Thompson Day Sunday, June 17 At First Baptist Church

Sunday, June 17, 1973, will be Thompson Day at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon. Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Thompson are retiring as Custodians of the Church after 21 years of service. At the close of the evening service Sunday, there will be a reception at the church honoring the couple.

During this span of 21 years the following pastors have served the church and worked with the Thompsons: Rev. L. A. Sarlain, Rev. Howard Scott, P. Edd Byars, Rev. W. F. Vandenberg, Rev. W. R. Lawrence, and Rev. James O. Brandon.

Mr. Thompson came to Clarendon in 1925. He began the trip from Sherman, Texas in 1924 and came on one of the last Stagecoaches through this area. He was here at intervals until 1922 when he returned to make this his home. He married Ruby Wood in 1936, at Goodnight, Texas.

Mrs. Thompson is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wood who moved to the Huggins community in 1932. She was born in Cook County, moved to Oklahoma, then to Hall County before moving to Donley County.

The couple has one son, San Thompson of Amarillo and two grandchildren. They also have three foster children: Mrs. Peggy Harr, deceased; Mrs. Debbie Shields of Amarillo, and Charles Jackson of San Bernardino, Cal. They also have 2 foster grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson joined the Baptist Church in 1950. In an interview with the couple the question was asked as to what their plans were for the future. Since Mr. Thompson is retiring due to his health he is planning to spend his time around the home and have a small shop as a hobby. Together they plan a garden and yard work. Mrs. Thompson will continue her work in the Church Nursery.

Local Justice Of Peace Among Best Informed In Area

Carroll L. Lewis, Justice of the Peace of Precinct No. 2 completed the advanced training school in Amarillo June 5-8 which was the fourth of such schools of this nature that he has attended and received certificates of merit. These schools are designed to keep the Justice Judges abreast of all the new versions and interpretations of the present laws.

This school was under the sponsorship of Lamar University with Ronald D. Champion as the coordinator for this district.

Lewis reported that this was one of the most informative schools he had ever attended and had over 15 very talented speakers revealing information on various subjects.

Among the speakers were Judge Don Dean, 181st Dist. Court, Amarillo on "Writs of Attachments"; Judge Mary Lou Robinson, 108th Dist. Court, Amarillo on "Writ of Garnishment"; Mike Hinton, Asst. Dist. Atty., Houston on "Examining Trials"; Tom Bullington, Asst. Attorney General of Austin, Chief of Crime Prevention; Judge Charles Reynolds, 7th Court of Civil Appeals, "Filing of Civil Suit thru Judgment and Appeal of Suit."

Clarendon can be proud to have a Justice of the Peace that is most interested in keeping up on all details of the law. Carroll has, thru fines etc. been responsible for approximately $30,000 going into the revenue till of Donley County the past year and is on call 24 hours a day but is still one of the lowest salaried county servants on the payroll. He along with our county peace officers, should be receiving a reasonable living wage if you care to check, they are all among the lowest salaried group in the county. What can we expect from our peace officers and judges that serve around the clock when they are so poorly paid in comparison with others that put in much less time.

Mr. Lewis was accompanied to the school by Mrs. Lewis who visited with her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moore at Arian, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brown and son Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lewis at Amarillo.

accomplishment is that it is the fulfillment of man's part of the command of God.

In Psalm 8 the psalmist reminds us that we must distinguish between dominion the works of God's hands and God. With the enlarged ability of man to have dominion over God's creation, it would be possible that he would believe that he is all powerful and therefore no longer in need of God. And an element of paganism comes in to his religion in that he bows himself down before the things God has made and worships the created rather than the Creator. In Psalm 121 the psalmist reminds us to look beyond the created and find our help in God. The Palestinian sky was sprinkled with thousands of stars, and in the clear light of the Near East they glistened in a fascinating array. The astrologers, singers, and priest of that ancient day knew nothing of Sky-labs, space travel, or atomic energy. But as they observed the beauty of the heavens, they felt themselves overcome by a great sense of awe, and they attributed all this beauty and wonder to the Lord God. May we take our cue from the psalmist, and as we marvel at the accomplishments of man, may we too attribute it to God who made all things, and without him was nothing made that was made. —John 1:3b.

As usual the wife's argument was the most convincing and after the purchase Jim pondered in the form of poetry the final outcome. We thought it was pretty good and worth repeating. It is called: MY WIFE By Jim Nunnally

There she sits at her sewing machine, No wonder the house is never clean.

She said if we bought one it would save us money— "After all material is dirt cheap, Honey."

