Notice issued about ads on county maps

Local businesses are being reminded this week that county and community maps have been printed and paid for by the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation and are available from City Hall at no charge.

Some firms from outside of Donley County attempt to sell ads to local businesses for placement on city and county maps, but the CEDC provides its own map without selling ads.

The locally produced maps cover Clarendon, Howardwick, Hedley, Greenbelt Lake, and Donley County and list several points of interest.

Businesses who are approached to buy ads for other city maps are advised that the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce has not endorsed the mapmaker.

The CEDC began printing its own maps in 2004 as way to save local money for local businesses and keep more money in the local economy. The maps are current and were reprinted this year.

HISD registration to begin next week

Hedley ISD has announced its registration dates and times for the upcoming school year.

Grades Pre-K - 5 will register Wednesday, August 13. Grades 6-8 register Thursday, August 14; and Grades 9-12 register Friday, August 15.

Registration will be at the main office between 9 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Students new to the district need to bring necessary documents including birth certificate, Social Security card, and immunization records.

Water district plans meeting on Monday

The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District will hold a meeting at the Clarendon College Bairfield Activity Center next Monday at 7 p.m. to discuss water conservation.

The meeting will include information regarding the implementation of the district's 50/50 depletion goal, particularly within the boundaries indicated on a map found elsewhere in this week's Enterprise.

The public is invited to the meeting. Call 806-883-2501 for more information.

Transit taking bus route applications

Panhandle Transit, d/b/a Panhandle Community Services, will start taking applications for the Local Transit bus route for the new school year 2008/2009 starting August 6, until all seats are full.

This will be a first come first served basis. Fees will need to be paid at time of application.

For more information, you can call 806-874-2573 or come by 416 South Kearney to pick up an application.

Sellars to resign constable's job

Constable Tony Sellars will resign this month to take a new law enforcement position downstate.

Sellars, who serves Donley County Precincts 3&4, presented a letter to county officials in July stating his intention to resign effective August 15 at 11:59 p.m.

"I've taken a job that pays more, there's better employment for me and my wife, and more educational opportunities for my daughter," Sellars said. "I regret that people will have to do a write-in candidacy and that I won't be able to fulfill my term; but family comes first."

County Judge Jack Hall said the commissioners' court does not plan to appoint a replacement for Sellars but will rather let the people choose a replacement at the ballot box.

A former county deputy, Sellars has served as constable since last May when he was appointed following the resignation of former constable Mike Wallendorff.

Sellars filed to run for a full term in office as a Democrat and defeated challenger Ralph Graves during the March primary. County Democratic Chair Jean Taylor could not be reached by phone Tuesday afternoon for comment.

The constable said he will take fond memories of Donley County with him when he leaves for his new position at a police department on the coast.

"It's been an honor and a pleasure to serve the people of Donley County and particularly Precincts 3&4," Sellars said. "I've got memories I'll never forget, and I've made lifelong friends here."

Sellars expressed his appreciation to Justice of the Peace Ann Kennedy for working with him and making his job pleasant and particularly thanked Sheriff Butch Blackburn and Chief Deputy Randy Bond.

"I started out as a rookie, and they trained me to be the officer I am today," Sellars said.

The deadline for write-in candidates for this November's General Election is August 26 in the county clerk's office.

Suspects still in jail in case of kidnapping

Two suspects remained in the Donley County Jail Monday following last week's case of a kidnapping in Amarillo.

Sheriff Butch Blackburn said James Michael Brinkley, age 37, of Lelia Lake was arraigned last Wednesday before County Judge Jack Hall on a charge of kidnapping, and bond was set at $100,000.

Thirty-eight-year-old John E. Arbuckle of Childress was also being held in connection to the case after he was arrested last Tuesday on parole warrants. He is being held without bond.

A third suspect in the case, 32-year-old Stephanie Boggs of Herford, was out on $50,000 bond on a charge of possession of methamphetamine. She was also arraigned by Judge Hall last Wednesday.

