Hedley FBC to host banquet for seniors

The First Baptist Church of Hedley will host its annual Senior Citizens' Honor Banquet on Tuesday, March 3, 2009, at the church fellowship hall.

Great food and entertainment are being prepared for the wonderful senior citizens, and they would love for everyone to come and join them for this annual event.

The dinner starts at 6:30 p.m. and is free to all area senior citizens. No RSVP is necessary. Brisket, rolls, green bean casserole, baked potato, and dessert will be served.

CHS OAP to present 'The Bridal Night'

The Clarendon High School Drama Department will be presenting this year's One Act Play, "The Bridal Night" by Paul Avila Mayer, for the public on Sunday, March 1, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, March 3, at 8 p.m.

The cost is $1 for students and $3 for adults. Please do not bring children under the age of 5.

CISD announces Child Find Efforts

Child Find is a federally established, comprehensive system designed to assure that each child, regardless of disability, is educated toward his or her maximum potential. The purpose of Child Find is to locate, identify, and evaluate infants, children and young adults through age 21 who may have a developmental delay or other disabilities.

Clarendon CISD offers comprehensive special education services to eligible students ages 3 through 21 years and to children from birth through age 21 years who have a hearing or visual impairment. Children from birth to age 3 with other disabilities will be referred to appropriate agencies for services. All referrals are considered confidential, and services are provided at no cost to the family.

If you know a child who may have a problem with learning, speech, vision, hearing, or who has physical or health impairments, please urge his or her parents to contact Tashia Duncan at 84-3855.

A free, appropriate, public education with a full continuum of services is available to eligible children. Child Find can open the window of hope for a brighter future.

Chamber banquet to be held April 4

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce has announced its annual banquet will be held Saturday, April 4, at the Bairfield Activity Center on the Clarendon College campus.

The theme for the evening will be "Hearts & Hats," and the event will begin at 6 p.m.

More details will be released as the date approaches.

County cracks down on illegal dumping

Two Hedley men were working to clean up county roads this week after pleading guilty to charges of illegal dumping.

Charlie Jaramillo, age 68, and Robert Jaramillo, age 51, were charged with a Class A Misdemeanor after they dumped more than 200 tires in four places along County Road X last fall, according to the Donley County Sheriff's Office and County Attorney Landon Lambert.

"We want people to know we are prosecuting for illegal dumping," Lambert said. "This is a violation of the health and safety code, and it can get up to a felony level depending on the weight and volume of what is dumped."

Officials say the Jaramillos were hired to clean up a property that had been repossessed last year and assured the owner that they had approval from a property owner to dispose of the tires. But the tires ended up along CR X and were discovered by County Commissioner Donnie Hall in September.

A subsequent investigation led to the arrest of the men on October 10, and their case was adjudicated this month in county court before Judge Jack Hall. County Attorney Landon Lambert said the men received 40 hours of community service each to be served picking up trash on county roads starting with CR X.

The Jaramillos started their service Tuesday morning under the supervision of county employees and the sheriff's office.

Chief Deputy Randy Bond said illegal dumping on county roads is a problem that seems to be getting worse but said this case was not like any he had seen before.

"We've never had dumping of this magnitude before," he said.

County employee Billy Holman was supervising the Jaramillos and said the county has to clean parts of CR X nearly every week.

"It's really gotten worse since the city stopped allowing its residents to dump once a month for free," Holman said.

Furniture and appliances seem to be the most common items dumped on the county road, but every day trash gets thrown out there also. As the Jaramillos worked Tuesday, among the trash was an empty Coors case and ice bag that was still half full of ice.

Lambert says people need to contact their city or county officials to find out the proper way to dispose of items, and the sheriff's office reminds everyone that illegal dumping offenders will be arrested and prosecuted without tolerance.

Teamwork improves fields

By Ashlyn Tubbs, Clarendon Enterprise

The Clarendon High School Bronco and Lady Bronco baseball and softball teams aren't the only ones on the field practicing teamwork. While the teams work on running bases and catching pop flies, members of the community have united together to help make long-time visions for the ball fields come true.

In 2005, Clarendon saw members of the community join together in a spirit of cooperation to help make dreams of community leaders, parents, and kids for the ball fields become a reality. Now four years later, this same combined effort continues as upgrades to the fields near completion.

Among the new renovations that are currently in progress are the addition of two new sets of bleachers for all three fields as well as concrete pads under them, safety railing, a new outfield fence in the Little League's Hart-Moore Field, and safety panels. According to Clarendon ISD Superintendent Monty Hysinger, the labor will be well worth the effort so parents, fans and citizens will have access to a much better viewing area and a nice place to sit when they come to watch the ball games.

"Since I've been here, we have completely got two brand new parks," Clarendon ISD Athletic Director Gary Jack says. "We just need to keep upgrading our facilities because it's just something continual. The bleachers were a big part of what we wanted to do next."

Many members of the community have volunteered their time and labor to accomplish this common goal, and many dads have also helped including Stan Shelton, Randy White and Casey Cobb. Local contractors have been hired to help, including Kelly Hill, who is overseeing bleacher and fence construction, and Roy Williams, who is in charge of pouring concrete pads for bleachers and handicap ramps.

"All the work down there has been a joint effort from the school, and quite a few volunteers, along with all the donations that have been made. We have some of the nicest facilities in district, and I'm pretty excited about that," Stan Shelton said.

Local donations have drastically decreased the cost of this renovation. Clarendon College generously donated the new bleachers, since they had some left over from their Equine Center. Greenbelt Water Authority donated sand to help with the concrete. Some labor has been provided by inmates from Childress, under the supervision of Tommy Leeper. Gary Jack drives the bus provided by CISD for the transportation of the inmates to and from Childress.

According to Hysinger, this project could have easily cost $120,000; but with the help of community donations, it should cost only around $40,000.

