Residents respond to attacks

Terrorism in NY, DC ignites patriotism

Donley County residents, like the rest of America, reacted with shock and horror when terrorists hijacked, then crashed two airplanes into the towers of the World Trade Center in New York City last Tuesday shortly before and after 8 a.m. local time.

Both towers later collapsed due to the structural damage and intense heat caused by the burning jet fuel. At presstime this week, nearly 5,000 people were reported missing in New York.

A third plane was crashed into the Pentagon in Washington, DC, Tuesday after it missed what is believed to have been its primary target - the White House. A fourth plane was also hijacked and re-routed for the nation's capital. That plane crashed in rural Pennsylvania, and it is believed - based on a cell phone call - that at least three passengers acted to thwart their hijackers' plans.

The American government has fingered known terrorist leader Usama Bin Laden as being a prime suspect in the attacks. Bin Laden is based in Afghanistan but has support of radical factions in several other countries in the Middle East.

As news of the attacks spread across Clarendon, people flocked to their televisions to view the devastation.

CHS students view attacks

At Clarendon High School, Principal Larry Jeffers went to each classroom and informed students of what had happened. He encouraged classes to discuss the attacks, turned on the large view-screen in the CHS Auditorium, and connected it to a network news feed.

"Sometimes there are more important things than what is happening in the classroom," Jeffers said. "[The students] were seeing history being made."

Jeffers said students were very quiet while watching the events unfold and some saw the twin towers in New York come crashing down. The entire student body was gathered in the auditorium for one period from 9 a.m. to 10:30.

The principal said some schools in the area did not let their students watch the events, but he felt the kids

'The flag still stands for freedom.'

About 200 people gathered at noon last Friday to remember the victims of the heinous terrorist attacks in New York City and Washington, DC, last week. Those holding Old Glory were Dr. Myles Shelton, David Lowrie, J.D. Hopper, Jimmy Swinney, Mike Spier, and Bill Holden.

needed to see what was happening.

"The kids handled it real well. They didn't seem in fear. It makes me have a bigger impact on the juniors and seniors."

CHS Student Council President Carrie Helms agrees with Jeffers that some underclassmen were less affected.

"A lot don't understand how serious it is," Helms said. "It makes me angry that some go on with their lives like it's not a serious thing."

Helms said the reality of the situation has begun to sink in on her fellow students in the days that have followed the attacks.

"I think some of them have started coming around when people talk about going to war," she said.

Helms said the attacks have been discussed in her classes, particularly government class where they discussed the responsibilities of the government and its war powers.

Officials at Clarendon Junior High reacted similarly to those at CHS. Principal Marvin Elam went from room to room, spreading the news.

"The students were very somber as we explained what was going on and told them they were safe here."

Elam said.

Kids were allowed to go to the school library to see the news broadcasts, and eventually news feeds were linked up with televisions in every classroom.

"If kids know the truth, they can deal with it and talk to their parents about it," he said. "We talked with them about terrorism and hatred."

Clarendon Elementary Principal Mike Word did not tell his students of the attacks, but did inform his staff.

"My kids are little, and I don't know that they would understand," Word said. "We left it up to the parents to explain it."

In the days after the attacks, Word said the older elementary kids understand that something terrible has happened.

'I thought it was like War of the Worlds'

Clarendon College Athletic Director Joel Zehr spread the news on College Hill after hearing it on the radio. Zehr stopped by the ENTERPRISE office to check the television before going up to CC.

"I thought this was like 'War of the Worlds' or something," Zehr said. "I couldn't believe it."

CC President Myles Shelton said he hadn't heard of the attacks until Zehr told him.

"It was unreal," Shelton said. "Then it was clear that it was very real."

Shelton said the attitudes of CC students are mirroring the attitudes of the nation - going from shock to grief to anger.

"The concept of what's really important has dawned on them."

"It really shocked everyone," Atwood said. "Once you get through with classes, [students] just go back to their room and watch the news."

Atwood said a lot of students are talking about the possibility of the draft coming back and about what the government is going to do.

By Tuesday afternoon, word was spreading that the attacks were causing a rise in oil prices and reports said gas stations were raising prices. Lines formed at local gas stations, but only two - Taylor Food Mart and Taylor Exxon - were reported to have raised their prices. The stores later lowered the price of regular unleaded back to $1.59, but they have been widely criticized by local citizens.

Tuesday night the Clarendon Board of Aldermen approved a resolution regarding the terrorist attacks earlier that day, expressing the city's thoughts and prayers for the victims as well as support for those who are suffering, pledging to bring about understanding, and giving thanks for the lives that have secured our freedoms.

Locals directly affected by attacks

Perhaps the local person closest to the attack was Clarendon's Rep. Mac Thornberry. The congressman had eaten breakfast at the Pentagon and reportedly left minutes before the plane crashed into the building. Thornberry has since canceled personal appearances at town hall meetings in the 13th District so he can remain in Washington.

One local couple was stranded in Canada as result of the attack when the federal government shut down the nation's airspace. Dr. Brad Williams and his wife Lani were in Vancouver for a cattle veterinary seminar at the time. The couple was staying in a hotel near the United State Embassy. See 'Attacks' on page 5A.

Cookoff to be held Saturday

The seventh annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff will be held this Saturday at the Saints' Roost Museum.

Museum board members are encouraging folks from Donley County and the surrounding area to come out and support the museum. Fifteen wagons are signed up to compete for top prizes, and the day will provide great family entertainment.

The gate opens at 7:30 a.m. with breakfast and lunch concessions provided by the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce. The tradeshow starts at 10 a.m., and museum tours will be available throughout the day.

Patrick Robertson and KEFH-FM will provide music beginning at noon. Live entertainment begins at 2 p.m., and performances are scheduled all day and include Dan Hall of Clarendon, Thut Creek and Cozy Parsons of the Red River Steakhouse in McLean, Katrina Burrow and David Strange of Clarendon, the Saints' Roost Band, Christine Walls of Quitaque, and Gary Alan Bruce of Pampa.

The Chuckwagon meal will be served at 5 p.m. with a menu of chicken fried steak, potatoes, beans, and cobbler.

At 6:30, the museum will raffle off a pair of Jim Owens Handmade Boots, and the cookoff awards will be presented at 6:45.

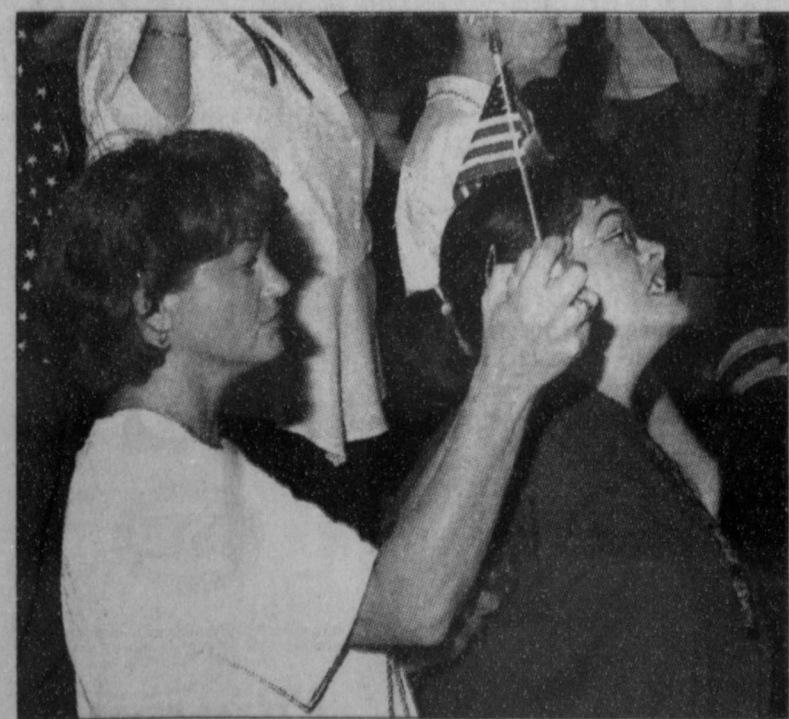

The Clarendon College Theatre Department will present a melodrama, "He Ain't Done Right By Nell," at 7 p.m., and an open-air dance will follow with music provided by the Palo Duro Band of Amarillo.

