Travis Resigns Bulldog Coaching Position

D. E. (Buddy) Travis resigned as basketball coach at Clarendon Junior College last week. He had held the position for the past three years and resigned to take the coaching post at Howard County Junior College at Big Spring. He will replace Harold Davis at the Big Spring school who is going to Texas Western University at El Paso as head basketball coach.

Travis came to Clarendon Jr. College in the fall of 1955 from Silverton High School where he had coached for four years following his graduation from Wayland College. He promptly rebuilt the Bulldogs into a winning team and tied for the West Zone Conference championship. His team finished third during the 1956-57 year and this past year won the championship for the first time in the college's history. Also, this past year, the Bulldogs went to the finals of the Texas Junior College state tournament only to lose to Henderson County College by two points.

During his three years here Travis has developed several all-conference and all-state players. Steve Jarnigan was an all-conference selection in 1955-56 and an all-state choice in 1956-57. Also, Boyd White was an all-conference player during the 1955-56 year. Loyd Stephens was on the all-conference and all-regional team during the 1956-57 year and Alva Carter made both the all-state and all-regional team this year.

The Bulldogs won 52 games against 31 defeats during the last three years and lost only one home game during that three-year period. This past year the Bulldogs were seventh in the nation among junior colleges on defense.

Coach Travis and his family plan to move to Big Spring about August 1.

More car than this Impala Sport Coupe is hard to find at any price.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple.

This one's really made to travel and loves every minute of it.

Stop by your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's and sample Chevy's road sense!

THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER

Some fifty ranchers from Donley, Armstrong, and other nearby counties met in Clarendon last week to set in motion the working parts to what is to be a brand new organization for this area. It is called the Rolling Plains Registered Cattle Association and will have for its purpose that of rendering a service to the cattle men in this area by making more and better registered cattle available here close to where they are needed.

To do this, two sales will be held each year. Beginning with a bill sale to be held next December and this to be followed by a registered heifer sale likely next spring. Officers were elected representing all the breeds of cattle and also the board of directors reflects representation of each of the leading breeds of beef type cattle in this area.

Congratulations to hard working H. M. "Flip" Breedlove and the others who have planned and worked for a long time to make this dream a reality. Around 50 high quality bulls from many leading herds in this area have already been assigned to the December 18th sale, and the services of the nationally famous Walter Britten has been secured as auctioneer for this first sale to be held in the fair barn at Clarendon.

The problem of a man looking for the ideal woman is that he won't be the ideal man that she is looking for.

When an optimist finds a worm in his apple he goes fishing.

It's easy to like Cal Farley.

For a week the folks from near and far tried as best they knew how to put into words their love and appreciation for Cal Farley. This was during Cal Farley Week and the 20th Anniversary of Boys Ranch.

It's easy for anyone to like Cal Farley. He has a pleasant and friendly personality. He has a purpose in life that is a challenge to the best that is in any of us.

It's easy to like Cal Farley but it's mighty hard to tell him so. It is hard to get his mind off of the boys around him for long enough to listen. We tried to tell him that we thought he was a wonderful and unselfish fellow and he kept interrupting us to point out something the boys were doing nearby.

Yes, it's easy to like Cal Farley, but it's hard to get his conversation away from any subject the subject of boys, is one of the him so. But come to think of it, except boys long enough to tell main reasons we like Cal Farley.

We like this statement from a recent sermon by Bro. J. F. Michael; "God created all matter, and God saves all that matters."

It helps a bit to admit that we are wrong, but that within itself doesn't cure the trouble. We need to do something right.

It is usually impossible to be indefinite enough to keep folks from proving us wrong once in awhile.

BOOK COMMENTS

By May L. Prewitt
Books and authors have always been such a part of my life that I can not resist the compulsion to discuss them occasionally.

The famous Texas Naturalist, Roy Bedechek of Austin, or Texas University, died about two weeks ago. He and his books were known throughout the states. There are two at the local library-- "Adventures With a Texas Naturalist" and "Karakarway Country." The first was given in memory of Mrs. J. D. Stocking. Her boy and the author were personal friends.

