New Officers Elected For Hospital Board

In the midst of a very long unfruitful session Tuesday afternoon and after several attempts, new board members were seated on the Hospital Board and new officers elected. R. D. Cagle left the meeting after about three hours and it fell his lot to be elected vice-president; J. S. Hinds was elected, secretary, and Bright Newhouse agreed to accept the president's spot again until the next meeting at which time he stated that he would resign if someone else was not elected. Jeff Walker stated that he was in no position to accept any of the responsible positions as he had agreed to resign from the board when he assumed his new responsibilities as Superintendent of Schools in June or July.

Other business discussed at the meeting which lasted around 3½ hours, is related in the article regarding the motion to reinstate the Hospital Suit Judgment on page 1.

Two Local Scouts Attend Sec. Meeting

Tim Saye and Pat Robertson, both of Clarendon, were among many area Scouts who attended the Section SC-4-A Order of the Arrow Conclave which was held April 13, 14, and 15 on the campus of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, Texas.

The featured guests of the Conclave included such persons as Colonel C. A. Edson, the co-founder of the Order of the Arrow, who was a very entertaining speaker. The trip proved to be an enjoyable one despite the twister which struck Plainview early Sunday morning. While at the Conclave, the group was given the opportunity to further their knowledge of Indian lore, Indian dancing, costumeing, and some of the mechanics which take place within a lodge system.

The community of Clarendon is invited to participate with the First Baptist Church in this week's activities each evening, May 6-13, at 7:30 p.m.

Motion To Reinstate Hospital Suit Judgement Filed Friday, April 13

Evangelist Services At First Baptist Church April 6-13

The First Baptist Church of Clarendon has set aside the week of May 6-13 for its week of Evangelistic emphasis. Each evening of this series of meetings, the Pastor of the Church, James O. Brandon will be showing film on his experiences in Brazil as a missionary for the Southern Baptist Convention. This cultural part of the week will spot light many of the cultural habits and life of the people of Brazil such as: education, commerce, religion, travel, farming, ranching, towns, cities, country sides, landscape, lakes, rivers, and etc. You will be taken through an agricultural institute which is an attempt to aid the Brazilian farmer in learning how to farm better. You will see the Amazon River. You will see how women live and work, and how men make their living.

Bro. Brandon will be bringing a message each evening assisted by Terry Scoggin, the Church Music Director.

Many of you have been hearing about Brandon's experiences in Brazil. This is your opportunity to see for yourself through these film the country of Brazil and share the experiences of a missionary family who has lived there.

The community of Clarendon is invited to participate with the First Baptist Church in this week's activities each evening, May 6-13, at 7:30 p.m.

In getting down to the meat of the motion its main point is to re-instate and that the order be reformed as regards the method of payment provided for therein so as to provide for payment "not inconsistent with the provisions of Senate Bill No. 525, Chapter 699, an act of the 61st Legislature of the State of Texas;" and that should the court deem it necessary, to schedule a hearing on this motion at the earliest date. We understand the hearing date has been set for April 30 at 10 a.m. in the District Court room.

After the new hospital board members were sworn in at a meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon, the Board was presented with a similar motion to join Dr. Smith in requesting the re-instatement. After a couple of hours attempt to consolidate the board in this one direction, a motion was finally made to take the suits to court where they could be settled as they should have been in the first place. The three new members representing the majority of Hospital District voters, all voted to go ahead and go to court. Two of the appointed members voted against and President Bright Newhouse tied up the vote. So nothing was done at this time but approximately 3½ hours was consumed in the Board meeting. Even though, a majority voting power was present to push the issue over, there was never a motion made to adopt the motion and join Dr. Smith in the action. Every effort was made to swing the new members over to adopting the motion and go against the people that elected them to protect their rights. This the three did not agree to do.