Admission to the all-day event is free. Tickets for the authentic Chuckwagon supper are $10 each and can be purchased in advance at Henson's in Clarendon by calling 806/874-3517. Boot tickets are also available at Henson's or from any museum board member.

On Sunday, cowboy church will be held under the tent at the museum with preaching by Jimmy and Johnny Burson of Silverton.

All proceeds will benefit the Saints' Roost Museum's continued operation and its ongoing effort to restore the historic Ft. Worth & Denver City Depot.

The museum is located off State Hwy. 70 South in Clarendon.

City to celebrate 100th anniversary of incorporation

The City of Clarendon will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its incorporation next Tuesday, September 25, 2001.

Mayor Tex Selvidge and the Board of Aldermen have invited the public to attend an Open House at City Hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in honor of the milestone.

Clarendon was first established in 1878 when Rev. L.H. Carhart led a group of Methodist colonists to settle this part of the Texas Panhandle. The town, named in honor of Carhart's wife Clara, was originally situated at the junction of Carroll Creek and the Salt Fork of the Red River.

The colonists strictly forbade drinking and other sinful habits, and the town quickly garnered the derisive nickname "Saints' Roost" from the area cowboys and folks in the only two other towns in the region - Tascosa and Mobeetie.

Nine years later, it became necessary to move the town when the tracks of the Ft. Worth & Denver City Railway missed Clarendon by five miles. A town site was located along the railway in 1887, and "new" Clarendon soon replaced the old town. But it was another 14 years before Clarendon had a city government.

An application for incorporation of the Town of Clarendon was filed with Donley County Judge B.H. White on September 9, 1901. The petition was signed by George W. Washington, H.B. White, Geo. L. Jowell, J.A. Hill, C.C. White, J.M. Hill, Morris Rosenfield, F.A. White, I.W. Carhart, W.M. Stevens, M.W. Easum, John Codger, Gus Jacques, T.H. Westbrook, W.H. Caldwell, H.D. Ramsey, T.P. Davis, T.W. Oliver, J.J. Harrison, T. Ewing, F.A. Dewey, W.E. Jones, Jas. Trent, A.M. Beville, H.A. Campbell, L.D. Rhode, Clifton Carter, R.A. Chamberlain, Willis Holtson, T.W. Carrol, S.J. White, J.J. Alexander, J.N. Eddins, Wm. H. Cooke, J.E. Griffin, H.A. Morgan, R.F. Wood, W.H. Oliver, W.G. Jones, John M. Clower, I.W. Carhart, Jr., Del W. Harrington, J.D. Jefferies, H.E. Taylor, June W. Taylor, J.B. Pope, Jno. E. Cooke, A.C. Barrett, W.P. Blake, Geo. F. Morgan, W.M. Hildebrand, B.H. White, and W.C. Freeman.

Judge White declared on September 10, 1901, that there were more than 2,000 people living in the area seeking incorporation, and he ordered an election to be held on September 24. The vote, was 114 "for corporation" and 90 against the measure.

After canvassing the vote on September 25, 1901, Judge B.H. White decreed: "the inhabitants of said town of Clarendon be and they are hereby incorporated..."

The first city election was held on Tuesday, October 29, 1901. Citizens elected I.W. Carhart as Clarendon's first mayor. Original members of the Board of Aldermen were W.H. Cooke, R.A. Chamberlain, L.C. Beverly, T.J. Noland, and F.D. Martin.

Geo. L. Jowell was elected as City Marshal.

Those early city fathers laid the groundwork for the city improvements and services citizens of Clarendon enjoy today.

In preparation for the city government's 100th anniversary, City Secretary Janice Barbee and City Clerk Linda Smith have been working hard to compile a list of all former mayors along with former members of the Board of Aldermen and former city marshals.

During its centennial Open House Tuesday, City Hall will be displaying a copy of the petition for incorporation, the city charter, and interesting ordinances from the early 20th century.

Citizens of Clarendon and surrounding communities are encouraged to stop by City Hall and help commemorate the city's centennial by enjoying cake and refreshments during the come and go Open House.

America has had enough of terrorism

Like most of you, I spent much of my time the last several days watching television. The utter devastation is something that cannot be described here. The pictures on television tell the whole story.

The constant topic of conversation amongst the pundits, broadcasters, and also the people on the street has been centered on what President Bush's administration is going to do about the attack.

I've listened to both sides - from those who want to go in and just nuke all of Afghanistan to those who literally want to do nothing and give peace a chance. Clearly, something has to be done; and I'm sorry, but I think the days of pussyfooting around with these lunatics are over.

The threat of terrorism is one that seeks to destroy Western Civilization in general and the American Civilization in particular. If our allies know what's good for them, they will join the United States in its efforts to end terrorism. But we should not wait for them; we don't need the permission of socialist whiners in the United Nations. The United States Constitution charges the federal government with defending our nation. Indeed, providing for the common defense was one of the principal reasons our government was formed.

President Bush has said that America will go after the terrorists and those who support them, and he has said that we are now at war. It would be good for this effort if Congress would go ahead and formally declare war.

But whom do we declare war upon? History shows that the United States can declare war on a group of people without a country - namely the Barbary Pirates - who were terrorists about 200 years ago. We could limit ourselves to a war on Usama Bin Laden's organization and other terrorist groups, but there is today reason enough to declare war at least on Afghanistan and Iraq.

Now we hear from the hand-wringers that making war on these poor people won't help matters and besides, they say, it's not their fault. That is flat, dead wrong. A great deal of the blame for terrorism lies with the people whose governments take part in, finance, and harbor terrorist activities.

Thomas Jefferson wrote that governments are instituted to secure the liberties of the people. And, he wrote, whenever a government becomes abusive of those rights and subjects the people to despotism it is their right and their duty to overthrow such government. That is our Declaration of Independence in a nutshell.

The argument that the Iraqi or Afghan people are poor and destitute doesn't really carry water as an excuse for them to permit their governments to behave this way.

In 1776, thirteen colonies with a ragtag army defended themselves against one of the world's greatest superpowers at the time. In 1836, a group of poor settlers suffered tragic defeats and major setbacks before defeating a mighty army in one battle that lasted less than 20 minutes.

In the stories of both the American and Texas Revolutions, people fought against superior forces in the face of immeasurable odds all in the name of freedom, and they succeeded in freeing themselves from tyrants.

Given those facts, I have no problem with the United States and its allies going in to attack so-called innocent people in these other countries. They are not innocent; they are accomplices.

President Bush should demand the Taliban government in Afghanistan hand over Bin Laden and all of his lieutenants immediately, and he should do the same for the governments harboring other terrorist groups. Those that don't comply should face the full wrath of the United States Armed Forces, and the nuclear option should not be ruled out. Terrorism, the people who commit it, and the people who tolerate it must be eradicated.

Some people may be queasy with this approach. They will favor diplomatic solutions and limited attacks. But for those people, I would reiterate something I heard a retired military man say on one of the news programs: "Have we had enough yet?"

