Water District lowers '02 tax rate

The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District will lower their tax rate for the next fiscal year. According to C.E. Williams, PGCD general manager, it will be a small decrease, but it is a decrease. The tax rate was lowered from 0.0156 cents per $100 of value to 0.0154 cents. Although the tax rate will be lower, the District expects increased revenues because of added property on the tax rolls. The District encompasses all or parts of nine counties, and property appraisals are made by the counties.

Retirement party set for Tunnell

A retirement party has been planned for Vonna Tunnell, who has delivered the AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS to Clarendon residents for 12 years. The party will be held Saturday, September 7, at the Panhandle Community Services building located behind the Post Office from 2:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend. For more information, call Nita Meador at 874-3286, Wilma Spier at 874-3336, or Joan Kidd at 874-2298.

FBC pre-school still taking kids

The First Baptist Church Pre-Kindergarten is continuing to accept three year old children for its Tuesday and Thursday class. Any parent who wants a good beginning for school experience in a child should contact the church office at 874-3833, 301 Bugbee, or call Allene Leathers at 874-3735.

Gem to present tribute to Cramer

The Gem Theatre will present "A Tribute to Floyd Cramer" on Saturday, September 14, at the theatre in Turkey. The program will feature the distinctive country piano of John Walker from Grand Prairie. Mr. Walker's inspiration to play piano came from Floyd Cramer, and Floyd would be proud of John's accomplishments. In this upcoming concert, the fabulous Jack Greubel will do a drum solo "Caravan" which brought him four standing ovations when he performed it in Chapman, Texas. Showtime is 7:30 p.m., and admission is $8.00. For more information, call 806-423-1273. To purchase tickets in advance, send a check or money order to PO Box 74, Turkey, Texas 79261.

Suna making changes at GM dealership

The appearance of the General Motors dealership now known as Suna AutoMall is changing, and new owner Mark Suna says he's even more excited than when he took over two weeks ago. The change is readily apparent when a customer walks in the front door of what was Chamberlain Motor Company. The showroom is full with 22 vehicles on the floor, and product literature is within easy reach and eyeshot near the entrance. This week Suna had five televisions delivered and plans to have them installed in the dealership's main lobby. "We have one for each GM division line, and each will be running commercials for that line from the 50s, 60s, and 70s to the millennium," Suna said. "We also will run competitor's commercials to show how the GM product is far superior." New canopies and signs will be installed at the dealership in four to six weeks. Inventory is arriving daily, and General Motors has agreed to supply Suna with 150 new vehicles. Suna says his goal is to help Clarendon grow, and to that end, he has seven new employees moving to town. The dealership is also looking to hire college students to fill part time positions at the switchboard, in sales, and staffing the CellularOne desk. "No one is being replaced," Suna said. "The biggest asset I inherited was the employees. That's what set Chamberlain's and now Suna AutoMall apart from the rest." Suna said so far only one employee had left the business since the change of ownership occurred and that was the employee's own choosing. Suna says he has great respect for former owner Trey Chamberlain and his family, and he hopes to run the dealership the way they wanted it to be. "My hat is off to Mr. Chamberlain for the way he took care of his employees," Suna said. Those employees are now looking to Suna for leadership. "He's going to be a great leader," said Glenn Dale Hearn, who has been with the dealership for 24 years. "He came down personally twice and talked to us as a gentleman. He's been straight with us." Other employees say they are already seeing positive changes. "There is more action here and more traffic," said salesman Russell Simpson. "Everyone is in better spirits." "Something is going on here, and I'm receiving a lot of positive feedback from customers," said salesman Jody Dixon, who has been calling past clients and telling them about the new ownership. Suna says he has a hands-on management style and works with his staff to serve the customers. He says his staff has "all the makings of an orchestra" and likens his role to that of a conductor. "Every one of these guys is important to me. They see me with them, and I'm the last one to leave." Suna says he's still amazed at the warmth the local people have shown although some still ask him why he chose to move here from Dallas. "I came here because I wanted to," he said. "I saw a community looking to grow." "The Panhandle still has the pioneering spirit to embrace new businesses and opportunities. I think people who live in the Dallas area are missing out."

Two ceremonies will commemorate 9-11

Two separate ceremonies will be held in Clarendon next Wednesday, September 11, in connection with the anniversary of the terrorist attacks on America last year. The Donley County Memorial Post 7782 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a remembrance ceremony at the flag pole in front of the VFW Post Home at 7:48 a.m. - the exact time American Airlines Flight 11 crashed into the north tower of the World Trade Center. Activities will include lowering the flag to half-staff at 8 a.m., a remembrance speech from Post 7782, and a moment of silence. All members of the public are invited to attend.

Later that afternoon, a reception will be held at the Bairfield Activity Center to honor those who serve and protect the citizens of Donley County. The reception begins at 5 p.m. with a program at 5:30. District Judge David McCoy will deliver a patriotic address at 7 p.m. Local citizens are urged to come out and show your support for the personnel of the Clarendon, Hedley, and Howardwick fire departments; the Clarendon EMS, the Donley County Sheriff's Department, the Greenbelt Lake Patrol, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Texas Department of Transportation, and the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department.

Commission offers plaques for courthouse donations

The Donley County Historical Commission has begun what it calls its final appeal to raise funds for the restoration of the 1890 Courthouse. Individuals, families, organizations, and businesses are being offered the opportunity to have their names permanently affixed to the wall of the Courthouse lobby. For a donation of $1,000 or more, donors will receive a 3" x 5" bronze plaque with 1/4" raised letters to commemorate their family or organization. "This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to honor your family or business and play an important role in the restoration of the courthouse," said commission chairman Jean Stavenhagen. Donors who have already contributed $1,000 or more will automatically receive the plaque. Other businesses and individuals who have made donations below $1,000 can add to their previous gift to in order to reach the level to receive a plaque. Families are encouraged to pool their donations in a group effort to honor either their entire family or a pioneer ancestor. The cast bronze plaques will accommodate three lines of 20 characters each and will be ready for the dedication of the courthouse later this year. Stavenhagen urges her fellow citizens to act quickly as time is limited as the end of the restoration project draws near. Those wishing to make a donation to the project may send their gift to Courthouse Restoration Fund, PO Box 905, Clarendon, TX 79226. A form will be provided for $1,000 donors to specify what they would like to have on their plaque. For more information contact Jean Stavenhagen at 874-3905.

