ANGELS FOR CHRISTMAS pageants: William Boston, Corey Knorrp, Scott Bivens, Christopher Chamberlain and Lindsey Green.

Christmas pageant Monday after Thanksgiving

The Les Beaux Art Club and the Chamber of Commerce are joining forces with the help of the entire community to bring the beautiful story of the birth of Jesus Christ to our community on this, the opening of the Christmas season.

The Christmas Pageant will be Monday evening at 5:30 p.m. on the courthouse lawn. Church choirs will open the service and the processional will begin at the North end of Sully Street and proceed South toward the IGA Food Store, entering the courtyard lawn on the center sidewalk and culminating at the manger scene. (Yes, the street is the same but the direction of the processional has been reversed!)

Many people have been working extremely hard on this special project. The 18 plus characters in the pageant have met to collect costumes with the help of Virginia Browder and Anna Moores Simmons. Parents of the child angels have been very helpful and cooperative. She said she would shoot me if I printed her name, so don't tell her, but Frances Dehyle made all ten of the angel robes for the children! The Art Club and Chamber of Commerce greatly appreciate all the help of the wonderful volunteers and wish to express their thanks!

There will be a rehearsal (NO COSTUMES!) of the pageant on Tuesday, November 25, at 5:30 p.m. All members involved in this project please meet promptly behind Bivens Pharmacy at this time. This will be the only practice, due to the Thanksgiving holiday, so it is imperative to have everyone present. We know this is a terribly busy time for everyone and appreciated so much your time and efforts!

Remember December 1... 5:30 p.m.... courthouse lawn facing Sully Street! Also, all children are encouraged to share one of their toys with someone less fortunate. Toy Barrels will be available to collect the toys. Thank you so much for this kind gesture! Come straight from work, but don't miss this Pageant, the choirs, the lighting of the Community Christmas Tree, a visit from Santa Claus, but mainly the wonderful spirit of this special evening together. Absolutely everyone is invited at no charge. See you Monday, December 1.

GTE offers service upgrade to Hedley

General Telephone Company of the Southwest's Memphis Operations manager, Jerry West, announced that an optional touch-call change out will be offered to Hedley customers in conjunction with the October 25 conversion of the Hedley switching center from electro-mechanical to computerized switching. The offering will be made to Hedley customer from Friday, November 13, 1986, through March 19, 1986. During this time period, the usual one-time handling fee will be waived.

The optional change-out is being offered to single line residential and single line business customers with leased equipment who wish to exchange their present rotary dial equipment for dial equipment. Customers who wish to provide their own equipment with non-leased equipment may also choose to change at this time, at no charge. The equipment exchange is on a voluntary basis, and any customer who wishes to continue with their current rotary equipment may do so.

Customers interested in participating in the change-out may call the Memphis Business Office, (806) 259-3521, for rate information. Depending on the style of equipment the customer selects, the monthly customer rental fee may vary. Regulated customers (those customers who have not changed any of their services since January 1, 1982) who turn in their equipment will change automatically to the deregulated rate base, since all regulated stocks have been depleted. Deregulated customers see a slightly higher monthly rental charge. During the special period between November 13, through March 19, 1987, the usual handling fee of $8.00 for residential customers or $13.50 for business customers for the exchange will be waived.

This offering, in conjunction with the October 25, 1986, conversion, will upgrade customers' service to the new switch, which is designed to process touch call dialing quickly. Rotary dialing, which will have to be converted to touch call pulses will be some-what slower and less convenient than touch dialing. West concluded, "GTE would like to offer this opportunity to Hedley customers to upgrade their telephones with as little inconvenience and cost as possible."

Customers who would like to upgrade or who have further questions may contact the local business toll free at (806) 259-3521, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Open house at the Library Dec. 18th

There will be an open house at the Library from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m., December 18, 1986. Churches, clubs, and civic groups are invited to place booths or exhibits in the library at that time. Parents who want to do a little last-minute Christmas shopping will be able to leave their children at the library during the open house. The children will watch Christmas videos, courtesy of Mac Stavenhagen. The Friends of the Library will accept donations.

Department of Public Safety report

Capt. Bob Russell, District Supervisor of the Amarillo Highway Patrol District comprising of 31 counties said, "For the month of October, our troopers investigated 9 fatal accidents, 83 personal injury accidents, and 106 property damage accidents. There were 11 persons killed and 110 persons injured in these accidents."

Sgt. Brad Parker of Tulia stated, "In Donley County, our troopers investigated 0 fatal accidents, 0 personal injury accidents and 3 property damage accidents in the month of October. 0 persons were killed and 0 persons were injured in these accidents."

Don't miss Lucky Bucks auction

The Chamber of Commerce, along with area merchants, is sponsoring a "Lucky Bucks Auction." The auction will be held on Saturday December 20th beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Family Recreation Center.

Beginning Friday, November 28th participating merchants will be giving away "Donley County Dollars" with each purchase of $10.00 or more, dollar for dollar in $10 increments.

Thursday nights from 5 p.m. - 9 p.m. and Saturdays will be "Double Dollars". So...you will be getting $20 worth of "Donley County Dollars" for each $10 purchase made.

Participating merchants are donating merchandise to be auctioned at the "Lucky Bucks Auction." You will have to use your "Donley County Dollars" to bid on the merchandise. Real money will not be accepted.

Santa will arrive at library Dec. 11

Santa Claus will be at the Clarendon Library from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. on December 11, 1986. Children can visit with him there. They can also get their pictures made with Santa.

The Friends of the Library welcome parents to the event, as well. In fact, if a volunteer has a secret desire to wear a red suit and whiskers, please contact Annis Stavenhagen or one of the Friends.

please contact Patsy Leffew at the Chamber office or call 874-2421.

Funeral services held for John Henry Ballard

Graveside services for John Henry Ballard, age 10, were held at 2:00 p.m. on Friday, November 21, 1986 at Citizens Cemetery with Rev. Melvin Brooks, Pastor of St. Stephen's Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in Citizens Cemetery with arrangements under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors.

John Henry was pronounced dead at the scene of a pickup roll over north of the Clarendon Grain Elevator at 4:57 p.m. on Saturday November 15, 1986. Four of his brothers were also injured in the accident. He was thrown from the vehicle and died from massive head injuries. He was born September 7, 1976 in Richmond, California and moved to Clarendon in 1982 from California. He was a 4th grade student in the Clarendon Elementary Schools and was a member of St. Stephen's Baptist Church in Clarendon.

Survivors include his parents, Steven and Brenita Ballard of the home; three sister, Connie Ballard, April Ballard and Brenita Ballard all of the home; four brothers, Steven Ballard, Jr., Raymond Ballard, Willie B. Ballard, and Will Earl Ballard all of the home; and his grandmother, Laura Jones of Richmond, California.

Tech's area follow up clinics receive March of Dimes grant

4 GENERATIONS- Ethel Grimsley, New Mexico, Karla Chriswell, Hedley, Nell Mask, Conchas Dam, Amarillo, Haley Elizabeth Chriswell.

Infants and children in rural areas of the Texas Panhandle will continue to receive regular follow up exams in their home towns because of a grant of $32,000 from the National March of Dimes to Texas Tech Medical School at Amarillo.

"These are infants who weighed less than 2,500 grams (5.5 pounds) at birth and must be watched closely for normal development during the first several years of their lives," said Dr. Mary Slater, pediatric psychologist in the Amarillo medical school's Department of Pediatrics.

This is the second consecutive year Tech has received the grant from the March of Dimes national office in New York. Dr. Slater and Dr. Mubariz Naqvi, neonatologist at Tech, instituted the satellite program last year.

Dr. Naqvi said an abnormally low birthweight places a child at high risk for normal development.

"The child might develop into an academic underachiever or one who is slow to crawl, walk, or talk, or who might be at risk for neurodevelopmental disorders," said Dr. Naqvi. Tech medical school at Amarillo has conducted a regular developmental program since 1983. Infants at high risk of slow mental, physical or emotional development are examined when they are one month old, again at six months and 12 months, and then annually until they are eight years old.