It wasn't enough when our embassy in Iran was taken hostage. It wasn't enough when Marine barracks were bombed. It wasn't enough when the first bomb was set off at the World Trade Center years ago. It wasn't enough when airplanes were hijacked or blown out of the sky. It wasn't enough when our embassies were bombed. And it wasn't enough when a hole was blown in the side of one of our warships.

Now, the Pentagon has been attacked, two landmarks of capitalism are heaps of rubble, our president was targeted for assassination, and some 5,000 Americans - innocent civilians - are dead.

Have we had enough yet?
Yes, I think we have.

Our nation will emerge from ashes stronger

Roger, you asked what I felt after the prayer and honoring of our innocent dead today, and I told you that I truly believe that America will come up out of the ashes of this destruction a stronger America more able to work with each other, more determined to keep our freedoms, and more sure of a God.

But there is something else I have seen and heard that keeps echoing through it all: Our country is not afraid, and our beliefs and freedoms will not be lessened. Today, our president mirrored this. We are a country of diverse beliefs and religions. Today, he asked representatives of those different faiths to speak to us, giving us comfort and hope. In doing this, he showed he was not afraid to stand for his and encourage those of other faiths to do the same.

Do not misunderstand me. I believe in one God. But unlike those who killed the innocent, I do not hate because others do not believe as I do. That is the difference.

I am very sure of my belief, and the one verse that stands firm is 1st Cor. 13:13: "Faith, hope, and love, but the greatest of these is love." It is love of one another and respect of one another that makes Christ stand out. We forget He died for not only those who would believe in Him but also for those who do not. Why? To give everyone the freedom to see the truth. It is in seeing Truth that makes others want Christ.

We live in a great country that was built on God; and as long as it stands on that, we will not be defeated. For as it is promised in His word, who can stand against us if Christ is with us? For vengeance is the Lord, and He will direct his vengeance when evil thinks it has prevailed, and love will come out of the ashes.

Kathy Hommel,

Reader says gas hikes in Clarendon were appalling

It is appalling to me that one of the businesses in Clarendon chose to use the tragic events of last week to gouge travelers and residents of Clarendon by raising the prices they charge for gasoline. The culprit: Taylor's.

The horrific terrorist attacks have brought the best out of this great nation and unfortunately for some, the worst. To the owners of Taylor's in Clarendon and all over the Panhandle - I, for one, have bought my last item from your stores. I hope many others choose (a freedom we have) to do the same.

God Bless America.

A ready source of talent goes unnoticed

By Bill Hammond

As children load their backpacks, yellow buses roll, and stadiums fill with Friday night football fans, a real problem looms in classrooms across the Lone Star State. According to some education experts, we are some 40,000 teachers short in Texas public schools. Teacher associations hammered this point across during the last legislative session as they lobbied for a statewide teacher health insurance program. Their theory was and remains that we can't find people willing to enter the classroom because the pay is low and benefits are inadequate.

The irony is that while we have this "crisis" in education, the solution lies in a mechanism already in place but seldom utilized. Alternative certification is the method of putting teachers in the classroom who have not gone through coursework in the traditional colleges of education. And maybe one of the reasons we are short is because prospective teachers don't find the subject matter in colleges of education very appealing. Instead of listening to lectures on pedagogy and didacticism that one would find in the education curriculum, students might find anthropology or political science more useful and interesting.

Alternative certification allows men and women to be certified to teach in their areas of proficiency as long as they hold a bachelor's degree, take a six-week "teaching" course and pass the ExCET exam prior to entering the classroom. There is a built-in talent pool for new teachers right now in Texas. Retirees from the military and private sector as well as men and women ready for a career change are often in search of new challenges and would be eager to teach if they could bypass the colleges of education. Recent high-tech layoffs make new math and technology teachers readily available.

So, why aren't more teachers bought into the teaching profession who possess these qualities? After all, statistics show that these people make good teachers. The reluctance comes from local school district personnel who assert they don't have the man power to administer such a program or that implementing one is not in their budgets. In fact, only four school districts offer an alternative certification program.

Some teacher associations make the "quality over quantity" argument against alternative certification. But when you peel away the layers of rhetoric on this issue, you get to the heart of the matter - alternative certification is maligned because a teaching shortage gives teacher unions more leverage to lobby for additional pay and increased benefits.

We all agree the teachers should be paid well, but we also want vacancies filled with qualified teachers who are not currently being utilized by the system.

As teachers swarmed the Capitol last session advocating health insurance to help attract new teachers, a bill granting more flexibility to local districts to provide a mechanism for alternative certification miraculously passed the House. Unfortunately, its life was cut short by a "tag" by one senator and never again saw the light of day.

We have a practice in Texas public education of furnishing the carrot and hiding the stick. The recent health insurance program for teachers is evidence of that where we funded a billion dollar program and asked for nothing in return.

If our current system isn't producing enough teachers, it's time to make some changes. And the alternative certification program will do just that. It will allow new people to enter the classroom and may even stimulate some competition among those already in the system. The winners are likely to be the children for whom education was intended in the first place.

Hammond is president of the Austin-based Texas Association of Business and Chambers of Commerce.

Clarendon grieves with the rest of America

Where were you September 11? When did you hear the news? What were you doing? How did you hear?

None of us will ever forget the answers to those questions, just like those who were alive when Pearl Harbor was bombed can still remember the answers to the same questions. Certain events can never be erased from the memory.

I was finishing up my e-mail with a "borrowed" computer keyboard at about ten-thirty, trying to get all my business taken care of before traveling to Amarillo to get a new keyboard when the next to last e-mail message said terrorists had attacked and if we didn't already have it on, to turn on the TV.

The television doesn't go on in the mornings in our house because it's too hard to get ready on time without the distraction, so I ran to see what was happening just in time to see a replay of the towers' fall.

Many of us have similar stories—either they heard it on the news on their way to work or learned of it when they arrived. Maybe friends and family called to let you know something awful had happened. At the school, the teachers in the younger grades kept things as normal as possible, despite their own horror. In the high school, it varied from class to class, depending on the teachers' judgment.

I went on to Amarillo because I desperately needed the keyboard and the trip had been put off twice already. The highway didn't seem any more or less busy as I drove in, radio tuned to any news station I could find. The mall had closed, which I didn't know beforehand, but I hadn't planned on stopping there so it didn't matter. Few shoppers were out at most of the stores where I stopped. The small computer store where I wound up buying my keyboard seemed to have normal traffic, but Target only had one checkout stand open and other stores had salespeople with little to do but stand around and watch the news on their display TVs. On my way home, I noticed cars backed up out to the street at the Amarillo gas stations.

Several of the churches organized prayer meetings Tuesday night, though many members didn't get word (I didn't notice the message on my machine till Wednesday morning—my own fault) in time. The ceremony Friday noon downtown was beautiful and moving, and I know I'm not the only one who had tears streaming down my face as Clarendon prayed and sang together.

Terrorists couldn't stop Friday night tradition in the Panhandle. The Bronco football team, the Bronco band, and lots of Bronco fans traveled to Shamrock to watch the game. Cheerleaders from both teams met at midfield to light candles while those gathered attempted to sing "God Bless America" one more time through our tears.

I have about decided that it's easier just to let them fall. We have shed too many to try to catch all our tears and wipe them away. Clarendon grieves with the rest of our country, and we stand with the rest of the country as we face what comes next.

Running up a tab

Mrs. Hankins' fourth grade classes have collected 781,958 tabs in four years, and the teacher says this is their fifth and final year for collection. The class is asking the community to continue to help them see what a million of something looks like. The tabs are used to calculate volume, capacity, ounces, pounds, place value, and other concepts.

Columnist says it's a good thing she's not in charge

While Americans watched in stunned horror last Tuesday, three hijacked planes filled with innocent Americans crashed into the World Trade Center towers and the Pentagon. Thousands of people were killed and are still missing.