This week's Life Magazine had illustrations and a discussion of Garth Williams' "The Rabbit Wedding." It seems that his book has created quite a disturbance in some states. When I was Librarian and purchased the book, the coloring of the pictures, nature environment, and the charming simple story was so captivating that I promoted its circulation. Florida has asked Librarians to put it on a remote shelf, and Alabama Librarian at Montgomery, Miss Emily Reed, has been requested not to issue it except upon request. The groom was a black rabbit and the bride a white one. Interpretation has caused to furor. Most of the rabbit hutchers I've visited had at least one black buck with the white ones. We are becoming race conscious it seems.

The Writer's Round-up at West Texas State last week had many writers of extensive recognition present. The Panhandle now has several writers of children's and Teenager's books as well as novels and history. Al Dewlen was one of the guests. You recall that his "Bone Pickers" which also brought forth considerable comment is on the Library shelf.

Our Cal Farley of Boy's Ranch has become nationally known as he is recognized by New York City as a "master of Juvenile Shirttail to Hang On To" will give him further recognition for his work.

As small grain harvest time approaches, we need to begin thinking about how to manage the crop residues. One of the best methods, according to the experiment stations, is stubble mulching. Stubble mulching is the leaving of all crop residues on or near the surface of the soil thru the ear. This can be done by using a sweep type implement, such as a home plow, for tillage operations. Planting can be done with a normal drill, in the old stubble.

The picture above shows wheat stubble that has sweeps run under it. The stubble will be left on the surface.

Stubble mulching has many advantages over plowing stubble under. The mulch formed on the surface cuts down soil temperature during the hot summer months. In various tests, when the air temperature was about 100 degrees, soil under a mulch or stubble was 90 to 95 degrees. The temperature of bare soil in the open ran as high as 130 degrees. This temperature destroys many of the bacteria, which give the soil its life.

Soil under a mulch will take in more water at a more rapid rate than bare soil. Water erosion is held to a minimum.

Evaporation is much less from a covered soil than from bare soil. More water is available for the next crop.

In times past, it has been a common practice to burn crop residues. Just what are crop residues worth, in dollars and cents, to a farmer?

We can compare crop residues to cotton burs. Many farmers each year haul cotton burs from the gin to put on their land. It has been estimated that it costs five to six dollars per ton to apply and spread burs on the land. Using the five dollar figure, and estimating stubble left from a wheat crop at three thousand pounds per acre, we arrive figure of at least seven dollars and fifty cents per acre that stubble is worth. Doesn't it foolish to even think of burning this stubble?

Today cattle feeders want facts...not "chin music"

In the past year, two Purina Steer Feeding Demonstrations have been held at Waco, Texas, to show the advantages of well-balanced Purina Steer Fatena. Fred Minter, a local cattle feeder, has attended both demonstrations. "I think this demonstration program of Purina Dealers is wonderful! They are willing to lay it on the line... not only tell us but show us what their program will do," Minter said. "Today we need facts... not 'chin music.' "I've been feeding Purina for 5 years, and my results are very much in line with those from the demonstration. With a program of this kind, I think Purina Dealers have the right to ask for my business."

Public Steer Feeding Demonstrations have been pioneered by Purina Dealers. Ask us about Purina Steer Fatena feeding results from this area.

FARM NEWS

from the County ASC Committee

FARM EFFICIENCY AND FARM INCOME
 Efficiency is essential to continued success in any business but increased efficiency has not provided farmers an equitable income.

For example, between 1950 and 1958, output per farm worker increased 26 percent. During the same period the farm income dropped from $983 to $967 and per capita income for work done on the farm dropped even more from $751 to $658.

The trouble is, of course, that increased efficiency on the farm has little influence on many of the farm forces which determine the economic pattern in which farmers operate.

SOIL BANK CONSERVATION RESERVE
 Before you can receive cost-share for re-seeding Conservation Reserve acres, you must get the approval from the County Committee. Be sure and bring your sales receipts for the seed you plant on your Conservation Reserve acres and also tag, showing the purity and germination.