The investigation in the case is ongoing, and Blackburn says he expects additional charges will be filed soon in Amarillo.

The case started last Monday,

July 28, when a 52-year-old McLean man was reportedly kidnapped in Amarillo by two or possibly three subjects. He was bound and put in a white van which was later being driven through Clarendon, followed by the victim's red Lincoln Navigator, which was driven by one of the suspects.

The vehicles then pulled off at Lowe's Family Center in Clarendon about noon that day. There the McLean man managed to free himself, injure one suspect, and escape into the supermarket.

The man reported another person, Boggs, being held against her will. She was found later that day and reported being held at a residence near Lelia Lake by Brinkley. She was subsequently arrested on drug charges.

Arbuckle, who is also a suspect in the case, was stopped by a Donley County Deputy for a traffic violation last Tuesday and arrested on outstanding warrants.

High expectations at CISD for new laptop programs

By Ashlyn Tubbs, Clarendon Enterprise

The students, faculty and staff of Clarendon CISD are expecting, new, exciting experiences and change this upcoming school year due to the new Apple Laptop Initiative that will be put into effect this fall.

The Apple Laptop Initiative involves a One-to-One education initiative that will put laptops in the hands of all students from 5th-12th grade, as well as two computer carts with 22 laptops per cart. One of the carts will be available for Pre-Kindergarten through first grade; the other one will go to second through fourth grades. Every classroom in the district will become a virtual computer lab with wireless Internet. Students will basically have access to information at anytime.

All of the Apple notebooks have already been delivered. The district is now in the process of imaging them.

"We're extremely excited about this upcoming Apple Laptop Initiative. We want to prepare our students for the future so they're equipped with the skills needed to achieve success in a technology driven society," CCISD Superintendent Monty Hysinger said.

When students are issued a laptop, an annual $40 maintenance fee will be required to help pay for additional insurance that the school will be purchasing to cover accidental damage to the laptops. However, there will be a deductible fee as well. A student's first and second damaging offense to their laptop will result in a $250 deductible due from the parent/student. If a third offense occurs, the parent/student will be required to pay the full cost of the computer, and the student may lose access to his/her take-home privileges.

CCISD teachers have attended several days of extensive training by Apple Certified Trainers since last January. They've also been in a collaborative for teacher training and

CEDC awards fourth storefront grant

San Thompson was the recipient this week of the fourth award under the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation's Façade Grant Program.

The CEDC Board at its regular meeting Monday approved Thompson's improvements to his building at 317 S. Kearney, immediately south of Sam Hill's BBQ. The project consisted of removing windows that were deteriorated and in danger of falling out and installation of a new awning.

The project cost Thompson $1,761.67, and he hired his son, San Thompson, Jr., to do the work. CEDC President Steve Hall presented Thompson with a check for $880.83 Tuesday morning.

"I really appreciate all the work the EDC is doing," Thompson said.

Thompson said he was aware of the grant program before he started working on the project and that the possibility of getting a grant impacted his plans for the building.

"I did a better job and a little more work than I would have otherwise done," he said.

The project has generated a lot of comments, almost all of which have been positive; and Thompson says the work definitely improved the looks of the building.

"It was pretty ugly before," he said.

Thompson hopes to rent the building for some kind of business use and told the CEDC Board that the building's has a fairly open floor plan that could be used a variety of ways.

The CEDC has budgeted $10,000 for this year's Façade Grant Program, which provides fifty-fifty matching grants up to a maximum of $2,000 per project for properties on a three-block stretch of Kearney Street between First and Fourth Streets.

Projects eligible for consideration could be anything from a coat of paint to new signage to a complete rehabilitation of a storefront.

To date the CEDC has awarded more than $4,000 in façade grants. A fifth application is pending.

The CEDC Board will next meet to consider grant applications on Tuesday, September 2, at 5:15 p.m. in City Hall. This will be the final chance for grants to be considered in this fiscal year.

