Texas Republicans began early voting Monday in the statewide primary runoff election for railroad commissioner.

Incumbent Railroad Commission Chairman Victor G. Carrillo, who received 49.6 percent of the primary vote last month, faces Robert Butler, who had 24 percent of the primary vote. They are the only names for statewide office appearing on this ballot.

Early voting continues through Friday, April 9, 2004, in the clerk's office in the Courthouse Annex.

The runoff will be held next Tuesday, April 13, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. with all precincts voting in the Commissioners Courtroom of the Donley County Courthouse.

Hospital district to sell breakfast burritos

The Donley County Hospital District is going to be making and delivering homemade breakfast burritos Saturday, April 17.

The cost is $2.00 each or six for $10.00, and all proceeds will benefit the American Cancer Society Relay for Life.

Orders can be made by calling 570-3076 on Thursday, April 15, or Friday, April 16, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Delivery times will be 8 and 10:00 a.m.

The $500 scholarship is offered in the name of the late VFW Post member who was an asset to both the Post and the community. The Donley County VFW and the National VFW were responsible for contributing over $4,600 in scholarships to the students of Donley County during the past four years.

Applications and qualifications can be picked up at the VFW or at the either high school office.

Slater C. Elza, of Underwood Attorneys and Counselors at Law, will present legal issues facing today's healthcare professionals. Cost is $10.

For information on the workshop or the nursing program, call Sharon Rust at (806) 874-3571.

Combs forces more cafeteria changes

By Ashlee Kidd, Clarendon Enterprise

If your child didn't like eating in the school cafeteria this year, chances are they'll be even less likely to want to eat there next year following mandatory changes handed down by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs.

New nutrition policies from Combs' office that take effect August 1 require schools to eliminate all fried foods and to limit the portion sizes and fat and sugar contents of other food items. In addition, portion sizes for food items such as chips, cookies, bakery items and frozen desserts at elementary, middle and high schools are limited.

"This policy is the result of months of collaboration with experts and interested individuals around the state who consider children's health and education a top priority," Combs said. "We want to ensure that foods served in our schools are nutritious and balanced, and we are dedicated to promoting an environment that nurtures both mental and physical development."

But Clarendon ISD Superintendent Monty Hysinger says that while the intention of the policy may be good, it is continuing to handicap cafeteria workers in serving a variety of foods for students.

"The policy may very well do away with the a la carte line that we serve junior high and high school students," Hysinger said. "I think we will have some kids that will just skip lunch and others that will start bringing their own lunches from home."

Connie McKinney, Clarendon school cafeteria director, is also concerned that students will skip meals if the a la carte line is removed due to the new policy removing all fried foods from the cafeteria.

"If I can't serve kids chicken strips and cheese sticks, I'm afraid they won't eat anything."

McKinney said that the deep fryer has to be removed from the school by 2006 and that all foods that once were fried must now be baked, including French fries, corn dogs, and burritos.

"We tried baked burritos last week, and we noticed the kids didn't like the change."

Combs' portion restrictions limit servings of baked French fries to three ounces, which McKinney says would probably be the equivalent of six or eight fries.

If CISD doesn't follow Combs' mandate, the school can lose up to $1.20 at breakfast and $2.19 at lunch in federal reimbursements for each meal lost to a competitive food sale.

But Hysinger says that if children do not eat in the cafeteria, that could also affect the school's federal funding through the National School Lunch Program.

"If they don't go through the line, we're not reimbursed," Hysinger said and noted that these types of changes could raise the cost of preparing meals.

"A lot of the changes Combs forces us to make change our financial input. We still have to hold down the cost, but we have to make the

Strayhorn levels criticism at governor

Calling on Governor Rick Perry to act immediately, Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn told the Texas Association of Counties last week that Gov. Rick Perry is failing the state by throwing thousands more children off their health insurance plan, refusing to deal honestly with the school funding crisis, and by stripping local control away from local governments.

"It's time for the hemorrhaging to stop. It's time to put the children first. It's time to act," Strayhorn said.

Strayhorn challenged Perry to immediately call upon legislative leaders to release $583 million the Governor is "sitting on" to fund needed health care.

"I'm calling on him to use his powers of persuasion and his bully pulpit to get the Legislative leadership together and free these funds before one more child is hurt, before one more family has to make a heart-wrenching choice between keeping their insurance and setting just a little bit aside for education, and before one more emergency room doctor has to tell a patient to 'get on down the road,'" Strayhorn said.

She also said Perry should order the health and human services commission to back off new asset tests that will throw thousands more children off the Children's Health Insurance Program.

Since September, 119,000 children have lost their insurance, and Texas is already dead last in the percent of children with health insurance in the United States.

"With one simple phone call, the Governor can stop this atrocity," Strayhorn said. "He can order his health and human services chief to back off the new guidelines and allow Texas families to retain their dignity, their independence, and their children's health insurance."

On the education front, Strayhorn lambasted the Governor for letting months of inactivity pass while the school system suffers.

