At right, Dr. Patrick Dolan examines the body at the hospital as the new Medical Center evening supervisor, Glen Elliott, looks on and ready to assist in any manner. Wes Langham, Medical Center Administrator, announced the addition of new staff members Monday of this week. Mrs. James Martin is the new Administrator of the Nursing Home. She and her family have moved to Clarendon from Paducah. She was associated with a nursing home at Childress before coming here. Mrs. Martin is a state licensed administrator. Glen Elliott, graduate nurse, began his duties at the Medical Center Monday and is the evening supervisor. His wife is the chief anesthetist at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. He is presently commuting from Amarillo. Sue Holcomb, graduate nurse, is the new night supervisor and is also commuting from Amarillo at the present time.

Citizens Invited To Discuss Community Programs Thurs. Nite

Mrs. Edna Osburn, coordinator for the Donley County Community Action Program, reports this week that enrollment is low and expressed disappointment in the lack of interest shown in the Summer Program. A meeting of the Advisory Board is scheduled for Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. at the Community Center Building (the old Clarendon Food Store) and Mrs. Osburn urges every citizen to come out to the meeting and find out first hand what programs are being planned. Bring your questions, complaints, or comments, and find out facts rather than accepting casual remarks. By group discussion questions can be settled, statements clarified, and a better understanding reached. These programs are funded by the Federal government and are for you. You read that G.E.D. tests have been given. In plain wording this means that anyone who does not have a high school diploma may work with Mrs. Osburn and obtain a high school diploma through local testing set up here in Clarendon. Is it worth it? When applying for work are you asked about a high school diploma, your education? Response has been seen in this area with a number applying for diplomas and to be tested soon. A Vocational Training program is in the planning stage. Exactly what training will be offered is not yet established but a training session for coordinators will be held July 25 and at that time, more will be learned about this program. It would be well for you to consult with Mrs. Osburn now if there is any line of work you are especially interested in and would like training. This may be worked in with your present work, extending and upgrading your skills in present employment or learning a new skill. Three small Puerto Rican girls, children of a mother injured in a one car accident late Monday evening, were taken at the Community Center for the days their mother is hospitalized. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McElroy kept these children at night. So you see, this program is for everyone, and is an opportunity for some of your tax dollars to be put to work in your community. Plan to attend the Community meeting Thursday night, July 20, 8:30 p.m. at the Community Center.

This is one of the most progressive movements in Clarendon. Dave Croslin, owner of Western Skies Motel, recently finished this lovely swimming pool for his customers, located to the northwest corner of the motel. Privacy is assured by a picket fence around the pool. Shown here are tourist relaxing and enjoying Dave's hospitality Saturday evening at the Western Skies, one of the most modern and well-kept motels in this entire area. —Staff Photo

Diapause Boll Weevil Meet Thurs., July 20

A meeting to discuss plans for a diapause boll weevil control program will be held Thursday, July 20 at 8:30 p.m. in the Lelia Lake Community Center according to Ronald Gooch, County Agricultural Agent. The diapause control program has been used the last two years and has been successful in reducing the number of overwintering boll weevils. All cotton producers that are interested in seeing the diapause control program continued should attend this meeting, as the program will be lost unless we get organized now.

Train Derailment Blocks Area Tracks

Twenty-six cars were lost in derailment on the Burlington Northern Inc. track two miles southeast of Hedley Thursday afternoon. The train was bound for Childress from Amarillo for a change over to continue through Fort Worth to Galveston. The 24 cars ahead of the derailment continued to Wichita Falls. There were 12 cars and the caboose that remained on the rails behind the pile-up. No one was injured in the accident which occurred about 4 p.m. Thursday. It is thought that the derailment was due to the collapse of a bridge which was apparently weakened by the freight cars that passed over. The site was a mass of destruction with twisted steel, stacked and buried box cars that had overturned, and contents scattered over the area. Cars contained a mixture of freight and grain. C. N. Parker of Fort Worth, superintendent of transportation for Burlington, reported that no cost figure on the damage had been made, traffic was restored late Friday.

