District court sends four men to prison

Four area men are starting the New Year in the custody of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice following their December 30, 2002, sentences by 100th District Court Judge David McCoy.

According to information from the district attorney's office, Dustin Dean Dann and Bobby Carol Atkinson, both of Childress, came to plea agreements with the State through District Attorney Stuart Messer. They were represented by attorney Earl Griffin.

Dann received 2½ years in prison for the third degree felony of Unlawful Possession of a Firearm. Atkinson was sentenced to three years in prison for the third degree felony of Driving While Intoxicated.

Carson County inmate Terry Wayne Gollighugh and Donley County inmate Preston Wayne Havens came before the court on motions filed by Messer to revoke probation.

Gollighugh was placed on felony probation on January 4, 1999, for Driving While Intoxicated. He received three years in a TDCJ Institutional Division for his probation violation. Gollighugh was represented by attorney Steve Cross.

Havens was placed on probation for the second degree felony of Indecency with a Child and the first degree felony of Aggravated Sexual Assault on May 23, 2002. He was sentenced to 15 years in a TDCJ Institutional Division for violating probation, and he was represented by Earl Griffin.

The district attorney complimented the Probation Department on these cases.

"I want to commend the work of the Probation Department for keeping tabs on these men and letting us know when they violate their probation requirements so we can work to keep our cities and counties safe for all of us," Messer said.

CISD students to face new state test this spring

By John Taylor, CISD Counselor

Students in Clarendon Schools and across the state will face a new assessment this spring. The Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills, or TAKS test replaces the decade old TAAS test.

The new TAKS test, (pronounced 'tax') is more rigorous due to increased depth and complexity of the questions.

Teachers prepare students for the TAKS by teaching the state curriculum, the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills or TEKS.

One of the biggest changes brought about by the new assessment program is the Student Success Initiative. Under this program, 3rd graders must pass the TAKS Reading test in order to be promoted to the 4th grade. They will have three opportunities to meet expectations. Additional instruction will be provided for all students who do not pass. A parent can request a GPC or Grade Placement Committee be formed that will ultimately decide if the student will be retained should the student not meet requirements on the third test. In 2005, all 5th graders will have to pass both the TAKS Reading and Math tests to be promoted to the 6th grade. In 2008, 8th graders will have to pass these tests to be promoted to the 9th grade.

Another change TAKS brings is a shift in the Exit Level test (the test that high school students must pass to graduate) from the 10th to the 11th grade. The Exit Level TAKS will consist of an English Language Arts test, a science test, a math test, and a social studies test- all of which must be passed before the student can graduate.

Clarendon High School has made several changes the past few years to address the TAKS requirements. An alternating block schedule has been in place for 2½ years. Longer blocked classes allow the teachers enough flexibility during each class to teach the TEKS and address the critical thinking required by TEKS. Several master schedule changes have been made, and all student graduation plans are devised with TAKS preparation in mind.

Prominent artist passes away at 94

Mrs. Bugbee was curator of art at PPHM

Renowned painter Olive Freda Vandruff Bugbee of Clarendon died here on Saturday, January 4, 2003, at the age of 94.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p.m. January 15 in the Hazlewood Lecture Hall at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

Born at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, on April 17, 1908, to Ross and Mame Buskirk Vandruff, she spent much of her childhood traveling in the Southwestern United States with her geologist father and her mother. In Chicago, she studied with painter Edmund Giesbert at the University of Chicago. She also studied with Chicago sculptors Elisabeth H. Hibbard and Frederick C. Hibbard in the mid 1940s, eventually becoming an assistant to them. Vandruff moved to San Antonio in 1931, where she became an assistant to sculptor Pompeo Coppini.

About 1937, she married the engraver Charles F. Anderson. In 1950 she operated a sheep ranch near Kerrville. While in the Hill Country, she became a renowned painter of animals and birds and was often commissioned to paint pet and horse portraits. She met Western artist H.D. Bugbee of Clarendon in 1960, marrying him the following year and relocating to Clarendon.

Upon Bugbee's death in 1963, Vandruff succeeded him as curator of art at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum until her retirement in 1982.

After retiring, she still volunteered at the Museum, driving the 150 mile round trip from Clarendon nearly every day until November 2002.

Vandruff worked in several media, including pastel, watercolor, casein, and oil. She was a member of the Coppini Academy of Fine Arts in San Antonio and began exhibiting there in the early 1930s. By the early 1960s, she had had numerous solo exhibitions. Vandruff's paintings are found in private collections across the United States.

Among her patrons were former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe. Her public commissions consist of murals in Texas and Oklahoma, including a mural of Palo Duro Canyon for the First National Bank of Amarillo, now Bank of America. In 1976, she was included in the landmark exhibition, "The Women Artist, in the American West, 1860-1960," in Fullerton, California. Recently, she was included in the Dictionary of Texas Artists, 1800-1945.

A memorial exhibition of Vandruff's paintings will be presented in the Bugbee Gallery at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. The exhibition will include works of art from her personal collection as well as from the Museum's.

Her body will be cremated. Arrangements were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

County livestock show, sale to be held here this weekend

Donley County Junior Livestock Show and Auction will be held Saturday, January 11, at the Clarendon Community Center located behind Suna AutoMall.