Armstrong museum to honor local artists

The Armstrong County Museum Art Gallery in Claude will host an opening reception honoring Clarendon artists James Ivey Edwards, Donna Edwards, and Sammie Doering on Friday, September 6, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. James began his career as a professional painter in 1965 when he graduated from WTSU. He taught for short stints at West Texas in Canyon and at Southern Oregon University and gave private painting classes throughout the Texas Panhandle. In 1979 he accepted a position at Clarendon College and taught there until 1990. Many of his students from Clarendon College were accepted as scholarship students at major universities and today practice as professional artists or are instructors in schools and universities in the southwest area. In 1990, James surrendered to a call to ministry in the United Methodist Church. He has pastored at First UMC of Albany and at Lakeview UMC of Dalhart and is currently assigned to First UMC of Clarendon. While raising their children in Clarendon, Donna began to sell her landscapes and wildlife paintings. James sculpts and paints figurative and western scenes in several media. For the first eight years after 1990, the couple has been totally involved in church related work. They have recently begun to paint again and to offer their artwork to the public. Sammie Doering is a native of the Texas Panhandle. Because of poor health, Sammie took up drawing to entertain herself as a child. As an adult she majored in Drafting and Design and worked a number of years as a draftsman. Sammie took up painting as a hobby and is largely self-taught. "Sam" aspires to portray country life as she remembers it growing up on a farm. Her most successful genre is her portrayal of children. She paints in all mediums but prefers oils. The Armstrong County Museum Art Gallery is located at 107 N. Trice in Claude. The exhibit will hang through September.

Family planning services available again

Subsidized family planning services, through Title XX, is now available again in Clarendon through the Clarendon Family Medical Center. Planned Parenthood of Amarillo and the Texas Panhandle, a contractor of the Texas Department of Health, announced this week that it will subcontract with the Clarendon Family Medical Center, effective September 1, 2002, to provide family planning services in Clarendon and the surrounding counties. "The Center is located at One Medical Center Drive and is under the professional direction of John Howard, M.D.," Claudia Stravato, CEO of Planned Parenthood said. "We look forward to working with Planned Parenthood to provide family planning services in Clarendon," John Howard, M.D., said.

"Planned Parenthood closed its offices in Donley County in 2001 due to decreasing federal funds," Stravato said. "By reestablishing services in Donley County, with a local provider, patients will not have to travel so far for these critical services. And by subcontracting with a local provider, the costs to deliver the services are reduced, thereby allowing more uninsured patients to receive services." "We are especially pleased that the students at Clarendon College will now have reproductive health services easily available to them," she said. Through Title XX, Planned Parenthood has provided funding for subsidized health screening and family planning services for over 30 years in the Texas Panhandle. These services include clinical and physical exams, pelvic exams, STD testing and treatment, pregnancy testing, diagnostic laboratory testing including Pap Smears. Patients can also receive subsidized testing for anemia, screening for diabetes and urinary tract infections, diagnosis and treatment for vaginal infections, and HIV testing. "Planned Parenthood of Amarillo and the Texas Panhandle does not provide abortion services," said Stravato. Appointments can be made by calling 874-3531. Screening for Title XX eligibility is determined on site, and charges are based on a sliding fee scale. If screening determines that a patient will owe a portion of their costs, these costs are expected to be paid on site.

Showtime
Jamie Cox sells a ticket to Gary Hunt last Friday night when the Sandell Drive-In re-opened for the first time since 1984. Theatre manager John Earl Morrow says a total of 680 tickets were sold over the Labor Day weekend and comments have been very positive. The Sandell will be open this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday with a new double feature for local moviegoers' viewing pleasure.

America should deal with 9-11 and move on

It was almost impossible to believe when I picked up the AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS on Sunday morning, but there it was in black and white, the boldest headline on the front page: "Tiring of Sept. 11."

"Right on," was my reaction. From reading Allen G. Breed's story from the Associated Press, a lot of Americans agree with me. It's time to quit dwelling on the tragedy of September 11.

We have now almost had a year of wallowing in the disaster. We've had one-week, one-month, two-month, four-month, and six-month anniversaries. Each with its own tributes and "special moments" as Americans are inundated with not the images so much as the whole idea of 9-11.

At the risk of sounding insensitive, I must say that I've felt for some time now that as a society, we have developed a difficulty with grief. It seems that we let events consume us to the point that we can't get anything else done. Grieving is a natural process after a loss, but eventually you have to cope with it and move on.

Breed's story does a good job of quoting people who are fed up with 9-11 overload, but at the same time it provides a diagnosis for those people. They aren't normal, you see. Oh, no. They are suffering from — or dare I say "victims of" — a post-traumatic stress syndrome. Mental health experts, according to Breed, call this "9-11 fatigue" or "compassion fatigue."

I don't mean to pooh-pooh the enormity of the events of last year, and I don't want to downplay the fact that some people have legitimate psychological problems stemming from the attacks. But I do think it's ridiculous to keep reliving the event and even more nuts to say that someone who is tired of hearing about it is the one with the mental problem.

Obviously, I wasn't during World War II. But I wonder, did America fall down in a drooling, hand-wringing psychosis after December 7, 1941, or were we too busy kicking some Japanese booty? My guess is there wasn't a lot of introspection about Pearl Harbor. I don't think there was a lot of worrying about how to tell children what happened. We had a problem, and we dealt with it.

That's not the modern America, though. Now we spend our time thinking about how we feel about it.

What happened after 9-11 showed first and foremost that Americans are compassionate. Money flowed into New York like water flowing down Niagara Falls. Now, many worthwhile charities are hurting because Americans were too compassionate and gave all their money to help those impacted by the attacks.

The true victims of 9-11 — those who directly lost a loved one — will be well cared for. I hear reports that some families are receiving more than $2 million for their loss. But I wonder, how much did the family of a sailor killed at Pearl Harbor get? How much will the family of a soldier who dies in Afghanistan or Iraq get?

This never-ending mourning is affecting plans to rebuild on the site of the World Trade Center. Those buildings were symbols of our way of life, examples of the impressive power of capitalism. That's why they were destroyed. The military — which I suppose is more accustomed to dealing with grief — rebuilt the Pentagon. But in New York, those people want to see a memorial at Ground Zero.

The first set of designs for rebuilding in New York were a jumble of unimpressive, low-profile buildings which carried only one message: "The terrorists won. We're whipped." The designs were rejected because the huge memorial area set aside just wasn't big enough.