ATTENTION COTTON FARMERS
 Producers are urged to remember that the Government support rates do not apply on any farm that is in excess of that particular farm's cotton allotment. If this farm remains overplanted then it will be considered a penalty farm and will require a payment per pound on the yield of the excess acreage. This penalty payment rate has not been set as of this date. The 1958 rate was 19.3 cents per pound of lint cotton.

This is a reminder that we started measuring cotton June 8 and will measure as many farms as possible before July 1st.

Each farm operator or his representative will be expected to assist the reporter in making the measurement since he will be required to use a steel tape as we are not allowed to use a measuring wheel in checking compliance.

Also, we would like to point out the importance of measuring all land that was once planted to cotton even though it may have been destroyed by excessive rains and then replanted to feed. All Soil Bank farms will be measured and checked for compliance in the near future.

You may plant, harvest and sell one acre of peanuts on one farm without an allotment. Please tell the reporter if you have planted some peanuts, even if you planted a few rows for home use.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

EXPEDITIOUS
 Watch for the above word. It may become one of common usage, borne of mistake but most expressive and, perhaps, appropriate at the point of mistake.

In 1949 the Congress passed the "Reorganization Act of 1949". It required, among other things, that organization plans adopted by the Executive Branch of the Government be transmitted to the Congress. It also provided that no provision contained in such a reorganization plan should become effective unless the plan was transmitted to Congress before June 1, 1959 to June 1, 1961. A great debate arose on the House Floor, not so much because of the proposed change of date, but because of the controversial nature of the original Act itself. The big issue involved had to do with the provision in the bill that, if a reorganization plan was submitted to the Congress, it would take effect upon the expiration of 60 calendar days unless a resolution was adopted by one of the Houses of Congress specifically disapproving the plan. This means that the Executive (President) Branch of the government would write the legislation under this bill and submit it to the Congress. If the Congress, through one of its Houses, did not veto the legislation, it would become law. This procedure is in direct reverse of the procedure outlined under the Constitution. Legislation under the Constitution is to be prepared by the Congress and transmitted to the President. The President has the right to veto the legislation. So, you can see that the procedure under the Reorganization Act simply reversed the operations of the government. Many members of Congress opposed this procedure, as did I. I think that history will prove that our forefathers knew a lot better how to handle this sort of situation than those who are so anxious to pass legislation that they can't wait for the Congress to draft the bill and take affirmative action on it.

One member, who was opposed to the bill in the first instance, entered into the debate on the amendment and advised the house that one of the main reasons given for wanting to grant Mr. Eisenhower the powers under the Reorganization Act was because the same powers had been held by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman. This member observed that he had understood that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman had both had the measles, but no one had suggested giving them to Mr. Eisenhower.

But, to get back to the new word - the report that was filed explaining the legislation undertook to quote the original Act, which was public Law 109 of the 81st Congress. It reads in part as follows:

Sec. 2. (a) The president shall examine and from time to time reexamine the organization of all agencies of the government and shall determine what changes therein are necessary to accomplish the following purposes:

1) To promote the better execution of the laws, the more effective management of the Executive Branch of the government and of its agencies and functions, and the expeditious administration of the public business;

The word, "expeditious", impressed me when I read it because I had never heard of it before, although I did know of several places in which it would fit. In view of the great furor in recent months concerning spending, it occurred to me that there might be such a word so I hastened to the dictionary to find out. I did not find that word, but the nearest thing I could find to it was "expenditure". This means, "a laying out of money; disbursement."

There is no question but that the proponents of the Reorganization Act sold this bill of goods on the ground that it would reduce expenditures and promote economy. In view of this basis for the Act, I made some comparisons on the costs of some of the departments of government. I found that the cost of one of them rose between 1951 and 1958 by more than 1 billion dollars; another by 100 million dollars; another by 300 million dollars, and numerous others by varying amounts. In this connection, I remember quite well that several years ago a question was posed to the American public which was, in effect: "Are you for or against reorganizing the Department of Agriculture and saving 80 million dollars?" This posed quite a problem, because most everyone was for saving 80 million dollars, but they had no assurance that a reorganization of the Agriculture Department would effect such a saving. I am not sure just what plan the questioner had in mind, but surely it must not have been adopted, because the cost of the operation of the Department of Agriculture has increased since 1951 six times over, or by more than 4½ billion dollars. The cost of another department during that time has increased by well over 1 billion dollars.