Purple color of nation's political map

By Ilya Shapiro, Cato Institute

The 2000 and 2004 presidential elections were two of the closest in U.S. history, and produced nearly identical electoral maps - only Iowa, New Hampshire, and New Mexico switched parties. This result set begat the rigid pundit orthodoxy that America has become a "50-50 nation" - about half "blue" (Democrat), about half "red" (Republican), with the handful of "purple states" (the Ohios, Michigans and Floridas) that have become the critical and deciding battlegrounds.

This analysis misses the forest for the trees. While some combination of the purple states may well decide who will be the next president, it is not the states themselves that "swing," but their voters.

The real Purple America is not a place but an idea, a confluence of values from Red America and tastes from Blue America. It combines a strong belief in personal responsibility, ordered liberty, and civil society with a passion for independent film, Belgian ale and salsa dancing. It also could spring for a good ball game (though preferably on grass and without the designated hitter).

Purple Americans are, to offer a gross oversimplification, a sober blend of Ricky Bobby and Jean Girard (the reference to Will Ferrell's farcical Talladega Nights is fitting here; this demographic skews young and irreverent.) They are an imagined community of conservative cosmopolitans, libertarians, classical liberals, hippublicans, South Park conservatives, Crunchy Cons and, especially, those who defy established labels - and thus are distrusted by both coastal elites and heartland populists.

These purple people do not derive their coloring so much from picking policies in a sort of cross-partisan smorgasbord, as from possessing seemingly incongruous cultural and political affinities. And they live all over the country, not just in whichever states may be considered purple in a given election cycle.

While the electorate may remain evenly divided, we are finally starting to transcend the color lines. Purple Americans defy stereotypes and confound the accepted wisdom of the media.

They are infiltrating the metropolitan bastions of liberalism as iconoclastic Smurfs: They appear to be blue while roller-blading to Whole Foods, but the blood coursing through their veins is decidedly red. They drink bottled water while watching "Monday Night Football," and read both The Economist and Sports Illustrated.

Purple America demands independent creativity grounded in a solid moral core, as well as an inevitably thick skin; its inhabitants are attacked for both "hedonism" and "insensitivity." Purple America enjoys fireworks and barbecue on the Fourth of July and will relish the playing of the Star Spangled Banner at the Beijing Olympics in August. It welcomes diversity, but not the false diversity that sees a black lawyer's kid from the suburbs as more worthy than the son of an Appalachian coal miner or Vietnamese fisherman.

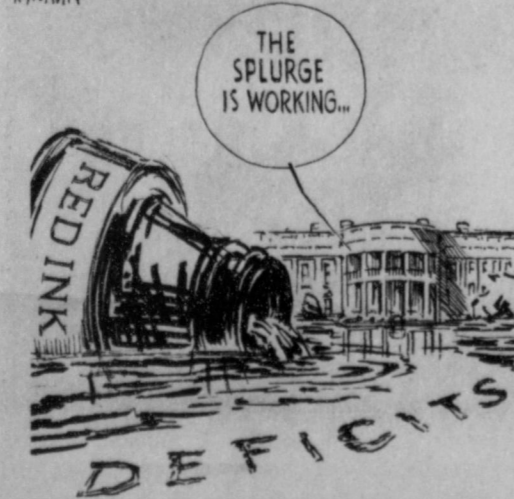

So, as Senators John McCain and Barack Obama crisscross the country, record YouTube clips and hold town hall meetings, they had best remember that there is more to winning an election in this country than appealing to Reagan Democrats and Sam's Club Republicans. There are plenty of people disgusted with both parties' destructive behavior and with ideological orthodoxies that don't fit a modern, globalized, post-9/11 world.

McCain and Obama will have to do more than pander to these voters. Being seen watching Wimbledon will not gain a single convert - and may in fact backfire more than John Kerry's windsurfing. They will also have to go beyond pretty words and offer policy prescriptions that neither evoke the tired solutions of the 1960s nor are worse than the problems they purport to fix.

