No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 15, 1881. Gentl.:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

The Bessemer steel men have succeeded in making a sensation by the announcement that they would have to close their mills in consequence of falling of in demand for rails and fallen prices. But it appears that in this are a variety of elements—one to get iron at a lower price; one to head off the iron men against reducing to fifty cents a ton the duty on ore, of which in 1881 782,387 tons were imported for Bessemer use; one is to head off the movement to lower the enormous duty of twenty-eight dollars a ton on steel rails.—World.

We have not elected a full quorum of stockmen to seats and votes in the next legislature of Texas, but there will be a good sprinkling to rally to and around, if stockmen will only determine to hold up their hands. We have a dead-load of suggestions to make this little crowd after awhile, in the interest of our patrons and friends, but "one at a time" is perhaps the best plan. Our suggestion this week is for stockmen in the legislature to pull together in favor of having a liberal appropriation made to the end that necessary steps shall be taken to suppress contagious diseases among our domestic stock. We haven't been extravagant in our calls on the law-makers of the state, hence feel that we have a right to expect of their hands very considerable consideration now. Texas stockmen demand this much, at least, of the next legislature.—Texas Stock Journal.

ALBANY, November 25.—The remains of the late Thurlow Weed arrived here on the steamer Drew early this morning and were taken to St. Peter's Church. The coffin was opened at 10 o'clock, and the remains were viewed by an immense crowd. At 2 o'clock a brief funeral service was held, the Rev. W. W. Battershall, D. D., rector of the church, officiating. The edifice was crowded. Among those present were the family and relatives, the staff of the Evening Journal, the paper founded by Mr. Weed, and 200 employees of the printing-house of Weed, Parsons & Co.; delegates from the Typographical Union, the Burges Corps and the city newspapers; General Meredith Read, John H. Van Antwerp, Adjutant-General Townsend and George Dawson. At the conclusion of the services the remains were placed in the receiving vault. As the cortege passed from the church minute guns were fired.

Value of Newspapers.

Newspapers, says somebody, are valuable to material prosperity. They advertise the village, country or locality. They spread before the reader a map on which may be traced character, design and progress. If a stranger calls at a hotel, he first inquires for the village newspaper; if a friend comes from a distance, the very next of the family greeting he inquires for your village or county newspaper, and you feel discomfited if you are unable to find a late copy, and confounded if you are compelled to say you do not take it. The newspaper is just as necessary to fit a man for his true position in life as food or raiment. Show us a ragged, barefooted boy rather than an ignorant one. His head will cover his feet in after life, if he is well supplied with newspapers. Show us the child that is eager for newspapers. He will make the man of market in after life, if you gratify that desire for knowledge. Other things being equal, it is a rule that never fails. Give the children newspapers.—Williamsport Breakfast Table

Matches.

Some of the smaller conveniences of modern life seem so natural and indispensable to us that it is not easy to think of the time when people had to do without them. Yet less than a hundred years ago there was no gas in the houses or the streets, and the only illumination was that of dingy oil lamps. We now have not only mineral oils, which give a brilliant flame, but also electricity and gas, and not only gas, but self-lighting gas-fixtures.

It is scarcely more than half a century ago that matches were invented, and before them the flint and steel were used in lighting fires and lamps.

"The first matches," says an exchange, "were about six inches long, capped with sulphur, and caught fire easily from the spark of the flint. In 1825, an elaborate apparatus called the 'euphyron' was in general use in the cities. This was a large-mouthed bottle containing sulphuric acid, soaked in fibrous asbestos, and the matches, which were about two inches long and sold for twenty-five cents a box, were tipped with a chemical combination of which chlorate of potash was the principle ingredient. When the end of the match was dipped into the acid and rapidly withdrawn fire was produced. But the acid was inconvenient, the matches were likely to be spoiled by damp, and the euphyron soon went out of use.

"In 1832, the first friction match was made, and it was jokingly called a lucifer. Lucifers were substantially the same as our present matches pulled through a piece of sandpaper. The only change since then has been, altering it from a silent to a noisy match, and the invention of the safety fuse, which will ignite only when rubbed upon chemically prepared paper.—Youths Companion.