Designing & Building Highways By THC
Everyone knows it takes engineers to design and build highways.
Not many know that it also takes professional sociologists; economists; biologists; archaeologists; air, water and noise pollution experts and many other skilled professionals.
How these scientific disciplines can be best employed in the public interest is the subject of an action plan now being prepared at the direction of the Texas Highway Commission.
The draft of the plan was mailed out this week (April 1) to federal, local and State government agencies; wildlife, conservation and environmental groups and others. They have been asked to review and comment on the plan.
The Texas Highway Commission long has made it a policy that all highway projects in the State be planned and developed to make positive contributions to the social, economic and environmental well-being of the public.
Simply stated, the final action plan will outline specifically how human, community and environmental factors will be considered in planning all new highway projects.
The draft plan, presented for review this week, also provides for adding more professionals in the fields dealing with social, economic and environmental factors to the permanent staff of the Department.
Consultants and staff members of other public agencies including cities, counties and councils of government would be involved in the planning process as appropriate.
Another key feature of the proposed plan provides for more public involvement during highway and transportation systems planning processes.

The process includes informal public meetings for an exchange of views and information between highway planners and members of communities which might be affected by a highway project.
Such meetings would be in addition to the more formal public hearing which precedes decisions on projects.
The draft action plan was prepared following guidelines set out by the Federal Highway Administration of the Federal Highway Act of 1970.
Initially, some 375 governmental units and agencies, environmental and conservation groups such as the Sierra Club, the National Audubon Society, the Citizens Environmental Coalition and others were asked to submit information to be considered in drafting the Action Plan.
The plan was prepared by an interdisciplinary team consisting of 25 members representing fields such as mass transportation, sociology, economics, environmental sciences, aesthetics, architecture, public participation, urban transportation systems planning, land services roads, history, water resources, archaeology, right of way and law.
In addition to specialists employed by the Highway Department, the team includes staff members of Texas A&M University, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the Governor's office, Texas Water Rights Commission, Texas Water Development Board, Texas Mass Transportation Commission, Texas Municipal League, and the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.
In addition to governmental agencies, cities, counties and private organizations receiving the draft action plan for review this week, other organizations and individuals interested have been invited to review the draft plan. All comments will be given careful, serious study and consideration.

Interested groups or individuals desiring information may view the draft plan at Highway Department district offices throughout the State or may contact the Interdisciplinary Team for Action Plan, Texas Highway Department, Austin, Texas 78701. To be considered in the final action plan, comments must be received by May 5, 1973.

Farmers Are Offered Advice On Planting

Unusual wet weather conditions have delayed much of the normal field preparation activities on many High Plains farms and may enable grain sorghum farmers to save time, money and irrigation water by not following the normal preplant irrigation practice.
According to Jim Valliant, research director of the High Plains Research Foundation, in many High Plains fields, especially in fields where weather has delayed bedding and herbicide applications, soil moisture may be sufficient to eliminate one of the most inefficient farming practices — the preplant irrigation.
"Foundation scientists have been looking for a reasonable alternative to the preplant practice, such as applying irrigation water for germination, commonly called 'watering up,'" Valliant said.
"Most cropland this year has sufficient moisture in the seed area to allow withholding of irrigation water until the crop has been planted. And if there is not enough moisture in the seed area, the small amount needed additionally is not really that much," Valliant said.
In 1971 studies, grain sorghum irrigated for germination produced 6,861 pounds of grain per acre compared to 6,853 pounds per acre produced by the preplant area. This required 10.2 inches per acre less irrigation water and netted some $11 per acre more.
In 1972, the test did not even receive an irrigation for germination, there was enough moisture in the ground at planting date. With only three summer irrigations, the sorghum crop receiving no preplant or watering up produced a yield of 5,822 pounds of grain per acre compared to 5,311 pounds per acre for sorghum on crop land receiving a preplant plus three summer irrigations.
Valliant pointed out that these yields were from severely lodged grain sorghum, which was common on the High Plains during last year's harvest season.
Offering tips for grain sorghum farmers interested in eliminating the preplant practice, Valliant said that it is not necessary but herbicide incorporation and planting should be as closely together as possible. "This allows less time for seed beds to dry out and stretches the herbicide life," he said.
Valliant said that on grain sorghum to be watered up, herbicide should be incorporated.

