Clarendon Lights Are Popular

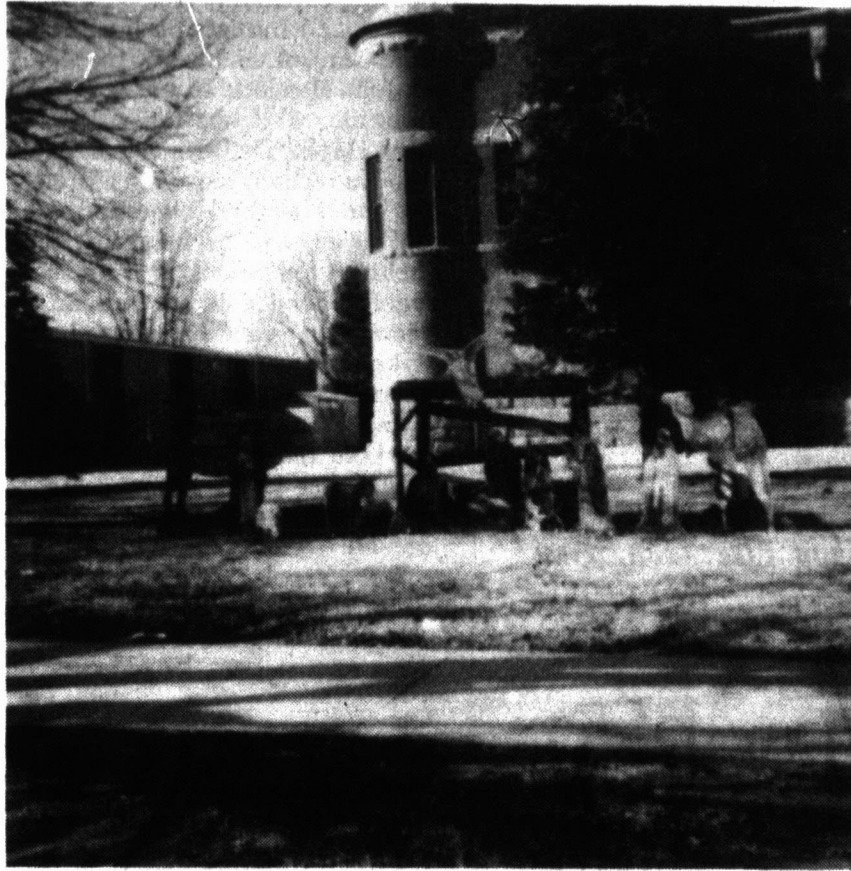

Both visitors and long-time Clarendon citizens like the new lights that went up this year to decorate Clarendon buildings. Several people called The Clarendon News to say how delighted they were with the city's holiday look. Pud Bain, who has seen many holidays come and go, says that Clarendon looks better now than it has in years. Few would argue with him.

Almost every business on Kearney (main) street and several on Highway 287 have outlined their buildings with white lights. This gives a coordinated and harmonious look to the town.

Many people in town hope that eventually more and more citizens will light up their residences for the season. While there have always been some who strung bright lights on the house, there is still plenty of space for improvement.

Christmas is not the only time that the community could be brightened up and beautified, however. As soon as the Christmas rush is over, it will be time to plan for Spring and Summer projects.

The Clarendon News, The Clarendon Merchants Association, and the Chamber of Commerce all want to improve the image that the community projects to people passing through. Many other people feel the same way, including some folks in city government, some at the highway department and some "just plain citizens".

VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS decorated the court house lawn, including the Boys Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Nazarene Youth, 4-H, Methodist Youth Group, the Pentecostal Church and the Young Homemakers Extension Club. The scouts have traditionally lit the Christmas tree and welcomed the help of the other organizations, as they all pitched in to help decorate and light up the court house lawn.

Survey To Be Conducted

The Texas Agriculture Statistics service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the State in late November for final 1991 acreage, yield and production totals and end of year livestock and poultry inventories.

