Masons cancel May chicken barbecue

Due to the ongoing burn ban, Clarendon Masonic Lodge has canceled its annual Mother's Day weekend chicken barbecue scheduled for this Saturday.

Even with the recent rains, the Masons felt conditions were still too dangerous to risk building the fire necessary for the barbecue.

The lodge wishes all mothers a happy holiday; and if conditions improve, they hopes to hold their September barbecue on schedule.

Senior parents seek donations for party

The parents of the 2008 graduating class at Clarendon High School are seeking donations for safe night graduation activities.

Meadows Foundation awards $50k to center

The Friends of Donley County have announced a third grant of $50,000 awarded from the Meadows Foundation which will go toward the building of the multipurpose Donley County Activity Center.

"With this grant award, the building goal is within our reach," said Larry Gray, Friends of Donley County Board President. "At this time we have a total of $298,000 that has been awarded in grants and through community support/fund-raisers and donations. A total of $622,000 is the estimated cost of the building so we are half way there."

Gray said the proposed activity center will support a wide range of youth, social, and civic activities; and he said the Friends are still seeking funds to complete the project.

"We are continuing to work on additional grants but time is critical," Gray said. "The foundation grants require adequate financing for the whole building and a signed contract with a contractor by their set deadlines."

The Meadows Foundation has a deadline of December 10, 2008, the Bivins Foundation grant deadline is March 2009, and the Harrington Foundation grant deadline is July 2009.

"If the requirements for these grants are not met, we face losing the grant money and the various foundations' support," Gray said.

Written pledges on donor cards are acceptable as legal tender for meeting the requirements of financing needed for the building. Donor cards are available through the Friends of Donley County board, FFA teachers from Hedley and Clarendon, and the Extension Office, Evans Fertilizer, Herring Bank, Pilgrim Bank, and the Donley County State Bank. Monies will not be required until a contract is signed.

Levels of support are also an option for donors and will be acknowledged through permanent display in the building. For a donation of $100,000 or more, the building will be named after the individual or company donating.

Other levels of support acknowledgment are: Platinum - donation of $10,000+; Gold - donation of $5,000+; Silver - donation of $2,500+; and Bronze - donation of $1,000+.

"Donations of any size - no matter how small or large - are welcome and appreciated," Gray said.

For more information, contact Larry Gray at 806-874-2095, Leonard Haynes at 806-874-2141, or Lon Adams at 806-856-5363.

Three-vehicle accident

Wreck hospitalizes two people

A three-vehicle accident at Ashtola last week left two people in an Amarillo hospital.

Kenneth and Linda Trospers of Childress were both stable in the ICU at Northwest Texas Hospital with non-life-threatening injuries Monday afternoon, according to DPS Trooper Chris Ward.

Mr. Trospers was southbound on US 287 in his Chevrolet Blazer Friday afternoon when he rear-ended a pickup truck driven by Jody Rowland, who was in the inside lane turning left onto County Road 3. The impact caused the Trospers' vehicle to go into the outside lane of the highway and in front of a southbound semi-truck driven by Edward Griffin of New Mexico.

That impact sent the Blazer into the ditch where it rolled at least twice Ward said before coming to rest in the front yard of a trailer house at US 287 and FM 2362.

"It was spinning in the air, so there is really no way to know how many times it really turned over," Ward said.

Emergency personnel from the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department and the Associated Ambulance Authority extracted the Trospers from the vehicle.

Mr. Trospers was airlifted to NPTH, and Mrs. Trospers was transported by ambulance.

"At this point the investigation is rather inconclusive," Ward said. "The truck driver confirmed that Rowland had slowed down and had his turning signal on. We really don't know why Mr. Trospers ran into Mr. Rowland."

No citations have yet been issued in the case, and Ward said Rowland and Griffin did not suffer any serious injuries.

Lady Broncos step closer to state title

By Sandy Anderberg

"All the way, baby!" is the motto for this year's Lady Bronco softball team (17-3), and so far they are right on track to make that trip to the state softball game.

As the ENTERPRISE was going to press, the Lady Broncos were ranked tenth in the state in Class 1A by the Texas State Coaches Poll.

Clarendon edged one step closer to the state title with a big two-game win in a best two-out-of-three game with Ranger in Abilene May 2-3 to claim the Area Championship. The ladies squeaked out a 2-1 win in the first game and a 14-11 win in the second.

"It was a couple of pretty intense games," Head Coach Gary Jack said. "They wanted it really bad, and we played really well. Both teams pitched great, and we were very closely matched. They were both great play off games."

Danielle Ford pitched the first game and was credited with several strikeouts. Sade Cobb got the call in the second game and pitched well, also.

"Danielle did a great job in the first game," Jack said. "She got us out of a big jam in the sixth when we were ahead 2-1, and they had runners on first and third with no outs. She was able to get the next three batters out, and no one scored."

Jenci White also made a great catch in center field, and Jack also gave credit to Dominique Mason for great relief running.

The early momentum belonged to Ranger in the second game, and the Lady Broncos trailed 1-7 in the first two innings.

"Sade pitched the second game and did well, and she had good defense behind her," Jack said.

The ladies were determined to get the second win to end the series and continued to fight even after Ranger regained the lead.

Jack noted that great hits were made by Macy Shadle, Erin Holland, Elissa Holland, Brandi Mays, and Janae White.

"Sade made a great bunt in the first game to bring a couple in at a very crucial time after Danielle Ford knocked down a big triple."