Frankly, if I were a New Yorker, I would want to see those towers rebuilt just like they were, or I would want to see something even bigger, something that says to the evildoers, "You can't beat us down."

A large segment of Americans are still wishy-washy on what should be done about the attacks. Nearly a year later, the Taliban government of Afghanistan has been deposed, but many terrorists remain at large. We are going after some of them, but others we can't make up our minds about because we're afraid we might "destabilize the Middle East." (Oh, yeah! We wouldn't want to rock the boat in that peaceful part of the world. Somebody might get upset.)

The focus of this year's anniversary will not be on what are we doing about it, but on what happened to us. We'll relive how awful it was, how sad it was, what we were doing when we found out, and so on and so forth. The president will make a speech. Some have even discussed making 9-11 a national holiday. (Which is just what we need — another day for the Post Office not to deliver the mail.)

The GLOBE-NEWS article on Sunday wasn't an ending; it was just the beginning of a series of multiple stories discussing and rehashing September 11, 2001. Other papers around the country are doing the same. One fellow publisher recently asked me if the ENTERPRISE was preparing a September 11 commemorative issue. My response was, "What would be the point?" We printed all the good pictures of local events last year. We covered Clarendon's reaction to the event. Why go over it again now? In five or ten years, it might be good to do a retrospective piece, but not now.

The best 9-11 tribute we could have is to simply remember what happened without immersing ourselves in it. We don't need speeches or celebrations or non-stop cable news coverage or a day off from work. We just need to eradicate as many terrorists as possible to keep it from happening again and then to put it all behind us.

HRT problems predicted by previous studies

By B.J. Daneshfar, MD
Reprinted with permission from Accent West, August 2002.

I am sure that you are well aware of the recent publicity that a National Institute of Health Study on Hormone Replacement Therapy (HRT) has generated. Government investigators/scientists abruptly ended the nation's largest study involving 16,000 women on a type of synthetic Hormone Replacement Therapy (HRT). This study says "long-term use of estrogen and a progestin significantly increases women's risk of breast cancer, strokes, and heart attacks."

In my opinion these findings are not too surprising as the medical literature supports these findings and therefore the bad outcomes which made the investigators halt this study were actually predicted by previously published studies of these synthetic hormones. It is important to differentiate between synthetic Hormone Replace Therapy cited in this study and bio-identical hormone replacement therapy, which uses structurally identical hormones to those made by the body. Bio-identical Hormone Replacement Therapy is better tolerated by patients and does not increase the risk of breast cancer, uterine cancer, strokes, and heart attacks. Bio-identical Hormone Replacement Therapy is therefore a better alternative to synthetic Hormone Replacement Therapy. Bio-identical/natural hormones can be compounded in a customized and/or individualized preparation for each patient based on a doctor's order/prescription. Prescription natural bio-identical Hormone Replacement Therapy offers multiple options. It is important for patients to understand these options and become educated on this topic because the majority of the time women are not given options and are prescribed synthetic Hormone Replacement Therapy most often. As you know, today's healthcare consumer is taking a more active role in his or her search for quality care and outcomes.

You may wonder why an interventional pain specialist would have concerns regarding Hormone Replacement Therapy. It is important to note that the majority of women with chronic pain syndromes such as fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue syndrome, hypothyroidism, and a slew of other pain disorders have developed these as a result of hormonal imbalance. Additionally, resorption of bone or osteoporosis in both women and men is related to hormonal deficiencies and imbalance. Once their hormonal abnormalities are corrected, these chronic pain syndromes resolve or become easily treatable. At the Acute and Chronic Pain and Spine Center, hormonal levels are checked and imbalances or deficiencies are corrected.

It is the goal of our facility to provide educational information and materials as well as individualized therapies to clarify and optimize outcomes and results not only for our patients but all patients.

B.J. Daneshfar, M.D., BCABA, BCCERA, DAAPM is the Medical Director at the Acute and Chronic Pain and Spine Center in Amarillo.

WORKING VACATION IN CRAWFORD

Reform critical in Texas judicial selection

By Sen. Robert Duncan

Texans cannot trust their courts if judicial candidates are expected to recite popular political leanings on everything from abortion to worker's compensation just to win an election. The practice will undoubtedly leave our courts vulnerable to whatever stance is getting the most audible response. That's a dangerous litmus test.

Democracy does indeed require representative government. And for an office charged with presenting the views of a certain constituency, the more openness a candidate is willing to offer, the better. But the only constituency a judge has is the law. Judges are charged by the constitutions of both our nation and our state to rule by principles — not passions.

In the Legislature, passion inspires debate on issues argued on behalf of the good folks who send their representatives to the Capitol. But the basic principle of law — those rules our elected officials establish every two years — is the only poll our judges must respect.

The US Supreme Court lowered the bar recently with an opinion that struck down a Minnesota rule prohibiting judicial candidates from publicly discussing issues that might come before the court. Yet in the same decision the high court recognized the tension between judicial elections and good service on the courts.

In Republican Party of Minnesota v. White, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor said by selecting judges through elections, Minnesota has voluntarily taken on the risks of having a prejudiced court.

Texans are taking the same gamble with their judges.

The conservative position on judicial candidates is that we expect judges to apply the law — not make it. Everyone who enters the courtroom is entitled to a fair day in court.

In January, Title 36, United States Code, was amended through House Resolution 71 to designate September 11 as Patriot Day.

The amendment requests the President of the United States to issue a proclamation each year. All departments, agencies, and instrumentalities of the United States

With the Minnesota decision, coupled with our own elections, we will be asking judicial candidates to promise to do the exact opposite of what we most urgently need. We will put judges in the position of pledging to make law and decide cases based on campaign promises.

Make no mistake, there is a dramatic distinction between political decisions and legal ones. Political decisions are based on poll numbers and focus group data generated to win elections; legal decisions are based on principle and precedent passed down to provide a predictable legal system.

Elections subject judges to an ideological constituency. Once in office, they'd better cater to those activists or get booted out of office.

In addition to the fear of offending a popular slant, judges as candidates are also victim to the reality of statewide elections — financing multimillion-dollar campaigns. The cash generally comes from the attorneys who have some stake in the election.

Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Phillips has told the story of an unnamed attorney who called him up this year for advice on who to support in the Republican primary. The attorney in question didn't believe either candidate would hold it against his firm if he supported the loser, but he feared his clients would. An integral part of the prestigious law firm's marketing is the perception that is has access to the court — a perception perpetuated by the firm when its leaders suggest their access is purchased by backing those who win judicial races.