These facts and figures created a question in my mind, so I went back to the original Reorganization Act and found that the word used, when the Act was passed, was "expeditious". But, after reviewing the matters that have occurred since 1959 and the tremendous increase in the cost of government, as well as many other things, perhaps the drafters of the 1949 Act would have been more correct had they used the word, "expeditious."

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hefner and Mrs. Stella Hearn visited in Pampa Tuesday last.

John Richerson and Milton Mann returned home Monday after a visit in California.

ROGERS AND McILHANEY HONORED IN AUSTIN WITH APPRECIATION DINNER

An appreciation dinner was given Tuesday night in Austin honoring legislative leaders who have labored to keep Texas in the forefront in the livestock industry. Honored were Senator Andy Rogers of Childress and Representative Grainger McIlhaney of Wheeler, sponsors of three of the most important animal health measures passed at the Regular Session of the 56th Legislature. These were the livestock marketing inspection bill, the veterinarian's reporting bill, and the measure designed to control and eradicate brucellosis in Texas.

The dinner was given by the Animal Health Council, composed of thirty-one groups dedicated to the advancement of agriculture and livestock in Texas.

REA'S ADMISSION
 The Rural Electrification Administration doesn't want to pay its own way—and its leaders shriek to high heaven when it is proposed that its tax subsidy be reduced in any way.

That is the only reasonable conclusion that can be drawn from the response to President Eisenhower's proposal to increase the interest rate the Treasury charges on loans to rural electric co-operatives. That rate, fixed by law at 2 per cent. The Treasury has been having to pay about 4 per cent on the securities it sells in the open market. But REA spokesmen have described the plan to lift the interest rate to the point where it just covers the money cost, as an attempt to destroy the whole rural electrification program. And, apparently, a majority in Congress supports that position—they don't want to reduce taxes.

What if all amounts to is an indirect admission that REA can't or won't stand on its own feet. As presently constituted, it has to exist at the expense of all the taxpayers. Thus it helps to swell taxes, and to produce more deficits and more inflation. It's hard to believe that the American people as a whole want that.

"Safety Makes Sense" will be the theme for the 16th annual Farm Safety Week, July 19-25.

Management Hints For Farm Fish Ponds Offered

Fertilization is the best way to keep submerged pond weeds under control in the eastern half of Texas, says E. H. Cooper, extension wildlife conservation specialist. However, he adds, chemical control is usually necessary in other areas of the state.

Spring and early summer are the only periods when control methods are really effective, he adds.

A little plant growth in shallow areas around margins of the pond is not harmful and control should be taken only when it becomes obvious that plants are spreading extensively.

Sodium arsenite will control most submerged aquatic plants with the exception of chara. Algae and chara can be controlled with copper sulfate.

Fertilizers will increase the microscopic plant and animal life in the pond and they will provide food for water insects and other organisms on which fish feed.

Good fertilizers to use are 16-20-0, 4-12-4, and 5-10-5. Barnyard manure, cottonseed meal or soybean meal may also be used.

Chemicals for aquatic plant control are not harmful to fish or livestock if the proper amount is applied and the recommended techniques of application are followed.

Treat with chemicals at about two week intervals, covering approximately one-third of the weedy area per treatment. This method will allow plants to decompose in smaller masses, and thus reduce the hazard of oxygen loss to fish, Cooper said.

If you have a plant causing trouble in your pond and cannot identify it, take a pressed, dried sample of it to your county agent.

Additional information may be obtained by ordering B-213, "Improve Your Farm Fish Ponds," from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

one that isn't fit to eat. For the vast majority of Texans, odds have probably increased since January 1, that the bird they select will not have been inspected for wholesomeness.

This state of affairs developed when the federal government, effective on the first day of this year, made it mandatory that all poultry products shipped across a state line must first be checked for wholesomeness by a federal inspector.

What this means is obvious: Texas poultry products which are not of sufficient quality to pass federal inspection and subsequent out-of-state marketing are going to be marketed at home.