The win over Ranger allowed the Lady Broncos to advance to the next level which is the Regional Quarterfinals against Quanah. It will be another best two-out-of-three and will be played on each team's home fields.

"We will play the first game on Thursday, May 8, at Quanah at 5:00," Jack said. "The second and third game (if needed) will be played in Clarendon on Saturday, May 10, at 2:30 pm.

"They are a much improved team. We've got to be ready to go play," Jack said.

Elections to be this Saturday

Voters will head to the polls this Saturday, May 10, to cast ballots in elections for Clarendon and Hedley school boards and the Clarendon Board of Aldermen.

Early voting closed Tuesday; and at 2:15 that day, 82 people had cast early ballots in the Clarendon school district, 75 had voted in the city, and 17 had voted in the Hedley school district.

This Saturday voters in the City of Clarendon and the Clarendon Consolidated Independent School District will vote at the Donley County Courthouse Annex between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Incumbent City Aldermen Tommy Hill and Chris Ford are joined on the ballot by Jim R. Philley, Billy Ray Johnston, and Kyle Davis in an election for three positions.

Two positions are up for election this year on the Clarendon school board. Incumbents Weldon Sears and Lance Thornberry are challenged by Travis Wilson.

Voters in the Hedley Consolidated Independent School District will cast ballots at the HSD Business Office.

Incumbents Kelly Patton, Blain Burton, and Rex Morris will be joined on the ballot by challengers James Potts, Bonnie Walsh, and Tonja Ruthardt. Three positions are available this year.

HSD candidates were interviewed by members of the HHS senior class. Their responses are on page ten.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., and results will be published next week.

McCain plan radical but also right on

By Michael D. Tanner, Cato Institute

John McCain is proposing the most radical overhaul of American health-care policy in a decade and a half. Not since Bill and Hillary Clinton's failed reform attempt has a presidential candidate, or even a president, called for such sweeping changes to the way health care is delivered and health insurance is purchased.

THE NEW YORK TIMES reported on Thursday that 71 percent of Americans now receive insurance through their place of employment, but employer-based health insurance is a historical accident, stemming from a combination of labor shortages and wage controls during World War II. It limits consumer choice by giving decisions over coverage to employers rather than employees, meaning workers who lose their jobs lose their insurance. And individuals who do not receive employer-provided insurance face a greater financial burden when they try to buy insurance on their own.

McCain's proposal would give people back the choices they need to get better care.

Why should that be?

McCain would move us away from such a system. He would count at least some of a worker's employer-paid insurance as taxable income. At the same time, he would provide all Americans with a $2,500 refundable tax credit for individuals and a $5,000 credit for families, regardless of how people obtain their insurance. McCain's proposal exposes him to criticism that he would put people with pre-existing conditions at a disadvantage, because they have a hard time finding affordable individual coverage. But his campaign says he is considering risk-rating the tax credit he would offer, providing more money to those who need it most. And McCain would use federal funds to subsidize state high-risk pools already covering those who have trouble buying insurance in the open market.

In addition, McCain's campaign maintains that his proposal would make insurance more affordable for everyone, including those with pre-existing conditions. In particular, by making insurance more affordable to the young and healthy, McCain's plan will attract them into the market before they develop pre-existing conditions. And McCain rightly claims that deregulation will lead to the creation of new and innovative insurance products that can help solve these problems.

Most notably, McCain would allow people to purchase health insurance across state lines, a practice now prohibited. Health insurance is largely regulated at the state level, and the different regulations and mandates in each mean prices vary widely from state to state. For example, New Jersey imposes more than 40 mandated benefits, including in-vitro fertilization, contraceptives, chiropractors, coverage of children until they reach age 25, and other regulations. As a result, according to the Commonwealth Fund, the cost of a standard health insurance policy for a healthy 25-year old man in New Jersey comes to $5,580.

However, a similar policy in Kentucky, which has far fewer mandates, would cost him only $960 per year. Unfortunately, it is illegal for that hypothetical New Jersey resident to buy the cheaper Kentucky plan. McCain would change that.

McCain would also allow people to purchase insurance through non-traditional groups. Today, three types of organizations can offer group insurance: employers, unions and trade associations. McCain would open this to other groups, notably churches and professional organizations.

Finally, McCain wants to change not only who pays for health care, but how they pay for it. McCain challenges the concept of traditional "fee for service" medicine.

"We should pay a single bill for high-quality health care," he says, "not an endless series of bills for pre-surgical tests and visits, hospitalization and surgery, and follow-up tests, drugs and office visits."

McCain also rightly calls for greater transparency for health care costs and prices.

"Families, insurance companies, the government - whoever is paying the bill - must understand exactly what their care costs are and the outcome they received."

Steve Parente, professor of finance at the University of Minnesota, estimates that the McCain plan would cut the number of uninsured Americans by roughly half. But equally important, McCain's proposal would drive down the cost of health care for everyone.

As Democrats often claim, the status quo isn't working, and that's because so many people are stuck without any good options. McCain's proposal would give people back the choices they need to get better care. And he would do it without having the government take over the health system.

That's a radical change, and the right idea.

