FAIR COMMISSION OKAYS $250,000 DRIVE
In the offing last week was a campaign to raise $250,000 by public subscription for Texas exhibits at the New York and San Francisco world fairs next year.
The Texas World Fairs Commission, in a meeting at Fort Worth, named Acting Governor Walter F. Woodul financial vice-chairman and placed him in active charge of the financial campaign. He was authorized to select sub-committees to help in the subscription drive.
Approximately $3,000 was subscribed by the commissioners to defray preliminary expenses of getting the campaign started.
Suggestion of the Texas Planning Board to construct replicas of the Alamo at both fairs was approved. The replicas would be air-conditioned and equipped for the showing of a special motion picture of Texas.
Meeting with the Commission, appointed by Governor Allred, was Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel, Karl Hobbittelle of Dallas, vice-chairman, president in the absence of Chairman Jesse Jones of Houston, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
Executive Secretary Paul Wakefield of Austin was prevented from meeting with the Commission because of illness. He underwent an emergency appendectomy in a Ft. Worth hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Odie Martin and son Jimmy left Friday on a vacation trip to visit relatives in Miss.

U. S. REVENUE COLLECTOR KEEPS TRACK OF 105 DIFFERENT TAXES
Whereas the average person has a headache once or twice a year worrying about income taxes, poll taxes, property and automobile taxes, a white-haired official in the Federal Building has to ride herd on 105 different kinds as well as to keep up with his own.
W. A. Thomas, United States Collector of Internal Revenue, denies that his job has anything to do with his white hair. He plunges gladly into a discussion of any kind of tax that you might mention except those on real estate which are left to the state and city to tax.
Nearly every new Congress passes a few more taxes for Mr. Thomas to collect and he takes them in his stride. The general public hears about the federal income tax, social security tax, remembers there is a tax on large inheritances, but never realizes that there are eighty special federal excise taxes alone on manufacturers.
Automobiles, cameras, chewing gum, furs, gasoline, oils, matches, mechanical refrigerators, radio sets, sporting goods, toothpaste, perfumes, leases of safe deposit boxes, tires and inner tubes and mouth washes are but a few that come under this classification.
NATIONAL FORESTS TOTAL ABOUT 172,000,000 ACRES
The National Forests now total about 172,000,000 acres. More than 15,500,000 acres had been acquired under the Weeks law for addition to the national forests at the beginning of the present fiscal year, reports the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Under the Weeks law as passed by Congress in 1911, land purchase are approved by the National Forest Reservation Commission consisting of the Secretary of War, Interior, and Agriculture, two Congressmen and two Senators.

In addition to the 15,614,115 acres which have become the property of the Federal Government, an additional 1,148,903 acres have been approved for purchase, and will come into Federal ownership as soon as title is cleared and payment completed. Much of the land purchased has been cut over or burned over and will require extensive rehabilitation to restore it to productivity.
The forest land purchase program has been speeded up in recent years, according to the Forest Service. A total of 11,081,417 acres has been approved for purchase since 1933. Previous to that time, 4,532,698 acres had been approved for purchase since the enactment of the law in 1911.

WHEAT PAYMENTS
Farmers who plant within their wheat acreage allotments this fall will be eligible for two types of payments on the 1939 crop, the AAA announces.
These will be a price-adjustment payment of from 10 to 12 cents a bushel on the normal production of the acreage allotment and an agricultural conservation payment of from 16 to 18 cents a bushel.
The farmer who exceeds his acreage allotment will not be eligible for a price-adjustment payment and his conservation payment will be subject to a reduction of 50 cents per bushel of the normal production of the excess acreage.
There will be no "parity" payment on the 1938 acreage allotment. Farmers who participated in the conservation program for 1938 will receive only the payments provided in that program.

Surgeon Advises Leaving Injured Gridder Lie
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Lives of football players can be saved if the injured person is allowed to lie until a physician can look after them, Dr. Frederick A. Besley of Illinois told the American College of Surgeons in a brief describing fractures for the college committee.
The dangers were described in a brief from the college's committee on fractures.
"Never lift an injured person or his head," the brief states, "until he has told you whether he can move his legs or fingers."
"If he cannot move his legs, his back is broken."
"If he cannot move his fingers, his neck is broken."

But at this stage, it was explained, the injuries are not necessarily fatal. Recovery depends largely on the "first move." A physician knows how to have such an injured person picked up and carried away without giving the broken vertebrae a chance to cut or damage the spinal cord.
"Contrary to this," said Dr. Besley, "it is common practice to roll him over, allow him to stand or even walk, or what is even worse to remove him from the field by having a few students carry him, causing great spinal angulation.
"The same applies to skull fractures which at the time may cause only temporary mental confusion.
"It is a disgrace for an educational institution to subject its students to careless and unscientific methods and not fully protect him in this great American sport."