"Some of these children are not seen regularly because they live a great distance from Amarillo," said Dr. Slater. "So we take the clinic to them. At least once a week we go somewhere to see babies that cannot be brought to Amarillo regularly, and sometimes we travel into the area up to three times a week."

Dr. Slater said the Golden Spread chapter of March of Dimes, helped obtain the grant. "The local office of March of Dimes also has done a lot to raise local awareness of the program in the outlying areas," she said. "With their help we have established 22 satellite clinics."

Maury Martinez, RN, satellite clinic coordinator, said clinics are conducted once each month at Dalhart, Pampa, and Hereford. "The other clinics rotate throughout the area, with visits to places with the highest concentration of babies and children needing follow-up services," she said. Clinic are held in public health offices where to towns have them. Otherwise, churches provide space for the follow-up examinations.

Mothers facing what doctors call a high risk pregnancy are sent to Northwest Texas Hospital for care by Tech physicians. Patients come from all over the Texas Panhandle and parts of Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Colorado. The Amarillo hospital has the only facilities to care for low birthweight babies within this broad area.

Physicians from Texas Tech Medical School staff the nursery. After mother and baby are released from the hospital and return home, sometimes many miles away, parents might find it impossible to bring the child to the Amarillo clinic as frequently as they should. Until the satellite clinics were instituted at the beginning of the year, only about 40 percent of families with children at risk of underdevelopment have been able to participate in the follow up program.

The purpose of the follow up program is to identify early any developmental delays and provide the right training and stimulation to help the child develop normally.

Approximately 90 at risk babies are born in this area every year. already, the satellite clinics serve about 185 developmental patients. Faculty and clinic workers expect the numbers ultimately to reach 500-600.

Medical Center News

Medical Center residents had their monthly birthday celebration on November 18th. We had two residents celebrating this month. Bob Perkins 11-26-1896 and Alice Skinner 11-29-1908. Our table was decorated in Thanksgiving decor, with a Happy Birthday streamer of gold and blue. Each one had a beautiful cake. The residents wished many happy wishes for them. Then they blew out their candles. We had 26 residents present to enjoy the party. Cake and punch was served to all present.

Late night shopping has been set for the first three Thursdays in December. The dates are December 4, 11 and 18. Some of the downtown merchants will also be open Sunday December 21st from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Keep in mind this season that your area businesses are good people serving good neighbors, that's what community shopping is all about. Shop your local stores where you will find a variety of merchandise and services where the Christmas feelings are alive year round.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a contest for the best decorated homes and businesses in Clarendon. In each of these divisions there will be 3 categories:

1) Most original-most original or unique. Any theme may be used and you are encouraged to use your imagination. To create something really different and exciting.

2) Best religious scene-Christmas is a very special religious holiday, as it celebrates the birth of Christ. This award will recognize the best display of the real meaning of Christmas.

3) Most beautiful-Prettiest decorations. The emphasis here will be on the overall visual effect.

There will also be a Peoples Choice award for both divisions. Here the public is invited to cast a vote for their overall favorites. Entry form and voting ballots will be available in coming issues of the newspaper. Judging dates and deadline will also appear later.

Monday, December 1st will kick off the Christmas season with the lighting of the Community Christmas tree on the Courthouse lawn.

The Les Beau Art Club will present a Christmas pageant. If your club or organization would like to participate with any other activities such as refreshments, Santa Claus or caroling contact Randy White, 874-3371 or Patsy Leffew 874-2421.

The Clarendon Public Library will host a special Open House, Thursday, December 18th, from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. The Open House coincides with local merchants' late-closing Shop-Clarendon Campaign. Parents who need to do a little last-minute Christmas preparation can leave their children in the library while they shop. (A voluntary donation is invited.) The Friends of the Library will show video cartoons to the children, courtesy of Mac Stavenhagen.

The library has invited local clubs and other civic organizations to set up exhibits or booths in the library during the open house. Sororities, church groups or clubs that wish to participate should contact the library, 874-3685.

All residents and visitors of Donley County are invited to attend the open house.

Les Beaux Arts Club

The Les Beaux Arts Club members and their favorite beaus attended a dinner at the clubhouse, November 7th at 7 p.m.

Not only are the members good cooks but their talents for decorating is impressive. The fall colors used throughout gave you a warm feeling. It was a night of glory for the pumpkin and the unusual leaves that were used with it came from Marjorie Benson.

I am sure all ate too much and enjoyed a lot of good visiting. All are looking forward to next year.

Thanks to the hostesses, Marjorie Benson, Theda Hardin, Gladys Sawyer and Dorothy White for a lovely time.

BOB PERKINS TO BE 90

Bob Perkins will be 90 years old the 26th of November. He enjoys being in the home. He says he has good food and a host of nice people to wait on him. Bob has a brother living in Clarendon. Thomas and Ruth, a sister-in-law and a sister Grace Parker and Adelle Thornton is a sister living in Lubbock.

ALICE SKINNER 78th BIRTHDAY

Alice Skinner celebrated her 78th birthday at the Medical Center on November 18th. She was born November 29, 1908 in Fort Scott, Kansas. Her son Gary Skinner and wife, Gayle; son, Troy and wife Gerry were there to help her celebrate. Alice has a daughter, Darlene Brown and husband, Elzie who reside in Alamogordo, N.M.

Winsor receives award

Mark Winsor, Lone Star Gas Company, has been awarded a very high and distinguished award.

Mark is one of the few selected to become one of the "Most Outstanding Young Men of America. With this award, Mark will receive a certificate and have the opportunity to purchase a beautiful desk paper weight and a wall plaque. This is an honor that few men and women will ever achieve.

Mark was manager for Lone Star Gas Company in Clarendon from December 1980 to May 1986. He was transferred to Bridgeport, Texas earlier this year.

While in Clarendon he worked very hard to help make Clarendon a beautiful place to live in which people can be proud of. It takes a person who is willing to give of their time and talents for the good of the whole community. Mark encouraged the people of Clarendon to take the credit for what they had achieved. It takes a group effort to make things happen but it also takes a leader with enthusiasm to keep the fire going.

DONLEY COUNTY SENIOR CITIZENS
Caring People...A Lamp to the Community
By JEAN BATEN

Carmen checked blood pressure for 42 on Tuesday, November 18th. She will be back on Tuesday, December 2nd.

Had a nice crowd at the 3rd Tuesday Dance on November 18th at the Community Center. Good music, good food and a good time.

I was in Amarillo last Wednesday to attend the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council meeting. After the meeting I visited some of our sick folks. Sure be glad when everyone gets well and back home.

Twenty-two came out for games on Thursday, November 20th. We had eighty-four, pinnoche, skip-bo and bridge. There is room for more, now that the nights are so long it's a way to pass time.

If you didn't come in Friday, November 21st for our Thanksgiving dinner. You missed seeing a lot of folks visiting, laughing and enjoying the delicious meal. We owe a big thanks to the cooks for fixing such a good meal, and Eda for fixing the tables and running errands. They spent several volunteer hours getting it all put together.

Rather a small crowd, but a lot of good music at the Musical Jam Session on Friday, November 21st by Hugh Neuhaus, Weldon Petty, Madge Petty, Fred Fortenberry, Dick Stephens, Forrest Denton, Bailey Estes, "and me" just visited and listened. I goofed last week when listing the musicians. I listed Lucille Jenkins and it should have been Lucille Smith - sorry about that.

The Center will be closed on Thursday and Friday - November 27 and 28, 1986. Have a Happy Thanksgiving and we will see you on Monday, December 1st.

Wednesday, December 3rd at 2 p.m. Arts and Crafts is sponsoring a "Cookie Swap" at the Center. Everyone is invited to participate--just bring a batch of your favorite cookies and take home a plate of many kinds. It's a lot of fun. You younger folks come join in and get you a plate of cookies for the family--they will be glad you did.

Golden Nail committee seeking nominations

Golden Nail Awards Gala planners are now seeking nominations from a 14-city area of those who have provided extra-ordinary support for the fine arts in the Texas Panhandle during the last year.

Recipients of Golden Nail Awards -- individuals, foundations, and businesses -- will be honored in April 25 ceremonies at the Hilton Inn, according to Doris and Ted Alexander, co-chairmen of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Golden Nail Committee. The Alexanders operate the Alexander Ranch in Hemphill County.

