Clarendon cancels city's election

The Clarendon Board of Aldermen met in regular session on March 28 at 7 p.m. in the Board Room of City Hall.

Mayor Tex Selvidge welcomed a group of Boy Scouts from Troop 433. The young men were attending the board meeting as a requirement of their Citizenship in the Community Merit Badge.

Since all the candidates in the upcoming city election are running opposed, the aldermen voted to cancel the election. The following people were declared elected to the position of alderman - Mac Stavenhagen, Smiley Johnson, and Billy Jack Land.

City Superintendent Jim Roberts reported on the need for a new mower for the city, and airport maintenance was discussed.

Work will resume on the City Park now that the weather is warming up. The restroom and the sprinkler system still need to be finished.

Garland opens in new location

Jimmy Garland has announced the opening of his new real estate office here in Clarendon.

It is located at 111 E. Third, and he invites all of his friends and customers to come by and see him. Mr. Garland can be reached at 874-3757.

Bronco Parents will meet Monday

The Bronco Parents will meet Monday, April 10, at 5:00 p.m. in Mrs. Chamberlain's room.

Anyone who has any good pictures of any sporting events is asked to please bring them.

CC to offer PC maintenance class

Clarendon College will offer Personal Computer (PC) Maintenance on April 8 at its downtown Computer Technology facility.

Instructor Lee Rippetoe will provide hands-on training in troubleshooting and replacing PC components from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The class costs $30.

For additional information and to reserve a seat for this course, call Nena Hunt or Lee Rippetoe at 874-3571.

Deadline April 17 for scholarship

The deadline for Donley County seniors to apply for the R.L. Gilkey Scholarship is April 17 at 5 p.m.

Applications may be picked up at the office of the Medical Center Nursing Home or from the counselors at either Clarendon or Hedley schools.

Deputy busts aliens' ferry ride; sheriff's office gets new van

An illegal immigration ferry service was interrupted by the Donley County Sheriff's Department last week near Clarendon.

Deputy Jason Fry stopped a van being driven erratically about one-half mile west of town at about 3:15 a.m. last Thursday. Inside he found 15 illegal aliens on their way to California.

The driver of the van, 35-year-old José Martinez, was carrying a Houston driver's license. A 26-year-old Mexican citizen, Ernesto Sandoval was in the passenger's seat of the van and was carrying a green card. INS officers from Amarillo picked up Martinez, Sandoval, and the eight men and seven women found in the van. Within ten hours, the driver of the van had been released, according to Sheriff Jimmy Thompson.

The van was traveling from Houston to California, Thompson said. From there Martinez was supposed to go to Phoenix to pick up another load of aliens and transport them to Houston.

"They were getting $300 a head to do this," Thompson said.

Donley County got a nice bonus from busting the operation - a new van. The sheriff's department seized the '98 model van.

Officials believe this to be an ongoing smuggling operation and think the van in question has made several trips. Although it just a couple of years old, the vehicle already has 200,000 miles on it.

Deputy Fry just started with the sheriff's department last week. He was raised in Post, Thompson said.

Chief Deputy Butch Blackburn assisted Fry with the bust.

Health, wealth fair will be Wednesday

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent

Local residents are once again marking their calendars for the annual Health and Wealth Fair scheduled for Wednesday, April 12, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Bairfield Activity Center at Clarendon College.

A new addition to the offerings this year will be the bone density test aka as the osteoporosis screening which is recommended for men and women alike. Novartis Pharmaceutical Company, who is sponsoring the screening, reports a similar test with a health care professional costs in the neighborhood of $100-$150 per test.

Other blood screenings such as glucose, cholesterol, prostate, anemia and blood oxygen also will be provided through a collaborative effort of the Clarendon Family Medical Center, The Donley County Medical Center-Nursing Home, CISD school nurse, and the Clarendon Outpost Pharmacy. HIV testing will be available upon request, and breast mammograms will be administered by the Harrington Cancer Center by appointment only.

The health and wealth fair task force is committed to providing easy access to information and services in a day at one location. Over the past two years, the fair has saved in excess of $41,000 to the general public with the free health screens and financial advice provided. Each year the health and wealth fair expands its services, and this year is no exception.

New emergency service additions to this year's health and wealth fair will be provided by the Donley County Ambulance Authority, the Gray County American Red Cross, and the Northwest Texas Healthcare System, which coordinates the Life-Star helicopter service. On display will be the remodeling plans for the Donley County Medical Center, which will eventually house the Ambulance Authority and the Clarendon Family Medical Center. Trooper L.B. Snider of the Texas Department of Public Safety will demonstrate the effectiveness of wearing seatbelts with the "Roll-Over Convincer." Panhandle Regional Planning Commission of Amarillo will be returning again this year to give tips on using the 9-1-1 emergency services.

Les Beaux Art Show to feature work of local talent Saturday

This Saturday, the eagerly anticipated Artists' Exhibit sponsored by Les Beaux Arts Club will begin at 10:00 a.m. at the First Methodist Church in Clarendon.

Ten artists will show their work at this exhibit, several of whom have been profiled in THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE in previous weeks.

Mary Selfridge, a self-taught Western and wildlife artist, will bring her art, prints, and cards to the show. Selfridge has a studio at her home in Howardwick, where she paints in watercolor and oil, using the surrounding landscape as backdrop for her cowboy and wildlife subjects. She's won three Best-of-Show awards at Indian Market in Page, Arizona, as well as many other awards; and her paintings are currently in the collections of the South African Embassy, the Governor of Iowa, and others.

Maynon Benson is a long-term resident of Amarillo and a painter for most of her adult life. Working in oils, she says she prefers to paint subjects with much sunlight and shadow, in a technique she describes as "impressionistic realism." An avid gardener, she often paints flower gardens—not necessarily as they are, but as she wishes her garden would grow. "I love the Texas Panhandle," she said, "but sometimes it is easier to paint a flower garden than to grow one." Benson also paints landscapes, birds, and animals. Her paintings hang in private and corporate collections in Amarillo.

D. Barry Jones paints landscapes, still-lives, and living subjects in oils, combining the light and color of early

Volunteer efforts to be honored during county's open house

Local volunteer efforts will be recognized when Donley County holds its second annual Open House next Friday, April 14, in the Court-house.

A program will be held at 10 a.m. in the District Courtroom recognizing the efforts of all the volunteers who give of their time to make Donley County a great place to live.

"This is an opportunity for the county officials to express their thanks and appreciation to all of the volunteers in the county," said Judge Jack Hall.

Some volunteers protect our citizens through the volunteer fire departments and the EMS while others deliver meals to our elderly and volunteer at the nursing home and senior citizens centers. Many others serve on governing boards, promote the heritage of the county, or help with children's programs.

"They not only provide a great service but also save the county money," Hall said. "It would be difficult to provide these services to county citizens without them."

Hall and the county commissioners signed a proclamation on March 20 declaring April 9-15 to be County Government Week, and the Open House is held in observance of that.

Junior Cowgirl

Christine Johnson looks on as Kiersten Moore gets ready to rope a plastic calf during the annual Kindergarten Rodeo held last Friday in the Colt Gym. The kids concluded their month long study of Texas by enjoying horseback riding, branding, Western wear relays, calf roping, Western music by Bud White and Jimmy Adams, and a Western snack. Mrs. White's and Ms. Duncan's classes also presented a program to their parents.

Judging contest draws more than 2,000 to CC

More than 2,000 people converged on the campus of Clarendon College Saturday for CC's annual Invitational Judging Contest.

Students came from all over Texas and nearby states to attend.

CC's Jerry Hawkins said a lot of students attended West Texas A&M's contest on Friday and stayed overnight in Amarillo for the Clarendon contest. Other students had to spend the night in Childress due to the lack of sufficient motel rooms locally.

Rain caused a few problems this year, and some contest divisions could not be judged. College officials say the effects of the bad weather amply demonstrated the need for an indoor agriculture arena.

Top finishers in the contest were as follows:

4-H Horse Judging - Junior Division: Teams - 1) Randall Two, 2) Randall Three, 3) Randall One. High Individuals - 1) Seth Clemmons, Hansford; 2) Kathryn Kuehler, Randall Two; 3) Amy Northcutt, Randall

See 'Results' on page 8.

Ag instructor Ernie Eckert (left) and his students from Anson, Texas, look over a pen of pigs during the CC Invitational Judging Contest last Saturday. The group left home at 4 a.m. in order to come to the Clarendon meet. Official estimates are that more than 2,000 people were on campus for the contest.

Flag Amendment would desecrate the Constitution

One of the best shows on television currently is The West Wing on NBC, which is set in a fictional White House. In a recent episode, President Josiah Bartlett, played by Martin Sheen, asked a group of Flag Amendment supporters, "Is there some epidemic of flag burning that I don't know about?"

Given the flurry of flag waving in Congress recently, you'd think there really was just such an epidemic.