Are Women Better Dressed than Men?

Science has investigated the absorbent and radiant powers of different fibers and different colors, but man, in his wisdom, disregards this, and prefers the worst instead of the best. Woman may expose her brain to the direct rays of the sun by wearing a small, useless bonnet, but fashion compels her to carry a parasol to compensate for it. On the other hand fashion—not so cruel as she is painted—is equally in favor of large hats, with useful brims. Not so with men. Broad brims are tabooed, and parasols are not permissible. With regard to the neck, man has no choice; a collar he must wear, and one fitting close to the neck and reinforced by a cravat or tie. To women alone is granted the comfort of low-necked, half-low, heart-shaped or loose fitting collars. The body, or trunk, is no better off. Man must wear a stiff white shirt, a vest, and a lined and padded coat. Woman needs but one (visible) garment, which may be as light and as thin as possible without being transparent. It is even doubtful whether the tightly drawn corset, that object of universal use which is so violently denounced by the opposite sex, causes more discomfort than the numerous articles with which man surrounds himself; for physiologists have learned that woman can breathe with the upper part of the lungs (thoracic breathing), and therefore, suffers less from tight-lacing than man. As regards the arms, matters are pretty evenly balanced, with the odds in favor of the woman, who may shorten her sleeves as much as she pleases, and in no case wears more than one long-sleeved garment, where a man wears three. Cuffs she may dispense with but he cannot. Her sleeves need not be lined; his must, unless of very thick material.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

A watch always manages to go on tick, but let a man try it, and he don't get along very fast. He is speedily wound up tight, and it's no go.—Meriden Recorder.

Liabilities for Injury to Patients During Operation.

The decision of Judge McAdam, in a recent suit before the Marine Court of this city, brought by Thomas J. Kelly against the dentist Colton, to recover for injuries caused by allowing a piece of tooth which was being extracted, to drop down the plaintiff's throat while he was under the influence of laughing-gas, is one full of importance, not only to dentists but to general surgeons as well. It is for four weeks thereafter the plaintiff was troubled with a cough until he finally expectorated the piece.

The court held that while a patient was under the influence of an anesthetic which deprived him of the use of his faculties the operator was bound to exercise the highest professional skill and diligence to avoid every possible danger, and in this case it was the opinion of the court that the circumstances shown were sufficient to carry the case to the jury on the question of negligence.

The judgment appealed from was in favor of the plaintiff for $500 damages, and this judgment was affirmed by the present decision.—Scientific American.

Amuse the Children.

To provide for their material wants is not all-sufficient. Give the children something pleasant to do or to think about, a block house to build, a puzzle to put together, paper to cut, bubbles, a stick to whittle, a picture to paint or look at, a scrap-book to arrange, a top to spin, dough to make into cakes to bake for themselves, a wheelbarrow and a little shovel to dig sand, anything to keep them busy and happy, for a busy child is a happy child, and if you have rightly managed his employments, a good child. It is not a waste of time for parents to stop their work long enough to pet a child, to tell him a story, or play a rollicking game. When parents take time from worldly thoughts and plans to cultivate a sympathetic friendship with their children and each other, they are doing a good work and are sowing seed that will spring up and bear abundant fruit.—Ex.

Christina's Story.

By Sarah Pollock in Chicago Advance.

"Papal does Wine choke folks sometimes" said irrepressible Frankie Allen, bursting into the dining-room near the close of the Thanksgiving dinner, at which he had just assisted to the full extent of his ability.

"No my son. Do not ask foolish questions." "Then what makes Christina say she cannot drink the wine you sent out to the kitchen for her Thanksgiving dinner 'cause would choke her? I'll go right out and ask her."

"I'll go too," said Mabel. "May I papa?" Their father consented, and while he was enjoying a social hour with his friends over their Thanksgiving wine, his two children besigned their friend Christina, who told them the following story as she washed and polished the great pile of dishes and placed them in proper array.