"During the last regular session, the Governor told us he could not address the school funding crisis immediately because fellow lawmakers did not have the adequate experience in office," Strayhorn said. "This year he tells us a special session is coming when there is a consensus on a fix, and still no date has been set."

"I say his learning curve should now be complete; and if not, we need new leadership willing not to delay, not to cajole, not to offer patchwork proposals packaged in lofty titles."

Strayhorn told the association she shares their concern that continued unfunded mandates from the state coupled with Perry's plan to eliminate local control are threatening vital local government services.

"I am a staunch believer in local control," Strayhorn said. "The parts of the Governor's plan to fix school finance that we have seen are really no fix at all. In fact, all they really do is offer relatively paltry payoffs to schools that do better in exchange for taking local control away from local governments."

"I am a fiscal conservative, and I can tell you there is a difference between being a fiscal conservative and having a callous disregard for our fellow Texans."

Next king could be a female

Organizers are lining up candidates to unwittingly fight it out to be Donley County's fourth Turkey King, but this year there is a twist. The candidates are all female.

"The women are going to rule the roost," said election judge Linda Gray, "and any man who thinks he is up to the challenge is welcome to try to win."

Leading the 2004 flock is the esteemed mayor of Howardwick and perennial candidate Nancy Davis, who is making her third appearance on the fowl ballot. Davis narrowly lost the crown last year when Clarendon Alderman Tommy Hill defeated her by a margin of only 72 cents.

Davis also came in second in 2002, but she is expected to turn up the charm this year for a very spirited campaign.

Other candidates ready to do battle with Davis include Tessie Robinson of Suna AutoMall, Martha Smith of Clarendon College, CC Librarian Jewell Houston, Andrea Coxey of Medical Center Nursing Home, Linda Thornton also of MCNH, CHS secretary Valerie Ashcraft, Associated Ambulance Authority director Anita Aaron, paramedic Anna Summers, and Renee Betts of Greenbelt Water Authority.

Votes are still one penny each, and the hen with the most money wins when the fourth annual Turkey Strut Festival is held Saturday, April 24. Ballots may be cast in the jars of the respective candidates at Sayes, Duckwall's, and the Texas Steakout. Proceeds go to promote tourism in Donley County.

Other scheduled activities for the festival include a cake walk, a volleyball tournament, a merchants' window painting contest, a mattress race, the kids' turkey strut contest, and a high noon bank robbery.

Anyone interested in fundraising or having an arts and crafts fair during the Turkey Strut should contact Terry Askew at 874-3844.

Cattle raisers address impending changes in beef industry

FORT WORTH — Individual cattle producers must get involved in the debate over monumental changes proposed for the beef industry.

"If you don't, change will occur without you . . . and you won't like the results," insisted Dr. Bryan McMurry, beef brand manager for Cargill Animal Nutrition.

Dr. McMurry presented the opening remarks during the pivotal Animal Health Committee meeting at Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's 127th annual convention recently in Austin.

His warning was echoed again and again by speakers from every link in the beef production chain, government representatives, and legislative leaders as they described changes being considered in animal identification, marketing, food safety, animal health, trade, water regulation, taxation, and numerous other issues where individual input is critical.

"We need your input and support," declared TSCRA President Bob McCan. "The most important reason to join an association is not for what it can do for you, but for what we can do together."

TSCRA members resolved to work together on several important issues.

Animal identification

Primary among them was to "be at the forefront of discussions of any national identification plan to ensure that the best interests of the association and its members are protected."

Members said that while TSCRA policy calls for a voluntary national identification system, officers would be directed to work within the framework of a mandatory plan if one should be required by Congress, the administration, or the marketplace.

TSCRA emphasized that any national plan must assure confidentiality of producer records, be given adequate federal funding, have reasonable timelines for implementation, and avoid imposing a burden on the industry.

BSE risk assessment and response

Members also reiterated their stand on the impending government BSE risk assessment and response plan.

TSCRA supports a "science-based, statistical, significant, rapid risk-assessment plan that maintains our domestic confidence in beef, reopens our foreign markets, and includes a rapid testing regimen."

U.S. Border Patrol

TSCRA members also asked the U.S. Border Patrol to suspend its recently instated horseback patrols in the sensitive fever tick eradication zones. TSCRA said the use of horses in these areas "poses an unnecessary risk to the health of the Texas livestock industry and the economic well being of rural Texas."

TSCRA suggested instead that, "In order to more effectively patrol the international border and prevent illegal entry, the Department of Interior should allow the USBP and APHS to patrol the river corridor, thereby putting the maximum resources on the banks of the international border."

"Cattle producers can wield significant influence when they join together and work within their local and national organizations," McCan asserted.

Sixty-three percent (715,040) of U.S. cattle operations have fewer than 50 head of cattle, according to the 1997 Census of Agriculture. Another 17 percent (200,500) own 50 to 99 head. That makes 80 percent of the nation's cattle operations that have fewer than 100 head!

"These producers have a huge effect on the nation's beef herd and the quality of beef on the consumer's plate," McCan emphasized. He said this group is a major focus of the new TSCRA membership development task force that he appointed last fall.