By a narrow margin of four votes, the non-fictional United States Senate last week fell short of the needed two-thirds majority to approve a Flag Protection Amendment to the Constitution.

Thank goodness for those four senators. The Flag Amendment has been proposed several times in recent years following Supreme Court decisions which ruled laws against flag desecration to be in violation of the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech.

There are two ways around a Supreme Court ruling. Trump the court with a constitutional amendment, or appoint judges who think differently and let them revisit the case. (Remember how the Brown v. Board of Education case turned a previous court ruling on its head? If you don't, then look it up.)

Burning or otherwise desecrating the US flag is an abominable act that is deeply offensive to most Americans. Veterans are particularly offended by this act and rightly so.

But tampering with US Constitution over relatively trivial matters is or ought to be even more offensive. (For all of you fellow NRA members who have sung the praises of recent editorials on gun rights, I want you to hang with me for a minute here.)

Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott (R - Mississippi) said last week, "Flag-burning is not speech; it is conduct of the most offensive kind."

That is your opinion, senator, and it is a good one. However, the Constitution is not designed nor was it ever intended to regulate the "conduct" of individuals.

The United States Constitution was set up to create a federal government with limited powers and to protect the liberty of the American people. Since its ratification in 1788, the original document has only been amended 27 times. The first ten of those amendments were ratified in 1791 and are collectively known as the Bill of Rights. In the ensuing 209 years, there have only been 17 more amendments.

With two exceptions, amendments to the Constitution have done one of two things - 1) alter or modify the function or structure of the federal government (i.e. call for the popular election of senators in the 17th Amendment), or 2) expand or guarantee the freedom of the American people (i.e. abolishing slavery, or extending suffrage to various groups).

The exceptions are the 18th and 21st Amendments. The one amendment so far to deliberately attempt to curtail or limit people's liberty was the 18th Amendment - National Prohibition. It was such a colossal disaster that another amendment, the 21st, was passed to repeal it.

A Flag Amendment would be the first to alter the Bill of Rights and, specifically, the first to directly limit the First Amendment.

Imagine, if you will, what would happen if a great body in this country decided they didn't like Buddhists or Mormons or even Catholics. Given the precedent of a Flag Amendment, the nation might feel free to call for an amendment allowing Congress to ban certain "offensive" religions.

Suppose that a large majority of Americans felt there was no reason that people should have handguns. (If you believe the gun controllers, most people already think this way.) What would stop the nation from passing an amendment to curtail the rights guaranteed by the Second Amendment? The answer is "nothing."

You may think those hypothetical situations are not realistic, but we must think things through to the next logical step when it comes to letting the government tinker with our rights. As our federal representatives become increasingly driven by opinion polls, those of us who love freedom must become more and more aware of the possible tyranny of the majority. The rights of all Americans must be protected - even the rights of people we do not like. Especially those people.

In recent years, it has become fashionable for the Republican Party to propose amending the Constitution every time it can't get what it wants through normal legislative or judicial means. The GOP has called for and continues to support a Flag Amendment, a Line-item Veto Amendment, a Balanced Budget Amendment, a Right to Life Amendment, etc. All of this seems pretty strange for a party that supposedly loves the Constitution and believes in a limited federal government.

Surely the GOP can find other ways to achieve its goals than by butchering the founding document of the government.

Sen. Robert Byrd (D - West Virginia) had the courage to stand before the American Legion and put it this way: "We love that flag, it symbolizes the nation, but we must love the Constitution more. It is not just a symbol; it is the thing itself."

It is the Constitution that secures our liberties - not the flag. To protect the flag with a constitutional amendment would cheapen what the flag stands for and would desecrate the Constitution.

NASCAR would be good training program

I be darned. My eyes have witnessed a sight I thought was virtually non-existent.

This past weekend, I saw a fast mechanic. You're stunned too, but I promise I saw not one but actually dozens of speedy car mechanics who actually fixed vehicles the first time around.

A dubious sight indeed! But these far-fetched images played across our television as my husband watched the NASCAR races from the Texas motor speedway.

My dropped jaw must have caught my husband's attention as he asked, "What is it? Have you never watched a race before?"

Watching cars drive in circles is not a hobby of mine, but I stood transfixed before the boob-tube. Tires were rotated in mere seconds, cars were gased, and windshields were washed at lightning speeds. And when there were problems with a vehicle, they were immediately recognized and repaired. No waiting for vital parts or even an utter of the mechanic's sacred oath, "We don't have that particular item in stock, but we can get it in next week."

on the Mark
with Christi Ross

There are great mechanics in Donley County, but honestly they are pretty hard to find in some towns. I'd compare it to trying to locate an ethical person in the Clinton White House.

What other profession can you charge sky-high labor rates without guaranteeing customer satisfaction and not to mention a repaired object?

After watching the swift NASCAR mechanics, perhaps we ought to require all so-called professional auto handymen and women to undergo hands-on internships in the motorsports world.

Start the mechanics off in the idiotic lawnmower racing circuit which is always broadcast on The Nashville Network. Once the interns have mastered the skill of replacing spark plugs and batteries, graduate them to the next level - sprint cars. The levels would continue upward to trucks and eventually racecars on the NASCAR circuit.

With each level successfully completed, the mechanic intern could determine a pricing system which reflected the amount of knowledge and speediness acquired.

Only after completing the program could a mechanic return home and attempt to charge me fifty dollars or more per hour for labor.

And if it took more than 36 hours for the mechanic to diagnose the problem and another 48 hours for the parts to be shipped, the customer should be compensated with a discounted rate of let's say somewhere near half off.

With that kind of plan, we would never have to grin and bear it again when we had to take our "buckets of bolts" in for service. Now, that proposal may just bring about some customer satisfaction.

US must treat military retirees properly

George Washington once said that "the willingness with which our young people are likely to serve in any war, no matter how justified, shall be directly proportional as to how they perceived the veterans of earlier wars were treated and appreciated by their nation."

While America's first President made that observation over 200 years ago, it still rings true today.

Young men and women thinking about a career in the military are watching to see if the government keeps its word. Nowhere is this more true than in the area of health care.

I've been working for over four years

issue
Update
with Rep. Mac Thornberry

now to help the government keep its commitment in this area. This past week, I introduced a bill that will take a strong step in this direction. The bill is called The Military Retiree Health Care Options Act. It would expand the health care options retirees and their families currently have by, among other things, providing them with coverage for prescription drugs.

This bill comes closer than just about any other plan to meeting our commitment to military retirees. Just as importantly, it does it in a way that treats all retirees the same - regardless of age, and regardless of the date they enlisted.

The federal government should not pit one group of retirees against another by offering one a different level of benefits than the other -- which is what a few other bills try to do.

Washington was right. If we want to get and keep top quality men and women for our Armed Forces in the future, the federal government has got to show them that it can keep its promises of the past.

Lookin' for love in all the wrong places

By Ron Carr, BOVINA BLADE
Billy Jeff went to Bangladesh recently, and I feel much better now.

Reports were that impeached president Billy Jeff Clinton was the first American president to ever visit Bangladesh. You can read about it some day in the travel section at his Little Rock library.

I guess it is going to take a staunch Democrat to explain to me why America spent the money for Billy Jeff's entourage to stop off in Bangladesh. If there is a logical answer, please let me know.

Bangladesh is a country about the size of the state of Wisconsin with a population of 125 million. Bangladesh's goal is to try to improve themselves enough to be considered a Third World country.

The citizens of Bangladesh occupy themselves by multiplying like minks and trying to get an indoors job in a nice little sweatshop instead of herding oxen for twelve cents a week.

There are only two reasons why Americans even know that Bangladesh exists. The country is the largest producer of foreign clothing sold in America, and a few times a year either a cyclone, typhoon, or tidal wave kills 50,000 or so natives.

Apparently there is no phrase in Bangladesh that means, "Move inland to a safer place."

Anyway, BJ went there with daughter Chelsea to take America's message of "coming together and working for a better life for Bangladeshians." He gave them $150 million in foreign aid, which based on their economy should last them at least 780 years.

I hope they can spend some of it on brooms with longer handles. The little one-foot brooms they use now to sweep out their living rooms could cause major back problems for future generations.

After sitting under a banyan tree and enjoying a beautiful Bangladesh village, the Secret Service dusted off their headsets, and in secret code the leader whispered, "Let's get the sheep out of here."

Next stop on the president's trip-of-the-week was India, with the second largest population on the planet, second only to China. India has 1.5 billion people and nuclear weapons. India has also been in existence thousands of years longer than America.

Press reports said that despite the widespread poverty, disease, malnutrition, and illiteracy, India is a powerful player in South Asia.

Billy Jeff spoke to a joint session of India's Parliament. (Sources say that aides had to explain to BJ that it wasn't really a "joint" session like in his college days.)