"I was born in a town at the foot of one green mountain in Norway, and whenever my work was done, I would run away up the mountain side and sit by my comrade Lena Thorson, as she was watching the cows and sheep. There was not so fine a girl around the fjord as Lena. Her eyes were like the sea—sometimes they were blue and sparkling; sometimes they were gray and deep. Her brow was just so white as pearl, and her cheeks like the wild roses that grew by the mountain path. No one was so loving to her friends and so strong to help them as Lena. She used to sing so happy as she watched her sheep that the wild rocks answered her song and told it from peak to peak. Von day as we sat on a rock that stood out far above the others, she lay her knitting in her lap and take down her long, thick hair that shine like gold in the sun, and she comb it with her fingers and say, 'I will no more watch the sheep of Farmer Laurson on the mountain in the rain and the kalt, for next week Gustave will wed me and he has a little farm of his own. He is too good for me, for he have been to the school and have learn much, but he say he love me best of all, and you must come to my wedding.'

"So the next week Lena was ved in the old church, and while the priest he pray for god to bless them, the sun it shine again on Lena's hair like the new gold. And when they went to Gustave's home they gif to all a glass of good old vine, for Gustave's fader have left him money and he was richer than the oder peasant young men. Lena she take her glass and drink it, and her eyes shine like two stars.

"There is not in all this big new country so sweet, so beautiful a place as Lena's home. The wild rocks rise up behind it. The ferns and mosses grow everywhere in the cracks, and Lena could stand in her front door and look down at the town on the shore, and away across the fjord at the blue mountains on the oder side. She used to laugh at the heavy, old oak door and say it was made to defy the storm-king that came up from the fjord, and she said the fjord laughed with her, she was so happy.

"By and by there came a little boy to Lena's home, and Gustave he take him to the church and name him Hans for the fader. And then we go home with them and we all drink the red, old vine again, for good luck to the baby.

"Hans he grow like a,—what you call it,—a veed, but Lena she no longer sing so much, and sometimes she say the fjord looked sad. I wondered what was the matter, and after a while I saw that Gustave drink so much of the vine that his nose grow just so red as the vine was. Then it grow darker and darker in the home. The cattle and the sheep they grow not so many on the little farm. Gustave he sit much in the drink shop, and Lena work much out in the rain and kalt. Sometimes Gustave walk very crooked in the street and he fell down in the mountain path. As little Hans grew older, he came to our house sometimes late at night, and his eyes be very red. The mountain path was very long and steep for the little feet, but Hans never say out word. But I knew something was the matter in the home."

"What was the matter? What made Gustave fall down?" said Mabel with wide-open eyes.

"Because his head was so heavy."

"What made it so heavy!" put in Frankie.

"It was the vine and the beer and the visky. Now you must keep still or I will tell you nothing more." "When Hans was about eight years old God sent Lena a little girl-baby, and when I go to see her she say, 'O Christina, I am so glad for my little girl that I will never be sad any more. And Gustave say that he will stay at home with us and not go to the drink shop any more. Well, they take the small girl to the church, and the priest he name her Karina for the old moder, but her eyes be blue and her hair be gold, just like Lena's. And when we come home with them, Lena she give us the best she haf in the house to eat, but she say, 'I will have no more the vine, for it takes the peace out of my little home and the joy out of my heart.' Special Correspondance.

Dear Mac.—Since my last communication we have had a taste of winter in Wisconsin, and after a year in the "ethereal mildness" of Texas it is very severe. There has been one flurry of snow and the ground is frozen hard. Overcoats, mittens and warm wraps generally are in order. We hug the fire-side and long for a climate less adapted to the white bear and the Esquimaux.

The past year has been a very prosperous one generally, in Wisconsin I never saw business as active here at this season of the year as now. Every one seems to be busy and hopeful, except the inveterate croakers, a few of whom, I am sorry to say, still live. To their vision a panic is just visible above the business horizon. It is surely coming—they can smell the grease on the red hot axles—and they warn everybody not to venture on board of any business craft. These fellows are always left at the depot with their thumbs in their mouths.

Large amounts of money have been invested during the year in pine lands in Northern Wisconsin, whilst considerable amounts are still locked up in pine lumber here awaiting a market. This makes money a little scarce here just now. Crops have been good throughout the state, but the farmers being in easy circumstances, have not yet commenced to move their grain.