Now she is making a new pants suit— She sure hopes I will think it looks cute.

Cheaper than Digs, better than Sangers, Where will we find enough coat hangers?

Yes, it's the only way to save us a bunch, But material and thread is eating my lunch.

Yes, this is really living, lying here writing verses, But all those pants suits will need shoes and purses . . .

A Communist country is one where every thing that is not forbidden is compulsory.

There would be fewer folk singers these days if the performers had to know anything about folks or singing either.

Opened by mistake applies more to the mouth than it does to the mail.

Good life requires some earning, some learning, and a bit of yearning.

Never believe anything until you see it in print, hear it on the air, or see it in the form of a cancelled check.

The Consumer Alert

MOBILE HOMES

AUSTIN — Mobile homes have served as a possible solution to the search for low-cost housing for many Texans. But judging from the number of complaints which reach my Consumer Protection Division, the consumer should be very careful when he starts shopping for a mobile home.

As in the case of any other purchase, you should first look for an established dealer, and talk to people who have bought and lived in the units he has sold and set up, to get their comments.

Otherwise, it would appear, you may take the chance of running into frustrations. Complaints we receive concern mobile home roofs which leak; plumbing that "doesn't fit"; floors that "aren't level"; windows that don't close properly; air conditioners or furnaces that don't function.

And, we have had complaints about misrepresentations of the make or model and/or year of a model, as well as charges that the purchaser has been given a counterfeit title, a bad title — or no title at all.

A mobile home is a "motor vehicle" under purposes of Texas law, so the State Motor Vehicle Registration Act applies to mobile home titles, as well as mechanized vehicle titles.

If you do decide to buy a mobile home, it would be a good idea to check its serial number against the number shown on the dealer's title application, because there have been cases in which a dealer unwittingly bought and then sold a mobile home which did not have a proper title. So, your double check would not only prevent possible trouble for you, but would also help the dealer.

The Texas laws which apply to mobile home sales include the Deceptive Practices Act, the Business and Commerce Code, and the Mobile Home Standards Act, which is administered by the Texas Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Under the latter law, Bureau of Labor Statistics inspectors examine mobile homes at the factory — if it is located in Texas, and on the dealers' lots.

If a unit meets the construction standards of the act, a State seal of compliance is to be displayed on the mobile home.

If the Bureau's inspectors find that a unit does not meet the standards, they will "red tag" it with a large red cardboard "Prohibited Sale Notice" which will contain a specific list of ways in which the unit construction failed to meet the standards.

My office takes the position that it is a deceptive practice to sell a home which has been "red-tagged," because that would be one form of misrepresentation. But one consumer who complained to us said she did not know her mobile home had been "red-tagged" until after it had been set up, because the red card had been hidden in a kitchen drawer.

The set up of a mobile home is one of the most important factors to be considered. Actually, "mobile home" is a misnomer. This type of modular home is not suited to frequent moves, and your mobile home is only as good as the mover who moves it. Mishandling will result in deterioration, just as it would in the case of any other prefabricated housing unit.

If you feel that a mobile home is the answer to regular or recreational housing need, exercise as much caution as you would in purchasing a traditional form of residence:

—Check with your city hall to find out about special ordinances which may apply to location or setting up a mobile home.

—Ask to see the manufacturer's statement of origin.

—Check the dealer's reputation for sales and service.

—Make sure the written warranty extends to the set up.

—Avoid any gimmick advertising of "no down payment." (Any established dealer will want at least 10 per cent down.)

And contact local lending institutions to shop for the best rates of interest and insurance.

And after all that, if you do have a complaint, contact the Texas Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, or your local district or county attorney.

Let's stop polluting our environment! Work for clean water, pure air, and a beautiful countryside. Support your local soil and water conservation district.

Bedding Plants For Instant Color

"Bedding plants can bring instant color to your summer landscape," says Everett Jeanne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Among the better annuals that are easily transplanted and provide real satisfaction are the ever-popular petunia, marigolds in all sizes, the coleus with its colorful foliage and the sun-loving celosia.

The Texas A&M University specialist also suggests the dwarf dahlia and dwarf phlox, the shade-loving impatiens, the fibrous-rooted begonia and the colorful ageratum. One of the finest for hot, unprotected areas is the Madagascar periwinkle which seems to be at its best during the July and August heat, points out Jeanne.

"These plants may be set out in June or anytime through the summer, allowing you to catch up on the planting you should have done this spring, or better yet, to augment your earlier planting."