Irrigation for germination may not be desirable when planting behind grain sorghum unless volunteer sorghum could be controlled by deep breaking or some other practices. "However, when rotating grain sorghum with cotton, soybeans, wheat or on fallowed land, more efficient use of irrigation water should be obtained by following the watering up practice on a regular basis," he added.

NEWS FROM
Congressman
Bob Price
13th District, Texas

WEEKLY REPORT
After being "out of circulation" for the past several weeks as I have continued to recuperate from the mild coronary which landed me in the hospital, it feels great to be getting back to the office and climbing "back into the saddle."
The many hundreds of thoughtful get-well cards, letters, and messages have been strong medicine to me, and I shall always be grateful for the concern expressed by so many friends for my recovery. Although the doctor is still holding back on the reins a bit, I am looking forward to getting back to a full schedule and the business at hand before the Congress.

To the many citizens of the 13th Congressional District who contacted my office these past several weeks, I wish to acknowledge and express my appreciation to my competent staff who carried on the duties of my office during my absence. I look forward to the opportunity to be in touch with all my constituents in the months ahead and hope that each of you will always feel free to call upon my office whenever I may be of service.

RURAL WATER AND SEWER BILL
On Tuesday, April 10, the House voted to sustain the President's veto of H. R. 3298, a bill to restore the rural water and sewage grant program under the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act. I voted to override the President's veto because I feel that the water and sewer grant program has been very valuable to rural America. This program has brought the benefits of modern plumbing and conveniences to the people of small towns and rural areas, benefits which are essential if rural America is to grow and attract new industry, jobs, and people for the future. I believe this program represents an investment instead of an expenditure and would in the long run wind up costing Government and the taxpayers less by easing the pressures and skyrocketing costs associated with urban growth.

CHS Snoopy

by The Snoop

Track season is over. The District Track Meet was held in Lubbock last week end and although the boys set some good times, no one qualified for State. We've had a great track team this year and we are proud of them. This is the last of the sports for this year at CHS and as we look back we have a record we will always be proud of.

Since school is out this week, several of the kids are out of town for a little vacation, but for those of us who are spending our free time here at home, we will try to keep things going.

Karen E. and Barbara S. spent this week end in Amarillo. From what we hear the girls had a very good time.

If you haven't heard the story about the buckle and the water bed, get Russell K. to tell you about it.

Pat R. and Tim S. spent the week end in Plainview at the Scout Conclave. They had a lot of fun and really enjoyed themselves until Saturday night when they awoke to the sirens and flashing lights just before the tornado struck. It was quite a night but all the boys made it to safety. This is an experience they won't soon forget.

A bunch of the kids went to Amarillo Saturday night to see "The Carpenters." Most of them without any trouble. One car didn't make it thru the storm at Washburn without several dents and a cracked windshield but this didn't stop Carrie N., Katrina M., Wanda T., and Debbie R. They stopped to cry and figure out what to do but when they saw the tornado, they decided very quickly to travel on, and this they did.

Rodney H., what was your problem Saturday night? You sure had a lonesome look on your face.

Kim N., was entertaining a friend from out of town Saturday night. How did you like the show, Kim??

Several of the senior boys took a little trip out of town Saturday night!!!

James E. and Kristie L. are making big plans for this summer. Is this right, kids?

If anyone knows where you can find a bicycle built for two, contact Danny H. He is having a problem with his car.

Carolyn Jo S. has a happy look these days. Is it something we should know about, Carolyn?

Terry S., we don't see you with the girls much lately. Have you found something better to do?

LaRonda P., what is so funny that you can't quit giggling about? Surely all that didn't happen at one time.

As was predicted last week, some of the new Senior rings have already been passed around.

