texas sales, spurred by nine estimated jackpots of $40 million or more; and
- * Continued efforts to operate the Lottery as efficiently as possible.

State law allows the Lottery Commission to spend up to 10 percent of its ticket sales revenue on the administrative costs associated with running the Lottery. Those expenses include computer systems, tickets, security auditors, advertising and promotions, staff, equipment and supplies.

"Because every dollar we save becomes an additional dollar for the Texas Treasury, we strive to ensure that all expenditures generate additional revenues, enhance security, improve customer service and/or boost employee productivity," Linares said.

The State Lottery Act directs the Lottery to deposit all profits earned into the General Revenue Fund. This fund is the state's "bank account" from which it pays its bills.

The Fund gets its money from sales taxes, interest and dividends, Texas Lottery revenue and other income sources. The Lottery's contribution is about three percent per year.

The Fund helps support a long list of state-run programs such as health and human services, parks, public safety, public schools and prisons. The State Legislature decides exactly how to spend the money in this account.

Since the Lottery began, it has transferred $1.68 billion to the General Revenue Fund; that is $620 million - 58 percent - more than the official estimates.

*Shopping Smart
Easier with New Food Label*

A key to eating properly is shopping smart. With the new label now on most food products in the supermarkets, consumers can make more informed choices about the foods they buy and eat. The label, in effect, makes it easier to choose foods that are lower in fat, saturated fat, cholesterol and sodium.

Grocery shoppers will be offered a wealth of tips on shopping smart during the American Heart Association's annual HeartFest, Oct. 22-29.

A highlight of this year's HeartFest is the promotion of the new food label developed by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration with input from the AHA and other organizations concerned about prudent diets for healthy Americans. The label was introduced nationwide last May.

The label can help simply because it offers these improvements over the old version:

- Calories per serving are listed along with the amount derived from fat. The AHA recommends limiting total fat intake to less than 30 percent of total calories per day. Saturated fat intake should be less than 10 percent of total calories.
- Fat, saturated fat, carbohydrates, fiber and protein are listed in grams per serving.

- Cholesterol and sodium amounts are listed in milligrams (mg) per serving. The AHA recommends consuming no more than 300 mg of cholesterol and 3,000 mg of sodium per day.

- The percent of daily values are listed for all of the above. For nutrients like fat and cholesterol, the daily value percentage tells your upper limit, based on 2,000 calories per day. Some people may need more calories or less than 2,000 per day. The label also includes total daily value numbers for diets of 2,500 calories per day.
- Vitamins and minerals are listed in their percentage of daily values per serving. The goal is 100 percent of vitamins A and C, calcium and iron, all of which should be derived from a combination of foods throughout the day.

More facts about food labelling, smart shopping and ways to cut the fat and cholesterol from your diet will be found in supermarkets participating in HeartFest. You'll also see and hear about HeartFest on Cable News Network during the week. CNN is cooperating with the AHA in co-sponsoring the event.

For additional information about HeartFest, the new food label or other nutrition issues, contact your local American Heart Association or call 1-800-AHA-USA1 (1-800-242-8721).

BUSINESS MATTERS

Issues and answers on buying a business

I was recently laid off from a major corporation. I want to buy a business and I have $200,000. What specific matters should concern me when buying a business?

Buying a business is a serious commitment and the situation must be analyzed thoroughly. First of all, do not use all your available cash. You must not exceed $150,000 of the $200,000, because there will be unexpected needs for which only cash is a viable solution.

Spending and committing yourself to several hundred thousand dollars demands that a few thousand dollars go into protecting yourself and this investment. You should obtain your own independent counsel. Do not rely upon the attorney who represents the seller, the business broker, or your lender. Your attorney will seek to minimize the risk of future conflicts with third parties and the seller.

The most difficult issue concerns your investigation of the facts. Are the representations you see correct? An accountant can do this verification more thoroughly and more quickly than you, but you may be able to do a credible job yourself. The ultimate factual issue is whether you can be successful at the business. Ask yourself a few questions. Regarding the present operation, what leads to its profitability? Is it the knowledge and skills of the owner, who is retiring when the business is sold to you? Is it a key employee, who has no loyalty to you? Feel confident that the business is something you, not just someone, can make the profit you demand.

Help Your Heart

Walking Toward A Healthier Life

Thousands of volunteers will be taking to the nation's roads and byways this fall to walk for their own health as well as that of their neighbors and friends.

They will be participating in local American Heart Walk events to raise money for the American Heart Association and to call attention to the benefits of walking as an exercise to help develop and maintain fitness.