Select plants that are short, stocky, and compact with a good green foliage color. Flower buds should show color if you want to plant for immediate effect.

"Plant them close together for immediate effect, but allow elbow room if you want them to last for a while," advises the horticulturist. "Unless you need flowers the same day, select plants that are just coming into flower rather than those in full bloom."

Since large bedding plants are generally expensive, try to make the greatest impact with the fewest plants, suggests Jeanne. Saturate a few strategic garden locations with color. Use plants in containers on the patio or balcony, or concentrate them near entry ways or along the inside face of a curved walkway. Planter boxes under a window with a garden view are always effective when planted to annuals.

Knowing Fashion Notions Helpful

Notions counter visits should happen right after fabric purchases.

"This might save the homemaker another trip to the fabric store," Marilyn Brown, consumer education - clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, said. "Some notions should be purchased each time a fabric is purchased to insure a proper match and appropriateness to the particular garment and its style.

Buttons, threads, zippers, bindings, trim and tapes are, examples."

Consumers should use the back of the pattern envelope to guide selections, she suggested.

"Generally it's a good idea to keep on hand a supply of the more standard notions, such as pins, needles, books and eyes to save frustration and sewing interruptions.

"Other notions are so specialized they're only purchased for specific garments, such as trouser hooks and eyes, weights for tailored - jacket hems or lace seam binding.

"Tapes, laces and bindings in matching colors will give the inside of the garment a custom-made look, not to mention perfectly finished edges.

Student Part-Time Jobs, Social Security

With the end of another school year many students are already making plans for the summer. Some will find part-time jobs; others will just enjoy some leisure time after many months of studies. This is a reminder to those full-time students over 18 who are receiving social security checks.

Your checks can continue during the summer, but only if you intend to return to school in the fall. The Social Security law allows payment for as many as four months of non-attendance, provided you were a full-time student for the month just before and after your vacation period. However, you must notify your social security office if you decide not to return to school. By doing this, you will receive any checks to which you are not entitled and prevent a financially embarrassing situation. Such over-payments, if they occur, must be repaid either by a cash refund or by withholding some checks if and when you do return to school.

So play it safe and keep the record straight. If, during the summer you decide not to return to school, notify your social security office right away.

In another case, the High Court upheld lower court judgments of $197,500 in damages against Mobil Pipeline Company on behalf of the family of a Mobil Oil Company employee who died in a Beaumont explosion. The U. S. Supreme Court in Washington, meanwhile, upheld a Texas law requiring immunization of school children against several diseases. The top court ruled 7-2 that states cannot indirectly tax liquor sales on U. S. military bases. AG OPINIONS - County commissioners can spend county funds to provide for parking and a service building for county-owned vehicles and parking for the public having business in the courthouse, Atty. Gen. John Hill held. In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: In an election contest, on no tice of appeal, district clerks should prepare a transcript and forward it to the court of civil appeals clerk before delivering it to attorneys for the appellant. The Board of Chiropractic Examiners can adopt rules limiting the size newspaper advertisements by chiropractors. County clerks are not authorized to set filing fees for discovery proceedings if an action is still pending on the docket at the time the proceedings are instituted. Texas Employment Commission said the jobless rate has remained the same for three straight months - the first time that has happened. The 1972 rate for the same time of year was 3.3 per cent. About 139,500 Texans were job hunting in mid-April. Lubbock and Austin had the lowest rates of employment - 1.7 per cent and 1.8 per cent.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State Capitol

By BELL BOYKIN Texas Press Association While the 1973 Legislature managed to avoid a tax bill, outlook for 1975 is "bleak," with new revenue needs ranging up to $700 million, according to Texas Research League. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby earlier came up with a similar gloomy estimate of a $533 million tax boost during the next regular legislative session, but Gov. Briscoe declined to agree.