Texas has no mandatory state-wide inspection law for poultry. Rather, it has legal provisions whereby a poultry plant can voluntarily—and that's the key work—arrange for inspection services and thereby win the right to attach an official legend of approval on wholesome birds.

You're lucky if you happen to live in Houston, Pecos, Wichita Falls, Midland, or Brenham. Of all Texas cities only these five presently are known to have local ordinances prohibiting the sale of uninspected poultry products.

Similar ordinances are pending in Tyler, Lubbock, Amarillo, Odessa, Waco, and Big Springs. Every other city in the State faces the possibility of becoming a dumping ground for unfit poultry.

Under present circumstances, the only way a city can be sure the consuming public is not being victimized is by spelling out in ordinance the fact that all poultry sold within city limits must have been examined by federal, state, or local officials.

So-called "spot checks" won't do. Adequate, health protecting inspection of poultry means having a trained, full-time man in the plant.

Housewives shopping for poultry can tell if the bird they chose has been inspected by looking for a tag showing "Inspected and Passed" by the agency which made the check.

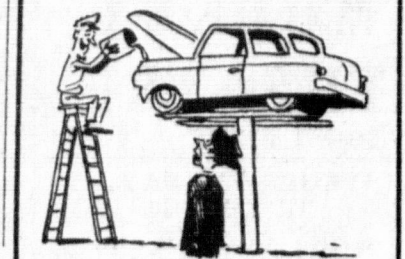

Don't mistake the large wing tag reading "Grade A" to mean the bird has been inspected for wholesomeness. It may or it may not.

Always look for the "Inspected and Passed" legend. This is the statement that protects your health by insuring inspections for wholesomeness under conditions of good sanitation.

Adult Education Program Sponsors Group Meetings

"Getting To Know You" - the school board, the administration, some of the teachers, and the policies and programs of the various school organizations—has been the theme of a series of "Buzz-Sessions" sponsored by the Clarendon Homemaking Department as a part of their Adult Education program this summer. These meetings were well attended by both men and women of the community. Numerous questions were asked, and the one of primary interest now is "What Can We As Parents Do TO Help Make Our High School and College The Very Best?"

A desire was expressed for a closer contact with the administration and teachers. These meetings together felt that informed parents would be a real asset to this school community and that this could best be accomplished through an adult organization.

Two parents from each class, as well as Mr. Kenneth Vaughan, High School Principal, Mr. Oliver Abel, Dean of the College, and Mr. Homer Estlack, a school board member, were selected by the group as a nominating committee for a ballot for Chairman, vice-chairman, and secretary for this adult organization. Tentative plans were made for a meeting time and place for monthly meetings. These plans will be announced at a later date.

"Buzz-Sessions" question and discussion of items of interest to the school parents, teachers, and administrators were suggested activities for these group meetings. The most good can be realized from this organization if every parent will attend the meetings, ask your questions, and give your suggestions in these meetings.

The co-operative efforts of parents, teachers, administrators, and board of education are of vital, indispensable importance to the progress of our school system. Plan now to be a member of this organization; look for an announcement of the next meeting date in this paper; and be there!

"The Case Of The Invisible Ear" Is Solved By Perry Mason

Eric Stanley Gardner was one of the first to discover what a tremendous advantage in both comfort and clarity "Target Hearing" brings to an elderly person. "I can't begin to tell you how much satisfaction I get out of it," he says.

Eric Stanley Gardner, creator of "Perry Mason", says, "I think more people should realize the extent to which recent scientific discoveries can help in restoring lost hearing, just as glasses can sharpen dim vision". Like Mr. Gardner, you'll be amazed at the ease and clarity with which Otator's exclusive, patented "Target Hearing" lets you hear where you look. You'll be amazed, too, when you discover that with "Target Hearing" even your best friends may not know you're wearing a hearing aid unless you tell them. There are no irritating, old-fashioned cords or wires in your hair or clothing, no unsightly "blobs" behind your ear. With revolutionary "Target Hearing" a tiny, almost invisible tube leading to your ear brings you a whole, wonderful world of sound without the annoyance of unwanted "background" noises. Stop in today for a FREE test of your hearing—and try Otator's fabulous "Target Hearing" for yourself. You'll be under no obligation, of course.