The Classified Column will sell it.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion
Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.
The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other

TEMPLE OF TRUTH
 By the Apostle

Man does what nature falls to do, a lot of times. For instance the muskrat is not a rat at all. It is a double cousin to the field mouse. When its skin is sewed on a lady's coat, it becomes either swamp rabbit or Hudson seal. The buyer is willing to pay a lot more for such a coat because of the deception.

Since the cornea transferred from a rabbit into a man's eye has caused him to see again, there may come a time when we can have our eyes changed to suit. The fellow with goggle eyes may feel disposed to invest in an owl eye to permit him to see at night on one side, and a fish eye on the other to enable him to hunt treasure under water. Just think what a bunch of fish-eyed guys could find on some of the sunken bullion carrying ships!

When an editor and a minister call upon an editor in another town, you may be assured that at least two of the three are in good company.

I don't own a dog. They have a way of getting too deeply into one's heart. And then something happens. When my babies were small, their constant companion was an extra large Newfoundland dog that did everything except talk, and he was a past master at making himself understood with dog signs. That dog was poisoned. He explained his trouble through dog language of signs. He was buried with all the solemnity that little boys could muster. Flowers and tears fell upon his grave among the mesquites where he had chased cattle away from helpless tots who knew no danger. There are things we wish we could forget. But that picture keeps coming back. Hell must be filled up with dog poisoners, a little boy said, that morning.

You have no doubt heard of a man "turning yellow" when time came to show the stuff that was in him. But it was up to the Chinese to prove it the past week.

Talking to a man back from California recently, he termed that state the place of the nut, prune, and lemon. I asked him what he meant by that expression. He said "when a nut gets short on money and full of prunes, he hikes out for California where they only hand him a lemon."

A fellow in describing the fine homes in New Orleans says even the termites wear silk slippers when they gnaw at the foundation.

Looking over the old books in the local Museum Monday recalled my first days in school. The Blue-Back speller and the McGuffey series of readers were the only books used at that time. Our school house was a small affair made of logs and the benches were split logs with stobs in them for legs. The architect had the mechanics bore holes underneath the logs, on the round side, for the stobs. Never having been to school before, I set my little red coffee bucket under the edge of the porch. When noon came and the rush was made for lunch, I found an old red sow had appropriated my bucket and had spilled the food on the ground and messed my affair up to a total loss. The teacher, Mrs. Dave Turner, shared her lunch with me. Older boys and girls will recall the mottoes the teacher wrote on an improvised blackboard for us to copy to "learn how to write." Among these copies that have remained with all of us older folks are "Honesty is the best policy." Another read "Procrastination is the thief of time." Another that never did seem to work out just right ran "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." Anyhow, it was a great day. My next teacher was Miss Hattie Weldon, a sister of attorney Finley Weldon late of Wichita Falls. Last heard of her in Arizona years ago. The only teacher I can locate is Mr. I. H. Terry of Stamford, than whom no finer fellow ever lived, and my very best teacher of the lot.

Do our youngsters really act the fool now? Below is some of the calling for a square dance that we had back in our foolish days in the dim and shadow distance of near a half century:
 S'lute yer pardners, let'er go,
 Balance all and do-se-do,
 Swing your girls an' run away,

Right an' left and gents sashay. Gents to right an' swing or cheat. On to the next girl and repeat. Balance next and don't shy. Swing your pard and swing her high. Bunch the girls an' circle 'round. Watch her feet until they bound. Form a basket, break away. Swing and kiss an' all get gay. Al'am and left and balance all. Lift yer hoofs and let 'em fall. Swing yer opsites, swing again. Kiss the sage hens of your kin. Back to pardners, do-se-do. All join hands and off ye go. Gents salute yer little sweets, Hitch and all promade to yer seats.

That mess was all mixed up with Old Zip Coon, Molly Put the Kettle On, Hell Among the Yearlins, Billy in the Low Ground, Georgia Camp Meetin', Chicken Reel and a lot more classics coined as feet made pitter-patter on a rough floor. Barbecue, sour dough biscuits and coffee for supper, midnight and breakfast was the custom in the pioneer Panhandle. Often several cakes and pies were mixed in. It was a great night and often lasted for three days. "A good time was had by all" when the population was scarce where every man was a hero and every woman a queen.

Star Shooting Mirror Is Second Largest Made

AUSTIN—The polishing of the 82-inch mirror for the McDonald Observatory of The University of Texas has been completed and it "can be safely accepted," according to information received by President J. W. Calhoun from Dr. Otto Struve. Dr. Struve is joint director of the McDonald Observatory, situated on Mount Locke, in the Davis Mountains, and the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago.

"Tests made on October 15 indicate that the great 82-inch mirror is finished," Dr. Struve wrote University officials. "The surface is a paraboloid of 319.66 inches focal length and the actual figure of the glass does not depart from the mathematical shape by more than about one-millionth of an inch. This extraordinary degree of perfection is the outcome of exactly four years of gruelling work of grinding and polishing on the part of C. R. Lundin, optician for the Warner and Swasey Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

"The 82-inch mirror is at the present time the second largest finished astronomical mirror in the world. It is surpassed only by the 100-inch mirror at the Mount Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Calif. After the completion of the 200-inch mirror of the California Institute of Technology, the Texas mirror will rank third in the entire world."

