West Texas Utilities customers will receive refunds

West Texas Utilities customers this month are receiving refunds and also paying less for the electricity they use.

The double-barreled relief comes from a continued decline in the Company's boiler fuel costs, which by law are passed on to the customers. The Company is refunding over $5 million -- an average of about $11 per customer -- in retail revenues collected in excess of actual fuel costs over the past several months. At the same time, the amount charged customers for fuel is being reduced.

The fuel cost refund is the third within about a year for WTU, thanks mainly to the decline in the price of natural gas, WTU's main boiler fuel. A further decline in fuel costs is expected when WTU's coal-burning Oklaunion Power Station goes on line late this year.

"The cheaper coal should partially offset an anticipated increase in base rates necessary to pay the plant's construction costs," Don Welch of Abilene, vice president and director of customer services, said.

Welch said the new fuel cost factor, which was set by the Public Utility Commission at WTU's request, brings WTU's standard residential summer rate down below average for investor-owned utilities in Texas.

WTU customer now will pay $72.59 for 1,000 kilowatt-hours, compared to $80.01 under the old fuel cost factor, and $40.55 for 500 kilowatt-hours compared to $44.26. The average reported by the PUC for eight investor-owned utilities in August was $76.55 for 1,000 KWh and $40.72 for 500 KWh.

WTU's average rates for an entire year now are even lower. Including both summer and winter rates, the 12-month average would be $68.84 for 1,000KWh and $38.67 for 500 KWh. The summer rates run from May 1 through October and were established by the PUC to encourage energy conservation during hot weather.

Coal deliveries are now being made to the Oklaunion plant, which is nearing completion eight miles southeast of Vernon. WTU's share of the plant's generation will be equal to about one third of the Company's total existing generating capacity, which comes from eight major gas-fired power stations.

Broncos drop season opener

The Clarendon Broncos opened their 1986 season at Groom with a 41 to 6 loss. Groom proved why they are a state ranked team.

The Broncos played on even terms with the Tigers for one half and the Tigers took command of the game in the second half.

In the early part of the game, Groom was unable to move and the Broncos showed signs of moving the ball behind the running of James Ariola, Marcus Smith and Daniel Ford.

In the second quarter, hit Jake LaGrone with a 30 yard T.D. but a holding penalty called the T.D. back. The very next time the Broncos had the ball they moved to the Tiger 37 yard line and once again Hatley hit LaGrone with a T.D. pass. The extra point was missed and the Broncos had a 6-0 lead with 3:00 minutes left in the half.

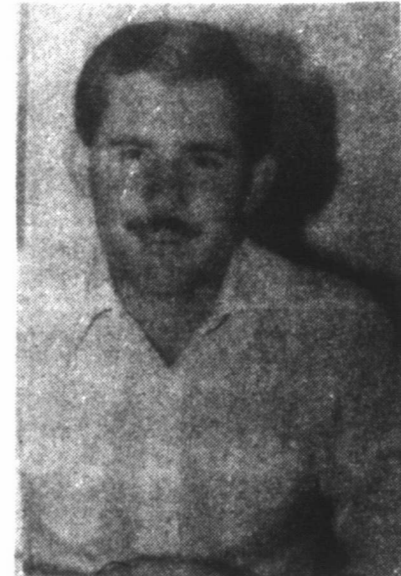

The Tigers flexed their muscles and moved the ball behind their two big running backs to score with 30 second left in the half. They added the point after and lead 7-6 at half time. Until this late drive Groom did not have a first down.

The second half was all Groom as they scored 20 third quarter points and went on to a 41 to 6 victory.

Daniel Ford lead the defense with 17 tackles. Mike Murry had 16 and Steven Phillips had 15. Arthur Harris played well at his position in secondary as he replaced the injured Clay Sharp. Harris and Ariola each had an interception.

The Broncos travel to McLean to take on another Tiger this Friday night.

"THE NCAA"

Lubbock -- Gotta love that NCAA and its spirit of "Don't know why, it's just our policy." It's successfully ruined as many athletes as it's helped, and that's what a bureaucracy is all about.

Example: The NCAA has a policy against athletes posing for posters and/or calendars unrelated to the sport in which they participate. Under no circumstances may they receive money or help any cause that's not authorized by the NCAA. That includes such shady and questionable organizations as Ronald McDonald House or the American Cancer Society.

Indiana basketball star Steve Alford is a classic example. He posed for a sorority calendar last spring and was suspended for breaking this hard-core rule. The calendar sales benefitted Ronald McDonald House, and Alford's suspension benefitted no one. Typical NCAA.

Next Example: Eight Southwest Conference football players passed their ACT and SAT tests sufficiently to comply with NCAA Proposition 48. The problem was the NCAA doesn't accept scores taken at "residual" testing sites. They must be national tests, taken on national testing days. The kicker is that regular students can take residual tests or national tests. It matters not. Except to the NCAA. The eight players (who had been told by the Southwest Conference office that their residual test scores would count) were declared ineligible. Appeal denied. No questions asked.

"We can't," they sort of said, "accept responsibility for your mistake and for the Southwest Conference's bad information. Case Closed."

Typical NCAA
It would be a knee-slapping hilarious joke if it didn't hurt so badly. The NCAA uses rules like a monkey uses a razor blade. It has a book of rules as thick as the Houston Yellow Pages, and is clueless as to what they are for.

Why, I ask, should an athlete sit out a season (and lose a year of eligibility to boot) because of a mistake he didn't make?

"We don't know why, it's just our policy."

Is it ever possible that the NCAA might take a look at a human situation and render a human decision?

"We don't know, we'll have to look it up."

Is the NCAA nothing more than a mindless, brainless, bureaucratic waste?

"That's not our department... you'll have to ask someone in another department, and they're all out to lunch. Please call another day."

Should the NCAA be destroyed from top to bottom?

"We prefer to handle matters like that internally."

UGH! Can't anyone give me a straight answer?