"It's a great thing what we're doing," Roy Williams says. "There's a lot of people coming together. A lot of the fathers are doing different things to help out. It's a community effort. The superintendent of the schools is the head of it, but it's just different people joining together and doing things to help make this possible. It's going to be a nice facility when we finish it."

Senior Devin Noble expresses his appreciation for the hard work and dedication of the community to benefit the baseball program and McClellan Field.

"I remember playing in the field in Little League, and it was horrible," Noble says. "There were stickers everywhere, and the fence and dugouts were bad. But now we have one of the best fields in the Panhandle. Come out, enjoy the new facilities, and support us because we're really good this year and have a great chance of going to state."

Candidates beginning to emerge for elections

Two more candidates have emerged for this year's local election, both running for a position on the Clarendon Board of Aldermen.

Alderman Terry Noble has filed for re-election, and Larry Hicks has also filed to run for the board.

Two positions are up on the city board - one held by Noble and the other held by Alderman Ann Huey. The mayor's position is also up for election. Neither Huey nor Mayor Chris Ford had filed for re-election as of Tuesday morning.

No candidates have filed at the Donley County Hospital District, but the three board members whose terms are expiring have made their plans known. Melinda McAnear has said she intends to run for her Place 3 position again, but Don Thornberry (Place 1) and Alan Fletcher (Place 2) have announced that they will not be seeking re-election.

The only other declared candidate in this year's election is Wayne Hardin, who seeking re-election on the Clarendon ISD Board of Trustees. The other member whose term is up, Joe Lemley, has not yet filed for re-election.

A total of 16 positions are up for election this year for citizens interested in any of six local governments.

In addition to those positions discussed above, the City of Howard will elect the mayor and two aldermen, the City of Hedley will elect three aldermen, and the Hedley ISD Board of Trustees has two positions open this year.

All local offices are elected at-large, but hospital board candidates must sign up for a specific place. Most positions are two-year terms, but school board members serve for three years.

Sign up continues through Monday, March 9, 2009; and the elections will be held Saturday, May 9.

CC eyeing wind farm on campus

Five electric wind turbines might be located on the campus of Clarendon College someday if contract negotiations now underway prove successful.

CC President Bill Auvenshine says the college is currently negotiating with US Wind Energy LLC concerning the possibility of locating the turbines south of the Livestock & Equine Center.

"We have about 50 acres that are being unused and have no plans for," Auvenshine said.

The deal, which was a topic on last Thursday's Board of Regents meeting, would be beneficial to the college in two ways.

"We would get a sizeable lease plus the opportunity to train our students in our wind energy program on these towers," the president said.

The college currently has 12 students enrolled in its wind energy program at the CC Childress Center.

Auvenshine said the energy company has presented Clarendon College with a contract, and it is now being reviewed by the college's attorneys.

In other college business, the Board of Regents last week approved a contract with an Amarillo company, Run Solutions, to improve and expand the college's information technology department. The college director of that department will remain in charge, but the company will help expand the use of the current system, Auvenshine said.

The board also continued to discuss building prospects in Pampa. Auvenshine said the college is looking at possible building sites and is in talks with the Gray County Commissioners Court about the possibility of the county carrying the bond to build facilities and then leasing them back to the college. The lease would be paid for with funds from the Gray County Maintenance Tax for Clarendon College, which was approved by voters in that county last year.

Auvenshine said the alternative to that plan would be for the college to form a public facilities corporation to borrow the money for facilities and pay it back with the Gray County Maintenance Tax.

The board also reviewed and approved the college calendar and college catalog for the next two years; approved the purchase of a new nursing mannequin at a cost of $15,362; reviewed a draft of the college's five-year plan; and authorized moving its March meeting to March 12 to prevent conflicting with Spring Break.

The president talks too much

By Gene Healy, Cato Institute

A week ago, Barack Obama signed the largest spending bill in U.S. history. Monday he hosted a "fiscal responsibility" summit at the White House (a guilty conscience, perhaps?). Tuesday, President Obama delivered his first State of the Union address and issued a new round of lavish demands on the public purse.

In recent weeks, the president has been anywhere and everywhere, with a campaign-style blitz of media appearances and town hall meetings. But, hard as it is to imagine in this era of the omnipresent president, there was a time when presidents weren't seen much and were heard even less. There might be a lesson there for Obama.

Our founding fathers didn't want a president who'd perpetually pound the bully pulpit. They viewed presidential speechifying as a sign of demagoguery, and thought Congress should take the lead on most matters of national policy. They expected the nation's chief executive to pipe down, mind his constitutional business, and keep his hands to himself.

The "permanent campaign" that dominates modern presidential politics would have appalled our forefathers. Accepting the 1844 Democratic nomination, James K. Polk described the custom of the time: "the office of president of the United States should neither be sought nor declined."

When 19th-century candidates spoke publicly, they sometimes felt compelled to apologize, as 1872 Democratic contender Horace Greeley did, for breaking "the unwritten law of our country that a candidate for President may not make speeches."

From Washington to Jackson, presidents gave about three speeches a year on average. In his first year in office, President Clinton gave over 600. Things have changed, but it's not clear they've changed for the better.

Obama's address tonight isn't technically a State of the Union (SOTU) address, purists insist, since he's only been in office a month. But with members of both Houses and the Supreme Court in attendance — standing to clap for every outsized promise — it will look and quack like one.

In early SOTUs, presidents rarely went on at Castro-like length. George Washington's first SOTU was a humble affair, just over 1000 words, devoid of imperious demands for congressional action.

That wasn't humble enough for President Thomas Jefferson, however, who disapproved of his two predecessors giving the SOTU in person before Congress assembled. Jefferson saw that practice as "an English habit, tending to familiarize the public with monarchical ideas," much like the British king's "speech from the throne."

So our third president wrote out his SOTU speeches and had them hand-delivered to Congress. The Jeffersonian custom held for over 100 years, until the power-hungry Woodrow Wilson overthrew it. Of 219 SOTUs, only 71 have been delivered in person.