Individual winners of the 1986 awards included Mrs. Lee T. Bivens, Mrs. Don Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. T. Boone Pickens and Dr. and Mrs. Merrill Winsett.

"The 1987 gala will be especially memorable as Amarillo's Centennial will also be celebrated," Alexander said, adding that the purpose of the Golden Nail Awards is to honor those whose financial and in-kind contributions to the fine arts in the Panhandle are of such magnitude that the impact on the arts is significant.

"The awards also underscore the point that private sector involvement is essential to the vitality of the fine arts," he said.

The Golden Nail theme is taken from a thyme beginning "For want of a nail..." that tells of a nail lost from the shoe of one horse that led to the loss of the horse, the rider, the battle and finally a kingdom.

"Golden Nail Award winners are those who have provided that saving nail," Mrs. Alexander said.

Winners are chosen from the slate of nominees by a four-person committee selected from immediate past presidents or executive committee members of fine arts boards, past Golden Nail Award winners or past members of the Golden Nail Committee.

Nominations are invited from individuals as well as arts organizations, Mrs. Alexander said.

Nomination forms are available at the Chamber office, 1000 South Polk, from Becky Zenor. Nominations should be submitted by February 1.

Golden Nail Committee members include the Alexanders, Mrs. T.M. From The PEN of PASTOR PINION

A poor woman living in a shack said, "Thank God for the sun that shines through the cracks." Thanksgiving is an empty word unless related and directed to God, the most generous Giver in the universe. The Heavenly Father "daily loads us with His benefits, Psalm 68:19. He sends the sunshine and the rain "on the evil, the good, the just and unjust," Matthew 5:45. Are any of the following our own doing? Life, food, family, an open Bible, salvation through Christ, ("The gift too wonderful to describe") and a host of other good things.

Let's you and me have a chat about thanksgiving. It is delightful and right, Psalm 147:1.

A thinking person will recognize that life and all that sustains it does not just happen. My deepest reason for thanks comes when I believe that Jesus Christ is my Savior and Director for daily life. Nothing surpasses that. I thank God it makes me want to do something for someone. Thanksgiving is contagious.

When I am thankful for forgiveness, I am willing to forgive others. Jesus pronounced severe judgement upon the debtor who was forgiven so much but was unwilling to forgive the one who owed him so little, Matthew 18:24-35. He lacked gratitude. Jesus found a low percentage of gratitude when He cured ten lepers. Only one returned with genuine gratitude. Today this ratio is very likely the same. Am I in the ten percent that pleases God?

Let Thanksgiving neither be a quickly forgotten memory nor a reluctant obligation. Penetrating oil loosens rusty metal. So let the Holy Spirit loosen and clear my heart to say, "What shall I render to the Lord for all His benefits," Psalm 116:12? The apostle Paul frequently mentions being thankful to God and the Lord Jesus Christ. Hearty gratitude follows the experience of deliverance from sin through Christ. Thanksgiving comes from the depths of the heart. "I will praise Thee, O Lord, with my whole heart," Psalm 9:1. When I praise God, His power is released within me.

Thankfulness is often unexpressed. Have I ever written to thank the teacher who influenced my life, the doctor who brought me through a crisis, the one who ministered to my specific spiritual needs? Have I generously supported worthy causes? The Holy Spirit guides the thankful heart in practical ways. Then like the furrows in the book of Psalms, my life will be sown with the seeds of gratitude and praise. So I ask, does my thanksgiving show?

This Thanksgiving Day can mean more to you and me than any previous one. "Let your lives overflow with joy and thanksgiving for all He has done," Colossians 2:7. Note the words that are used in the great song of praise in Revelation 7:12, "Blessing and glory, and wisdom, and THANKSGIVING, and honor, and power, and might, be unto our God forever and ever. Amen." I can begin a thankful life here that will continue throughout eternity. Do you want the utmost from this Thanksgiving Day? Take Jesus into your life as Lord and Savior. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved," Romans 10:9. THEN you can say THANK YOU in its fullest meaning. THEN begin private and family devotions. THEN the whole family will be nurtured in joyful thanksgiving. "Let everything that hath breath, Praise the Lord. Praise YE the Lord," Psalm 150:6.

Opposition to nuke dump growing along proposed "Trans-Texas" route

(AMARILLO)—Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has said that "Texans are becoming increasingly unhappy both with the U.S. Department of Energy's plan to dump the nation's high-level nuclear waste in Texas, and with the nuclear industry's misrepresentation of the quality of the fertile agricultural land that is proposed as the dump site."

Hightower made the comments at a news conference here where he was joined by a group of area farmers to update the Panhandle news media on DOE's proposals for storing high-level nuclear waste in Texas and transporting through the state.

"We don't want a nuclear waste accident at the Port of Houston any more than we want a nuclear accident to happen in the Panhandle. We don't want accidents along the rail or truck routes either, endangering hundreds of towns, thousands of farms and millions of people. Frankly, we don't want nuclear waste transported through or stored in Texas," Hightower said.

Towards that end, Hightower also applauded the able assistance which the Senior Senator from Texas has provided. "Thanks to Senator Bentsen, the latest federal spending bill agreed to by Congress prohibits DOE from drilling exploratory shafts at any of the proposed dump sites. This temporary prohibition against drilling shaft excavation is a definite victory for the Ogallala Aquifer and for those in the Texas Panhandle who depend upon it. Senator Bentsen is also the principal author of an amendment to the Safe Drinking Water Act, signed into law last June. This amendment requires federal agencies to comply with any state programs that are established to prevent contamination of public water wells. According to Senator Bentsen, this provision will allow the Texas Legislature to prevent the nuclear dump from being constructed in Deaf Smith County if it presents a hazard—and we believe it does—to the Ogallala Aquifer."

Hightower also corrected the so-called Committee of Energy Awareness' brief that stark depiction of Deaf Smith County, as contained in an 18-minute film presentation.

"Unfortunately, some people are still trying to trick Texans into accepting the high-level nuclear waste dump, but we're ever-mindful of them," Hightower said.

"An outfit that calls itself the Committee for Energy Awareness has hit the streets with an 18-minute film trying to make everyone believe that nuclear waste is 'no problem.' This group was formed after the Three Mile Island accident by nuclear utilities and designers, manufacturers and builders of nuclear facilities, trying to put a 'Happy Face' back on the public image of the nuclear industry.

"In its video, the CEA depicts Deaf Smith County as having the agricultural productivity of the Mojave Desert. Well, every time the nuclear industry trots out their propaganda that ignores human health, food, agriculture and the facts, we'll be there with the pictures, the farmers, the people and the truth," Hightower said.

Hightower displayed pictures of crops and livestock taken on and around the proposed Deaf Smith County dump site. These include photographs of wheat and oats on the Richardson Seed Farm adjacent to the dump site, barley on Elvin and Angela Lamb's farm 20 miles from the site; sugar beets on Bill Cleavinger's farm 10 miles from the site; irrigated sugar beets on Randy Allred's farm 15 miles from the site; and a feedlot and grain elevator at Dawn, 18 miles from the site.

Hightower also displayed a DOE map that identified the cropland, rangeland, homes and irrigation systems that are located within and around the proposed site. "DOE's own map clearly shows that the proposed dump site contains people, homes, crops and livestock, and is anything but the stark desert setting that CEA is trying to make us believe."

"It's insane to risk an area of Texas that produces 51 percent of our wheat, 58 percent of our corn, and supplies much of the world's planting seed. Over 3.5 million head of livestock are also raised in the Panhandle. Frito-Lay, Holly Sugar and Arrowhead Mills, the largest suppliers for much of the world's naturally-grown grains and other organic food items, also depend upon Panhandle farmers to supply them with fresh, quality products," Hightower said. "Contamination of food crops and water is one of the principal ways that humans are exposed to radiation, as we saw most recently with the contamination of milk, cheese, meat, even grains and vegetables, because of the Chernobyl nuclear accident in the Soviet Union."

"So, what is it going to take to assure that we don't have a nuclear catastrophe in Texas? TDA has discovered time-and-time-again in dealing with the dense federal bureaucrats of DOE and the slick public relations executives of the nuclear industry that they don't respond to logic or reason. Nor do they respond to human health or environmental concerns.