There's no evidence that Texans even want these elections. In the March 2002 GOP runoff — where the Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals were at the top of the ticket — only 1.73 percent of the registered voters bothered to show. That means 98 percent of those registered voters cared little about the outcome of those races. On the Democrats' side, 95 percent of the registered voters didn't participate. The public is not interested in determining the outcome of our judicial races.

But because others routinely put their dogs in the hunt, judges are forced to knock around the state begging for money from lawyers who will appear in the courtroom. Our courts should be ruled by Texas' best interests — not those of the monied or political special interests working the system in a single-minded pursuit of personal gain or political bonds.

It's a system ripe for corruption.

The ethics of our judiciary are at stake. When the foundation of our judicial system is shaken, the very essence of Texans' freedom and independence is on the line. This is not the way our state's benches ought to be filled. And it's not the way Texas' earliest leaders envisioned.

Thomas Rusk, president of the Texas convention to accept annexation in 1845, warned against permitting a judiciary to be seated outside the realm of a sound and ethical system. Subjecting those positions to the popular clamors of passion and party would manifest as a "weak and vacillating judiciary, destitute of talent and integrity, with no merit beyond that of office."

Rusk was right. Texans deserve strong and fair courts.

Texas lawmakers need to take a cue from Justice O'Connor. Our system of selecting judges must be reformed so that our citizens are served without fear of an unfair judiciary.

Republican Sen. Robert Duncan represents District 28 in the Texas Senate and is a practicing attorney in Lubbock. He serves on the Senate Finance committee, the Senate Jurisprudence Committee, and the state Judicial Council.

Ice cream socials signal return of school

So did you have a good Labor Day? I suppose since Clarendon does such a big Fourth of July celebration, we can't get that enthusiastic about Labor Day. Who wants to actually work on a day named for working? (Though I imagine many of you did.) Still, I hope your holiday was spent much as mine was - much of it asleep. With any luck, I'll have caught up on all my sleep and can plunge into the activities of the week ahead.

In the week past, the college got underway with students returning and enrolling in classes. New faculty and staff have been introduced to each other and to the students, and local citizens made the acquaintances of the students at the Ice Cream Social sponsored by Clarendon's churches last Tuesday night.

I believe this was the best attended such event since my arrival in Clarendon, and others who have attended many more than my four times said it was the best attended they could remember. Students filled up the big room down at the Bairfield Activity Center and emptied out more than one ice cream bucket.

I got to meet the new music instructor at the college. Kevin Gausepohl - which is pronounced Gospel - just moved down from Seattle to take over the music department. He's already experiencing new things since his arrival - not including triple-digit temperatures. He told us that last Tuesday's event was the first time he'd ever eaten homemade ice cream in his whole entire life.

Now I realize that people not privileged enough to live in Texas are missing out on a lot of things, but I hadn't thought a staple of the good life, like homemade ice cream, would be one of them. So I know you kind-hearted people of Clarendon will take it upon yourselves to make sure that Kevin and all our other new residents, in the dorm or otherwise, won't be missing out on any more of life's essentials.

I also got to meet Father Jose, who will be tending to Clarendon's Catholic flock, at the ice cream party. He didn't mention whether he'd had the homemade variety before or not, but surely his flock has been tending to him as well as the other way round. I missed out meeting the new Presbyterian minister, though I spoke to others who did.

This week, the Library Board is meeting again after a summer hiatus. The Art Club is getting back underway. The band will have passed out uniforms Tuesday night.

Tryouts for the high school's fall musical, Oklahoma!, are sometime this week. The news will be more carefully disseminated at the high school, I imagine, since they're the only ones who get to try out, as far as I know.

And the first football game will be Saturday afternoon, in the heat of the day, at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo. I forgot to ask who they were playing, but I'm sure you're much more informed than I am. This is bound to include our esteemed publisher and editor, so look for times elsewhere in this publication. I'll see you around town.

Mr. & Mrs. Darren Spier

Stovall-Spier exchange vows

Melanie Anne Stovall and Darren Spier exchanged wedding vows during a ceremony held at Community Fellowship Church in Clarendon on August 10, 2002, with Leonard Holt, minister of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Melanie is the daughter of Carl Stovall of Amarillo and the late Elaine Stovall. She is the granddaughter of Floyd Kiser and the late Drennan Kiser. Darren is the son of Mike and Neva Spier of Clarendon. He is the grandson of Wilma Spier of Clarendon and the late J.H. Spier, Jr., and Johnnie Morrison of Quitaque and the late Murry Morrison.

The cousins of the groom registered and served the guests.

David Clinton and Clay Don Wright ushered the guests at the ceremony. Brady Clinton served as ring bearer while Josh Clinton served as the official petal pusher.

Stacey Stone of Canyon served as Maid of Honor, Melissa Schreuer of Canyon and Angie Hill of Richmond, Virginia, served as bridesmaids. All were friends of the bride. The maid of honor wore a lilac dress, and the bridesmaids wore sleeveless celadon dresses.

Hunter Spier, brother of the groom, served as Best Man. Adrian Deleon of Canyon and Russell Estlack of Clarendon served as groomsmen. Both are friends of the groom. They wore black double breasted tuxedos.

Given away by her father, Carl Stovall, the bride wore a white sleeveless gown with a chapel length train. Her elbow length veil was adorned with a pearl tiara.

The groom was attired in a black double breasted tuxedo.

The church was decorated with candelabra and two baskets of purple larkspur and white calla lilies.

A reception held in honor of the couple immediately followed the ceremony at the Community Fellowship Church Fellowship Hall. The three tier wedding cake was topped with calla lilies and lavender ribbon. The groom's table was decorated with a Star Wars theme and had a Star Wars cake.

After a wedding trip to Disney World, the couple will make their home in Richmond, Virginia.

The bride graduated from Canyon High School and Amarillo College. She attended Southwestern Oklahoma State University and currently is attending Virginia Commonwealth University and is enrolled in their pharmacy doctoral program. She is employed by Walgreens Pharmacy.

The groom graduated from Clarendon High School, Clarendon College, and West Texas A&M University's environmental sciences program. He works as a geotechnical inspector for Draper Aden Association, which is an engineering firm in Richmond.

Turkey Jamboree set for September 7

The Turkey Jamboree is scheduled for Saturday, September 7, at the old Turkey High School Gym.