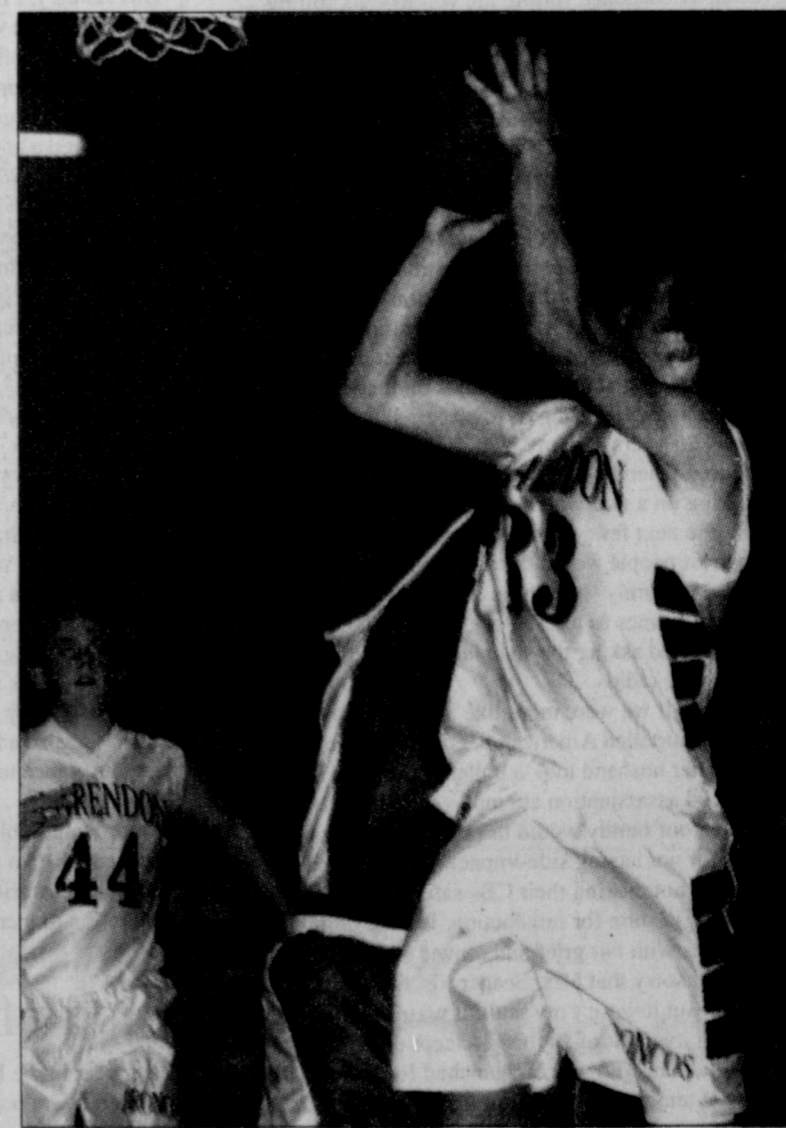

More than seventy young people will be exhibiting their beef, sheep, and swine projects at 9:00 a.m. The day's activities will conclude with an auction at 6:00 p.m.

During the year, these participants spend many hours feeding and caring for their animals, and the auction gives them an opportunity to be rewarded for their hard work.

Many participants will take their livestock on to major shows in Ft. Worth, San Antonio, and Houston.

If you would like to support the Junior Livestock Show and sale or need more information, contact Lon Adams at (806) 856-5323.

Grieving lady wants to take our car phones

Our state legislators will soon be back in session, and, as usual, some of them are up to no good. This is particularly true for El Paso Rep. Paul Moreno (a Democrat naturally), who has apparently been swayed by the grief of an Ohio woman named Amy Seager.

According to recent news reports, Seager's twin daughters were critically injured after a man in a pickup truck plowed into them while they were stopped at a railroad crossing. The girls later died.

Joel Hostetler, the guy who was driving the pickup, told authorities he was reaching for his cell phone at the time of the July 25 accident. He pled no contest and was found guilty late last year of two counts of vehicular homicide, the LANCASTER (OHIO) EAGLE-GAZETTE reported. The maximum penalty Hostetler faces for each count is six months in jail, a $1,000 fine, and suspension of his driver's license for up to five years.

But that's not good enough for Mrs. Seager. She says she thinks people are "unaware" of the dangers of talking on the cell phone while driving, and she's now going around the country pressuring state legislatures to enact restrictions on cell phones in automobiles.

Like so many Americans today, Mrs. Seager is working through her grief by taking it out on somebody else. She's not content to have Mr. Hostetler go to jail; she wants take away a little piece of freedom from you and me and anyone else who has ever used a cellular phone in their car.

She packages the emotions of her tragic loss and goes before legislative committees with testimony such as this, which was reported by the EAGLE-GAZETTE: "Both of her legs were broken, and every bone in her beautiful, perfect face was fractured. If I hadn't been told who the purple, bleeding, bloated girl on the bed was, I would have never recognized her."

That's pretty horrific. And, no doubt, it is persuasive to a good many Americans. Nobody wants to see their own kids or loved ones killed in the same senseless manner.

But I have message for Mrs. Seager: "Get over it." Yes, it was tragic. Yes, the guy ought to be punished. But no law is ever going to bring those girls back to life, and nothing gives you the right to take away someone else's personal freedom just to help you cope with your loss.

In Texas, Rep. Moreno's law would ban using a cell phone in a vehicle unless either the vehicle is stopped or the driver is using a hands-free phone. Violators would face a fine of $25 to $100.

A spokesman for Moreno told Associated Press reporter April Castro, "If you're holding a cell phone in one hand, then you've only got one hand on the wheel."

Oh, come on! Do the folks in Moreno's office really think that we're all driving around with our hands in the "ten and two" position but for talking on the phone? That's ludicrous.

Most drivers have a whole plethora of activities which take one hand off the wheel. They're eating, drinking, changing the radio, smacking the kids, setting the air-conditioner, rolling the window up, rolling the window down, reading maps, trying to get the CD player to work, and yes, possibly even picking their nose. Would it have made Mrs. Seager feel any better if her daughters had been killed while Mr. Hostetler was putting ketchup on his fries? Of course not.

In fact, some "safety experts" say requiring a hands-free device for cell phones isn't good enough because, as Dave Willis, director of the Center for Transportation Safety at the Texas Transportation Institute, told the AP, "drivers are distracted by the conversation."

Well, shoot, you can have a conversation with the person sitting next to you or in the backseat. Maybe in addition to keeping at least two hands on the wheel, we should have a law requiring us to all just shut up, too.

Nearly 20 years ago, my own grandfather was seriously injured when he barreled through an intersection while talking on a two-way radio. He hit a large truck and spent the next few years in a semi-conscious state - which most people would describe as a coma - and later died. My family went through many emotions and many difficult times as a result of that accident, but we never considered asking the state legislature to ban the use of two-way radios.

I suppose if we were more like Sarah Brady - who successfully curtailed American Second Amendment rights after her husband took a bullet in the head during a presidential assassination attempt - or more like Amy Seager, then our family would have sued Ford Motor Company for not having side-impact air bags, sued Motorola for not making their CBs safer, and lobbied the Texas Legislature for satisfaction. But we didn't. We came to terms with our grief and moved on.

I'm very sorry that Mrs. Seager lost her daughters. I really am. But it wasn't my fault, it wasn't your fault, and it wasn't the fault of anybody except one man - Mr. Hostetler - a man who will be punished for his mistake to such an extent that a $25 traffic ticket won't make much difference.

The Texas Legislature should defeat Moreno's bill in committee and tell Mrs. Seager to mind her own business. An awareness campaign about cell phones may be in order, but eroding Texans' freedoms certainly is not.

Holiday creativity yields flatwear jewelry

This will be the last column that I write from home. It is time to return to the Big Country and get back to the daily grind of going to class. I'll have a brand new set of quirky professors to make fun of.

