Donley County Exceeds Voter Goal

The State Democratic Executive Committee, as part of its "Operation Everybody!" drive to get more than 4,000,000 Texans qualified as voters, has announced that Donley County achieved 134% of its quota in Group 9 and, among that category's 31 counties, was ranked thirteenth. The plaque-winning counties in Group 9 were: Rains, Stonewall and Shackelford Counties. The gold, silver and bronze awards will be given to the winners of all 10 categories in special ceremonies at the state's capitol in Austin late in April, said Elmer C. Baum, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee. The goals for each county were figured on the basis of 65 percent of all those estimated to be 21 years old or over. Official registration figures were taken from the Secretary of State's office. Group 9 had 28 counties which exceeded 100 per cent of their goal. County leaders will receive handsome gold and black "Good Citizen County" certificates for their achievements.

What Do You Want For Your Hospital?

(AN EDITORIAL)
The above question is a matter foremost in many of your thoughts following the passage of the Hospital District and Bond Issue March 14. We believe your letters and comments will help the Hospital Board in making future plans in regard to construction and administration thereof. Following our editorial last week, many who called were under the impression that their letters would be published. This is not our intention or that of the Hospital Board. They will be placed on file for study and future reference. Tell the Board what you think would be best for our community. You can mail your letter to the Leader Office or to Mike McCully, president of the Hospital Board, and the Leader would like a copy also for our files. This new Hospital will be for everyone and it is only proper that you have a voice in the matter through your Hospital Board but they will not know what your ideas are unless you make them known. Several letters and calls were received last week . . . add yours to the list now . . . or forget your gripes in the future.

Farm News

from County ASCS Corp.
Acreege Reports
Let us stress once again that it is of the utmost importance that you make a correct report of your wheat, cotton, feed grain, and diverted acres. Failure to do so will affect your payments. If you do not feel as though you can make a correct report of these acreages, let us urge you to request a measurement service from ASCS Office. There is a charge for this service, but it is considerably cheaper than the loss of part or all of your payments.
Workmanlike Manner
All producers need to keep in mind that unless a crop of wheat, feed grains, and/or cotton is planted and farmed in a workable manner, certificate or price support payments may be withheld. The purpose of this ruling is to prevent simply putting a few seed in poorly prepared land for the sole purpose of drawing a payment. We have had little difficulty concerning this ruling in the past. We hope there will be none in 1970.
Change in Eligible Conserving Uses on Conserving Base Acreage
Millet, sudan grass (including hybrids), and sorghum - grass crosses not defined as feed grains are an eligible conserving use on conserving base acreage when used for silage. They may not be used as seed or grain. Sweet sorghums may not be used for silage (including haylage), seed or grain when planted on conserving base acreage. Haylage is a form of silage. It is distinguished from green chop which does not involve storage. Under the 1970 programs, wheat - wheatgrass crosses which are sterile and do not produce grain may be grown on conserving base acreage under the programs. When grown, they may be used for silage (including haylage) or green chopped. Conserving base acreage is not to be confused with diverted acreage. If you have any questions concerning this, please check with us.
NEWHOUSE ATTENDS COMPANY CONVENTION

OUTDOORS in TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Nothing in this world sounds better to the eager ears of an outdoorsman than the instant purr of an outboard motor . . . when it starts from the first push of the starter button, the first turn of the starter key, or the first pull of the starter cord. Man, it's a great feeling, especially if you have company along. They think you're the greatest host, just to step in the boat, turn on the ignition, and "away we go."

Many a motorist has talked to his motor in rather unclear language, simply because the outfit didn't fire when he said "go!"

But he should have talked to himself — not to the motor. More than likely the trouble dated back to when he last had the rig out.

No experienced boatsman will merely drive in from an outing, tie down, and go home. If he does, he's asking for trouble.

First thing the seasoned boatsman does when he comes to shore at the day's end is to drain the gas from the carburetor. This is done simply and easily. Merely disconnect the gas tank from the motor, then start up the motor again and keep it running until all the gas in the carburetor is used.

Experts in this field just disconnect the gas tank hose as they approach the dock and come on in under the power that is left in the carburetor. This way, besides saving a handful of gas, they also save time.