"Therefore, it will take the continued support of the Texas Legislature, the Governor, Senator Bentsen and members of the Texas Congressional Delegation to keep the nuclear dump out of Texas and to prevent the nuclear waste from being transported through our state to some other dump site," Hightower said. "The one thing DOE has done—contrary to its wishes—is to bring people together here in Texas—together in opposition to their nuclear waste dump proposals."

(AUSTIN)—"For decades, Texas has had millions of tons of hazardous waste dumped in landfills, pits, ponds, or wells, leaving us with a toxic legacy that threatens our groundwater and the health of our people," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said recently at a Capitol news conference.

"But the good news is that proven, cost efficient alternatives to land disposal exist today, and a concerted effort by industry and the state of Texas can move us away from outmoded, dangerous, expensive land disposal methods."

Hightower, on hand to release a new Texas Department of Agriculture report, "Hazardous Waste in Texas: Alternatives to Land Disposal," added that, "The best news of all is that the Texas legislature already is moving into action to develop a state program that will implement this transition."

Hightower was joined by El Paso State Senator Tati Santiesteban, chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee. Santiesteban announced that his committee will hold a mid-November hearing in Lake Jackson on the issue of waste management. "Clearly the state has a duty to make sure these dangerous materials are disposed of in an environmentally safe manner," Santiesteban said.

Quoting from the report, Hightower said, "The basic hazardous waste policy in Texas should be to phase out land disposal and to phase in alternative waste management technologies and practices. The goal should be to eliminate all land disposal of wastes that could contaminate our environment. As we move toward that goal, land disposal should be allowed only after all the best practicable alternatives have been exhausted and only if proper sites can be selected."

"The reason we have hundreds of land disposal sites in Texas is because they appear to be cheaper on the front end," Hightower said. "What we must do is address the discrepancy between the perceived cost and the true cost of land disposal methods. Many land disposal sites will eventually have to be cleaned up at great expense. In addition, there are the potential costs in human life and health from disposal sites. Some of these toxic wastes remain hazardous essentially forever, and it's now obvious that every land disposal site is an accident with long-term consequences just waiting to happen. When you consider how much more expensive it is to try to clean up after the damage has been done than to manage the waste properly to begin with, it's Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower updated Panhandle news media about the Department of Energy's "Trans-Texas" route for shipping nuclear waste by rail or truck from the Port of Houston to Deaf Smith County. Hightower was joined by a group of area farmers whose properties are adjacent to the proposed dump site.

TDA report cites alternatives to landfill disposal of waste obvious the time has come to use alternatives to land disposal methods," Hightower said.

As TDA makes clear in its report on alternatives to land disposal, the companies and industries in this state providing jobs for hundreds of thousands of Texans can save money, avoid costly long-term liabilities and create more jobs by going to alternatives to landfills. It's up to government and industry to work together to advance those alternatives as quickly as possible.

Texas Is Largest Hazardous Waste Producer

Texas ranks first in the nation in the amount of hazardous chemical waste its industries produce—not surprising since Texas also has the largest concentration of oil refineries and chemical plants in the nation. The hazardous waste materials produced at Texas facilities range from synthetic organic industrial and agricultural chemicals to toxic metals, inorganic sludges, solvents, waste oils and chemically-contaminated industrial streams. Texas also has the "small quantity generators" adding to the total.

Currently, there are 200 hazardous waste land disposal facilities in Texas and another 230 waste storage and processing facilities. Both the state and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are inspecting more than 1000 additional potential hazardous waste sites that may be a problem—475 of them are pesticide aerial applicator sites and 850 are pesticide ground applicator sites. There are also 26 sites in Texas that are eligible for the federal government cleanup Superfund and many more which could be. Six of the Superfund sites are in rural areas.

About 99 percent of all hazardous waste has been disposed of "on-site," most of it buried in landfills, placed in surface impoundments—pits, ponds and lagoons—or injected into deep wells. Decades of outdated waste management practices have left the nation's landscape scarred with thousands of chemical waste dumpsites, including hundreds in Texas, many of them abandoned or uncontrolled and many of them leaking. The most serious problem is the contamination of groundwater, on which about half of all Texans and 85 percent of all rural Texans depend for their drinking water supply.

Groundwater contamination is now being found at dozens of currently operating, regulated waste disposal facilities in Texas. The Texas Water Commission has ordered 34 of them to begin some remedial action. The Water Commission staff estimates that, altogether, about 100 of the permitted land disposal facilities in Texas will leak and contaminate groundwater. In addition, groundwater contamination has been found at all 26 Superfund sites in Texas.

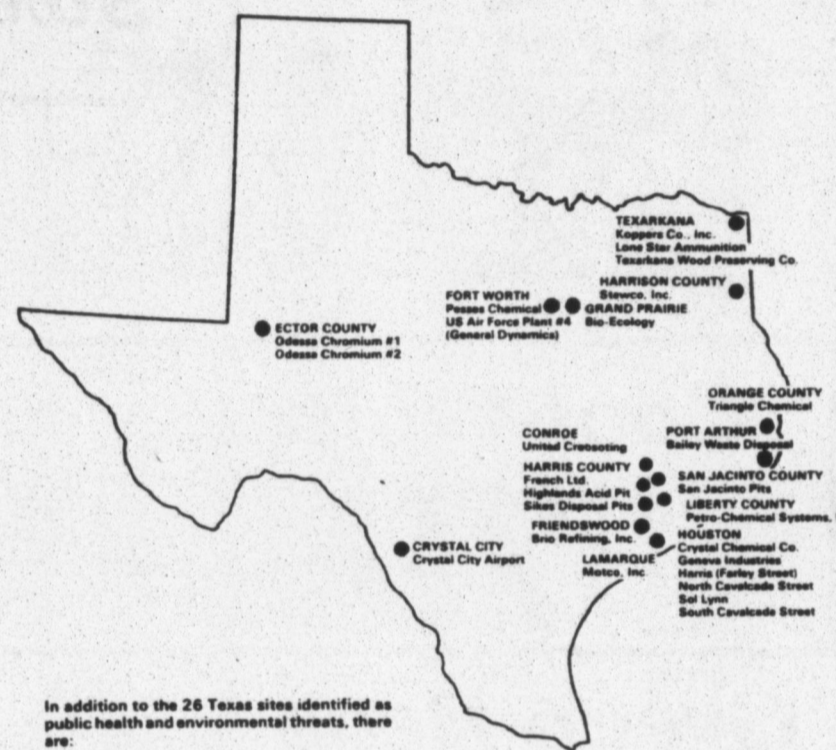

Hightower said, "The proper disposal of hazardous waste is an especially serious problem for the rural parts of our state. Applications for permits in urban areas meet community opposition, forcing more and more of the sites into the rural areas. But this should not be a rural versus urban battle. It should be a fight to avoid the problem altogether by doing away with land disposal methods and getting on with finding safe alternatives."

Alternatives to Land Disposal

"Once the groundwater has been contaminated," Hightower said, "it is just about impossible to clean up. But we are rapidly developing the technology so we don't have to rely on land disposal methods. A report by the National Academy of Sciences has concluded that all current waste streams can be treated by existing technologies. Among alternatives available to landfills as detailed in the TDA report, are: 1) waste volume reduction measures, 2) recycling, 3) treatment and destruction measures."

Waste volume reduction measures include keeping waste streams separate

Texas Hazardous Waste Sites On the National Priorities List

- In addition to the 26 Texas sites identified as public health and environmental threats, there are:
- 200 operating hazardous waste disposal facilities
- 230 hazardous waste storage and processing facilities
- Over 1,000 potential hazardous waste problem sites in the production process in the plant in order to reduce waste volume and make byproducts easier to recover and reuse. Called source segregation, this method can prevent contamination of large volumes of nonhazardous waste by keeping the hazardous constituents separate, which can also be the first step in a recycling process. This is the simplest, easiest and probably the least expensive method of waste reduction. Another possibility is to change the design or operation of the manufacturing processes in order to reduce the amount of waste material generated.