Cal Holland says they are making quite a crop in the Brice country. Cal had business here Monday, but hurried back to look after his store business.

CLIPPING FAKERS

Better disregard letters promising "an important clipping bearing your name" in exchange for twenty-five cents. The clipping will be sent, as promised, but you will discover it is of no importance—very likely from your home town newspaper reporting your attendance at prayer meeting last Wednesday night, or similar.

Save the two bits and prevent the realization that even at your present age they can still play you for a sucker.

HOWARD PREDICTS PASSAGE OF TAX REMISSION BILL

Remission of half of Harris county's state ad valorem taxes for 10 years to be used for flood control purposes is a question that is certain to come up before the Legislature next session.

The measure passed the Legislature last year, but was vetoed by Governor Allred.

Last week, Rep. George Howard of Houston predicted the measure would be enacted without much difficulty.

"We have an incoming governor who warmly indorsed the Harris county project last spring and heartily renewed his indorsement of it after his nomination. So we are assured in advance of executive approval, and there is no reason to apprehend any change in the sentiment of the Legislature," he said.

IN "BOYS TOWN" SPENCER TRACY ESSAYS UNPRECEDENTED FEAT OF PLAYING A MAN LIVING TODAY!

For the second time in his career Spencer Tracy has played a part which his entire nature rebels against. It is the role of Father Edward J. Flanagan in "Boys Town," which will be shown at the Pastime Theatre beginning next Wednesday. His reasons are easy to understand when expressed by the star himself.

"Once before I played the part of a priest," Tracy says. "It was as Father Tim in 'San Francisco.' I fought against taking that part, not because it wasn't respectful and factual but because I didn't consider myself capable of playing the role of a priest. I still think no one can properly portray such a character without having lived as

one. Maybe I'm not a real actor but I do know that one can be confronted with a particular role that demands more than is in one's power to give.

"This time, instead of putting a fictitious person on the screen I played the part of a great man who is still alive. I'll never be the man Father Flanagan has proven himself to be. Long after I'm forgotten Father Flanagan will go down in history's pages as one of the greatest humanitarians of the twentieth century. And I'm supposed to be that man in a screen version of his life. It was a tough assignment."

Boys Town has existed for twenty-five years. During that period 4500 boys have graduated from the community. They made their own way. Not a single one of those boys has run afoul of the law. Not a single one has his name on a police record.

"I've awakened nights, seeing 4500 pairs of eyes looking at my impersonation of Father Flanagan," declares Tracy. "Every one of the lads who graduated from the town will be seeing the picture and I'll be the object of their criticism."

"One thing, I have had Father Flanagan on my side. He told me many things which helped a lot in making him real on the screen. I think he would have had a far easier time playing the role of Spencer Tracy than I had of playing him. Many's the time he must have put on an act through the twenty-five years which saw Boys Town grow from a group of four youths into an institution which is making men of 200 boys. I'm willing to wager that he is far better an actor than I am."

FARM SECURITY FAMILIES YEAR ROUND GARDENS

Farm Security Administration families are now turning their attention to small frame gardens for their winter supply of fresh greens and lettuce.

Twenty of these gardens have been made in Hall and Donley counties and many others are planning on making their frame garden as soon as harvest is over.

The cold frame garden once was only used for early greens in the spring, but is now being called the year round garden for Farm Security families in the Texas Panhandle counties.

Insufficient moisture, drifting sand, hot burning winds, hail, frost, insects, and dust storms have caused the farmers to select a small plot of soil to provide vegetables for the families use.

In making the frame garden, select a garden plot that is on the south side of the house, barn, or earth tank, so as to protect the garden from shifting sand or wind.

The dimensions of the garden should be four or five feet wide and any desired length. Four or five feet wide is suggested for the convenience of cultivating and harvesting from each side.

The side walls of the frame garden should be 12 inches in height, 18 inches high garden walls have proven expensive by having the cover broken or torn by the weight of dogs or chickens jumping on the frame. Scrap lumber, old tin, or any material may be used for the side walls. 1" x 12" planks nailed together to make the side walls and wire, or 1" x 1" strips nailed across the frame every five feet to support the cover, is suggested. Tow sacks, cheese cloth, muslin cloth, cotton sacks, or any available material is used for the covering. The covering is tacked down on one side and some means of holding the covering down at the ends and other side provided—an iron rod is preferred. The cover is used from planting time until the harvest is over. It is rolled back only for weeding, watering, or vegetable gathering.

The soil over which the frame is to be placed should be fertilized with well rotted manure and spaded up to a depth of ten inches or more. If the garden is to be sub-irrigated, the tile should be placed first. A trench ten inches deep is used, allowing 5 or 6 inches of soil above the tile for vegetable planting.