Combs takes another swipe at good food

Texas' Health Nazi-In-Chief Susan Combs is back up to no good and seems determined to kill what little culinary enjoyment there currently is in eating at school cafeterias.

As you may recall, Combs is the head of the Texas Department of Agriculture who last year decided kids didn't need to be having "unhealthy" snacks at school parties any more and consequently threatened to withhold precious government funds from any school that didn't bar parents from providing such evil foods as soft drinks, lollipops, and jelly beans.

The problem with overbearing bureaucrats, of course, is that they can just never get enough of telling people how to live their lives, all the while telling us that it is in our best interest or more particularly that it is in the best interest of — you guessed it — the children.

Having taken an inch last year, Combs is going for the mile now. According to her, the children are getting a little thick around the middle; and this, of course, is a crisis that must be dealt with regardless of what the facts actually are.

She therefore has mandated that Texas public schools eliminate all fried foods from their cafeteria line-ups and limit the portion sizes and fat and sugar contents of other food items.

Not just cut back on fried foods, mind you. We have to eliminate them. In fact, Clarendon ISD can't even have a deep fryer anymore. That puppy has to be gotten out of the kitchen by 2006, or we're gonna be really sorry.

One would think that with drought conditions and the supposed threat of Mad Cow Disease and poultry diseases, the department of agriculture would have plenty to do; but apparently such is not the case. Der Fuehrer of Agriculture has decreed that anything that has heretofore been fried shall now be baked. She has furthermore decided even after such food has been stripped of its palatability, children shall not be allowed to eat very much of it, or she in her mighty wrath will smite the school. Thou shalt not consume more than three ounces of French fries! (Or is that French "bakes" now?)

Yes, no matter how hungry your kids are, all they are permitted to have is three ounces of French bakes. And, according to CISD cafeteria director Connie McKinney, that's about six — or maybe eight — individual French bakes. And get this: if the school serves hash browns for breakfast on one day, it can't serve French bakes at all for any meal for the rest of the week.

This sort of heavy-handed action would be expected from a left-of-center Democrat. Combs is a Republican (which just shows the sorry state of leadership in the Texas GOP), and she has a broad base of support for these limitations. In making her announcement, der Fuehrer also released four and one-half pages of statements of support from busybodies all over the state. (Interestingly, there are no statements of support from any Texas children.)

The head of the Texas PTA is "thrilled" with Combs' effort to fight childhood obesity. A professor at Baylor College of Medicine applauds Combs because "obesity and its co-morbidities are rampant" in our schools. An American Cancer Society official says this "is a significant step forward." All of which is hogwash.

First, local health officials have stated on the record that obesity is not a crisis among students in Donley County. This new policy will drive down the number of students consuming already balanced meals in the lunchroom and cause them to eat more sack lunches from home, which are likely to be less nutritious.

Second, decisions about what is served in school cafeterias ought to be made at the local level by local school officials rather than by some finger-pointing witch in Austin.

And third, nothing Combs does will combat obesity among school children or anyone else. There is not one kid in this state who is fat because of what he ate at school. Heavenly days! Most kids only eat one meal a day at school. It's what they eat for meals after school and between meals and a lack of physical activity that turns them into little lard butts.

It all comes down to personal responsibility. Parents have got to be the ones responsible for feeding their children. The public schools have enough trouble trying to educate brats without parental support. They don't need the added pressure of wondering if Little Johnny had just six French bakes today for lunch or if he stole four more from Little Susie and is now on his way to getting Type II diabetes.

Combs acts as though chubby kids are the gravest threat to the future of Texas. But we have seen the real enemy, and she is her. Texans have more to fear from elected officials like Combs than they do from a serving of French fries.

Do you really think that men fought and died at the Alamo and San Jacinto so that our government could tell us what to feed our kids? No, they did not. Santa Anna did a lot of things, but even he didn't try to tell us how to cook frites.

Pansy pal bleeds a pint in record time

I saved a life Friday afternoon. I gave blood.

I was a first time donor. I tried to give blood last year, but I had to force myself to stay holed up in the library until I finished a research paper the day that the drive was going on. Trust me, I'd rather give blood everyday than write research papers.

Friday afternoon they had a blood drive on campus. I was at work. Since there is a show open this weekend, there wasn't much work for us to do. The sets were all built, and we couldn't really start on the next show until this one was over. So my boss, Mr. Wheeler, rounded up the whole crew; and we all went to give blood.

I realized just how landlocked I was when half the crew couldn't donate because they had traveled in Europe or spent time in Singapore and Malaysia. My globetrotting crew went back to work. It was just Mr. Wheeler, my "brother," and I.

Brother Will and I have a strange relationship. Now I think we really are a lot like brother and sister. We compete mercilessly, even at giving blood.

Will is a regular blood donor. He is type O negative, a universal donor, and the blood banks love him. People who donate blood that often are just crazy. They have stories of all the different times they gave, who has the best cookies and juice, how many times they passed out, etc.

First timers like myself, naturally get a little nervous. They design the whole system to freak people out. I've never had a nurse ask me so many personal questions about my love life, my drug habits, and my piercings.