During his remarks, BJ admonished the Indians because they were being reckless with their nuclear arsenal and we don't appreciate it. Some say he even managed to give them a mean look a couple of times.

He wanted to wag his finger too, but advisors reminded him that he had already tried that once.

Indian Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee listened to America's boy president tell him that his country was in the most dangerous region of the world. The PM didn't appreciate it.

To celebrate Billy Jeff's visit to India, Pakistani-backed separatists murdered 40 villagers in Kashmir. Since Pakistan was his next stop, he promised the people of India that he would tell the military-ruled Pakistan to stop it. There was no report on whether it made them feel better.

Before his visit to Gandhi's grave, the Taj Mahal, and a tiger preserve, Prime Minister Vajpayee told Billy and Chel (and the rest of America) that basically it is none of our concern that India has nuclear weapons and we should mind our own business.

Billy Jeff replied, "Gee, I have wanted to visit the Taj Mahal all my life." With that stern admonition to India, BJ and Chel mounted elephants and rode off to pray in a temple.

Next stop, Pakistan. Once they had withered under the gaze and oratory of the Clinton power (America loves you) and laid down their own nuclear weapons, America's premier peacemaker was scheduled to take a side trip to Syria (or somewhere in the Middle East wastelands) and negotiate another peace treaty between Israel and Syria.

Experts predict that this side trip will cost America a paltry $25 million, and the treaty will last a record-breaking 17 hours and 26 minutes. Long enough for Billy and Chel to take another tour of some convenient old ruin.

In case you have lost track, King Billy still has 10 months before he gives up his job. In the interim, he will spend untold sums on travel around the globe simply because he can travel free with lots of perks thrown in.

Everywhere he has been in the last seven years now hates America. Remember the riots in Greece, the conflicts between China and Taiwan, and the carnage in Seattle? And the Albanians are not behaving very well either.

All Billy Jeff wanted was for the world to love him and to sneak a little on the side in the Oval Office.

What I think is that other than his private Capitol bathroom, he has been looking for love in all the wrong places.

Fair: Library will introduce new literacy project during event

The Friends of the Library Literacy Council will be introducing their pilot literacy project to the public. Anyone wishing to volunteer as a tutor may sign up at their booth at the fair. The Donley County Child Welfare Board will be sharing a booth with Jay Gage, counselor of the STARR program. Also, Something More After School program will promote their program at the fair with bake sale and other items to purchase.

Early childhood learning and intervention issues concerning youth from birth to age three will be addressed by Region 16 Education Service Center of Amarillo. The Panhandle Poison Center will offer information on poison prevention.

Crown of Texas Hospice and Quality of Life Project representatives will be on hand to promote excellence in end-of-life care.

Mannatech of Clarendon will provide information on health products while Dolores Crump will feature the Arbonne Botanical Swiss Skin Care and Health Line of products. The Donley County Extension Service will sponsor two exhibits: "Poisoning Our Children—the Perils of Second Hand Smoke," and "Hidden Fats, Sugars and Salts in our Diets." The Amarillo Council on Alcoholism will provide information on substance abuse and its treatment.

The WIC Outreach Health Services will be available to answer questions and provide guidance to individuals needing information about the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program. The Texas Department of Human Services will make available applications for food stamps and Medicaid.

Immunizations at minimal cost for Tetanus/Diphtheria (TD), MMR and Hepatitis B for children of all ages will be available through Texas Department of Health and Coalition of Health Services. Adult immunizations will include the tetanus and pneumonia vaccines.

In addition to immunizations, the Texas Department of Health will provide information on heart disease, the 5-a-day nutrition guidelines and exercise. The Coalition of Health Ser-VICES, joined by the Hall County Home Health Care, will have the new Care Van Mobile Unit on hand for fair goers to view.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Amarillo will showcase "Volunteerism Is Good Medicine." A source water protection project which RSVP coordinates, Texas Gold, will be set up for demonstrations throughout the day.

A popular screen returning for its third year will be the auditory screening by Beltone Hearing Aid Center. They will also clean hearing aids and perform battery checks.

The fair was scheduled intentionally only days away from the annual tax deadline in order for individuals to receive last minute assistance with filing their annual tax returns. The IRS Outreach Education Service of Amarillo will provide tax preparation assistance and tax forms will be available. If you need assistance with your returns, come prepared with the previous year's tax return, W-2's, 1099's, and social security cards for individuals claimed on your tax return. Among the businesses providing financial planning and credit counseling will be co-sponsors of the event: Community Bank, Donley County State Bank, and Herring National Bank. The Donley-Hall County Farm Bureau office will provide information on long-term health care needs, annuities, and Roth IRA's.

Great Western Dining is promising an inviting menu for fairgoers that will include grilled hamburgers, barbecued beef sandwiches, deli sandwiches, chef salad, desserts, and beverages. Make it a day, or if limited to your lunch hour, schedule the time to come visit the annual Donley County Health and Wealth Fair. It will be time well spent.

If you would like additional information regarding the fair contact any of the following sponsors: Clarendon College, THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE, Community Bank, Donley County State Bank, Herring National Bank, and the Donley County Extension Service. We promise you this is an event you won't want to miss!

impressionism with classical techniques of the earlier painters. A native of Amarillo, she paints portraits that evoke the Old Masters and still speak to the present day. Her still-lives depict objects familiar to Panhandle natives combined with classic fruit or flowers. In 1991, Jones won the John Spiegel Memorial Award for artistic excellence at the Grand National Competition in New York City, and her paintings have been selected for display at other shows and galleries.

Nancy Middlebrook Baay moved to Amarillo from her native Connecticut. The granddaughter of a watercolor artist, Baay works only in watercolor, creating notecards and gift wrap tags as well as paintings.

Although her grandfather died before her birth, she has had access to his sketchbooks and paintings to learn from. Baay has exhibited with the Amarillo Fine Arts Association, the Lubbock Art Association, the Southwestern Watercolor Society in Dallas, as well as in New Orleans and Virginia Beach. She was the National Poster Competition winner at the Virginia Beach Center for the Arts.

Come Saturday to see works by these and other artists at the First Methodist Church in Clarendon.

CHS' one-act play advances from district level

Clarendon High School's one-act play To Kill a Mockingbird advanced from the district competition last Tuesday afternoon. The next level performance will be this Thursday, April 6, at West Texas A&M at 7:00 p.m., in case anyone wants to watch this winning play.

All the players did a fabulous job, from Christine Holden as Scout to Tyler Lane as Heck Tate. (He reminded me of several sheriff's deputies I've known.) Geri Butler was outstanding as Calpurnia, and Brian Thompson was absolutely hateful as Bob Ewell. This is good. Bob Ewell was the bad guy.

Cat Chamberlain played Miss Maudie, who acted as the narrator of the play, filling in time passages and playing mentor to the other characters. This may not be something a high school senior wants to hear, but she was truly believable as a wise, eccentric little old lady. And of course, David Hall, who played Atticus Finch in a deliciously Gregory-Peckish fashion, managed to steal the show back from Ms. Holden, Ms. Butler, and Ms. Chamberlain. He was confident enough in his lines and his character to let himself speak slowly, rather than rushing through the lines as some of the actors from other schools tended to do.

Congratulations to the One-Act Players. You deserve the prize, and as you go on to WT... break a leg!

Saturday, Clarendon and Clarendon College were invaded by the hordes. Four hundred teams consisting of four members, plus an alternate, plus assorted coaches, sponsors, parents and siblings—around 2,000 people altogether—descended on Clarendon College for a judging competition. They came from Harlingen and Lamesa, from all over Texas, and from Oklahoma and Colorado, to this event that has made Clarendon famous in judging circles.

Steers, breeding beef, sheep, and hogs were at the arena off Highway 287. Live chickens were penned up in the foyer outside the college library. Dead ones—yep, plucked, cleaned, and strung up—hung on poles in the administration building classrooms. One pole for chickens, and one for turkeys. Chicken parts were laid out on tables in other classrooms. Hog and lamb carcasses hung on the Harned Sisters Auditorium stage, with beef, pork, and lamb cuts of meat displayed on tables in the hallway and classroom areas behind the stage.

And everywhere, 4-H and FFA competitors circled the meats, plants, and animals and judged them for quality. After making their selections, they moved to the Bairfield Activity Center to explain their decisions to those who would judge their judging.

There were so many classes, requiring so many rooms, that judges were set up not only in storage closets and maintenance rooms, but two of the restrooms were commandeered for the competitors to make their presentations before the judges. The ladies' restroom had a paper sign on the door that read "Ewes" and the men's room next door was labeled "Market Hogs." I trust that this was not some subtle expression of humor by those setting up the rooms.

I am told that thanks go to Jerry Hawkins and his right hand, Wayne Miller, for putting the contest together, to Cynthia Ewing for handling the results tabulation, to all the RFO and Judging students at Clarendon College, as well as many other faculty and staff members for their hard work. An event this big doesn't happen without a whole lot of people pulling together to make it work. They really put Clarendon on the map.