Owing to the heavy rains and the sudden freeze, the roads are horrible. We notice large numbers of ladies and gentlemen about the cities here on horseback. One might, for a moment almost fancy himself in Texas, except that the horses are all large Kentucky horses. They are fine looking but not as nimble, graceful and easy riders as our Texas saddle horses. It would be a good speculation to ship a car load or two of good saddle horses up here. The only drawback would be the fact that our Texas horses do not remain sufficiently docile when they become "big fat."

I find that a number of parties from Oshkosh and vicinity have gone to Texas and invested in the cattle business. They are all doing well, and everybody is inquiring about the stock-raising business. The spirit of enterprise of this age is wonderful. There is general alarm felt by the more thoughtful throughout the country, in view of the scarcity of beef cattle here. All the beef cattle of the state are consumed and the butchers are now slaughtering the two-year-olds. Beef in the shops, so far as we have observed, is thin and light, and shows but very little fat. The beef-producing business is more susceptible of actual calculation, as to the future, than any other business in the world.

The city of Oshkosh, our present home, has taken wonderful stride ahead during the past year. Street railways traverse the streets; a new opera house is in process of construction; a large number of very fine residences have been built, and the Wisconsin Central Rail Road has extended itself from Neenah down through Oshkosh and Fond du Lac and thence to Milwaukee. The main depot for our city in the business center of town, and the probabilities are that a considerable business will be done here by that road. Another road is in contemplation from our city to some point in Northern Wisconsin, making an outlet at this point for the logs and lumber of the north.

This is quite a literary center, being the seat of the largest Normal School of the state, besides a good system of well-conducted city schools and several select schools and a large and well managed Business College. There have been several changes in the faculties of the Colleges of the State. The serious difficulty at Appleton, in regard to the President of Lawrence University, resulted of Prof. Sawyer, the most prominent man in the faculty, retiring and he has taken a position in the faculty of the State Normal School here. He takes the position formerly occupied by Prof. Graham now State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Religiously there seems to be a complete and terrible death. A deadness, such a characterized the middle ages, seems to have fallen upon the church. This is especially true in respect to the Methodist Church. Her membership has suffered a serious decrease in the state during the past year, and there is a sad lack of ministers to supply the pulpits. A general feeling of dissatisfaction prevails among ministers and members and a manifest spirit of disquietude is shown in power and authority in the church. In many cases, congregations have diminished to almost nothing, and many of the leading and wealthy men have withdrawn from the church. What the final result will be none can tell.

We regret to hear of the loss by fire that Clarendon has sustained. An insurance agent ought to do good business there.

THE FEES IN THE PRESIDENT'S CASE.—The public is at present being treated to a discussion about the fees of physicians and surgeons in connection with those handed in by the attendants of President Garfield. It is obvious, says the Med. and Surg. Reporter, from the amount of the money placed at the disposal of the committee, that Congress did not contemplate paying claims of any such magnitudes as have been put in. Probably the public also are of this way of thinking. The total amount of the fees claimed by the physicians is $55,000, or, including the relative claim, $110,000—considerably more than $1,000 a day. In spite of our desire to support the profession in its just rights, we acknowledge that it staggers us.—Scientific American.

"Magnificent promises sometimes end in paltry performances." A magnificent exception to this is found in Kidney-Wort which invariably performs even more cures than it promises. Here is a single instance: "Mother has recovered," wrote an Illinois girl to her Eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her liver complaint."

What Sustained Them.

They were standing together where the thickly-clustering vines that clambered about the porticos of her father's palatial mansion cast their deepest shadow. His manly shoulder supported her classically feminine head as she spoke these words: "What is it that sustains us, Reggie, when clouds of adversity shut out the blue sky of affluence, when the vanities and ambitions of life have fallen about us like leaves in autumn when the voice of late sounds in our ears like the dirge of midnight winds as forests of pines, and there are no sweet song birds warbling in the bowers of hope—what is it that sustains us, Reggie?" He pressed his lips to her half closed eyelids, and, in a voice tremulous with happiness answered, "Gin"—Brooklyn Eagle.

HOME NEWS

Sam Dyer is in from Grand Vista.

Mr. J. F. Evans was in from his ranch Thursday.