It was incredible how she was asking these long detailed questions without even looking at the paper while testing my blood sugar and taking my blood pressure and remembering my responses. That's some serious multi-tasking.

At any rate, both Will and I passed the test and were seated. The technicians came and started setting us up.

"Hey," William says to me. "Let's race. The one to fill the bag fastest wins. Loser buys Dr Pepper for the whole crew."

"Game on." I say. Then I whisper to the tech, "How do you make yourself bleed faster?" She just laughed.

I set my stopwatch and waited.

Most people don't like the sight of their own blood running out of their bodies through tubes. Unfortunately, I'm a little desensitized. I watched my dad do dialysis

life's lessons
by carrie helms

three times a week at home. Blood doesn't really bother me.

I feel fine. The needle didn't even bother me going in. I'm feeling good, but the technicians worry me. They keep asking me if I feel okay, and then I start to worry. Do I really feel okay? I don't know! Should I not? Do I not look like I feel okay?

Then I notice Will starting to get a little pale. They rush him some juice and cookies. The pansy almost passed out.

Six minutes. The freak of nature gave a whole pint of blood in six minutes.

I took seven and a half.

Will starts gloating about how he's a better bleeder, his blood is more useful than mine, girls can't bleed as well as boys, ha ha ha.

I said he's not better at bleeding; he just can't control himself like a girl can. I had complete mental control over my circulatory system the whole time. I was holding back because I didn't want to look like a dork and pass out.

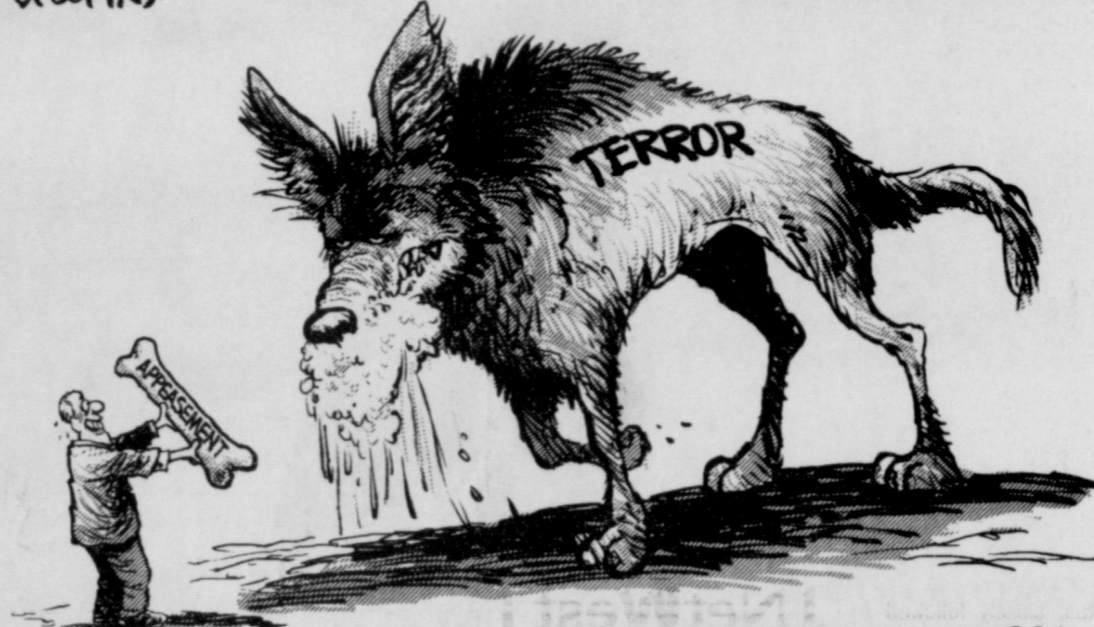

We ask the nurse to settle it for us.

Who has better veins, Captain Unconscious or me?

I have a bigger vein. The nurse said so.

After ten or fifteen minutes more of arguing, we decided to call it a draw. Well, Mr. Wheeler did. He bought the Dr Pepper.

Texans deserve to keep more money

Fifty billion dollars... That's how much Americans will see through higher refunds and lower payments this tax season. Those savings are a direct result of last year's sweeping tax relief, which is putting more money back into the pockets of hard working Americans, creating new jobs and growing the U.S. economy.

A Strengthening Economy
The last few years have been rife with the ingredients of an economic disaster; but despite a recession, terrorist attacks at home and abroad, corporate scandals and war, our economy is getting stronger. Inflation, interest, and mortgage rates are near historic lows; and homeownership is at the highest level ever. Stock market wealth has increased by more than $4 trillion in the last year, and unemployment has dropped to 5.6 percent recently — below the average rate of the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s.

Making the Tax Relief Permanent
These numbers are good, and they are getting better. But the positive news could be short lived unless Congress acts to make the tax relief permanent.

Unfortunately, when we passed the Jobs and Growth Act in 2003, we were forced to sunset on the tax cuts, and many of them will begin to fade away at the end of this year. After December 31, 2004, the expansion of the 10 percent bracket and alternative minimum tax relief will disappear.