Undoing America's ethanol mistake

The Nobel-Prize winning economist Milton Friedman once said, "One of the great mistakes is to judge policies and programs by their intentions rather than their results." When Congress passed legislation to greatly expand America's commitment to biofuels, it intended to create energy independence and protect the environment. But the results have been quite different. America remains equally dependent on foreign sources of energy and new evidence suggests ethanol is causing great harm to the environment. In recent weeks, the correlation between government biofuel mandates and rapidly rising food prices has become undeniable. At a time when the U.S. economy is facing recession, Congress needs to reform its "food-to-fuel" policies and look at alternatives to strengthen energy security.

On December 19, 2007, President Bush signed into law the Energy Independence and Security Act. This legislation had several positive features, including higher fuel standards for cars and greater investment in renewable energies, such as solar power. However, the bill required a huge spike in the biofuel production requirement from 7.5 billion in 2012 to 36 billion gallons in 2022. This was a well-intentioned measure, but it was also impractical. Nearly all our domestic corn and grain supply is needed to meet this mandate, robbing the world of one of its most important sources of food.

We are already seeing the ill effects of this measure. Last year, 25 percent of America's corn crop was diverted to produce ethanol. In 2008, that number will grow to 30-35 percent, and it will soar even higher in the years to come. Furthermore, the trend of farmers supplanting other grains with corn is decreasing the supply of numerous agricultural products. When the supply of those products goes down, the price inevitably goes up. Subsequently, the cost of feeding farm and ranch animals increases and the cost is passed to consumers of beef, poultry, and pork products. Since February 2006, the price of corn, wheat, and soybean has increased by more than 240%. Rising food prices are hitting the pockets of lower-income Americans and people who live on fixed incomes.

While the blame for higher costs shouldn't rest exclusively with biofuels - drought and rising oil costs are contributing factors - the expansion of biofuels has been a major source of the problem. The International Food Policy Research Institute estimates that biofuel production accounts for between one-quarter and one-third of the recent spike in global commodity prices. For the first time in 30 years, food riots are breaking out in many parts of the globe, including major countries such as Mexico, Pakistan, and Indonesia. The fact that America's energy policies are creating global instability should concern the leaders of both political parties.

Restraining the dangerous effects of artificially inflated demand for ethanol should be an issue that unites both conservatives and progressives. As a recent Time cover story pointed out, biofuel mandates increase greenhouse gasses and create incentives for global deforestation. In the Amazon basin, huge swaths of forest are being cleared to meet the growing hunger for biofuels. In addition, relief organizations are facing gaping shortfalls as the cost of food outpaces their ability to provide aid for the 800 million who lack food security.

The recent food crisis does not mean we should entirely abandon biofuels. The best way to lower energy prices and reduce our dependence on foreign oil is to accelerate production of all forms of domestic energy. Expanding biofuels, while refusing to take other measures, such as lifting the ban on oil and natural gas production in Alaska and the Outer Continental Shelf, is counterproductive: We should be tapping into a broad portfolio of energy options, including clean coal, nuclear power, and wave energy. The key is increasing energy supply. By taking these measures, we can enable biofuels to be part of the energy solution, instead of contributing to the energy problem.

Congress must take action. I am introducing legislation that will freeze the biofuel mandate at current levels, instead of steadily increasing it through 2022. This is a commonsense measure that will reduce pressure on global food prices and restore balance to America's energy policy.

As the Senate debates this issue, we must remain focused on the facts. At one point, expanding biofuels made sense for America's energy security. But the recent surge in food prices has forced us to adapt. The global demand for energy and food is expected to rise about 50% in the next 20 years, and the U.S. is well-positioned to be a leader in both areas. But that will require a careful, finely-tuned approach to America's farm products. By freezing the biofuel mandate at current levels, we will go a long way to achieving that goal.

Do what's best for kids, taxpayers

As a property owner and taxpayer in Donley County and other counties, I'm very concerned about seeing our hard-earned tax dollars being spent wisely, especially when it concerns education. School administrators and educators always need to be good stewards of tax money as well as state funding, making sure that the best quality of education possible is provided for every student in the classroom as well as in vocational and athletic programs.

Furthermore, the success achieved in these areas has a ripple effect of pride, beginning with the student and extending to educators, administrators, and all the way to community members. Success, however, is not only measured by TAKS scores, UIL banners, and scoreboard totals, but also by the life lessons learned along the way. Many of these lessons learned are simply by watching the actions of their instructor or recalling their words of encouragement. Therefore, it is crucial that those who have the opportunity to influence and lead our youth have character traits such as honesty, respect, and trustworthiness.

This brings me to my question. Why has the Clarendon boys' basketball coach, who has brought more success to the program than has been achieved in more than 30 years and whom I believe to be a fine example of these character traits, no longer allowed to coach our young men?

The school's website states, "Every good effort put forth today will help us insure a better tomorrow." How is the removal of this coach, who by reputation and performance proves he is an asset to the school, insuring a better tomorrow?

I hope that each elected school board member and school employee paid with tax money will share in my concern and seek to answer these questions. In their positions, they should be 100 percent committed to excellence in education.

Staples awards $1 million to remove, control feral hogs

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) recently awarded Texas AgriLife Extension Service $1 million for the agency's new Texas Feral Hog Control Program: Moving Towards A Long-Term Abatement Strategy.

Texas is home to more than two million feral hogs, the largest feral hog population in the U.S., and their numbers continue to increase due to high reproductive potential and the lack of natural predators.

Feral hogs wreak havoc on property, livestock, crops and pastures across the state and frustrate landowners because of their destructive nature. In fact the Extension Service estimates the statewide annual economic damage caused by feral hogs is close to $52 million.