E. G. Cone drove in on the south stage Monday.

The weather was sufficiently cold on Wednesday night to freeze over all the creeks in this section.

Geo. Smith is off to Mobeetie for a short vacation. He left on the stage Tuesday morning early and a flying.

Patent Medicines, of every description, for sale at the Drug Store.

The meeting to have been held Wednesday night for the purpose of making arrangements for a Christmas Tree was postponed on account of bad weather.

Koogle's outfit have been in town this week. They came through with a load of posts for Evans' ranch. The drivers are all going down into the state to spend the winter with relatives and friends.

C. Goodnight, John Mann, and John Farrington have returned from Mobeetie. Mr. Goodnight arrived on the Wednesday night stage and remained to attend the meeting of the Commissioners Court which was in session Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Plink received sixty bushels of shelled corn for Richards & Sacra, on Thursday. Two four-mule teams brought the corn from the south. They unloaded at the East Wing of the Drug store, which Richards & Sacra have rented for a store room.

We express thanks to Mr. A. T. Drake, of Washington City, for a specimen copy of the Evening Star, published at Washington City, it is a large and well edited paper containing all the congressional as well as the city news.

Do not forget that one week from last Wednesday the Literary Society will be held at the White House in the evening. A good programme will be prepared and the meeting made as interesting and entertaining as possible.

New invoice of fresh drugs and medicines just received at the Drug store. Prices reasonable.

Mr. L. B. Nall, foreman for Evans' ranch, and W. H. Oliver start south this week. Mr. Oliver will spend the winter with his people. Mr. Nall will go to Millsap, and will probably start his family for Clarendon immediately upon his arrival at Millsap. They will probably reside in Clarendon permanently. They will be welcome to our midst.

T. S. McClelland's surveying outfit pulled into town on Wednesday from surveying, and right glad did they seem to get back home again. They report a successful trip and a fine time. Their genial faces once more are seen in their accustomed places. All with the exception of Mr. Otey who is somewhat foot-sore from continued walking, are in exceptionally fine spirits.

Walter Kimball was seen the other morning to lead a pet out over the hill to give it an airing. It was noticed that although the pet was led it was at the end of several yards of rope. We would suggest that Mr. K. ought to have aired the pet to the leeward of town instead of the windward for many of the citizens prefer to purchase their perfume and so have the privilege of selecting the scent even at the cost of cents.

That Camphor Ice at the Drug Store cures sore lips like a fresh kiss. Try it.

The recent high wind came near unroofing several houses in town, besides playing havoc with everything that was loose.

Don't fail to call at the Drug Store and examine those splendid new buck skin gauntlets. They are the finest ever offered in Clarendon and every pair is warranted genuine buck. They are all Sample gloves.

We now have on our exchange table Texas Siftings and it is about as full of interesting matter as it can possibly be, and for a paper partaking largely of the lugubrious it cannot be surpassed. If it is the wish of anyone to have a good laugh they should read Siftings with its power of fun.

We advise every farmer or stock raiser to invest in Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders and feed them out to their herds this winter. Depend upon it it will pay big interest. Don't buy the large packs as some of them are worthless.

Mr. Kowalski is in a much better condition, his hand is rapidly improving and has commenced to heal. Blessed with the best of care and attention his recovery must of course be rapid. We found him flat on his back with his hand pillowed on a chair beside him, and taking matters as cool as possible. He says the folks have the advantage of him now but that they will have to look out after awhile when he gets well.

Now we know the cause of the high winds of Wednesday. We learn that Miss Venus took a notion in her head to cross "Old Sol" but we infer from the wind she raised that he had very serious objections to being thus disturbed in his daily tour, and endeavored to bluster her back to her proper place in space but she insisted on going ahead and she did it.

Jim Burdick dropped in on us Saturday and related in his jovial manner the adventures that had befallen him since his last visit to Clarendon. After chatting pleasantly for several minutes Jim went on to say that he was in great straits and wished us to help him out and explain to him the meaning of a certain word which he gave us to understand had never before been used in connection with his name. Having asked him what the word was he replied that it was the word "pretty". We turned Jim over to Webster's Unabridged and left him to himself for a few minutes, having found it he waited out of the door with a smile on his face that betokened great internal emotion.