I'm glad I'm not the one who makes the decision on how to handle the situation. If it were me, I'd bomb every country who had a hand in planning such cowardly deeds and shoot every person who helped with the funding of such. I'd also shoot every American who helped train, feed, house, or give any kind of aid to the terrorists. I guess it's a good thing I'm not in charge.

I had an interesting experience last week. I attended my first six-man football game. Mike and Lori Wallendorff took me. Their son, Will, stood around on the sidelines with about twenty other boys. The only way I could tell which team was which was by the color of their jerseys. The Hedley boys wore green, and the others wore gold, and they were all a lot bigger than the Hedley boys. Lori spent the evening explaining things to me.

It looked as if it might rain so I took my umbrella. I attended an eleven-man game once. Clarendon played Childress at Childress and I was as confused then as I was Friday. There were just more boys on the field.

I had a good time and have decided I'll go to the next game. I understand Hedley will have homecoming then. Maybe we'll win the game. It rained about an inch Saturday night and an inch and a half Sunday night. That was in town. Wanda Clay said they didn't get but a sprinkle at their house, and Blackie Johnson said he got .10 at Giles. I haven't talked to Keith about it.

I did see Rance a few days ago and asked him what he'd been doing, and he said he'd been helping his dad. When I asked him what he'd been helping with, he said, "We've been at the ranch watching the grass grow." Does anyone know how to can cake in a jar? Jeneda Gay gave me some cake that had been cooked in a small half-pint Mason jar and sealed. I opened a jar, and it was as moist as if it had been cooked that morning. I've got the jars and stuff to make the cake but don't know how to cook it in the jars.

Louise Farley and I went out to the fair Monday after I had finished with my dialysis treatment. We visited the jelly and baking exhibits as well as the sewing and agriculture exhibits. I saw a really big watermelon.

I had a short visit with Don Reeves and a longer one with Richard Stotts. Richard has six Angus cattle in the show. He told me he had driven in from Albuquerque Sunday and would go to the Texas State Fair next week.

Senior Citizens plan trip to see band at Gem Theatre in Claude

By Vida O'Neal

The Ranch Dance Fiddle Band will be in Claude at the Gem Theater on October 13. If you wish to go, please let me know soon. This program is usually a sellout so we need to reserve seats soon. Please call Pattye or Vida at 874-2665.

It is now time for the 2002 Membership Drive which will begin September 2001 for the year of 2002. When you are ready to renew your membership, just let Pattye, Vida, or the desk clerk know; and we can fix you up. We hope to increase our membership this year, so tell all your friends to come join and have fun with us in 2002.

On October 20, we have planned a one-day bus tour with Skeet's Tours and Travels. The folks from Foley, Alabama, will be bringing fresh seafood, fried green tomatoes, oyster shuckers, shrimpers, arts and crafts, and Black Gospel Choir, just to name a few of the things Alabama will be bringing to Guyton, OK. If you do not like seafood, other food will be available. This sounds like lots of fun, so come join us for the tour to Guyton, OK. The bus tour price is $45. The motorcoach will provide complimentary soft drinks, water, and snacks. The deadline for reservations on the tour was September 13, but we can turn in names until October 5 if anyone wants to go that has not signed up.

Get well wishes go to Joan Kidd and Betty Phillips. Our condolences go to the following families on the loss of their loved ones: Dorothy Pitts, Roxie Brownlee, Duane Garman, and Ilene Brown.

Columnist expresses herself with poetry after terrorists' attacks

I rarely share much of my so-called poetry with anyone, as it is usually personal. But I am sharing it in lieu of anything else that I could possibly write.

today,
she does not fathom, I am sure.

She does not know of terrorists, or destruction, death and sorrow.
She will dine on the feast of sleep tonight, and awaken from that peaceful slumber tomorrow.

Amid my silent prayer and my heavy heart,
A tender "I love you" I am told.
Tonight as my nation mourns and cries out,
I found comfort, in the arms of my five year old.

"Forever Changed"
My children sat silently
Watching hell unleash today.
Where safety and peace once had lived,
Now mayhem and destruction lay.

Faces reflected terror and fear
As the fury began to unfold.
The devastation of what happened today,
Numbered us all, young and old.

Our lives have been forever changed,
Our Nation shaken to its very core.
What may have started out to divide us,
Brought us together even more.

America, we are mighty,
Steadfast, not afraid to fight.
And each and every American,
Unite our hearts in prayer tonight.

Don't forget the knee-ology

By Mary Beth Nelson

The young minister grinned as he warmly greeted congregation members leaving Sunday morning service. He had just completed his sermon at the church to which he had been newly appointed three weeks previously. A well-respected elderly lady stood among those waiting to shake the preacher's hand.

"Young man," regarded the wise 81-year-old, "where did you go to school?"

Slightly straightening his shoulders, he proudly answered her question concerning attendance at a theological college.

The twinkle in her eye combined with a friendly wind as she advised, "Well, that's fine, but while you're practicing Theology, don't forget to use some KNEE-ology!"

I've come to realize that using more "knee-ology," or developing a prayer life, is one of the most important things I can do for myself. Learning to commune with God and depending on His loving care is the first step toward serenity.

The elements of prayer... acceptance of God's control of the entire universe, acknowledgment of His blessings, and faith in His promises... can only lead to more abundant living, even during the most devastating conditions.

A great 19th century statesman once said, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go." The statesman? Abraham Lincoln.

Bible Thought: "Come, let us bow down in worship, let us kneel before the Lord, our Maker..." Psalms 95:6 (NIV) and Dr. Williams' seminar was to be held in the World Trade Center's Canadian offices.

"It was pretty nerve-racking," Williams said. He said the Vancouver airport was shut down like American airports were. The couple finally crossed the border Sunday and caught a flight home from Seattle.

Clarendon shows patriotism

Citizens of Clarendon joined the national day of prayer and remembrance called for by President George W. Bush on Friday.

Homes and businesses displayed American flags, and a hastily organized service was held at noon on Kearney Street near Henson's. About 200 people came to the event where local men held a giant America flag while Bryan Knowles gave a prayer, and Dan Hall sang "God Bless the USA."

Tears filled the eyes of those in attendance as they sang "God Bless America" together and tried to comfort one another in the face of the national tragedy.

Another service was held during the CHS pep rally Friday afternoon to recognize America and the people who died. Elementary students held a large flag, and Dan Hall again sang "God Bless the USA" as students and Bronco fans waved small American flags. The service ended as a member of the Bronco Band played "Taps."

