Assortment Of Weather And Loss Of Crops Big Topic Of The Week

A big assortment of weather, in fact about every kind you can find in the book, hit this entire area within the past week. The tragic thing is that practically all crops in this entire area have been destroyed by either rain, hail, wind or blowing sand.

Friday night and Saturday topped the list with the tornado cell that hit Amarillo moving directly over the town area. All law enforcement, civil defense etc. were keeping track of the rough weather and the tornado warning was sounded as a safety measure.

The heavy downpour Friday night was followed by strong wind and blowing sand Saturday that blew out crops that were left. A small Tornado was sighted on the ground by the Highway Patrol Tuesday afternoon about 15 miles north of town but no damage has been reported as the location was in ranch country. The storm did carry lots of hail and moved from the northwest to the southeast of Lella Lake where Mrs. Clarence Ayers reported 2 inches of moisture and heavy hail. Don Hillis northeast of town reported baseball size hail. Deputy Sheriff Clyde James reported the swath covered an area 3 miles east of town almost into Hedley.

There has been hail in most every cloud that has passed over this area and practically every sector of the county has been hit at one time or another. The temperature has varied considerably changing from hot to cold with real chilly nights.

.97 inch of rain was recorded here Friday night which gives us a total of 2.06 for the month and a total of 8.45 for the year. Hubert Rhoades reported 1.90 at Ashtola Friday night and considerable damage was reported to irrigation systems in both the Ashtola and Martin areas. Mrs. Willard Knox reported .68 inch Friday night and around a half inch was received Tuesday.

Sorry, but no fish stories this week. Again, no one had pictures taken. I'm sure some have been caught because some good neighbor brought us some very nice fish.

Among the sick this week, is Jim Corgill. He is in the hospital for tests. He was having severe headaches. Jim is also allergic to insect bites, I hear. Jim, you can't be in the hospital too long, you need to be catching fish and working in that garden.

Speaking of gardens — the hail did damage some. Every one's gardens seemed to be doing fine until the hail storm. Cliff Jewett's son, Bobby, had a motor bike accident, Sunday. It seems he received a broken arm in the fall.

The Ed Pearces are building a room onto their mobile home. There is more building going on but I just haven't been around to get the names.

The Huell Bingham's son, Butch, and daughter - in - law, Mildred, and Kristel were here from Lubbock on the week end. We hope Mrs. Ed Castner's mother, Mrs. Boon, is feeling much better since her trip to the doctor. "Boon", you can't get down.

We are hearing of quite a few people having that old sinus trouble. Maybe, some day, there will be a cure or a preventive for it.

The John McVickers have had a houseful of company. It is good they have two mobile homes since their daughter and son-in-law of Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Keeney, Reesa, Karen, Tally and David are here. The children and their mother will stay through Fathers' Day, while Papa had to get back to work. Their daughter, Mrs. John (Dawn) Gay of Amarillo was down for the week end with her children, Kim, Kyle & Kelly. Other guests in the McVicker home last week were Bruce and Gig Weightman of Riverdale, Calif., and Mrs. Jack Ross of Dumas, Mrs. Faye Weightman of Childress and Mrs. Leland Cagle and son, Greer, visited them Sunday.

There was a pretty good turnout for the Lions Club. Dr. Wright was the speaker. He gave a talk on Hypnosis and a small demonstration. All Lions plan to attend the installation of officers at the next meeting. It will be held at the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bland have returned from a trip to Carlsbad. They visited Cora's Aunt Elsie Stuffing. Then they went to a family reunion on her mother's side at Ruidoso. Some of the family were almost strangers to Cora, since it had been around forty years since she had seen them. She really enjoyed the people and the food.

The A. J. Edsells of Wichita Falls were up Saturday to visit the Melville Mills. The two ladies are sisters.

Sharon Mills is still enjoying her friends and neighbors who are dropping by to see her. She went to the doctor last Thursday and all is fine. She says a station wagon and an aluminum cot make a very good ambulance.

Congratulations to all who have wedding anniversaries and birthdays this month. Hope all who have not been feeling well are doing much better.

Our sympathy to the Ockander family. Sonny Ockander will be missed very much.

fascinated with some of the modern trends of letting everyone "Do their thing," or some other fancy new idea. Every now and then we hear that some teacher is old - fashioned enough to want to turn back toward these old stand-bys.

Maybe this column should leave education to the professionals but the other day some one was advocating that another R be added or gone back to it's day. The suggestion was an R for Respect . . . It does seem that in our lifetime Respect has almost gone out of date . . . We remember one thing from our childhood that had a bearing on this issue. We children knew that our mother and father was on the side of the school and the teacher. We were told that if we got into trouble at school we would get it when we got home. It seemed to make sort of a solid front that we more or less accepted as right.