Don't get me wrong, I have loved my month at home with the family, but I am anxious to go back. I am kind of tired of going to bed at 9:30 and getting up at the crack of dawn.

To be honest, I think my family is ready to get rid of me. My little sister wants her stuff back, and Mom wants my stuff out.

I think my Dad could probably tolerate me for a little while longer because, except for his tools, I have very little use for his stuff.

My time at home has given me a chance to make obscene amounts of jewelry, though. I have repaired, revamped, and recreated every necklace and bracelet I own.

I got this great idea a little while back for a bracelet made out of a fork. I know it sounds funny, but it looks cool. You just break out your Incredible Hulk strength and bend the fork backwards so the decorated part is on the outside.

While I was home for Thanksgiving, I got a fork with a pretty little design on

life's Lessons

By Carrie Helms

the end out of the kitchen. I could not find a hammer, so I was using a pair of pliers on the kitchen table to beat the fork into shape.

Most moms would say, "Stop that! We need to eat off that fork!" or "Don't make so much noise!" or "Don't use your dad's tools like that!"

Not my mom. She wants to give us room for our creativity to grow. She said, "Don't do that on the table! Get the cutting board." So, I got out the cutting board and continued to beat my fork.

Beating it with the pliers didn't really get the job done, so I took my malformed, half-bent fork back to my room and forged about it for a while.

I guess my dad thought it was a pretty good idea. He made fork bracelets for my sisters and me for Christmas.

He really got into it, each time improving the quality of the product. The first one was kind of rough, but the third bracelet was perfectly round without a mark. He wanted to see about doing some other things with our fine silver.

Our next project is to make a watch from a spoon. We figured you could use a drill press to cut a hole in the bowl of the spoon and insert a watch face so you could still change the battery. I could glue turquoise or shiny things to the handles and stuff.

I am thinking about marketing them on the web. Flatware you can wear, or something like that. I could make a fortune, but then we would have nothing to eat with.

Maybe it is not such a good idea after all.

I do have one correction to make. I neglected to mention in an article I wrote in the December 26 issue (The True Spirit of Christmas) that Toys for Tots has always a great friend in local resident Nancy Taylor.

In the last three years, Nancy has collected more than 500 toys for local children through Panhandle Community Services. She is getting an early start for next year and has already collected 10 toys.

Even though the holiday season has passed, it is always Christmas in her heart. Thank you, Nancy, for your years of kind and selfless service to this community.

Congress facing new challenges this year

In 1789 the members of the first federal Congress convened with the noble goal of creating a solid foundation on which to build a great nation. Knowing that the responsibility for the success or failure of America's Revolution laid squarely on their shoulders, they began to create the legislation that would become the blueprint for our system of government.

This January, 214 years after our nation's experiment with democracy began, we convene for the 108th Congress to continue the work of our Founding Fathers.

The 107th Congress came to a close having achieved a number of important accomplishments. When we set out in January of 2001, we could never have envisioned the tragedy that would strike our nation on September 11th. While our primary focus was rightly on securing our homeland and protecting our citizens, we were able to accomplish a great deal on other key issues.

• Economic Opportunity - Congress passed sweeping tax relief to create jobs, strengthen the economy, and put more money in Americans' pocketbooks. We also passed Trade Promotion Authority to give the President a strong hand to negotiate trade agreements and open new markets to U.S. products. Congress enacted an economic stimulus bill giving short-term help to displaced workers and providing long-term stimulus to help businesses create more jobs. We also addressed the need for terrorism insurance to help building projects recover.

• Improving Public Education - Congress passed the "No Child Left Behind Act," the most historic education reform in a generation to increase funding, infuse

capitol Comment

with Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison

accountability into our public school systems, and create opportunity to ensure that every American child has a chance to succeed.

• Corporate Accountability - Congress passed tough corporate accountability legislation to punish acts of corruption, help restore confidence in corporate America, and protect small investors. It also established stricter standards for auditor independence by prohibiting accounting firms from providing most consulting services to the clients they audit.

• National Security - While the U.S. military has expertly prosecuted the war on terrorism and rooted out al Qaeda from Afghanistan, Congress has worked to provide the tools and resources they need. We passed a defense bill to give our men and women in the Armed Forces upgraded equipment, technology and infrastructure, and better housing and pay for the difficult job they perform.

• Homeland Security - President Bush signed legislation creating the Department of Homeland Security, which will help the U.S. government to better protect our nation against terrorism and preserve the liberties and freedoms we enjoy as Americans.

The new Congress begins with a full plate to help us grow and prosper as a nation. Here are some of the top priorities:

• Extend unemployment benefits for

Americans who need them; • Finish the appropriations bills left over from last year's Congress to fully fund the initiatives and programs on which people rely; • Enact an economic stimulus package to bolster our economy and strengthen the stock market; • Reform Social Security and Medicare with a prescription drug component to bring those venerable programs up to date and ensure they will be there for generations to come; • Enact an energy bill to make our country more self-sufficient.

We will complete the work we undertook with the Department of Homeland Security. We must ensure the Department is fully funded and operational as soon as possible.

Though the transition will take time, Congress will work with the president and the new Department to ensure the move is seamless and efficient. Congress must also develop and implement a comprehensive national energy policy. Though we worked tirelessly toward that end last year, we were ultimately unable to send a bill to President Bush. I'm confident we will pass a bill that will encourage domestic production and release our nation from the grip of Middle East oil dependency.

Undoubtedly, there are many other issues that will be brought before this Congress, and our priorities may shift with the needs and concerns of the American people. But we enter this year with the echo of the first Congress' noble goal foremost in our minds: we will continue to build upon the solid foundation they began and ensure that America continues to be the beacon of freedom and liberty for all people around the world.

March of Dimes working for prevention of birth defects

Each year in the U.S., approximately 150,000 babies are born with a birth defect. More than 11,000 Texas children are born with a major structural birth defect each year. Birth defects are a leading cause of disability and infant death in our state.

January is Birth Defects Prevention Month, as well as the start of a new session of the Texas Legislature. The March of Dimes will ask the Legislature for $834,000 over two years for the Texas Birth Defects Registry and the Neural Tube Defect Recurrence Prevention Project. Increased funding for birth defect surveillance and research in Texas will allow the Texas Department of Health to improve monitoring activities and educate more women about how to prevent birth defects.

We must fight to make sure that every Texas baby is born healthy.

New rule allows movement of Texas feeder cattle

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has published its interim rule allowing Texas feeder cattle to continue to move out of state without additional restrictions, at least until September 30, 2003.