The 80th Legislature directed this $1,000,000 in funding following a $500,000 pilot project funded by the 79th Legislature. The pilot program was administered by Texas AgriLife Extension Service and Texas Tech University through a TDA grant in 2006-2007 and did provide technical assistance to landowners at three sites, and promote educational events for other landowners statewide.

The pilot project succeeded in removing more than 3,000 feral hogs, saving landowners/agricultural producers nearly $3 million in losses.

Government beefs up as economy slims

WASHINGTON, D.C. - As the economy struggles to grow, the Bureau of Labor Statistics is reporting that local, state and federal governments have added a combined 76,800 jobs in the first quarter of 2008, with nearly 18 percent of those jobs at the federal level. In response to the numbers, the Libertarian Party issued this response by National Media Coordinator Andrew Davis:

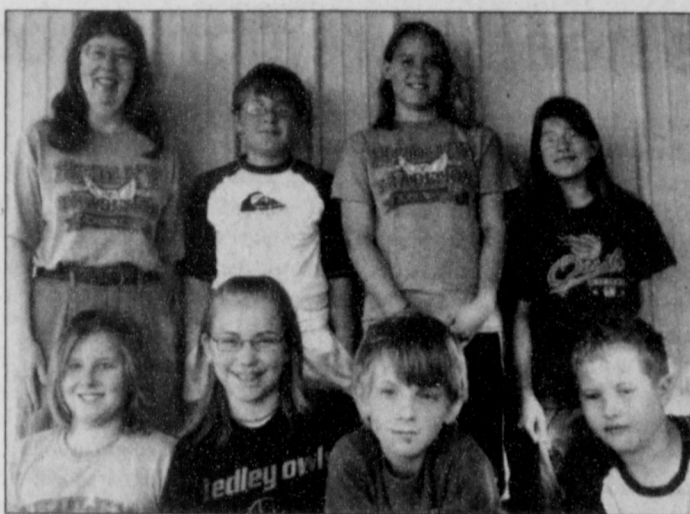

"While the private sector sheds jobs and the economy fails to grow by even one percentage point in the first quarter, government at all levels is growing at an alarming pace. Government expansion is bad for the economy, and even worse for liberty. In the end, taxpayers are left with less rights and a bigger tab to pay. The economic stimulus package Americans should be asking for is a new government come November that is willing to cut taxes and reduce spending."

The Libertarian Party is America's third largest political party, founded in 1971 as an alternative to the two main political parties. You can find more information on the Libertarian Party by visiting www.LP.org.

The Libertarian Party proudly stands for smaller government, lower taxes and greater individual freedom.

ENABLING OR DISABLING?

As we try to help our children, we always want to enable them or give them the tools, character and skills to succeed in life. Helping them to have a relationship with God is the greatest way of enabling them. (Matthew 6:33) "But seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you. Their lives will be much fuller and peaceable if God is the priority in their lives. Teaching them the meaning of work and good ethics will help them as they move on into adulthood.

Sometimes we allow them to do things that only can disable them for the future. Parents who allow their kids and friends to use their homes for drinking or other destructive activities are hurting them. Religious groups who allow their facilities to be used without proper oversight for teenage activities are not enabling them. When our schools will not discipline those that daily disturb class and disrespect the teacher, they are not helping the kids. When parents allow their children to drive their vehicles while underage, they are teaching them that all laws are not to be obeyed.

When teenage pregnancy is rising in our schools, we know they are being allowed freedoms that they are not ready for. When we look at our churches and see mostly old people, something is very wrong. For the last several decades, we have allowed God to be kicked out of our schools. We have allowed sports, entertainment, etc. to have a higher priority in our children's lives than Jesus Christ. The sad thing is there seems to be no end in sight. This behavior is old as time. God would send His prophets to try and warn the people. Hear Isaiah: (Isaiah 1:16-20) "Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; Put away the evil of your doings from before My eyes. Cease to do evil, Learn to do good; Seek justice, Rebuke the oppressor; Defend the fatherless, Plead for the widow. "Come now, and let us reason together," Says the LORD, "Though your sins are like scarlet, They shall be as white as snow; Though they are red like crimson, They shall be as wool. If you are willing and obedient, You shall eat the good of the land; But if you refuse and rebel, You shall be devoured by the sword"; For the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

God commands us to be good parents. We will be held responsible one day for our actions or inaction. I pray that we all will have the courage to do as we should.

CC Bulldogs head to regional tournament

The Clarendon College baseball team will head to the regional tournament this weekend in Lubbock. The Bulldogs will take on Temple College at 10 a.m. on Sunday at Hays Field, located on the south end of the Lubbock Christian University campus at the corner of 26th Street and Dover Avenue. Results following each game will be posted on <http://www.lcuchaps.com/main.aspx?cat=nonlcu> if you'd like to keep track of how the team is doing.

Pre-registration for the summer and fall semesters is underway. If you are interested in taking any courses this summer session or in the fall, please stop by and see us to get signed up. Classes will fill up quick, so don't delay. Summer I Session classes begin June 9 and Summer II Session classes begin July 14. A schedule of classes is available on our website www.clarendoncollege.edu or you can get one by stopping by the Student Services office in the Instructional Center.

Commencement ceremonies were held Friday night, and photos are available on our website at www.clarendoncollege.edu.