We have found No. 2 tin cans very successful tile. Both ends are removed from the cans. They are placed end to end to insure an even distribution of water. The end is left in the last can so as to back up the water. 14 inches of an old inner tube may be tied around the first can, and this tube left protruding for the water entrance into the cans. Four or five thicknesses of newspaper are placed over the intersection of the cans to keep dirt from slipping into the cans.

The garden should be sprinkled daily until the vegetables have a growth of two or three inches. Then should be sub-irrigated once a week. If the garden is not sub-irrigated, watering may be done from a hose or a sprinkling pot and should be sprinkled daily, or kept damp.

The vegetable rows are planted 5 or 8 inches apart, being planted the narrow way to make cultivation easier. If a leafy vegetable is planted in the first row, then a root vegetable should be planted in the next row, etc. We find the leafy vegetable matures more quickly and is used first, leaving room for the root plant to develop. As soon as the vegetables are used, rows are replanted, so that vegetables may be had the year round.

Restocking Range Grass On Finch Ranch Near Hedley

HEDLEY, Oct. 26.—Within three growing seasons, one of which was unfavorable, grass spreading from native sod has almost covered a large dam constructed on the F. A. Finch ranch, eight miles south of Hedley early in 1936, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

Finch, who owns 13 sections of range land, was facing a serious erosion problem in 1935 when the Soil Conservation Service OCC demonstration camp was established at Memphis. Water, rushing down the steep slopes which had become denuded of much of the vegetation during the continued drought, was causing sheet erosion and gullying. Spots of the range also were becoming susceptible to wind erosion.

Working in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service in an effort to solve his erosion problem, Finch contour furrowed some of his range land to hold the water where it fell so that it might seep into the soil to improve grass growth.

Then, early in 1936, he constructed a dam to catch the excess rainfall that ran down the slopes, thereby checked the cutting of gullies by the runoff water and at the same time created a pond for the use of his livestock.

Finch fenced the dam to prevent the structure being damaged by the trampling of livestock, and then sodded the barren dyke to provide protection against both water and wind erosion which might destroy its usefulness.

The dam was spot sodded with native buffalo and blue grama grasses in the spring of 1936, the clumps of grass being placed a foot and a half apart. Sweet clover was planted on the structure to add nitrogen to the soil and to aid in grass growth.

Although the 1936 growing season was unusually dry, 95 percent of the sod survived and made a fair growth, Superintendent Everett McBride of the Memphis Soil Conservation Service camp reports.

This year, during a heavy rain on June 14, water was discharged through the diversion channel which is 500 yards long with outlets at 50-foot intervals. This distribution of water has resulted in a considerable increase in grass growth on the contour furrowed area below. The earthen fill of the dam, which is protected by a fence, now is practically covered with grass.

Finch has increased his pasture grasses by the use of contour furrows, and the dam provides a pond of water for use by his livestock. At the same time, gullying and sheet erosion have been checked by the soil conservation structures.

FARM PRICES DROP

Prices of farm products dropped three points in August, the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports.

This decrease represented a loss of the 3-point gain made in July and put prices back on the level prevailing in May and June.

August prices of nearly all crops were lower, influenced in large part by above average production prospects. Prices of dairy and poultry products, veal calves, and wool were slightly above the July figures but most meat animal prices declined.

Joe Bownds is moving his town house to his farm near town.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH
 By the Apostle

Man does what nature fails to do, a lot of times. For instance the muskrat is not a rat at all. It is a double cousin to the field mouse. When its skin is sewed on a lady's coat, it becomes either swamp rabbit or Hudson seal. The buyer is willing to pay a lot more for such a coat because of the deception.

Since the cornea transferred from a rabbit into a man's eye has caused him to see again, there may come a time when we can have our eyes changed to suit. The fellow with goggle eyes may feel disposed to invest in an owl eye to permit him to see at night on one side, and a fish eye on the other to enable him to hunt treasure under water. Just think what a bunch of fish-eyed guys could find on some of the sunken bullion carrying ships!

When an editor and a minister call upon an editor in another town, you may be assured that at least two of the three are in good company.

I don't own a dog. They have a way of getting too deeply into one's heart. And then something happens. When my babies were small, their constant companion was an extra large Newfoundland dog that did everything except talk, and he was a past master at making himself understood with dog signs. That dog was poisoned. He explained his trouble through dog language of signs. He was buried with all the solemnity that little boys could muster. Flowers and tears fell upon his grave among the mesquites where he had chased cattle away from helpless tots who knew no danger. There are things we wish we could forget. But that picture keeps coming back. Hell must be filled up with dog poisoners, a little boy said, that morning.

You have no doubt heard of a man "turning yellow" when time came to show the stuff that was in him. But it was up to the Chinese to prove it the past week.

Talking to a man back from California recently, he termed that state the place of the nut, prune, and lemon. I asked him what he meant by that expression. He said "when a nut gets short on money and full of prunes, he hikes out for California where they only hand him a lemon."