The other day we observed a fellow grand parent looking on as the parent was completely out done by the overness of the four year old. The mother pleaded and talked but the child waxed more and more belligerent. Likely it was wise that the grandmother said nothing but we wondered what was going through her mind. Our mind went back to what would have happened to us as a child if we had thrown a tantrum. We remember hearing about what happened to a cousin of ours and we couldn't rake up the courage to throw one. A child just couldn't have much Respect for a parent that let him out do them at the age of four or five. Later this parent will likely have to go to school and plead with the teacher to go easy on little Johnny because he is addicted to Tantrums . . . This can be pretty bad, but even worse is when a few years later the parent is going to the Judge and the cop to beg for this same kind of treatment. Respect might just be a good Fourth R.

Alternatives For Hailed Out Cotton

A Texas Agricultural Extension agronomist here said that the week end storms of June 1 to 3 over the South Plains damaged more than a quarter of a million acres of crops. Cotton was hardest hit with thousands of acres totally destroyed in Hale, Lamb, Floyd, Swisher, Briscoe and Crosby counties.

Dr. James Supak said that farmers are now faced with a tough decision or whether to replant cotton or shift to an alternative crop.

"Wet fields may delay replanting operations until mid-June or later," he predicted, "crowding the latest practical date for planting cotton, especially in the northern regions of the South Plains."

Supak suggested that farmers consider replanting grain sorghum, pinto beans or soybeans as alternate crops.

Cotton producers who incorporated Treflan or similar pre-plant herbicides have eliminated the possibility of growing sorghum on that land this year. Even if they used a pre-emerge herbicide, he said, they would be running a risk to plant sorghum. The surface - applied chemicals are leached into the soil by rainfall, though the depth of penetration varies with the type of herbicide, texture of soil and amount of rain. To circumvent the problem, on the heavier textured soils a buster planter set to displace the top four to five inches of soil can establish a seed furrow in herbicide-free soil, he recommended.

"Record high market prices and tolerance to herbicides such as Treflan make pinto beans an attractive replacement for hailed-out cotton," the agronomist suggested. "Although varieties such as Luna and Idaho III yield well when planted in mid to late June, there are several problems associated with pinto bean production.

"To begin with, planting seed is currently in short supply and quite expensive. Much of the seed that is available is of questionable quality and may be infected with Halo Blight.

"In addition, planting of pintos needs to be restricted to fields where dry beans, peas and soybeans have not been grown for at least three years," he said.

"Finally, efficient harvesting involves knifing and windrowing operations followed by the use of bean combines equipped with pickup attachments. Direct harvesting with grain combines usually results in significant shattering losses and excessive splitting of the seed passing through these machines."

Supak noted that soybeans are frequently used as a replacement for hail damaged cotton. This crop is tolerant to most cotton herbicides and can be planted over a wide range of dates.

Pointing to results of a four-year study conducted by scientists at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, he said that good yields may be obtained from late June to early July plantings.

"Since soybeans are sensitive to day length," he added, "late plantings result in short stalk growth of all varieties and the combines miss a good portion of lowest seed pods. This problem can be partially circumvented by the use of varieties that fall into the late Group IV and Group V maturity groups."

"Columbus (late Group IV), Hill (early Group V), and York (late Group V) are among the better varieties which fall into this grouping; their later maturity tends to promote more stalk growth than that obtained with earlier varieties such as Clark 63 and Patterson. In addition to good yields, these varieties have also exhibited excellent seed holding characteristics (low incidence of shattering at maturity) and good resistance to lodging," said Supak.

He listed other cultural practices which encourage stalk growth in late plantings. These include higher seeding rates (65 to 70 lbs. of good quality seed per acre), planting a single row per bed and early irrigation.

"It is especially important to avoid periods of moisture stress in late planted beans," he emphasized.

More plantings after the first of July, the Extension specialist recommended early maturing varieties such as Clark 63. These recommendations are based on the probability of reduction of yields of the later maturing varieties by an early frost.

"Selecting an alternate crop is always an unpleasant chore," Supak lamented. "Fortunately, there are crops such as grain sorghum, pintos and soybeans which can be planted relatively late in the season to partially compensate for the loss of the primary crop."

Liability Insurance Is Important

Liability insurance should be an important consideration of businessmen and homeowners, believes Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Any property owner is responsible for the safety of those on his property. Farmers and ranchers with livestock, machinery and ponds on their property have an increased need for liability insurance," says Hayenga. A "general" liability insurance policy covers a property owner's negligent actions on the insured location, whereas a "comprehensive" policy covers negligent actions of the property owner on any location.