If you drove by the college Saturday afternoon, you probably noticed some large inflatable games on campus for Bulldog Bash. Our current and prospective students ate lunch and spent the afternoon with fun and games in the sun. The college brought in a rock climbing wall and lots of inflatable games for the students to enjoy, and a slip-n-slide was set up on the college track hill.

Remember, if you have a story about your life, I want to do a "Get to Know Your Neighbor" article. Just call me, or my mailing address is PO Box 119, Hedley, Texas. I will put as much of it in the article as I can. Let's try to get to know each other.

The young folks today don't know what it was like growing up early on, especially early 1900 thru 1980. We need to keep these stories going. Hedley Senior Citizens needs help. A donation here and there will work wonders.

Thought for the Day: I Timothy 2:3 "For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Savior, who desires all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth." When we go to God in prayer, we are expressing our desires, our wants, our needs, our wishes.

Have you ever wondered what God's desires might be? This Scripture shares with us that one of God's desires, perhaps His greatest, is that all of mankind be saved and that we come to a knowledge of the truth.

Recipe: Fruit Medley: 1 can each of apple and peach pie filling, 1 can crushed (drained) pineapple, 4 each sliced bananas, frozen strawberries (drained). Mix well and serve with whipped cream. (No cooking.)

Dieting: Inside me there is a thin person struggling to get out, but I can usually sedate her with chocolate.

Hard workers

Bookie Thornberry, Ruth Hancock, and Freddie Jo Moreman have been wearing themselves out lately working on new and improved exhibits at the Saints' Roost Museum. Those who haven't visited the Museum are in for a treat on their next visit. The Museum board hopes to have several changes in place for the Museum member appreciation dinner next month.

H-wick lucky to have faithful servants as city aldermen

Local elections are being held Saturday, May 10, but not in Howardwick because the three open alderman offices are unopposed.

Our city council consists of a mayor and five aldermen, each serving a two-year term with the aldermen positions expiring on alternate years, thus giving a continuity of service.

At present our council is Mayor H.C. "Buster" Baird, Aldermen Lee Ann Cook, Sam Grider, Pat Butler, Gene Rogers, and Rod Donaldson. After Saturday, our mayor will remain the same, and aldermen will be Pat Butler, Lee Ann Cook, Rod Donaldson, Gene Rogers and new member Tannis McMorrises.

Sam Grider is leaving after serving several terms. Thank you, Sam, for your service to our community.

Our first "Bragging" story comes from Joyce and Marshall Hardin. Their granddaughter, Torey Butler, is graduating May 10 from Oklahoma University in Norman, Okla., with a degree in journalism. She is the daughter of Barbara and Jamie Butler of Norman. Congratulations, Torey, and good luck to you from Texas.

We want to welcome new residents John and Mary Ohman who moved in on Diane St. Hope you enjoy living in the community.

The idea of Mother's Day has been around for a very long time, but the history of it in the US is interesting. The first attempt at organizing a Mother's Day was after the Civil War to bring mother's from both sides together.

In 1872, Julia Ward Howe, who wrote "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," tried to organize an anti-war observance of Mother's Day; but the lady known as the true organizer was Anna Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia.

In 1907 she held a memorial service for her mother, Ann Jarvis, at her church, and the movement was started. On May 14, 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed the bill marking the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day. Easter and Mother's Day are the only two Sunday's NASCAR does not schedule a race. May 11 is the date this year; and if you still have her, honor her as NASCAR does.

Our condolences to the family of Ruth Mills who died April 27. Ruth moved to Howardwick with her husband, the late Melville Mills, in 1970 and were early residents working to help our community grow. Please put the family on your prayer list.

Remember the revival at Howardwick Baptist Church May 18-21. Mark your calendar.

Kids showing terrific Texas posters at library

The next time you go to or from Burton Memorial Library for your favorite books, how about stopping by Dairy Queen, which has been under new management during the past few months?

Many of you have already met new manager, Rick Beaudoin. Teachers and Coaches, you may want to check with Rick concerning his generous offer for you, your classes, and teams when and if you choose to bring them down during a special outing or field trip. Thanks, Rick, for yours and your staff's kind efforts in becoming an important part of our community.

Our first grade students have, once again, provided a lovely "treat" with their talent which is displayed on library walls in the meeting room.

You won't want to miss viewing their attractive, informative Texas posters. Boys and girls, I have really enjoyed looking at them and have learned some interesting things about Texas from reading them. Many others will, too. Clarendon is proud of you and your teachers. Thanks, first grade teachers, Buffie Smith and Medina Gribble, for leading your students in this worthwhile project. Students' posters will continue to be available for viewing for another week.

Many of you appreciate Burton Memorial Library's outstanding Texas Collection which will be discussed in future articles. However, I'd like to mention one unusual selection that captured my interest while browsing through this section several days ago. The First Texas cookbook published by the First Presbyterian Church in Houston in 1883. "Cookbook?" you ask. I assure you this is no ordinary cookbook. According to authors, Mrs. George W. Kidd was "largely responsible for the entire undertaking" of 721 recipes published close to the time of Houston's first telephone, first place lighted by electricity, and other "firsts" concerning people of early Texas and their culture. This book was copyrighted in 1986, but intentionally contains typographical errors from the original copy. Not only will readers be interested in experimenting with delicious recipes, but they will also likely be amused at certain titles and fascinated with ingredients for various ailment cures with interesting detailed instructions. You will be pleasantly surprised with this unusual cookbook.