"The survey will be very important this year because they will show the final outcome of our 1991 crops and coupled with the livestock inventories will serve as the basis for production and marketing decisions as we enter 1992," state statistician Dennis Findley reported.

Weather conditions certainly affected Texas Agriculture this year. Dry weather in the High Plains delayed spring planting in some areas, but timely showers in the Blacklands and Central Texas have produced bumper hay crops for some producers.

"This end of year survey will help us summarize the effect of the wide range of weather conditions on 1991 crops," Findley added.

"Sound production and marketing decisions require good, reliable information and some advanced planning, and our reports provide Texas producers with solid facts and figures they can incorporate into their plans," Findley reported.

Individual reports from the sample survey will be combined to set state, district, and county estimates. In a random sample survey, one producer represents several other operations of the same type and size.

"It is very important for producers to participate in this survey when contacted, since our estimates are only as good as the numbers producers provide," Findley added.

Waste Disposal To Be Addressed

What will happen to farm and ranch waste when all the small local landfills are closed?

What about the disposal of used motor oil, chemical cans, tires, and batteries from farms and ranches in the area?

What will be done with household waste from homes outside of town? How do current state and federal regulations on waste disposal affect farmers, ranchers, and rural residents?

According to John Crowell, Coordinator with the North Rolling Plains Resource Conservation and Development Area in Pampa, "It is time we address this issue and develop opportunities for farmers and ranchers to dispose of waste properly and conveniently."

The North Rolling Plains RC&D Council is working with County Extension Agents and the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to address this problem.

A rural waste Task Force is being formed in the area to discuss the potential problem and search for possible solutions. The first meeting is scheduled in December.

"People who live in cities and towns will have dumpsters to dump their trash in and it will be hauled off for them. But what about the families who live outside of town?" asked Crowell. "In these meetings we will discuss ways to make waste disposal available to our neighbors who live in the country."

Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) is a program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service. For more information on RC&D contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Clarendon.

Holidays Bring Crime Wave

Not all of the excitement that comes with the holiday season is happy. The period from Thanksgiving to New Years is normally a peak period for crime, as well.

Donley County Sheriff Jimmy Thompson warned local residents Monday to take precautions to avoid becoming a crime victim.

"Amarillo is having an epidemic of vehicle burglaries," the sheriff said. "When you go shopping, lock your packages out of sight in the vehicle trunk." Burglary can occur in Clarendon as well as Amarillo.

Burglars also break into homes during the holidays. While this has not been a severe problem in Clarendon in the past, area residents should exercise caution. "Watch for strange vehicles in your neighborhood," said Sheriff Thompson, "watch for people who do not belong. If some activity looks suspicious, call the sheriff's department."

Strange calls should arouse suspicion, as well. Do not give out information over the phone to strangers, particularly not information about where you will be and when. Con artists use the telephone, too. "Over ninety percent of the time, when someone tries to sell you over the phone, it is a scam."

Perhaps the biggest hazard of the holidays is the highway. Far too many drivers mix driving and drunkenness. They endanger themselves and everyone else in the vicinity. Drivers should treat every other vehicle as though it contained a drunk—and many of them will.

The Sheriff also had a stiff warning for adults who make alcohol available to juveniles: "If you provide alcohol to a juvenile, you a legally liable for what happens." Even a minor accident could result in a huge law suit.

The environment in Clarendon is far safer than most big cities. But by using a little extra caution during the holidays, area residents can improve their odds still more.

Deputies Busy In November

The sheriff's office investigated a number of incidents in November, even though the month was fairly quiet. More than 20 charges were filed.

There were four counts of driving-while-intoxicated and two of public intoxication. There was one charge of theft of service, one of theft of under $20, one count of assault, one of injury of the elderly, one aggravated assault. One person was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, one with burglary of a vehicle, one charge of tampering with a public facility, one count of burglary of a motor vehicle, one of receiving stolen property, one case of assault by threat, and one incident of indecency with a child. There was one DPS warrant served and one DPS speeding ticket/failure to appear. One person sat out his fine.