It's hard to imagine the camera-and-mike-hungry Barack Obama simply "mailing it in." But maybe he ought to think about making himself a little scarier and pounding the pulpit less. If the president became less frantically visible, that might benefit the country and the president himself.

Today's president is a constitutional monstrosity: a national talk-show host with nuclear weapons. When the president dominates the airwaves, promising to cure all manner of economic and social ills, that leads the public to expect a presidential rescue plan for anything that ails the body politic.

The predictable result is an executive branch that rides roughshod over congressional prerogatives. The mortgage bailout Obama announced last week is a case in point, since the bulk of the plan, which has enormous repercussions for the U.S. economy, is being enacted without any action by Congress. A less vocal, less omnipresent president might help us right the constitutional balance of powers.

Moreover, it's not clear that all this speechifying is doing the president himself much good. After Obama announced his housing plan, one headline writer put it this way: "Obama Speaks, Market Listens, Sells Off."

When there's no escape from our national talk-show host-when he appears constantly above every gym treadmill-is it any wonder that we typically want his show cancelled just a few seasons in? Is it any wonder we get sick of him?

There was wisdom in the old ways. A president who talks less might be able to make his words matter more. And a president who promises less might be able to deliver more of what he promises.

Galveston still recovering from storm

History tells us that Mardi Gras' roots may have begun in ancient Rome as a mid-February festival known as "Lupercalia." The celebration was in honor of the god Lupercus, the god of fertility, agriculture and pastoral shepherds, and had Mardi Gras-like observances, including days of feasting.

The celebration eventually spread across Europe, and it was the French who brought Mardi Gras to New Orleans in the late 1600s, which was firmly rooted in the city's culture by the mid 1820s.

Mardi Gras, a French expression that literally means "Fat Tuesday," arose from the custom of parading a fat ox through the streets on Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. Now it is a days-long celebration of indulgence prior to Ash Wednesday, most famously celebrated in New Orleans.

Many countries and cities have their own special traditions prior to Lent. For almost 150 years, we have been celebrating our own Texas-sized Mardi Gras celebration, the largest celebration of its kind in Texas. This year, Mardi Gras! Galveston commemorates its 98th event since its inception in 1867.

The first Mardi Gras! Galveston was a prestigious and colorful affair in that it included a masked ball and a theatrical reenactment of Shakespeare's King Henry IV. One bystander described an 1867 parade by saying it "suddenly sprang out from the bowels of the earth with torch lights, cars and horses." However, it was not until 1871 that the event was celebrated in a massive fashion. A year later, newspaper reports declared that the following year's grand Mardi Gras "promised to eclipse anything ever attempted on Texas soil."

Over the years, the parade carriages grew in splendor, and were soon replaced by automobiles. The glittering balls became more ostentatious. Soon Mardi Gras! Galveston became a grand attraction, with each year becoming more extravagant than the last.

To the dismay of many, the long-time tradition came to a close in 1941 during World War II. For more than 40 years, Galvestonians celebrated Mardi Gras unofficially on their own, with individuals or organizations hosting private parties. In 1985, the citywide merriment was revived by Galveston residents George and Cynthia Mitchell, and the tradition is still going strong 24 years after the revival.

An annual event hosted by the City of Galveston, this year's celebration included 12 days of entertainment, beginning February 13th and continuing all the way up to Fat Tuesday - February 24th. During this period, Galveston Island came alive with more than 50 galas and events and 11 extravagant parades.

Each year, revelers can be seen donning elaborate masks and costumes. Live entertainment, featuring everything from Cajun and salsa to jazz and rock and roll, can be heard late into the night, and the festivities are not complete without mention of Galveston's renowned Gulf Coast cuisine. There is even a Mardi Gras Museum located in the Historic Strand District of Galveston Island.

In 2008, a bystander described one parade as "lighting up the night with massive floats, costumed revelers throwing beads and trinkets, led by marching bands and masked men on horses." More than 250,000 people attend Mardi Gras! Galveston each year, which provides a significant boost to the island's economy. This year's festivities, however, may prove to be more important than ever before.

Galveston is still struggling to recover from the onslaught of devastation brought by Hurricane Ike in September, evident by the fact that some shops in the Historic Downtown Strand District were not open for business for this year's Mardi Gras! Galveston. Galvestonians need our support, no matter how much or how little each of us are able to contribute.

This year's celebration provided a unique opportunity for Texans to help out their fellow statesmen, a responsibility inherent to our kind, and come together for a Texas-sized event.

Gitmo closure plan is premature

On September 11, 2001, the United States peered into the face of evil when 19 foreign terrorists brought the violence of Islamic extremism onto our soil, claiming the lives of nearly 3,000 Americans. That day changed the course of history, delineating the post-9/11 era from the days that came before. In the eight years since, America and its allies have boldly waged the Global War on Terror in an effort to prevent terrorism from ever reaching America's shores again and to protect free nations across the world. This conflict has presented our nation with unique operational challenges for which there is no wartime precedent, such as where and how to detain captured terrorists, including the self-confessed mastermind of 9/11, Khalid Sheikh Mohammed.

Since shortly after 9/11, enemy combatants have been detained at a prisoner facility at Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba. Now, the Guantanamo Bay detention facility has become a point of contention. Just two days after President Obama's Inauguration, he issued an Executive Order to close the Guantanamo Bay terrorist detention facility within a year. I believe this action is premature, and I am extremely concerned about the fast-looming deadline, particularly when no viable alternative for housing these dangerous terrorists and enemy combatants has been outlined.

President Barack Obama's Executive Order states that the closure, which would require the release or transfer of nearly 300 detainees, should be practicable and consistent with national security interests. This cannot happen without a full discussion and thorough plan for the detention of these enemy combatants. The policy contemplates five scenarios for handling current detainees: hand them over to their home countries for incarceration; transfer them to a neutral country; transfer them to prisons on U.S. soil; send them to U.S. facilities abroad; or release them outright. Unfortunately, all of these alternatives heighten the threat to the lives of Americans at home and abroad. Without question, the worst of these options is to send Guantanamo prisoners to domestic prisons in the United States.