Don't forget the Artists' Exhibit this coming Saturday, April 8, from 10 a.m. till noon. This is not just a ladies' event, fellas; there's all kinds of art for everyone's taste. Be at the First Methodist Church in Clarendon at ten sharp for muffins, coffee, and great art. Bring your checkbook.

Tashina Hill

Hill will travel to Russian for summer mission

Tashina Marie Hill, daughter of Bryan and Tina Hill formerly of Clarendon and Hedley, now living in Amarillo, is going to be joining other teenagers on a mission trip to Russia this summer.

Ms. Hill will be with a mission group called Teen Mania Ministries which is located in Garden Valley, Texas, and is a ministry totally dedicated to reaching the teenagers of this generation.

This group will be busy the entire trip ministering through drama, street evangelism, and many other ways. This group will be going to Russia and will be based in St. Petersburg. They will be leaving on June 9 and going to Garden Valley for a month of instruction about the customs and the language. The next month will be spent in Russia, and they will return August 6.

Anyone interested in meeting Ms. Hill is invited to an open house that will be held April 16 in the Panhandle Community Services Building located at 416 S. Kearney from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m.

Your prayers and donations that you might be led to give will be greatly appreciated and put to good use this summer. Please come meet this young lady and her family and hear her testimony.

Tashina is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hill and Sharon Rattan of Clarendon and Joe Moore of Amarillo. She is the great granddaughter of Marie Bland of Hedley and Florence Smith of Memphis.

Baptist Church to start revival this Sunday

Plans are underway at First Baptist Church of Clarendon for revival services to begin Sunday, April 9, through Wednesday, April 12.

Sunday services will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. The morning worship hour will begin at 10:50 a.m., and the evening worship time will be at 6:00 p.m.

Weekday services will begin at 7:00 nightly. A noon meal will be shared each day, Monday through Wednesday, beginning at 11:50 a.m., with devotional service following the meal at 12:25.

Rev. Buddy Young from Canyon will be the evangelist with Scott Rankin from Borger directing the music.

Young is presently serving as Director of Student Ministries at West Texas A&M University in Canyon. He has consistently had an outstanding ministry to the students with Bible studies and different Christian activities both on and off campus.

Scott Rankin is presently serving as Minister of Music and Youth at Fairlans Baptist Church in Borger.

Special activities for the week will start with an all-church meal after the Sunday morning service. Other activities will include Sunday School Night on Sunday evening, Children's Night on Monday evening, Bring a Friend Night on Tuesday evening, and Youth Night on Wednesday.

Everyone is invited to attend. A nursery will be available for those needing it.

HOWARDWICK • 874-2951

I quit complaining after that. I realized that I didn't have a single suggestion to improve the situation, so I "suggested to myself" that I keep quiet. They're doing the best they can with what they have, and my griping about it isn't going to help a bit.

You may ask what does all of this have to do with the price of beans? Well, I'll tell you. The news in Howardwick this week was that a large metal barrier was erected on the parking lot at City Hall. This barrier surrounds area enough for two vehicles to park and is reserved for the two paid city employees. It was put up because of a complaint about where they were parking before. Personally, I didn't realize there was a problem. It seemed logical to me to park in the parking lot of the place where you work—but maybe I'm wrong about that. Their new parking area is about six feet from where they were parking before. I wish the money had been spent on material to fix the potholes, but what do I know? Tempest in a Tea Pot comes to mind.

I honestly hope that the new parking arrangement will make everybody happy. It probably won't though because things just don't work that way. Howardwick City Hall made a change to make somebody happy; and in doing so, they most likely made another somebody angry. Sometimes you just can't win—especially when dealing with human likes and dislikes.

The comedian David Brenner hit the nail on the head when he said, "I think God invented rain to give dead people something to complain about."

I wish human nature was different—that we were more inclined to praise our neighbor instead of picking him apart, that we always saw the good before we saw the bad, that our first impulse would be to compliment instead of criticize.

Actually, I guess it is a choice that each person has to make for themselves. I'm going to give it a shot. The only problem I can see is that my husband may wonder who the woman is that has moved into his house—this woman who looks on the bright side. I bet he'll like her, though.

You can't win dealing with human likes, dislikes

What do you do when things aren't just the way you like them? This is a loaded question folks, because there are several things you have to take into consideration.

1. Is the object of your concern a major problem? I don't like the fact that I share a tiny closet with my husband, but the fact remains it's the only closet in my bedroom, and I have no space or money to build another one. I gripe and moan about it a lot. My husband, on the other hand, deals with it and doesn't complain. He views it as an annoyance and not an earth-shattering difficulty. I think he is probably right. Why get myself into a stew over such a small thing? Beats me—but I do—time and again. It's human nature to fret and worry over small inconveniences. The thing is, when we do this it only serves to give the worrier/complainer an ulcer and make everyone around them miserable. I think the old adage "...making a mountain out of a mole hill" applies here.

2. Do you have a solution to the problem, and if you do, how will it affect others? I know a perfect way to solve my closet problem...build a bigger closet and make the bedroom itself smaller. This would work for me because I am a short woman and can move around in small places easily. My husband, on the other hand, is well over six feet tall. If the closet—which is on his side of the bed—was any bigger, he couldn't sit on the bed to pull on his pants. He could, however, pick up his clothes, go down the hall to the living room, and get dressed there. He would do that—if it made me happy—but I don't see any reason to put him to so much trouble just to make myself happy. The obvious solution is to live with things the way they are until such time as a change can be made that benefits both of us.

3. Does complaining about the situation help? In Howardwick, we have an ongoing problem with potholes. Sometimes it seems like they spring up overnight, and where the road was smooth the day before—it now contains a hole large enough to swallow up a compact car. I used to complain about it all the time. Then I found out how small the city budget really is and how limited the resources for purchasing the materials necessary to fix these potholes. I've also seen the city maintenance man out patching these holes in 100-degree temperatures—shoveling out a hot, steamy tar mixture by hand. I saw this as I drove by in my air-condi-

Columnist reflects on lessons from her mother

I didn't get completely moved over the weekend. Keith started moving my furniture Thursday, but didn't get finished, and it rained all day Friday and until noon Saturday. Then the roads were so soggy he couldn't get a trailer in to move the rest. I got about an inch and a half from the clouds, and I'd rather have a good rain than move any day.

Several people have called and commented on last week's column. They all said, "You never mentioned T. or Williams. Why?"

I said that Leonard blackmailed Marvin and me out of part of our spending money. T. is six years younger than I and was too small to attend those Saturday afternoon matinees, and Williams was a quiet, law-abiding little boy and never broke any of Mother's rules.

I, on the other hand, was neither quiet nor very law-abiding and so paid for my misdoings. Marvin was quiet but not so law abiding as Williams.

From the time I can remember, whenever we got ready to go some place, Mother would admonish me, "Peggy, be nice." I can't remember her ever telling any of the boys that, but if I've heard it or see, I've heard it a thousand times. Mother was always fair but strict. Any infractions of her rules of behavior was dealt with quickly and without mercy.

We weren't allowed to use bad language or call each other names. She washed our mouths with soap if she heard any bad language or any name-calling. There were two names we were allowed to call each other...but we won't go into that just now. The boys probably remember what they are.

She always took us to church and sat with us. We sat about four pews from the front, and she didn't allow any wiggling, whispering, or looking at those sitting behind us.

I've always wondered if the reason we were left handed was because of the way we sat at church. T. sat on her right with Leonard next to him. Williams, Marvin, and I sat on her left. If we wiggled, whispered, or looked back, she'd pinch us. Not just a little tweak but a thumb and forefinger twist. My right arm stayed sore and bruised until I got old enough to sing in the choir.

Mother never allowed any unnecessary giggling at mealtime.

We had a round pedestal table in the dining room, and she sat with T. next to her with Leonard at his right. Daddy sat directly across from her if he was there, and if he wasn't, his chair remained empty. Next came Marvin, me, then William. That put Leonard across the table from me.

watt's Happening

HEDELEY • 858-5919

Invariably we would look at each other and start laughing. There need not be anything funny, we would just start laughing. She'd say, "If you can't act any better than that, take your plates and go eat on the porch."

Rain or shine, cold weather or hot, blizzard or sand storm, we'd take our plates and eat on the porch. I sometimes think we ate more meals on the porch than at the table with the rest of the family.

Mother also expected us to get good grades in school. Somewhere I got the idea that if I made bad grades, she'd take the hide off me in little strips. She never said she'd whip me if I didn't study, but that's what I thought, so I studied hard enough to get A's and B's all the time. I could have probably made all A's if I'd applied myself, but hindsight is a wonderful thing. Now I wish I had.

Mother was loving as well as a strict. She was generous with her hugs and kisses and never failed to praise us for anything done well.