Try Outs for Cheerleaders will be just a few days after school takes up after Easter and the girls are working very hard. We all look forward to this every year and wish all the girls could win. Anyway good luck, everyone:

Tommy H. received some pictures from Alaska the other day but it was WHO that was in the pictures that he was all excited about. Right, Tommy?

A Track Meet is one of the best places to meet new girls, but they sure can take your mind off of track as some of the boys found out last week end. Oh, well, this is what makes the world go around.

Mitzi C., do you always cry at sad shows?

Johnny G., you sure have been quiet. Does she live out of town?

USDA Acts On Scabies In Tex., N. M.

Quarantines for psoroptic cattle scabies were lifted Tuesday, April 3, from eight Texas counties and imposed on one New Mexico county by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The eight Texas counties released from quarantine restrictions on moving cattle were Briscoe, Childress, Cottle, Floyd, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, and Motley.

Chaves County, New Mexico was quarantined after cattle scabies mites were discovered by a federal livestock inspector when 63 animals from the Roswell area were presented for sale at Clovis, New Mexico.

The action was taken by USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) in its continuing battle against the infectious cattle skin disease. Since October, 1971, APHIS and state livestock health officials have found 142 outbreaks of cattle scabies nationwide.

After 17 months of quarantine and inspection with no disclosure of scabies on the latest round of inspections, APHIS officials said the Texas counties were ready to be released from quarantine. There are still 26 Texas counties, three Oklahoma counties and eight New Mexico counties in addition to Chaves — under quarantine for cattle scabies. Other isolated outbreaks, subsequently traced to quarantined areas, have occurred in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, and Colorado.

APHIS officials explain that scabies is caused by small white mites which bite the animal. This causes irritation which leads to itching and the formation of scabs which in turn leads to further irritation. Cattle scabies does not affect meat quality, but the irritation can cause decreased meat production because the scratching interferes with feeding.

New Mexico counties now under quarantine are Chaves, Curry, DeBaca, Guadalupe, Harding, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Torrance and Quay.

Texas counties now under quarantine are Armstrong, Bailey, Carson, Castro, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hale, Hemphill, Hansford, Hartley, Hutchinson, Lamb, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parker, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, and Wheeler.

Oklahoma counties are Beaver, Cimarron and Texas.

Mrs. Don Barker and children were dinner guests Sunday night in the home of her mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Quattlebaum.

Highway Patrol Investigates Donley County Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated three accidents on rural highways in Donley County during the month of March, according to Sergeant J. R. Smith, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and eight persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first three months of 1973 shows a total of 13 accidents resulting in no persons killed and nine persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region No. 5 for March, 1973 shows a total of 468 accidents, resulting in 19 persons killed and 263 persons injured as compared to March, 1972 with 420 accidents, resulting in 23 persons killed and 218 persons injured. This was 48 more accidents, 4 less fatalities and 45 more injured in 1973, at the same period of time.

Texas Schools Lunch Program Use Chicken

By the end of the school year, Texas will have received more than 5.8 million pounds of chicken for schools in the National School Lunch Program.

This is Texas' share of frozen cut-up chicken bought by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to help schools meet protein requirements of lunches served under the program. This amounts to around 9.9 average servings for each Texas child who eats lunch at a participating school.

Deliveries of the chicken began on September 1 of last year and will continue through May.

The National School Lunch Program is administered in Texas by the Texas Education Agency in cooperation with U.S.D.A.'s Food and Nutrition Service. Chicken and other foods donated by the federal government are distributed to schools through the State Department of Public Welfare.

New Brush Control Approach Announced

A new approach to controlling mesquite regrowth has proven successful in research conducted by Harold Wiedemann, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock.

The method, called "low-energy grubbing" is so named because a low-energy, highly maneuverable tractor equipped with a specially designed blade is used to cut tree roots below the soil's surface.

"Reinfestation of pastures by mesquite seedlings and other species is a problem following all brush treatments," says Wiedemann, who performed the grubbing research in 1971 and 1972 as a part of a continuing program in brush control. "A low-cost treatment has been needed to maintain control of brush so that benefits of initial brush control treatment would not be lost."