Twelve careless motorists got tickets, and there were four accidents. Deputies filed 15 offense reports. The dispatcher handled 18 ambulance calls and seven fire calls. There were 97 recorded activities at the station. Jail population fluctuated from 22 to 5. The latter figure came after court day when many inmates made bond.

There will be a drawing on main street at 8:30 p.m. to see who gets to spin the wheel and win. Santa will be downtown each Thursday night, along with the wagon from the Bar-H Dude Ranch. Come out and have a great time under the lights.

Dear Editor

I feel I must tell you about this love affair of mine. It is no ordinary love affair, you see. It is a love affair with a town. As most affairs do, this one developed gradually, but I believe I became of its depth on October 31, 1991. That was the day Raggedy Andy swept the walk in front of the Library as Big Bird and E.T. chatted on the west side of Kearney Street. Captain Hook came in that day to work on a research paper, and I was told that trips to the banks and other businesses were to scary to contemplate.

Late in the afternoon Raggedy Ann and Andy, E.T., Alf, Bozo the Clown, Dracula, a nameless Gorilla and other goblins joined about a hundred children in the library to "draw" for prizes. It had been an all day Halloween party! Who could but love a town which would give its children (and me) a day to remember always?

And then instead of the expected perfunctory "Ten-four," came that gentlest of blessings, one word as comforting as a caress in the night: "Godspeed," said the dispatcher.

That did it. It's a Love affair alright.

I love you Clarendon

The Lions Tale

by Gene Alderson

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, November 26, 1991, at the Lions Hall with 24 present. A delicious turkey dinner was enjoyed by all. Boss Lion Robertson called the meeting to order and, following the regular opening ceremony, Lion Tamplen introduced our guests including Tom Gergens, an Investment Mgr. for John Hancock Insurance Co. in Amarillo, who was the guest of Lion Hayes. De Juan Strickland, who has recently moved to Clarendon and is involved in farming and real estate, was the guest of Lion Shelton. Lion Strickland is a member of the Lions Club at Onida, S.D. where he was a charter member. Mike Newton with U.P.S. in Amarillo and Kevin Thompson, the Farm Bureau agent in Clarendon, was both the guest of Lion Bernabe. Lion Hicks gave a bingo report and the meeting was adjourned.

The Merchants' Association adopted the Library and stung hundreds of Christmas lights of purest white ray on the building so that it shines forth in "more than Oriental splendor" along with the rest of the downtown district. Surely it is as pretty a downtown as any in the world.

"Even so," I told myself. "Self, Love is a word not to be banded about. What we probably have here is Like. You have fallen in Like with a town."

"Alright," said Self. "Like is ok. We can live with that. A Like affair is, after all, no slouchy matter."

And they returned to me, those voices in the darkness. On a night while hardly roused from sleep, I followed on Husbands Fire Department pager the exchanges between the Sheriff's Office and an Ambulance crew as they went on a run. Directions were given, progress and locations reported and duly acknowledged. "Be advised," the driver finally said, "we are en route to the hospital with this patient."

Number of Alzheimer's Cases on the Rise

Medical Science Continues to Search for Causes and Cures

ROCKVILLE, MD -- Alzheimer's disease, an irreversible brain disorder that primarily affects the aged, remains a mystery. And, as greater numbers of elderly Americans fall victim to the disease, researchers are continuing to search for causes and potential cures.

According to recent estimates, four million Americans currently suffer from Alzheimer's disease and an additional 250,000 cases were diagnosed this year alone. Alzheimer's slowly disables the mental capabilities of its victims. Common symptoms include loss of memory, orientation and attention span; language difficulties, and impairment in gait and movement. It is the fourth leading cause of death among the elderly in the U.S.