By taking this action, we would essentially place terrorists in the neighborhoods and communities of American citizens. In 2007, the U.S. Senate expressed its firm opposition to any plans to release Guantanamo detainees into American society or to house them in U.S. facilities, by a vote of 94-3. Vice President Biden (then-Senator of Delaware) was among the 94 Senators opposing transfer of the prisoners to the U.S.; President Obama (then-Senator of Illinois) was not present for the vote.

Alternatively, transferring enemy combatants to prisons in foreign states or releasing them to their home countries is also a dangerous proposition. In January, it was reported that former Guantanamo detainee Said Ali al-Shihri, who had been released into the custody of Saudi Arabia, has subsequently resurfaced as a terrorist operative. Today, he is al-Qaeda's deputy leader in Yemen and is charged with planning and executing acts of violence against the U.S. and its

HHS UIL team competes at Canadian invitational

Hedley High's UIL academic teams got one more tune-up before district by competing at the Canadian Invitational Academic Meet on February 14.

The Social Studies team of Marlee Sargent, Benedikt Grieger, Jenni Allen, and Reid Copelin won first place, with Sargent winning the individual gold medal and Grieger placing 4th individually.

Both the Calculator team and Science team placed second among more than a dozen schools of all classifications at the meet. Both teams came close to winning, but they were beaten out by larger schools. Amber Burnam and Skyler Conatser tied for 4th place to pace the Calculator team, and Elizabeth Garcia completed the team.

Dylan Pettit placed 2nd overall and 2nd in Biology, while Pete Howard placed 4th overall and 2nd in Chemistry to pace the Science team. Reid Copelin, Kayla Elam, Kailee Burton, and Joey Allen completed the team.

Also competing for Hedley was the Current Issues team of Ethan Naylor, Kayla Elam, and Patricia Valles; the Number Sense team of Dylan Pettit, Pete Howard, Joey Allen, Sarah Kwon, and Reid Copelin; and the Mathematics team of Sarah Kwon, Amber Burnam, and Katrina Johnson.

Teams compete at Silverton High School for district championships March 31. Winners will advance to regional competition at Abilene Christian University in April.

Tourism committee to discuss July Fourth

By Terry Askew

Mark your calendars for March 5, 2009, at 5:30 p.m. when the Donley County Tourism Committee will host a meeting at the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce office.

Everyone is invited as plans are begun for the annual Saints Roost Celebration this July Fourth. Anyone with an activity during the celebration is encouraged to attend. The tourism group's goal is to help bring more people to all of Donley County for this event.

In an effort to help coordinate the many different activities that take place during the Saints Roost Celebration this meeting should bring together many different organizations. Special invitations are extended to representatives of the Clarendon Outdoor Entertainment Association, Donley County Extension Service, Al Morrah Shrine Club, Chamber of Commerce, Henson's Turtle Race, the Downtown Merchants Association, Downtown Ministry Center, The Clarendon Enterprise, and KEFH.

Any organization that wants to do something new or renew an old activity is encouraged to attend also.

Groups that plan fundraisers might also want to send a representative to this meeting so appropriate plans can be made.

Critical wildfire danger predicted

COLLEGE STATION – Texas Forest Service (TFS) is warning citizens across the state of heightened wildfire danger due to gusty winds, low relative humidity values and critically dry vegetation.

The area of concern is the I-35 corridor and west.

"The critical wildfire weather and critically dry fuels present a serious concern to this area of the state," said Tom Spencer, predictive services department head for TFS. "These conditions could easily lead to significant wildfire occurrences."

Spencer said that a significant wildfire is one that can exceed the control of local resources and pose a serious threat to citizens and property.

In Texas, people start 95 percent of wildfires. Citizens need to be aware of the conditions and should not engage in activities, such as throwing out lit cigarettes, bailing hay, welding and burning debris, that could lead to an accidental wildfire start.

Since the beginning of the winter 2009 wildfire season, which began on January 22, 2009, TFS has responded along with local fire departments to 186 wildfires for 30,009 acres. During the same period, local fire departments have reported an additional 1,255 wildfires for 25,191 acres according to an online database managed by TFS.

Clarendon Church of Christ GOD'S BAIL OUT

Of course all the news is centered around the "bail outs" going on in our country. The banks are getting them; the car makers are getting them; people who don't even pay taxes are getting them. I get so angry just thinking about it.

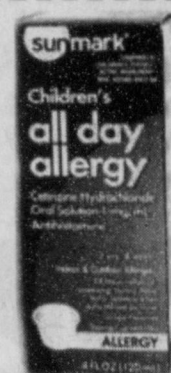

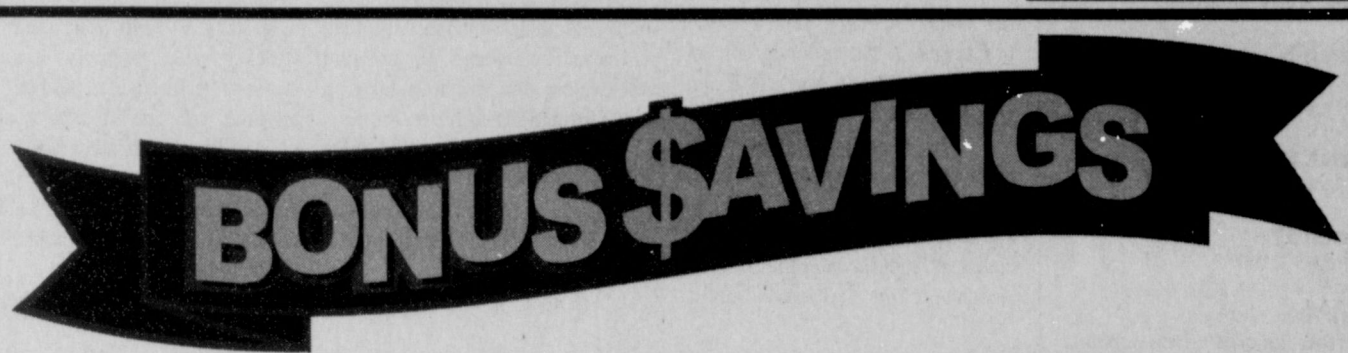

Then I remember that I received a bail out and you did too, and we didn't deserve ours either. This plan was conceived long before mankind even needed it (Eph. 3:11 calls it the "eternal purpose"). God knew before Creation that mankind would sin and need a Redeemer. He was much more proactive than any government. He began the "scheme of redemption" and when we read the Bible, we can see that plan come together.