Texas ranchers, feedlot operators, and private practitioners have waited since June 6, 2002, to learn if, in 2003, they would have to apply USDA ear tags to their 1.5 million steers, feeder bull calves, and feeder heifers destined for out-of-state grazing or feedlots each year. The restrictions also would have required Texas feeder bull calves and feeder heifers to be tested for cattle tuberculosis (TB) prior to movement.

"In a meeting November 27, USDA representatives provided verbal notification regarding the continued free movement of Texas feeder cattle, despite our loss of cattle tuberculosis 'free' status on June 6, 2002. Also, the USDA staff is considering regulation changes that would keep Texas feeder animals moving freely after September," said Dr. James Lenarduzzi, acting executive director for the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's livestock health regulatory agency.

"In the meantime, the USDA's interim rule makes the temporary delay official, so the Texas cattle industry can continue business as usual."

Dr. Lenarduzzi explained that the now-delayed movement restrictions on feeder cattle stemmed from the USDA's downgrade of Texas' cattle tuberculosis (TB) eradication status from accredited-free to modified accredited advanced after two TB-infected cattle herds were detected in Texas in 2001. Dr. Lenarduzzi said the infected herds were depopulated, and more than 9,300 cattle in 115 other herds have been tested to ensure the disease had not spread, he said.

"As a modified accredited advanced state, Texas breeding cattle must be identified with an official USDA ear tag and have a negative skin test for cattle TB before being moved out of state," Dr. Lenarduzzi reminded ranchers. "This includes young, weaned calves destined for breeding purposes. About 150,000 breeding animals are moved from the state each year; and because these animals have a long life within a herd, it's essential to ensure that they are disease-free prior to movement."

Dr. Lenarduzzi pointed out that strict requirements for identifying, testing, and permitting cattle movement will continue in a designated high-risk area that encompasses about 100 herds in Texas' far west El Paso County and a portion of Hudspeth County.

"The USDA approved a special 'movement restriction zone' (MRZ) in the two counties in November 2000 because of recurring, low levels of infection in nine dairies comprising the "El Paso Milk Shed" along the Rio Grande. We work with producers in the MRZ to ensure movement requirements are met so commerce can continue. Furthermore, the USDA is finalizing the purchase and depopulation of the dairies in the MRZ, where under Texas law, no new dairies will be permitted."

"The Texas cattle industry has been exceptional in working with us through the regulatory process to keep our cattle moving," said Dr. Lenarduzzi.

"Texas ranchers should be proud of their leaders in the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, Independent Cattlemen Association, Texas Cattle Feeders, Livestock Marketing Association, Texas Veterinary Medical Association, and Texas Farm Bureau.

We had 17 members and two guests. Our guests were Scarlet and Russell Estlack, guests of Lion Allen Estlack.

Things are good at the High School. They got a plumbing project finished last week. The college instructors are back on the job. They will start pouring concrete on the new dorms this week. There will be a meeting at the college on Thursday to set goals for the college.

The Chamber of Commerce banquet will be held in February.

We voted to support the Howardwick Park project.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

Test: New exam will be more difficult

Also, all juniors are now required to be enrolled in both a science and math class.

Since this year's juniors took the Exit Level TAAS last year, the new TAKS Exit Level requirement will go into effect in the spring of 2004 for the senior class of 2005. All current CHS students have met Exit Level requirements.

The new TAKS test brings a more complicated testing schedule. Writing at grades 4 and 7, Reading at grade 9, and English Language Arts at grades 10 and 11 will be given on February 25. The third graders' first opportunity to pass the Reading test will be on March 4 (any student not passing will retest on April 30 and if necessary, again on July 8). Reading at grades 4-8 will be on April 30. TAKS Math will be as follows: grades 3-8 and 11 on April 29, grade 10 on April 30, and grade 9 on May 1. Social Studies will be given on May 1 in grades 8, 10, and 11. Science will be assessed on May 1 for grade 5 and May 2 for grades 10 and 11.

TAAS has not gone away completely. It is still the graduation requirement for any current junior, senior, or out of school examinee who did not pass while in school. While no CHS students will need to retake the TAAS, it will be offered to out of school examinees this spring to those who register by January 24, 2003. Anyone interested in testing should contact the Clarendon counselor's office at 874-3241.

Looking Back

15 Years Ago

The Clarendon Press, Jan. 14, 1988
• In 1887, a pioneer Methodist minister named J.T. Hosmer arrived in Clarendon and conducted services for the early settlers of that community. However, the First Methodist Church of Clarendon was not officially established until 1888, under the leadership of Rev. Issac L. Mills, with fifteen charter members. This year, the First United Methodist Church of Clarendon is proud to celebrate its Centennial, complete with special events and a list of distinguished speakers.

Book club will soon be turning pages again

around Town
By Gail Shelton
CLARENDON • 874-9186

The Book Club will be getting back underway at the end of this month after a December hiatus. No one has mentioned a book to read, so I think we ought to just bring a book we might have been given or acquired during the recent holiday season. I imagine most of you are like me - constitutionally incapable of walking out of a bookstore without at least one book purchase. Last time, I had four, and I had to leave before I found anything else tempting.
I know your new books may not have been read yet, but it would be fun to see what they are, and they just might give the group a good idea for next month's book. If you have a better idea, tell me (or the librarian), and we'll do that instead.

I hope every one of you had a wonderful Christmas and that Santa brought you everything you could hope for. Santa was very good to the residents of our house. Even counting the things Santa wrapped up for him/herself. In at least one house in town, Santa let the recipient check out the present, make sure it worked properly, then made him wrap it up and put it under the tree and wait till Christmas Day to open it and put it into play. Santa can be so mean sometimes. But that's the way it's supposed to be.
Enjoy the New Year, and may all it seems to promise now be fulfilled throughout the year.

Nazarene Church to hold revival

The Clarendon Church of the Nazarene will be hosting evangelist Jerry McGee during their revival beginning on January 13 through January 19.
Services will begin nightly at 7 p.m. and on Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. A nursery will be provided for children 5 and under.
Brother McGee is known throughout America as an anointed preacher. Brother Hodges, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, says he agrees with this statement. In the revival of June this last year, the church experienced a mighty anointing in every service. Many were saved, and many were healed in soul, mind, body, and spirit.
If you have a spiritual need, God is the answer to that need; if you are addicted to drugs or alcohol, God is the answer. They will be having special deliverance services. God wants to set his people free. Please pray with them about a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Please come and expect a great moving of God's Holy Spirit.
If you have any questions, you can contact Brother Hodges at 806-674-9636.

Hedley boy receives orders for Kuwait deployment

The new year started off with the wind blowing like fury.