She would sing to us. She had a big old rocking chair and would get the little kids on her lap and the big ones on the arms of the chair and rock and sing to us. I can close my eyes and hear her singing. She knew all the old church songs and taught them to us. I especially remember her singing "When I Can Ready My Title Clear," "To Mansions in the Sky," or "In That White City, Pearly White City."

I remember she taught me to cook. I was in the first grade and lived near Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Johnson. They were Blackie's grandparents. I made some cookies and took them a plate of them. I'll never forget how they bragged on them. That was probably why I liked to cook.

She also taught me to sew. When I was seven, I made a doll dress and bonnet. I sewed every stitch by hand, and she bragged on how small the stitches were. She even admired the buttonholes. I'm sure they resembled pig's eyes, but she said they were fine.

My brothers and I are fortunate to still have our mother. She lives in Hedley, does her own housework, and keeps one of the prettiest yards in town. From early spring 'til frost she has a profusion of flowers growing and can make hot house roses grow. That's one thing I envy her. As I've said before, I'm not a yard person. I probably couldn't grow weeds if I tried.

Coffee Memorial to hold blood drive at Home and Garden Show this Saturday

Coffee Memorial Blood Center is having a blood drive on Saturday, April 8, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in conjunction with the Home and Garden Show at the Amarillo Civic Center. Admission is free. The drive will be in the East Meeting Room.

In addition, the theme of World Health Day will be continued, which is "Be a Life Saver—Be a Blood Donor. Blood Saves Lives." The objective of this worldwide initiative is to raise awareness of the global community about the importance of having a safe, adequate blood supply for those who need the gift of life.

In the United States alone, someone needs blood every two seconds. Most people assume that blood will be there when needed. However, the nation's blood supply is marginal and blood centers must work harder each year to collect enough blood to keep supplies at safe levels.

Coffee Memorial Blood Center is celebrating 50 years of sharing the gift of life, serving 24 counties in the Panhandle. More than 500 units of blood are needed every week to meet the need of patients in the Panhandle. Nationally and in the Panhandle, 60 percent of the population is eligible to give blood; however, only five percent actually donate.

All who are eligible are encouraged to donate blood to help their neighbors in the Panhandle.

Popular collection of female authors at library

Ladies, are you searching for an author who immediately sweeps you into a story from the first page, and holds your interest to the last? One who portrays unforgettable characters in whose lives you can become absorbed? Then, you must be looking for enticing writings of versatile authors Rosamunde Pilcher, Jane Peart, Janette Oke, Maeve Binchey, Lori Wick, and Jan Karon. These well loved, best-selling authors continue to inspire readers with heart-warming entertainment.

Pilcher authored Shellseekers, which became a "publishing phenomenon" after sales of almost four million copies worldwide. Her novels September, Coming Home, Under Gemini, others too numerous to mention in one article, and two books of short stories take place in her native Scotland. THE NEW YORK TIMES comments, "When you've finished one of Rosamunde Pilcher's novels, you're ready for another one."

Proficient Jane Peart, whom I had the pleasure of personally interviewing, offers several series to her credit. Runaway Heart and Where Tomorrow Waits are two of a "Western Dream" Series. Senator's Bride and Shadow Bride contribute to a 14-book series entitled "Brides of Montclair."

A "double dose" of suspense filled, romantic novels, Shadow of Fear and Perilous Bargain, combined in a lovely hardback edition, demonstrate Peart's mystery writing talent. Her "American Quilt" series, The Pattern, The Pledge, and The Promise, follow three generations of women, beginning in North Carolina mountains, through Civil War, across country to California, to 1880's Hawaii. Individual stories are centered on a traditional American quilt. Directions for making the quilt conclude each book. Peart's Orphan Train Trilogy relates three friends' adventures after separating from the Orphan Train.

parents in Champion, Alberta, displays a diversity of interests in her numerous series of novels. They Call Her Mrs. Doc, one of the "Canadian West" series; a four-book series, "Seasons of the Heart," and eight-book series, "Love Comes Softly," and other writings bring love, joy, and heartbreak into ordinary lives. The Tender Heart and A Searching Heart, a two-book series, possibly holds special appeal to mothers and daughters.

Readers will discover additional understanding of human feelings in Maeve Binchey's Light A Penny Candle and Echoes presented against an Irish background setting.

With over a million copies in print, Lori Wick's pioneer fiction and contemporary writings remain favorites with readers. Included in her numerous novels is "The Place Called Home" series, narratives of faith and lover in Wisconsin farmlands.

Jan Karon's "Mitford Years" series, At Home in Mitford, A Light in the Window, The High Green Hills, and Out of Canaan, will delight as readers become acquainted with Father Tim, the local rector, Miss Orse, Hoppy Harper, Sadie Baxter - last surviving member of Mitford's oldest family, Dooly - a hostile boy left in Father Tim's care, Cynthia Coppersmith - the rector's attractive neighbor, Hal Owen - country vet; and Barnabas - a dog that becomes a great concern for everyone. A hint of mystery also confronts the community as well as the reader.

Wanted: Pickable brains, loose lips, wagging tongues

By Bulldog Bookworm

It is just human nature, the further something retreats into the past the less we remember about it. We might recall some of the high points, the excitement and unusual events, but we tend to forget the more mundane things that make up the fabric of daily life.

It is that cloth of day-to-day living that is the most important preserve, so that our children and grandchildren will have some idea of what it was all about, how it worked, and how things came to be as they are today.

Libraries have long been acknowledged as storehouses of information about our past, and Clarendon College's Library with its relatively long past certainly qualifies.

Today, effective libraries require technological advances such as computer databases and Internet terminals to maintain up-to-date knowledge access. Here again Clarendon College qualifies. Our spotlight for April 2000 pinpoints two areas that meld yesterday's knowledge and today's technology.

Giving our past a tongue with which to speak...

The first area is the expansion of Clarendon College's Centennial Oral History Collection, and this means you!

Our present collection includes tapes by such local celebrities as Wilbert Bernabee, Tommie Blasingame, Murle Butts, Marshal Denny, Olace Hicks, Wayne Johnson, Clara Lohoefer, Stanley McGee, Maurice Risley, Joe Robinson, Tommie Saye, Willard Skelton, and James Wrigat.

Why not join these distinguished ranks? Our library staff has the blank tapes, equipment, oral history interviewing techniques, and all the right questions to make you sound great. Your descendants and future historians will appreciate the time and effort you expend on this project.

Now is not the time to be modest.

Your memories and experiences are unique, special, and extremely valuable to future generations. Wartime memories, early ranching experience, early Donley County homemaking and business information, Clarendon, Hedley, Lelia Lake, and other school memories are extremely valuable for the collection.

Even if you don't believe you have information of value, call and visit with Jo or Bill. You may know more than you think you know. If you happen to know of someone who lived through a chunk of our history, let us know about it. The telephone number is 874-3571, ext. 262.

The Clarendon College Library is open to the public. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to noon; and Sunday 4 to 9 p.m.

Our great Uncle Throckmorton did what?

The second area of interest for the College Library is family research. The Bulldog Bookworm of the female persuasion recently attended a genealogical workshop and returned with wonderful software and information concerning the use of the Internet for genealogical research.

If you are a novice family tree climber, we can give you a lift up into the branches including creating forms and files. Even if you are an experienced keeper of the family flames, come on in, and perhaps we can share Internet expertise.

Comedian Fred Allen once said, "I don't have to look up my family tree, because I know I'm the sap." If you're a little worried about your place in the family history, better come in, and check it out.

If angels can have angles, can angels have angels?

Concerning the March newspaper article, both Bulldog Bookworms hasten to assure readers that we know angels have wings and angles have degrees. We also know that the staff of THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE is well aware of the difference between the two.

However, we also know that gremlins have a wonderfully wicked sense of humor, and sure enough, a glitch gremlin mischievously meddled with a headline and had angles flying around. Oh my!

If angels really resented it, they could put an X in the world angle. To our mortal readers, be angels and please forgive the error.

Invisible cowboys, yellow coats, and a Cheyenne from Yale

New books this month include "Black Cowboys of Texas," edited by Sara R. Massey. This book is an important step in filling in a true picture of the Old West. Often referred to as the "invisible cowboys of the west," black cowboys were often left out of previous history books. In this volume such notable western personalities as Jim Perry of the XIT, gun, totting James Kelly, and bronc busting "Bones," Hooks come to life. This book is very readable and has an extensive bibliography.

Two new works of fiction have also been added to the collection. "Cheyenne Raiders," by Robert Jordan writing as Jackson O'Reilly, is the story of a Yale graduate who came west in 1832 to study the Cheyenne Indians and wound up becoming one. (Why Mr. Jackson was writing under the name of O'Reilly is not known.)