The presidential aspirants - and even more so, their successors as party standard-bearers in '12, '16 and beyond - will have to color outside the lines to win over Purple Americans and thereby make it into the White House.

NASA is national asset for Texas

"Houston, Tranquility Base here. The Eagle has landed." Those famous words from Astronaut Neil Armstrong when Apollo 11 landed on the moon in 1969 captivated the world and stirred enormous pride in Texas, home of Mission Control.

Only 17 years old at the time, I, like many Americans, watched in amazement as our nation accomplished the unimaginable.

This year America celebrates the 50th anniversary of NASA and our commitment to explore space. In 1958, a year after the Soviet Union launched its Sputnik satellite, President Eisenhower signed legislation creating NASA. The "space race" had begun.

The Manned Spacecraft Center, now known as the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center (JSC), opened in Houston in 1963. It became home base for NASA's astronaut corps, training space explorers for the U.S. and its partner nations in the space program.

To this day, the JSC continues to serve as NASA's Mission Control Center, while also directing all space shuttle missions, including the international space station - described as "the largest, most powerful, complex human facility to ever operate in space."

So far, NASA's anniversary celebration has featured scientific conferences, instructional programs for educators, exhibits, and air shows. One event - a baseball game in July honoring the anniversary - highlighted the special bond between Houston and America's space program. On hand for the anniversary game in Houston were the seven astronauts scheduled to conduct a NASA flight to the space station this fall.

NASA's influence over Texas has been undeniable. Houston's baseball team, once the Colt .45s, changed their name when NASA came to town. Since then, the Houston Astros have been a staple of the National League, also competing in the 2005 World Series. The team's old stadium, the Astrodome, was the world's first domed sports stadium, built in 1965, and was nicknamed the "Eighth Wonder of the World."

At the same time, the Johnson Space Center employs 15,000 civil servants and contractors, and its economic impact in Texas is enormous. By maintaining America's leadership in the world technology market, all of NASA's facilities play a critical role in boosting the Texas economy, and the larger American economy as a whole.

NASA inspires and attracts America's best and brightest students to study engineering, mathematics, computer programming, and the sciences. It serves as an intellectual catalyst for development of new generations of technology, much like previous NASA innovations that led to the development of Global Positioning Systems and CAT scan equipment.

In Houston, working at NASA is more than a job; it is a way of life dedicated to expanding our body of knowledge and way of life through human space exploration.

But the quest for exploration that has always driven America has not come without costs. We will always remember the seven astronauts who lost their lives in 2003 when the space shuttle Columbia exploded over Texas. We also remember those who died aboard the space shuttle Challenger in 1986, and the astronauts and test pilots who lost their lives earlier in the space program.

In June, it was my pleasure to co-sponsor and help pass a bill to mint new $50 gold and $1 silver coins in honor of NASA's 50 years of achievement. The first $4 million from sales of the commemorative coins are designated for the NASA Family Assistance Fund to help families of NASA personnel who die as a result of injuries suffered in the line of duty.

The sacrifice and dedication of all of America's pioneers of space challenges us to dream, to achieve more, and to reach farther than ever thought possible. They stand as examples to the men and women of today who dedicate their lives to space exploration.

NASA's resilience and vision should encourage Americans that our country has remained steadfastly committed to exploration of space - an enormous expanse of unvisited territory, our final frontier. It has been a privilege to represent an organization as important as NASA and the Johnson Space Center in the U.S. Senate.

America should prepare for DTV

In fewer than 200 days, the Digital Television (DTV) transition will affect every television-watching household in the country. The DTV transition will dramatically enhance the clarity of television broadcasts and allow for new and diverse television programming. Most importantly, it will free up the frequencies on which data is transmitted to the public, otherwise known as the broadcast spectrum, for important safety activities that will increase the nation's ability to respond to terrorist attacks and national disasters.