A fellow in describing the fine homes in New Orleans says even the termites wear silk slippers when they gnaw at the foundation.

Looking over the old books in the local Museum Monday recalled my first days in school. The Blue-Back speller and the McGuffey series of readers were the only books used at that time. Our school house was a small affair made of logs and the benches were split logs with stobs in them for legs. The architect had the mechanics bore holes underneath the logs, on the round side, for the stobs. Never having been to school before, I set my little red coffee bucket under the edge of the porch. When noon came and the rush was made for lunch, I found an old red sow had appropriated my bucket and had spilled the food on the ground and messed my affair up to a total loss. The teacher, Mrs. Dave Turner, shared her lunch with me. Older boys and girls will recall the mottoes the teacher wrote on an improvised blackboard for us to copy to "learn how to write." Among these copies that have remained with all of us older folks are "Honesty is the best policy." Another read "Procrastination is the thief of time." Another that never did seem to work out just right ran "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." Anyhow, it was a great day. My next teacher was Miss Hattie Weldon, a sister of attorney Finley Weldon late of Wichita Falls. Last heard of her in Arizona years ago. The only teacher I can locate is Mr. I. H. Terry of Stamford, than whom no finer fellow ever lived, and my very best teacher of the lot.

Do our youngsters really act the fool now? Below is some of the calling for a square dance that we had back in our foolish days in the dim and shadow distance of near a half century:

Swing your partners, let'er go,
 Balance all and do-se-do,
 Swing your girls an' run away,

 Gents to right an' swing 'or cheat,
 On to the next girl and repeat.
 Balance next and don't shy,
 Swing your pard and swing her high.

Bunch the girls an' circle 'round,
 Watch her feet until they bound.
 Form a basket, break away,
 Swing and kiss an' all get gay.
 Al'am and left and balance all,
 Lift yer hoofs and let 'em fall.
 Swing yer opsites, swing again,
 Kiss the sage hens of your kin.
 Back to partners, do-se-do,
 All join hands and off ye go.
 Gents salute yer little sweets,
 Hitoh and all promade to yer seats.

That mess was all mixed up with Old Zip Coon, Molly Put the Kettle On, Hell Among the Yearlins, Billy in the Low Ground, Georgia Camp Meetin', Chicken Reel and a lot more classics coined as feet made pitter-patter on a rough floor. Barbecue, sour dough biscuits and coffee for supper, midnight and breakfast was the custom in the pioneer Panhandle. Often several cakes and pies were mixed in. It was a great night and often lasted for three days. "A good time was had by all" when the population was scarce where every man was a hero and every woman a queen.

Star Shooting Mirror Is Second Largest Made

AUSTIN—The polishing of the 82-inch mirror for the McDonald Observatory of The University of Texas has been completed and it "can be safely accepted," according to information received by President J. W. Calhoun from Dr. Otto Struve. Dr. Struve is joint director of the McDonald Observatory, situated on Mount Locke, in the Davis Mountains, and the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago.

"Tests made on October 15 indicate that the great 82-inch mirror is finished," Dr. Struve wrote University officials. "The surface is a paraboloid of 319.66 inches focal length and the actual figure of the glass does not depart from the mathematical shape by more than about one-millionth of an inch. This extraordinary degree of perfection is the outcome of exactly four years of grueling work of grinding and polishing on the part of C. R. Lundin, optician for the Warner and Swasey Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

"The 82-inch mirror is at the present time the second largest finished astronomical mirror in the world. It is surpassed only by the 100-inch mirror at the Mount Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Calif. After the completion of the 200-inch mirror of the California Institute of Technology, the Texas mirror will rank third in the entire world."

Cal Holland says they are making quite a crop in the Brice country. Cal had business here Monday, but hurried back to look after his store business.

HOWARD PREDICTS PASSAGE OF TAX REMISSION BILL

Remission of half of Harris county's state ad valorem taxes for 10 years to be used for flood control purposes is a question that is certain to come up before the Legislature next session.

The measure passed the Legislature last year, but was vetoed by Governor Allred.

Last week, Rep. George Howard of Houston predicted the measure would be enacted without much difficulty.

"We have an incoming governor who warmly indorsed the Harris county project last spring and heartily renewed his indorsement of it after his nomination. So we are assured in advance of executive approval, and there is no reason to apprehend any change in the sentiment of the Legislature," he said.

IN "BOYS TOWN" SPENCER TRACY ESSAYS UNPRECEDENTED FEAT OF PLAYING A MAN LIVING TODAY!

For the second time in his career Spencer Tracy has played a part which his entire nature rebels against. It is the role of Father Edward J. Flanagan in "Boys Town," which will be shown at the Pastime Theatre beginning next Wednesday. His reasons are easy to understand when expressed by the star himself.

"Once before I played the part of a priest," Tracy says. "It was as Father Tim in 'San Francisco.' I fought against taking that part, not because it wasn't respectful and factual but because I didn't consider myself capable of playing the role of a priest. I still think no one can properly portray such a character without having lived as

one. Maybe I'm not a real actor but I do know that one can be confronted with a particular role that demands more than is in one's power to give.