The Marriage Penalty
Last year we raised the standard deduction and enlarged the 15-percent tax bracket for married joint filers to twice that of single filers. This provision will save 34 million married couples an average of almost $600 on this year's tax bills. But,

capitol comment
by sen. kay bailey hutchison in 2005, marriage will again be a taxable event for millions of Americans. While I continue my efforts to make marriage penalty relief permanent, I have introduced legislation to extend last year's victory for married couples for one year, through 2005. We must make sure we do not back-track on this important reform.

Fairness for Texans
In 1986, a landmark tax reform law eliminated the deduction for state and local sales tax, but not the deduction for income tax. As a result, taxpayers from states like Texas, who pay sales tax but no income tax, have been penalized. I have introduced legislation to address this inequity and am hopeful my colleagues will agree that Texans — and residents from the other six states with no income tax — aren't treated unfairly.

Last year proved you know how best to spend your dollars and that tax relief creates jobs and strengthens our economy.

Hospital district in good financial shape

Having previously served on the [Donley County] Hospital Board of Directors, I would like to recount many of the changes I saw take place.

My mother-in-law was a resident of Medical Center Nursing Home from 1997 until her death in 2003. The nursing home was in great turmoil the first year of her stay until the present administrator was hired in the fall of 1997. Under this administration, Mrs. Denney received quality care from the entire staff, which gave her comfort, dignity, respect. Our family appreciates the memories. Thank you.

The voters of Donley County voted to keep the nursing home rather than sell it. A long-range plan was developed for the Medical Center complex, which included updating the infrastructure and adding ten beds through renovation of the facility. Over the years, the nursing home had always been supported through tax dollars. The financial plan was that the added income from the ten new beds would put the nursing home at a breakeven point, thus leaving tax dollars to reduce debt, support ambulance services, provide indigent care, and pay hospital district expenses.

The home is now on course to do just that and by June 30, 2002 — which was the first full year with the ten new beds in service — it actually showed a pre-depreciation profit.

Other notable facts:

1) The nursing home participates in the State of Texas Medicaid Staff Enhancement Program. This program funded approximately $100,000 for increased staffing, which in turn resulted in quality care. It has also provided wage increases to direct care staff.

2) The Texas Department of Human Services' Long Term Care Regulatory conducts annual surveys of all Texas facilities to see if federal and state regulations are being met. On their visit in the fall of 2003, no deficiencies were cited, which gave the nursing home its first deficiency free survey.

3) Nationwide, Gannett News Service's "Nursing Home Quality Report" lists Medical Center Nursing Home with a five-star rating, which is the highest. (www.gannettnewservice.com)

I want you, as a voter, to know that under the present administration, the Donley County Hospital District, Medical Center Nursing Home, and Associated Ambulance Authority are in good financial standing, in top standing with the State of Texas, and that all services are superior.

The bottom line is: "the residents and patients are well cared for."

This information can be verified at the Medical Center Nursing Home. I believe we should keep our present administration and hospital board members. Your votes county May 15. "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Applications for EQIP program due April 16

The Natural Resources Conservation Service has set the application deadlines for the 2004 Environmental Quality Program (EQIP). The application period for the 2004 program year will end April 16, 2004.

Applications from individual landowners interested in participating in the EQIP program during the 2004 program year must be received before April 16 and will be ranked for program eligibility during May. There will only be one application period this year.

Producers who did not qualify for the EQIP program during the past application periods will have to reapply during the 2004 ranking period to be ranked.

Private landowners should be aware that EQIP provides technical, educational, and financial assistance to eligible farmers and ranchers to address soil, water, and related natural resource concerns on lands in an environmentally beneficial and cost effective manner.

EQIP is a voluntary program and is designed to assist farmers and ranchers with placing natural resource conservation practices on their property. Cost-share is provided to program participants to achieve the goals of a conservation plan designed with the assistance of local NRCS staff.

Contracts for eligible producers are made for a period of one to ten years.

This year priority concerns were developed by local people with NRCS assistance. The priority will vary from county to county since local people developed them. Questions about eligible cost-share practices and major resources concerns of an area can be answered by your local NRCS field office. It should be noted that program funds target natural resource of farmers, as well as, livestock producers.

Donley County felt water quantity was the primary resource concern and rangeland plant health as a secondary concern. Water quantity practices eligible for cost-share are brush management and improving irrigation sprinkler systems. Plant health concerns practices eligible for funding are cross fences and pipelines with troughs, and ponds or wells to complete the system. Plant health practices will be funded after all water quantity concerns within the county are addressed.

To learn more about EQIP or to submit an EQIP contract application, contact your local NRCS field office in Clarendon at 874-3576.

changes too."

Field trips during school hours will also be affected by this new policy.

"We will have to get sack lunches from the cafeteria and send with the students," Hysinger said. "As far as extra-curricular activities go, we may get by with not following the policy. We just need to check into it further."