He set aside a group (nation of Israel) that through it might come the Savior. Our Savior came, as the prophets prophesied, and laid down His life that our debt might be cleared. (Romans 5:8) "But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us." (1 John 3:16) "By this we know love, because He laid down His life for us." These two verses show the motive for God's bail out: love. While our government spends our grandchildren's retirement for bail outs, their motives are for votes and power. God's motive is simply His undying love for mankind. (John 3:16) "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

In the days, months, or years to come, as we ponder the "free stuff" being given away by our government, let us remember a far greater gift that is "free" to all of us; free for us, very costly for our Savior. Eternal salvation, what a bail out! I pray that all would avail themselves of this wonderful plan.

Bible study to be offered on Revelation

The message of comfort and hope from the Book of Revelation will be the topic of an upcoming study at the Church of Christ Family Life Center at Third and Carhart.

The study will be held on Wednesday mornings from 10 to 10:45 and will span all of Revelation.

The approach of the study will be to decipher the symbols and explain the visions God gave John to comfort and give hope to the first century church struggling to survive persecution by imperial Rome. The only text is the Bible. Don Stone will present the series. Everyone is welcome. There will be 12 sessions. For more information, call 874-2594.

Senior citizens to be honored next Tuesday

The Hedley Baptist Church and the Hedley School is inviting everyone to come to their Senior Citizens Banquet on March 3 at 6:30. They put on this Senior Citizens Banquet every year for free. The kids sing and serve the meals, and everyone gets a door prize. It is always good fun to be around so many people having a great time.

There is a book going to be written about the "Good Old Days" in the Texas Panhandle. The editor is Bob Lasley, and you call him toll free 877-491-8802 if you have questions. If you are over 60, he wants stories about your childhood, school days, blizzards, old radio station, etc.

The deadline is April 30, 2009, so mail your entry to Hometown Memories, 1030 15th. Ave NW, Hickory, NC 28601.

Come on, folks, let's give this guy some really good stories and tell it like it was. Anything from the depression, homemade clothes, Saturday nights, encounters with critters, haunted houses, skinny dipping, first date, first kiss, games, pets, out-house stories, party lines, windup record players, spankings at school and more when you got home. There has got to be some great stories out there. There is a submission form that has to go along with your story; and if you want one, I have some.

Just give me a call at 856-5302 or get in touch with the Amarillo Globe-News.

Cookies & Cream Fudge:
3 cups granulated sugar, ¼ cup (1-1/2 sticks) butter or margarine, 2/3 cup (5oz.can) Nestlé Carnation Evaporated Milk, 2 cups (12 oz pkg) Nestlé Toll House Premier White Morsels, 1 (oz) jar marshmallow crème, ½ cup finely crushed cream-filled chocolate sandwich cookies, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract (optional), 1 cup crumbled cream-filled chocolate sandwich cookies. Line 9" square baking pan with foil. Combine sugar, butter and evaporated milk in medium, heavy-duty saucepan. Bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil, stirring constantly for 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in morsels, marshmallow crème, finely crushed cookies and vanilla extract. Pour into prepared pan. Sprinkle crumbled cookies on top. Gently swirl cookies into fudge using a knife without touching bottom of pan. Refrigerate for 1 hour or until firm. Lift from pan; remove foil, cut into 48 pieces.

Quilting Club held regular meeting

The Golden Needles Quilting Club met at the Cole home with Gay as hostess; with lots of visiting and quilting and with a wonderful lunch served.

Those present were: Eva Lee Swinney, Jo Shaller, Mary Lynn Manning, Josie Burgess, Amanda Askew, Donna Barns, Ann Bunyan, Rosa Lee Watson, and Gay Cole.

Our meeting in March will be at the Josie Burgess home.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting February 24, 2009, with Boss Lion Cameron Word.

We had 22 members this week. The club discussed our eye-glass program, and the new way that would be handled.

Lion Bill Auvenshine presented our program and showed a PowerPoint presentation on his recent cruise to several points on the Mediterranean Sea and several historic cities which played a part in shaping civilization as we know it.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

Extension program to focus on memory loss

By MaryRuth Bishop, AgriLife Agent
"I'm Losing My Mind" will be the noon program on March 3 at the Donley County Senior Center in Clarendon. The program is sponsored by the Texas AgriLife Extension Service.

"Many people believe that memory loss and aging go hand-in-hand," said Andrew Crocker, AgriLife Extension gerontology specialist in Amarillo and the program presenter. "Your memory is only as good as the information your brain takes in."

Crocker said if a person doesn't learn something to begin with, they will never remember it. His program will explore how the brain takes in new information and processes it.

"You will discover that there are several different ways to learn new things, and you may be surprised at how you yourself learn new information," he said.

"Whether you are making a shopping list for the grocery store or make a mnemonic to remember how to spell success, you are employing a strategy to help your memory," Crocker said. "Memory strategies are very healthy and should be used anytime you are uncertain about your ability to remember."

Participants will learn different memory strategies and be able to decide which one, or combination, fits them best, he said.