According to Texas Research League, state spending from key funds is expected to increase by $550 million in 1976-77, and the increase could run as high as $550 million to $1 billion. Revenues, meanwhile, are due to rise $550 million to $625 million over the present biennium. However, TRL cautions these factors must also be considered: Federal revenue sharing funds (which accounted for $316 million of 1974-75 income) will drop by at least $100 million, Texas received a three-year allocation to spend in a two-year period for the current budget. An estimated $156 million surplus at the beginning of the next biennium will decrease from $75 million to $100 million depending on bills signed by Governor Briscoe. "With the highest projected spending increase ($1,050 billion), the 1975 Legislature apparently would find itself faced with the need to find $600-$700 million in additional biennial revenues," said a new TRL report. "Even (an $850 million spending hike), means projecting a biennial revenue need of $500-$500 million." If the next legislature decides to overhaul school finance formulas, a biennial cost increase of perhaps another $300 million could be anticipated, TRL concluded. Briscoe, at the national governors conference in Nevada, refused to be pessimistic and promised budgeting innovations and other economy moves which he feels can check a tax boost. DIM VIEW OF CONSTITUTION CHANGE - County officials are getting together to fight any constitutional change which would drastically alter county government, according to Judge Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission. Following hearings in Corpus Christi, Calvert said he sees "an incipient opposition to any suggested changes in county government." He cited three letters from county officials expressing a dim view toward tampering with their jobs. Calvert said the Commission is committed to no course on the subject. The 37-member body is concluding its hearings over the state and will make recommendations to the legislature next November. Lawmakers will sit as a constitutional convention next year. Calvert urged legislators to attend the hearings in eight cities this month. Committees will begin drafts on conclusion of the public discussions. The remainder of the constitutional hearings are set as follows: Friday, June 15, Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur; Thursday, June 21, Abilene; Friday, June 22, Wichita Falls; Thursday, June 28, Waco; and Friday, June 29, Austin. COURTS SPEAK - Unsafe conditions in public housing units are grounds for suits where tenants are injured, the State Supreme Court held in a case growing out of a death due to a defective heater.

Accent On Health BEE STINGS The buzzing of bees is just as much a part of the active summer scene as picnicking, swimming, hiking, golfing and gardening. But this pleasant sound is also a warning of the possibility of painful bee stings. Venom from honeybees, bumblebees, wasps, yellow jackets and hornets is - drop for drop - just as potent for certain susceptible persons as deadly rattlesnake venom. Some health authorities believe that stings by these insects kill more people in the United States than the feared rattler. One prominent specialist suggests that some of the sudden deaths attributed to heart failure, or heat prostration, are in reality due to insect stings to susceptible individuals. Many of the bee stings could be avoided with proper precautions. But most people do not seem able to cope with bees and other stinging insects. There are 822,000 nonfatal poisonings a year in the nation which result in one or more days of restricted activity or require medical attention, according to estimates of the National Center for Health Statistics. Approximately one-half of the total are the result of a very common occurrence - bee stings - which happen to be classified as poisonous. Bees and other stinging insects usually do not attack humans. But they are attracted by vigorous activity, such as a group of playful children at the beach. So, if a bee approaches, don't aggravate it into action by trying to swat him; keep calm and walk away slowly. Perfumes, suntan lotion, hair spray and other cosmetics, bright colors and flower prints attract them. Use an insect repellent to temporarily keep stinging insects at a distance. Persons who disturb nests of stinging insects by accident, or on purpose, may have to run for it. If the man-of-the-house decides to paint his home, spruce up his garden, or trim hedges and shrubs, he should look for hidden nests. The unwary painter, especially if he is on a ladder, may be badly stung by angry wasps or bees. If there are nests, dislodge them with a long pole, making sure your fast escape is possible. Insecticide will kill the insects you knock down. And, the thoughtful parent won't let children go barefoot until he examines the yard for possible below-the-ground nests of yellow jackets. If nests are found, pour kerosene into the hole in the early evening, when the insects have all returned. If someone gets stung by a honeybee, use a needle, fingernail or knife blade to scrape the stinger out as soon as possible. Avoid pulling it out with your finger; this squeezes more venom into the body. Honeybees can sting only once. Bumblebees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets can sting repeatedly. Ordinarily, the only effects of a sting are temporary inflammation, pain and itching. Ice packs or a cold cloth will ease the pain. Cold cream, baking soda or a compress moistened with ammonia spirits, will relieve the itching. Persons who suffer multiple stings or who are allergic to insect stings may develop serious reactions. They require medical attention at once. Some persons become sensitive to insect stings if they have been stung one or more times in the past. Such persons should see a physician about desensitization. Treatment should begin in the fall or winter for protection the following spring or summer. Physicians can also prescribe an emergency kit for the sensitive person to carry in case of an immediate, generalized reaction to an insect sting. Deaths from insect stings are uncommon; the rate is less than one death per one million population per year. Even so, bees, wasps, hornets and other members of the Hymenoptera group of insects caused 229 deaths in the United States over a period of ten years. Bees alone accounted for 124 of the 460 deaths from the stings and bites of venomous animals and insects. The 10-year study also showed that nearly two-thirds of the victims were males, probably because of the greater exposure of men through outdoor occupational and recreation activities. Nearly 90 percent of the deaths involved persons 30 years of age or older. Most of the victims were 40 to 60 years old.