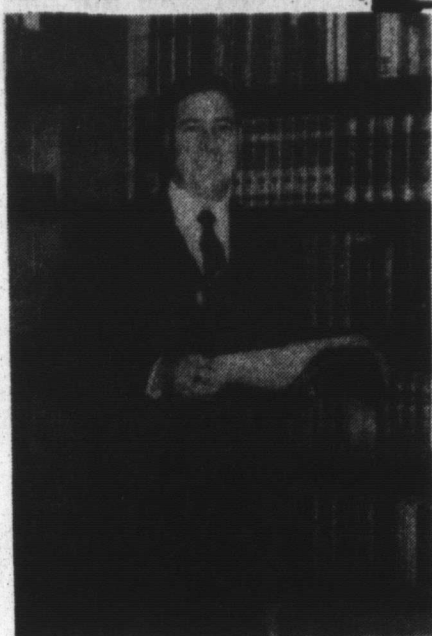

"If you'll call our public relations office, they have a release, which will be the extent of our comment on the matter."

"Case closed."

Friendship Club

The Friendship Club will have its first meeting of the year on October 8, in the home of Florence Bennett. This will be a business meeting so everyone is urged to attend.

From The PEN of PASTOR PINION

TO GOD:

Dear God:

You see, God, it is like this... we could attend church more faithfully if Your day came at some other time. You have chosen a day that comes at the end of a hard week, when we are all tired out. Not only that, but it is the day following Saturday night, and often we go to the movies or have a party, and it is after midnight when we get in. In fact, the children are often late for Sunday School because it is difficult for us to get up so early. It is usually after 9 o'clock before we get the breakfast dishes washed, and then it is time to think about Sunday dinner.

You have picked out the very day on which the morning paper takes the longest to read and also the day on which we have the biggest dinner of the week. Then, too, we must think of John. He is cooped up in the office all week, and Sunday morning is the only time to clean the car and for doing odd jobs around the house. And You know how John enjoys fishing, and You really can't blame him for going when he can. The whole family enjoys a picnic, and Sunday is the only time the family can have some recreation together.

I am telling You all these things because I want You to see our viewpoint and that it is not our fault that we are not able to go to church on Sunday morning. We would like to go, and we know that we should go, but the real reason we cannot go is that You have chosen the wrong day. If you will select another day, shall be glad to give the matter further consideration.

Sincerely,
I.M. Deliquent

Thanks to Lawrence Neece we can legitimately have our blackeyed peas and okra larruping or even according to Roget's International Thesaurus we can have them larruping good. Even when I learned how to spell it 'twas not in Grandmother Miller's 1930 Webster's New Word Dictionary.

Nor can it be found in Reader's Digest Family Word Finder and New Thesaurus seventh printing 1986. Folks in Texas have had larruping-good eating whether it is recognized in the rest of the world or not.

HAVE YOU ONE OF THESE STAMPS?

A complete set of these stamps, in top condition, is worth more than $800. Just one of them, with an error on it could bring in $100,000.

If you're fortunate enough to have any of these airmail stamps you may be glad to know their value is soaring.

They're the first six airmail stamps issued by the United States, and the first airmail stamp set in U. S. history.

They were issued in two parts. The first was in 1918 in denominations of a six cent Orange, 16 cent Green and 24 cent Carmine Red and Blue. Each pictured a "Jenny" airplane—named for the letters JN visible on the fuselage. One sheet of the 24 cent stamps was issued with the plane printed upside down. This mistake, known as the Inverted Jenny, meant those hundred stamps are worth about $100,000 each. Even the ones with the plane right side up are valuable. They appreciated by over 500 percent just between 1965 and 1975 alone.