When Louise Farley and I came from Amarillo Wednesday, she could hardly hold the car on the road because of wind gusts up to fifty miles an hour. As we got to the cultivated land, the sand was blowing. The rest of the week has been sunny with little wind. Today (Sunday) there's almost no wind, and the temperature is mild.

Jeneda Gay came by Tuesday evening, and we went to the ball game. Hedley played Wellington and both the boys and girls won. I can't remember what the scores were but the girls won by about forty points. The boys not so much. I enjoyed watching the kids play.

Karen's parents, Max and JoAnn, have taken over the management of the DeVillie Restaurant in Memphis.

Juanita Brown and Grace Burkhalter have been enjoying the company of Juanita's daughter and granddaughter from Denver. Marie Norton, her daughter Debbie, granddaughter April, and her baby have been here. April is in the United States Navy and is stationed in Seattle.

Someone called a few days ago and asked why I told about the weather when everyone already knew if it snowed or the wind blew. I don't write for those who live here but for those who belong to Hedley but for some reason live elsewhere. Like Elsie Shaw, Ruby Beekler, Alvin and Brenda Alexander, and Haskell Foster. Haskell lives in New York. I can't imagine why somebody would willingly choose to live in New York. Elsie lives in Dublin, and Ruby lives in Clovis. Alvin and Brenda live in Loveland, Colorado. But they all belong to Hedley, as do others.

We're getting a new neighbor at the apartments. Jana Hoggatt and her small sons are moving in the apartment next to me. Jana's husband, Marine Staff Sergeant Johnny Hoggatt, is currently stationed in Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and has been ordered to Kuwait and possibly Iraq.

Watt's Happening

HEDELY • 856-5919

Jana's parents, Ronnie and Janie Hill, will go and help Jana and the boys move back to Texas while Johnny is overseas.

Johnny's parents are Johnny and Kathy Hoggatt, and his grandmother is Betty Hoggatt.

Don and Erma Lee Young of Wichita Falls have been visiting her mother, Ora Pearl Farris, for a few days. By the way, Happy Birthday, Ora Pearl.

Richard and Janet Conine of Amarillo visited her sister, Marie Adams, a few days ago. Janet recently had surgery on one of her feet. I can't remember if it was the left or right.

I talked with Karen Watson at the Paymaster Gin today, and she told me they had ginned 13,000 bales to date and had at least 5,000 bales on the yard and in the fields. This must be the best year for the cotton farmers ever. If it was bringing 2003 prices instead of 1945 prices, the farmer would be in good shape.

I don't understand it. Equipment and fuel costs have risen, and the price of cotton goods has risen; yet the raw cotton still brings the same price it did fifty years ago.

Things were different at the Methodist Church Sunday. The pastor, Gary Boles, had surgery Thursday, and the man who was supposed to fill in for him couldn't make it, so Bill Combs brought the message. He did a much better job than some preachers I have heard.

Bill and Tanya are in charge of the music and play Blue Grass on their guitar and mandolin. Tanya also plays piano for us to sing during the worship service.

My sympathy to Dorothy Brinson on the death of her aunt, Velma Castleberry.

Remember these tips to eat better for healthy 2003

The experts at Tufts University have some helpful tips for a healthy 2003. I would like to share these with you and remind you it takes 21 days to make or break a habit.

1. Don't eat unless you're sitting at a table. Wolfing something down while driving, working at your desk, or standing at the kitchen counter, you can't "hear" your body telling you when you're full. (It takes 20 minutes, on average, for the brain to notify the stomach that you've had enough.)

Along with a lack of attention, a lack of enjoyment from quick eating gets people consuming more than they should, too. Part of what people seek in a meal is good taste, pleasure, and relaxation. If those elements are missing, eating continues even after hunger is sated in a search for the more intangible satisfaction food is meant to bestow. This increases the chance for extra pounds to creep on, which raises the incidence of heart disease, diabetes, stroke, and cancer.

2. Prepare more of your own meals. If you never make your own dinner, try doing it once a week. If you do it twice a week, shoot for three times. You eat much more healthfully when you cook than when you eat out, take out, or order in. When put to the task of preparing dinner, most people intuitively include a vegetable or two (frozen is fine) to go along with a protein (like fish, chicken, beef, or beans) and a starch (like rice, potatoes, barley, or bulgur) - which is perfect.

3. Don't eat when you're not hungry. This is a tough one in a culture where boredom, anxiety, fatigue, TV ads, and food on every corner beguile eating. But it's worth paying attention to. When people eat in the absence of hunger, they often eat guiltily, which means quickly - too quickly to stop before the calories really pile up.

4. Savor what you're eating.

family care Corner
By Dawn Watson
COUNTY FCS AGENT

When you eat quickly and inattentively, you lose out on a lot of food's flavor. Consider that much of what we think of as taste is really smell. The taste buds can only detect a few things: salty, bitter, sour, and sweet. But as a person chews, a food's volatiles - odoriferous, gas-like substances - are released and "pumped" to the nose. The less you chew, however, the less you're going to be able to appreciate those differences.

5. Don't eat what you don't like. It would seem obvious, but it's not. Who hasn't had the fruit-flavored chocolates because they're the only ones left in the box when they really prefer the ones with nuts? What a waste of calories, not to mention satisfaction.

6. Follow the same principles in restaurants that you would at home. You should expect the same relaxed atmosphere in a restaurant as in your own home. If you feel rushed by the waitress; if you have to roar above the din to have a conversation; if you don't feel comfortable asking for special requests, like for some of your entree' to be packed in a doggie bag before it ever reaches your table, you're not in the right place.

7. Participate in some moderately vigorous physical activity each day. What does this have to do with slow food? Everything. Exercise helps with appetite control. Also, if you move your body appropriately, you'll want to fuel it appropriately instead of eating willy-nilly whatever's available. You'll take the time to plan, prepare, and partake of good-tasting, nutritious meals. In other words, one good behavior builds on another.

Duncan outlines priorities for '03

State Sen. Robert Duncan (R-Lubbock) said Monday that the legislative goals for West Texas in this tight budget year should be to maintain funding for higher education, plan for water needs, and reform the state's system of judicial selection.

"Higher education is a critical investment in our future," Duncan said. "The good news is enrollment is up; the bad news is we have to pay for it."

Instead of asking for additional funds, higher education leaders should focus on protecting the resources they now enjoy. An expected budget shortfall will make every dollar precious, Duncan said.

Evaluating future regional and statewide water needs was also called important.

"We must look years ahead to determine what water resources will be necessary to balance the needs of rural areas with those of urban areas," the senator said.