Commissioners Court convened on the 7th inst, A. Bartlett Commissioner Precinct No. 1, presiding. The bonds of the following officers were examined and approved, viz. B. H. White, Clerk of District and County Courts, A. Gentry, County Sheriff, J. G. Murchick, County Attorney, J. T. Otey, Assessor, T. S. McClelland, Surveyor, W. D. Kimball, Treasurer, P. E. Golather, Inspector, J. J. Stanton, J. P. Precinct No. 4, W. H. Oliver, Constable Precinct No. 4.

Not an experiment or cheap patent medicine is Brown's Iron Bitters. It is prepared by one of the oldest and most reliable chemical firms, and will do all that is claimed for it.

The cold wave struck us slap bang about 4 o'clock Wednesday evening making everything "pop," the wind increased in fury till just after dark when it reached its maximum intensity, the thermometer in the meanwhile tumbling down with fearful recklessness causing everybody to hunt for warm quarters. The effect upon the inhabitants of Clarendon was magical, instant, the man of the house broke for his respective wood pile, little or big, and vigorously proceeded to carve off an armful of cottonwood chips or mesquit knots for a fire. The weather while being a heavy test on the woodpile is also an extremely great strain on the moral and physical composition of the man, for whoever has had to rustle wood from a dry cottonwood log knows only too well the difficulties lying dormant therein. We can't help but notice that some of the ladies display quite as much vigor as the men in the wood-chopping business. We have our opinion of those ladies husbands.

At last the event which has been the discussion of our learned and scientific men all over the world and which they have been looking forward to for so long a time, has occurred the transit of Venus, Wednesday Venus crossed the sea and all of the agitation of the people generally died out, and all they look forward and wait for is to hear the opinion of the learned delegations which have been sent out from almost all parts of the world. It is to be hoped that they will make a report which when published will be adapted to the understanding of the masses of the people. The transit occupied the time between the hours of 7 A. M. and 3 P. M. We hope that in our next issue we will be able to give our readers at least a synopsis of the reports of the gentlemen of the delegation.

It is a dangerous thing to neglect a cough or cold or any difficulty of the throat or lungs. Lose not a moment in getting a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. You can rely upon it to cure you. It is also a sure preventive of diphtheria.

Prof. Thos. J. Bryant, President of the well-known Bryant's Business College, at St. Joseph, Missouri (which will send its circulars to any address free) has published a "Chart of Double Entry Book-Keeping" which, (though purposely small—eight 16 mo. pages) is the result of many years experience as accountant, counselor and teacher, and contains information of great utility to every accountant and such others as have occasion to test the accuracy of books, financial statements of business calculations, or to detect counterfeit money. Postage stamps received. It will be sent to any address on receipt of $1.

Make your old things look like new by using the Diamond Dyes and you will be happy. Any of the fashionable colors for 10 cents.

A band of Indian hunters, composed of Buffalo Bill, Wild Bill, Texas Jack, Mexican Ben and California Joe started for the plains from Ithica, Mich, not many days ago. They had an idea that the Indians were plentiful in the vicinity of Peoria, Ill. The ages of these bloodthirsty young scalp-hunters ranged from twelve to four teen years. They had not gone very far when they were captured by pale faces and sent back home for castigation.

D. W. Van Horn & Co. will close out all summer goods at cost from their stores at Fort Elliott, Mobeetie and Clarendon—to make room for a large fall and winter stock.

What is one man's meat is another man's poison. Some of our leading physicians say that pork is unhealthy food—but, unless prejudiced, not one of them will insinuate that Swayne's Ointment is not the best remedy for Tetter, Ringworm, Scald Head, Barber's Itch, Prairie Itch, Piles, Erysipelas, and all Eruptions of the Skin. Every druggist in the land keeps Swayne's Ointment. Try one box and you will never be caught without the remedy in your family afterward.

Everybody has heard the railroad "sell" about the cow-catcher having a calf. That thing came to pass on the A. and N. road last week. When the fast train from the south approached Troy Junction, a fine looking calf was perched up on the cow-catcher. When the train stopped, the engineer and fireman released the calf, and it bounded away briskly, having received no other injury than some slight bruises. The train ran into a bunch of calves on the track in the neighborhood of Doniphan, killing two and picking this one up. It had been carried in that way for eight miles. Dodge-City Times.

