County Superintendent's race, profile of position, candidates

By DONNY L. BROWN

This is the second in a series of articles featuring Donley County political races for the upcoming May 1 Democratic primary election. This week the 'Press' profiles the three candidates running for County School Superintendent and gives an overview of the job itself.

Generally, superintendent's job is to act as a' coordinator between the two schools systems in Donley County, Hedley and Clarendon. Specifically, these duties include assisting in school problems that might arise in areas of health, truancy or transportation. Other problems arising in the schools would also attended to by the County Superintendent along with each school superintendent and the

Other duties include overseeing the investment of $20,000 which the county obtained from the sale of 17,000 acres of land in the early part of this century. This base sum of $20,000 is invested each year and the profits and interest derived from these investments during a one year period is put into the County permanent school fund each year. The remaining $20,000 is then reinvested the next year. According to incumbent County Superintendent Maurice Risley, approximately $1,200 was earned last year.

The office is also involved with the purchasing of school textbooks, approving bus routes, making school census records available to the Social Security Administra-County School Board of tion and the recording of teaching cerfificates for Donley County teachers. The Superintendent also presides over the monthly meeting of the County School Board of Trustees, composed of five members.

Money to finance this office comes from tax money collected from each Texas County rather than tax money collected only from Donley County. Money to finance the superintendent's office is taken from the money paid to school system by the state for each child they have enrolled in their schools the past year.

The amount of money taken out, however, is paid back to the individual schools by taking money from a school fund designated for main tenance and operations of all state schools. This fund is derived from tax money collected from every county in Texas. If the office did not exist, Donley County schools would not receive more school funds from the state. There would be more money left in the state-wide maintenance and operation school fund, however.

A base salary for the County School Superintendent is set by Texas laws. This base salary is figured according to three things: Amount of education the superintendent has received; the number of years he has been in office; and the population of the county. This yearly salary can be County School Board of Trustees.

As an example, base pay for a superintendent with a masters degree would be $292 per month. For each schools he would receive an additional $6 per month. In population of less than 4,000, where he worked until 1970. he would receive an officer for Texas Education Agency, most County School Superintendents receive much more than this amount. however. There were 105 County Superintendents in Texas during the 1974-75 school year out of 254

Current yearly salary for the Donley County School Superintendent is $17,592. according to the 1975-76 budget submitted a TEA spokesman said this salary was "about average" compared to other county Superintendents, to the Texas Education Agency. Other items on the budget include a $7,200 yearly salary for an office secretary; $1.080 for office and travel expenses; and $360 paid to the County Board of Trustees for attending yearly meetings. Total expense in the office was $26,232. If a new superintendent was elected, he would not automatically receive the also received his teaching present salary and his yearly certificate from Tech. Barnhill said running a movie house involves more than running a projector and selling popcorn. Booking movies is the first complication. You must decide which movie local patrons are going to come and see. Barnhill said he reads trade magazines to help make this decision. These include "Box facts about recently released movies, including how well they are doing at the box office, movie reviews and a general story outline.

After he has selected movies to book, he contacts a booking exchange, which is a subsidiary of a major movie studio. These exchanges lease the movie films to theatre owners. Barnhill said he generally uses the booking exchanges in Dallas or in Oklahoma City because they are the closest in distance.

A feature length motion picture is usually divided into six reels of film, and these reels are delivered to Barnhill's theatre every Tuesday and Sunday by an express delivery van. He said he books most movies 60 to 90 days in advance. Because the film is essentially in six different parts, two projectors must be used to run the movie. While the first reel is being shown, the second reel is loaded on the other projector. Reels usually take 20 minutes to Barnhill said the projectionist is notified when to begin running the second reel by six white dots which appear on the upper right corner of the movie screen for about a second. In this way the two projectors are utilized back and forth until the entire feature is shown.

Drive-in movies offer a special problem because their screens are often damaged because of stormy weather. To insure against damage, Barnhill said he designed and built his screen using 80 tons of steel I beams. He estimated the screen would remain undamaged in winds up to 120

Barnhill said probably the best attended movie he has eyer shown in Clarendon was "Ben Hur" in the early sixties. The best attended movie for a regular four-day run was John Wayne's "North to Alaska."

"You've got to sell tickets and you've got to sell popcorn," he said, "but it also gives you a good feeling when you see people walking out of the place laughing, and you know they had a good time. That's the part I enjoy.'

Life insurance is often talked about as being an investment tool. How can life insurance be used this way?

The ownership of life insurance is considered by many people to be a sign of financial responsibility, integrity and maturity. Permanent life insurance accumulates cash value . . . sometimes referred to as an equity. Should you need to raise extra money and require collateral a potential lender might very well accept the cash value or paid-up value of your permanent life insurance as the collateral needed. Often, the only requirement is assignment of the policy for the term

CHAMBERLA Clarendon, Texas

There's more to re-alligning and balancing the front end of your automobile than meets the eye. Its a precision job requiring accurate guaging and measurements, and it takes a man who knows the "feel" of his guaging equipment and how to re-adjust your car's front end back into the proper balance.

At Chamberlain Motor Company, our front end man Emmitt Manley has been in the business for over 30 years. He learned the profession from a wheel allignment and framework school in Amarillo over thirty years ago. He later became an instructor at that school.

Experience backs up Emmitt's knowledge of a difficult job. If you want it done right bring it to Emmitt.

Emmitt and his wife Elizabeth have four children; three sons, Rex, Max and Don; one daughter, Sandra; plus eight grandchildren.