Combs says this policy is the result of months of collaboration with experts and interested individuals around the state who consider childhood obesity an enormous concern, but Hysinger feels that schools are not to blame.

"Schools aren't the cause of the obesity issue," Hysinger said, "but I guess we have to do our part to remedy it."

UIL, band keeping CHS students very busy

April has arrived. It brought a little rain with it, which we all appreciate, I'm sure, even if it does sometimes make it difficult for those on the outskirts of town (and beyond) to get anywhere.

There are some of our local high school students who haven't been in school much last week. Or this week. Probably not next week either. It's UIL competition season. Last week, the One-Act Play District Competition was in Clarendon at the Harned Sisters Auditorium on the college campus. The One-Act Plays of Clarendon and Sunray advanced to Area competition. And since we aren't in Sunray, I'm only going to tell you that Lydia Hartman was named Best Actress. Robert Shelton and Brandi Lockhart were awarded All-Star Cast recognition, and Matt Aaron and Joanea Horn received Honorable Mention. The Area competition will be this Thursday at Amarillo College. I don't think the time has been settled yet.

Wednesday, UIL academic contests were held, and a whole raft of competitors in things like debate, current affairs, editorial writing and other such events will be heading off to Regional Competition sometime soon. I can't keep straight which activities are taking place on which day until the participants come home and tell me. Hopefully, Your Editor will have that list of winners somewhere in the paper so you can read who they are.

These hyper-competitive students were actually in school on Thursday and Friday last week. This week, there's been around town

Clarendon • 874-9186

High School Concert Band contest is Wednesday, and the Area Play competition is Thursday. So these same students will go to classes on Friday. Next week - well, we'll see what happens this week before we go there.

Last Friday, the Art Club met at the First United Methodist Church and lunched on very tasty chicken spaghetti at tables that had been decorated with really cute "Easter trees." I have my suspicions that the hostesses all decided they wanted one of these twig trees with the eggs hanging from them, used them for decorations, then got to take them home with them.

There are still big plant pots for sale at the Library, though some of the cutest ones are gone because I took them home with me. But the ones left are nice too. The Friends of the Library are selling the pots to raise money for various projects benefiting the library. The monthly Friends meeting is next Wednesday, April 14, at noon at the library. Come join us.

New Arrival

Kyla Jade Doyal (shown above) was born February 26, 2004, to her parents Ashley Putman and Dale Doyal, Jr. She weighed 7 lbs. 2 oz and was 19 inches long.

Grandparents are Donnie and Darla Putman of Krum and Dale and Betty Doyal of Crowell. Her great grandparents are Tommy and Deanie Powers of Crowell, Norma Putman of Clarendon, and Betty Wright of Eldorado, Oklahoma.

Sunrise services to be held at Howardwick City Park

With Daylight Savings Time, I was reminded again how great it is being retired. Before my first cup of coffee, most people were at work; it was dark when the school bus came by; and the children were in the classroom.

I have often wondered how do you save daylight? It is light when the sun comes up and dark when it goes down no matter how many clocks you set forward or back. Unfortunately, we are a clock-oriented society and no longer live by sunrise and sunset, so Big Brother has stepped in to save us from ourselves.

Daylight Saving Time - so called because it sounds better than Daylight Shifting Time - was first tried in 1918 during WWI but lasted only seven months before it was repealed. During the next big war, the entire country was placed on year round daylight savings until 1945 when each state and town could change their time or not and decide when to change. The Uniform Time Act of 1966 - with responsibility of the law going to the Department of Transportation - now oversees us all and set Daylight Savings Time for 2 a.m. on the first Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October.

They say this is good because it saves energy, but since I am retired I will save my energy as I see fit and have that coffee on my own time.

With Easter next Sunday, I have anxiously watched the weather forecast for that day, and all three channels are saying it will be in the mid-thirties that morning, so unpack that coat. If you can't come to the sunrise services at the park at 7:20, come have breakfast with us at City Hall. The Beautification Club will serve up a good free meal.

Joyce Hardin who lives on Saints Roost has had a difficult week. She went in for a heart cath on Tuesday, and, as a result, on Thursday she had seven bypasses performed. She is at BSA in room 432. In answer to my "When are you coming home?" she answered, "I hope not today."

The fire department has completed the controlled burn and cleanup at the tree limb dump. The chipper-shredder we share with Hedley is here this month with chips available free of charge for use in flowerbeds.

The Mexican Pile-On planned by the fire department auxiliary will be April 24 at 6 p.m. at City Hall with tickets for $5 in advance and $6 at the door. A ticket also makes you eligible to win a quilt. This fundraiser goes toward matching funds for grants the fire department has received. Tickets are available from any auxiliary member or at City Hall.

Meetings: Fire Department, Thursday at 7 p.m.; Beautification Club, Tuesday, April 13, at noon at City Hall. Please try to attend. This is the election of officers, and you may be elected if you aren't there.

New organization will support vets living in Donley County

Brandon Goodwin is pleased to announce the formation of a new organization - Friends of the Donley County Veterans. Goodwin is the president of the organization.

The purpose of the organization is to support the veterans of Donley County including the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7782 and its Ladies Auxiliary.