Experience will show you how far you can go with various size motors and various size boats before the carburetor runs dry. Naturally, the smaller the motor, the longer your gas supply lasts.

Thanks to inventive genius, there is another and simpler way to solve this "get-moving-quick" problem. On the market now is a liquid product called STA-BIL — short for "stabilizer."

This a liquid additive for your gasoline tank. It keeps your gasoline volatile simply by preventing the "conglomeration" that takes place in the gas tank when the fluid (and worse yet, a gas and oil mix) sits for long periods of time.

For example, one ounce of STA-BIL (three squeezes from the little 8 oz. can) will stabilize one gallon of gas for 12 months, two gallons for five months, four gallons for two months.

It is suggested that, before storing, you run the motor for ten minutes to be sure that all gas in the carburetor and fuel lines is treated.

Fortunately, many of us do not "get out to sea" every day or even every week. Some of us are lucky if we get away once a month. This means that the motor sits idly in the boat stall, or on the trailer, until you are able to "put in" again. Meanwhile, the gasolines do what comes naturally . . . particularly that to which oil has been added . . . conglomerates. This means that the tank as well as the carburetor becomes gummed up if the fluid is not used often. That's why most outdoorsmen, before they start up their outboard motor, will shake the little gas tank vigorously to distribute the oil evenly throughout the solution or at least get it off the bottom. Not to do so means that the gas being used will be lightly mixed with oil and, as the supply diminishes, the remaining fluid in the tank will be largely oil and, therefore, tend to gum up the motor rapidly.

STA-BIL prevents congealing. It keeps the fluid clean by preventing gum and resin forming in the fuel system. In other words it prevents formation of the sticky, trouble-making mess.

Needless to say, a faulty, sputtering motor is going to suffer from wear more than a smoothly operating, easily starting, sweet running outfit. So if you are going to leave your outboard motor sitting idle for a while — add some STA-BIL. Same goes for your inboard. In fact, it is equally applicable for the lawnmower, tractor, etc.—especially where oil is mixed with gas.

It has been said that a tank with STA-BIL will fire faster than even brand new gasoline. Sounds great! And it is! More power to you.

The VA's former Chief Benefits Director, Rufus H. Wilson, was recently named Associate Deputy Administrator; Olney B. Owen, former manager of the VA regional office in Louisville, Ky., succeeded Wilson as Chief Benefits Director.

First tank to be used in battle was "Little Willie", which saw service in the battle of Fiers in France on Sept. 15, 1916.

Mexican Pottery Poisoning Warning

Homemakers can test their own Mexican pottery to detect harmful lead in the glaze. The lead can cause severe illness through lead poisoning.

Recently the Food and Drug Administration warned that continued use of some Mexican pottery or earthenware for food purposes could cause lead poisoning.

Lead is a cumulative poison so it is essential for people to take all steps possible to see that lead intake is kept to a minimum according to Frances Reasonover, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

The homemaker can place vinegar in the dish or casserole and let it stand overnight. The dish should be only partly filled with vinegar so she can easily see if there is any difference in the glaze below the vinegar line, says the specialist.

If she detects a change in the glaze, the dish should be used only for non-acid foods. Acid foods include fruits such as tomatoes and citrus fruits and vegetables such as green beans, spinach and broccoli. If the homemaker wishes to bake in the pottery, Miss Reasonover suggests lining the dish with aluminum foil.

Pottery that shows a rough or dull glaze rather than a glossy one gives the most lead when mildly acid solutions are placed in it, Miss Reasonover says. She recommends that the careful consumer test any highly glazed dishes before using them for foods with a high acid content.

The warning has been conveyed by FDA to all state health authorities as the first in a series of steps to remove hazardous products from the market. Action is based on FDA's legal responsibility to protect the health of the U. S. consumer the specialist adds.

The U. S. government has informed the Mexican authorities of these measures in order to cooperate in finding a solution to the problem.

HONEY SWEETENS APRIL PLENTIFUL FOODS LIST

April is a honey of a month for Texas food shoppers.

Honey supplies are especially plentiful, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

U. S. honey production during 1969 figured at a record-large 283 million pounds. Honey is produced commercially throughout the continental United States.