FIRE DAMAGE AT RUBY'S GROCERY IS LIGHT

Fire at Ruby's Grocery shortly after noon Tuesday resulted in light damage. The Fire Department answered the call and after looking the situation over concluded there was no fire and returned to the station. Several in the building continued to smell smoke and a customer came in to remark that smoke was coming out around the meter box again. Allen Estlack, West Texas Utilities Manager, was checking wiring and discovered fire in a wall. He dug the fire out and it was doused with water. A short time later, when it appeared that fire remained, others in the building continued to work into the wall until the blaze was extinguished. Estimate of the complete damage had not been made late Tuesday but business continued as usual.

THREE MAKE CANOE TRIP DOWN RIO GRANDE

Jim Risley, his brother, Lloyd Virgil Risley, and Richard McClendon of Pampa left Clarendon Thursday for the Big Bend National Park where they made the Santa Elena run down the Rio Grande River by canoe. The trio entered the water at La Jitas at noon Friday and after spending one night in the canyon, left the river at Terlingua, a trip of 18 to 19 miles. Water was running high and swift and the canoe took on water several times but this hazard was overcome with little loss of gear and equipment. Jim reported the rapids most exciting. The three are already planning a trip for next year and feel they gained much experience which will be useful to them.

Talked with a friend the other day who was making an attempt to retire. He commented: "I don't know whether I am going to like it or not. . . I get up in the morning with nothing to do, and go to bed at night with it only half through."

Some of us are natural born likers of reunions, both family and otherwise. . . Someone remarked awhile back that their father fairly hated family reunions and positively would not go. His favorite remark was that: "He had just as soon sit down in a red ant bed than to attend a reunion." This would be putting it a little strong. Personally, we like to attend just once in awhile. . . If you see folks too often, they are apt to find out our faults and that destroys the illusion of making them believe we turned out better than they had expected. . . Now, how did I get involved in that subject.

Could someone tell us who wrote the following and also the proper rendition of it:

Though we may have a thousand friends.

And long to see each face; If we have but one enemy, We'll meet him everywhere.

Something that happened the other day made us remember this little thought, and it does seem so very true. . . Did you ever wonder if we lived our life over and had every remembrance would it be possible to keep from having even a single enemy? Give us your ideas.

Just because things go wrong, it doesn't mean that we have to go after them.

Sympathy is never wasted except when we give it to ourselves.

Easter Seal Society Provides Service For Handicapped

The Texas Easter Seal Society can provide the following services for handicapped persons who cannot afford to pay all or part of the costs involved and who are not eligible for help from any other resource—public or private.

1. Assistance in paying for physical, occupational, and speech therapy when it is prescribed by a medical doctor.

2. Pay for special diagnostic evaluation (such as orthopedic, audiological, language and psychological).

3. Purchase orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, braces, etc., when prescribed by a medical doctor. (There is a $200 limit placed on artificial limbs. This $200 is to be used as "seed money" and hopefully will be matched by local resources such as individuals, service clubs, sororities, foundations, etc.)

4. Help to defray transportation costs for treatment or evaluation when the family is unable to meet these costs. This is determined by paying 30c per gallon—based on 10 miles per gallon, figured on a round trip basis—or by purchasing round trip bus tickets.

5. Assist families and individuals to reach the right person or agency to obtain help the Easter Seal Society of Texas cannot provide. People are often eligible for services from public or private agencies, but do not know the person, eligibility requirements, or place to obtain the services needed.

PERHAPS WE DO.

PRESTON SMITH GOVERNOR OF TEXAS

ACCIDENT PREVENTION on the modern farm and ranch is the message that both Governor Preston Smith and Texas Farm Bureau Queen Phyllis Shutt of Edna want to spread. Governor Smith signs a proclamation designating July 25-31, as Farm and Ranch Safety Week in Texas as Joe L. Smetana, Vice President for Farm and Ranch activities, Texas Safety Association, exhibits a theme poster for the observance. Miss Shutt demonstrates the need for industrial type hard hat and roll-over protection on farm machinery.