"The Donley County VFW Memorial Post 7782 has adopted this organization as a support group/auxiliary, formed to help our veterans," said Post Commander Dale Powers. This organization plans on supporting Memorial Post 7782 both financially and with manpower on future projects that the Post in Clarendon has planned for the community and the veterans.

Anyone interested in joining the organization can pick up an application at the VFW Post in Clarendon or by calling the president at 205-0027.

Meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the VFW Bingo Hall (formerly Alexander's Diner).

They are making application to be a non-profit organization formed to help the veterans.

Hedley sunrise service to be at Methodist Church

I woke up Friday morning to the sound of booming thunder. Then I heard rain on the vents on top of my house. I went to the door and looked out to see rain pouring down like out of buckets and the sun shining bright as you please.

We ran out of the rain before we got to Clarendon; and while we were in Amarillo, it rained a little at the clinic. When we started home, it rained off and on until we got to Lelia Lake; then it came a downpour. When we got back to my house, I got soaked running from the street to the house. I didn't mind getting wet, but I hate for my glasses to get rained on.

Bill Carson said he didn't get a drop out at his house North of town. Jim Mitchell said he got about a half-inch.

It rained some Monday afternoon but not much.

Linda and I went to the grocery store in Clarendon Thursday and lo and behold, there in the frozen food section was carton after carton of Blue Bell ice cream. There was every flavor you can imagine. She bought several flavors. I personally like vanilla the best. You can top it with anything you want - strawberries, chocolate, raisins, or anything you want. Yum, yum!

I was in Amarillo one day last week and was stopped at a red light. There stopped beside us was a sports car with fancy wheel covers. There were spinning. I took a second look and they really were turning. I asked one of the boys on the bus how the hubcaps could turn with the car stopped and he gave me a long convoluted explanation that I didn't understand. What will they think of next to sell cars?

The fruit trees are in bloom all over town. The apricot trees by the Post Office are so pretty. I hope they make apricots this year. I also saw some wild plums in full bloom along the road.

The lilac bushes are almost blooming, and Grace Burkhalter said her tulips and irises are blooming.

There are some yellow flowers at the Methodist Church that are blooming, but I don't know what they are called. Linda said the bluebonnets are almost in bloom at their house. My mother always had the prettiest bluebonnets.

My yard should be pretty a little later. The grass Claude Randall sowed for me last fall is growing good; and after Clifford Johnson tilled the rest of the yard, Jason Conatser ranked and sowed grass on the rest of it. With the rain we've had it should start growing any day now. The first night after he planted the seed, a dog with feet about the size of an elephant walked across it and left deep tracks in it.

Burford and Jerry Holland were in Childress last week for Burford to see the eye doctor. They visited with their son Darrel at the Post office and his wife Barbara at home in Kirkland between office visits.

Memorial services were held in Rowe Cemetery on Saturday for J.R. Howell. He was the son of the late Elmer and Gladys Kidd Howell.

Sunrise Services will be held Sunday at 7:30 a.m. in front of the cross at the Methodist Church if it doesn't rain. Brunch will be served in the basement of the Methodist Church followed by regular service in the sanctuary.

Everyone is invited and welcome to attend.

Simmons making news as student at HSU

Simmons received the Long Bristow Scholarship, which honors as junior or senior preparing to enter the teaching profession and who shows promise of becoming an outstanding teacher.

Simmons also is a part of the first-ever Hardin-Simmons University softball team, which has been playing games and hosting tournaments in the newly constructed Cowgirls softball field since February.

Having played against teams from the University of Mary-Hardin Baylor, Sul Ross, and Howard Payne, the Cowgirls will soon end a commendable first season.

The Wedding Band

*While you were resting, I looked at your hand
On which, 70 years ago, I placed your wedding band.*

*Whether washing dishes, cleaning house, or all those things a wife will do,
You've never allowed the wedding band to be removed.
As memories flood back, so vivid and true,
I think of the very first time I saw you.*

*So beautiful, singing in the church choir, you captured my heart right away,
And I knew on the evening we were wed, the wedding band on your finger would stay.*

*To me, you're as beautiful as the day we met,
And God has given us no regrets.*

*He has kept us close through all the years.
He's guided our happiness and protected our tears.*

*I thank Him every day of my life
That He blessed me with you as my wonderful wife.*

*And He'll continue our joy as, together, we look at your hand
And remember, for 70 years, you've never removed the wedding band.*

This poem was written for George and Velma Knight for 70 years of marriage. They are both residents of Medical Center Nursing Home.

Fish biting on plastic worms, rattletraps at Lake Greenbelt

I would like to remind our local bass fishermen Lake Greenbelt will have a Mel Phillip's Fun Fishing Tournament this Saturday, April 10, from 7:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The entry fee is $30. I think there will be a big turnout. I hope to see you there and good luck to our local fishermen!

I have gone bass fishing only once this year at Lake Greenbelt. I went last week and fished for about six hours. I caught 10 or 12 keepers, the biggest being about four pounds. I was using rattletraps and plastic worms.