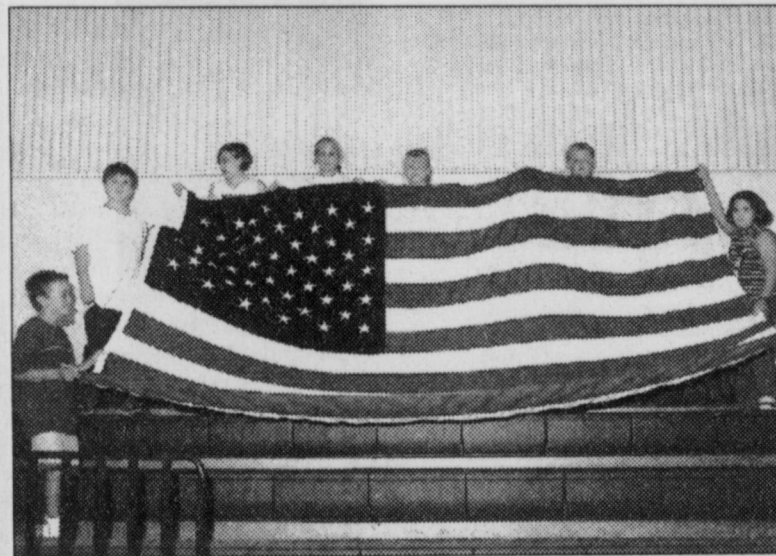

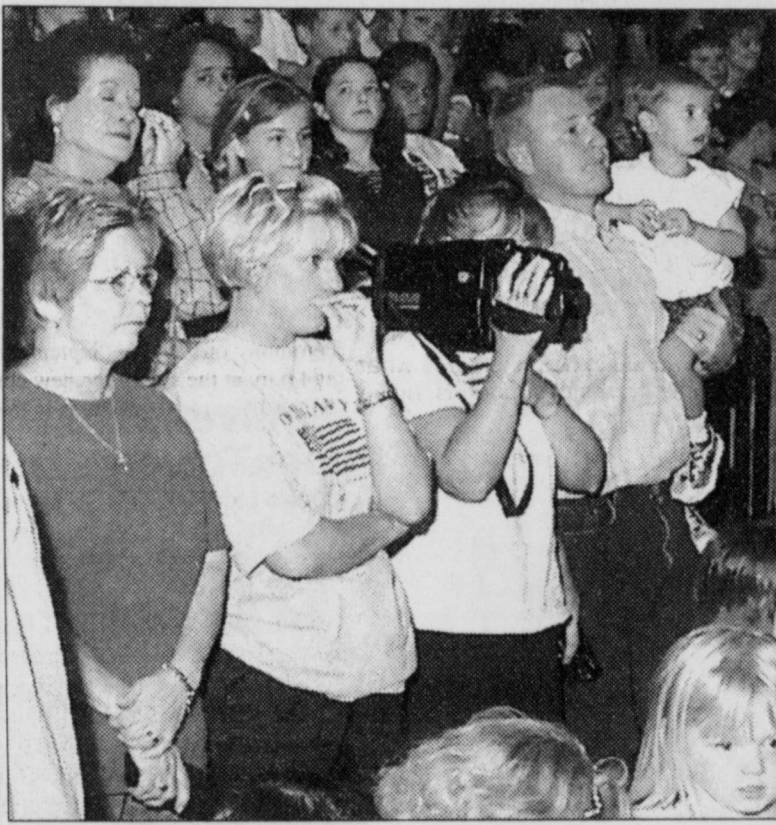

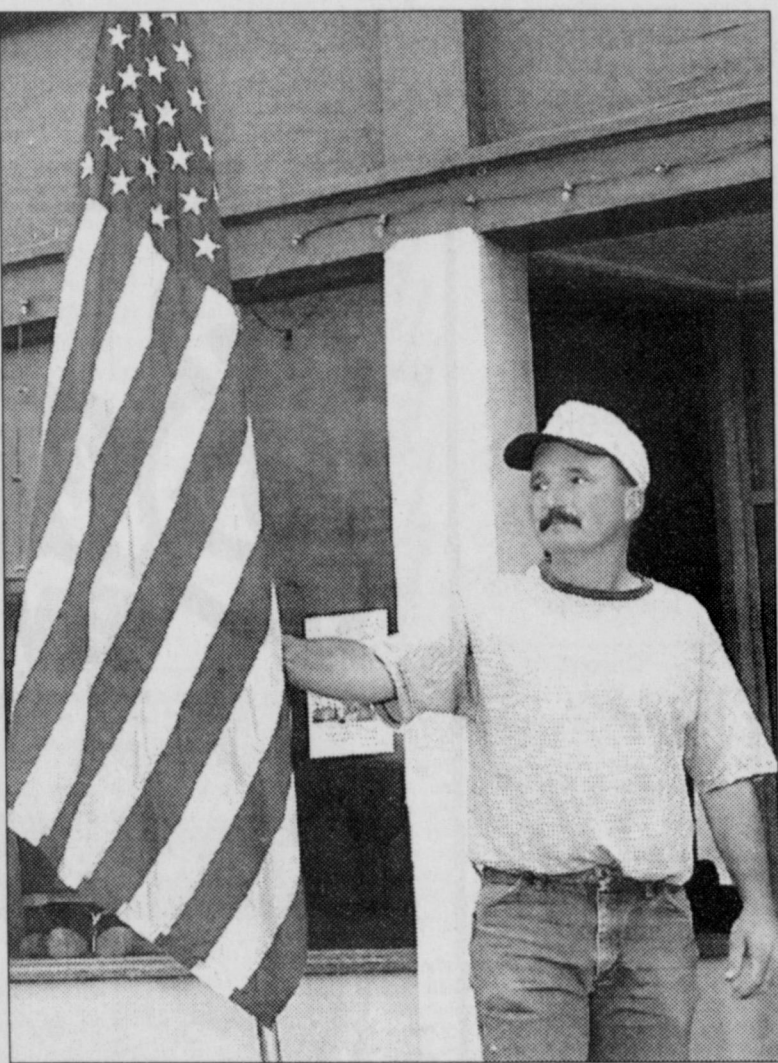

Friday night, Clarendon's varsity team traveled to Shamrock, where the Bronco and Irish cheerleaders held a candlelight vigil prior to the game.

The patriotic spirit was still high Monday as citizens turned out to donate blood at Clarendon College. At press time, the number of people giving blood for the victims of the attack was unavailable, but a representative from Coffee Memorial Blood Center said the response from Clarendon had been greater than expected.

All over town, organizations continue to take donations to benefit the terrorist's victims. Panhandle Community Services, Medical Center Nursing Home, and the Associated Ambulance Authority are just some of those accepting donations.

President Bush has said that America is in for a long, difficult fight in the war against terrorism. Through their recent actions, Clarendon and Donley County citizens have shown that they stand ready to do their part to protect and defend the United States of America.

2) Clarendon and Shamrock cheerleaders gather in the center of the Fighting Irish's home field for a candlelight vigil.

3) A tearful crowd gathers on Kearney Street to observe the national day of prayer and remembrance. Approximately 200 people attended.

4) Laura Simental (right) of Amarillo's Coffee Memorial Blood Center prepares Becky Donaldson to donate blood at the drive at Clarendon College.

5) Elementary students hold a large American flag during the Bronco Pep Rally Friday afternoon.

6) Bronco fans shed tears during services in the CHS Gym for the lives lost in New York and Washington, DC.

7) The Henson family - A.R., Frankie, Susan, and Wes - salute the flag during the services downtown.

Club manager Larry Goetze extends an invitation to youth (kindergarten through 12th grade) from the Howardwick, Hedley and Clarendon areas to learn about opportunities whether they be Clover Kids, Kids in Business, Livestock, Foods, Clothing, or Consumer Decision Making.

Additional project areas will be offered as leaders volunteer to help

To reserve yourself a hamburger for the September 25 enrollment party, call the Donley County Cooperative Extension office at 874-2141.

Parents are encouraged to attend this activity.

Apply now for emergency farm loans

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by flooding that occurred May 3 and 4 are being accepted at the Farm Service Agency office at 321 Sully St. in Clarendon.

Donley County is one of seven counties named by the Administration of Agriculture eligible for loans to cover severe physical losses resulting from the flooding.

FSA Farm Loan Manager Larry Goetze said farmers may be eligible for loans for up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the loan needed to continue in business, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 3.75 percent.

Application will be accepted until April 23, 2002, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season, Goetze said.

City adopts 2001-2002 budget, tax rate

The Clarendon Board of Aldermen met for a public hearing and a regular session September 11, 2001, in the Board Room of City Hall.

No citizens spoke during the public hearing for the 2001-2002 tax rate and budget.

A resolution regarding the terrorist attacks earlier that day was presented expressing the city's thoughts and prayers for the victims as well as support for those who are suffering, a pledge to bring about understanding, and giving thanks for the lives that have been lived so that we might enjoy our freedoms.