Duncan said a fair judiciary was necessary to ensure the effectiveness of laws protecting water, investing in education, or governing important state issues.

"A system of merit selection and retention elections would take the money out of this process," he said. "Until we fix this, tort reform issues will never be resolved."

Most people enjoy the presence of songbirds, deer, and other wild creatures. The Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District is selling trees and wildlife packets.

Tree plantings can support wildlife that add beauty and pleasure to our lives. Wildlife are attracted to trees and shrubs because they provide the best and sometimes the only cover in some areas.

Windbreaks when properly designed, offer nesting, roosting, loafing, food, and escape cover for a variety of wildlife. To attract wildlife, plantings don't necessarily need to be in windbreaks, but they can be placed in draws, arroyos, or other "unused" areas of the property.

Those species beneficial to wildlife that are sold by the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District are Evergreens, Red Oak Spruce, Little Walnut, Hackberry, Osage Orange, Honey Locust, Russian Olive, Shumard Oak, Caragana, Lilac, Bush Honeysuckle, Cotoneaster, Plum, Sumac, Nanking Cherry, and Sand Cherry.

The District also offers wildlife packets that include a variety of trees selected to attract a particular type of wildlife. Each packet includes 100 trees (25 each of four different kinds). They have packets for quail and pheasant, squirrel, turkey, and deer.

All trees sell out quickly. If you're interested in placing an order, call Mike at 874-3576 ext. 101 or come by the NRCS office at 4th and Sully as soon as possible.

Amy Polito Graduates

Amy J. Goossen Polito graduated from West Texas A.M. University on December 13, 2002, in Canyon, Texas, with a Bachelor's Degree in Environmental Science.

Amy and Tony set this goal for themselves three and a half years ago when they married. Most of the time they worked at it seven days a week. Amy drove from Clarendon to Canyon to school, studied on the weekends while Tony worked at his regular job in Clarendon and during his time off he repairs windshields and has a pest control business. They managed their time well and were able to have visits and holidays with both their families. They are members of Calvary Baptist Church in Clarendon.

All of Amy's immediate family attended, most from long distances. The two families went out to eat together after the graduation. On Saturday night they all met at the Red River Steakhouse in McLean and celebrated again.

Those attending to honor Amy were her husband, Tony; her mother and step-father, Crystal and Bill Black; her father, Ezra Goossen; her sister, Glenda and husband John Gast and baby Emma; and her sister, Lora and Chad Simpson and daughter Alyse of Clarendon. Also present for the event were Amy's in-laws Larry and Lynn Swanson and son Ryan of McLean.

Unable to attend but rooting for Amy all the way were Jeanette and Joe Bob Fish, grandmother and uncle of Tony; Dan and Sasha Fish, uncle and aunt of Tony; and his cousins, Taylor and Parker Daniel Fish of Alvarado.

Honoring Amy were those who love her and encourage her, those who throughout her life have helped her along the path she walks. Amy, we hope you will always think of two families as your bridge builders.

The Bridge Builder An old man, going a lone highway, Came at the evening, cold and gray, To a chasm, vast and deep and wide, Through which was flowing a sullen tide. The old man crossed in the twilight dim - That sullen stream had no fears for him; But he turned, when he reached the other side, And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near, "You are wasting strength in building here. Your journey will end with the ending day; You never again must pass this way. You have crossed the chasm, deep and wide, Why build you the bridge at the eventide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head. "Good friend, in the path I have come," he said, "These felloweth after me today A youth whose feet must pass this way. This chasm that has been naught to me So that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be. He, too, must cross in the twilight dim; Good friend, I am building the bridge for him," - Will Allen Dromgoole.

SAFETY TIPS To Live By

Safe At Home

Most people think of their home as a safe and comfortable place, but is your home as safe as it can be?

Here is a safety checklist for your kitchen to help keep you and your family Safe At Home.

- If you smell a faint natural gas odor near an appliance, the pilot light may need relighting. If the odor is strong and persistent or you hear gas leaking, leave the house, opening doors and windows as you leave. Do not use your telephone, operate any gas or electric appliances, light a match, or turn light switches on or off. Call GreenLight Gas from a neighbor's phone. After you've made the call, please remain at your neighbor's home and wait for emergency response personnel to arrive.
- If the appliance connector on your gas range is made of uncoated brass, it should be replaced immediately with either a new stainless steel or a new epoxy-coated connector. We encourage you to call a qualified plumbing or heating contractor.
- Never use a gas range, burners, or oven to heat your home.
- Don't wear loose-fitting, flammable clothing while cooking.
- Turn pot handles away from the edges of the stove and other burners to prevent burns.

Daugherty

Fannie McGowan Daugherty died December 14, 2002, in Chula Vista, California. Memorial Services were held in Chula Vista on December 19, 2002, with Reverend Starold Elliot officiating. She taught him in the first grade in Clarendon, and he is now Chaplain of the Arlington Police Department.

Fannie McGowan Daugherty was born September 10, 1919, in Clarendon. She grew up here and attended the local schools from Kindergarten through Clarendon Junior College (as it was known at that time). She graduated from high school at age 16; received a BA degree at West Texas State in Canyon, Texas, at age 20. Her teaching career began that fall.

After two years teaching at Tell Independent School District in Childress County, she returned to her hometown due to her mother's ill health. There she taught first grade in the same room where she was once a first grade student.

She became victim of chronic hayfever, sinus, and allergy problems. The doctor said, "There is no available serum that will help you. The only solution is for you to move to another climate. I suggest you go to Prescott, Arizona, for relief. Stay one year, come back, and let me check you."

She lived there three years; two she taught in the local school system. Later she moved to Phoenix and taught in the Creighton District. She taught during the day and attended night classes and Summer school to receive an MA degree in Elementary Education from Arizona State University in Tempe.

Another interesting thing took place while she lived in "The Valley of the Sun." She met and married her beloved husband, Emmett Daugherty. They continued the westward movement to Chula Vista, California. Fannie taught there until her retirement. This concluded her public school teaching career (and substituting) in three states for thirty years. Once a teacher, always a teacher, so after retirement, she continued to tutor Japanese students in English as a second language, plus American students in her home.

Her life-long desire to travel led her to 49 states, 51 countries, and 6 continents. She kept a journal of her travel, and spent endless hours to record numerous experiences in many albums and scrapbooks.

Emmett preceded her in death in 1983. They both donated their bodies to medical research. There is a memorial marker for Emmett and one for Fannie in the McGowan family plot in the Citizens' Cemetery in Clarendon.

She is survived by one brother, C.A. Wright of Clarendon; one sister, LaVerne Greene of Palestine, TX; and nine nieces and nephews.