Some of you may not be aware of the continued book sale that is always in process at Burton Memorial Library. A variety of selections from favorite authors is available. Jeri, Mary, and Rachel will be glad to direct you to this section. Prices for each selection are as follow: New Hardbacks, $2; Used Hardbacks, $1.50; Used Paperbacks, 25¢; and Magazines 10¢.

Extension offers help making spice conversions

By MaryRuth Bishop, AgriLife Agent

Spices and herbs have been used in foods for centuries. Archeologists estimate that by 50,000 B.C. primitive man had discovered that parts of certain aromatic plants help make food taste better, according to the American Spice Trade Association (ASTA).

Spices were once so costly only the wealthy could afford them. In 11th Century Europe, many towns paid their taxes and rents in pepper. The reason for Columbus' voyage in 1492 was to seek a more direct passage to the rich spices of the Orient.

What's the difference between a spice and an herb?

Herbs are leaves of low-growing shrubs. Examples are parsley, chives, marjoram, thyme, basil, caraway, dill, oregano, rosemary, savory, sage and celery leaves. These can be used fresh or dried. Dried forms may be whole, crushed, or ground.

Spices come from the bark (cinnamon), root (ginger, onion, garlic), buds (cloves, saffron), seeds (yellow mustard, poppy, sesame), berry (black pepper), or the fruit (allspice, paprika) of tropical plants and trees.

Many dehydrated vegetable seasonings are available. These include onion, garlic ... and shallots.

Seasoning blends are mixtures of spices and herbs.

General Rules for Amounts. If possible, start with a tested recipe from a reliable source. If you're creating your own recipe, begin with trying one or two spices or herbs. The amount to add varies with the type of spice or herb, type of recipe and personal preference.

Substituting Equivalent Amounts of Different Forms. What if your recipe calls for fresh herbs and all you have are dried? Here are some approximate amounts of different forms of herbs equivalent to each other: 1 tablespoon finely cut fresh herbs; 1 teaspoon crumbled dried herbs; 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground dried herbs

General Rules for Amounts. If you don't know how much of a spice or herb to use, follow these recommendations. Begin with 1/4 teaspoon of most ground spices or ground dried herbs. Start with 1/8 teaspoon for cayenne pepper and garlic powder; adjust as needed. Red pepper intensifies in flavor during cooking; add in small increments.

Doubling a Recipe. When doubling a recipe: 1) Do not double spices and herbs. 2) Increase amounts by 1-1/2 times. 3) Taste, add more if needed.

When to Add Spices and Herbs. Adding fresh herbs during cooking. As a general rule, add fresh herbs near the end of the cooking time or just before serving as prolonged heating can cause flavor and aroma losses. Add the more delicate fresh herbs — basil, chives, cilantro, dill leaves, parsley, marjoram and mint — a minute or two before the end of cooking or sprinkle them on the food before it's served. The less delicate fresh herbs, such as dill seeds, oregano, rosemary, tarragon and thyme, can be added about the last 20 minutes of cooking.

Whole dried spices and herbs (such as whole allspice and bay leaves): Release their flavors slower than crumbled or ground ones. Are ideal for dishes cooking an hour or more, such as soups and stews.

Ground dried spices and herbs: Release their flavor quickly. May taste best in shorter-cooker recipes or added nearer the end of longer-cooking ones. Crumbled dried herbs may differ: Milder herbs (such as basil) may flavor best added toward the end of cooking. More robust herbs (such as thyme) can stand longer cooking periods.

Freshly grinding spices (such as black pepper and nutmeg) provides more flavor than buying them already ground. This also applies to using them in uncooked foods.

Secure whole spices, such as cloves, in a tea ball for easy removal at the end of cooking.

Uncooked foods. For uncooked foods, add both fresh and dried spices and herbs several hours before serving to allow flavors to blend.

Barbee

Goldie Francis Lamb Jackson Satterwhite Barbee, died Sunday, May 4, 2008.

Born the only daughter to William Salathiel and Mattie Francis Lamb on December 11, 1910, in Rockdale, Goldie was a sister to four brothers: Pete, Claud, Walter, and Perney. She also had half-brothers, Homer and Joe, and half-sisters, Willie, Maggie, and Hattie. Goldie was the sole survivor.

At the age of twenty, Goldie met and married Roy Calvin Jackson in Rockdale, Texas. They moved to Memphis, in 1936 where Roy farmed. They moved to Lakeview in 1940 where he worked for the WPA building the "Rock Wall" at the school. They moved to Lelia Lake in 1941, where Roy continued to farm and work in the cotton gin hoeing and pulling cotton. Goldie toiled alongside Roy in the fields as did their children, always dressed in starched and ironed clothing that had been washed using a rub board, hung on the line to dry, and pressed with a flat iron. She also canned much of the family's food, sewed the girls' dresses using flour sack material, and made quilts to keep them warm and to sell for extra money. She would continue this practice for most of her life, completing eleven quilts the year she celebrated her 94th birthday. She finally stored the quilt frame the next year claiming that her hands pained and her eyesight had weakened.

In 1946, Goldie began working at the EZ Laundry in Clarendon. She and Mrs. Phelan, her neighbor, rode together for years. She and Roy bought the laundry in July 1962 and operated it until Roy's health forced him to retire. Goldie became his caregiver while continuing to wash and iron in her home for several of her customers. She was never content to sit still and ironed for a select few until in her nineties. Their marriage of forty-four years produced son Lee Roy and daughters Della and Peggy. Lee resides in Howardwick with wife Tiva; Peggy lives in Garland with husband Gus Svensson. Della preceded her in death in May 2004, but her husband Freddie Ray resides in Amarillo.