Recycling simply recovers and reuses as raw materials, waste materials that otherwise would have been disposed of or burned. An example of this is taking hydrochloric acid, a byproduct of producing freon refrigerants, and turning it back into chlorine for reuse in the manufacturing process.

Finally, the waste can be eliminated in various ways involving incineration, high-tech thermal destruction methods or chemical or biological means. EPA has identified 25 existing and emerging technologies that are capable of destroying at least some types of hazardous wastes. Most of these are currently available technologies that break down hazardous waste into nonhazardous constituents using high temperatures to decompose the waste. One big advantage of the thermal destruction technologies is that the reduction in waste volume is permanent.

Energy recovery facilities, one type of thermal destruction technology, also show promise since the hazardous waste material can be eliminated and at the same time produce heat and steam used to create energy.

Chemical treatments include oxidation, neutralization and the dechlorination. The advantages here are no air emissions, no products of incomplete combustion, reduced transportation risks, recycling of a valuable material or the recovery of its fuel value.

Biological treatments that use microorganisms or enzymes to decompose or detoxify wastes are also available. This area needs more research since the process tends to be slow and the environmental impact is hard to gauge.

"Improved disposal of hazardous waste isn't going to happen overnight, but help is on the way," Hightower said. In 1985, the Texas legislature enacted the "Solid Waste Disposal Act," a new state policy specifying that the preferred methods for managing hazardous waste should be, in order of preference:

- A) Minimization of waste pro-

B) Reuse and/or recycling of waste
C) Treatment to destroy hazardous characteristics
D) Treatment to reduce hazardous characteristics
E) Underground injection
F) Land disposal
"In addition, EPA is considering tougher restrictions on land disposal. And the 'joint and several liability' provision in federal law makes generators and shippers, as well as the owners and operators of the facility, responsible for any subsequent cleanup costs."

Public/Private Cooperation

"But while it's encouraging that both federal and state policies are a move away from land disposal toward alternatives, in Texas we still have no program to implement this urgently needed transition," Hightower said. "Our job is to convince those persons manufacturing, shipping and disposing of the hazardous waste materials it's in their best interests to work with government in leading the way to these alternatives."

"The time has arrived for state government and the private sector to work together to develop advanced waste management facilities as alternatives to land disposal methods, and that includes support for research and development of advanced waste management technologies. The state should also develop a comprehensive 'Hazardous Waste Needs Assessment,' identifying what hazardous waste management facilities will be needed in Texas and to determine what state action is needed to make sure they get built."

Hightower added, "Texas must also make sure we have adequate waste management facilities for the thousands of small quantity generators which for the first time are being brought under federal law. For all those facilities generating about one gallon of waste or more per day, such as pesticide applicators, furniture makers, gas stations, dry cleaners, print shops, painting contractors, hospitals, veterinarians, laboratories, photographic processors, building contractors and military installations, we must come up with a system to safely dispose of their hazardous wastes. We may want to have a garbage pick-up system, just like we do now for urban residential consumers, or we may want to require their suppliers to pick up wastes when they deliver new supplies."

Possible route for nuclear waste transportation

One of two possible routes for the shipment of high-level radioactive waste to a proposed site in Deaf Smith County would be by either rail or highway through Childress, Memphis, Hedley and Clarendon. The Department of Energy is proposing nuclear waste be shipped by barge from the east coast to the port of Houston and then be transported by truck or train to the site 30 miles west of Amarillo.

Burlington Northern rails, or Highway 287 to Amarillo. Another route would be through Central Texas on the Santa Fe railroad to Lubbock and Amarillo.

During a recent hearing in Houston by the House Subcommittee on Hazardous Materials Transportation, state agriculture commissioner Jim Hightower said that six million Texas are now tied into the possible dumping of nuclear waste in the Panhandle.

Hazardous Waste Fact Sheet

- There are about 2000 industrial hazardous waste generators in Texas, each producing more than 1000 kilograms of waste per month. In addition, there are tens of thousands of "small quantity generators" which for the first time will be regulated if they produce between 100 kg and 1000 kg per month (220-2200 lb).
- In May 1986 there were 430 waste storage, processing and disposal facilities in Texas, including 200 land disposal facilities. Closure plans have been submitted for 90-100 of the 200 land disposal facilities.
- The most serious problem caused by land disposal methods is contamination of groundwater. One half of all Americans and one half of all Texans rely on groundwater for their drinking water. In addition, 85 percent of all rural Texans depend on groundwater for their drinking water.
- Texas ranks first in the nation in the amount of hazardous chemical waste its industries produce. In 1983, Texas produced 38 million tons or about 5000 lb. of hazardous waste for every person in Texas, which is 13 percent of total U.S. production of 300 million tons. An additional 100,000

- tons of hazardous waste material is produced each day in Texas.
- Most hazardous waste is disposed of "on-site" using land disposal measures—buried in landfills, placed in surface pits, ponds or lagoons, or injected into deep wells.
- The largest volume of hazardous waste in Texas is disposed of in underground disposal wells (injection wells). The Texas Water Commission estimates that volume to be 6 billion gallons annually. There are 90 hazardous waste deep wells in Texas.
- EPA and the state are inspecting more than 1000 additional potential hazardous waste sites that may be a problem—475 of them are pesticide aerial applicator sites and 850 are pesticide ground applicator sites.
- There are 26 sites in Texas eligible for Superfunds and many more which could be a problem. Every identified superfund site is leaking and contaminating groundwater.
- Groundwater contamination by hazardous waste can cause cancer, birth defects, miscarriages, nervous disorders, blood diseases and damage to vital organs and genes.

SEASON OF LIGHT, a new holiday planetarium show, will premier Friday, November 28th at the Don Harrington discovery Center and will run through January 4th. Investigating the history of mankind's symbolic use of light, this program focuses on Christmas and Hanukkah, and explains how many traditions came into being. It also takes a factual look at possible explanations for the Star of Bethlehem and presents new findings concerning the actual birth date of Jesus.

Special show times have been planned for the holidays in addition to the regular schedule. The Discovery Center will be presenting shows on December 26, 30, 31 and January 2. "SEASON OF LIGHT" will be shown at 2:00 p.m. each of these days. The regular schedule will also be in effect as follows:

Friday nights:
7:30 "THE MAGIC EGG" and "TO FLY"
8:30 "SEASON OF LIGHT"
Saturday and Sunday:
1:00 "NIGHT OF THE HUNTER"
2:00 "SEASON OF LIGHT"
3:30 "THE MAGIC EGG" and "TO FLY"

Public Utility Commission of Texas
Consumer Update

As we again approach the coldest months of the year, Texans are reminded of the importance of weatherizing their homes.

A weatherized home is more comfortable, and it saves money by reducing utility bills — both summer and winter. To help Texans better control their energy costs, the Energy Efficiency Division of the Public Utility Commission maintains a toll-free ENERGY HOTLINE. Energy specialists who take hotline calls can answer a range of questions on home energy efficiency and applications of renewable resources.

There are several things homeowners should do now — before the cold weather arrives. First is a furnace tune-up. Service at the beginning of each heating season ensures the efficient operation of your system. Call early before service people are tied up making needed repairs. For optimal operating efficiency, change the air filter monthly when the system is in use.

Other jobs that should be done before cold weather arrives include caulking air leaks, sealing plumbing and wiring penetrations, and weatherstripping doors and windows. If your water heater is in unconditioned space, now's the time to wrap it. Pre-cut insulation kits with instructions are available at most hardware stores or home improvements centers. If your attic needs additional insulation, do it now. This job requires a greater expenditure of time and money than others mentioned, but increased comfort and energy savings offset the expense.

Duct work in the attic should be checked for leaks and proper insulation. Check your water pipes, too. You can save energy when you wrap the hot water pipes, and you can prevent frozen pipes by wrapping the cold water pipes as well.

Windows also need attention. An easy, low-cost way to deal with leaky windows is to cover them with sheets of polyethylene plastic. This will retard heat loss and reduce air leakage.

After you have finished your outdoor fireplace "retrofit," check the fireplace inside, too. Make sure the damper is tightly closed. Dampers warp easily, but some leftover insulation can solve the problem. Cut a piece the appropriate size and secure it over the damper. Don't forget to remove it when you build a cozy fire!