Other foods reported plentiful during April by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service are canned peaches, canned tomato products, canned and frozen sweet corn, peanuts and peanut products, dry beans and eggs.

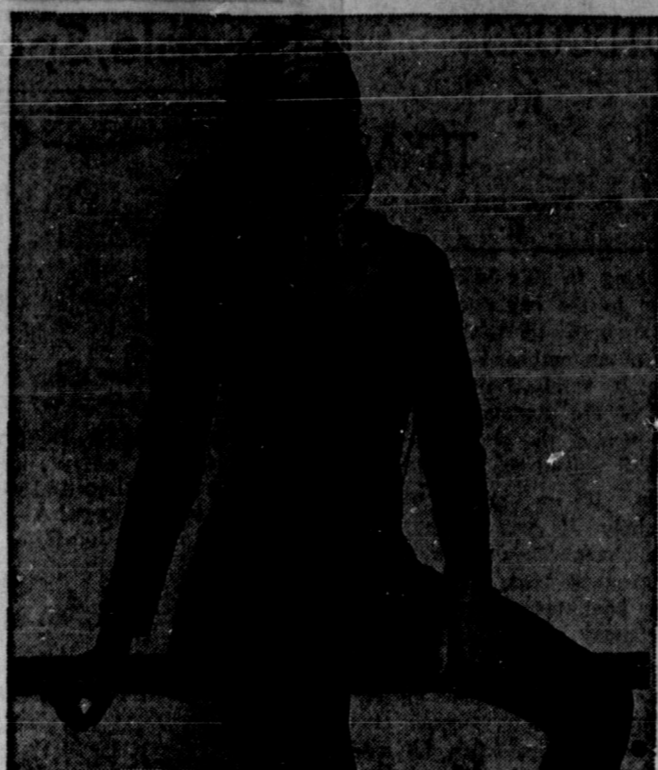

High - protein foods such as peanuts and peanut butter, dry beans and eggs offer welcome variation in mealtime planning. Last year's peanut crop set a new record. Dry bean production was six per cent above average. April output of eggs is expected to run above a year ago.

Production of canned cling peaches amounted to a record-large 37.1 million cases. You'll enjoy serving these delicious peaches in a variety of ways. Processed tomato items also will be at record-high levels.

OLD DRUGS

"Don't just toss away old medicines," says the Texas Safety Association, "make sure they are completely destroyed."

Harmful medicines left in incinerators or waste boxes in the yard may be a temptation for small children. TSA suggests medicines, discarded insecticides or cleaning aids be buried or flushed down the drain if practical.

GUNS KILL AT HOME

Texas Safety Association reminds hundreds that 52 per cent of firearm accidents happen at home — not while hunting.

Gun owners should remember to keep all guns and ammunition locked away from children and never load or unload a gun in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanders returned home Thursday from Baton Rouge, La., where they visited their son, Leonard, and family. Katherine Ariola met their plane in Amarillo to bring them home.

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By Vern Stanford

AUSTIN, Texas — Concern over the continuing rise in Texas' Crime rate has brought new responses from top state officials.

Gov. Preston Smith created the new Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council to check organized crime encroachment and appointed Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin and Col. Wilson E. Speir, Department of Public Safety Director, as co-chairmen.

Also named to the Council were Harris County District Atty. Carol Vance, Dallas Police Chief Frank Dyson, Dallas County District Atty. Henry Wade, Bexar County District Atty. Marvin Ted Butler and Houston Police Chief Herman Short.

Speir set up a specialized criminal task force to assist in the new coordinated fight on crime.

SUNNY—A cozy sunroom takes its inspiration from floral-printed cotton chintz draperies and a Spanish hand-knotted rug in shades of gold. Pumpkin-colored velvet cushions add dramatic interest to the wicker furniture, and clear plexiglass coffee tables create a spacious feeling. Fabrics and rug by Schumacher.

Unit will be composed of DPS criminal law enforcement division members who include Texas Rangers, intelligence and narcotics agents.

Task force will work closely with the governor's Criminal Justice Council and local law enforcement agencies in an "accelerated and coordinated drive to combat statewide lawlessness in all its forms." Number of officers assigned to the new unit remains restricted information.