But even as the impact of Alzheimer's continues to worsen, medical researchers across the country are gaining a better understanding of this killer disease. According to Eugene Michaels, president of the American Health Assistance Foundation, there is cause for hope. AHAF is a non-profit health organization that supports research and education on age-related, degenerative diseases, and assistance for Alzheimer's patients and their caregivers.

"Many researchers, including AHAF-funded scientists, are focusing their attention on abnormalities that are found in the brain cells of Alzheimer's patients," Michaels says. "These abnormalities are made up of proteins that otherwise serve important functions in the brain. Doctors are trying to determine what alters these cells, how and why it occurs, and what effect these alterations have on the brain."

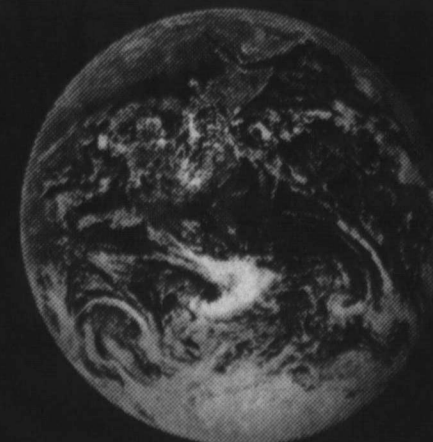

Other research projects are examining the effects of Alzheimer's disease on the structure and function of the brain, according to Michaels. "Scientists throughout the country are searching for answers to such questions as: How are brain structures disrupted by Alzheimer's disease? What causes the loss of communication between nerve cells in the brain? And what is the nature of the damage to brain function?"

"Although the research community is still unsure of the causes of this disease, it is making headway," Michaels says. "And with each new discovery the knowledge that is gained from the results opens new avenues of research."

The American Health Assistance Foundation has published several booklets that provide useful information on the care of Alzheimer's patients, suggestions for coping with the disease, and how to utilize community resources that are available. AHAF's Alzheimer's Family Relief Program provides financial assistance to help defray the costs of caring for a victim of Alzheimer's disease.

Saying No To Fad Diets

For people tempted to go on a fad diet, there's a weight-reduction/solution that works better and involves much less risk.

The solution is good nutrition. "If the average person took a realistic nutrition inventory, the results would be shocking," says Myrtle Gallow, a registered dietitian and director of the New Meal Exchange. "People get too many of their calories from fat, sodium and cholesterol. It's no wonder they can't manage to lose weight and keep it off."

The trick, Gallow says, is to change overall eating habits. "Sure a crash diet will work—for only the first week or two. What I try to do is show people how to replace the junk food they've been eating with tasty, healthy foods from all four groups."

To help her clients "get over the hump" in the early stages of changing diet patterns, Gallow developed a once-or-twice-a-day meal substitute, which cuts calories without cutting nutrition. Patients and doctors alike agree that Gallow's 110-calorie mix of defatted nuts, grains and non-fat milk, blended with a glass of fruit or vegetable juice, provides solid nutritional value while satisfying hunger.

Because of the success she had privately, Gallow decided to offer her diet supplement to the general public. She calls her supplement "The New Me."

"The New Me isn't a gimmick or a miracle cure," says Gallow. "It's just a very successful method to get people eating healthy and living healthy."

For more information about The New Me, call 1-800-222-MEAL, or write The New Me, 449 Carlisle Drive, Suite 1-A, Herndon, VA 22070.

Is It A Wetland?

The primary source used by agencies for deciding what constitutes a wetland is the Federal Manual for the Identification and Delineation of Jurisdictional Wetlands. Reforms of the 1989 manual have been proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency with input from the President's Council on Competitiveness. Three characteristics are used to classify a wetland: (1) hydrology (degree of saturation); (2) soil type; and (3) vegetation. In the 1989 version, the presence of two characteristics with an indication of the third could be used to satisfy the criteria. The proposed reforms require all three characteristics at the time of the site visit during the growing season and require the soil to actually be wet. Regardless of what happens, Donley County farm and ranch owners will be affected.