Following Roy's death in 1974, Goldie married Leroy "Sally" Satterwhite. Their only too brief marriage lasted just a few years, but their time together was filled with much happiness. Sally passed away in 1982.

Goldie determined the time had come for her to learn to drive and at the age of 63, she received her driver's license after repeating the driving test three times. This was one of her proudest moments!

Three years after Sally's death, Goldie married one of her best friend's brothers, Frank Barbee. During their nine years together, Frank became the chief cook while Goldie continued ironing. They were actively involved with Clarendon's Senior Citizens as well as the First Christian Church. Frank's daughters Twilight, Nina Ruth, Maxine, and son James became part of Goldie's extended family and loved her dearly. Frank died in 1990.

Goldie continued living in her little house at 7th & Johns until her health forced her to move to Amarillo where she resided with daughter Della. Following Della's death, Goldie moved to Garland where she lived with Peggy and Gus and later at Winters Park Nursing and Rehab Facility. She never tired of bragging about her seven grandchildren: Gary, Patricia, Toby, Cathy, Michael, Lesa, and Gregory. When each one married and added spouses Debbie, Alan, Karen, Steve, Karen, Monty, and Melissa, Grandma had enough love for all of them. She had 16 great-grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren. She lived on this earth nearly a full century during which time she saw changes that will never again be equaled. She watched her daddy plow the field with a horse-drawn plow, rode in her first automobile with husband Roy, witnessed the first steps of mankind on the moon, and enjoyed receiving letters via email from her children and grandchildren. She had an unshakable faith in her Lord, an incredible work ethic, a quirky sense of humor, and a precious smile that touched everyone who ever met her. She was loved; she will be missed and never forgotten.

Goldie's life will be celebrated Friday, May 8, at 2:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon. The family requests memorials be made in Goldie's honor to the First Baptist Church, the Donley County Senior Center, or to a favorite charity.

Meeting to be held for foster parents

When abuse and neglect occurs, and children are no longer able to safely remain in their own homes, we are fortunate enough to have individuals willing to provide care and support to them in licensed foster homes.

Foster care provides a temporary safe haven for children as Child Protective Services, CPS, caseworkers, and foster parents work toward uniting children with their families. These children, through no fault of their own, were placed in abusive or neglectful situations by their biological parents. In some situations, they are not able to return home and deserve a chance for a new life with adoptive parents who can teach them that family can be a safe place.

There is urgent need for more families to open their hearts and homes by becoming foster and adoptive parents. To learn more about fostering and adoption, attend an informational meeting the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the CPS office located at 3521 SW 15th in Amarillo.

Drugs in the News

Popular Drug May Help Lazy Eye

A visual impairment called Lazy Eye is a condition that sometimes occurs in early childhood. One eye is weaker or produces distorted images more so than the other eye because the child does not use it enough. One estimate indicates that 3% of children have some form of amblyopia, medical term for lazy eye. If not treated early in life, lazy eye can later cause depth perception problems or possibly loss of vision. A non-drug treatment for lazy eye includes wearing a patch over the stronger eye to make the weaker one work harder and become stronger. According to the medical literature there is no proven drug treatment for adults.

Researchers in Finland and Italy reported recently that the popular antidepressant drug Prozac (fluoxetine) first introduced in the US in 1987 may turn out to provide relief from lazy eye for adults and children. These researchers evaluated the effect of giving Prozac to test animals. The study indicated that Prozac appears to work by helping brain nerves in adults return to a more "plastic" state experienced during youth. The research team is discussing the next step, which may be to test humans.

Broncs warm up with BR

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos are gearing up for their match-up with Electra and did so by playing a warm-up game with Boys Ranch. Clarendon walked away with a 7-2 win.

"After losing to BR on two occasions, we went into the game more focused in preparing for the playoffs," Coach Brad Elam said. "We played well in all aspects of the game, and our pitching was outstanding as we gave up only two unearned runs."

Johnny Gaines and Austin Howard threw three innings, and Trevor pitched the last inning.

"As a group, they struck out seven and walked only one hitter," Elam said. "Our defense was strong and committed only two errors. Gaines went three for three at the plate with a walk, three runs scored, a triple, three RBIs; and he also connected for his third homerun to rack up good numbers offensively."

The Broncos will take on Electra on Friday, May 9, at 5:00 p.m. It will only be one game, and the Broncos will have the hometown advantage as it will be played at Clarendon College.

Amarillo boy makes donation to Shriners

Olsen Park Elementary School in Amarillo started a not long ago new program called Project Others. The purpose of the program is to instill in each child personal responsibility, empathy and respect for others, to reach out to other people and to make someone else happy and brighten their day.

Principal Alan Nickson raised money from people in the community to give all 400 students, from pre-kindergarten to the 5th Grade, $5.00 each to decide by themselves, how to use the money and to look for ways to help people. Some of the children donated the money to a charitable organization.

Some had a bake sale and increased their money 3 fold and gave it to a charity. Another child gave roses to residents in a nursing home on Valentines Day and unbeknownst to him one of the roses was given to Mr. Nickson's grandmother. Some children pooled their $5.00 to buy groceries for needy families and a few grocery store managers added gift cards. They were limited only by their creativity and imagination. The program was led by Jennifer Duck, School Counselor.