I have been talking to some of my fishing buddies in Tulia and Stinnett, and the fishing has been good at Lake Mackenzie and Lake Meredith. Both of these lakes are very low and hard to fish; but if you can overcome the problems and find an area to fish, the fishing has been good. There have been a few people fishing Lake Mackenzie catching a few crappie and catfish.

The spring turkey season here in Donley County should be very good this year.

There are a lot of turkeys around, and plenty of turkeys all over the Panhandle. This would be a good year for the experienced hunters to take the inexperienced and young hunters. The spring season runs from April 3 through May 9, gobblers only.

Fishing Tip of the Week: Go fishing now. All species of fish are biting. The flies and mosquitoes are not bad. The air temperature is not too bad either. If you are like me, I would rather not fish in 100° weather.

Hunters, may you always be safe, and respect the land you hunt. Fishermen, catch a few fish for supper and release a few fish to ensure another great fishing day. You can contact me at gdol@nts-online.net. I also would like to wish everyone a happy Easter.

Broncos notch two wins against district rivals

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos had their bats going as they defeated the Skyrockets and Cyclones in two separate District contests last week.

The Broncos defeated the Memphis Cyclones 9-5 at home with Quentin West earning the win and going to 4-2 for the season. West also knocked down a double and was credited with two RBIs, but the big hit of the day belonged to J.C. Blackburn as he slammed it out of the park for a home run. Blackburn added one RBI to the books as well.

Dusty Martindale walked once and had one stolen base, Jeremy Howard had one RBI, Adam Leeper 1 RBI, Tyler Lewis had one hit and two runs; Stephen Ford added one run; Michael Bruce scored three runs; Andrew Thomas had two RBIs; and Tim Sanchez helped with one run and one RBI.

"We played a really good game," coach Brad Elam said. "Quentin pitched extremely well. He walked only one batter and struck out 10 hitters. We still made too many errors defensively, but we recorded four outs on the bases. Michael Bruce has reached base eight straight times. J.C. hit a timely homerun that sparked a big four-run inning that put the game away."

Earlier in the week, the Broncos went head to head with the Skyrockets defeating them, 18-8, with West on the mound.

The Broncos trailed their opponent early but went up one run in the bottom of the second inning. The fifth inning was huge for the Broncos as they scored eight runs to double Wellington's score.

The Broncos hit the ball well as West had three runs, two RBIs, and seven stolen bases. Howard had three RBIs and four stolen bases, Martindale helped with two RBIs and one run, and Adam Leeper brought in one RBI and two runs. Blackburn added two runs and one RBI. Ford helped with two runs and one RBI, and Ty White added two hits and two runs. Bruce had two runs and three stolen bases, and Sanchez added two RBIs and one run.

The Broncos will face the Irish in another District game Thursday, April 8, at Shamrock at 4:30 p.m. They will play Claude April 10 at Claude at 1:30 p.m. and travel to Hartley April 12.

Lady Broncos stun Aspermont

The Lady Broncos completely dominated Aspermont in a District match up March 29, winning by the final score of 22-6.

Haley Shelton and Lacey Eads teamed up as pitchers for the game with Eads and Kaitlyn Howard sharing the catcher duties.

The duo of Eads and Shelton also slammed in a home run and a triple each to aid the Lady Broncos in their victory. Sarah Depew and Laura Dziedzic each connected with a double as well.

"We took the first bat and scored six runs to their two," Coach Kathy Barton said. "Eads had three up three down in the fourth inning. We did have two errors in the fifth that accounted for their last two runs. We hit well and only had three errors on the game. Haley is pitching really well, and Lacey is doing a great job of coming in and finishing."

Williams breezes past 100-m racers

By Sandy Anderberg

Junior sprinter Angel Williams of Clarendon took part in the Amarillo Relays Meet of Champions held in Amarillo, Saturday, April 3.

Williams blew away the field in the 100-meter hurdles taking first place with a time of 14.86. The second place finisher from Randall High School finished in a time of 15.51. Williams posted the fastest times in the hurdles and the 200 and 400-meter runs in the prelims on Friday, but an injury to her hamstring in the 400-meter finals caused her to fall. She scratched out of the 200-meters to avoid any further damage to her leg.

Senior Equilla Weatheron competed in the track meet as well in the 100-meters and the 200-meters. Weatheron finished 2nd in the both races with a time of 12.40 in the 100-meters and 25.92 in the 200-meters.

Andy Alston placed sixth in the discus. Archie Sharp was fifth in the 2400M run and fourth in the 1200M run. Kelby Shields placed fourth in the long jump, fifth in the 100 hurdles, and third in the 200 hurdles. Kristin Dwight earned fourth place in the shot put, fourth in the discus, second in the 100 hurdles, and fifth in the 200 hurdles. Patrick Lambert won fifth place in the 800M run. Peter Howard placed sixth in the 800 M run and fifth in the long jump. Shandy Koetting was second in the 100M dash and third in the 200M.

Coach Giffin felt that his runners did very well, especially since some of them were seventh graders competing against eighth graders.