The other fiction volume is Hearts in Atlantis by Stephen King. King links five stories, ("Low Men in Yellow Coats," "Hearts in Atlantis," "Blind Willie," "Why We're in Vietnam," and "Heavenly Shades of Night are Falling") into a typical King brew that will make you a bit uneasy at the very least.

Also newly arrived is A Place Called Sweet Shrub, by Jane Roberts, the second in a trilogy recounting life in the early 1900s full of eccentric characters just like real life. (Yes, we have the other two in the set Train to Estelina and Dance a Little Longer.)

If you enjoy cowboy poetry, check out Cowboy Curmudgeon, 50 poems by Montana rancher Wallace McRea. His subjects range from "Hat Etiquette" to "Vegetable Cultivation" and just about everywhere in between.

We have also received a group of books by Dr. James Dobson of "Focus on the Family" fame. Dobson discusses the difficulties families face and offers help to keep the family strong, happy, and together. Among the titles are Parenting Isn't For Cowards, Children At Risk, Dare to Discipline, Why God Doesn't Make Sense, and Life on the Edge.

Other new titles include The Great Plains, Too Young To Die, and What Every 18-year-old Needs to Know about Texas Law.

If you can't find anything to read in that list, come on in anyway and tell us about it!

Driver's beware,
HE'S LEGAL!
Happy 16th Birthday.

Local kids do well in Consumer Contest

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent
Over 100 4-Her's from 21 Texas Panhandle Counties gathered in Amarillo Saturday, March 11, at the Texas A&M Extension and Research Center to compete in the 4-H Consumer Decision Making Contest.

The eight 4-Her's representing Donley County were Abby Patten, Paul Goetze, Sade Cobb, Lauryn Kellas, Justin Kellas, Jacki Grady, Chock Grady, and Trisha Church.

Youth used critical thinking skills to decide which of four products was the best consumer choice for the situation given. To prepare for the contest, several products including cameras, healthy snacks, children's toys, compact disc players, sunscreens, ATM cards, and cellular phones were studied. Following placement of the products, youth justified their choices in a process called oral reasons.

Receiving individual recognition from Donley County were Abby Patten - first place, junior division and Trisha Church - third place senior division. The junior team (Abby Patten, Paul Goetze, Sade Cobb and Lauryn Kellas) placed third. This is the first year for Donley County 4-Her's to receive recognition at the District Consumer Decision Making Contest.

Congratulations, Abby, Paul, Sade, Lauryn, Justin, Jacki, Chock, and Trisha!

DCSC to hold 25th birthday celebration

By Vida O'Neal

On March 28, the March Birthday/Anniversary Supper was held. The evening was opened with a prayer by Bill Hodges.

The birthday honorees this month were Jean Baten, Thelma Rudder, Cennet Rhode, Leona Lingenfelter, Lacy Noble, and Vida O'Neal. The door prize was won by Cennet Rhode. Jack Hall gave us a wonderful talk about the courthouse. Several questions were asked, and we appreciate his knowledge on the subject.

Bingo was played after Mr. Hall's program, and the winners were Velvet Hinkle, Loredith Lafferty, Betty Kramar, Sharon Thomas, Al Burleson, Sharon Thomas, and Mary Johnson. The blackout winner was Judy Schiltz (Ilene Davidson's daughter-in-law) from Iowa. The kitchen help was Thelma Rudder, Jean Baten, and Nancy Taylor.

We appreciate the donated items for the center from Don Smith and the family of Edna Holsenbeck.

Mark your calendars April 16 because the Donley County Senior Citizens Center will celebrate its 25th anniversary. It looks like we will have a wonderful celebration. The board members and committees have worked very hard and have a wonderful afternoon planned. The celebration will be held April 16, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Congratulations to Cotton and Mary Beth Nelson on their 52nd wedding anniversary.

Our condolences go to Nita Meador and Jean Baten in the loss of a brother-in-law.

Reminders:

- April 10, 17, 24: Dance Club, 7 p.m.
- April 11: Board Meeting, 6 p.m.

Bank helps CHS students

The Herring National Bank recently donated several packets to Clarendon High School which assists teaching students about managing a checking account. The packets are used in Maurine Butts' Consumer & Family Economics course, and students learn how to balance a checkbook, what happens when a check bounces, and how to handle service charges and ATM transactions. The bank has been providing this service for about five years. Shown here are Herring employees Janan Koontz and Debbie Hamilton and Ms. Butts.

Tax deferral available for elderly homeowners

Texans aged 65 or older may postpone paying delinquent and current property taxes on their homes.

They may take advantage of a tax option called "over-65 deferral" by signing an affidavit at the Donley County Appraisal District office.

Once a homeowner files an over-65 tax deferral affidavit with the appraisal district, no taxing unit can start or continue a lawsuit for delinquent taxes as long as that person owns and lives in that home.

Taxpayers need to be aware that tax deferral for the elderly only postpones paying delinquent taxes on the home; it does not cancel them. During the deferral time, taxes and interest of eight percent continue to add up.

When the elderly taxpayer no longer owns or lives in the home, the taxes become due. Taxing units can then sue to collect all the deferred tax and interest.

CJH students compete at UIL Literary Meet

Clarendon Junior High School students participated in the annual UIL Spring Literary Meet held at Clarendon College on March 21 and 22. They finished fourth in the meet behind Panhandle, Wellington, and Quannah. In the sixth grade contests, Claudia Thomas and Anndria Kidd tied for fourth, and Stephen Ford was sixth in Calculator Applications. Cody Scrivner took first place in Listening Skills while Kristin White and Stormy Jordan tied for sixth in Dictionary Skills, and Chase Thornberry was fifth in Maps, Graphs, and Charts. Chase Thornberry was third in Number Sense, and Kaitlyn Howard was sixth in Oral Reading. In Spelling, Edie Mincey captured first place while Carmen Hamilton took third, and Andy Roberts was sixth.

Other students participating in the sixth grade division were Will Betts, Bret Carter, Holly Cornell, Lauren Floyd, Caitlan Hall, Anndria Kidd, and Kristin McAfee.

Seventh grade contests saw Shanna Shelton grabbing first place in Listening Skills, Jessie Anderberg and Meghan Gribble tying for third in Spelling, Shanna Shelton placing third in Impromptu Speaking, and Tim Sears taking second in Maps, Charts, and Graphs. Angel Williams took first place in Oral Reading, and Vanna Holton was third. Vanna also was sixth in Modern Oratory and second in Science. Tim Sears was second in Spelling, and Stephanie Fowler finished sixth in Ready Writing.

Other seventh graders competing were Cierra Benavidez, Valerie Bradley, Anna Chester, Sarah Depew, Laura Dziedzic, Andra Helms, Jessica Hernandez, Ty Lewis, Kayla Martindale, Karl Steen, Grady Swearingen, and Destiny Weatherston.

In the eighth grade division, Jeremy Howard captured first place in Listening Skills, and Drew Sell earned first place in Science while Tim Leeper and Jeremy Howard were fifth and sixth respectively. Drew Sell also was second in Math while Tim Leeper took third. Lydia Hartman finished sixth in Maps, Graphs, and Charts; Tim Leeper was sixth in Calculator Applications; and Zach Howard was sixth in Dictionary Skills. In Modern Oratory, Crystal Lawler was fifth, and Alice Hommel placed sixth. Chrissy Martin and Drew Sell placed fifth and sixth respectively in Number Sense.

Also participating were Chris Fobbs, Blake Frye, Brittney Hall J.J. Johnson, Terra Kidd, Dusty Martindale, Ottis Scrivner, and Jamie Simmons.

Forest Service: Recent rains lessen risks of fire

Recent moisture has dampened the extreme fire danger on the High Plains, but the Texas Forest Service says the fire risk hasn't been doused.

The ground is saturated and spring green-up is beginning to occur, but a heavy load of dead, fire-prone vegetation still remains.

"The fire danger is still extremely high," says Les Rogers, a Texas Forest Service regional fire coordinator.

In the last two weeks, nearly four inches of rain have been measured in Clarendon with some areas of the county reporting more.

The moisture has reduced the ease of accidental fire starts, a major cause of wildfires this season, and created conditions that allow wildfires to be controlled by local resources.

Texas Forest Service resources, which have been staged in Amarillo since January, were demobilized last week. The service will still keep its presence in the area as Rogers will return to his Canyon office to serve the fire departments in this region.

With spring in the air and a forecast calling for more normal weather patterns including rain, the High Plains will begin to see blossoms of fire relief. Until then, Rogers urges residents to continue to practice fire prevention.

Words on paper. They will always be the most powerful tools human beings use to communicate. They place no limits on how much we can say, and the furthest reaches of the imagination are the only limits on what we can show. They have the power to make complex ideas simple, and simple ideas powerful. We do more than read them, we hold them. ## Obituaries

Duggins

Funeral services for James Dalton "Peelings" Duggins, age 78, were held at 10:00 a.m., Thursday, March 30, 2000, in Robertson Chapel of Memories in Clarendon with Rev. Tracy Wayne Richardson, son of Mr. Duggins, officiating. Burial was held in Citizens Cemetery under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc.