Crocker will begin speaking at noon, but guests are invited to arrive early enough to participate in the regular meal served by the Senior Center, said MaryRuth Bishop, AgriLife Extension family and consumer sciences agent for Donley County.

While the program is free, the noon meal at the center costs $3 for persons age 60 and over, and $6 for everyone else, Bishop said.

If you have a question about the program, contact me at 874-2141.

Friendship Club draws crowd

Carole Goemans, Carol Jean McWilliams, and Peggy Gastin worked hard decorating City Hall in the Valentine theme for Friendship Club last Friday night where 34 met for good food, visiting, and entertainment.

February birthdays were Ron Poppewell, Carol Jean McWilliams, Linda Stout, and Betty Hammock; and there was one anniversary, Sam and Nelda Grider.

The hero of the month was Carol Jean McWilliams, who works hard in the church as well as holding office in the Friendship Club. Our scheduled entertainment, Dr Guy Ellis, was called out to deliver a baby calf so Mac Miller and Frankie Gambrel stepped up with some good music. We were lucky Frankie and Russ Gambrel had come home for the weekend, visiting from Taloga, Okla. Thanks for helping out.

The Friendship Club meets the third Friday of each month. Plan to join us next month.

Have you heard the storm sirens? They are being worked on in anticipation of storm season which begins in March. So this is a good time to clean out the cellar and get your disaster plan in effect.

If you are new to our community and don't have a shelter, one is available. It is located between the Fire Station and the Dumpsters and holds a number of people. Sorry no pets. As you all probably know, a county wide burn ban is in effect, so please be careful with all fires.

Congratulations to Walt Rice on being named Assistant Fire Chief.

CC Livestock Team places fifth in contest

The Clarendon College Livestock Judging Team competed in San Antonio this past week and placed fifth out of 18 teams.

The competition was extremely close and Clarendon was only eight points behind the second place team.

Individually the team had three members place.

Caleb Crosswhite placed sixth out of 133, Brittany Boxwell was 10th, and Corey Taylor was 11th.

4-H Spotlight: Ft. Worth Stock Show

By Cire Jauregul

This week's 4-H Spotlight is on the Fort Worth Livestock Show, which was held February 3-6.

Thirteen Donley County 4-H members participated in the Livestock Show.

Those members are Annie Patten, Trevor Cobb, Jayson Pigg, Seth Ruthardt, Kaden Bennet, Britany McAnear, Kelsey McAnear, Caden Farris, Dustin Willyard, Madison Carr, and Tres Hommell.

Two 4-H members qualified for the Sale of Champions. Those two are Caden Farris, who placed 7th with his European Cross Steer, which brought $4.50 a pound; and Jacob Pigg, who placed 10th with his Hereford Steer that brought $6.50 a pound.

The Fort Worth Livestock Show is recognized as the World's Largest and Toughest Steer Show.

Donley County 4-H is very proud of all of the participants and would like to wish good luck to those going to San Antonio and Houston.

Delta Kappa Gamma meets in Wellington

Gamma Kappa chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International met on Monday, February 16, in Wellington's First United Methodist Church with Lila Hoobler of Childress presiding. Dianne Phillips also of Childress conducted a memorial service for L.C. Sweat of Wellington, who died on February 9. Ms Sweat had been a member of Gamma Kappa since 1958 and served as president 1962-64. She had taught in Samnorwood and Wellington for many years.

Bertha Devoss of Wellington gave a brief history of the World Fellowship fund before members made monetary donations to the fund. World Fellowship originated in 1948 to enable women in war-torn countries to further their educations. It has since awarded scholarships to hundreds of women in over 100 countries to study in the U.S.