Entertainers for the evening include Annette Ray from Dumas; Stephen Ray and Eddie Dawson of Mesquite; and Bobby Wynne and his band from Amarillo. They will also have the Talent Showcase and the Turkey Gems.

Showtime begins at 7:00 p.m. They will have door prizes, and a concession stand will be open and serving barbecue sandwiches and all the trimmings. Proceeds from the concession stand will benefit the Turkey Roost Museum.

Hedley serves big crowd at community barbecue

The rain began just past midnight Thursday and continued until after three. I got up when it started and went out on my front porch and watched. I got cold and had to go inside.

There's nothing more wonderful in all God's creation than a summer thunderstorm... unless it's seeing all the earth turn green and the wild flowers bloom in the spring. Or to see the trees turn gold and orange in the fall, or to see the wonder on a child's face as he holds a snowflake in his hand, watching it melt in mid-December.

Anyway, I'm partial to summer storms. The lightning lit up the sky, and the thunder vibrated down the valley.

I talked with several people, and I guess we got from 1.20 to 1.80 inches of moisture around Hedley.

The men were at the park cooking chickens and hoping that the rains would wait until after the barbecue.

Well, the 2002 Hedley Community Chicken Barbecue is history. I don't know how many people were there, but Bill Carson said they cooked 550 chicken halves and they ran out of food. A lot of people must have misunderstood and thought it was free barbecue; there were a lot of people who didn't pay. The beans and potato salad looked good, but I can't have them. The onions and pickles were delicious.

Several ladies offered us cake. Helen Lamberson and Jerry Holland had lovely looking chocolate cake, and Patsy Spier offered something yummy looking, but I had to pass it all up. I did eat a piece of Carl Lindsey's carrot cake. She said her mother, Bonnie Welch, made it.

Alene Leathers said she didn't intend to offer me any of hers because she knew I wasn't supposed to eat it. It would be easier to stay on my diet if more people were that way. Few of us on a diet can refuse an offering of something sweet.

I didn't get to visit with many people because by the time we finished our meal, it was getting dark and folks were leaving. I did see J.E. and Suzie Kidd and Larry and Paulette Kidd. Also Burl Hollar, Martha Lowe, Susan McKee, and Johnny and Gail Hill, all from Clarendon. Doug Lowe wasn't there. Martha said he was feeling poorly. Sorry, boss, I missed you in the crowd. Did you get a lot of pictures?

Jerry and Kitty Asher were there from Lelia Lake. As was Earl Shields, showing off his new granddaughter. I didn't get her name, but if you call Earl, he'll tell you.

I visited with Jerry Hicks from Quail and met Rex and Mickey Morris who said they also lived at Quail. They have two small boys, but I can't remember their names.

I saw Jennifer Sargent and her kids. I didn't see Jason but supposed he was there somewhere. There were so many cowboys standing around I couldn't tell one from another. I think the Sargents live near McLean.

I saw Flo Brannigan, Stuart Messer, and Joe Davis from Memphis there. Mrs. Brannigan had a jewelry store in Memphis for years. Now she has her shop inside the Clarendon Outpost in Clarendon. Joe Davis is something at KLSR radio station in Memphis, and Stuart Messer is Dis-

Harrington Quartet to perform first concert of its season

The Harrington String Quartet will open its 21st anniversary season with a performance at 8:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 14, at West Texas A&M University, Northern Hall in Canyon.

This will serve as the first of four scheduled subscription concerts for 2002-2003. Season brochures are now available and were distributed last week.

The 2002-2003 season begins with music written for a trio. As the Harrington String Quartet continues its search for a second violinist, this concert's audience will have the unique experience of hearing some of the greatest music composed for three players.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $7 for children. Please call the Amarillo Symphony Office at 376-8782 for ticket information. For more information on the Harrington String Quartet, please visit the website at www.harringtonstringquartet.com.

The public is invited to join the Quartet members for a reception following the concert.

Cubs go to Camp Don

Webelos I and II attended the Camp Don Harrington Cannonball Run 2002 recently. The Scouts won the Clean Camper Award for their willingness to help keep the camp clean and by exceeding the expectations of the Camp Director by cleaning the dining hall twice and assisting another den. The Webelos worked on various activity badges and earned the Junior Angler sponsored by Texas Parks and Wildlife. Those attending the camp were (front) Bradley Watson, Neil Devin, (middle) Reid Copelin, Clayton Shields, Hadley Jones, Dustin Ford, (back) Laban Tubbs, Ty Tubbs, Karla Devin, Nelson Devin, and Mac Devin.

September is National Food Safety Education Month

September is National Food Safety Education Month, an annual observance to focus attention on the importance of safe food handling and preparation in both home and commercial kitchens.

Four Steps To Food Safety is this year's theme for NRSEM. Educators will be working to increase public awareness of the invisible cause of foodborne illness - micro-organisms that may make food unsafe when the four basic messages; Clean, Separate, Cook, and Chill, are not followed. Listed below are Four Steps To Food Safety that we can take to help prevent foodborne illness in the home:

Clean! Everything that touches food should be clean. Cleanliness is a major factor in preventing foodborne illness. Even with food safety inspection and monitoring at Federal, State, and local government facilities, the consumers have the role of ensuring that food is handled safely after it is purchased.

Separate! Fight cross-contamination! Cross-contamination is the transfer of harmful bacteria to food from other foods, cutting boards, and utensils. An example of cross-contamination is cutting raw meat, poultry, or fish on a cutting board and then slicing salad vegetables on the same cutting board without washing the cutting board between uses.

Cook! Use a food thermometer in cooking. Using a food thermometer is the only way to tell if food has reached a high enough temperature

family care Corner
By Dawn Watson
COUNTY FCS AGENT

to destroy harmful micro-organisms. Use a food thermometer to measure the internal temperature of foods, such as meat, hamburgers, poultry, egg casseroles, and any combination dishes to ensure that a safe temperature is reached and that harmful bacteria like Salmonella and Escherichia coli O157:H7 are destroyed.

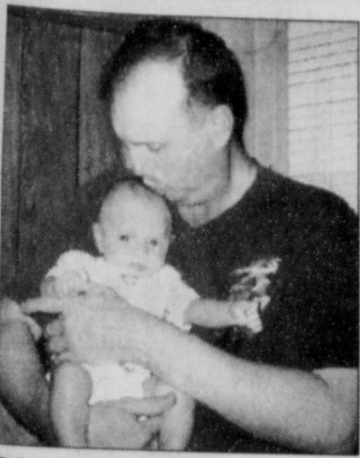

Chill! Make sure the temperature in the refrigerator is 40 degrees F or below and 0 degrees F or below in the freezer. Use a refrigerator/freezer thermometer to check the temperature. Harmful bacteria grow most rapidly in the Danger Zone - the unsafe temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F - so it's important to keep food out of this temperature range.