Veteran News Q-I want to start college in the fall, but I have limited funds and I'm told it takes two or three months after I start to get my GI allowance. Does VA have a loan fund to help me? A-Under recent legislation passed by Congress, VA can advance (effective August 1973) as much as two months allowance to veterans who apply to VA prior to registration at school. A check for the first and second months of school can be waiting for him when he registers for classes. Q-I am a widow who received dependence and indemnity compensation payments for a short time based on the death of my first husband who was a veteran. After his death, I remarried, and now my second husband has died. May I claim benefits on my first husband's service again? A-Yes, upon submission of application and proof of death of your second husband, VA benefits will be restored. Q-Please clear up something for me. Is it true that 2.3 million servicemen have served in Vietnam? A-On June 30, 1972, approximately 2.3 million veterans had served in Southeast Asia. This includes not only Vietnam, but Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, etc. Q-Someone told me that I can apply for a home guarantee loan under the GI Bill even though I served during World War II. Is this true? A-Expiration dates on GI loan eligibility were removed in 1970. Also, the eligibility of World War II and Korean veterans was restored where their entitlement had expired. Eligibility for GI loans now runs until you have used it. You may obtain the necessary information and forms from your nearest VA office. Q-I've been denied a disability claim by my VA regional office. Do I have any further recourse? A-You may appeal any local decision to the Board of Veterans Appeal in Washington, D. C. You have the privilege of appearing in person, with any witness of your choice, or you may request one of the major veterans service organizations to represent you before the board, at no cost to you. One bottle of tea from the Boston Tea Party is still in the Massachusetts Historical Society Rooms.

Many of today's children are growing up in cities — with little opportunity to explore the wonders of nature. That's why many schools have asked the Soil Conservation Service for help in establishing nature-study areas on the school grounds. These "outdoor classrooms" provide a place where children can explore the relationship of soil, water, air, and growing things. If your child's school needs an "outdoor classroom," contact your Soil Conservation Service office.

Clarendon College Ex-Students and teachers gathered the past Saturday and Sunday for their annual Reunion. Seventy-five registered for the banquet and 41 for the luncheon Sunday.

Many beautiful paintings were exhibited in the Cafeteria where registration was held Saturday morning, a tea in the afternoon for the honor classes of 1923 and 1948, and the banquet Saturday evening.

the trimmings was served at the banquet. James Stavenhagen, president of the association, presided.

Speaker for the evening was Bill Sarpalius, formerly of Boys Ranch and an ex-student of Clarendon College as well as past State President of FFA. He urged all to "Dream dreams and make them come true." He called attention to the opportunities of today, the need to respect our flag, the question of crime and why. With all we have in this country of ours—the churches, freedoms, etc we take too much for granted and often fail to appreciate what we have.

Awards were presented to the person traveling the farthest distance, and to the oldest member of the oldest class represented. The distance award was presented to Mrs. Faye Scoggins Bigelow of Phoenix, Arizona. The class of 1919 was the oldest class represented. F. E. Carpenter of Phoenix, Arizona, Dewey Young of Seagoville, Texas, and Rev. W. B. Swim of Plainview were of this group. Rev. Swim was presented the award as he was the oldest of the three.

Winners of the Saturday morning Golf Tournament were announced. Glenn Wallace took the honors followed by Owen Johnson and James Stavenhagen.

Special tribute was paid the late Clyde I. Price who was instrumental in the organization of the College Ex-Students Association and Ernest Kent was to have presented Mrs. Price a plaque; however the plaque had not been received and will be given her at a later time.

During the business session, discussion was held as to how to get more out for 1974. The following new officers were elected: Don Lyles, President; Ernest Kent, Vice-President; Claudine Todd, Secretary-Treasurer; Dessa Day, Assistant Secretary, Mrs. H. T. Burton, Parliamentarian.

Directors elected were Edna Smith, McHenry Lane, Annie Mae Lumpkin, and Ruth Grissom. Also elected to serve on the President's Cabinet were R. E. Drennan, Julia Jenkins, Bill Sarpalius, Edgar Mae Mongole, and Norma Selvidge.

It was decided that the 1974 reunion would be held during the month of April with the officers and directors making the decision as to date. Honor classes for 1974 will be those of 1924 and 1949.