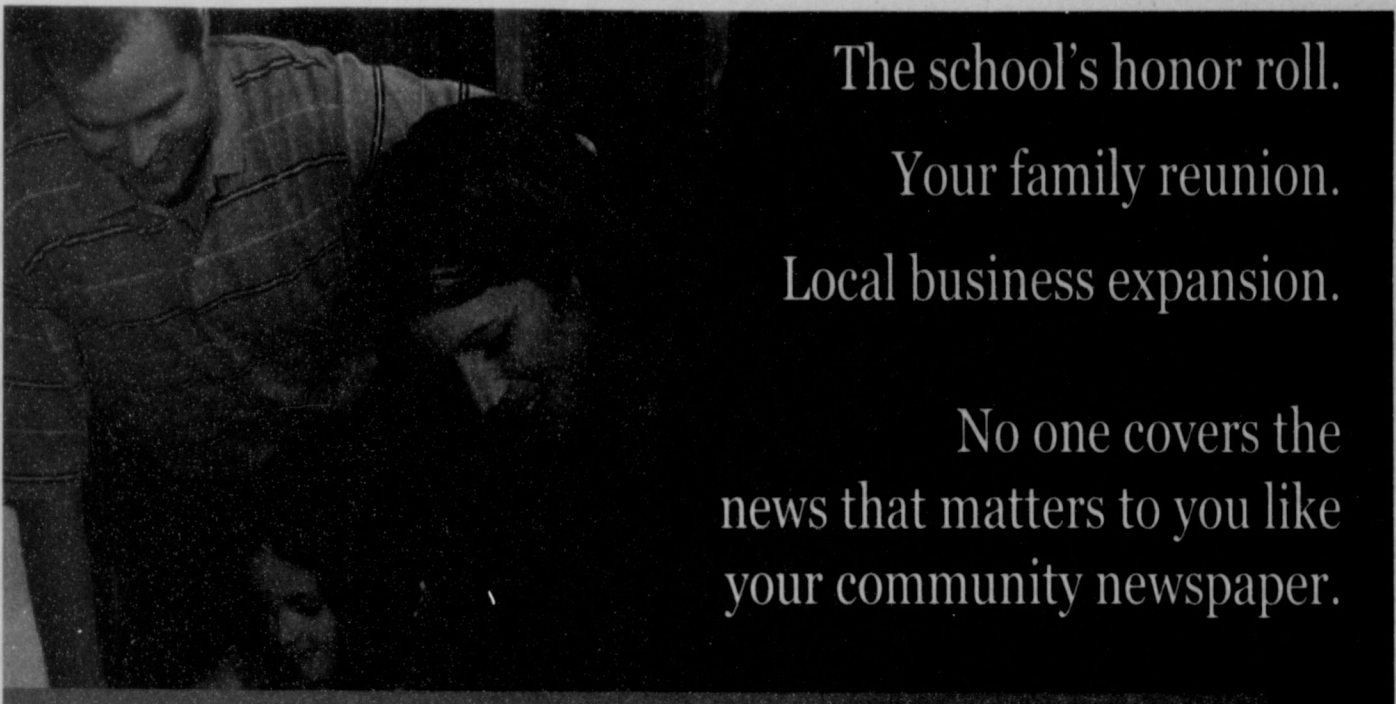

Anne Long of Wellington gave a legislative update. Phyllis Preston reported on the availability of Delta Kappa Gamma scholarships available to members for university study continuing education and Elder Hostel.

Judy Cudd of Wellington presented the program on her tested travel tips. She shared pointers on selecting luggage and travel clothing, packing choosing hotels on a budget, using credit cards internationally, and navigating the European train system.

Thelma Shields of Lelia Lake led the group in singing the Delta Kappa Gamma Song. In addition to those already named attendees from Wellington were Gay McAlister, Shirley Henard, Rubye Hodges, Katherine Reeves, Barbara Roberson, Linda Duke, Vickie Decker, Phyllis Floyd, Nancy Henard, and Lennie Statham. Also attending were Depese Mills of Childress and Allene Leathers of Lelia Lake.

Delta Kappa Gamma is an honor society of over 150,000 women in 14 countries that promotes professional and personal growth of women educators and excellence in education.

Broncos warming up for play-offs

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos, who are the reigning 2009 District Champions, have had several days off while waiting for the playoffs to begin. In order to stay in playoff shape, the Broncos played two warm-up games last week.

They traveled to Canyon to take on Vega at the WT Event Center last Monday night and narrowly lost 47-49. Vega came out on fire, while the Broncos struggled somewhat in the first half of play and trailed by eight points at the break. But a third quarter surge propelled the Broncos to get within one point of the Longhorns at the end of three. It was a back and forth in the final period, but the Broncos ran out of time. Their last field goal came with less than 10 seconds on the scoreboard, but it wasn't enough to get the win.

"We felt like we dug a hole in the first half," head coach Clint Coley said. "We really tried to pick up the intensity, and we even were able to take the lead in the fourth. We used a lot of energy trying to bet back into the game, but that's what practice games are for. We are able to work on things to stay sharp."

Scoring: Danzel Wilson 14, Johnny Gaines 10, Derrick Shelton 9, Stephino McCampbell 6, Al Gaines 5, and Aaron Gordon 3.

On Saturday, the Broncos participated in an event at Randall High School that sets up warm-up games for those teams involved in the playoffs. The Broncos took part in that event and took on Floydada Saturday night. They played hard but were defeated 54-59.

Clarendon got down early, but they clawed their way back against a tough 2A team. The Floydada lead at the end of one was nine, but the Broncos cut that lead in the second quarter to four points. Three players finished in double figures to lead their team in the game. According to Coley, the Broncos have to intensify their game for the playoffs.

"This was our last practice game before the playoffs," Coley said. "It was good for us to keep playing to stay in shape, and we're very glad we got out of those games without any injuries. Floydada is a good team, and they're ranked number five in 2A. We had a good showing, but we got down early. We fought our way back but fell short in the end."

Coley knows his team is capable of making a good playoff run.

"We need to take some momentum into the playoffs," Coley said. "We also need to pick up our intensity. Our guys are playing hard, but it's a different type of intensity. The teams that are able to do this continue on, and the ones that can't, go home. Knowing there is a finality to the playoffs should make us play more intense."

Scoring: Wilson 20, J. Gaines 12, Shelton 10, A. Gaines 4, McCampbell 4, Gordon 2, and Jadon Thornton 2.

The Broncos' first playoff game is tentatively set for Friday, February 27, in Amarillo against the winner of the White Deer/Boys Ranch game that will be played Tuesday night. The Broncos would appreciate your support, and you may call the High School for more information concerning the game after Tuesday, February 24.

CHS UIL team does well at invitational

Bronco baseball starts season with scrimmage

By Sandy Anderberg

Despite still competing in the basketball playoffs, the Broncos have begun their next sport with a scrimmage at home against Boys Ranch. The Broncos played hard and won 11-6.

Working with a limited roster because of its early start, the Broncos were still able to overcome a slow start against the Rough Riders and rally back to get the win. According to head coach Brad Elam, several players had good performances in the game.

"We got behind six to nothing after three innings, but we were able to put up 11 runs in the last two innings to win," Elam said. "All three pitchers pitched well for us. Devin Noble threw the first inning, and Troy Chambless pitched three very strong innings, giving up only two hits while giving up only two hits while striking out seven. Bradley Watson threw the last inning striking out two of the first three hitters he faced."

Defense was not the only thing working for the Broncos. Their offense was on target as well.

"Noble had three hits, scored two runs, and drove in two," Elam said. "Watson had two hits and drove in three, and Brady Miller had a big hit and drove in a run."

The Broncos will begin their regular season this week when they travel to Shamrock on Friday, February 27, to play at 4:00 p.m. They will play Claude Tuesday, March 3, at home beginning at 4:00 p.m. and play a double-header at Childress Saturday, March 7, beginning at 1:00 p.m.

The Bronco JV will play Childress Thursday, March 5, on the road at 4:30 pm and take on Boys Ranch March 6 at 4:30 pm.

Pinching pennies? Shop with a savvy teen

COLLEGE STATION — As U.S. consumers increasingly consider whether to part with pennies in this economy, one wise decision might be to take a teenager along to the store.