The EPA is accepting written comments on the proposed changes until December 14. Contact Gregory Peck, Chief, Wetlands and Aquatic Resources Regulatory Branch (A - 104 - F); 401 M Street SW; Washington, DC 20460 (phone 202/260-7166) to express your opinion.

Underground Water Safe Near High Plains Feedlots

Millions of cattle raised in Texas High Plains feedlots through more than two decades have not contaminated groundwater, a Texas Agricultural Extension Service study shows.

"The well water in all feedlot wells and in farm irrigation wells appear to be suitable for irrigation, livestock watering and human consumption," said Dr. John Sweeten, an Extension Service agricultural engineer.

Sweeten and Dr. Thomas Marek, a researcher for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Amarillo, devised the study in cooperation with the Texas Cattle Feeders Association and the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District based in Lubbock, and the Environmental Sciences Laboratory at Texas Tech University.

The team examined will water from 26 feedlots in 1990 and expanded the study in 1991 to include wells near two typical feedlots, both of which have existed for more than twenty years.

After the wells in the first study showed no contamination, the second trial was designed to see if contaminated underground water could be detected away from the feedlot wells. None was found.

More than five million head of cattle are marketed annually from feedlots in about twenty-six Texas High Plains counties. The area also includes about four million irrigated acres of cropland and sits atop portions of the Ogallala Aquifer which reaches into Nebraska.

Sweeten pointed out that most of the feedlots have operated under Texas Water Commission permits requiring no discharge of wastewater since the late 1960's. The commission is requiring revised permits for many feedlots under updated 1987 rules that have rigorous groundwater quality protection criteria, he said.

The research, for the first time, shows the condition of underground water at and near High Plains feedlots, according to Wayne Wyatt, manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

"Now we have a data base to measure against in case any appreciable changes are detected in the future," said Wyatt, whose agency enforces groundwater laws in that district. "We are very pleased with the results, but the important thing is that we will continue to monitor from time to time. Then if there ever is a problem, the feedlot can correct it quickly."

The first study included samples from wells at twenty-six feedlots that have a combined capacity of 730,000 head of cattle. The nitrate-nitrogen levels averaged 2.8 milligrams per liter.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's standard for human drinking water is 10 milligrams per liter.

The samples also were tested for ammonium, sodium, chloride, sulfate, potassium, and phosphorus. The average values indicate that this well water could be used for irrigation or livestock watering without restriction, Sweeten said.

"Once the sampling results from those wells turned out good, I felt there was no problem with contamination," Wyatt said. "But we felt that we needed a full-fledged study that would extend to include all the wells upgrade and downgrade from the feedlot."

After meeting certain criteria - such as feedlot capacity of at least 5,000 head of cattle, in operation for at least twenty years and surrounded by irrigated farmland - two "typical" High feedlots in Parmer and Castro counties were chosen for the study.

At both locations, groundwater was sampled from four feedlot wells and 10-11 irrigation wells two-thirds to seven-eighths of a mile from the feed pens or feedlot runoff collection plays.

Nitrate concentrations at and around the Castro County feedlot were all less than 2.2 milligrams per liter. Nitrate levels at and around the Parmer County feedlot ranged from 2.6 - 9.5 milligrams per liter.

Sweeten said the geological makeup of the High Plains, in which the depth to the water aquifer is often more than 250 feet and layers of clay under the surface retard chemical movement, helps prevent water contamination by the feedlots.

"Though these feedlots have existed for more than twenty-five years, they are not causing groundwater contamination problems," Sweeten said. He added, however, that a different set of geological circumstances may lead to different contamination findings elsewhere.

The enrollment fee will be $24 per child. Children who would like to attend are asked to pre-enroll by contacting Maurine Butts at 874-3829 after 6:00 p.m. Only the first twenty children to enroll will be accepted.