"This time, instead of putting a fictitious person on the screen I played the part of a great man who is still alive. I'll never be the man Father Flanagan has proven himself to be. Long after I'm forgotten Father Flanagan will go down in history's pages as one of the greatest humanitarians of the twentieth century. And I'm supposed to be that man in a screen version of his life. It was a tough assignment."

Boys Town has existed for twenty-five years. During that period 4500 boys have graduated from the community. They made their own way. Not a single one of those boys has run afoul of the law. Not a single one has his name on a police record.

"I've awakened nights, seeing 4500 pairs of eyes looking at my impersonation of Father Flanagan," declares Tracy. "Every one of the lads who graduated from the town will be seeing the picture and I'll be the object of their criticism. "One thing, I have had Father Flanagan on my side. He told me many things which helped a lot in making him real on the screen. I think he would have had a far easier time playing the role of Spencer Tracy than I had of playing him. Many's the time he must have put on an act through the twenty-five years which saw Boys Town grow from a group of four youths into an institution which is making men of 200 boys. I'm willing to wager that he is far better an actor than I am."

FARM SECURITY FAMILIES YEAR ROUND GARDENS

Farm Security Administration families are now turning their attention to small frame gardens for their winter supply of fresh greens and lettuce.

Twenty of these gardens have been made in Hall and Donley counties and many others are planning on making their frame garden as soon as harvest is over.

The cold frame garden once was only used for early greens in the spring, but is now being called the year round garden for Farm Security families in the Texas Panhandle counties.

Insufficient moisture, drifting sand, hot burning winds, hail, frost, insects, and dust storms have caused the farmers to select a small plot of soil to provide vegetables for the families use.

In making the frame garden, select a garden plot that is on the south side of the house, barn, or earth tank, so as to protect the garden from shifting sand or wind.

The dimensions of the garden should be four or five feet wide and any desired length. Four or five feet wide is suggested for the convenience of cultivating and harvesting from each side.

The side walls of the frame garden should be 12 inches in height, 18 inches high garden walls have proven expensive by having the cover broken or torn by the weight of dogs or chickens jumping on the frame. Scrap lumber, old tin, or any material may be used for the side walls. 1" x 12" planks nailed together to make the side walls and wire, or 1" x 1" strips nailed across the frame every five feet to support the cover, is suggested. Tow sacks, cheese cloth, muslin cloth, cotton sacks, or any available material is used for the covering. The covering is tacked down on one side and some means of holding the covering down on the ends and other side provided—an iron rod is preferred. The cover is used from planting time until the harvest is over. It is rolled back only for weeding, watering, or vegetable gathering.

The soil over which the frame is to be placed should be fertilized with well rotted manure and spaded up to a depth of ten inches or more. If the garden is to be sub-irrigated, the tile should be placed first. A trench ten inches deep is used, allowing 5 or 6 inches of soil above the tile for vegetable planting.

We have found No. 2 tin cans very successful tile. Both ends are removed from the cans. They are placed end to end to insure an even distribution of water. The end is left in the last can so as to back up the water. 14 inches of an old inner tube may be tied around the first can, and this tube left protruding for the water entrance into the cans. Four or five thicknesses of newspaper are placed over the intersection of the cans to keep dirt from slipping into the cans.

The garden should be sprinkled daily until the vegetables have a growth of two or three inches. Then should be sub-irrigated once a week. If the garden is not sub-irrigated, watering may be done from a hose or a sprinkling pot and should be sprinkled daily, or kept damp.

The vegetable rows are planted 5 or 8 inches apart, being planted the narrow way to make cultivation easier. If a leafy vegetable is planted in the first row, then a root vegetable should be planted in the next row, etc. We find the leafy vegetable matures more quickly and is used first, leaving room for the root plant to develop. As soon as the vegetables are used, rows are replanted, so that vegetables may be had the year round.

Restocking Range Grass On Finch Ranch Near Hedley

HEDLEY, Oct. 26.—Within three growing seasons, one of which was unfavorable, grass spreading from native sod has almost covered a large dam constructed on the F. A. Finch ranch, eight miles south of Hedley early in 1936, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

Finch, who owns 13 sections of range land, was facing a serious erosion problem in 1935 when the Soil Conservation Service CCC demonstration camp was established at Memphis. Water, rushing down the steep slopes which had become denuded of much of the vegetation during the continued drought, was causing sheet erosion and gulying. Spots of the range also were becoming susceptible to wind erosion.

Working in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service in an effort to solve his erosion problem, Finch contour furrowed some of his range land to hold the water where it fell so that it might seep into the soil to improve grass growth.

Then, early in 1936, he constructed a dam to catch the excess rainfall that ran down the slopes, thereby checked the cutting of gullies by the runoff water and at the same time created a pond for the use of his livestock.