"We wanted to utilize the power grubbing method because it is highly efficient," Wiedemann declares, "since it positively cuts the tree's tap root below the bud zone and prevents sprouting. The large 100-horsepower crawler tractors normally used have not been practical for small tree grubbing because of their high cost of operation."

The agricultural engineer explains that instead, a John Deere 450-B with about 45 drawbar horsepower was adapted for the small brush jobs by attaching a sharp u-shaped blade to the front c-frame for cutting the roots six to twelve inches below the soil's surface.

"This shift-on-the-go tractor averaged 11.1 acres per hour while grubbing 35 of the 46 trees per acre on a 1,400-acre site at the Pitchfork Ranch near Guthrie," Wiedemann reports. "The mesquite trees, which ranged from one to six feet tall, were reinfestations which followed hand grubbing in the 1940's and oiling in the 1950's. Of the 11 trees per acre missed, most were less than 18 inches tall and not easily seen by the operator."

Wiedemann says that averages of 14 and 7.7 acres per hour were recorded for two different operators.

"This exemplifies the importance of a good operator," he explains. "At a tractor contract cost of $12.50 per hour, the brush control practice averaged $1.13 per acre. Utilizing the more efficient operator the control would have cost only 89 cents per acre."

During the course of the experiment a hydraulic attachment was designed to increase the capacity of the unit. The hydraulic grubber's blade can be adjusted for changes in soil type and moisture condition, and large stumps four to six inches in diameter can be split by activation of the hydraulic cylinders while the blade is engaged in the stump.

"The average mesquite root diameter for the research site at point of cut was 2.7 inches with a range from one to six inches," Wiedemann points out. "The hydraulic grubber should be advantageous in diameters over three inches, but further testing will be necessary."

Wiedemann says this type of maintenance grubbing could be used effectively and economically to control light reinfestation by mesquite two to five feet tall following root plowing or tree grubbing, or following aerial spraying and chaining on shallow hill sites where the original mesquite stumps were fairly small.

The Experiment Station researcher points out that this maintenance grubbing also can be used to control cedar reinfestation following double chaining, to control algerita, lote and cats claw regrowth following aerial spraying and chaining or root plowing in the Edwards Plateau, and to control twisted acacia regrowth following root plowing in the South Texas Plains.

In addition, he says the versatile, low-energy crawler tractor would lend itself to ranch ownership because of its capabilities in other types of work, such as in building and repairing ranch roads, and in repairing stock tanks.

This on-going research is supported by individual ranchers and the Brush Control and Range Improvements Association of Abilene.

AG Research Fights Greenbug Menace

Greenbug infestations in 1972 have caused some grain sorghum growers in the Southwest to lose their entire crop, USDA officials report.

On the other hand, sorghum growers in the southern plains were more fortunate because winds and thunder showers knocked greenbugs off the plants in July, holding crop damage to a minimum.

Scientists warn, however, that even those growers not hurt by greenbug infestation this year may not be so lucky the next time. Sorghum growers want and need greenbug tolerant varieties, they emphasize.

Research conducted by Northrup King scientists has resulted in two hybrid sorghums which are greenbug tolerant and can more nearly assure growers of harvesting a crop. "Even when we loaded the plants with greenbugs, NK 233 and NK 266 still produced a crop," reports Paul Menge, sorghum project leader.

According to entomologist, Dr. Glenn Moore, "Biological control of insects and disease does not upset the balance of nature. This trend toward biological control is also consistent with the growing concern about our environment and ecology."

He went on to say that while there has been success with insecticide control of sorghum greenbugs, many growers and farm scientists don't believe chemical control is the real solution. Growers and entomologists know that insecticides not only add to the cost of raising a crop, but these chemicals can kill beneficial insects. Excessive use of farm chemicals can arouse environmentalists bringing harsh laws restricting or eliminating chemical control.