Each Saturday, the children will learn about an aspect of Southwestern Art, make a craft, and have a snack. Themes vary from cowboys and Indians to rocks and museums. If the weather holds the final day will consist of hayrides and games at the Bar-H Dude Ranch.

FHA Reviews Portfolio

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) continues to review its portfolio for possible graduation of borrowers to private credit as mandated by Congress, Neal Sox Johnson, FmHA State Director in Temple, announced today.

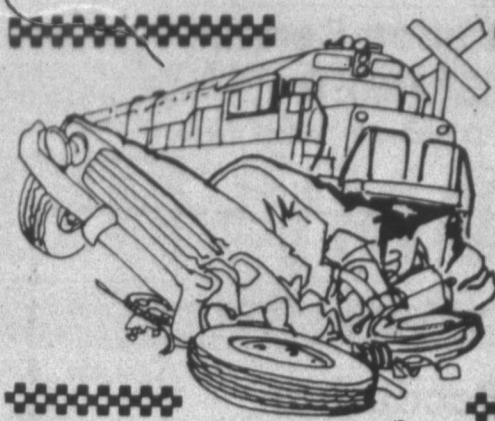

The FmHA credit programs are administered in a manner that will assure that they do not supplant or compete with credit available to farmers, rural families and groups from other reliable credit sources. The law requires that FmHA borrowers should graduate to other credit on reasonable rates and terms when they are able to do so.

FmHA, as the lending arm of the U.S. Government, has long been a source of credit for farmers, ranchers, and rural homeowners who have been unable to obtain credit through commercial lenders such as banks, savings and loans, Production Credit Associations, and Federal Land Banks.

Farmers Home Administration has attempted to aid those borrowers as a "Lender of Last Resort," Johnson said.

Nationwide, and on an annual basis, FmHA reviews its loan portfolio to determine those borrowers who have progressed to the point that they no longer need government assistance to obtain credit. This annual review is currently being conducted by local Farmers Home Administration offices. FmHA borrowers in all program areas may be contacted to furnish information on their ability to graduate from their FmHA loans to private sector lenders.

The mission of the Farmers Home Administration loan program is that of "Temporary source of supervised credit in modest amounts" to those who are unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

USDA Sponsors Environmentally Responsible Use Of Fuel

In an effort to reduce pollution by decreasing gasoline and diesel fuel consumption, the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has been requested by Edward Madigan, Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), to remind all employees to procure ethanol-derived fuels when such fuels are available at comparable prices with regular gasoline.

Ethanol is a grain-derived alcohol which burns cleaner than regular gasoline, reducing exhaust pollutants. Existing vehicles may use ethanol or ethanol-blended fuel without harm to engines or need for retrofitting. By implementing this alternative fuel policy, the USDA is seeking to reduce American dependence on oil, and improve the quality of the environment.

Beginning on April 17, 1991, the President signed an Executive Order on Federal Energy Management which encourages the use of alternative fuel sources such as Ethanol. This order mandates that USDA cut its gasoline and diesel fuel consumption by 10 percent between Fiscal Year 1991 and Fiscal year 1995.

Prior to that, the Secretary had issued a memorandum in 1990 mandating that USDA employees purchase ethanol or ethanol-blended, oxygenated fuels (ETBE) when using USDA-owned or leased highway vehicles.

Under these two guidelines, credit will be given to agencies utilizing alternative fuels towards the mandated reduction. Accordingly, Secretary Madigan has requested that USDA employees operating vehicles procure ethanol or ETBE-blended fuel when available at prices comparable to unleaded gasoline. He has also asked that drivers approach service stations in their areas that offer ethanol fuel yet do not accept the U.S. Government

National Credit Card to determine if they would be interested in being added to a Defense Fuel Supply Center contract in order to accept this card.