Broadcasters will switch from an analog format to digital broadcasting at midnight on February 17, 2009; and the change will be imperceptible to households with cable or digital television service or those who have already equipped older model TVs with converter boxes. But those who are not prepared will wake up the next day with neither basic television programming nor access to public emergency broadcasts, such as AMBER Alerts, severe weather warnings, and other important safety messages. In Texas, 20 percent of households - much higher than the national average of 13 percent - still receive broadcasting in analog and must take steps to prepare for the transition.

When the DTV transition occurs, customers who rely on rooftop antennas or "rabbit ears" to receive television broadcasts will have to subscribe to a "pay" television service, purchase a TV with a digital tuner, or acquire a converter box for each analog television in their home.

To help defray the cost of converter boxes, the National Telecommunications and Information Administration will issue up to two $40 coupons per household to be used toward the cost of a converter box. Consumers may apply for their coupons until March 31, 2009 by calling 1-888-DTV-2009 (1-888-388-2009) or by visiting www.dtv2009.gov. The coupons must be used within 90 days of being issued.

Unfortunately, those who are at the greatest risk of being caught off guard, such as the elderly and non-English speaking populations, face significant obstacles to obtaining sufficient information about the transition. While the government, advocacy groups, and the broadcasting industry have worked to provide educational materials in Spanish and in media that will reach residents without Internet access, many households may slip through the cracks.

Border communities are also confronted with a unique challenge. Nearly 30 percent of Texans living along the border rely on antenna reception and must equip their televisions with converter boxes. Even after the transition takes place, these residents will still be able to receive analog broadcasts from Mexican television stations. Due to the expense of transition and the continued availability of analog programming from Mexico, many households may choose not to participate in the transition. Government data reflecting the number of converter box coupons that have been requested, and redeemed, is extremely low along the border. This is a strong indication of how many residents may not be properly prepared.

Last year, I introduced the Digital Television Border Fix Act to make sure that Texans living along the border will not lose access to public safety messages. This bill, which passed the Senate on August 1, allows broadcasters along the border to seek permission from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to continue both analog and digital broadcasts during a transition period. The legislation applies only to stations within 50 miles of the common border with Mexico.

Residents across Texas and all over the United States who are aware of the transition must be careful that they don't become the victim of DTV scams that are cropping up around the country. In particular, households should be wary of "discount" converter boxes, "free" coupons, and retailers that try to sell an "installation package" for a converter box. Consumers should be mindful of these scams, deal only with reputable retailers, and contact their local government or the FCC if they need information. The FCC's website dedicated to the DTV transition is <http://www.dtv.gov/>. There is also a Spanish version at <http://www.dtv.gov/spanish/index.html>.

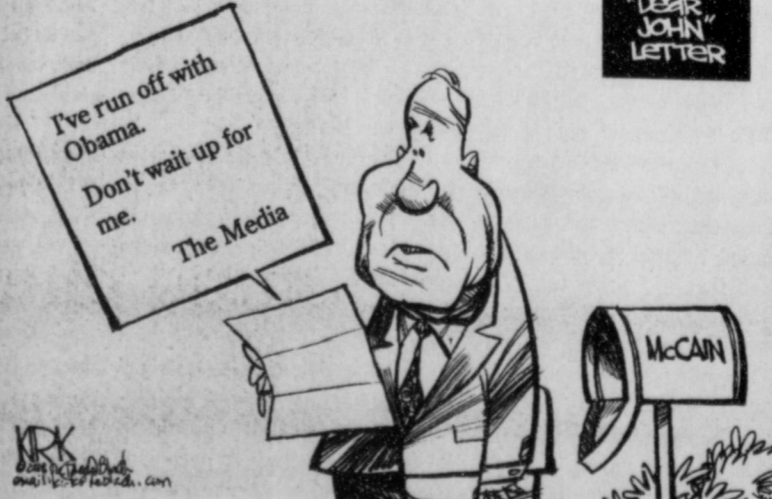

I hope that Texans will embrace the spirit of community and look for opportunities to aid friends and family with preparations for the DTV transition. You could help a housebound senior who is unable to get to the store to redeem his or her converter box coupon, assist your neighbor in setting up a converter box, or prevent others from being taken advantage of by warning them of possible scams.