A limit of $150 per client per year for therapy and $150 for transportation has been set except in unusual cases requiring special attention. This limit can be exceeded only with the permission of the Treatment and Service Committee of the State Board.

All services must be authorized before being rendered by the Treatment and Service Department of the Texas Easter Seal Society.

Should you have any specific questions please write us at the address shown on this letterhead or call the Treatment and Service Department — AC 214 — 5286-3811.

Accent On Health

An orderly in a large metropolitan hospital drops a glass container full of radioactive material, inadvertently causing a potentially dangerous radiation hazard. State Health Department radiation officials are called in to supervise the removal of this hazardous substance and reduce any exposure to a minimum.

An out-of-the-ordinary occurrence? Not really. Radiation accidents occur about 150 times each year. The hospital incident is only one of the many such radiation hazards or accidents brought to the attention of state health officials.

In addition to licensing and regulating use of radioactive materials and devices in Texas, the Occupational Health and Radiation Control Division of the State Health Department also maintains a stringent watch on radioactivity in our environment.

Recently, the Department asked the Environmental Protection Agency to send specialized equipment to South Texas to monitor areas surrounding uranium mining operations. Officially wanted to be certain that tailings from these operations were not being used as construction fill materials. If it existed, this situation could possibly pose a serious public health hazard. Although federal officials earlier found such a situation in Colorado, the State of Texas got a clean bill of health, primarily because of continuous surveillance by state radiation officials.

Although the bulk of their work lies in the licensing and regulation of commercial radioactive materials, these officials have a variety of interesting responsibilities. While routinely sampling the air for radiation and fallout, three separate monitoring stations in Texas detected a Chinese nuclear explosion. The small increase in radioactive fallout was well below any significant health danger.

Many people may come in contact with radiation producing devices and not know it. More and more such devices are in use every day—microwave ovens and radar, for example. That is why the Department provides training in radiation safety, primarily for those who handle radioactive materials.

Although state involvement in radiation protection goes back more than 50 years, it was 1959 before state programs for radiation control and protection became an integral function of the State Health Department. Until then the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission held exclusive jurisdiction over radioactive materials. Licensing and regulation of radioactive materials in Texas was begun in 1963. Today, 1-140 such licenses are in effect.

Equipment ranges from the huge irradiation machine which a company in San Angelo uses to sterilize medical products to a device used by a rock and mineral collector in Dallas.

All devices capable of producing ionizing radiation are required by State regulations to be registered. This includes medical, dental, veterinary, chiropractic, and industrial x-ray machines, electron microscopes and other such equipment. Estimates of the number of registrable devices in Texas vary from 15,000 to 25,000 or more.

No nuclear power reactors for generating electricity are presently located in Texas, although a few are now in the planning stages. The N. S. Savannah, the first nuclear powered merchant ship, used the Port of Galveston as its repair and refueling port. In addition to this mobile nuclear power reactor, six other smaller research reactors have been operated in the State. There are two each at General Dynamics in Fort Worth and Texas A&M University at College Station, one located on the campus of the University of Texas at Austin, and one formerly at Rice University in Houston. Although such reactors are licensed by the Atomic Energy Commission, the State Health Department also monitors their operation.

In recent study, the Atomic Energy Commission concluded that processors of radioactive materials and hospitals released many times more radioactive materials into the environment than all the nuclear power reactors. Even before this study was concluded, the State Health Department began taking samples around these processors and hospitals located in Texas, including the large Texas Medical Center complex of hospitals in Houston. While all other categories of users are strictly limited to the amount of radioactive material they can flush into a sanitary sewage system, radioactive materials contained in human wastes presently are specifically exempted from any kind of release standards. The State Health Department plans a five-year study of the levels of radioactive materials in the sanitary sewer system in the Houston area to determine how much radioactive material is being released to sewage treatment plants and on into the environment.

Texas currently spends about 2.6 cents per capita for an extensive State Radiation Control Program, a substantial savings over the national average state expenditure of 3.6 cents per capita.

Seat belts do save lives, but only if they are worn. "Buckle up for safety" is not just a slogan. It's a way of life—a way of saving lives.