Cheap Coffee.

New York, Nov. 25.—There was a heavy decline in the prices of coffee in the wholesale market to-day. Quotations were lower than they have been since the panic of 1857. The stock in the market is estimated at 190,000 bags. No failures have yet been announced, although it is known that several firms have lost heavily. Philadelphia World.

DIPHTHERIA JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 3 letter-stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, MASS.

OLD MOTHER SHIPTON.—Considerable "stock" was taken in what Mother Shipton said would come to pass in the year 1881 by those who are ready to swallow down every whim that floats along; but these same persons will suffer from having all sorts of humors for years, before they will believe that fifty cents' worth of Swayne's Ointment will effectually cure them. Ministers, judges, lawyers and even physicians have testified to its merits. Try it.

Stock Notes.

The Dodge City markets for Texas beef, continue quite lively and the shipments from that point are still considerable. Prices are fair.

The Dominion Cattle Company—W. P. Herring, manager—has eight head of imported Herefords now in quarantine at Quebec that will come direct from there to the west. The company also has on the road from Quebec twenty-nine Polled Angus cattle from the herd of Hon. J. H. Pope that are said to be very fine. A portion of these cattle will be kept in Kansas and the balance go to their ranch in the Panhandle of Texas.—Kansas City Indicator.

Fine Sheep Coming to Texas.

New York, Nov. 10.—The steamship Herimada which arrived here today from Havre had on board fifty one sheep of the famous Rambouillet breed, some of which are worth over $500. This is the largest lot of this kind of sheep ever imported to the United States, and the only one imported during the last thirty-eight years. These sheep are imported by Mansi Carp, of Texas, and notwithstanding a hard voyage, they are in splendid condition.

One More Cattle Company.

A commercial dispatch to the Galveston News, dated the 20th inst., says that the Francklyn Land and Cattle company (limited), capital, $2,000,000. President Charles G. Francklyn, of the Inman line of steamers, has just been chartered under the laws of the state of New York. They have purchased, in round numbers, 700,000 acres from the New York and Texas Land company (limited)—the International and Great Northern railroad Land company—at an average price of $1.25 per acre. Lands are situated in Carson, Gray and Hutchinson counties. Their agent, Mr. B. B. Groome, of Louisville, Ky., is now in the Panhandle with posts, wire, etc., and a force of men to fence the entire purchase, and the immense tract is now being stocked with cattle. The connection of the Inman line of the steamers with this enterprise indicates the intention to enter largely into the shipping of stock to England.—Stock Journal.

The cattle business of South America is ultimately destined to be an immense business. We see by the English papers that some of the ranchmen from South America are buying Herefords in England. On the 8th of July Mr. E. Grasset, of Wetmore, sold to Messrs. Humphries & Daniels, of Rosario, South America, three choice Herefords. Mr. Daniels had been in England some time, and returned to South America on the 9th of August. Mr. Grasset has been selling Herefords for a number of years for exportation to South America, he having sold Mr. H. J. Stephens of Buenos Ayres, many valuable animals, and has shipped him as many as fifteen in the last two years. He has also shipped Herefords to Messrs. Strange & Smythies, of Rosario, South America. The produce of these cattle and the thrift of the cattle themselves is what has influenced Messrs. Humphries & Daniels to buy Herefords, as they had been using short-horns, but had concluded to use Herefords in the future.—Breeders Live Stock Journal.

Fine Stock for Texas.

The rapid advance in live stock in Texas the past year and the increased wealth among ranchmen, has greatly stimulated the demand for fine stock from its people. Mr. J. D. Duckworth of Belton, Mo., the well known fine stock dealer, shipped from our city Thursday, of last week 28 head of graded heifers to Gunter and Evans of Sherman, Texas, 26 head of half-breed heifers to J. H. Stone, Gainesville, Texas, a pair of fine carriage horses to same and a nice single driver for Jot Gunter, Sherman, Tex.—Price Current.