Walking, an aerobic exercise, can condition the heart and lungs if performed at the proper intensity for 30-60 minutes at a time, at least three times a week. If you don't have a 30-minute block of time, try two, 15-minute blocks. Conditioning increases the oxygen available to the body and enables the heart to use oxygen more efficiently.

In addition, walking can:

- give you more energy and increase your resistance to fatigue;
- improve your self-image;
- relieve tension and help you relax and sleep;
- tone muscles; and
- increase stamina.

If you decide to begin a vigorous, regular walking program, you may want to see your doctor first. Some people, however, should seek medical advice, especially if:

- You are 40 or older and are not accustomed to regular exercise.
- You have heart trouble, a heart murmur, or you have had a heart attack.
- Your doctor said your blood pressure is too high and not under control or you don't know whether your blood pressure is normal.
- You frequently have pain or pressure in the chest, neck, shoulder or arm after exercising.
- You experience extreme breathlessness after mild exertion.
- You have bone or joint problems.
- You often feel faint or have spells of severe light-headedness.
- You have a medical condition that might need special attention, such as insulin-dependent diabetes.

For more information about American Heart Walk or beginning a regular walking program, contact your local American Heart Association or call 1-800-AHA-USA1 (1-800-242-8721).

Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions

QUESTION: How can I acquaint my junior high schooler with the need for responsible behavior throughout his life? He is desperately in need of this understanding.

DR. DOBSON: The overall objective during the preadolescent period is to teach the child that his actions have inevitable consequences.

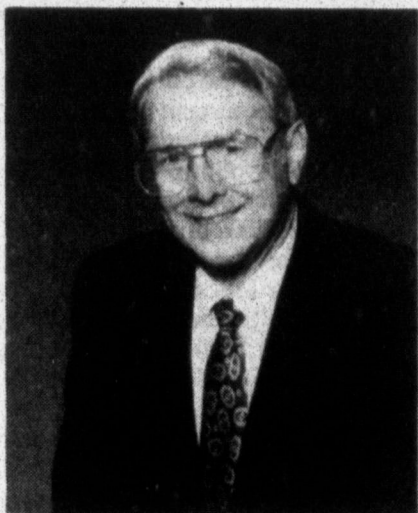

One of the most serious casualties in a permissive society is the failure to connect those two factors, behavior and consequences.

Too often, a 3-year-old child screams insults at his mother, but mom stands, blinking her eyes in confusion. A first-grader launches an attack on his teacher, but the school makes allowances for his age and takes no action. A 10-year-old is caught stealing candy in a store, but is released to the recognition of his parents. A 15-year-old sneaks the keys to the family car, but the father pays the fine when he is arrested.

You see, all through childhood, loving parents seem determined to intervene between behavior and consequences, breaking the connection and preventing the valuable learning that could have occurred.

Thus, it is possible for a young man or woman to enter adulthood not really knowing that life bites--that every move we make directly affects our future--that irresponsible behavior eventually produces sorrow and pain. Such a person applies for his first job and arrives late for work three times during the first week; then, when he is fired in a flurry of hot words, he becomes bitter and frustrated. It was the first time in his life that mom or dad couldn't come running to rescue him from the unpleasant consequences.

Unfortunately, many American parents still try to "bail out" the grown children even when they are in their 20s and live away from home. What is the result? This overprotection produces emotional cripples who often develop lasting characteristics of dependency and a kind of perpetual adolescence.

How does one connect behavior with consequences? By being willing to let the child experience a reasonable amount of pain or inconvenience when he behaves irresponsibly. When Jack misses the school bus through his own dawdling, let him walk a mile or two and enter school in mid-morning, unless safety factors prevent this. If Janie carelessly loses her lunch money, let her skip a meal.

Obviously, it is possible to carry this principle too far, being harsh and inflexible with an immature child. But the best approach is to expect boys and girls to carry the responsibility that is appropriate for their age, and occasionally to taste the bitter fruit that irresponsibility bears.

QUESTION: Do you believe love at first sight occurs between some people?

DR. DOBSON: Though some readers will disagree with me, love at first sight is a physical and emotional impossibility.

Why? Because love is not a feeling of romantic excitement. It is more than a desire to marry a potential partner. It goes beyond intense sexual attraction. It exceeds the thrill at having "captured" a highly desirable social prize.

These are emotions that are unleashed at first sight, but they do not constitute love.