The tax rate for 2001-2002 was set at $0.4555 per $100 valuation - the same rate as last year.

Architect Tim White presented plans for the renovations of the library, which were approved by the board.

The board nominated Alderman Michael Tibbets to represent the city on the Appraisal District Board.

The board approved the proposed budget for the Economic Development Board.

The city budget for 2001-2002 was presented and approved.

The aldermen met again on September 17 in a called session to discuss Tax Abatement Ordinance 323.

Panhandle Groundwater District lowers tax rate for second year

The Panhandle Groundwater District Board voted to lower taxes when it met September 6 in White Deer.

According to district manager C.E. Williams, this marks the second year in a row that the district has been able to lower its tax rate.

"This is due to effective management of the district and the annexation of the majority of Potter County into the district," Williams said.

The board set the tax rate for 2001 at $0.0156 per $100 valuation. This means that the taxes on a $40,000 home would be $6.24. The current tax rate is $0.0172, and the 1999 tax rate was $0.0214.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
Special Election
NOVEMBER 6, 2001

PROPOSITION 1 (HJR 52)

Proposition 1 would amend the constitution to relinquish the state's claim to certain disputed land in Bastrop County. The amendment would confirm legal title to that land, excluding any mineral interests, to the individuals who hold a disputed title to the land. The amendment would prevent a loss of title by people who bought and paid for property that was never transferred by the state because of faulty surveys.

PROPOSITION 2 (SJR 37)

Proposition 2 would amend the constitution to establish the process for issuing up to $175 million of state general obligation bonds and notes to provide aid to counties for access road projects to serve border colonies. Generally, a colony is an economically distressed geographic area with inadequate public services (such as water supplies, sewer services, or paved roads) in a county without adequate resources to provide such services. These projects could include the construction of access roads, the clearing of materials used in maintaining those roads, and projects related to the construction of those roads, such as road drainage. The Texas Transportation Commission, in consultation with the Governor, would be authorized to determine what constitutes a border colony for purposes of selecting the counties and projects that would receive assistance.

PROPOSITION 3 (SJR 47)

Proposition 3 would amend the constitution to authorize the legislature to exempt green coffee and raw cocoa held in Harris County from property taxes in order to qualify Harris County as an exchange port for coffee by the New York Board of Trade. The authorization of exemption would not apply to any other county.

PROPOSITION 4 (HJR 1)

Proposition 4 would amend the constitution by setting the term of the fire fighters' pension commissioner at four years. The constitution currently provides that the duration of all offices not otherwise fixed by the constitution may not exceed two years.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing for a four-year term of office for the fire fighters' pension commissioner."

PROPOSITION 5 (SJR 32)

Proposition 5 would amend the constitution to allow a municipality to donate outdated or surplus equipment, supplies, or other materials used in fighting fires to an underdeveloped county. Current state law does not allow anything of value belonging to the state or its political subdivisions to be donated to another nation.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing municipalities to donate outdated or surplus firefighting equipment or supplies to underdeveloped counties."

PROPOSITION 6 (HJR 45)

Proposition 6 would amend the constitution to require the governor to call a special session of the legislature so that the legislature can appoint presidential electors when the governor determines that it is reasonably likely that the outcome of the election for a presidential candidate's electors will not be clearly determined in time for the appropriate electors to cast their votes before the federal deadline to cast their votes. Under current law, when the people vote for a particular candidate for president, in reality they are voting for that candidate's electors who will meet to cast their votes for president. If the electors are not determined by the certification date, no electoral votes may be cast for the state. The proposed amendment ensures that the state's electoral votes will be cast.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment requiring the governor to call a special session for the appointment of presidential electors under certain circumstances."

PROPOSITION 7 (HJR 82)

Proposition 7 would amend the constitution to authorize the Veterans' Land Board to issue and sell up to $500 million of additional general obligation bonds to finance additional home mortgage loans to veterans. Additionally, the proposed amendment would authorize the Veterans' Land Board to use assets from the land and housing assistance funds to create, operate, and improve veterans' cemeteries.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the Veterans' Land Board to issue up to $500 million in general obligation bonds payable from the general revenues of the state for veterans' housing assistance and to use assets in certain veterans' land and veterans' housing assistance funds to provide for veterans cemeteries."

PROPOSITION 8 (HJR 97)

Proposition 8 would amend the constitution to allow the legislature to authorize the Texas Public Finance Authority to issue and sell up to $850 million of general obligation bonds. The proceeds of the sale of the bonds would pay for construction and repair projects or for the purchase of needed equipment by the General Services Commission, the Texas Youth Commission, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, the Parks and Wildlife Department, the adjutant general's department, the Texas School for the Deaf, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Public Safety, the State Preservation Board, the Texas Department of Health, the Texas Historical Commission, or the Texas School for the Blind and Visually Impaired.

PROPOSITION 9 (HJR 47)

Proposition 9 would amend the constitution to authorize the legislature to provide for filling vacancies in the legislature without an election if only one person is a qualified candidate in the election to fill the vacancy. Under current law, a special election must be held to fill a vacancy in the legislature even if there is only one qualified candidate.

PROPOSITION 10 (SJR 6)

Proposition 10 would amend the constitution to authorize the legislature to exempt certain items of personal property from property taxation by political subdivisions of the state if the property is warehoused temporarily in a location in Texas to be assembled, stored, manufactured, processed, fabricated, or repaired and then forwarded to another location inside or outside Texas. The proposed amendment would authorize a political subdivision that imposes ad valorem taxes, at its option, to tax this type of property after a local public hearing on the matter.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to promote equal tax treatment for products produced, acquired, and distributed in the State of Texas by authorizing the legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxation tangible personal property held at certain locations only temporarily for assembling, manufacturing, processing, or other commercial purposes."

PROPOSITION 11 (HJR 85)

Proposition 11 would amend the constitution to allow a schoolteacher, a retired schoolteacher, or a retired school administrator who serves as a member of a governing body of a school district, city, town, or other local governmental district, including a water district, to receive compensation for serving on such a governing body. Currently, state employees or other individuals who are compensated directly or indirectly from state funds are barred from receiving a salary for such service.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to allow current and retired public school teachers and retired public school administrators to receive compensation for serving on the governing bodies of school districts, cities, towns, or other local governmental districts, including water districts."

PROPOSITION 12 (HJR 75)

Proposition 12 would amend, repeal, or relocate several sections of the current constitution to improve the clarity, organization, and consistency of the constitution.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to eliminate obsolete, archaic, redundant, and unnecessary provisions and to clarify, update, and harmonize certain provisions of the Texas Constitution."

PROPOSITION 13 (SJR 2)

Proposition 13 would amend the constitution to allow the legislature to authorize a board of trustees of an independent school district to donate real property and improvements formerly used as a school campus in order to preserve that property. The board may make the donation if the board determines that the property has historical significance, that the donation will help to preserve the property, and that the school district no longer needs the property for educational purposes.

PROPOSITION 14 (HJR 44)

Proposition 14 would amend the constitution to allow the legislature to authorize a taxing unit, other than a school district, to exempt travel trailers from property taxation as long as the travel trailers are lawfully registered with the state and are not held or used for the production of income.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to authorize taxing units other than school districts to exempt from ad valorem taxation travel trailers that are not held or used for the production of income."

PROPOSITION 15 (SJR 16)

Proposition 15 would amend the constitution to create the Texas Mobility Fund, which would be administered by the Texas Transportation Commission. The Fund would finance the construction, acquisition, and expansion of state highways and would pay a portion of the costs of public toll roads and other public transportation projects. The legislature may reserve specific sources of state revenue for the Fund and may authorize the Commission to guarantee the payment of any obligations or credit agreements with the full faith and credit of the state. The attorney general shall determine the legality of any such obligations or credit agreements.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment creating the Texas Mobility Fund and authorizing grants and loans of money and issuance of obligations for financing the construction, reconstruction, acquisition, operation, and expansion of state highways, turnpikes, toll roads, toll bridges, and other mobility projects."