In order to be proved negligent, Hayenga says the following situations must be proved:

Conduct must fall below the mythical standard of a reasonable and prudent person, a failure to meet his normal responsibilities.

Damage must have occurred, either to a person or his property, before a complaint or suit can be filed in a court of law.

The act in question must be shown to have caused the damages. Burden of proof to show who is negligent lies with the complainer.

The complainer must be free of criticism. He must not have contributed in any way to the negligence, or recovery may be barred.

"The insurance company will pay claims only up to the limits of the policy," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. "The minimum amount of $10,000 is usually not sufficient if a major catastrophe occurs."

Substantially more coverage can be obtained at just slightly higher rates, so it may be a wise investment to purchase higher limits, advises the economist.

"Also, remember that liability insurance offers no protection against claims brought by regular employees for injuries and accidents," adds Hayenga.

At a traffic intersection, the U. S. Mail truck has the right of way over all other vehicles, at all times.

Miss Terry Saye And Kim Charles Blaut Exchange Nuptial Vows Sat., June 8, 1974

Terry Kathleen Saye of Clarendon, Tex. and Kim Charles Blaut of Maywood, New Jersey were married at 8 o'clock in the evening, June 8, 1974 in the First Baptist Church of Clarendon, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie C. Saye of Clarendon, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blaut of Maywood, New Jersey are parents of the groom.

The double ring wedding vows were read by Rev. Paul Hancock, former pastor of the Clarendon First Christian Church. He was assisted by Ronnie Null of Clarendon College. Wedding music was by Miss Lilly Larson, organist, of Amarillo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported white silk organza. The molded empire bodice, veiled with imported Swiss Gimpure lace, was fashioned with a high Victorian collar accented by lace. Long full bishop sleeves appliqued with matching lace were caught at the wrists by wide cuffs. Motif appliques of lace complimented the A-line skirt which extended to a wide chapel length train completely edged with a narrow banding of lace.

Her veil of imported white silk illusion was attached to a Juliet coil of organza appliqued with Swiss Gimpure lace. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of gardenias with neeplepoint lace and gypsophylls. Miss Shauna Hardin of Clarendon was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jane Hampton of Clarendon, Miss Wendy McKinley of Amarillo, Miss Sandra Jochetz of Gruver, and Misses Elizabeth and Susan Christian of Austin, cousins of the bride.

The attendants wore gowns of blue dotted swiss with long pinafores. The dresses featured an empire bodice with square neckline, full puffed sleeves and a full gored skirt. The pinafores of light blue stocked organza were edged with a ruffle which extended to the bodice line in the back. A wide ice blue satin ribbon at the bodice accented the empire waistline and was tied in a bow at the back. Their ice blue picture hats were accented with a clutch of daisies at the brim. Bridesmaids carried French nosegays of Spring flowers with showers of blue satin ribbon.

Kathleen Blaut, daughter of Clarence Blaut, Jr., and Christine Blaut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Blaut were flower girls. Their white dresses and blue pinafores were miniatures of the bridesmaid's dresses. They carried natural baskets with blue stiaice and carnations. Their headbands were of daisies.

Dale Blaut of Idaho, Texas served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Clarence Blaut, Jr. of Hackensack, New Jersey and Barry Blaut of Cassid, New Jersey, brothers of the groom, Tim Saye of Amarillo, brother of the bride, Guy Visconti of Rochelle Park, New Jersey, and Mike Loomay of Clarendon, Texas. The groomsmen also served as ushers.

The church altar was backed by arches of candelabra with crystal votive candles on each side and taper candles at the center back. Natural palms and large French bouquets of spring flowers in crystal urns were on the altar area. The pews were decorated with the bride's colors of blue and white with carnations and bits of lemon foliage and baby's breath.

Hurricane lamps and white lace wedding bells greeted the guests as they approached the doors of the church. Mrs. Jeff Campbell of Clarendon registered the guests.

The wedding reception honoring the bride couple was held in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

The bride's table was covered with white bridal satin with an overlay of white illusion. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Atop the tiered bride's cake was a miniature nosegay of spring flowers. The centerpiece was spring flowers in a silver candelabra with springer fern trailing down to the cloth.

The groom's table was covered with a blue cloth. The groom's cake was a double ring German chocolate cake. The centerpiece of blue carnations and baby's breath was in a silver bowl.

In the houseparty were Misses Sue Hall, Sheila Smith, Mitzi Cagle, Tracy Cagle, Shellah McAnear, Cindy Price, and Julie Wise. Passing rice bags were the flower girls and Gigi Hudson, cousins of the bride.