Any service stations interested in this environmental policy may call Louise Stoneburger at (703)274-7417 to request a packet, or write to: Defense Fuel Supply Center, DISC-PEB, Attention: Louise Stoneburger, Cameron Station, Room B-C186, Alexandria, Virginia 22304-6160.

Deadline Nears For SBA Disaster Loan Assistance

An Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) declaration was made in May 1991 affecting agriculture-dependent businesses in several West Texas counties, as a result of agricultural losses due to drought conditions January 1 through December 31, 1990. The counties involved are: Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Donley, Gray, Potter, Randall, and Swisher. Walter Fronstin, district director for the Lubbock office of the U. S. Small Business Administration (SBA), said today that the deadline for filing applications under that EIDL declaration is December 9, 1991. Eligible businesses seeking loan information or applications may call 1-800-527-7735.

To be eligible for the EDIL loans, a business must have sustained substantial financial losses as a direct result of the declared disaster. Fronstin said, "The loans do not cover physical losses, and farmers and ranchers are not eligible to apply for the EIDL loans. This program is available to small business concerns and small agricultural cooperatives without credit available elsewhere, and must be considered samll by SBA's size standards." In addition to the agriculture-dependent businesses, nurseries may also be eligible to apply for the EIDL loans, Fronstin said.

Eddie Floyd Scholarship Fund

This award will be given to a well-rounded student, selected by the teachers, at graduation. This family has consistently supported our schools and a memorial fund honoring Eddie seems appropriate.

You may contact Pauline Hardin or the School Administration Office if you have questions.

What's an Energy Saving Plan Home?

It's a home that gives you extra comfort plus lower energy bills. So check out the features an ESP home can offer.

Attic Ventilation

Proper ventilation controls summer heat build up and moisture accumulation in winter. This adds life to the building and its components.

Insulation

Insulation in the ceiling and walls in the amount appropriate for this area and climate keeps ESP homes cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

Air Distribution System

Correctly sized air ducts and proper placement of supply and return air are important considerations for an ESP home.

Heating and Cooling Equipment

Equipment is properly sized to the structure for highest efficiency. WTU recommends the all-season electric heat pump that heats in the winter and cools in the summer for year-round savings. Call WTU for details.

Air Infiltration Control

Air infiltration control helps stop uncomfortable drafts with weatherstripping, caulking, and insulation.

Windows and Doors

Insulated or storm doors and windows greatly improve both efficiency and comfort by reducing heat gain and loss in both summer and winter.

Holiday Hints

Avoiding Holiday Hassles
In this age of two-income families and fax machines, time has become a luxury. And for many of us, stress peaks during the holidays.
According to Felice Willat, vice president, consumer affairs for Day Runner, Inc., maker of the popular organizing system, there are ways to reduce the pressure.
"Planning relieves stress," says Ms. Willat. "Once you know what you're going to do and when you're going to do it, you can relax and deal with one task at a time."

To start, Ms. Willat recommends turning to the calendar section of your planner or personal organizer. "Pencil everything in," she says. "You need to take a good look at all your commitments." If you're clearly over scheduled, now's the time to cut.
Now note important events: school plays, open houses. Include date, time, place, direction and any specific instructions (take $5 gift for grab bag; bring cookies).
Next, make gift lists and plan your shopping trips. Have at least two workable ideas for each person, know where you're going, what you need to accomplish and what you want to spend.

Always keep alternatives in mind. Giving hand-made ornaments is great, but if by December 20th you've only completed two out of 50, its time to go to plan B.
As a busy executive who is also the mother of two young children, Ms. Willat also points out the need to set aside quiet time for your family.

Notice To Rural Residents

The State of Texas has recently enacted legislation which prohibits the disposal of motor oil and oil filters as part of your normal waste stream. Consequently, the County will no longer be able to collect used motor oil or oil filters as part of your regular service.

Scrap metal dealers have been granted an exemption to this legislation, provided they meet certain criteria. For example, the filter must be drained for a minimum of twenty four hours before it is compacted.