Keeping the drapes or window shades closed on the north side of the house is a simple action that can save energy. Also, it is a good idea to close off unoccupied rooms. If your house has central heating, you can close off the vents in the unoccupied rooms.

Another good way to keep utility bills under control in cold weather is to keep the thermostat turned down as much as possible. You can turn your thermostat down without being uncomfortable if you are dressed for the cooler temperature.

For example, you will be warmer in an absorbent fabric such as cotton or wool — especially if you make use of the "layering" technique. Multiple layers of lightweight, loose clothing will keep you warmer than one heavy layer of clothing. Remember also that thick soled shoes are warmer than those with thin soles.

If there is considerable traffic into and out of the house, you should make sure that the door is not kept open any longer than necessary. A door left open even for a short time allows a surprising amount of heat to escape from the house.

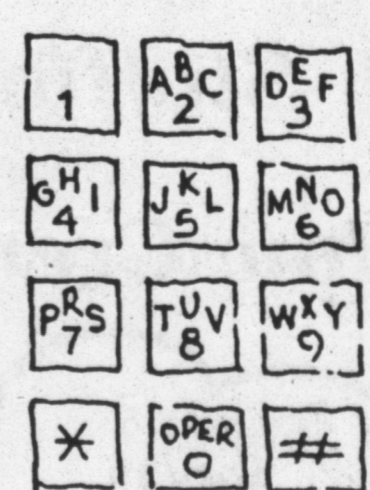

Information on other easy, low-cost actions to control energy use and keep your utility bills in check is available from the ENERGY HOTLINE. To request information, call 1/800/643/SAVE and get started early on your energy and money-saving projects. You may also write:

The greatest advance in telephone technology since the invention of the wheel.

5,500 years ago, man invented the wheel. And you've still got one sitting on your telephone?

Maybe it's time you replaced that rotary dial with modern touch calling service. It's really remarkable what those 12 little buttons can do. They're not only faster and easier than dialing, but they give you access to future services. Someday, you'll be able to do your banking, bill-paying — even shopping — by phone.

So call your General Telephone business office or visit a GTE Phone Mart today. And stop spinning your wheels.

Burns ... One of the largest hazards of childhood

By PATSY LEFFEW

One of the largest hazards of childhood -- maim, cripple and or kill thousands of children each year.

As the end of the 1950's approached, a special committee was appointed by the Shriners of North America, to study the areas of need and found that the treatment of burn injuries, particularly in children, was receiving little or no attention. The only burn treatment center in the United States was part of a military hospital, and it had no special facilities for treating burned children. The committee presented their findings to the Imperial Session in Toronto in 1962, and offered a resolution that the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children build and operate one or more hospitals for the treatment and care of burned children. Galveston, Texas was selected as the site for the first of the three Burns Institutes. A seven bed interim unit, operated by the Shriners, was opened in John Sealy Hospital, the teaching hospital for the University of Texas Medical Branch. The burn unit at John Sealy Hospital became known around the world when treating patients from a ship explosion near the refineries in nearby Texas City in 1947.

Ground was broken for the new building on June 23, 1964. After two days of ceremonies and public tours, the first patient, Miguel Delgado of El Paso, was transferred from the interim unit to the new Shriners Burns Institute on March 20, 1966.

Since that grand opening, over 11,000 patients have been admitted for diagnosis and treatment at the Galveston Unit. Patients have come from 43 of the 50 states in the U.S., and from over 31 foreign countries, including Iraq, Korea, Saudi Arabia and South Africa. An additional 24,000 children have been seen on an out-patient basis and all of this at no cost to these patient or their families.

This specialized pediatric burn center utilizes a team concept to meet the staggering physical and psychological challenges created by traumatic burn injuries. These institutes provide excellent care and treatment in technically sophisticated and modern facilities, for severely burned children requiring immediate acute care, or those needing reconstructive or restorative surgery and rehabilitation as a result of severe burns. All care and treatment is provided absolutely FREE.

The Shrine's ultimate endeavor is to provide quality care so that children may have a better chance to lead useful, productive lives.

Affiliation with outstanding medical schools is one of the many ways in which the Shrine fulfills its continuing obligation to practice quality medicine and provide the highest standards of research and care for their young patients.

Under the present Chief of Staff, Dr. David N. Herndon, the length of stay has been reduced dramatically, and the research program has been emphasized and expanded. Dr. Herndon has headed this hospital for the last six years, since the age of 30. In addition to his work with the Shrine Institute, he is also on staff at the University of Texas Medical Burns division and a professor of surgery for the University of Texas Medical Branch.

Dr. Herndon's dedication can be felt as he explains, "When patients come here they are frightened and filled with fear. Their bodies are infused with adrenaline for months on end, even when their burns have healed. This 'fright hormone' makes their heart beat three times faster and their liver utilize three times as much food. They have a tremendous need for calories. A child has very little fat to respond to such a massive need for calories. We are now treating this response." In the past burn victims had to be soaked in tubs or vats several times a day and the remaining burned skin would be gently picked off with tweezers. Sometimes, the pain was excruciating.

"Today we have been able to reduce the pain by covering the wounds with artificial skin and real skin from a donor sight," said Dr. Herndon. "what is unique is that we are able to surgically remove the burn wound and replace it with skin within 24-48 hours of admission. The children are getting here soon enough and are not dying from shock. We have tremendous objectives to reduce scarring and return these children to society as normal functioning people," he added. The Galveston Unit's lifesaving record is remarkable. Of the 789 children who have been treated only three have died. There are 30 beds in the unit. Fifteen have been set aside for the care of acute burn victims and the remaining 15 are for victims who are there for reconstructive surgery.

The Shriners have bought five apartments for the parents to stay in while their children are at the burn institute, because they strongly believe and understand how important the parents are in helping the healing process.

Dr. Nick Wilson, Ph.D., hospital administrator, says, "We like to have at least one parent come down and stay with the child. The parent gives the love needed so that the child realizes that even though they are burned and ugly, they are still loved and loveable."

They are actively involved in the development of artificial skin and many other major advancements that will continue to revolutionize the way burn patients will be treated in the future. Two major burn treatment breakthroughs have originated at the Galveston Institute. The Jobst skin, is a tight-fitting suit that reduces scarring and the Clintron bed which allows air to flow around the victim's skin. The Clintron bed speeds healing and reduces bedsores. "It feels like a giant beanbag until you turn it on. It is full of little beads of sand that vibrate and allow for the air to flow around," explains Dr. Wilson. Reconstructive surgery is an important part of the center's treatment. Children can apply for reconstructive surgery even though they did not receive their initial treatment at the institute.

"I look forward to coming here everyday. I am lucky because I know that I have a real purpose when I come to work here. I am helping someone. I am helping children and I know that. It is a happy moment when those kids leave here and to know that when they leave they want to live," beams Dr. Wilson.

Fish took possession of the seas. Birds filled the air. Four-footed animals roamed the land. Man soon joined them.

Prometheus, a member of the giant Titan clan sent by the gods to oversee this new creation, was ordered to give man and all other animals the faculties necessary for preservation.

Prometheus began to bestow gifts on the inhabitants...a sharp beak to the eagle, stong limbs to the ape... speed to the jaguar. When it came time to provide for man, Prometheus discovered that he had exhausted his gifts. Nothing was left for man-whom the gods had ordered should receive a gift to surpass those given all other creatures.

Prometheus turned to Athena, the goddess of wisdom, for help. She told him to light a torch at the chariot of the sun god and to bring to earth fire as a supreme gift to man. Prometheus did this--stole fire from the heaven and returned it to earth where man used it to cook his food, heat his dwelling and to fashion tools and weapons to subdue other animals.

Zeus, the king of all the gods, saw man with fire(which he perceived as an instrument reserved only to the gods) and was furious with Prometheus. So great was his rage that he ordered Prometheus chained to a rock atop of Mt. Caucasus and each day sent an eagle to torture and torment him.

Prometheus could have ended his ordeal at any time by telling Zeus how he came to bring the gift of fire to man but he would not. And as the days of his ordeal increased in number, Prometheus grew in strength and Zeus knew the punishment would not succeed.

Thus Zeus proclaimed that man must pay for his intrusion upon the properties of the gods.