Refrigerate or freeze perishables, prepared food, and leftovers within 2 hours of purchase or preparation, or within 1 hour if the temperature is above 90 degrees F. Thaw food in the refrigerator.

For quick thawing, submerge in cold water in airtight packaging, or thaw in the microwave, and cook the food immediately.

To learn more about safe food handling, come by the Donley County Texas Cooperative Extension Office or call 874-2141.

New Arrival

Guy Watt proudly announces the arrival of a son, Christian Esai Watt. He arrived in Las Animas on July 18, 2002, weighing 5 lbs., 15 oz. and was 18 inches long.

He has ten fingers and toes and was equipped with other necessary appendages.

His paternal grandmother is Peggy Watt and great grandmother is Lola Brown, both of Hedley.

Childress plans gun show

The Childress Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the sixth annual Red River Gun and Knife Show and Barbecue Cookoff on September 7-8 at the Fairpark Auditorium in Childress.

Show hours are on Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There will also be a barbecue cookoff in the part. The cookoff is sanctioned by the Lone Star Barbecue Society.

Admission to the Gun and Knife Show is $4.00. Concessions will be open during show hours. There will also be a lot of door prizes.

Missionaries to speak at Fellowship Church

Todd and Lynn Dick, missionaries to Croatia, will be speaking at the Community Fellowship Church on Sunday, September 8, during the 11:00 a.m. service.

Todd and Lynn have served as missionaries in Croatia for about four years. Croatia is a small country of 4.5 million located in Eastern Europe and was formerly part of Yugoslavia. Their ministry in Croatia began with a home bible study and a handful of people. Today there is a church plant, Emanuel Baptist Church, with regular services on Sunday morning and Wednesday evening. As many as 50 people attend on a Sunday morning.

Along with planting a church, they have also started a Bible Training Institute. The goal of the Institute is to train Croatian, Bosnian, and Slovenian men for ministry.

Todd was born and raised in Amarillo. He graduated from River Road High School and later worked at Pantex for 13 years. After receiving a call on his life for ministry, he attended The Master's Seminary for four years in Los Angeles. Todd graduated in May 1998 with a master of Divinity. He was ordained for the gospel ministry by Grace Community Church in Los Angeles in July 1998.

In August of that same year, Todd and Lynn, along with three other couples, were sent out by Grace Community Church to serve as full-time missionaries in Croatia.

Todd and Lynn have been married for nine years and have three children, Seth, Abigail, and Hannah.

They are in the states for furlough and will be returning to Croatia after Christmas.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago

THE CLARENDON PRESS, September 2, 1982

The Board of Directors of First Bank and Trust of Clarendon has elected Bronnie F. McNabb, Jr., President and Chief Executive Officer.

Friday night's varsity scrimmage was a real horse fight. The Broncos met the Wheeler Mustangs, and the game proved one thing: Coach Ted Allen has more than one thoroughbred in this year's stable.

50 Years Ago

THE DOWNEY CO. LEADER, Sept. 4, 1952.

The body of a man found in a patch of weeds in Northwest Clarendon on August 22nd, has been positively identified as that of William S. Cloyd of Clarendon. Kelly Rogers, Texas Ranger from Amarillo and the local Sheriff's department have authorized the Murphy-Spicer Funeral Home to release the body to Cloyd's family.

The business firm of Skelton Brothers Clothing Co. will be under new management this month. Durwood Skelton has purchased the interest of Willard Skelton who will be associated with L.L. Wallace Surface Burial Vault Co. Willard will continue to make his home in Clarendon.

Clarendon Aldermen will hold line on city taxes

The Clarendon Board of Aldermen announced they will hold the line on municipal taxes when they met in regular session August 27 at 7 p.m. in the Board Room of City Hall.

City officials agreed to keep the same tax rate as last year. Clarendon has had the $0.45555 rate since 1999. A final vote to adopt the tax rate will be taken at the next city meeting on September 10.

In other city business, the board approved giving $800 from the Motel

Bed Tax Fund to the Saints' Roost Museum to advertise the annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff which will be held September 28.

Alderman Tommy Hill was appointed as the new Fair Housing / Equal Opportunity Standards Officer for the city, and a resolution was adopted designating City Secretary Linda Smith as the Community Development Citizen Coordinator for the purpose of a grant application.

The radio tower rental contract with the Federal Bureau of Investigation was discussed and approved for another year. Alderman Michael Tibbets said the city did not raise the FBI's rent for tower space because "we are trying to be patriotic and do our part for national security."

Engineer Gene Barber addressed the board concerning the seal coat project and expressed his disappointment the project will not be done this year. The city did not open bids last month. Financing of the project could not be made ready for this fall, and officials hope to pick up the project next spring.

The board filled out its ballot for the Texas Municipal League Board and chose to support the candidacies of Robert T. Herrera, Makia Epie, Wayne Collins, and Ricky Childers.

The contract for board consultant services with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission was discussed and approved for another year. Colby Waters will continue in his capacity as advisor to the Board of Aldermen.

Dove season looking good for hunters

Where's Waldo? Who? Waldo. You know that goofy comic book character that hides in animated scenes and you have to find him. Oh yeah. That guy. I haven't looked for him since the kids grew up. So where's Gary? Who? Gary Dziedzic. You know that goofy outdoor writer for THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE. I don't know. I haven't read anything from him in a while. He used to write a fair article.

Okay, enough of this ridiculous attempt to be funny. I am not really a comedian. People think I'm funny looking, maybe. Anyway, I am back in the saddle again. And to my loyal readers, I apologize for not writing my article lately.

It seems like this year just flew by, and already it is the start of another hunting season. September outdoor Life

By Gary Dziedzic

1, 2002, was the beginning of dove season. It looks like it is going to be a good year for dove hunters, especially in the eastern Panhandle. Donley County has good numbers of dove flying around. It should be a good year for our local hunters, so good luck to all!

The fishing at Lake Greenbelt has been surprisingly good considering the low water level. I will be giving a full report next week on the fishing at Lake Greenbelt, Lake Meredith, and Lake Mackenzie.