Not just any teen, mind you, but one who has spent hours studying the pros and cons of products like digital electronics, compact fluorescent light bulbs, gift and pre-paid cards, used cars and sun-protective clothing, say Texas AgriLife Extension Service specialists.

In Texas, more than 6,500 youngsters annually delve into the facts and fiction of buying all sorts of goods and services in 4-H consumer education projects, according to Dr. Toby Lepley, AgriLife Extension 4-H and youth development specialist.

"It's important because these kids are building and reinforcing consumer skills that will last a lifetime," said Nancy Granovsky, AgriLife Extension family economist specialist. "They learn how to evaluate a product based on quality, price and how it fits into the needs of a particular situation."

Granovsky oversees the 20-year-old statewide project in which youths in local 4-H clubs learn to determine the worthiness of various items.

Each year she and her team select goods and services that appeal to younger buyers and write study guides to teach ways to make selections for those products.

As the youngsters hone their buying skills at a local level, they may also opt to test their consumer prowess against other teens at district- and state-level matches, Granovsky explained.

"Kids learn how to read labels and to check out statements that are made about products," Granovsky said. "They learn to not just rely on what is advertised to them."

She said lessons learned from the project are carried into adulthood because kids learn to compare what criteria are most important for them in making a purchase, and then what is the best price for that important criteria.

"That's an important aspect to develop in the youth of Texas," Granovsky added.

Marketing to children is listed as one of the industry's five major global debates, according to the International Journal of Advertising. Granovsky believes teaching children consumer-decision skills will help them learn how to make good choices regardless of messages in advertising.

One such group of teens from Bell County spent some 300 hours over a nine-month period in 2008 deciding the best-to-worst purchase decision for seven classes of items, according to Micah Holcombe, AgriLife Extension agent in Bell County and one of their coaches. Their payoff was national first place at the 4-H consumer decision-making contest in Denver last month.

"At the national level, they judged and placed classes such as light bulbs, MP3 players, toys, savings accounts, backpacks, trail foods and digital photos," Holcombe said. "Based on a scenario they were given, they had to place four items in order from the best buy to the worst buy."

Granovsky said the project is supported by the Texas Credit Union Foundation and the Texas 4-H Foundation. For more information on the 4-H consumer decision-making project, see <http://consumerdecision-making.tamu.edu>.

Lady Broncos end season

By Sandy Anderberg

After the first quarter of play, it looked as if the Lady Broncos were gearing up for more post-season games; but Anton had different ideas about the Bi-District game played at the WT Event Center in Canyon Monday night. After playing to a 12-12 tie after one, Anton went on to win 65-50 and take home the trophy.

The ladies hung tight in the beginning, but a slow-shooting second quarter added to the frustration of the game. Anton's size gave them the definite advantage inside; and, despite working hard, the Lady Broncos could not overcome the deficit.

"We played well the first and fourth quarters, but we couldn't score the second or third," head coach Randy Yelverton said. "With Anton's size advantage, we wanted to run and press, but when we got into foul trouble, it hurt us. Although the kids played hard, we missed too many free throws and some shots inside the paint. I'm proud of the team for what they accomplished. We weren't picked to get out of District."

The Lady Broncos were led on the scoreboard by senior Macy Shadle with 22 and junior Haley Hall with 13.

Scoring: Shadle 22, Hall 13, Abbie Massingill 6, Janae White 5, Jenci White 2, and Deidre Lewis 2. Also playing for the Lady Broncos: Bailey Starnes, Cortnee Thornberry, Jill Luna, Dominique Mason, and Trevela Dronzek.

Lady Bulldogs lose by two games

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Bulldogs, straight off a big win almost added another to it, but fell short to Howard College 59-61. The loss put the ladies at 16-12 for the year and gave Howard a 23-6 overall record.

Howard led Clarendon College by nine points at the break, but the Lady Bulldogs rallied back to within a field goal of their opponent.

"I thought we played extremely hard," head coach Rusty Kennedy said. "We showed a lot of fire to come back after being down double figures in the second half against a good team like Howard."

The ladies will play Western Texas College Thursday, February 26, at home beginning at 5:30 in their last game of the year.

Scoring: Jance' Williams 20, Alex Ray 11, Kenisha McDade 5, Enid Sanchez 5, Donisha Bronnon 5, Asia Reid 4, Ruth Stewart 4, Shaniqua Roberts 3, and Jamie Young 2.

Drugs in the News

Treatment Approved for Acute Bleeding Disorder

The first drug approved by the FDA for a rare bleeding disorder is called RiaSTAP. This drug was approved in January for persons born with a rare deficiency of fibrinogen, a protein the body needs in order for blood to clot properly. This rare condition is called Congenital Fibrinogen Deficiency. This drug is an intravenous concentrate made from the plasma of healthy human blood donors. The approval of RiaSTAP followed a small study in which the blood level of this protein prevented bleeding after a specific dose of the drug was administered based on the weight of the person getting the injection. Another marker used to confirm the therapeutic value of RiaSTAP was the firmness of the clot formed after the drug was given.

The word congenital refers to a genetic condition. Congenital fibrinogen deficiency affects an estimated 150 to 300 persons living in the US. It is usually diagnosed at the time birth from bleeding at the site of the umbilical cord. Children born with this disorder who are not treated are at risk of life-threatening bleeding, significant blood loss, and damage to organs.

Prepare for Spring Storms

Simple steps to be Red Cross Ready

- ★ Get a Kit: Assemble disaster supplies like water, food, a flashlight, portable radio, and medication.
- ★ Make a Plan: Pick a place where family members can gather in a disaster and figure out in advance how you'll get in touch if communication is disrupted.
- ★ Be Informed: Find out what types of disasters your area is high risk for and how local authorities will contact you if a storm is headed your way.

Taking these steps could change a life, starting with your own!