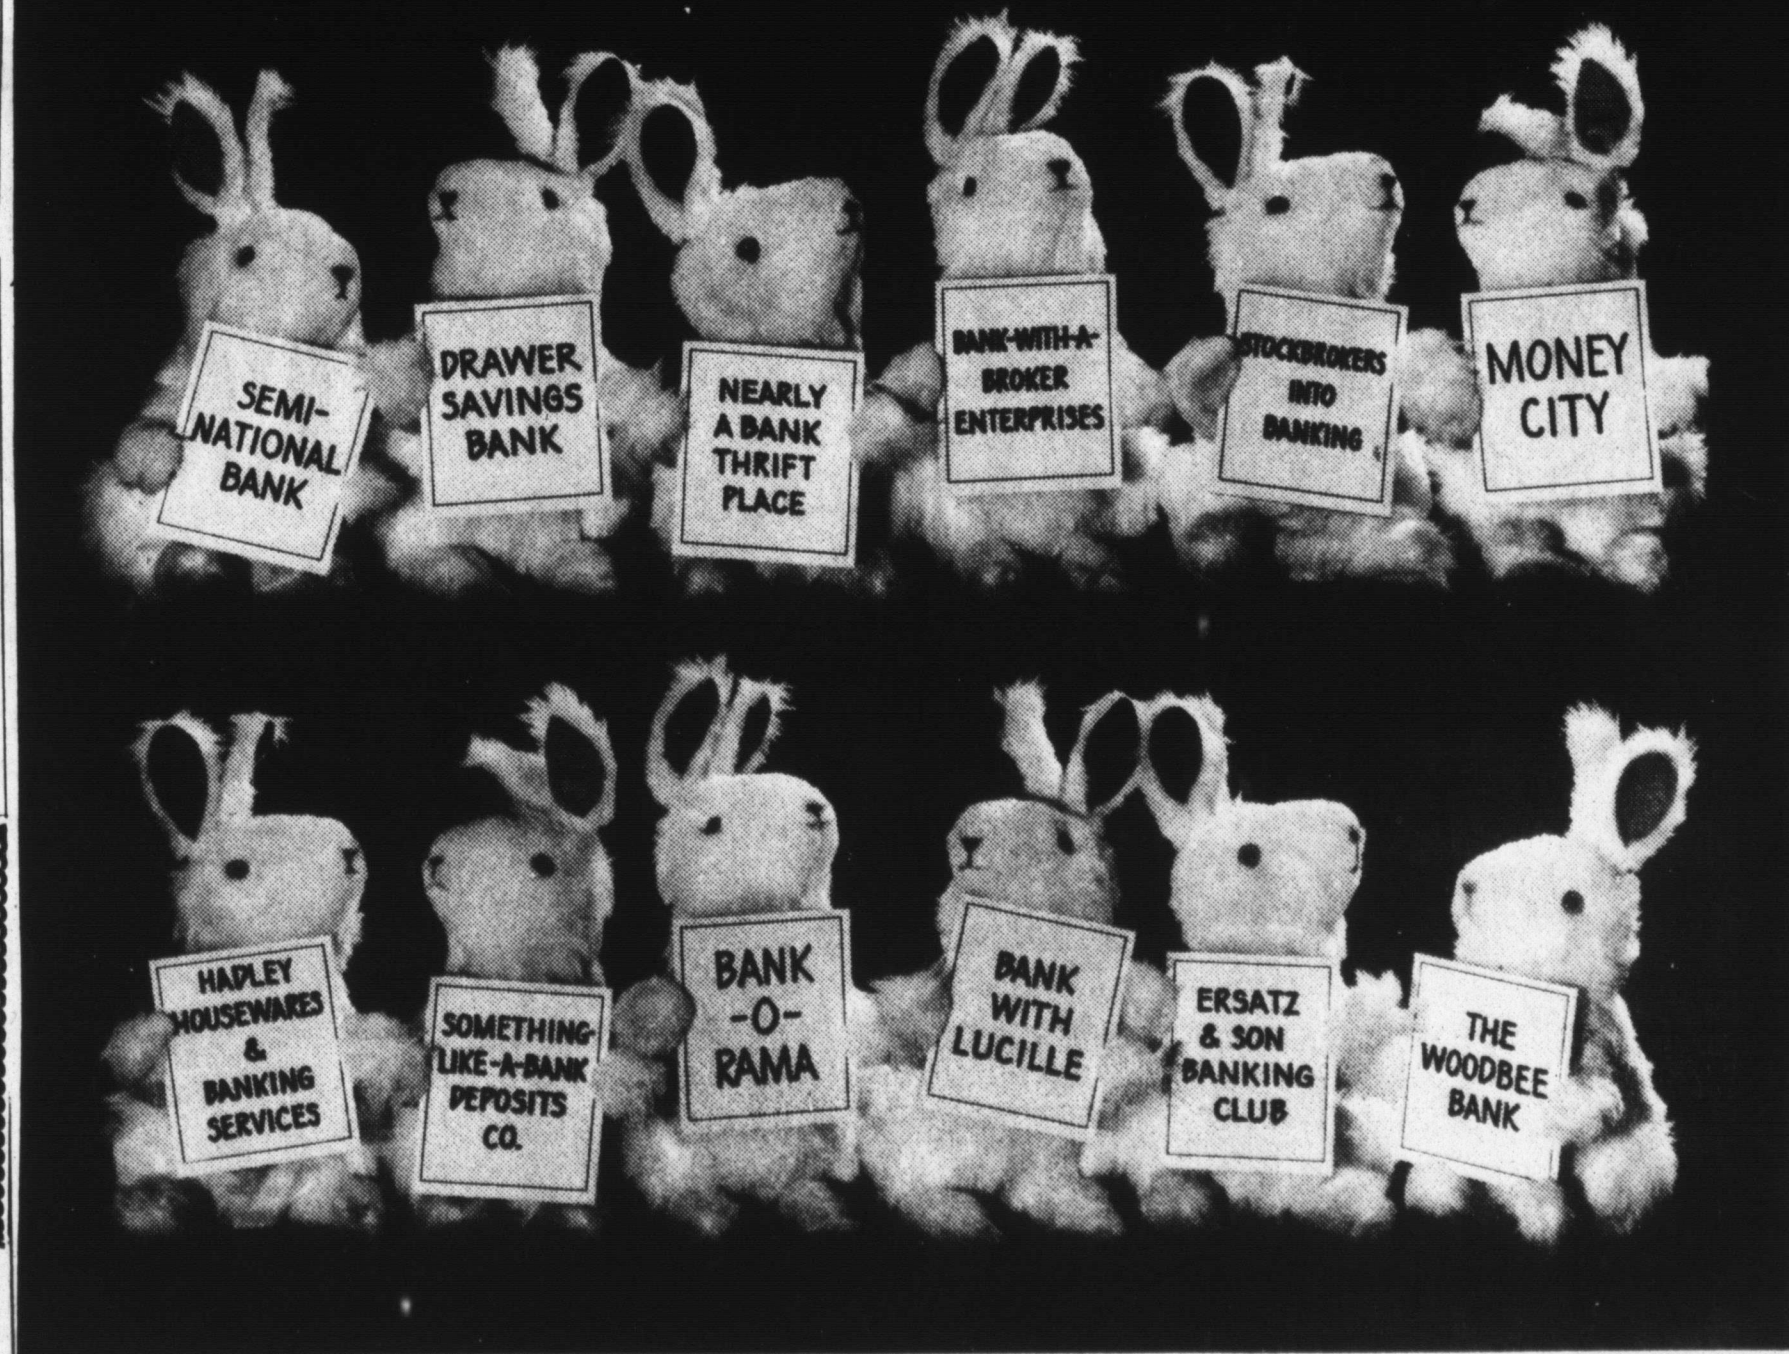

The second part was issued in 1923 with an eight cent Green, 16 cent Blue and a 24 cent Carmine Red. In 1970, a set of all six sold for about $150. It would now bring almost $850.

According to the experts at the International Stamp Exchange where such stamps are available, the stamp investment market is on the upswing. You can learn more about the value of investing in these stamps and others by calling the Exchange, toll-free, at 1-800-624-7110.

Don't allow yourself to be misled by apparent similarities. Just because so many others are hopping to include the word "bank" in their names doesn't mean that they are actually bankers. USDA closing date extended

The closing date for comments on the proposed highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions --commonly referred to as cross-compliance, sodbuster and swampbuster--of the Food Security Act of 1985 has been extended from August 26 to October 25, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

These provisions are designed to reduce soil loss due to wind and water erosion; protect the nation's long-term capability to produce food and fiber; reduce sedimentation and improve water quality; assist in preserving the nation's wetlands; and lessen the incentives to produce agricultural commodities on highly erodible farmland.

The comment period was extended because of the complex issues involved in implementation of the new provisions.

Comments should be sent to: Director, Cotton, Grains, and Rice Division, USDA/ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013, and must be received on or before October 27 to be assured of consideration.

Better Communities Produce Better Schools

Some people believe that communities receive the schools they deserve.

If you live in an active, caring community, chances are you have a very good school system. If you live in an apathetic area, your schools could be improved with a booster shot of school/community interaction.