Real love, in contrast to popular notions, is an expression of the deepest appreciation for another human being. It is an intense awareness of his or her needs and longings--past, present and future. It is unselfish and giving and caring. And, believe me, these are not attitudes one "falls" into at first sight, as though we were tumbling into a ditch.

I have developed a lifelong love for my wife, but it was not something I fell into. I grew into it, and that process took time. I had to know her before I could appreciate the depth and stability of her character--to become acquainted with the nuances of her personality, which I now cherish.

The familiarity from which love has blossomed simply could not be generated on "some enchanted evening across a crowded room." One cannot love an unknown object, regardless of how attractive or sexy or nubile it is.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Children's Nutrition Research Center News

Baylor College of Medicine, Texas Children's Hospital, United States Department of Agriculture

Houston- Low-birth-weight babies are benefiting from a new nutrition plan that improves weight gain, says a scientist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"Premature infants fed human milk show a significant increase in weight when they are exclusively fed 'hindmilk,' milk produced 2-3 minutes after the initial flow," said Dr. Richard Schanler, an associate professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine.

The new feeding strategy requires expressed breastmilk to be divided into two portions: foremilk and hindmilk. The foremilk, or initial milk, is collected and frozen for later use. Infants are fed the hindmilk, which is three to four times higher in fat. The technique is the result of work conducted by the CNRC, Baylor and Texas Children's Hospital.

"Premature infants may have difficulty gaining weight on breastmilk. We suspect they were not getting enough calories," Schanler said.

Fat is a major caloric source, he explained, adding that the fat content of human milk varies from mother to mother, from feeding to feeding and within a single feeding as the milk changes from foremilk to hindmilk.

"This is not a problem for full-term, breast-fed babies who can fill caloric needs by drinking more milk," Schanler said. Premature infants, however, cannot suck or swallow and must rely on breastmilk fed to them in regulated amounts through a tube.

These tiny babies are also shortchanged on fat because it tends to separate from milk and stick to feeding tubes and collection bottles.

In the past, infants who did not gain weight on human milk were placed on formula, which has a consistent composition and is homogenized so the fat does not separate.

"But the switch meant that infants lost out on the protective qualities of breastmilk," Schanler said.

Because evidence suggests breastmilk protects premature infants from potentially life-threatening infections, the nutrition investigators decided to place the infants on the fat-rich hindmilk.

The study followed 15 infants who were eight to 12 weeks premature. Lactation Support Program counselors at Texas Children's taught mothers to divide their milk during routine expressions. The hindmilk was delivered to the hospital each day where it was fortified with protein and minerals.

"Mothers loved doing this because they could see their efforts paying off--their babies were gaining weight," Schanler said.

Study results, reported by Christina J. Valentine at Baylor, Schanler, and Nancy M. Hurst at Texas Children's, were published in the Journal of Pediatric Gastroenterology and Nutrition.

collected; and that the initial collection be effective the 1st day of October, 1994, based upon the market value of such taxable property located within the City as of January 1, 1994; and that the City Council shall, on or before the first regular meeting in September of each and every year, beginning in the year 1994, fix by ordinance the amount of ad valorem tax to be assessed and collected for such year.

Penalties and interest for delinquent taxes shall incur in accordance with Section 33.01 of the State Property Tax Code.

SECTION THREE
A. Whenever any accounts for delinquent property taxes owed to the City are given to its tax attorney for collection, on or after July 1 of the year they are delinquent, the City shall be entitled to, and shall collect, an additional penalty of fifteen percent (15%) of the delinquent taxes and penalty (including any interest owed) due on each delinquent property at the time of collection, either before or after suit and/or foreclosure sale, as provided by Section 33.07 of the Texas Property Tax Code.

Ex-student Competes In Golf Shoot-out

Despite hot temperatures, gusty winds, and extra adrenalin, the Pampa High School Choir Boosters "Hole-In-One Shoot-out" was completed at Hidden Hills Golf Course on Sunday afternoon.

During Friday and Saturday's preliminary rounds over 250 golfers and choir supporters hit golf balls at Pampa Middle School to get the chance to drive away in a new Culberson-Stowers Buick. By Saturday evening the field was reduced to the ten finalist. These finalist gave it their best shot at Hidden Hills Golf Course's challenging par3, #12. Even though no one made a hole-in-one this year, each top ten finalist could select a prize package worth in excess of $200 worth of merchandise, food, and gift certificates. The prizes were all donated by local merchants and individuals. The Pampa Choir Boosters were pleased with the community wide support of the high school choir program.