Toxaphene Used In Cattle Tick Dips

An amendment to federal regulations to allow use of toxaphene as a dip for cattle tick eradication has been adopted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Previously the regulations governing inter-state movement of animals permitted use only of arsenic, dioxathion (DeNav) and coumaphos (Co-Ral).

The amendment became effective upon signature by an official of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Both species of cattle ticks—Boophilus microplus and Boophilus annulatus—have been found in a quarantine zone in south Texas. The quarantine zone, necessary because of presence of the ticks in Mexico, extends from the mouth of the Rio Grande River 500 miles northwest to Amistad Dam near Del Rio and varies in width from a few yards to several miles.

APHIS officials have alerted cattle owners to watch for ticks and to submit specimens for identification. If fever ticks are found, infested and exposed cattle are dipped in tick-killing baths at regular intervals for at least one year.

To protect fish and wildlife, officials warn that after dipping, animals must be kept out of streams and ponds for at least seven days. Tests made at Beltsville, Md., have shown that until that much time elapses, animal retain enough dip solution on their legs and bodies to pollute water. Public notice of the action is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register. Copies may be obtained by writing to Animal Health Programs, APHIS, USDA, Federal Center Building, Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

The Informed Consumer

by Attorney General Crawford Martin

TRUTH-IN-LENDING

You want to borrow money to finance a new car or for some other family or household reason. What are your legal rights in relation to the one who lends you the money?

This area of the law has been significantly affected by Congress' passage of the Federal Truth-in-Lending Act of 1969.

The effect of this relatively new law, which applies to items of personal property, services purchased for household uses, personal loans and many real estate transactions, is simply to require truthful and full disclosure of credit terms to you, the borrower. Lenders must now furnish the debtor with a detailed written disclosure of credit terms before credit is extended.

Included in the items which must be revealed to the borrower are the amount of credit, total amount to be financed, dollar amount of the finance charge, finance charge expressed as an annual percentage rate, the number, amount, and due dates of payments, and default charges.

The finance charge includes the amount of the insurance premiums, service or carrying charges, investigation fees, interest, and other costs. This charge then is what the customer pays for the privilege of obtaining and using his credit.

Why have a Truth-in-Lending law? The theory is that if all of these charges are specifically set forth by the lender, a person can shop and compare the costs of borrowing from various lending institutions. This works to his distinct advantage since most of us are interested in saving money even though willing to pay the cost of obtaining credit.

The Truth-in-Lending Act should prove beneficial to the borrowing member of the consuming public. By requiring the lender to disclose conspicuously and clearly the credit terms and charges, the informed consumer is better able to protect his pocketbook.

Social Security

By Travis C. Briggs

Q—We take assignments on ambulance services for Medicare patients, and we bill Medicare direct. Medicare pays 80 percent of the service. Can we bill the patient for the 20 percent Medicare does not pay?

A—Yes, the patient is responsible for 20 percent of the reasonable charge for covered services billed directly by the provider of service. Of course, the patient must have incurred $50 (the deductible) in each calendar year before Medicare pays anything. If Medicare reduces the charge on an assigned claim, the patient may not be billed for the difference between the original charge and the allowed charge, but should be billed for 20 percent (if the deductible has been met) of the allowed charge.

Q—I heard that I would have to pay the hospital $17 daily upon admission, and later $34 daily, in addition to Medicare, if I am sent to a hospital. Is this true?

A—The hospital insurance (Part A of Medicare) generally pays the full amount of the bill for the first 60 days in the hospital, (semi-private room, unless a private room is certified by the doctor to be medically necessary), except for the $68 deductible when you enter the hospital. Only after the first 60 days in the hospital in the same benefit period does the patient pay $17 daily, that is, from the 61st through the 90th day. If the patient remains in the hospital after 90 days, the "lifetime reserve" may be used and the patient pays $34 daily from the 91st through the 150th day.

However, the average hospital stay for a patient over age 65 is less than 12 days, so that in most cases no daily charge is made. Also, if the patient returns home for at least 60 days after being in the hospital, the benefit period ends, and the patient is entitled to a new benefit period.