One answer to school improvement is community education. It's a name that describes an array of activities that bring schools and communities together. For example:

• In Pennsylvania, a school district offers special bus tours for its residents at a non-profit rate that is appealing to residents. The tours are historical/cultural/educational trips provided by the school district.

• In Georgia, specialized courses are taught to adults by volunteers from business resources in the community. You can learn the latest in such fields as computer graphics and the latest technology in the school district community education program.

• In Oregon, a "See For Yourself" campaign was launched so citizens could realize first-hand what was being taught in schools today.

• In Washington, a school district allows residents to attend high school classes side-by-side with their teenage students.

• In Ohio, a team of community leaders worked with the school board and residents to plan a bond issue for school facility improvements. A sense of pride was also restored in the school system and the community as the repairs were being made.

Active communities often demand quality schools. Community education is a tool to help mold community action for the betterment of the schools and the community.

To learn more about the community action movement contact the National Community Education Association at 119 N. Payne Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22314.

most personal checks bounce. Fact is that about 98 percent of all checks written are good. That's well over 39 billion out of 40 billion.

The popularity of using checks to make purchases is on the increase, for three good reasons, reports Payment Systems Education Association, Inc. (PSEA). These are the ability to check an account balance before making a purchase, to receive cash over the amount of purchase, and to use a canceled check as a receipt. For more information about payment systems, write: PSEA, 1050 Seventeenth St., Suite 2200, Denver, Colorado or call (303) 892-0455.

A century or so ago, a few of the folk in farm country feared running a railroad through their area would cause the cows to stop giving milk.

Just as the fears farmers had about railroads affecting their cows were unfounded, so are the fears many of today's retailers have about accepting personal checks as payment. Many merchants fear

SLEEP MEDICINES

According to a recent report from the National Academy of Science, almost one-third of American adults have difficulty sleeping. The causes of insomnia (the inability to fall asleep or stay asleep) are varied and the treatments equally diverse. Some physicians recommend hypnotic-type medications to help persons with insomnia. Many physicians do not, however, recommend these medicines be taken for more than a few days or few weeks.

Ideally the hypnotic or sleep medicine should cause sleep to occur rather rapidly and allows users to sleep throughout the night so that they rise from sleep feeling rested. The ideal hypnotic should not interact with other medicines and, according to most sleep experts, should not interfere with the "dream stage" of sleep. Unfortunately, the "ideal" hypnotic does not exist. Some of these ideal characteristics are found, however, in various prescription hypnotics.

The most commonly prescribed hypnotics include those in the benzodiazepine chemical class. A long-acting benzodiazepine such as flurazepam is often used for persons who have trouble staying asleep. A short-acting drug such as triazolam may be useful when individuals have difficulty falling asleep.

It's not often when you see or hear homage paid to the lowly mule—but his statue, located in Muleshoe, does just that. The tribute equates the mule in importance with the buffalo and the longhorn in helping to make Texas what it is.

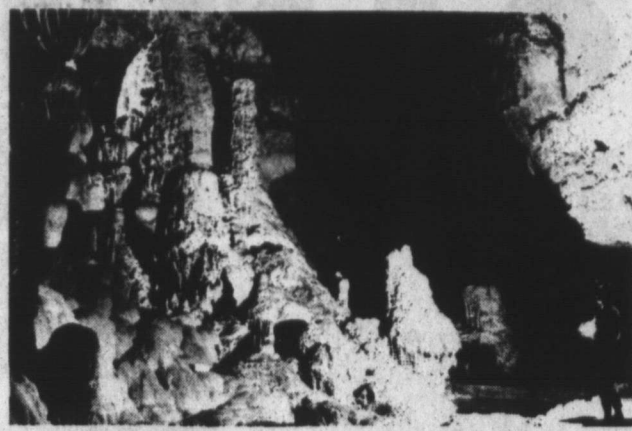

One of the biggest bashes of the sesquicentennial year, the State Fair, will commemorate both the 150th anniversary of Texas independence and the 100th anniversary of the first State Fair. This year's fair is expanded—from August 30-October 26. The focalpoint of the celebration will be a massive Texas pavilion with rare historical documents, maps & artifacts, multi-media shows, and computerized "hands-on" exhibits which will be used to recreate the rich heritage of the Lone Star State. THE BEST TEXAS CAVES

O.C. Garza, Media Chief, Texas Tourist Development Agency

Caves are dark, fascinating places where natural light cannot penetrate. Yet there is a fragile world inside Texas caves, anchored to life by a constant temperature, subterranean lakes and creatures that prefer darkness. There are seven Texas "show caves" that are open to the public. Each one is unique, safe and if you're not careful, you might learn a thing or two about underground phenomenon.

Caverns of Sonora, Sonora
Expert speleologists call Sonora Caverns the "most beautiful cave in the world." It is, and nothing defines beauty like the "Butterfly," the only formation of its kind in the world. The cave has more crystal on its walls than any other and because of its small opening, it is a clean, sterile cave. Exquisite cave coral and coral globulite cover the cave. Don't miss this one!! Caverns of Sonora, PO Box 213, Sonora, TX 76950; 915/387-3105.

Wonder World Cavern, San Marcos
Unique because it is the only Texas cave formed by an earthquake, Wonder Cave is the oldest commercially operated cave. The fault line cave was first used in the 1890s as a hideaway for illegal poker games. There is a "Potato Patch" room that features flint nodules and in the fourth room are rudist fossils that date back 150 million years. Wonder Cave, PO Box 1369, San Marcos, TX 78666; 512/392-3760.

Natural Bridge Caverns
A marvelous cave with monstrous rooms, small lakes and even a "forest of rocks." Although explored as early as 1920, it wasn't until 1960 that an exploration team found the north cavern and four additional levels. The Castle of the White Giants, Sherwood Forest, Fairy Castles and Grendel's Canyon provide splendid sights. The cave is between San Antonio and New Braunfels. Natural Bridge Caverns, Route 20, Box 515, Natural Bridge Caverns, TX 78218; 512/651-6101.