Mr. Duggins died Tuesday, March 28, 2000, in Denton, Texas. He was born June 3, 1921, in Hedley and was a resident of Donley County most of his life before moving to Comstock, Texas, in 1931. He married Margie Gregory on February 7, 1969, at Archer City, Texas. She preceded him in death on February 18, 1986. He was a farmer and cotton ginmer much of his life before his retirement. He was a US Army Veteran of World War II.

Survivors include one daughter, Teresa Shotts of Krum; one son, Rev. Tracy Wayne Richardson of Del Rio, Texas; one sister, Jeanie East of Decatur; and four grandchildren. Casket bearers were members of the family.

Palmer

Graveside services for H. Lee Palmer, age 73, were held at 11:00 a.m., Monday, April 3, 2000, in Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon with Dr. Murray Gossett, Assistant Pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Amarillo, officiating. Burial was held in Citizens Cemetery under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc.

Mr. Palmer died Friday, March 31, 2000, in Amarillo. He was born June 6, 1926, on McCellan Creek near Alanreed in Donley County. He was a resident of Goodnight from 1962 until moving to Amarillo in 1988. He was preceded in death by his first wife, Ann Pinkney Palmer on December 11, 1973. He married Betty Pauline Tolleson on June 8, 1974, in Amarillo. He was a high school and college coach for several years and a rancher for several years before his retirement. He was a US Navy Veteran of World War II. He was a director and past president of the Clarendon Outdoor Entertainment Association as well as the Southwest Cattle Raisers Association. He was a member of the Claude Masonic Lodge and was an elder and long-time member of the First Presbyterian Church in Clarendon. He was currently a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Amarillo.

Survivors include his wife, Betty Palmer of Amarillo; two daughters, Lee Ann Beverly of Garland and Diane Tolleson of Crofton, BC; two sons, Ward Palmer of Amarillo and Craig Tolleson of Hallsville, Texas; and six grandchildren, Anna Ruth Palmer, Jordan Lee Tolleson, Breanna Tolleson, Myriah Sherriff, Stuart Palmer, and Abigail Palmer.

The family respectfully requests that memorials be to BSA Hospice, Presbyterian Children's Home in Amarillo, or to the Clarendon Outdoor Entertainment Association.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting April 4 with Boss Lion Bobbie Thornberry in charge.

We had 15 members this week. Lion Walt Knopp graciously volunteered to head up the Cow Patty Bingo during the Saints' Roost Celebration this summer. The club will sponsor the activity on Saturday, July 1, 2000.

The US Census requested use of the Lions Hall for one month free of charge. Lion Roger Estlack was fined 5¢ for his one word comment on the request. (The usual fine is 25¢, but the Tail Twister shared the sentiment.) The club rejected donating use of the building to the United States government.

We received several reports about various community activities.

The Boss Lion reported that we will soon be having club officer elections.

With no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Care program for a great looking lawn

By Leon Church, County Agent

A beautiful lawn adds greatly to the appearance of a home plus green grass gives a cooling effect for the home and surrounding area. Proper care of a lawn is essential if it is hoped to have a healthy and visually beautiful home landscape.

There are several areas that must be considered in lawn care. They include: fertilization, fertilizer application dates, watering, and mowing. All of these tasks must be taken into account when developing your plan for a great looking lawn. Let's take a look at each task in more detail.

Fertilization: The rate of fertilizer application, the frequency of application, the ratio of nutrients in the fertilizer and the source of nitrogen all have a great deal to do with how fast the lawn grows. The following fertilizer plan is designed to allow the lawn to grow at a reasonable rate and still have a good color.

Fertilizer ratio (NPK)	Fertilizer Analysis	Application rate-Lbs/1000 sq. ft.
3-1-2	12-4-8	8
	15-10-10	7
	21-7-14	5
or
4-1-2	16-4-8	6
	20-6-10	5
	19-5-95	5
Other	27-3-3	4

The formulation is important because we generally want to reduce as much as possible the amount of phosphorous in the fertilizer applied to the lawn. This is due to the fact that phosphorous promotes the growth of annual weedy plants. The P in NPK is Phosphorous, 3-1-2 means that there are 3 parts Nitrogen, 1 part Phosphorous, and 2 parts Potassium. For slow even growth, use a fertilizer containing either sulfur-coated or urea-formaldehyde as a nitrogen source, rather than soluble forms, for spring. The soluble forms, such as urea ammonium sulfate, tend to produce very fast growth for short periods of time. Organic fertilizers are also good sources of slow release fertilizer.

Yellowing is often caused by iron deficiency in our alkaline soils. A Fe-Iron Treatment may be necessary to improve green color of grass. Look for Texas formulation on fertilizer formulations.

Fertilizer Application Dates: For warm season grasses (Buffalo grass & Bermuda) the ideal dates are; April 1, June 1, August 1 and October 1. Cool season grasses such as Fescue and Rye the best dates for application are; October 1, December 1, February 1 and April 1.

Watering: It is recommended that we water our lawn slowly and thoroughly, to encourage deep root development. For the same reason, wait as long as you can to water again, so the roots will grow toward the moist soil beneath. You never want to use precise intervals for watering your lawn (i.e. every week, every day, etc.); your summer time schedule will probably fall near a twice weekly basis. Some general rules of thumb are: during summer, apply 1 to 2 inches of water per week; during spring and fall, apply 1 to 2 inches of water every two weeks; during winter apply 1 to 2 inches of water per month. (These amounts include rainfall totals).

The best time to water is early morning, so less water is lost by evaporation. However, during a hot July afternoon, if your lawn is showing signs of dryness, it is better to water it than let it suffer the rest of the day. Evening watering promotes diseases such as brown patch and other fungal diseases.

Mowing: The "rule of thumb" for mowing lawns is not to remove more than one-third of the leaf surface at any one time. If you use the following mowing schedule, you no longer will need to bag your grass clippings.

Type of grass	Mower Setting (in.)	Mow when or before this Height (inches)
Common Bermuda	1 1/2	2 1/4
"Tif" Bermuda	1	1 1/2
Buffalo	4	6
St. Augustine	3	4 1/2
Zoysia	2	3
Fescue	2 - 2 1/2	3 - 3 1/4
Rye	1 1/2 - 2	2 1/4 - 3

Grass clippings left on your lawn will not contribute to thatch, but will return valuable nutrients to the soil. They usually contain about 4 percent nitrogen, 1/2 percent phosphorous and about 2 percent potassium, as well as all the necessary minor elements that plants need.

Grass clippings make an excellent compost for gardens. Compost use is the best way to improve garden soil because it returns nutrients to the soil and improves the soil's physical characteristics.

Weed control is another task that must be addressed; but due to space limitations, I will discuss this in another article next week.

Beautiful lawns add much to the pride and beauty of our community. A little effort and commitment will go a long way in making your lawn "great looking."

Traveling shirt awarded to teams at scavenger hunt

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent

Thirty walkers pledged their commitment to the 2000 Walk Across Texas! (WAT) campaign by walking three miles into the Bar H Ranch on Saturday, March 25.

After arriving at the Ranch, teams participated in a scavenger hunt that awarded the traveling WAT T-shirt to three teams which will be shared for the first week. This hunt turned into a spirited competition for most team members.

The scavenger hunt involved following clues to seven sites on the Bar H grounds and putting together a predetermined phrase based on the objects found at each site.

Four teams had only one team representative at the kickoff so they worked together in a collaborative manner to be the first group to arrive at the winning phrase which was "Waltz Across Texas." This should come as a surprise to no one as the intense threesome included Bobbie Thornberry, Freddie Jo Moreman, Frances Smith, and Wanda Smith of the DCSB Loaners, Saints Roost Wonders, Wilma's Tax Assessories, and Wanda's Rowdy Republicans respectively. Bill Holden's Deputy Dogs was the second team to solve the winning phrase.

Other noteworthy phrases were credited to Elvie Shield of the HNB Shufflers, "I'm so glad to be here!" (a Minnie Pearl favorite), and Stan Lefew of the Extension Express team, "Ernest Tubb's Walks Across Texas Wearing a Cowboy Hat, Handkerchief, and a Skirt Holding the Texas Flag."

Following the scavenger hunt the walkers were treated to a hamburger barbecue and fashion show provided by the Donley County 4-H Clothing Project participants. Mike Newhouse was recognized for spending his morning transporting walkers to the Farm-to-Market Road on a hay wagon and chauffeuring the last of the walkers to the Bar H.

The traveling tee shirt will be retrieved by the first WAT team that reports the most weighted mileage for March 25-31. As a cautionary word, walkers, be on guard! Cennet Rhode is keeping her eye out for walkers who may be inflating their weekly mileage.