The company's research team developed a biological solution to the problem - greenbug tolerant sorghum varieties NK 233 and NK 266. Both hybrids are high yielding sorghums and represent a natural economic method of insect tolerance - a method that presents no danger to the environment. In addition, NK 233 and NK 266 are resistant to downy mildew, smut, anthracnose and M.D.M.V.

Josie Peabody of Imperial, Texas and Hulda Wilson of Memphis visited Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. George Bulman.

Raisins make up half of all dried fruits eaten by U. S. consumers - followed by prunes, dates and figs, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

FARM MACHINERY OPTIONS
Texas farmers have several alternatives for obtaining farm machinery, according to a finance specialist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Among these are custom hiring, leasing (operating lease or financial lease), and purchasing (direct purchase or financing).

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of Texas A&M University has received grants totaling $320,000 for three special cotton research projects concerning insect and disease control and cotton systems analysis. The grants came from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Cooperative State Research Service.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State Capitol
By BILL BOYKIN
Texas Press Association

Car and home owners had encouraging promises of lower insurance rates from high-level sources last week.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe threw his weight behind a modified form of competitive auto insurance rating, subject of an unsuccessful special legislative session last year.

The State Board of Insurance issued new rules and regulations which it pledged would bring lower rates for fire, home makers and extended coverage policies.

Basically, what both plans would do is permit companies to deviate from the standard rates issued annually by the Board.

A bill introduced in the House and Senate undertook to permit the auto deviations — either below or above the standard rate on showing that companies could make the change without endangering their solvency.

Companies would apply to the Board for deviated rates, and reductions (or increases) would be permitted if they meet tests of fairness to customers and financial stability for the companies.

While Briscoe expressed confidence the bill, if enacted, would mean substantial rate cuts, some remained skeptical that the so-called high-risk driver wouldn't pay more under it.

Rate deviations on property insurance are permissible under state law and can be implemented by the Board's regulations.

Meanwhile, the House concurred in Senate amendments and sent to Briscoe HB 143 which would authorize $2,500 medical payment and loss-of-income coverage for auto passengers. The coverage would be included in all liability policies unless specifically rejected. Whether the new law would help lower or raise rates was a subject of debate.

MEETINGS LAW SIGNED — Governor Briscoe signed into law legislation (HB 3) to strengthen open meetings and predicted it will bring more "responsiveness and openness" to government. Stiffer fines and a jail term are provided for violators.

The newsman's shield bill to protect confidential sources of information went to conference committee, as expected, and an attorney general's opinion concluded parts of the Senate revision are unconstitutional.

A Senate committee version of a new lobby control act was rapped by House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. as a "step backward" and by "Common Cause," the people's lobby, as "a joke." Changes were predicted after critics said the Senate panel bill is weaker than the 1957 act.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed another of Daniel's so-called reform bills prohibiting "legislative bribery" in exchange for support of a candidate for speaker.

COURTS SPEAK — A Tyler youth fined after being arrested in a nude swimming incident won a reversal in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The same Court reversed the conviction of a Dallas underground newspaper editor on charges of interfering with a policeman during a park disturbance.

The Supreme Court held a Silvertown man is entitled to $3,000 damages for tornado loss of household goods though the insurance policy on the house he resided in was in the name of his employer.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals directed Temple Independent School District to reinstate a dismissed school teacher as ordered earlier by Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar.

The Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for a Dallas housewife who shot her husband to death because a confession should not have been admitted as evidence.

A Houston district court ordered ARMCO Steel Corporation's Houston Works to pay $125,000 in civil penalties for water pollution, and ordered treatment facility modifications.

APPOINTMENTS — Mrs. Ann Chappell of Fort Worth was named to the new Constitutional Revision Commission which held a two-day meeting here last week.

Governor Briscoe announced these recent appointments:

O. T. Moore Jr. of Lockhart, Joseph Patrick Kelly of Victoria and John C. Taylor of Seguin (reappointments) to the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority board of directors.