Inner Space, Georgetown
A cable car ride brings visitors into Inner Space where cave popcorn, cave ice, cave coral and other natural formations can be seen. The cave is estimated to be 60-100 million years old with cave formations growing a cubic centimeter every 100 years. Outer Cathedral, Flowing Stone of Time and Soda Straw Balcony are unforgettable, as are the helictites. There are fossils 15,000 to 40,000 years old in the cave. Inner Space, PO Box 451, Georgetown, TX 78627; 512/863-5545.

Longhorn Cavern, Burnet
Longhorn Cavern is a river cave, formed from the erosion of an ancient river. The outlaw Sam Bass used the cave as did dancers and drinkers during Prohibition. The Indian Council Room was the site of a skirmish between Texas Rangers and Comanches and the Lunch Room has held church services. Lumbago Alley, Hall of Marble, and the Queen's Watch Dog are good photo opportunities. Longhorn Cavern, Route 2, Box 23, Burnet, TX 78611; 512/756-4680.

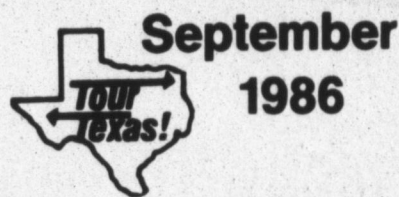

Cascade Caverns, Boerne
Cascade Caverns is a fairyland of fragile, delicate and crystal clear formations. It too, is a water-formed cavern with the Rain Forest still "wet," with numerous underwater passages. Two sights are unique to Cascade: a 90-foot waterfall that tumbles into the Cathedral room and a fern growing deep in the cave. Other highlights include a mastodon tusk, Giant Molar and Indian Chimneys. Cascade Caverns Park, Route 4, Box 4110, Boerne, TX 78006; 512/755-9285.

Cave Without A Name, Boerne
The least advertised show cave in Texas is one of the best. The entire cave is one long corridor divided into rooms by unusual formations. Massive stalagmites in the Gold Room are Texas-size. The King's Canopy and the Queens Canopy defy description. The tour ends when it encounters a large underground river. A great cave. Cave Without A Name, Route 5, Box 5548, Boerne, TX 78006; 512/537-4212.

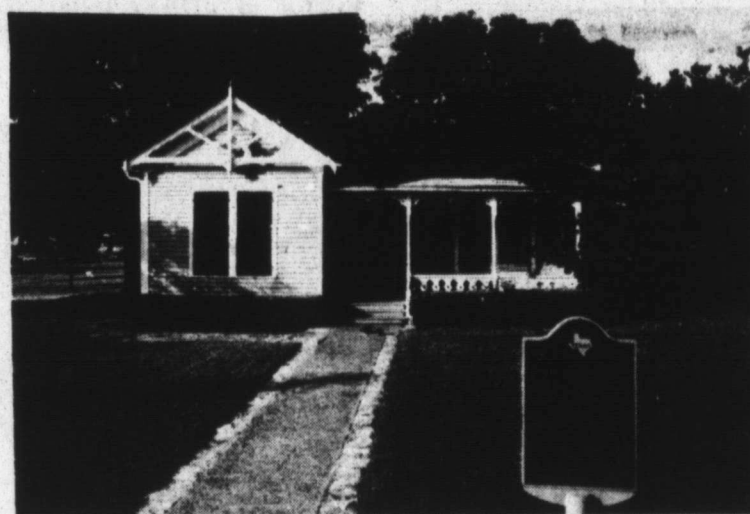

The Sad Monkey Railroad in Palo Duro Canyon takes visitors on a scenic tour of Texas' largest state park. The train winds through incredible rock formations carved by a tributary of the Red River. The walls of the canyon plunge a thousand feet to the bottom, exposing brilliant multicolored strata and oddly-shaped spires and pinnacles carved by the river. The park is located about 28 miles southeast of Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle. Texas Tourist Agency photo.

Activities include country

Sept. 20-21 — Golden Spread Antique Machinery Show, Perryton. Activities include a parade, steam engine races, an old time threshing, cow-dog and mule drawn equipment demonstrations and a flea market. Admission: $3, under 12 free. The O. Henry home in Austin is the former residence of William Sydney Porter, eminent short story writer who signed his work "O. Henry." Porter lived in Austin 1885-1895. The home features his desk, writing materials and other furnishings of the period. Texas Tourist Agency photo.

Congressman Beau Boulter Reports from Washington

PUTTING THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

As of this writing, there has been no response to the Admiral's letter, nor has there been a resolution of the tax reform issue. However, I will continue to stress to my colleagues in Congress, and to the President himself, that putting a large defense build-up higher on the list of priorities than the energy industry is, in effect, putting the cart before the horse.

Every year, the United States Congress absorbs itself in a debate over how much money it will spend on the defense of this nation. Topics ranging from space-based defense systems to personnel carriers are discussed at length. Considering the fact that this debate concerns the defense of the liberty we all hold dear, this discussion is, in my view, well warranted.

Last year, the Congress passed a defense budget of over $300 billion. This large sum of money, while necessary to defend the U.S. and its allies in a hostile world, included authorizations for planes, tanks, and ships, among other items. These items, however, will be rendered useless if we are not able to acquire the petroleum products necessary to fuel them.

In past weeks, I have written and spoken in depth about the dire situation facing the domestic oil and gas industry. With unemployment reaching 18% in some counties of the 13th Congressional district, discussion of the energy industry has centered on the economic questions involved. We must begin to realize, however, that without the petroleum to fuel our national defense, tanks will not run, ships will not sail, and planes will not fly. Dependence on foreign oil translates into supply lines that must stretch from the Middle East to whatever front we are defending. Given the problems being faced in the Persian Gulf today, this is not a possibility I look forward to. The problems of the domestic oil and gas industry, unfortunately, cannot be divorced from our national security concerns.

The national security consequences of the crisis facing the energy industry are an issue I have urged the Administration to consider over the past three weeks. This topic, in fact, was the focal point of a meeting I attended in the Situation Room at the White House between a small, bi-partisan House oil patch delegation and John Poindexter, the President's National Security Advisor.

Admiral Poindexter stated his concerns over the effects the future of the domestic oil and gas industry will have on our national security. Likewise, he recognized the adverse effect on our national security of a tax bill which further diminishes incentives for the industry. As chairman of the delegation, I asked Admiral Poindexter to contact the Senate-House Conference Committee on tax reform, and especially Conference Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, to stress the importance of maintaining current tax law for the industry from a national security perspective.