IRS Answers To Taxpayers Questions

Q—Someone broke into my home and stole $200. Can I deduct this amount as a theft loss?

A—A personal theft or casualty loss is deductible only to the extent that it exceeds $100 for each loss. Therefore, your deduction would be $100, your actual loss of $200 less the $100 limitation. The loss would also be reduced by any insurance proceeds.

For more information on deducting casualty and theft losses, see IRS Publication 547, Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts. It's available by dropping a postcard to your IRS district office.

Q—I waited until April 17 to file my return. How long will it take me to get my refund?

A—If there are no mistakes on your return that might delay processing, it normally takes about six weeks after a return is filed. It might take a little longer to get your refund, however, due to the large volume of returns filed in April.

Q—I am an alien working in the United States. I plan to return to my home soon. I am told I must get a "sailing permit." What is that?

A—A Certificate of Compliance, popularly known as a "sailing permit", must be obtained by most aliens before their departure from the United States. Generally, you must file a Form 1040C or 2083 to get a "sailing permit."

The permit should be obtained from the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which you are not located at least two weeks but not earlier than 30 days before your departure.

Q—I employ an investment counselor to advise me on what stocks to buy. Are the fees I pay him deductible?

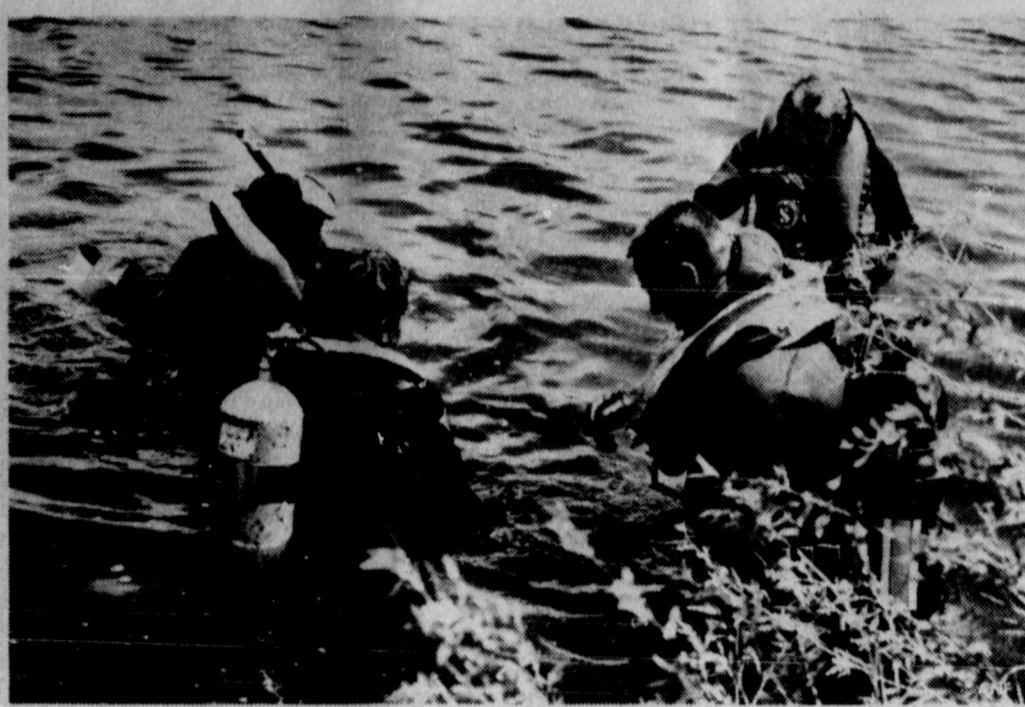

A—Yes. Investment counseling fees are deductible as income-producing expenses provided you itemize deductions.

Veteran News

Q—Is there a deadline for veterans to apply for VA hospital care?

A—No. There is no deadline if a veteran is eligible, needs it, and a bed is available. Beds are always available at VA hospitals for veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Q—How long will I be covered by my Servicemen's Group Life Insurance if I was separated from service for total disability on Nov. 1, 1971?