In addition, used motor oil can and should be recycled. Recycling greatly reduces the volume of waste which finds its way into landfills and provides for reuse of vital resources.

Protecting Our Environment

Recycling Works

Waste not—and we'll want not: That's the message from recycling groups across the country who are putting our trash to good use and saving precious natural resources and energy at the same time.

One of the most unusual of such recycling programs can be found at Iowa's Grinnell College, a private, coed, liberal arts college with a strong environmental focus. There, a program is in process with the goal of reducing waste on campus by 95 percent. For instance, the college has switched to using only washable, reusable plates, glasses and utensils in its dining areas and at all campus functions.

The August 1990 New Student Days Picnic marked the kickoff of the "permanentware" program. One measure of the program's success could be seen—or rather, could not be seen—in the trash dumpsters. The typical amount of waste produced by the annual picnic has been 50 to 60 garbage bags filled with paper, plastic and Styrofoam. Thanks to the "permanentware" program, only ten bags of waste were removed from this year's picnic.

"We decided that if we were going to make a lasting and valuable environmental change, it must be bold enough to be worthwhile," says David McConnell, director of dining services at Grinnell College.

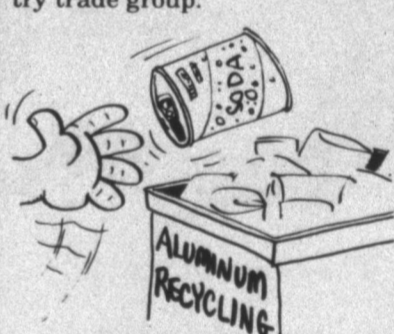

The college is taking many other steps to preserve the environment:

- Each dormitory and faculty and staff office is supplied with color-coded bins for collecting recycled items.
- All copier, computer and service bureau paper will be converted to 90 percent recycled.
- The college purchases paper towels, toilet tissue and napkin products made from 75 to 100 percent recycled paper.
- Energy-efficient shower heads were installed in dormitories to reduce water usage by 60 percent.
- Dormitory lighting was modified to use more fluorescent lighting.
- Computer services programs increased the use of electronic mail and electronic bulletin boards on campus by 30 percent, further reducing paper usage.

IT'S A FACT!

Aluminum recycling can pay big economic and environmental dividends for you, your group, and your community.

In 1989, consumers earned an estimated $900 million by recycling a record 49.4 billion all-aluminum beverage cans, reports the Aluminum Association, a Washington based industry trade group.

An estimated three to four million Americans are regular visitors to the approximately 10,000 aluminum buyback locations nationwide. Millions more are said to be occasional recyclers.

In addition to reducing solid waste, aluminum recycling saves about 95 percent of the energy needed to make new aluminum from bauxite, the primary ore of aluminum.

Thank You

We never realized how precious life is and how much we took it for granted until our ordeal with our daughter, Stephanie. We know that without the prayers that was lifted up for her, we might have lost her. There are simply no words to express how very much we appreciate what this community has done for us in our time of need, but that we love and thank each one of you!

May God Bless You Always
 The Johnny Floyd Family

Thank You

Clarendon PTA would like to thank local businesses for their support in making our chili supper a success. Thriftway, Greenbelt Marina, Western Skies Motel, Henson's, The Nook, Mack's Garage, Clarendon Auto, Wood-n-Stuff, It'll Do Motel, Harlan's, Prairie Cottage Candy, The Grocery Store, J & W Lumber, Allsup's, Greene's, Cornell Service Station, Chamberlains, Sayes, The Donut Stop, Osburn Appliance and Perry's.

Because of the support of these businesses and the community, the PTA is able to offer a scholarship to local students. Fundraisers also allow us to bring in many important programs for our children, parents, and teachers. Together we do make a difference. Please join us for our next program January 7th, 7:00 p.m. at the school cafeteria. Thank You!