By working together, we can ensure a smooth transition for households across Texas

Traffic charges were filed after one-car rollover last Monday

By Ashlyn Tubbs, Clarendon Enterprise
A one-car rollover occurred on Monday, July 28, at 12:37 p.m. on Highway 287 approximately one-half mile east of Clarendon.

According to State Trooper Bobby Chambless, the driver, Carol Athey, 54 from Lufkin, and one other passenger were driving northbound on Highway 287 when she went to change lanes and didn't notice the other driver occupying it. She overcorrected herself and rolled over one and a half times onto the north side of the highway into a fence and came to rest on the top of the car.

"It is very common for a vehicle to roll over because 98 percent of people tend to overcorrect their steering wheels, which sends their vehicle into a skid," Chambless said.

No injuries were experienced, and traffic charges were filed.

This was the scene at a one-vehicle rollover east of Clarendon last week. No injuries were reported.

Morrow family reunites last Saturday in City Park

The Clarendon City Park has been the stage for many reunions of the Morrow family.

The Morrow side of the family has been traced back to William Morrow of Coryell County, Texas. He was in the Civil War and died of pneumonia in Little Rock, Ark, while returning to home from the war. His son, David Orr Morrow, married Nancy Brandon. He is buried in Wichita Falls. His son, Ira Benton Morrow, married Rossey Edwards. Both are buried in Blair, Okla. His son, I.B. "Kenneth" Morrow, married Jewell Walker in Plainview. They are buried in the Clarendon Citizens Cemetery. Their nine children attended many reunions of the Walker family in the Clarendon City Park as well as in Vernon and Electra. The Walker Reunion was dissolved after the 1999 reunion. This Morrow Family Reunion was started up again by Earl Morrow in 2004. It is held annually on the first Saturday in August.

Those who attended this year's reunion on August 2, 2008, enjoyed friendship and fellowship of the best kind - family.

Darrell Leffew, a life-long family friend graciously came to the park to take this family photo.

Freezing sandwiches offers many benefits

By MaryRuth Bishop, AgriLife Agent

It's often reported the word "sandwich" originated with John Montagu, 4th Earl of Sandwich. The Earl supposedly ate bits of meat between pieces of bread so he could continue to play cards while eating and not get his hands greasy from the meat.

Sandwiches continue to be a popular food today because of their versatility and convenience. Freezing sandwiches offers several additional benefits:

Save money by making your own "fast food" sandwiches for a sack lunch or meal at home.

Save time by making several sandwiches at once.

Utilize "leftovers" or cook extra at a meal for use in tasty and different ways at future meals.

Control the type of bread (such as choosing a whole grain bread), type of filling and spread (amount, salt, fat and so forth) by being in charge of the ingredients.

Enjoy a wholesome, homemade sandwich as part of an inexpensive, quick meal!

Some common sandwich fillings that do freeze well include:

Peanut butter and other nut butters

Canned tuna and salmon

Cooked roast beef, chicken and turkey (especially tasty when the meat is finely chopped and mixed with a "salad dressing," such as Miracle Whip, to add flavor and moistness.)

Natural or processed hard and semi-hard cheeses, such as Swiss, Cheddar. Note: As frozen cheese may crumble more after thawing, you may be more satisfied with the result if you grate it before freezing it in sandwiches.

Some common sandwich fillings that do not freeze well include:

Hard-cooked egg whites (freezing toughens them).

Jelly or jam (soaks into bread and makes it soggy).

Tomatoes, lettuce, pickles, onions, etc. become limp when thawed; they can be added to thawed sandwiches just before eating them.