Frank Douthitt, Henrietta, to the Midwestern University board of directors. Mrs. Henry (Nancy) Ewald of Seguin as a member of the Commission on Services to Children and Youth.

Briscoe also named a 28-member drug abuse advisory council to assist in drug abuse prevention activities, including development of a state drug abuse plan.

Edgar Allen Poe is generally regarded as the originator of the modern detective story.

PLAN LANDSCAPE

In planning the landscape around your home, list family needs and study the site, advises a specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Consider the driveway and turnaround space, off-street parking, play space for children, an outdoor living area, a vegetable garden, privacy and windbreaks. Use landscape plants that grow naturally near or on the site and use building materials that blend well in the natural environment.

The Resurrection And New Life

By Rev. Weldon Rives

1 PETER 1:3 . . . Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! By His great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

I once read of two friends discussing the meaning of life during a coffee break. One was a college professor whose son had just committed suicide. He said to his friend, "If you quit kidding yourself, you have to admit that there is no reason in living." Not desiring to get into an argument with the embittered professor, and yet knowing the need to say something positive, the friend replied: "The great use of life is to spend it for something that outlasts it."

You know, if Jesus had simply been human, He would have no doubt given way to the philosophy of the professor. But, on the Cross He too sounded something positive with His life. And, therefore, Peter was one among many who were able to sound a prayer of praise to God (1 Peter 1:3). He lifts up for us two prominent ideas in his prayer: 1) a doxology for the risen Christ and 2) the offer of new life through faith in Him.

The theme of New Birth (John

3: 1-7) is basic to the New Testament message and for all who are united in the living Lord. Jesus was speaking to a transformation of the ordinary when He insisted that all who would share in the Resurrection must experience the New Birth, e.g., a heavenly birth — a birth from above. The New Man in Christ is brought into being by the purifying re-creative work of God's own action in his life whereby he responds positively to God's love.

Being born anew to a living hope (1 Peter 1:3a) is possible only because of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead (1 Peter 1:3b). Too often we observe the Resurrection as only a seasonable truth. When Easter has passed, we forget it. Yet the members of the early church knew Christ had overcome death and if your faith contains this certainty also, then you can continue through the New Birth into the New Life against all odds. Our hope and trust in the Resurrection affirms our imperishable inheritance for those committed to Christ and His way. We as Christians live in the world here and now but we have been granted a foreknowledge of what is to come as given through the Holy Spirit (Read: II Corinthians 1:22; 5:5; Ephesians 1:14).

Ralph Waldo Emerson once wrote: "The lesson of life is to believe what the years and centuries say against the hours." Now, apply his words to the Cross of Christ. Thus, the hours of Good Friday appear deadly dark and there seems to be no hope in them; only sadness, sorrow, pain, agony, and death. But the years and centuries that have followed have been bright with life and faith. It was the Resurrection that made the difference, for by it we were born anew to a living hope (1 Peter 1:3).

CHILDS TRAINS AT KESSLER AFB, MISS.

Airman Gary A. Childs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Childs of Clarendon, Texas, has been assigned to Kessler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Key 73 Working In Clarendon

Your church will begin working together with all the churches in Clarendon to say together as Christians, "We love the Lord Jesus Christ, and because we do, we love you."

Key 73 is designed to involve all churches of all denominations in an all out effort to call our continent to a personal, vital, and dynamic faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. It begins with the individual Christian; calls each child of God to confession and repentance of sin, to prayer and Bible study, and to church attendance and personal concern for others.

The churches of Clarendon are being encouraged in this direction by the Ministerial Alliance. We want to say together: "God loves the world and especially you." The denominations in our country have pledged their support to this common mission.

Key 73 is divided into six phases: Calling our continent to repentance and prayer; calling our continent to the Word of God; calling our continent to new life; calling our continent to proclamation of the Word of God; and calling our continent to commitment to Christ.