Ryan Hand, a third grade student, decided to give his $5.00 to the Shriners Hospitals for Children-Houston in honor of Sage Warner, his best friend since they were three-years-old.

Sage has idiopathic congenital scoliosis and is a patient of the Shriners Hospitals for Children-Houston. He has had surgery and now attends the outpatient clinic in Houston. Ryan and Sage are on the same sports teams and are Boy Scouts.

The Olsen Owls had to fill out an activity sheet to illustrate and describe how they used their $5.00. Ryan drew a picture of Sage in a hospital bed and he said "I donated my five dollars to Shriners Hospital because my friend Sage had back surgery there and I wanted to help. It must be a good hospital because Sage likes to go there".

Ryan will present his gift on May 9, 2008 to Dr. Douglas Barnes, Chief of Staff of the Shriners Hospitals for Children-Houston and Don Ellison, a member of the Board of Governors of the Hospital. The Outreach Clinic is held three times a year in the BSA Family Medical Clinic in Amarillo.

The Shriners Hospitals for Children-Houston conducts Outreach Clinic programs in Amarillo, El Paso and LaFeria, Texas. A core segment of the hospital staff travels to the Amarillo Outreach Clinic three times a year to screen, diagnose, and manage patients not requiring inpatient service.

In 2007, 156 patients were seen in the Amarillo Outreach Clinic. The purpose of the outreach clinics is not only to take care of existing Shriners patients so that they can avoid traveling the long distance to Houston for follow-up clinic visits, but also to see new patients that have been referred to and made application to the Shriners system.

Since 1952, the Shriners Hospitals for Children Houston has been providing quality medical care, completely free of charge, to any child with orthopedic conditions if he/she is under the age of 18 years, has a problem involving bones, joints or muscles whether congenital or acquired by accident and will experience improvement in the quality of life with treatment.

Some of the most common orthopedic problems treated at the Shriners Hospital are scoliosis, hand, back or hip problems, limb deficiencies, birth defects of the spine, club foot, cerebral palsy, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, spina bifida, leg length discrepancies and osteogenesis imperfecta.

Physician referrals are welcomed but any parent, grandparent, guardian, teacher, nurse, social worker and others who know a child who may benefit from the services provided by the Shriners Hospitals are encouraged to request an application by calling 1-800-853-1240

Students interview Hedley school board candidates

By Tangelia Copelin

Hedley ISD will have six candidates on the ballot for the 2008 school board elections. The graduating class of 2012 interviewed the candidates to find out a little bit about each one.

The following is a compiled effort of these students: Ethan Naylor, Willie Lewis, Chelsea Galvan, Joey Allen, Joe Williams, Kayla Elam, Justine Moore, Cheyenne Kosechata, Carlye Hancock, Kadee Riggs, Sierra Shelp, Cassidy Burton, and Patricia Valles.

James Lee Potts is a 22-year-old local of Hedley. He graduated with honors from Hedley High School, and is the son of James Edward and TimberLee Potts. James Lee is currently single living in Lubbock where he is a medical student. He believes he has a lot to offer the community and would like to be a part of the school board to help keep the school healthy.

Rex Morris is currently serving on the school board and is running for a new term. He is a cattle buyer who is married to Mikki Morris the Hedley School secretary. He has two children who attend Hedley School – Grayson age 10 and Payton age seven. He has lived in Quail for six years. He stated in his interview that being on the school board “gives me an opportunity to witness my children’s education and be involved in the business end of the community.”

Tonja Ruthhardt, wife of Travis, is a candidate for the 2008 school board. Tonja has three children – Rachael 25, Haley 22, and Seth a sixth grader at Hedley School. Tonja and Travis recently purchased Scooter’s convenience store in Hedley and changed it into Uncle Bob’s. Tonja also works at Greenbelt Cleaners in Clarendon. Their family has lived in Hedley for only a year, but her children have gone to Hedley School for 10 years. Tonja feels that running for the school board will be an active way to help out the community and give her a chance to better the school with her input.

Blain Burton currently serves as the Hedley School Board President and is running for re-election. Blain and his wife, Tanya Holland

Burton, have been residents of the Hedley community for three years. They have three daughters who attend Hedley School – Kailee 16, Cassidy 13, and Kortney 11. Mr. Burton works as a paramedic for the Associated Ambulance Authority and the Childress EMS. He is a volunteer firefighter for the community. Burton wants to be re-elected for the school board because he has kids in the school so he is interested in what happens in the school, and he wants to add more programs – such as volleyball – to help the students become more active in the school system.

Another candidate for the Hedley School Board is Kelly Patton, wife of Vernon Patton. She is currently self-employed, while her husband is an employed truck driver and manages the family farm. Kelly has lived in Hedley for eight years and has two children – Miles 10, and Wesley 6. Mrs. Patton is involved in various organizations, such as Cub Scouts, Lions Club, and Hedley Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary. Her reasons for running for the school board are to help the community and most importantly to insure that the students of Hedley ISD get a good education.

Bonnie Walsh is a longtime educator who has 30 years experience in education and is currently running for a spot on the Hedley School Board. Bonnie is the mother of Kari Lindsey and David Lindsey. She has four grandchildren and has been a resident of Hedley for nine years. She is currently employed by Memphis ISD. She wants to be a part of the Hedley School Board to help keep the Hedley School active and not let it become sluggish and die.