While Prometheus had brought fire to man as a blessing, Zeus now ordained that it should become a curse as well.

For every hearth that it warmed, so too would it burn another home to the ground. For every forge used to make weapons, another would explode in conflagration to destroy men. For every field tilled with tools forged from fire, another would be ravaged with fire that would sweep beyond into the forests, blackening the earth and all in its path.

Thus, Prometheus' gift became a mixed blessing for man.

It has contributed undeniably to the advancement of civilization...but it has likewise produced some of civilization's greatest disasters.

And today man still grapples to sort the good from the evil in fire. Last year in the United States alone, more than 8,000 people died...at least 100,000 people were injured...and more than $3 billion in property was destroyed.

Within the hour that you read this, one person will die in fire and another 34 will be crippled or disfigured. No less than 300 fires of destruction will rage within that hour. Fire-friend...or foe?

Most fires occur because the public is indifferent toward good fire prevention practices. Seventy percent of the fires that occur in homes and building can be attributed to carelessness. Many others are caused by faulty equipment which could or should have been recognized and repaired. These are the needless fires-the kind that can be prevented if each of us take the time to practice fire safety in the home.

Firefighters agree on 11 hazardous situations that could be present in most homes and make them vulnerable to fire.

- *Careless Smoking Habits
- *Playing with Matches or Fireworks
- *Matches or Cigarettes Tossed in Rubbish
- *Thawing Frozen Water Pipes
- *Combustible Materials
- *Defective Electrical Wiring
- *Faulty electrical Appliances
- *Over-heated or Improperly Constructed Heating Units
- *Open Flames and Sparks
- *Defective or Overheated Cooking Equipment
- *Improper Use of Flammable Liquids

Careless handling and storage of flammable liquids are a major cause of home fires and deaths.

Fire - Friend or Foe

Taken from a booklet by State Farm Fire and Casualty Company.

In the twilight time before the earth, sea and heaven were separated, there existed the blackest of voids called chaos. According to Greek legend, it was in this universe of nights that the gods and nature interposed to create order. They diverted channels of the sea to form rivers and bays, to raise up mountains and to smooth fertile plains.

Computer match causes thousands to register with selective service

More than 22,000 men who either applied for, or received federal pell grants-student financial assistance - have recently registered with selective service. They had been identified by a new computer matching program as possible lawbreakers, but their registrations have brought them into compliance with federal law.

Although each man was required by law to register within 30 days of his 18th birthday, government records indicated none had done so. Their identities were discovered by selective service through a computer match of department of education pell grant applicant and recipient lists and selective service registrant files. Male students whose names didn't match a record in the selective service registration database received letters informing them they were suspected nonregistrants, and that they would be ineligible for federal financial assistance unless they registered, or could submit proof of previously registering, or being exempt from the requirement.

"This has produced many new registrations," notes Lew Brodsky, Director of Public Affairs at selective service. "The response continues, but as of October 27th we have 22,329 new registrations attributable to this effort."

The sharing of records between education and selective service stems from a provision of public law 97-252.

An amendment to the military selective service act requires that men be in compliance with the registration law to be eligible for student financial aid under Title IV of the higher education act. The rationale behind the Solomon Amendment (named for its sponsor, Rep. Gerald B. Solomon, R-NY) was that young men unwilling to risk being called to serve the nation in a true crisis should not be allowed to benefit from federally funded student aid programs.

According to selective service acting director Will Ebel, men born after December 31, 1959 who have reached the age of 18 but are not yet age 26 must be registered. There are few exceptions. Ebel reports that 97 percent are complying with the law. Failure to register is a felony. Besides being ineligible for student grants and loans, nonregistrants forfeit eligibility for appointment to federal employment and job training programs. They also risk criminal prosecution and if convicted, face a fine of up to $250,000 or a jail term of up to five years, or both.

"With the increasing federal and state legislation supporting registration and new computer checks and processing, the comparatively few men failing to register now are risking greater personal consequences and have a greater likelihood of being caught," Ebel said.

1926 Book Club

The 1926 Book Club met on Tuesday, November 18, 1986, at the Patching Clubhouse at 4:00 p.m.

Hostesses: Dikki Howell and Susie Shields, served delicious refreshments to members and guests.

Glenda Hawkins, President presided.

Our speaker, James Carter, Pastor of the Methodist Church, was introduced by Rachel Butler. Mr. Carter is president of the Clarendon Ministerial Alliance. He gave a very inspiring talk about "Thanksgiving" about a "thankful heart." It was enjoyed by all.

A business meeting was conducted by Glenda Hawkins, President. The members read the Club "Collect." The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Recording Secretary Betty Veach. They were approved.

Members were reminded to pay their dues.

The next meeting will be the Christmas Party program at Hazel Brandon's home. Mrs. Brandon invited the club to come to see her home for Christmas program. It will be gift exchange for members.

City Minutes

The Board of Aldermen of the City of Clarendon met in regular session on November 10, 1986, in the Board Room, City Hall at 7:00 p.m.

Members present: Mayor James L. Kuhn, Aldermen B.L. Graham, Steve Smith, Lloyd McCord, and James Sharrar.

Others present: Alderman Gene White. Others present: City Secretary Donna Edwards, Jim Roberts, and Delbert Robertson.

Minutes of the October 28, 1986, meeting were read, and motion was made by Alderman B.L. Graham, seconded by Alderman Lloyd McCord, to designate City Hall as the location to pay Associated Ambulance bills. Motion carried.

The Board of Aldermen stated that they had no objection to West Texas Equipment putting a small parts building for the purpose of a parts shuttle on a portion of a City lot north of the pump station.

Motion was made by Alderman Steve Smith, seconded by Alderman James Sharrar, to not charge the Senior Citizen's Association for a sewer tap required by State Health officials at their building. Motion carried with 3 ayes and Alderman B.L. Graham abstaining.

Bills for the month of October, 1986 were presented, and upon a motion by Alderman James Sharrar, seconded by Alderman Lloyd McCord, said bills were ordered paid. Motion carried.

There being no other City business at this time, motion was made by Alderman James Sharrar, seconded by Alderman Lloyd McCord to adjourn. Motion carried.

Tim Cole inducted into National Honor Society

The Texas Zeta chapter of Alpha Chi national honor society inducted Tim Cole, son of Bob and Gay Cole of Clarendon, in special ceremonies at West Texas State University on November 9. Membership is one of the highest academic honors a WTSU student can achieve.

Alpha Chi is limited to juniors and seniors with a grade-point average of at least 3.50 who rank in the top ten percent of their respective classes. WTSU's Texas Zeta chapter is one of the largest of the 244 Alpha Chi chapters in the country. Its objectives are to promote and to recognize superior scholarship and those elements of character which make scholarship effective for service.

Texas Wagon Train collectibles announced

What better way to remember the 1986 Texas Independence Sesquicentennial celebrations than with one or both special commemorative items prepared for the Texas Wagon Train Association. These are three special medallions and ten commemorative First Day Covers of the Texas Sesquicentennial Stamp.

The set of three medallions are available in bronze, 22 1/2 carat gold plated bronze or 1 troy ounce .999 fine silver proof. Each is approximately 1 1/2" in diameter. The first medallion features the Gonzales Cannon and the "Come and Take It" flag, and the date of the battle October 2, 1835. The second medallion features portraits of the heroes James Bowie, David Crockett, and William Travis placed around the familiar facade of the Alamo. The last of the three medals honors the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train and has a mule-drawn wagon over the outline of Texas. It is also known as the Winchester Medal as this is the design of the medal placed into the stock of the special Winchester rifles reproduced for the Sesquicentennial. These medallions are available as a set in a handsome heavy vinyl album as well as individually.

The First Day Covers offers the opportunity to have not only the special commemorative stamp issued by the United States Postal Service on March 2nd, 1986, postmarked with the official cancels, but also to have full color reproductions of famous Texas Independence artwork. The Daughters of the Republic of Texas have permitted the use of four-color separations of paintings displayed at the Alamo. The San Jacinto Museum of History Association at Houston has similarly permitted the reproductions of four paintings owned by that group. To round out this collection are two paintings by famous Texas artist B. Heard commissioned for this project.