Shortly after our meeting, we were notified that Admiral Poindexter had sent a letter to each member of the tax reform conference. In discussing the domestic industry's importance to our national security, Admiral Poindexter stated in his letter:

"The President has stressed over the last few months the importance of a viable domestic oil and gas industry to our national well being and energy security. As you are well aware, the dramatic oil price collapse of the past six months has severely hurt the oil and gas sector. Drilling activity is at a 46-year low with the latest rig count of about 700 in use, compared to a 1981 peak of 3970.

"These trends underscore the critical importance, in my view, of retaining existing incentives for oil and gas exploration and development for the oil industry. To reduce the current depletion allowance of expensing of drilling costs would place an additional burden on an industry which is an important contributor to our security. Analysis by the Department of Energy indicates that retention of these incentives could avoid the loss of as much as 700,000 barrels per day of domestic oil production."

FISHING HUNTING LICENSE CHANGES

The new Texas Hunting Guide has been published and Game Warden Gary Hunt points out some changes that will affect many hunters and fishermen in this area.

Beginning September 1, 1986, there are no hunting and fishing exemptions for Texas residents. Everyone who hunts any wild bird or wild animal in this state must have a valid hunting license. Persons under 17 years of age and over 65 years of age are required to have a $6.00 exempt hunting license. All others must have a $10.00 resident hunting license. There is no longer any exemptions when you hunt in your home county, on property where you reside or on property which you own.

Everyone who is fishing in the public waters of Texas must have a valid fishing license. Persons under 17 years of age, and over 65 years of age are required to have an exempt fishing license which are issued free of charge. Persons between 17 and 65 are required to have an $8.00 resident fishing license.

There is also a residents combination hunting and fishing license for $15.00 that can be purchased by residents between 17 and 65 years of age.

As usual, all licenses expire August 31.

Some fishing rule changes include a limit of 25 crappie per day and five a day on bass. Bass must be 12" long to be keepers.

The Hunting and Fishing Guide and licenses are available at Barney's Marine, Mooring Marina, Clarendon Trading Post and Gibson's.

MDA Telethon

Clarendon and Donley County citizens raised approximately $1,947.50 in pledges and special events during the Twenty-First Annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In the Panhandle area a total of over $100,000 went up on the toteboard and nationally over $34,000,000 was pledged.

Hosted again by Jerry Lewis, MDA National Chairman for over 30 years, the 22½ hour entertainment marathon featured some of the most popular personalities in show business including stars of TV, film, stage and the concert world -- all of whom contributed their talents to help in the fight against some 40 neuromuscular diseases. Ed McMahon served as Lewis' anchorman for the 14th straight year, backed up by Casey Kasem and other celebrity co-hosts.

KFDA-TV, Channel 10 carried the local portion of the show which was aired live from Western Plaza Mall and began at 8:00 p.m. Sunday night and went off the air at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Special MDA events coordinated by the Clarendon Fire Department and Clarendon Fire Belles during Labor Day weekend included: Fill The Boot by Clarendon Fire Department and Labor Day Motorist Rest Stop by Firebelles and Firemen.

Proceeds from the telethon help fund over 600 individual research projects throughout the U.S. and abroad; 10-university-based research centers; more than 240 free diagnostic and treatment clinics; summer camping programs; and professional and public education.

'Womanless Wedding' To Be Feature During Hall County Picnic

By VIRGINIA BROWDER

Last week, we gave you some clues as to the cast of characters in the upcoming "Womanless Wedding," September 20, during the Hall County Reunion. Since then, there have been two changes in the cast. Now Gordon Maddox will be the father of the groom and Graham Bowen is cast as the best man.

Rehearsals are now underway but because some of the members of the cast were to be out of town this week, the next rehearsal is scheduled for this Sunday afternoon, Sept. 7 at 2 p.m. at the high school auditorium. Take notice members of the cast! We lack one member, a bride's maid. We'd be grateful for a volunteer.

Doubtless, you are anxious to learn the names of those characters who play the parts of the bride's and groom's families. The bride's family first with Morris Odom as Zeke Tuttle, her pa; Pee Wee Simmons as Matilda Tuttle, her ma; Tom Posey as Grandma Tuttle and two Tuttle kids. Members of the groom's family are his father Chester Carbunkle, Gordon Maddox; his mother Lilita Carbunkle, Bill Ballew; his sister, Kent Combs and Mike Branigan; his Susie Carbunkle, Kent Combs and Mike Branigan, his grandmother, Sally Mander. The jilted sweetheart, Sadie Forlorn, Leon Helm.

Mike Hughes of Childress will be featured musician at the piano playing the wedding march and the recessional. He will also serve as accompanist for the renown soloist, Bobby Ward.

There will be more than "The Wedding" between now and time of performance. Watch for it and ring your calendars!

DON'T SHOOT AT POWER LINES!

NEVER SHOOT AT POWER LINES or the insulators that hold them, because the result could be a dangerous downed electric line. A severed line could cause a serious electrical outage, and the downed line itself could be extremely hazardous.

ADDITIONAL SAFETY TIPS:

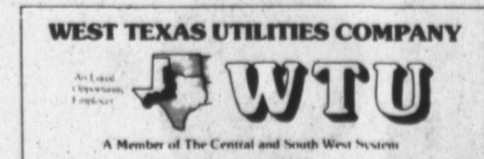

• Use Power Tools Wisely
 Be sure wiring is in good condition and all circuits are grounded. Never use electric tools in the rain or on wet surfaces. Also, when buying new equipment, look for the "UL" seal of approval from Underwriters Laboratories.

• Keep Children Away from Electrical Outlets

Don't let small children play near electrical outlets. A child could put some object in an outlet when you're looking away. A wise safety precaution would be to put safety caps in all wall outlets.

• Always Disconnect Cords by Pulling on the plug

When disconnecting electrical items, be sure to pull on the plug — not the cord! If you pull on the cord, you'll eventually wear it out and expose hazardous wires. Also, don't overload extension cords or outlets.

Remember REDDY Supplies the energy — but only YOU can use it safely!

Letter to the Editor

Mrs. Woody.