PROPOSITION 16 (HJR 5)

Proposition 16 would amend the constitution to reduce the waiting period required for a valid home improvement lien on a homestead from 12 days to 5 days. Currently, a lien may not attach to a homestead for a home improvement loan if the homeowner executed a contract for the improvements less than 12 days after applying for the loan. In addition, the proposed amendment would authorize the conversion and refinancing of a personal property lien secured by a manufactured home to a lien on a homestead.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment prescribing requirements for imposing a lien for work and material used in the construction, repair, or renovation of improvements on residential homestead property and including the conversion and refinancing of a personal property lien secured by a manufactured home to a lien on real property as a debt on homestead property protected from a forced sale."

PROPOSITION 17 (HJR 53)

Proposition 17 would amend the constitution to allow the state to relinquish claim to certain state land and to clear title defects for persons who claim title to those lands. The proposed amendment would apply to land whose owners have disputed title to the land, but for which no patent from the state, giving clear title to the land, was ever issued. Among other requirements, all of the taxes due on the land must have been paid. Under current law, there is no procedure allowing the state to settle title disputes without a constitutional amendment for each piece of land in dispute.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to settle land title disputes between the state and a private party."

PROPOSITION 18 (SJR 49)

Proposition 18 would amend the constitution to authorize the legislature to create a program to consolidate and standardize the collection, deposit, reporting, and payment of criminal and civil court fees. If the legislature creates such a program, any new fees imposed by the legislature may not take effect before January 1 of the following year, unless an earlier effective date is approved by a vote of two-thirds of the members of each house of the legislature.

PROPOSITION 19 (HJR 81)

Proposition 19 would amend the constitution to allow the Texas Water Development Board to issue up to $2 billion of additional general obligation bonds. The Board issues bonds to pay for water supply projects, water quality enhancement projects, flood control projects, state participation in water and wastewater facilities, and projects for economically distressed areas. Current law limits the amount of bonds that the Board can issue.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of additional general obligation bonds by the Texas Water Development Board in an amount not to exceed $2 billion."

Clarendon:
 Past, Present, and Future -
 The Athens of the Panhandle

Why is it that mankind is forever looking backward to the long vanished yesterdays and talking fondly of "the good old days" that are gone? They were good old days in some respects, but are by no means to be compared with the larger and grander present.

Today is the best age that the world has ever seen. It is vaster in its achievements, nobler in its knowledge, higher in its intellectual grasp, richer in its inventions, broader in its philanthropies, grander in its educational and Christian facilities, and in all that goes to make up the advancement and happiness of man than all the ages that have gone by.

The old past is dead. "The good old days" are gone, for they were merely the stepping stones to the more glorious future; and in the light of the lessons which they teach us, we look forward, and not backward, to the more glorious day which the future holds for the world. And these good new days are ours. Let us make the the most of them.

The golden doors of opportunity are forever opening to us, and we may build, if we will, great temples to progress and tread the noblest highways of an enduring Christian civilization. With the Bible, the common (public) school, the college, the church and the printing press as the cornerstones of American civilization, we shall endure through all time a great progressive people whose God is the Lord and whose later days of power and brightness shall forever eclipse "the good old days."

Broncs stomp Irish in 61-0 shut out game

By Sandy Anderberg

Scoring 61 unanswered points Friday night, the Clarendon Broncos came home with the proverbial pot of gold from the Shamrock Irish.

Jumping to an 18-0 first quarter lead, the Broncos continued to run with the lead and never looked back. They increased their record to 2-0 while the Irish fell to 0-2.

While accomplishing their shut-out, the Broncos stacked up 388 total yards of offense and gained another 118 yards from interceptions.

"Our offensive line showed a lot of improvement," said Head coach Roger Hoeltzel. "With what we're running, they (the offensive line) have to do a good job. They did much better this week."

Sophomore Dusty Martindale was the first to cross the goal line on a 19-yard run. Junior Cameron Word caught a Jeremy Ray pass for 20 yards to put the Broncos up by 12. Ray struck gold again with a 12-yard pass to Landon Shields. Martindale then scored two more times on a 17 and 10-yard run, respectively, to take the Broncos into the locker room with a 33-0 halftime lead.

The Broncos continued with their assault on the Irish when senior Greg Wooten caught a 33-yard pass from Todd Hoeltzel. Hoeltzel added the extra point. Martindale intercepted a pass and ran it in from 60-yards out, and Hoeltzel's kick was good. Martindale added a 53-yard punt return to the scoreboard at the end of the 3rd quarter.

"Defensively our tackling was much better," said Hoeltzel. "We were pleased with our improvement on the things we worked on during the week. Obviously, that showed up in our effort to shut out Shamrock."

Sophomore J.C. Blackburn nabbed a Shamrock pass for a 40-yard interception return for six. Martindale added the extra point making the final score 61-0.

The Broncos are looking forward to Friday's game at Booker. According to Hoeltzel, the Broncos have some things to work on this week.

"To be competitive in our district, we still have some things to work on. Booker will give us a good test. They're a lot tougher and faster than Shamrock, and we'll have to execute our offense well to be successful."

Booker will be the Broncos' last pre-district game, and they'll work hard in practice to make major strides in their level of play.

"Traveling to Booker will be a long trip for us," said Hoeltzel. "We'll see how the road trip will affect us and our play. As far as stopping Booker, we'll have to have really good play from our secondary and our linebackers to adjust to their passing and running game."

You can catch the Broncos this Friday night, September 21, in Booker beginning at 7:30 pm.

Clarendon junior Cameron Word gains yardage for the Broncos as one of the Fighting Irish tries to bring him down during last week's steamrolling of Shamrock. The Broncos will face Booker on the road this Friday night at 7:30.

These signs can be customized with any organization your student is involved in, or it can be as simple as "Home of a Colt" or "Home of a Bronco." Grandparents or anyone who supports the school could purchase one that says "Home of a Colt Fan" or "Home of Bronco Fan."

They can be purchased at the home Bronco football games, or you may pick up a form at any of these businesses: Cornell Shell, JAMZ, Saye's, Kidd's Texaco, Eads Furniture, and Every Nook and Cranny. Fill out the form and take it along with your money to the Junior High office as soon as possible so we can start filling the yards around town with signs to show support for our kids and our school.

The Colt Parents are selling Colt and Bronco yard signs for parents of students, grandparents of students, and any Bronco or Colt fan.

Pizza Hut welcomes new manager, plans anniversary

Clarendon's Pizza Hut restaurant has received a new manager and is making preparations to celebrate the third anniversary of the local franchise.

Tamra Aguero took over operations here last month and said she looks forward to providing local pizza fans with better service, better food, and a good reputation for Pizza Hut. She says she has hired an entirely new staff to help her meet those goals.

Aguero is now living in Clarendon with her husband Anthony and their three-month-old daughter Makaylah. The Wyoming native comes here from Borger where she was previously a Pizza Hut shift manager. She has been with the company for about seven years, and her husband also works for Pizza Hut as a shift manager.

The new management hopes to become more involved in the local community and is offering opportunities for local organizations and clubs to raise money through Pizza Sales or the "Fun"draiser Program.

During Pizza Sales, a group or club pre-sells pizzas to their friends and neighbors, then picks up and delivers the pies from the local store.

The group will get at least $5 for every pizza sold. The "Fun"draiser Program operates somewhat differently. The group sets up a Pizza Night at the restaurant and gets 20 percent of the proceeds from customers who say they are with the group.