Catoe

Helena Elizabeth Catoe died at the age of 80 Monday, December 30, 2002, in Amarillo, Texas. Services were held at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday, January 1, 2003, in the First United Methodist Church in Clarendon with Reverend Marty Hamrick of Amarillo and Reverend James Ivey Edwards, Pastor, officiating. Burial took place at Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon with arrangements by Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon.

Mrs. Catoe was born February 21, 1922 in Ashtola, Donley County, TX. She was a long time resident of Clarendon for several years before moving to Amarillo recently. She was a foster care parent for many years in El Paso. She was a public school math teacher for 28 years before her retirement. After retirement, she was an active volunteer in the Methodist Church in Clarendon. She was recently named to the Globe News-Volunteer of the Day for her work at Park Place Towers. She was a member of the Polk Street Methodist Church in Amarillo.

She was preceded in death by an infant son, one brother, and five sisters.

Survivors include one son, Leslie Catoe of Odessa; three grandchildren, Ivy, Daniel, and Bryan; one sister, Willa Cook of Amarillo; 11 nieces and nephews, Joe Lovell of Claude, Jim Lovell of Dumas, David Butler of Dumas, Jan Chandler of Amarillo, Lea Reynolds of Amarillo, Elaine Poovey of Stinnett, Bob Poovey of Yoder, CO, Kenneth Butler of Quanah, Dean Cook of Amarillo, Bill Ramsay of Borger, Patsy Robertson of Clarendon; and numerous great, great-great, and great-great-great nieces and nephews; and many special friends.

Casket bearers were Sam Lowry, Don Williams, Jim Shelton, Paul Bivens, Ted Shaller, Doug Lowe, Jack Moreman, and Williard Skelton.

Lady Broncos fall to Shamrock

By Sandy Anderberg
The Lady Broncos met a tall and quick Shamrock team in the beginning of district play at home against Shamrock Friday, January 3. The Lady Broncos fell short in their bid to defeat the Lady Irish, 62-36.

Things began rocky for the Lady Broncos in the first period after spotting Shamrock 14 points. The Lady Broncos hit a scoring spurt in the 2nd period, but it was too little too late.

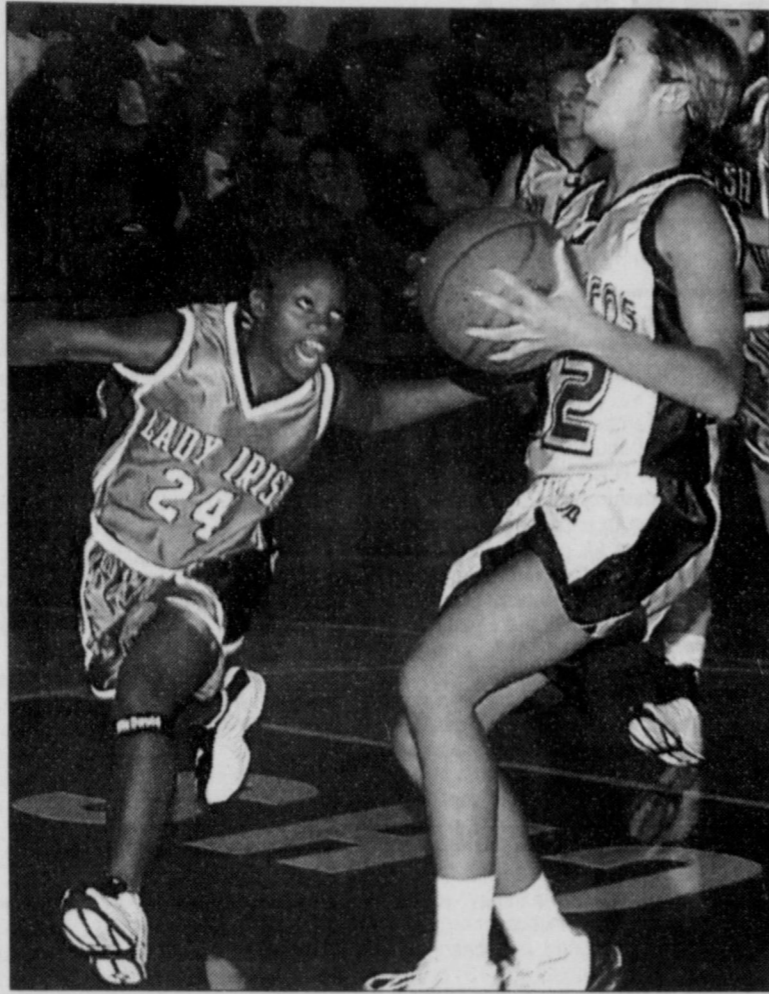

"Several turnovers and missed baskets put us in a hole in the first quarter that we could not come out of," said head coach Kathy Barton. "Shamrock is tall and quick and hard for us to match up with."

Barton is optimistic of the Lady Broncos' chance at a play off spot down the road.

"There is still a lot of district left; and our hopes are high, and our determination is strong."

Scoring: Haley Shelton 8, Brandi Martindale 7, Lacey Eads 5, Angel Williams 5, Kaitlyn Howard 4, Brandi Betts 4, and Claudia Thomas 3.

The Lady Broncos will take on Wellington Friday, January 10, and Claude January 14 at home. Both games will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Bronco JV beats Shamrock Irish

The Bronco junior varsity hosted Shamrock in their first District game and walked away with a four-point win over the Irish.

The Broncos took the early lead over Shamrock and persevered until the end for the victory. Good defense and fundamentally sound offense were the keys to the Bronco win.

"The guys came through and really played hard," said coach Brad Elam. "I was very pleased with the way they never quit playing hard. I was proud of their effort."

Scoring: Michael Henderson 19, Will Betts 11, Tim Sanchez 6, Michael Bruce 3, Stephen Ford 3, Matthew McCabe 2, and Juan Ramirez 2.

The Broncos will continue their district schedule Friday, January 10, at home against Wellington and Tuesday, January 14, at home against Claude. Both games will begin at 5 p.m.

Broncos suffer loss to Irish

By Sandy Anderberg
The Broncos opened their district season Friday night at home against Shamrock. Despite fighting hard, the Broncos lost, 59-47.

Shamrock grabbed the early momentum and jumped out to an early lead, causing the Broncos to play catch-up. The Broncos got things going their way in the second half, but the spread was too much to make up.

"We finished fairly strong," said head coach Wade Callaway. "We had a weak start, and it cost us. They are a much improved team from last year and we knew that, but didn't play well enough to win."