Following the wedding trip the couple will be at home in Wellington, New Jersey.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Clarendon High School where she was a member of the National Honor Society. She will attend college at William Paterson College in Wayne, New Jersey.

The groom graduated from Hackensack High School in 1970. He attended Clarendon College in 1972 and is employed by D'Amico's Auto Body in Hackensack, New Jersey.

In addition to attending the graduation exercises and the wedding, Brad and Ola report a delightful time sightseeing. They the Bill Bradshaws, and the Douglas Bradshaws enjoyed three days at Myrtle Beach in South Carolina.

Y-Knot Twirlers News

The Y-Knot Twirlers are expecting a large crowd of Square Dancers from the Panhandle Square Dance Association to help them celebrate their 12th anniversary at a dance June 15th.

Dancing will be on the slab at the Rodeo Arena. The Grand March will be at 8:45 with Audrey Brown calling. The public is invited to come and join in the fun. Rep.

elderly person is less likely to go, come back with stories of termite or other pest infestation, and report that extensive structural damage has resulted.

For a fee that may range as high as thousands of dollars, they offer to get rid of the pests and repair the damage. In many instances, pests are found not to have been present, and no structural damage has taken place.

In one case in the Structural Pest Control Board's files, a widow who had inherited $30,000 claimed to have been taken by an unscrupulous exterminator for $29,000.

An added variation on this method of operation sometimes comes when the consumer balks at paying any more money for repeat calls. Another person then calls on him claiming to be an attorney for the company, an owner, or even a policeman or other investigator.

The person claims that the pest control employees had been found to be misleading customers and were fired by the company. As restitution of the consumer, he offers a company check for some amount in excess of what the consumer had lost.

When the customer protests that the amount is more than he paid, the representative tells him that he can give the company his check for the difference. The company check is worthless, and the consumer has lost even more money.

My attorneys say it is a good idea to ask to see the license or serviceman's card of any home solicitor for pest control companies. If the person is reluctant to produce such identification, so says he doesn't have it with him, be suspicious.

Also, consumers should remember that they are protected in door-to-door sales by the right to cancel any contract within three days, if the amount involved is $25 or more.

Additionally, consumers should never allow another person to fill in the amount of a check before signing it. There have been instances when unscrupulous pest control operators have filled in a much larger amount than had been agreed upon. If this happens, consumers should immediately notify their bank to stop payment on the check.

One of the best ways to select a pest control company is to get recommendations from friends and relatives. Then check with the Structural Pest Control Board in Austin and with your local Better Business Bureau to make sure there are no complaints on file against the company.

If you have a consumer complaint, consult attorneys in the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, or your local district or county attorney.

The Song At Midnight

By: Weldon Rives, Pastor
First United Methodist Church

Acts 16:25 - "At midnight Paul and Silas . . . sang praises to God; and the prisoners heard them."
Research has established that grasshoppers produce various types of "songs" for different purposes. There is evidence that they have male choruses participated in by turn that males compose serenades to attract a mate, that other cadences serve as a "sonic beam" to guide direction.

If lowly grasshoppers can communicate a mood or message by their tunes, how much more ought God's children inspire one another by heartfelt melodies? Paul felt this to be true for out of his experiences he could say "Let the world of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord" (Colossians 3:16).

Midnight, except for New Year's Eve and perhaps one or two other special occasions, is an unusual time to think about singing any song. It is a most rare occasion to say the least, to hear Christian hymns sung. However, anyone who has had a heart warming experience will be praising God no matter what the time of day - or night. When the unseen Presence of God is present to bless, persevere, and strengthen you, and you feel His presence because of some marvelously wonderful event which tells you that God is with you even in a most unexpected place, then, you will want to tell the world!

Paul's experience was from a religion which was not just a theological philosophy but was a divine relationship with the Lord he had met and accepted on the Damascus Road. Now, trapped in a most undigni-fied situation for restoring a young girl to her sanity Paul and Silas sang songs of triumph at midnight! The other prisoners heard them, of course, for who could not have heard them except they be deaf? The songs must have echoed throughout the jail. It is then no wonder that the other prisoners heard them; rather, it would have been a greater wonder had the other prisoners not heard them.

The convictions of Paul and Silas filled the prison and banished the gloom. The cadences of their songs served as a "sonic beam" that guided prisoners and jailor to discipleship for Christ Jesus.

What about the songs people hear you sing at midnight, midday, midmorning, or at anytime? Does it tell the story that "by grace you are saved"? (Ephesians 3:5).
PEACE!
THINK ON THIS: If you want to put the world right start with yourself.