A—Your coverage under SGLI will continue while you remain totally disabled but not beyond one year. Within a year of the date VA notifies you that your disability has been rated as service-connected, you can apply for a $10,000 low cost RH policy from the agency. Also within the year, you may convert your SGLI (maximum $15,000) to an individual policy at standard rates with any company participating in the SGLI program.

Q—Even though I have been married six years, my husband, a World War II veteran, still carries his mother as beneficiary on his GI insurance policy. Can VA change it so I will be the beneficiary?

Q—How much truth is there to criticism that VA hospitals are so crowded with dying old men and old alcoholics that bed space is not available for Vietnam Veterans?

A—None. Veterans with service connected disabilities have first call on VA medical care, and plenty of hospital beds are about JMSOandb cm cm cm available. A recent check revealed about 84,000 veterans were occupying hospital beds, about 10 per cent of them Vietnam Era veterans.

A—Yes, provided your husband was a wartime, Korean Conflict or Vietnam Era veteran with an other than dishonorable discharge; or was drawing service-connected compensation at time of death or discharge; or was retired for disability incurred in line of duty. Application for a maximum $250 burial allowance must be filed within two years of permanent burial or cremation.

Social Security

By TRAVIS C. BRIGGS

Q—The term "teleservice" is frequently used in radio and television announcements regarding social security. Would you please explain what is meant by "teleservice"?

A—Most any social security business can be taken care of by telephone including applications. Any necessary forms can be mailed by social security to an individual for signatures and then returned by mail. The agency uses the term "teleservice" to help the public know their social security business can be taken care of by telephone.

Q—I will be age 65 in a few months but have no immediate plans to retire. Will it be necessary for me to go to the social security office to enroll in the Medicare program?

A—You will need to apply with social security about 3 months before you become age 65. However, a trip to the social security office will not be necessary. Telephone your local social security office and explain your situation. They will complete the application forms and mail them to you to be signed and returned by mail.

Q—I will be age 65 in a few months but have no immediate plans to retire. Will it be necessary for me to go to the social security office to enroll in the Medicare program?

Q—My first husband died about 10 years ago. My child, now age 14, and I received social security checks following his death. About 3 years ago I remarried and my check was stopped but I still receive a check for my child. My last marriage ended in divorce recently. Would I be eligible for social security checks again?

A—It appears you need to complete an application with social security for benefits on your first husband's record. You should telephone the local social security office and they will explain what is needed to start your benefits on your first husband's record.

GREEN SCENE VI—The sixth issue of GREEN SCENE is one of the most informative and entertaining of the series. The film magazine opens in Korea as an NCO who participated in the Korean War helps contrast the remarkable difference between the Korea of the early 1950s and the Korea of the early 1970s. From Korea, GREEN SCENE VI goes on to cover subjects like "Soldiers Magazine," "Professional Education for the NCO" and "Reserve Obligations." The final story concerns securing valuables in the barracks. GREEN SCENE VI is what the soldier of today wants, his type of subject matter presented in his type of language. A good film for all soldiers.

Record Car-Truck Sales Helps Dodge Cap Best Quarter

A record June for Dodge sales of 56,330 cars and 23,515 trucks helped the company to its best second quarter and best first six months in history. The marks were established for both cars and trucks and cars combined.

J. Roy Bartlett, local Dodge dealer, said "Car sales of 305,664 units for the first half of the 1972 calendar year were up 10 percent over a year ago and were 110 units over the previous first half high set in 1968.

"Truck sales of 133,179 units were up 64 percent over the previous record of 80,961 sold in 1971," Bartlett said.

For the April to June quarter, he said Dodge dealers sold a record 162,937 cars, breaking the 1968 mark of 162,865. The 70,403 trucks sold was the best of any quarter for truck sales in the company's history. The previous high quarter was from January to March of 1972 when 62,776 trucks were sold. These previous second quarter high of 44,160 was set last year.

The record June sales accounted for increases of 10 percent for cars and 37 percent for trucks over the same month a year ago when 51,337 cars and 17,125 trucks were sold. The previous June record was 53,188 set in 1968. The previous truck mark was in 1971.