It is still possible to sign up a walking or biking team by calling the Extension Office at 874-2141. The destination for this year's event is South Padre Island. Who would consider passing up an opportunity like that?

Saints' Roost Jamboree set for Saturday night

By Betty Thomas

The Saints' Roost Jamboree will start 7:00 p.m. on stage this Saturday, April 8, in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Auditorium at Clarendon College.

Raymond Meers, the well-known author of poems and songs of faith will perform. Kenneth Schultz from Groom will perform the Jamboree's first ventriloquist act. Pat Jelley from Amarillo will sing a few songs, backed up by the Saints' Roost Band. We are sorry that the Praise and Worship Band had to cancel. Maybe they can be here next month. Last but not least, the Men in Red will perform.

Refreshments and friendly faces will both be at the Jamboree as usual. There is no charge for admission.

For more information, please call 874-3942 or 874-5031.

HHS places high at UIL district meet

Hedley High students competed March 27-28 in their district UIL Academic Meet held at Clarendon College.

Their showing in math and science events was the best in school history as they won all four events and advanced nine students to regional competition at South Plains College in Levelland on April 14.

Lowell Ellerbrook paced the Mathematics team in its second district championship in two years as he placed first overall with 130 points. Lana Wallendorf placed second, and Lauren Hill placed sixth as the math team established a new school record.

Ellerbrook also placed first overall in number sense with 116 points as the number sense team also set a new school record and placed first. Lauren Hill was third, and Dustin Knowles placed fourth in this event.

Ashley Hill placed first overall in Calculator Applications with 195 points, leading the team to a record-shattering performance as they eclipsed the old school mark by over 100 points. Lauren Hill was third, and Samuel Howard was fourth as each member of the team broke the old individual school record.

Hedley students participating in the District UIL competition were (back) Lana Wallendorf, Lowell Ellerbrook, Dustin Knowles, Lisle Rowland, Sam Howard, Lauren Hill, (middle) Rachel Bennett, Jennifer Williams, Lora Llewellyn, Josh Collins, Rachel Howard, Ashley Hill, (front) Marissa Wells, Sealey Stevens, LaCenda Funderburg, Cassie Moore, Lindsey Brinson, LaRae Shaw, Amber Solis

The science team placed first for their fifth consecutive district title. Lowell Ellerbrook placed first overall with a school record of 278 points; and for the second year in a row, he won all three science categories: biology, chemistry, and physics. Rachel Howard was second, Lana Wallendorf placed fourth, and Lora Llewellyn placed fifth in overall science score. The 530 point team total broke both school and district records.

Rachel Bennett placed fifth in Accounting, and in literary events

Sealey Steven and Josh Collins placed fifth in Prose Interpretation and Headline Writing respectively.

Others schools participating in District 3-1A competition included Follett, Lefors, Samnorwood, Groom, Higgins, Fort Elliott, Allison, McLean, and Miami.

The Hedley FFA Plant ID team recently competed at Clarendon College's annual Invitational Judging Contest. The team of Jared Naylor, Lowell Ellerbrook, LaRae Shaw, Dallas Moore, and Jared Patterson placed third overall.

Try going tournament fishing the hard way

You hit the alarm clock and look at it. It is 4:00 a.m. You pause for a minute and think to yourself. You then realize you are going to a bass tournament today. So, you get out of bed and stub your toe on your tackle box that you forgot to move because you stayed up until midnight cleaning and choosing what you think will be the winning lures. You take a shower, shave, and now you are getting excited because you know where the fish are going to be. You just have to be able to catch them.

You make coffee and look out the window. The wind is really blowing hard. Is that drizzle you see? You turn on The Weather Channel to see about this rain. Oh, well, goody. It's going to rain all morning, plus the wind is going to blow 15 to 25 mph from the north. You better get extra clothes and rain gear.

It is now 5:15 a.m. and you are 25 minutes from the lake. The tournament starts at 6:30 a.m. You still have plenty of time, so you drink your coffee and watch The Weather Channel as if you were magically trying to make the rain go away and make the wind stop blowing. Poof! It's going to be a beautiful day. Not!

You better warm up the truck and hitch the boat on. Then you find a surprise outside. You forgot to put the trash in the truck and varmints have scattered it all over your yard. Better pick it up or the wind will send it sailing. It is almost 5:45 a.m. Now there is a little pressure to get going, or you will be late.

You get in the truck to go get the boat. Something is not right. The front right tire is low. Now you are getting nervous. You have an electric air pump, but where is it? Now you are in a panic. It is raining cats and dogs, and it is really cold. You finally find the air pump.

You get the boat loaded, and you are off to the lake. It is 6:10 a.m. You will only be five minutes late. That will be all right. As you drive down the dirt road, you discover that it has rained quite a bit as your truck is fishtailing in the mud. It is only 1/4 of a mile to the pavement. Your heart is outdoor Life

By Gary Dziedzic

pumping 90 miles an hour. But you make it.

You get to the lake and pay your entry fee. You unload the boat and finally start fishing. It is 6:45 a.m. It is still raining, and your secret fishing hole is getting pounded by 3' waves. You struggle and fish it anyway. The waves nearly knock you out of the boat. You are cold and wet.

The tournament is over. You placed 4th. Was it worth it? Yes. I just wanted to share my story of how my fishing trip went Saturday. Just one of those days.

Fishing News:

I talked to Herman Mooring and Joe Spann the other day at the lake. They have been catching some big bass. Herman caught one that weighed 7 pounds and several 4 pounders. Joe has been catching a lot of big bass, also.

Fun Fishing Tournament Results:

These are the results of the Mel Phillips' Fun Fishing Tournament at Lake Greenbelt April 1, 2000.
1st - Brent Breznik, Borger, 8.17 lbs.
2nd - Joe Peirce, Canyon, 6.32 lbs.
3rd - Chris Bosley, Canyon 5.72 lbs.
4th - Gary Dziedzic, Clarendon, 5.38 lbs.
5th - Gordon Light, 3.95 lbs., Andrew White, 3.95 lbs.
7th - Dennis Stidham, 3.58 lbs.
8th - Cy Bosley, 3.16 lbs.
9th - Trent Watson, 1.98 lbs.
10th - Gary Long, 1.96 lbs.

It was a tough fishing day. Sixteen out of 35 entrants caught fish.

Fishing Tip of the Week:

Red rattle traps are catching a lot of bass in shallow water.

If you have any information to share, please write me at P.O. Box 1281, Clarendon, TX, 79226, or e-mail me at gdol@nts-online.net.

Remember catch and release. Catch a few fish for supper, and release a few fish to ensure another great fishing day. Good luck to all.

CHS golf teams began district play last week

The Clarendon golf teams opened up district play last week at Wellington.

The girls finished the first round of district in second place. They competed against Quanah on Tuesday and could possibly be the district runner up, which would earn them a trip to regionals. The boys are currently in first place. They traveled to Quanah on Monday to lock up the district championship.

Chris Linquist leads the district with a 79, shooting even par on the back nine at Wellington.

Thornberry: outlook good for earnings limit repeal

WASHINGTON - US Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) voted last week for legislation to repeal the Social Security earnings limit on older Americans. The bill passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 419-0 and will now be sent to the president for his signature.

"For too long, the federal government has been preventing senior Americans from finding jobs by penalizing the very benefits they've earned and come to depend on," Thornberry stated. "That's not only wrong - it's foolish. Seniors are the untapped resource of America. The more we can do to encourage those who want to contribute their talents and wisdom to the workplace, the better our country will be.

"In short, I voted for this bill because it recognizes not only the value of work to America's seniors, but the value of working seniors to America."

The bill is called The Senior Citizens' Freedom to Work Act. Under this measure, seniors between the ages of 65 and 69 will no longer have their Social Security benefits penalized for holding down a job. The earnings limit currently stands at $17,000 for those age 65 to 69. This year, a senior in that age group who works will lose $1 in Social Security benefits for every $3 of earnings he or she earns over the limit.

Thornberry is a co-sponsor of the measure and has been pushing to repeal the earnings limit since his first day in the House on January 4, 1995. He noted that Congress has addressed this issue in the past. In 1996, the House passed legislation that will raise the earnings limit to $30,000 in the year 2002. The one major difference this time, he added, is that the president has indicated a willingness to finally go along with a plan to not raise the limit but repeal it altogether.

"It's taken a few years," Thornberry remarked, "but it looks like we're finally going to get this thing through. This is good news, to say the least, and something that will make a real difference in the lives of seniors and our nation."

We would like to express our appreciation to the Clarendon Ambulance Service and to the paramedics who took such good care of me when my wife called 911 on March 13 when I had a seizure. They were prompt in arriving with the ambulance and carried me to the BSA hospital in Amarillo. Donley County is very fortunate to have this service and the dedicated people who are so understanding and dedicated. With sincere appreciation,