Meanwhile, state and federal officials met in the governor's office to pledge continued cooperation in control of drug abuse. Smith told U. S. Justice Department representatives that Texas is "pledged to do whatever is necessary to stamp out illicit drug traffic." Governor also announced an April 2 conference sponsored by the Texas Pharmaceutical Association on drug abuse problems.

FDA chemists test glazes with a five per cent acetic acid solution.

They let the acid stand overnight in the dish then analyze the solution for lead. In all of the dishes they have tested lead showed up when the glaze had been visibly dulled by the acid solution.

Lighting Tips

Lighting for art work ranges from ceiling lamps, daylight and spotlights to simple table lamps.

There are no strict rules for how art, such as paintings and sculpture, should be lighted, according to Bonny Lay, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

If you are building or decorating and plan to do a major job of lighting works of art, Miss Lay suggests consulting a lighting consultant to have the type of lighting which gives you the most enjoyment.

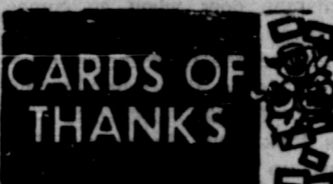

Daylight can work interesting ways on art as long as the glare does not obscure it; as the light changes during the day, you can observe different reflections.

For night, electric lights are the choice; taste, money and availability influence it. For people with few pictures, table lamps may be sufficient, for special lighting means special wiring and devices which cost money.

The simplest picture lights are metal reflectors attached to the top or bottom edge of a standard frame, plugged into an outlet and adjusted to give the best light on the picture.

Pinpointing effects can be achieved with spotlights in various sizes and shapes which can be placed in the ceiling, across the room, or behind a plant to conceal the source of the light, Miss Lay says.

They can be adjusted to shine a soft halo of light onto the work of art and its surrounding wall or to focus a trimmed beam with knife edge focus exclusively.

production allowable of 68 per cent of potential for April.

Factor will allow a maximum of 5,655, 018 barrels a day for next month, same as March.

COURTS SPEAK — Mobile homes can be claimed as homesteads and made immune from seizure for debt, State Supreme Court agreed.

In other recent cases, High Court concluded that:

A youth who appears in juvenile court without parents must have a temporary guardian appointed.

Widow of an El Paso man who died of a heart attack gets no workmen's compensation because she could not prove the lifting work on his oil well servicing job brought on her husband's fatal illness.

Girl struck by a bottle thrown in a Marshall theater cannot collect damages from the theater operator. (Decision reversed lower courts).

To void a policy on grounds of a false statement by applicants, an insurance company must show that falsification was willfully made with intent to defraud or deceive.

Court of Criminal appeals held that it is not necessary to prove who fired the fatal bullet in a multi-gun shoot-out during an armed robbery to get a conviction.

Fact that a fugitive may have been brought into Texas from Mexico illegally does not prevent his extradition to a sister state, Court of Criminal Appeals held in the case involving an Illinois man wanted on a murder charge.

AG OPINIONS — Optional retirement program for hiring education personnel is limited to fixed or variable retirement annuities and does not contemplate carriers offering life insurance, Attorney General Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin found:

Filing deadline for Hardin County treasurer was extended until March 10 by incumbent's notifying the Democratic county chairman on February 23 of his intent to withdraw from the race and refusing to pay the balance of his filing fee.

Ellis County Road District No. 16 has no authority to pay out of its funds for the cost of removing pipeline belonging to the city of Ennis from right-of-way of State Highway 34 within district boundaries. Some opinion noted that the highway district can require the city to move the pipeline at city's own expense.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Smith has appointed Dr. Russell L. Curtis Jr. of Austin as the state's new coordinator for early childhood development. Dr. Curtis, an assistant professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Texas, will work parttime until the end of this semester.