Provided by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas are a color portrait of the entrance to the Alamo, the 1953 Ruth Conerly painting of William Barrett Travis in the midst of the Battle of the Alamo, the 1834 portrait of David Crockett by John Chapman, and the John Adams portrait of Jim Bowie.

The San Jacinto Museum of History Association permitted the use of a detail from the Fred Toler painting showing the Brutus and the Texas Navy, The Robert Joy copy of George Catlin's portrait of Stephen F. Austin, the Seymour Thomas painting of General San Houston on horseback, and a portrait of the Mexican military leader Santa Anna.

B. Heard painted "RFD Texas" combining many images of rural Texas, such as a rural mail box painted like the Texas flag with an armadillo below and a field of bluebonnets, giving a contemporary viewpoint of Texas Independence. His second painting is titled "First Shot" and shows the Gonzales Cannon and flag amidst a field of bluebonnets.

The set of ten (10) First Day Covers comes in a special heavy vinyl album and includes a brief history of the events leading to the winning of independence for Texas.

Either collection will be a treasured keepsake in the future as tangible souvenirs of the Texas Independence Sesquicentennial and make appropriate gifts for anyone this year. Both products are sanctioned by the Texas Wagon Train Associations and bear its logo.

The Texas Wagon Train Association during its six month, three thousand mile trek across Texas from Sulphur Springs to Fort Worth attracted great amounts of national attention for Texas and the Sesquicentennial. Travelling through hundreds of towns it brought a look at "The good old days" to a great many Texans.

Proceeds also benefitted the Alamo, The Daughters of the Republic of Texas, the San Jacinto Museum of History Association, and the Texas Wagon Train Association.

Banks in many Texas localities are making the medallion sets and the First Day Cover sets available as a public service. Further information is also available from Metroplex Stamps, 1226 Commerce Street, Suite 406, Dallas, Texas 75202, Telephone 214-651-1330.

CONTROL PSORIASIS

Psoriasis cannot be cured, and we do not know for certain what causes this skin condition. The scalp, elbows, knees, genital areas, and anal areas are commonly affected with flat patches that are pink or dull red. covering these areas is a layer of "silvery" scales. In psoriasis, the body is producing new skin faster than old skin falls from the body. Normally the new skin production cycle takes about 30 days. In psoriasis, new skin patches may be produced every few days.

Four out of ten individuals with psoriasis have other family members who are also affected. And there may be a relationship between psoriasis, seborrhea, and even common dandruff.

Exposure to sunlight is beneficial, and applying coal tar preparations to the skin before sun exposure improves effectiveness. Salicylic acid preparations are applied to psoriatic areas to loosen scales so that they might be washed from the body. Prescription steroid creams and anthralin paste also may help control this condition.

Hightower dedicates B3R Country Meats, new meat packing and retail venture

(CHILDRESS)—To generate a new age of economic growth, Texas has got to go wildcatting again, and one of the most promising fields for striking it rich is that old reliable—agriculture.

Hightower was in Childress to participate in the Grand Opening ribbon-cutting ceremony for a new rancher-owned meat packing plant and retail store. Under the name of B3R Country Meats, this fully-integrated production, processing and marketing facility is owned and operated by Bill, Minnie and Mary Lou Bradley.

"The Bradley 3 Ranch and B3R Country Meats is a textbook example of how Texas farmers and ranchers can go wildcatting and become the processors and marketers of their own commodities," Hightower said. "This grassroots Childress enterprise is already turning 63 cent-a-pound choice steers 'on the hoof' into choice beef cuts that sell for as much as $3.50-a-pound retail, a sweet deal for the Bradleys and area consumers alike. It has also created 10 new jobs with 30 more to come, and will bring over $4 million-a-year in new economic activity to the Childress-area economy."

The Bradleys operate their own cow-calf operation and feedlot. The cattle are fed with corn produced by area farmers, to the extent possible. The new 5,800 square-foot slaughterhouse is capable of processing up to 3,000 head annually. Wholesale deliveries to area grocery stores and restaurants have already begun. An attached 1,700 square-foot retail facility permits the Bradleys to sell directly to consumers. The Texas Department of Agriculture began assisting the Bradleys in May 1985, and Commissioner Hightower participated in groundbreaking ceremonies for the new facility in April of this year. TDA's marketing and agricultural development staff provided costs and income analyses for the Bradley's project. A ready market for the high-quality natural beef was identified within a 45-mile radius of Childress, with TDA helping the Bradleys find markets for their beef in area grocery stores, restaurants and directly to consumers. TDA's Taste of Texas program, which identifies Texas-grown and processed food products, will be used to promote B3R Country Meat products. In addition, the retail store is

FaithMission

By, JESSIE SNEED

Faith Mission welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Loyd Burd Thursday for the 7 p.m. Service. Rev. Burd is superintendent of Great Plains Conference. We know God is not dead when Brother Burd stands behind the sacred desk. This is what humanity hearts are crying out for. Heaven set refreshing coals off the altar. The annointed word of God. Rev. Burd will be starting a revival November 28th assisted by Assistant Superintendent and board members from Borger, Pampa, and Amarillo. Revival November 28 - December 3 at 7:30 p.m. Faith Mission, 307 South Kearney Street. Cordial invitation to all. don't miss this time of refreshing. Throw out the life line to danger though men are sinking in anguish where you've never been. Soon will the season of rescue be over - soon will they drift to eternity's shore. Hasten then my brother. No time for delay. But throw out the life line and save them today. Remembering the issue of life to be are colors we weave all our own. And in the field of destiny we reap as we have sown. God Bless All.

carrying the products of 14 other Taste of Texas companies, ranging from seasonings and sauces to jams, jellies and cakes.

"As you can see, we're not talking about some high-cost, high tech, pie-in-the-sky future shock type business here," Hightower said, "but rather about a down-to-earth, here-and-now profitable enterprise that will bring real jobs and new cash income to the people of Childress County. We know that this grassroots economic development approach will work, because it already is working in dozens of ventures that TDA has been assisting during the past few years. Added together, these small and medium-sized agricultural ventures will help create the billions of dollar in new income and hundreds of thousands of new jobs that the Texas economy must have tomorrow if we are to grow out of today's economic stagnation."

The Texas Department of Agriculture released in October a 126-page in-depth analysis of the multi-billion-dollar growth potential that Texans can achieve through agricultural diversification, processing and direct marketing. Entitled "Economic Growth Through Agricultural Development: A Blueprint for Action," the report concludes with a series of special legislative proposals that can help Texas farmers, ranchers, cooperatives and food businesses produce $15 billion-a-year in new income for the state and create 165,000 new jobs for Texas.

Getting Your Signal Straight on Satellite Dishes

If you are weary of poor television reception or if you live in an area without cable, you may be considering getting your own satellite dish. If you are, you should know that there is a wide range in quality and price. As with any major purchase, you should buy from a reputable dealer with a solid background, and avoid heavy sales pitches and gimmicks.

pliance, that is not always the case. We have received complaints about the highest priced systems as well as cheaper ones. The most important factor is the expertise and reputation of the company selling and installing the system.

HOW IT WORKS

Satellite dishes, if installed properly, are calibrated to point in the direction of communications satellites that hover over the earth. These satellites travel through space at the same speed as the earth's rotation. That is why the dish can continuously pick up the satellite's signals by being pointed in the right direction.

SIGNALS SCRAMBLED

Some consumers are purchasing satellite systems in order to avoid paying fees to their local cable companies. Although it is perfectly legal to pick up such signals without payment (for cable) if you have a dish, you should be aware that the cable companies are fighting back. Some companies, such as those that broadcast movies, are scrambling their signals so that only those who pay for cable can receive the signals.

My consumer protection division has received complaints from a number of citizens who had trouble because their dishes were not properly installed. Improper installation can result in poor reception—or no reception at all.

Anyone who buys a dish only to receive "free" signals may find that he has to buy an expensive "unscrambler" in a few years in order to use the dish.

PRICE RANGE

My staff also has noticed a very wide range in prices for these dishes. Some advertisers claim they will provide all the necessary items for under $1,500, while other systems may cost up to $5,000. Although a consumer can generally expect to get better quality from a higher priced ap-