Finch fenced the dam to prevent the structure being damaged by the trampling of livestock, and then sodded the barren dyke to provide protection against both water and wind erosion which might destroy its usefulness.

The dam was spot sodded with native buffalo and blue grama grasses in the spring of 1936, the clumps of grass being placed a foot and a half apart. Sweet clover was planted on the structure to add nitrogen to the soil and to aid in grass growth.

Although the 1936 growing season was unusually dry, 95 percent of the sod survived and made a fair growth. Superintendent Everett McBride of the Memphis Soil Conservation Service camp reports. This year, during a heavy rain on June 14, water was discharged through the diversion channel which is 500 yards long with outlets at 50-foot intervals. This distribution of water has resulted in a considerable increase in grass growth on the contour furrowed area below. The earthen fill of the dam, which is protected by a fence, now is practically covered with grass.

Finch has increased his pasture grasses by the use of contour furrows, and the dam provides a pond of water for use by his livestock. At the same time, gulying and sheet erosion have been checked by the soil conservation structures.

FARM PRICES DROP

Prices of farm products dropped three points in August, the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports.

This decrease represented a loss of the 3-point gain made in July and put prices back on the level prevailing in May and June.

August prices of nearly all crops were lower, influenced in large part by above average production prospects. Prices of dairy and poultry products, veal calves, and wool were slightly above the July figures but most meat animal prices declined.

Joe Bownds is moving his town house to his farm near town.

We are face to face with the day when a soft religion will not impress a hardened world. To the real Christian that is a glad day because it calls forth the heroic in undertaking the seeming impossible. The path of least resistance leads to the place of least importance. Many people today seem to be satisfied with letting things alone as they are. Many Christians never resolutely face anything worthy of their best. We shun real issues, evade real challenges, recoil from the direct, frontal, head-on approach to any major obligation. That is not the spirit of Christianity. We must be aggressive and progressive if we expect to maintain our place of leadership as a world force. The world trailblazers got out of old ruts, crossed new mountains, charted new seas, launched new movements, ventured new projects, dared new worlds, explored new heights, and ushered in new epochs. The day of pioneering in Christianity has just begun, let us take our place and maintain the lauded profession that we are Christians and the war clouds of the isms that bid fair to destroy civilization will vanish like a mirage before a fast moving automobile.

 Regular services at the Baptist Church Sunday. We will be happy if you are there. Baptismal service following the evening preaching service.

BENNIE RANDALL CASE CLOSED BY COURT

The case against Bennie Randall, Colorado county, sentenced to be executed for criminal assault upon a 77-year-old woman, was closed by the Court of Criminal Appeals last week.
 The court overruled a motion for re-hearing, having previously affirmed the sentence. The assault occurred during a burglary.

HAVE YOU A SKUNK IN YOUR YARD?

Most homes have these nights. Skunks by the dozens roam the city every night. Up at the Crockett Taylor home they have become tame, coming right up to the porch. The pests dig worms in yards, the grub worm being their favorite, it is said. U. T. Fowler put out poison when the skunks molested his poultry. As a result, little Jerome, Byron Scott's dog, famed as an outcast in recent stories, went to the happy hunting ground for dogs. The skunks are of the double narrow stripe variety and are seen every night in several places in the main part of town. Old-timers say this never happened here before.

MUSEUM SIDELIGHTS

The Donley County Museum is again the recipient of some interesting donations and loans. Mrs. Carrie SoRelle recently presented a large steel engraving, mounted in an antique frame of velvet and gilt, of Cornelia, the mother of the Gracchi, the noble Roman matron, who, on being asked to show her jewels, took her two children by the hand, saying, "Behold, my jewels." This picture has been in

Mrs. SoRelle's family more than half a century.

Mrs. A. C. Arnold has loaned a spinning wheel, which was made by her father, James L. Young, in 1848 in Missouri. His wife used it in making the clothing for their family, and she continued to weave her husband's socks on this wheel until her death in 1910.

Mrs. J. B. McClelland has preserved in the museum a copy of a program for a Faculty Recital given in Clarendon College in 1917.

Miss Mamie McLean has added to the list of exhibits a hand-painted table-runner, made in 1900 by Miss Ann Bobo, a pincushion 50 years old, and a German belt buckle brought from Europe after the World War. Mrs. Rayburn Smith has loaned a collection of fancy-work, consisting of baby caps and dress, table runner, embroidered satin center-pieces, mittens, organdy dress, lace blouse, and an old patch-work quilt.

Beginning Nov. 5th, and lasting through the following week, membership tickets will be sold for the Museum, at one dollar for a year's membership. The object of this drive is to raise money for additional show-cases, since there are now more exhibits than can adequately be placed on display. Also funds are needed to promote the pioneer quarters of bedroom, kitchen, and parlor now begun, and for heating the Museum during the winter. It is hoped that many will purchase these tickets, thus forming a personal alliance with the Museum. This splendid institution is growing rapidly and is becoming an outstanding educational feature in the community.