Sunday ex-students attended the church of their choice and after a luncheon at Lions Club Hall adjourned to meet next year.

Accent On Health

EMERGENCY CARE

Emergency care received before a wreck victim reaches a hospital could make the difference in a patient arriving alive or dead, says the Texas State Department of Health.

Since 1968 the Health Department has worked to raise the odds on victims arriving alive through intensive emergency care training programs for ambulance attendants.

Although other factors must be considered, emergency training is part of the reason why there has been a decline in traffic deaths in rural areas as compared to the total percentage of traffic deaths across the state.

Two programs are carried out by the Civil Defense and Traffic Safety Division. One is an 18 hour course called an Emergency Care Attendant School, while the other is a comprehensive Emergency Medical Technician School with a minimum of 72 hours of instruction.

So far this year 11 ECA Schools have been held in Texas. Since the first school was conducted in San Angelo in 1968, the 18-hour program has been presented to 12,652 students with 8,784 successfully completing the courses. Many of those trained came from rural communities which had been without trained emergency medical care personnel. The training was presented close enough to their homes so they could attend one of the 135 courses offered in that span since 1968.

The longer Emergency Medical Technician School was conducted the first time in 1970 at Austin. Thirty-one others have been concluded since then with 889 graduates from an enrollment of 1,062 persons.

EMT Schools are underway now in Galveston, Beaumont, Austin, Dallas, Webster, Victoria, Wharton, Nacogdoches, Baytown, Bryan, Brownwood and San Angelo. After their completion in June, three others are scheduled for El Paso, Alice and Texarkana.

Students attending the Emergency Care Attendant School receive instruction in resuscitation, cardiac massage, splinting of fractures, handling of emotionally disturbed patients and emergency childbirth. Many of the students attending the course do so out of dedication to their community and at their own expense. Realizing this, the State Health Department provides training in the students' own or neighboring community.

With the cooperation of local medical societies, the State Health Department conducts the schools free of charge to all students.

In the major metropolitan areas of Texas, great strides are being made in providing trained personnel and equipment to meet the most critical life-saving situations. Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio have seen the need for more detailed and lengthy training of ambulance personnel.

The methods and curriculum used in the ECA School are expanded in the Emergency Medical Technician School, again with the aid of local medical societies.

Texas was one of the first states to provide such training for ambulance personnel with the Austin course which began in May, 1970.

Safety Seminar In Amarillo June 21-22

The Texas Safety Association is sponsoring a two-day safety seminar beginning at 9:00 a.m. June 21-22 in the Plaza I Conference Room, 7th Floor, Amarillo National Bank, Amarillo.

The "Key Man Development Course" is a management training seminar with special emphasis on accident prevention, loss control and safety requirements.

The 12 hour course is taught by a qualified professional safety engineer and is designed to train both newly appointed supervisors and foremen, as well as experienced personnel who need re-training to improve their safety awareness.

Fire Extinguisher Important Equipment

Man's best friend may be his dog on land, but on the water his best friend could be a fire extinguisher.

Officials for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department remind boaters that fire extinguishers are required by law on many outboard motor boats and all inboards. Your boat is required to have a fire extinguisher on board if it has: Closed compartments under the thwarts and seats wherein portable fuel tanks may be stored. Double bottoms not sealed to the hull or which are not completely filled with flotation material. Closed living spaces. Closed storage compartments in which combustible or flammable materials are stored. Permanently installed fuel tanks. Some boat owners consider the extinguisher a superfluous piece of equipment until their boat, worth several thousand dollars, catches fire. Fires on boats are especially terrifying since there is usually no place to run. You can either fight the fire, or swim for your life. If you have no fire extinguisher on board, your alternatives are cut in half, say department officials.

Splashing water on boat fires won't help since they usually involve spilled gasoline. Water merely spreads the flames.

Four types of extinguishers are available for the boater — foam, carbon dioxide (CO₂), freon and dry chemical.

Boat owners should make sure the fire extinguisher they purchase has the B-1 or B-11 classification required by the coast guard. This classification will be stamped on the fire extinguisher.

Boat owners should make frequent checks to be sure their extinguishers are in their proper storage brackets and undamaged. Cracked or broken hose should be replaced, and nozzles should be kept free of obstructions.

Locking pins and sealing wires should be checked to assure that the extinguisher has not been used since last recharged.

Extinguishers should never be tried merely to see if they are in proper operating condition because in many cases the valves will not properly reset, resulting in a gradual discharge.

Mrs. Benny Osburn spent a few days this week in Memphis with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cross.