The Sanford Volunteer Ambulance Service would like to thank you for the aid in helping us obtain the watermelons from Mr. Doyle Hall for a Labor Day Fundraiser.

We are a new ambulance service just struggling to get started. Every little bit helps.

You and Mr. Hall came through in our time of need. We greatly thank you both for your help.

It's really a God sent when people from another county take the time and energy to help another county.

Our sale was a great success. Thanks to two wonderful people.

Thank you,

Editor:

We want you folks in Clarendon, Texas to know about some Good they Samaritans that live in your midst.

We were stranded at the Texaco station in west Clarendon in extremely hot weather in late July, on a Saturday, 500 miles from home. Two employees of Texaco (we are still sorry we didn't get their names) hand pushed our motorhome to safety out of the highway and helped us in every way they could. Finally called Eddie Floyd and he found our problem and towed us (with that little '39 Ford) to Mr. Anglin's campground. We did our own repairs, but Eddie and Mr. Anglin checked on us often. Eddie loaned us tools and brought parts and Mr. Anglin was kind enough to permit us to work on the motor on his grounds.

We were on our way again on Monday but only because good folks helped us. Clarendon is a lovely town and we will visit you again some day.

May God bless our Good Samaritans.

Texas A&M scientists say over-the-counter drug causes liver damage

COLLEGE STATION — A popular over-the-counter drug sold as a protein supplement but also widely used as a sleeping aid causes liver damage that may be permanent, even in relatively small doses, says a just-published medical study by Texas A&M University scientists.

The drug, known as L-tryptophan, is available without prescription from health food stores, drug stores, some major supermarkets and discount stores.

Texas A&M's study is the first to link L-tryptophan to liver problems, said medical anatomy scientist Dr. Michael Trulson, who studied the effects of the compound on rats.

The findings, published in a recent issue of the Journal of Nutrition, also found that L-tryptophan enlarged liver blood vessels called sinusoids, said Trulson, who collaborated with Texas A&M anatomy researcher Dr. H. Wayne Sampson on the project.

"The present data demonstrate that doses of L-tryptophan, within the range commonly used by humans for the purpose of sleep induction, produce abnormal morphology (structure) of the liver," the scientists concluded.

A&M counseling program proves successful treating bulimia, anorexia

COLLEGE STATION — An innovative university counseling program for young women suffering from anorexia and bulimia has proven successful in treating the disorders in which the death rate can reach as high as 21 percent.

Dr. Kerry Hope, associate director of Texas A&M University's Student Counseling Service, said the program's success is due to earlier identification, general improvements in treatment of the disorders and the innovative treatment program at the center.

Bulimia is a psychological craving for food which results in uncontrollable eating, known as bingeing, often followed by purging. It usually affects college-age women. Anorexia, willful starvation in the pursuit of slenderness, is most often found among young adolescents.

Hope said counselors have found that the most effective therapy for students with eating disorders is group therapy, which is also the most inexpensive long-term treatment for students. That is an important advantage in these times of shrinking budgets, Hope said.

Cocaine use depletes key cardiac enzymes, increases heart attack risk

COLLEGE STATION — Routine abuse of cocaine may increase the risk of sudden and unexpected heart attack by depleting key enzymes in the body, concludes a medical study by Texas A&M University researchers.

Although public attention has focused on single overdoses of cocaine in the deaths of figures like basketball star Len Bias and comedian John Belushi, routine use of smaller doses reduces levels of at least four enzymes linked to heart activity, says the study.

Depletion of the enzymes, which function as catalysts to create chemical reactions needed to sustain life, was still evident in rats two months after cocaine use had stopped, said Dr. Michael Trulson, an associate professor of anatomy with Texas A&M's College of Medicine.

The condition appears to impair cardiac function and might lead to sudden cardiac arrest, said Trulson, who is continuing the studies.

Texas A&M scientists work to raise beneficial parasites

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University scientists are working on a project that one day may give beneficial parasites — and ultimately farmers — the upper hand in the battle against worms that annually destroy millions of dollars of crops.

Dr. S. Brad Vinson, an entomologist in Texas A&M's College of Agriculture and project leader, says the scientists are looking into the possibility of artificially rearing hundreds of thousands of tiny mosquito-like parasites. The parasite, camponotus, lays its eggs in the larvae of a worm that destroys a variety of crops, including cotton, tomatoes, pecans, sorghum, soybeans and lettuce.

Vinson, who holds a joint research appointment with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, hopes to raise the parasites in laboratory conditions.

In addition to learning how to artificially rear parasites, Vinson said scientists also are investigating how to better attract the parasites to fields of crops.

Computer model helps small communities assess economic impact

COLLEGE STATION — Small town officials who want to know the economic impact of a new industry have a computer model that can help determine the benefits as well as the cost of additional services to public agencies.

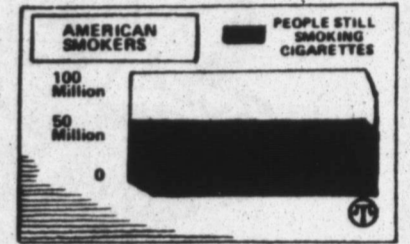

"We've developed an economic impact model to help project the impact of new industry on rural communities in Texas," said Dr. Lonnie Jones of Texas A&M University's Agricultural Economics Department. "In the past six to seven years we have applied the model to over 250 rural communities in Texas who wanted to know the impact of new industries planning to locate a plant in a community."

The model considers such factors as the size of the industry, the number of employees and payroll. It also can be used to estimate the impact of the new industry on the private sector, such as the amount of additional business that will be obtained from local stores, said Jones, leader of the project who holds a joint appointment with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. In addition, the model examines the costs and benefits of public agencies affected, including how municipal and county governments and the school district would be affected.

FACTS & FIGURES

About 53 million people in the United States still smoke cigarettes. The Surgeon General reports that cigarette smoking is responsible for about 170,000 extra, or premature, U.S. heart attack deaths per year.

Thousands of Americans are discovering that a new chewing gum, available by prescription only, has been proven effective in helping to break the cigarette habit. The gum releases a small amount of nicotine into the mouth, helping smokers to break their addiction to cigarettes.

The new gum is the first prescription drug available in the U.S. for use in smoking cessation programs. The gum, containing 2 mgs. of nicotine, is available in U.S. drug stores. Worldwide, prior to U.S. availability, approximately two million smokers used it to give up cigarettes. Estimates are that it helped about 700,000 to stop smoking.