Presenting Clarendon Junior College

By Dorthea Watson

Economics treats of man in his relation to wealth. It tells how men make a living and how they make a better living. It is concerned with the production of wealth, how wealth is divided among the various members of the community, and how wealth is used. Economics deals with subjects in which everyone is interested. Such subjects as the protective tariff, public ownership of railroads, money and banking, stocks and bonds, labor problems, and monopolies are of concern to each of us. The main object in the study of economics is to teach us to think correctly on economic questions.

There are several economic motives. Self interest is a powerful motive to induce men to work, but this is usually an enlarged self interest. Social esteem is also a motive. Men like to be well thought of in the community in which they live and will shun employments of which their friends and companions regard as dishonorable or degrading. Another motive to economic activity is the desire for employment. For real men and women, loafing is the hardest kind of work. The instinct for association is another motive for activity. People want to do what others are doing, and in the United States, where most people are working, it is the fashion to work.

Society may be regarded as an organism and every person has a service to perform for the common good. All persons who can work and do not, are not only hurting themselves but are injuring society. Every science has some relation to economics, but history and sociology are especially helpful. From history we learn the experience of men and can avoid the mistakes and profit by the successes of those who have preceded us. Since the economic life of man is closely related to his other activities, sociology is helpful to the student of economics. For convenience in treatment, economics is divided into three sections: The consumption of wealth, the production of wealth, and the distribution of wealth. Each section is closely related to the others.

There is no reason to doubt that economic progress will be as great in the future as it has been in the past. A larger production of wealth will give more comforts to the people and more time for education and recreation.

This is the reason so many students are studying economics. They realize that the world will soon be entirely dependent upon them. Thus, they demand an excellent economics course. Clarendon Jr. College students are proud of the economics department in this school. And last, but not least, credit must be given to the teacher of this course. In the two years that he has taught economics, classes have increased tremendously. Each year, our College is improving, and some day, not so far away, we will be proud to say that the Clarendon Jr. College is the best in the state.

OLD TOWN TALES

Very few people of this day ever knew that Old Clarendon had exciting moments. At least one would infer such moments when it becomes known that Old Town actually had a "saloon." An emporium of that nature back in 1884 was bound to have induced some to come to town to celebrate, and celebrating in that early day was something to make the dogs run under the house. The saloon was operated by two men, Andy Jackson and Frank Fleming. Frank continues to have a number of relatives in this section, whose names are omitted because of obvious reasons.

Quite naturally a saloon did not fit into the scheme of "Saint's Roost." Something had to be done, and done it was. The people made up money, bought the saloon and turned it into a church building. It was in that church that the first school was taught. Possibly every term until the town was moved. Al Gentry was the first elected sheriff of Donley county, and was sheriff at the time the saloon existed. This information, most exciting as it is, was brought to light through a chance conversation with Mrs. Al Gentry Monday. She became a citizen of Old Town in 1883, moved with the town and continues to live here, a highly esteemed citizen well qualified to speak for the historic past of pioneer days.

Memphis Man Is Low Bidder On Short Highway Job

Sam Leal Jr. of Memphis was low with a bid of $23,284 on 3.6 miles of feeder highway from Clarendon south, when bids were opened at State Highway headquarters in Austin Tuesday. The bid must be approved by Federal Bureau of Public Roads before work is begun.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Scott and children spent the week end with relatives in his old home town of Granbury, Texas.

Funeral Services Held For Pioneer Clarendon Postman

Charles J. Lewis Dies In Washington Sunday

Funeral services for Charles Lewis, pioneer assistant postmaster of Clarendon and brother of W. J. Lewis and Mrs. B. W. Chamberlain of this city, were held in Fredrick, Maryland Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Lewis died Sunday in Washington, D. C. where he has resided for the past 30 years. He had been ill for over a month.

Lewis was born in Fredrick, Maryland and came to Clarendon with his father, C. J. Lewis, early day cattleman. He served in the local post office under his father and went to Washington 30 years ago as an employee of the government custom house. He was a collector of the port in the customs department at the time of his death.

LUBBOCK RELATIVES HERE

YOUR home may be next. You never can tell. If fire should come, and you're not insured, neighbors' sympathy won't help you pay the bill. And a $1,000 policy won't cover a $2,000 loss, so be certain you have ENOUGH fire insurance. We'll be glad to tell you. No obligation.

Many Visitors In Reid Home Recall Former Years

One of the old-time customs whose value has not diminished through the years, is that of relatives and friends gathering in a home for the day. Such an event was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reid Sunday.

Among those to enjoy the hospitality of this home and the neighborly spirit of association were Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hinkle, Miss Stella and R. B.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barker and children; Mr. and Mrs. Doyce Graham; Miss Ivy Dea Hinkle of Wichita Falls; Miss Nina Lee Mahon of Kirkland; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watson and children of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hinkle and children of Amarillo.

Donley County Men Arrange Radio Broadcast