Scoring were Jeremy Howard 15, Todd Hoeltzel 11, Chase Thornberry 7, Tim Anderson 6, and Taylor Shelton 5.

Over their holiday break, the Broncos took on White Deer and Vega.

The Broncos defeated White Deer, which was a welcome win for the Broncos.

"We didn't play particularly well, but we won, which was nice to see," Callaway said. "We were down five points going into the fourth quarter, and the guys found a way to win it."

Scoring: Howard 21, Hoeltzel 20.

Things didn't go well against Vega as the Broncos fell short, 51-48.

"We were without Tim (Anderson), who has been a super leader for us all season, and also Drew Sell, so we were short handed at the guard spot," Callaway said.

Scoring: Howard 18, Hoeltzel 13, and Shelton 11.

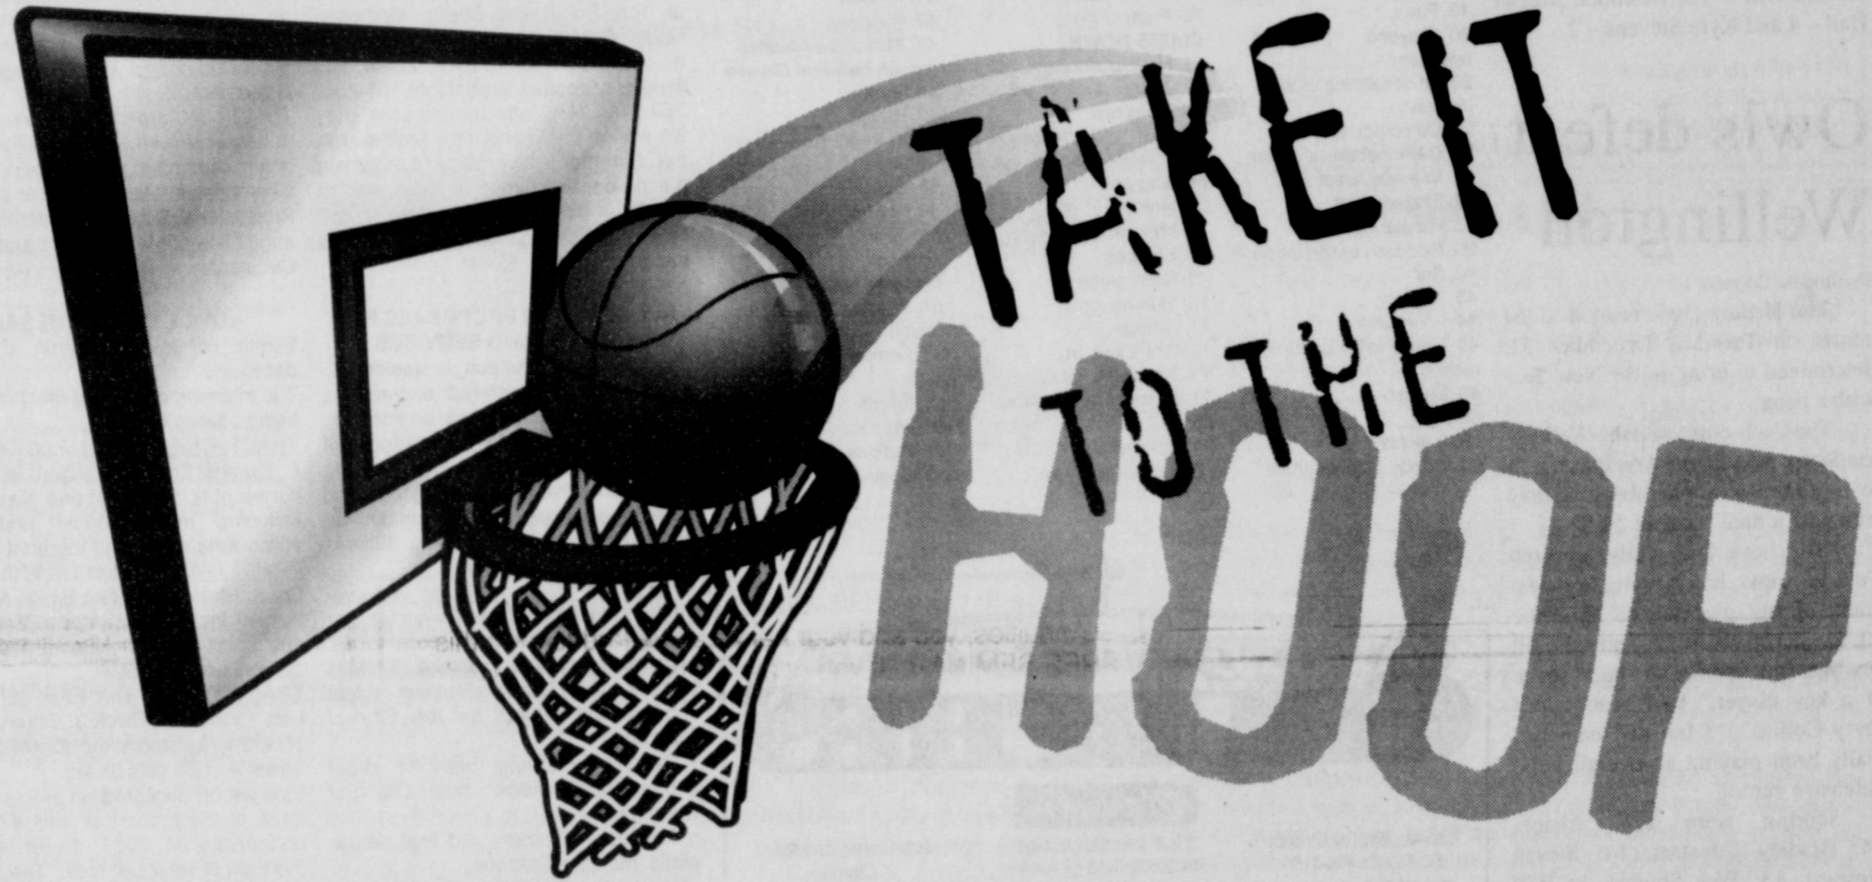

The Broncos face off at home against Wellington Friday, January 10, and Claude Tuesday, January 14. Both games will begin at 8:00 p.m.

Bulldogs, Lady Bulldogs set to play January 16

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs and Bulldogs' first home games of the New Year are set for January 16.

CC takes on Howard College in a double-header for the first home conference game. The Lady Bulldogs tip-off at 5:50 p.m. followed by the Bulldogs at 7:50 p.m.

For more information, contact the Clarendon College Athletic Director at (806) 874-3571.