Homecoming will be September 19 against White Deer. Anyone wishing to purchase a homecoming mum, garter, etc. needs to contact any senior as mums are now available.

Juniors ordered their senior rings

Tuesday night at 6:45. Also on Tuesday, freshmen elected their class officers. Results will be in next week's paper.

FTA won the best poster award last week. FTA also had its first meeting on Monday night at 6:30. Anyone interested in joining FTA needs to speak with Miss Veach.

FHA also had its first meeting Monday. Prospective members need to speak with Mrs. Dickerson.

Annual Staff meetings began Wednesday. Anyone interested in helping on the annual can contact Miss Veach. We'd really appreciate your help!

The JV Broncos play Wellington here Thursday night at 7:30. Let's all be there to support the team!

The Senior class won the Spirit Stick at last week's pep rally. Congratulations on that show of Bronco spirit!

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: I have been adopted twice. Am I eligible to inherit from my natural parents or from either set of adopted parents? This involves different states, does that make a difference?

A. Under Texas law, a child who is adopted is eligible to inherit from his adoptive parents as well as from his natural parents. The natural parents' right to inherit from the child, however, terminated and transferred to the adoptive parents upon entry of the Decree of Adoption.

If both adoptions had taken place in the state of Texas, you would be eligible to inherit from your natural parents as well as from both sets of adoptive parents. The Family Code provides that upon the entry of Decree of Adoption, is reluctant to pay, tell defendant that you are going to pursue your legal remedies.

Those include applying to the justice of peace or the clerk of court for a writ of execution after the judgment has been on file for thirty days and taking it to the Sheriff's office; obtaining an abstract of judgment from the justice of the peace or clerk of the court and taking it to the county clerk for recordation and indexing (this places a lien on all of defendant's non-exempt real property in the county and will make it difficult for defendant to buy or sell real property. It is good for ten years and may be renewed); and garnishing the defendant's non-exempt accounts, such as a savings account at a bank. An application for a writ of garnishment must be filed with the justice of the peace or clerk of the court and various procedures followed. There are other remedies as well, such as writs of attachment and sequestration.

It is strongly recommended that if legal process to obtain satisfaction of a judgment is necessary, that an attorney be consulted since the rules and procedures are highly technical.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Visitors flocking to Texas in record numbers

Visitors are flocking to Texas in record numbers, according to Texas highway department officials here. During the first six months of 1986 some 1.9 million visitors stopped for travel information at the department's 12 tourist bureaus and visitor centers scattered around the state.

"This represents a significant increase of 17.6 percent in the number of visitors over the same period last year," reported Willis Albarado, the department's tourist bureau chief.

"As a matter of fact, our bureaus served more visitors in the first six months of 1986 than in all of 1975 -- which shows how much the travel industry has grown during the past decade."

Officials believe part of the influx may result from many Sesquicentennial activities through the state, coupled with a reduction in overseas travel.

"Tourism has long been a major contributor to Texas' economy," Albarado noted. "In these days with Texas reeling from the oil-industry plight, more tourist dollars are especially welcome!"

"On each average working day from January through June, our tourist bureaus served 10,327 visitors," he added. "That's a flow of slightly more than 1,147 visitors per hours."

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 4, 1986

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among the counties in which the property of the railroad is located for purposes of property taxation, and would delete the requirement that the Comptroller participate in making the allocation. To comply with both statutory and constitutional law, the apportionment currently is being made by the State Property Tax Board in conjunction with the Comptroller.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for purposes of property taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would replace the constitutional requirement that the subject of a bill be expressed in its title with a mandate that each house of the legislature adopt rules of procedure that would require the subject of each bill to be expressed in its title in a manner that gives the legislature and the public reasonable notice of that subject. Determining compliance with the rule would be the responsibility of the legislature. Currently, a law is invalidated if a court finds its caption is defective. The amendment would provide that past and future enactments may not be held void on the basis of an insufficient title.

The amendment would eliminate the suggestion that the state's laws be revised every ten years, and instead would provide for continuing revision of state laws.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment requiring each house to include in its rules of procedure a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and providing for the continuing revision of state laws."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to authorize any county, city, town, or other political subdivision to use public funds or credit to pay insurance premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident policies. Due to the prohibition in the constitution against the lending of credit and granting of public money, political subdivisions currently are prohibited from becoming shareholders in associations such as mutual insurance companies, in which policyholders are shareholders. A nonassessable mutual insurance policy does not allow a company to raise capital by assessing the policyholder an extra amount on a pre-

Crime and Punishments

A person cited for littering in Texas faces one of many possible punishments, depending on the jurisdiction in which the crime was committed.

Here's a rundown on some of the major ones:

Within a municipality: A local police force citation can yield a fine of up to $1,000, if the city has upgraded its ordinance to reflect the new ceiling. The city can be reimbursed for $20 per citation under the new incentives program only if the citation was issued on a State Highway right of way.

Along a public highway: The Litter Abatement Act, as amended last year by the 69th Legislature, sets fines of $50-$400 for littering within 300 yards of a public highway. That includes "any road, street, way, thoroughfare, beach or park open for vehicular traffic" -- and thus all 124 Texas State Parks, all county parks, and most beaches along the Gulf Coast.

On Federal Land (including National Parks, Monuments and Seashores): The Code of Federal Regulations outlaws litter, but fines are set by the respective U.S. District Courts. Texas courts have uniformly imposed a maximum fine of $50 for littering. Rangers in Big Bend National Park emphasize cleanup over citations and fines, while their counterparts at Padre Island National Seashore complain that the vast bulk of their beach litter is washed ashore from the Gulf of Mexico.

At Sea: The U.S. Coast Guard will refer cases of littering from oceangoing vessels to the U.S. Attorney's office for prosecution under the Refuse Act of 1899. Criminal penalties including fines of $500-$2,500 and jail terms of 30 days to 1 year can be imposed for convictions. Illegal dumping from offshore oil rigs is punishable by civil fines of up to $5,000.

Elsewhere: Littering on any private or public land not covered by the provisions above is punishable by a fine of $40-$200 under the Litter Abatement Act.