Some of the things I will be covering in my article this fall are fishing and hunting reports, fishing and hunting tips of the week, and wild game and fish recipes.

I will also be doing a story at the end of each month about a Donley County resident who fishes or hunts, or does both.

I am also going to have a contest for our Donley County kids next month. Four lucky kids will have a chance to go fishing with me at a local lake or pond, depending on where the fishing is best. Look in my upcoming articles for contest rules.

Hunters, may you always be safe and respect the land you hunt. Fishermen, catch a few fish for supper and release a few to ensure another great fishing day. Good luck to all!

Chamberlain attends foreign policy symposium in D.C.

Catherine Chamberlain was one of several students from Austin College in Sherman who attended a foreign policy symposium in Washington, DC.

The two-week symposium was led by Dr. Shelton Williams, who is the professor of political science and international studies at Austin College.

Symposium participants come from around the world to hear economists, analysts, journalists, government officials, and educators provide insight on the state of politics around the globe. This year, thirty-three Austin College students joined students from Japan, Germany, Ukraine, Bulgaria, India, and Korea, as well as other US students.

The event was held August 4 through August 15. This program is an important element within Austin College's political science and international studies focus.

"The academic experience is first rate," Williams says. "It offers an inside view of US foreign policy, and students get a better appreciation of how the American political institution operates. The experience brings the textbook to life."

Chamberlain is a graduate of Clarendon High School. She is the daughter of Trey and Diane Chamberlain of Clarendon.

Preservation workshops taking place across Texas

AUSTIN - The Texas Historical Commission (THC) is hosting free regional workshops throughout the state featuring a variety of seminars and sessions keyed to preservation interests in a particular area. The workshops include tours of historic sites and areas of interest as well as opportunities to discuss preservation issues with THC archeologists, architects, and historians.

The THC began the successful outreach program in 2001, drawing more than 600 preservationists including city planners, architects, volunteers, and museum, and tourism professionals. This year, each workshop offers a basic training session for county historical commission members, including instruction on the new Texas Preservation Handbook for County Historical Commissions.

The goal is to reach people where they live, providing expert advice and establishing new preservation partnerships. Upcoming regional workshops this year include El Paso, Sept. 24 (Mountain/Pecos Region); San Marcos, Oct. 2 (Forts/Hill Country Region); Canyon, Nov. 13-14 (Plains Region); and Rio Grande City, Nov. 21 (Independence/Tropical Region).

For more information, call the THC at 512/463-6100 or visit the web site at www.thc.state.tx.us.

Clarendon High senior class elects officers

The Clarendon High School senior class recently met to elect class officers and discuss upcoming events.

Eric Pitts was elected to serve the class as president. Taylor Shelton will serve as vice president while Lacey Anderberg was elected secretary. Cameron Word will serve as treasurer.

Sponsors for this year include Coach Barton, Coach Calloway, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mr. Hayes, Mrs. Harrison, and Mrs. Luna.

The seniors began their year by taking senior portraits Wednesday morning and painting signs on Friday afternoon for the football games. Upcoming events include mum and garter sales, which will begin two weeks before homecoming.

Many seniors will also begin taking their ACTs and SATs throughout the year, beginning in late September and continuing until early spring.

Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting September 3 with Boss Lion Myles Shelton conducting the meeting.

We had two guests and 15 members. Our guests were Pearl Hermes-neyer and Ann Hamilton, guests of Lion Denise Bertrand.

Lion Judy Burlin made her visit and announced the reception to recognize the ones who serve the county. This will be held September 11 beginning at 5 p.m.

The college enrollment is up with two more campuses to register, and students continue to register.

Anne Hamilton brought our program on the Trailee Crisis Center which is located in Pampa. The shelter provides emergency care and transportation for battered women, victims of sexual assault, and their children. The center is funded by the state and by federal grants.

Obituaries

Roland

Funeral services for Jessie Mae Roland, age 78, were held at 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, September 4, 2002, in Robertson Chapel of Memories in Clarendon with Don Stone of Clarendon, officiating. Burial was held in Rowe Cemetery in Hedley under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., in Clarendon.

Mrs. Roland died Sunday, September 1, 2002, in Claude. She was born June 1, 1924, in Dixie, Texas, and had been a resident of Hedley most of her life. She married Robert Henry Roland on May 24, 1941, at Durant, Oklahoma. She was a member of the Hedley Lioness Club and a member of the Hedley Church of Christ. She was a homemaker.

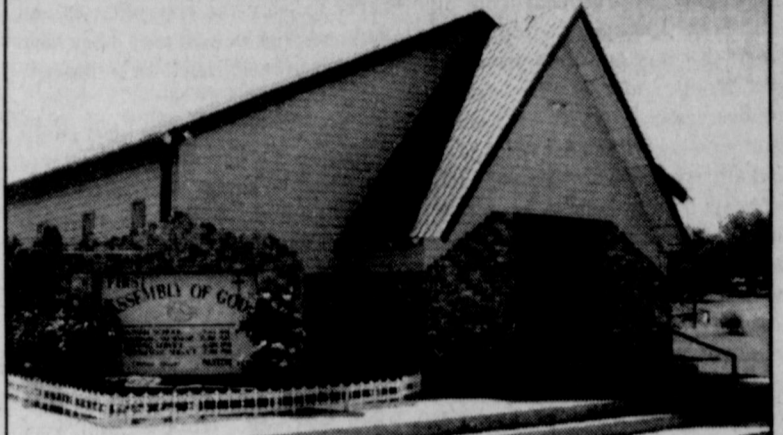

Survivors include her husband, Bob Roland of Hedley; and a son and daughter-in-law, Bobby and Pat Roland of Amarillo.

Casket bearers were Daine Roland, Don Ray, Paul Bivens, Harold White, Keith Roland, Connie DeBord, Bill Paschal, and Doyle Messer.

Lady Bulldogs begin season with new coach

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs are facing a new season with a new coach. After attending and graduating from Texas A&M at Commerce, Bo Pagliasotti is eager to begin his new role at the helm. Pagliasotti comes to CC from his alma mater where he was an assistant under head coach Larry Blackwell.

Pagliasotti graduated from high school in 1990 at Roston, Texas, where he was active in basketball, golf, tennis, and track. He began his college career at A&M - Commerce (formerly known as East Texas State) and after two years, he pursued other interests putting college on the back burner. Pagliasotti was initially introduced to outdoor volleyball, and he became very active in the sport in his free time. His interest for the game increased when he became involved in Club Team volleyball, which was a program sponsored by the United States Association of Volleyball.