Smith appointed two new staff members of the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity: Miss Stella Buentellos, child development specialist, and Mrs. Yvonne McClendon Wilson, administrative technician.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes appointed nine committees out of the Legislative Council to come up with proposals for legislation during the next Legislature. Council makes recommendations for bills on the basis of a statewide need. Committees and their chairman are: programs and services for the handicapped, Sen. Barbara Jordan of Houston; safeguards for public buildings, Rep. John Traeger of Seguin; tax benefits and competitive advantages of catalogue stores, Rep. George T. Hinson of Mineola services of Victoria; study of using part of the mineral income of the public school lands as available school fund money, Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford; holidays for state colleges and universities, Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock; statutory revision program of the Legislative Council, Sen. J. P. Word of Meridian; and the committee to work on a permanent rule book for the Legislature, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth.

DRAFT QUOTA SET — Texas draft call for April is 940 with lottery numbers between 90 and 115. Figure is down from the March call of 1,064.

State Selective Service further summoned for pre-induction exams next month 8,442 with lottery numbers through 215.

Group born in 1951 has become eligible for draft since the original drawing. Col. Morris S. Schwartz, selective service state director said a July drawing may be held to establish the sequence of this group.

CLUB LICENSES THREATENED — With some private clubs late in paying the new five-cents-a-drink state service tax or under-paying, Alcoholic Beverages Commission threatened license suspension or cancellations for the offenders.

New tax produced only $1.6 million in the first five months. Comptroller Robert S. Calvert had estimated it would raise $13 million from last October through August, 1971, but indications are that it will bring in only $8 million at the present rate.

Acting ABC Administrator Kenneth Cook figured collections of the service tax are about a third behind original estimates.

1970 HIGHWAY MAPS OUT — New highway maps began rolling off the presses last week.

This year's colorful map features "Texas Travel Trails." Cover photo shows a portion of Transmountain Loop in El Paso, starting point of the scenic Mountain Trail. Major additions include more than 100 miles of interstate highway system recently completed. Conversion table (or kilometers into miles and liters into gallons) benefits Latin American visitors.

More than 500,000 copies have been printed, with a million more to be run off during the year. They can be obtained through Highway Department tourist bureaus, at department district offices or the Texas Highway Department Travel and Information Division, Austin, 78703.

SALES TAX INCOME UP — More than 400 cities — ranging from the largest to among the smallest which levy municipal sales tax — received more than $116.4 million from the source last year.

One per cent local option levy yielded $34 million for the last quarter of 1969, alone. Inclusion of alcoholic beverages under the sales tax base is expected to bring in even more for cities this year. Take ranged for the quarter from Houston's $7.4 million to Liverpool's $87.21.

Census '70 Forms To Be Distributed

Questionnaires for the 1970 Census of Population and Housing will be distributed by the Post Office beginning March 28 to all households in this area, District Manager R. L. Butler, announced today.

Distribution of this form before the start of the house-to-house canvass gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member and about the house in advance of the census taker's visit. The District Manager urges all residents to fill out the forms and have them ready for the census takers when they start their rounds on April 1.

The form contains 7 questions about every person in the household and 13 questions about the dwelling. The personal information asked for is: name, address, sex, color or race, month and year of birth, whether married or single, and relationship to head of the household. The information required about the dwelling is: number of rooms, cooking facilities, plumbing, if rented or owned.

Most of the questions are answered by filling in the proper tiny circle with a common lead pencil, making a tiny black dot which can be "read" by Census Bureau machines. Residents should read the instruction sheet which come with the questionnaire before filling it out.

The census taker will check the questionnaire to see that all questions have been answered and give any assistance needed in filling out a questionnaire that is incomplete. At every fifth household, the census taker will seek answers to additional questions covering population and housing characteristics that are being asked of a 20 percent sample of the Nation's population. The sample questions include inquiries on country of birth, schooling, employment, income, and related items. The additional housing questions relate to rent or value of dwelling, heating equipment, water supply, and other facilities and equipment.

The District Manager pointed out that information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is kept confidential under Federal law. Only statistical totals and averages are published. No individual person can be identified in published reports and census information cannot be given to any other Government agency, local officials, tax collectors, police, health, welfare, or school officers, nor to anyone else.

LIBRARY CONFERENCE IN AMARILLO APR. 8-11

Librarians, library trustees, and friends of the library will meet in Amarillo April 8-11 for the Conference of the Texas Library Association with Amarillo's new Civic Center as headquarters for meetings.