This tremendous evangelistic effort is being projected by the Ministerial Alliance of our city. It was readily recognized by the leaders of Key 73 that this effort could not succeed unless people in the pews become deeply committed to its goals. More than 99 percent of the world's Christians are in this category—the man in the pew. No massive movement of personal religion can be envisioned without the involvement and cooperation of this person in the pew. Victor Nelson of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association states that the people in the pew haven't given up on God — "they are just sick of the Mickey Mouse stuff that goes on in the name of Christianity."

Key 73 carries the vision of every family in North America being visited by someone who comes with loving concern to share his faith in Christ. This calls for person-to-person sharing with 165 million people.

The "key" to Key 73 is the man in the pew, working at the congregational and community level. The work of living the Christian religion must be done where this man is. The overwhelming need is not for greatly talented people (although the Lord can use any talent we possess), but for greatly committed people.

Much of the phenomenal growth of the early church can be traced to the New Testament concept of "every Christian-a-witness. It was these Christians whose names are largely unknown to us who turned an upside-down world right-side-up. It can happen today if every Christian will live his Christianity where he is.

Texans To Save $1.13 Million On Auto Ins.

Texans have already earned savings of approximately $1.13 million in auto insurance premiums by taking the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Courses now offered in 147 Texas cities.

To date more than 80,000 persons have graduated from the safe driving course and qualified for a 3-year 10 percent reduction on private passenger automobile liability, collision and medical payments insurance premiums.

The Texas State Board of Insurance reports that the average statewide cost of these coverages is approximately $142 a year. At that rate, each driver who completes the Defensive Driving Course could save $14.20 annually.

Edwin B. Loke, Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, which coordinates the courses, said that 300,000 drivers are expected to complete the courses in 1973, resulting in insurance savings of about $4.5 million a year.

More significant, Mr. Loke said, are the lives that can be saved as more drivers learn to drive defensively. The DDC course concentrates on preventing two-car collisions, which result in thousands of deaths each year.

DDC, intended to make good drivers, utilizes the techniques of skilled professional drivers to help passenger car drivers recognize and react to road hazards.

Classes are offered through 433 local organizations, including public schools, safety councils, civic clubs, companies, driving schools and municipalities. Persons seeking specific information on Defensive Driving Courses in their vicinity should contact their local high school or college or the Texas Safety Association, (512) 444-6551, P. O. Box 3138, Austin, Texas 78764.

Clarendon College is a designated Training Agency with two instructors. Any time 15 or more students request the instruction a class will be taught.

Cattle Quarantine Lifted In 7 Counties

The United States Department of Agriculture released 7 more counties from cattle scabies quarantine according to Congressman Bob Price. The quarantine for psoroptic cattle scabies was lifted from Armstrong, Collingsworth, Donley, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Roberts and Wheeler Counties. The action was taken by the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and State livestock officials have reported 143 cases of cattle scabies nationwide.

After 17 months of quarantine and inspection with no disclosure of scabies on the latest round of inspection, officials said the Texas counties were ready to be released, plus 8 additional Texas counties were released from quarantine on April 3rd.

There are still 19 Texas counties and 3 Oklahoma counties and 9 New Mexico counties under quarantine for cattle scabies. Other outbreaks have occurred in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, and Idaho.

Scabies is caused by small white mites which bite the animal. This causes skin irritation that leads to itching and the formation of scabs which in turn leads to further irritation. Cattle scabies does not affect the quality or wholesomeness of the meat but irritation can cause decreased meat production because the animal will not gain weight as rapidly.

Mrs. Roy Morgan of Tucumcari, N. M. and her daughter, Mrs. Leo Erwin of Amarillo, spent the week end with Mrs. Morgan's sister, Mrs. Nina Dale.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Helton and Frieda Sidle were in Amarillo Sunday visiting in the Helton, Jackie Phillips and Darrell Brogdon homes and with Fred Helton in the hospital.

Chester Scott of Plainview was a dinner guest Saturday night in the home of his mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Quattlebaum.

Mrs. Arthur Arnold of Silveton was a guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jim Baker, Saturday and Sunday.