For complete details of these fundraisers, call Aguero at 874-9494.

Aguero also says Pizza Hut is now offering delivery service to customers in Clarendon, Howardwick, Lelia Lake, and Greenbelt Lake on a three month trial basis. Hedley customers can meet the delivery person in Lelia Lake, and orders may be placed anytime from 11 a.m. to closing.

Aguero is also instituting several theme nights: Kids' Night on Wednesdays where those ten and under get a free Personal Pan pizza when their parents buy a medium or large pizza and Crazy Night on Tuesdays where prices are sliced on large pizzas.

Pizza Hut will also hold a children's coloring contest every week, and every night from September 20 to 27 they will number chairs, draw a number, and give away a medium pizza. Friday, September 28, will be Anniversary Night with door prizes and balloons being given away.

Also, Pizza Hut will hold a drawing for a stereo and for one free pizza a month for one year to be given away next Friday. To register for the drawing, simply bring a donation to Pizza Hut to benefit the victims of last week's terrorist attacks.

"We hope everyone will come help us celebrate our third anniversary," Aguero said. "We ask anyone who had a bad experience under the old management to give us another try, and we look forward to serving the community for many years to come."

American Legion mobilizes national military support network

WASHINGTON, DC - A nationwide effort is underway by The American Legion to assist families of American service persons whose deployment in response to the heinous acts of terrorism in New York and Washington, DC, seem inevitable.

"Our Family Support Network is designed to meet family needs that seem to slip through the safety nets of society," the American Legion's National Commander Richard J. Santos says.

The American Legion toll-free telephone number, 1-800-504-4098, is available to family members and military personnel any time around-the-clock.

"Our members know what family separation is like and the unexpected problems it can bring," Santos said. "The Family Support Network is a volunteer effort that works to ease those problems."

Calls are processed and referred to members of The American Legion, The American Legion Auxiliary, and Sons of The American Legion in the communities where military families reside.

These hometown volunteers will attempt to assist the family members. Callers are expected to provide their name, the city, and the state they are calling from and telephone numbers where they can be reached. In most cases, they will receive a return call within two working days.

"As the nation's largest veterans' organization, our commitment to our men and women in uniform and their families never wavers," Santos added.

"American Legion Service Officers and other volunteers among the Legion family know their communities, and they know how to get things done."

The Family Support Network coordinates with family service personnel at military bases and state headquarters for National Guard and Reserve units to monitor specific needs and to avoid duplication of effort.

"We know the military services have a solid family support operation; we want to supplement those efforts with a special focus on those families who are not living near an active duty military base where such operations exist," Santos said.

During the Persian Gulf War, The American Legion Family Support Network handled more than 34,000 telephone calls and provided a variety of services for family members.

Support included such everyday needs as cutting grass, child care, and minor home repairs to the extraordinary efforts to teach a family member how to drive, rescuing a car from a police impound lot and even delivering a car from Texas to Maryland, at no charge to the military family.

Holden earns position on top cheering squads

While attending cheerleading camp this summer, Christine Holden won a spot on the All-American Cheerleading squad. This gives her the chance to perform at the Hula Bowl in Honolulu. She recently mailed out over 200 donation letters to local and state businesses to raise money for this. Shortly after the mailing of these letters Christine was asked to tryout for a cheerleading team that competes nationally and won a position on the squad. Christine has had to sit back and do some re-evaluation about what she wants. While performing at the Hula Bowl is a wonderful opportunity, Christine is looking toward her future.

Competing with the All Stars on a national level opens the door for college scholarships. Since she is looking at being a pediatrician, she feels this is the opportunity she would like to pursue at this time. Right now the All Stars have two national bids, one is November 4 in Dale City, Oklahoma, and the other is in Minneapolis in January. She is trying to raise money to help with her expenses. "I realize that some of you have already given money for me to perform at the Hula Bowl, and I can't thank you enough," says Christine. "I also know it is a lot to ask if you would allow me to use that money for my competition expenses. Please call me at 874-3813 or call my mother at 874-3833 to give your permission. "Winning scholarships will help me to achieve my dream of being a pediatrician." Holden said. "I will still have the honor and privilege of representing Clarendon at the events. I will hold a number of fund-raising events in the near future. The first of these will be a bake sale on Sunday, September 30. I hope you will continue to support me as I compete on the national level with the All Stars."

Caregiver Community Action Network launched in Texas

Elaine Vivens of BSA Foundation was named Texas State Representative for the National Family Caregivers Association's (NFCA) Caregiver Community Action Network (CCAN). CCAN is a grassroots outreach effort of NFCA, the nation's only organization striving to help all of our nation's family caregivers. The purpose of CCAN is to expand awareness of caregiver issues and concerns among providers and policy makers and to lessen the isolation of family caregivers, while simultaneously expanding their ability to care for themselves and their loved ones. CCAN representatives are currently operating in thirteen states.

and generate interest and action in a cause I believe in so strongly. Family caregivers provide over 80 percent of all home care services. Despite their tremendous role, they are neither trained nor supported in their effort. I'd like to help change that." Elaine is currently working with the Area Agency on Aging to conduct a survey to help identify unmet needs and to determine the type of supportive services and educational programs needed for family caregivers in the West Texas area. In addition to her duties as a program association at BSA Foundation, Elaine serves on the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council, Texas Panhandle Mental Health Mental Retardation Board of Trustees, Senior Ambassadors Coalition Executive Committee, and is a member of the Junior League of Amarillo.

As a leader of NFCA Caregiver Community Action Network, Elaine will represent NFCA at local forums and will work with others in the state to reach out to caregivers and promote the need for more support for family caregivers. NFCA is the only organization that reaches across the life span and the boundaries of relationship, and differing diagnoses to address the common needs that bind caregivers together. Through its services in the areas of information and education, support and validation, public awareness, and advocacy, NFCA strives to minimize the disparity between a caregiver's quality of life and that of mainstream Americans. For more information on local initiatives, contact Elaine Vivens at 806-212-7648 or check out the NFCA website at www.nfcacare.org.

The Most Important Christian Doctrine

Jesus Christ's blood was poured out on the cross. Because the Lord Almighty, his Father, may be found still perfectly holy and righteous and just, because all of the human race came from Adam and Eve, so we all have sinned and fallen short of God's Holiness. So since we have all sinned there had to be something worthy to make up for all of it. Jesus' blood did just that. So the most important Christian doctrine is believing in Jesus' shed blood.

And Grace comes from Faith in His blood. We are hereby justified completely, only by believing in Christ's shed blood, and no other way. I am convinced this is the only way to abide in God's love, and obtain true peace. Yes, also when we believe in Jesus' shed blood, this will move us then to be better people, striving always to obey Christ's commands found in the New Testament, and please God the Father, which is also a necessity to receive eternal immortal life.

To live in that wonderful city in Heaven named Jerusalem with all those who live for Christ, yes, those who run the race for immortality, and fight the fight of the faith, those who never gave up all their long life, those who endured to the end. A city whose streets are paved with transparent gold, and many, many mansions, plus water there that satisfies the thirst. Our being like the angels in the resurrection, the spirit of each of God's people being given a beautiful new body that is filled with affection, and minds of perfect wisdom, and the love and praise of God in our hearts always Children of God to live in heaven forever.

Reading the Bible daily will help you immensely every day. If not reading daily, how can you have it fresh on your mind and written on your heart to tell others? Yes, speak of it. You cannot if you do not read it daily. Do not leave it to the preachers in the church to read it for you, as if they are the only ones who should study it! Because every one who presses to get into the Kingdom of Heaven MUST. Some choose not to go to Church, very well, but this instruction is for you, too.