Theme for this year's conference is "People, Politics, and Progress." This is the first Library Conference to be held in the Panhandle by the Library Association and is expected to attract some 1200.

ONIONS DON'T SHOW

Onions and other strong smelling foods or beverage have no effect on the newly approved breath test which scientifically measures the amount of alcohol in a driver's blood.

The Texas Safety Association says only the amount of alcohol present in the blood is shown by the test thus helping to tell the difference between drunk and sober drivers.

HOT BREADS FOR EASTER

Most countries of the world observe feast days during spring; each has a religious origin. In these countries certain foods have become symbols of the holidays.

From Central and Eastern Europe have come a myriad of Easter breads and cake. In Germany and Austria, Easter bread is baked in oblong loaves of braided yeast dough called Easter-Stollen.

Golden Bread which is similar to French toast is served in parts of Ireland at Easter. In England cheese tarts are a specialty. Panettone, a delicate fruit bread and Torta di Richesta are two Italian Easter treats that we have come to know in America.

Other countries have contributed their favorites.

In these United States the wide variety of festive holiday breads enjoyed at Easter attests to our true melting - not heritage. With modern adaptations of traditional recipes and an endless variety of ingredients, home bakers and commercial bakers can make holiday breads a delightful experience.

At one time any woman proud of her artistry in the kitchen scorned the use of purchased cake and bread mixes. But this has changed.

PARALLEL TERRACES

Several Donley County farmers are constructing parallel terraces on their farms this year in an attempt to prevent soil erosion and to increase the moisture holding ability of their soil. Among those constructing parallel terraces are: D. G. Bray, Jack Land, Delbert Robertson, Donald Odum, Bob Ayers, Homer Hardin, Sam Stewart, and Rupert Tucker. Among each of these farmers approximately 120,000 feet of parallel terraces will be constructed this year.

Many advantages are available in the construction of Parallel terraces. Some are as follows: fewer point rows, less turning on crops; easier and faster cultivation; horizontal distance between terraces is such that an even number of rows are laid out to fit modern multi-row equipment; increase value of the farm due to the reduction in soil erosion and loss of valuable top soil.

Other advantages are: with interval work done, each row can better carry its own runoff. More uniform distribution is made of runoff; acres for each crop can be more easily cultivated with the numbers of rows between terraces; long rows can still be farmed where internal blocks are used by farming across the blocks; fits better with sprinkler irrigation system layout; increased production due to increased moisture retention; runoff water is not available for plant use and also carries off valuable top soil in which most of the fertility exists.

If any of these items are of interest to you, contact your Soil and Water Conservation District supervisor or your local Soil Conservation Service. They will be happy to help you and explain the value of parallel terraces.

Changes In Grain Inspection Outlined

Restrictions in the U. S. Grain Standards Act have been eased to allow licensed employees of grain elevators and warehouses to draw official grain samples, according to John J. Seibert, Extension grain marketing specialist of Texas A&M University.

The relaxation of restrictions should speed up official grain inspections and increase the efficiency of grain marketing, says Seibert. Until recently, the official sampling has been done only by employees of official inspection agencies; but now, representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service may license employees of grain elevators and warehouses to draw samples of grain. The samples will then be submitted for official inspection by a certified agency.

The new program is the "Warehouseman's Sample-Lot Inspection" certificates Seibert says that only approved mechanical sampling equipment or other approved equipment yielding comparable results can be used; but this does not include the common grain probe used by many elevator men.

Four other inspection certification programs are being started during March. The Export Certificate is used for officially-inspected grain for export and must be inspected in the United States and sampled-inspected by licensed employees of official inspection agencies.

Also requiring inspection of licensed employees of official agencies, the Official Sample-Lot Inspector certificate will be used for grain in domestic commerce. Under the Submitted Sample Inspection Certification program, samples of grain for domestic commerce is taken by the applicant and sent to an official inspection agency for testing and certification.

The Official Certificate will be used only by licensed employees of official inspection agencies for grain sold in domestic or export markets when checkweighing or checkloading sacks, official Certificate will be used only by licensed employees of official inspection agencies for grain sold in domestic or export markets when checkweighing or checkloading sacks, official stampling only or when an examination of the condition of the carrier for grain shipment is desired.