His love for the game grew, and he soon realized that coaching volleyball was something that he wanted to do. He returned to college and received his Degree in Kinesiology and English. While finishing his degree, he was a student assistant to Coach Blackwell.

Coach Pagliasotti is excited to be in Clarendon and has high hopes for the Lady Bulldog volleyball team.

"We're still a fairly young program," Pagliasotti said. "But I'm seeing good things from the team so far. They work hard and are eager to learn the new offenses and defenses that we will use. They have seemed to really latch on to the new concepts."

Pagliasotti and his Lady Bulldogs had the opportunity to try out those new offenses and defenses in their first game of the season, which was held Saturday, August 31, in LaJuanta, Colorado.

The Lady Bulldogs faced off against Otero Junior College and were defeated 0-3. They then went on to face McCook Junior College from McCook, Nebraska, and were defeated 1-3. Despite the loss, Pagliasotti was very optimistic about his team.

"We've added so many new things this year, and it will take awhile for us to catch on and execute the way we need to. I saw many bright spots in the games, and the girls did a lot of good things. They are full of heart."

Pagliasotti also cited a few rule changes for the 2002 season. They will stick with the rally-type scoring which was incorporated last year. All matches will be the best 3 out of 5 games with exception in some tournaments. Each game goes to 30 points, and one team must win by 2 points.

One other rule change is the addition of a defensive player called a "leibero." This player may only play defense, cannot substitute any time, and cannot serve. The "let" serve remains legal, and the opportunity to pursue an out-of-bounds ball on the other side of the net is also allowed. With the addition of these rule changes, college volleyball still promises to be very exciting and fun to watch.

Coach Pagliasotti, his wife Debra, and 9-month old son Hunter are very excited to be in Clarendon.

"We're happy to be here. Everyone has been great. I'm from a small town, and it's almost like coming home."

The Lady Bulldog Team consists of nine sophomores and three freshmen. They have two players from the West Indies, and the rest are from Texas and neighboring states.

The roster includes right side player Carrie Mullins, Canyon; setter and defensive specialist Callie Rucker, Texico, New Mexico; outside hitters Krystal Baxter, Hatau, Texas; Kelci Newton, Windthorst, Texas; Joanna Christopher, St. Vincent, West Indies; middle blockers Cheryl Audain, St. Vincent, West Indies; Ashley Loven, Texico, New Mexico; Ashley Gordon, Vernon, Texas; setter Heather Handley, Vernon, Texas; outside hitter/middle blocker Tiesha Turner, Natchitoches, Louisiana; setter/right side player Jenny Miller, Holiday, Texas; and leibero Cassie Doss, Dumas, Texas. Handley and Newton were also chosen team captains by their teammates.

The Lady Bulldogs began action on Wednesday, September 4, against Vernon College in Vernon. Results were not available at press time. Their first home game will be September 11 also against Vernon.

Former CC players get scholarships

By Sandy Anderberg

Eleven former Bulldog baseball players have made the transition from junior college and been accepted into various four year colleges.

According to head baseball coach Trent Petrie, all of the players that went on to play at larger colleges did so by earning scholarships.

"Clarendon College provided these young men with an opportunity to further their education at the next level. All of them received scholarships, and that's what it's all about."

While at CC, these young men showed great leadership on the field as well as in the classroom. Some graduated at the top of their class and worked hard to prepare themselves for the next level.

Those receiving scholarships, their hometown/country, and where they will be attending college are: Victor Rodriguez, Puerto Rico, Lubbock Christian; Adam Klestinec, Las Vegas, Hastings College in Hastings, Nebraska; Tate Seideman, Lubbock, St. Mary's in San Antonio; Jared Smith, Edmond, Oklahoma, NW Oklahoma; Joel Flores, Lubbock, Texas Tech; Billy Shea, Cheyenne, NW Oklahoma; Michael Pelley, Australia, Armstrong Atlantic, Savannah, Georgia; Andrew Graham, Australia, Armstrong Atlantic, Savannah, Georgia; Phillip Roberson, Puerto Rico, Texas A & M, Corpus Christi; Josh Adams, Abilene, NW Oklahoma; Simon Walsh, Australia, West Texas A & M at Canyon.

Schafer wins American Legion World Series

Pitcher Jeff Schafer of Hamilton, Mississippi, and his team won the American Legion World Series held last week in Danville, Virginia, when they shut out a team from Excelsior, Minnesota, 4-0.

Schafer is the son of Jan and Barry Schafer of Hamilton, Mississippi, and the grandson of Earnest and Roxie Barbee of Clarendon. His parents were with him at the tournament, and his grandparents were watching the games at home on the Internet.

Schafer pitched against the team from Rapid City, South Dakota, to win the semi-final round, 6-3. The team advanced to the final game to play the team from Minnesota.

Schafer is a senior at Hamilton High School in Hamilton, Mississippi. His team has competed against eight teams from around the country in this series.

Foundation's nonprofit institute will offer training, education

The Amarillo Area Foundation Nonprofit Services Center will host the Panhandle Nonprofit and Volunteer Management Institute.

The one-day Institute is slated for 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Wednesday, September 11, 2002, at the Amarillo College Business and Industry Center located at 1314 South Polk in Amarillo.

For one day, area nonprofit organizations will have the opportunity to participate in training and education in nonprofit and volunteer management at the Panhandle Nonprofit and Volunteer Management Institute.

Participants in the workshop will learn the complex and often vital role of a board members and volunteers in a nonprofit organization. They will also be educated about the environment of today's nonprofit, discuss recruitment, development, evaluation, and retention of board members and volunteers.

The workshop is open to the public. The cost to register is $65 per participant. DOVIA or AFP members may attend for $50 per person. For volunteer directors/managers who are not currently members of DOVIA but wish to join, the $50 fee covers the conference and DOVIA membership through December 31, 2002. Registration fee includes continental breakfast and lunch.

To register, contact Thea at the Amarillo Area Foundation at 376-4521 or e-mail thea@aaf-hf.org.

"All of these groups have mutual interests in improving the effectiveness of nonprofit organizations, so leadership worked together to offer a broad variety of training topics in a full-day seminar," said Ashley Allison, Director of Nonprofit Service Center for the Amarillo Area Foundation.