Important: "Salad dressings," such as Miracle Whip, work better as a binder in sandwiches than mayonnaise. Mayonnaise tends to separate on thawing. In comparison to mayonnaise, a Miracle Whip-type salad dressing tends to have a sweeter, tangier flavor. So, experiment to see how you like the result before making a freezer full of sandwiches.

Basic steps in assembling, freezing and thawing sandwiches.

The same basic steps may be followed for assembling most frozen sandwiches:

1. For sandwiches where the filling might soak into the bread, spread a thin layer of soft butter or margarine to the edges of the sides of bread that will be the "insides" of the sandwich.

Do not use melted margarine or butter. Note: Bread that is at least a day-old may be slightly firmer and easier to spread.

2. Make your sandwiches "assembly line" fashion, completing one step for all sandwiches before moving on to the next step.

3. A quick way to freeze sandwiches is to:

a. Place them in zip-top/self-sealing type plastic sandwich bags, labeling the bag with the date and type of sandwich. Squish out as much air as possible before sealing them.

b. Lay them in a single layer in the freezer on a cookie sheet or other flat surface and freeze them for about an hour until they hold their shape. Then place the sandwich bags in a larger freezer quality bag, such as a gallon freezer bag. Squish out extra air before sealing. The thin sandwich bags aren't satisfactory for maintaining food quality during longer-term freezer storage.

4. Use frozen sandwiches within 1 to 3 months for best flavor and quality.

5. Thaw individual sandwiches in their sandwich bag or other wrapping in the refrigerator. Transfer them to the refrigerator the day before you plan to eat them.

6. To keep perishable sandwich foods like meats and cheeses cold, pack them in an insulated lunch bag or lunch box; include a small frozen gel pack. Or, if there's a refrigerator available, store perishable items there upon arrival.

7. Add tomato or onion slices, lettuce, a squirt or dab of horseradish, pickles, etc. just before eating sandwiches. A small container or snack-size plastic bag of these add-ons can be packed with a sack lunch.

Flamingos invade H-wick

We had another invasion of pink flamingos this week, and I can't help but wonder what attraction Howardwick has for these birds?

When Norm and Annette Hagood returned home from a nice vacation, their yard had been invaded and it cost some money to have them cleaned out. The flamingos are plastic, the money goes to a good cause and the neighbors get to laugh. If you wake up one morning and have been hit, remember it is a win-win situation with a little humor thrown in.

Dave Stout, Shirley Ennis, and Marietta Baird of the First Baptist Church of Howardwick joined others on a mission trip of a life time to Kodiak Island, Alaska. Sponsored by the Top of Texas Baptist Missions, 12 people from Wellington, Lefors, Perryton, Spearman, Borger, Pampa, and Howardwick spent nine days teaching Vacation Bible School and holding a revival for the people of Kodiak. The weather was about 60° but very pleasant with 18-20 hours of daylight. They reported a wonderful time and plan to return next year.

Dog days of summer. When is it and what causes it? We usually think of "Dog Days" as being that time of year with hot, dry, stifling heat, when you bring in the dog and crank up the AC.

The Old Farmers Almanac defines it as the 40 days from July 3- Aug 11 when Sirius, the Dog Star, rises and sets with the sun. Sirius is so bright the ancients thought it added heat to the sun creating a long stretch of hot, sultry weather, and they began calling that period of time "Dog Days".

The truth is, the heat of summer is a result of the earth's tilt and nothing to do with the Dog Star. I know it is hot and dry with no rain added to our yearly total this week.

A Disappearing Path, PART 3

Secrets of past church attendees revealed at last

By Eunice Halbert

While resting, my mind recalled the names just mentioned, and I realized several mistakes had been made. The lady referred to as Mrs. John Adair was actually Mrs. Walter Dyer! Mrs. Dyer's maiden name was Irene Graves, and she was related to Mantie and Allie Patman. Irene's husband was Aunt Molly Goodnight's brother.

In Virginia Browder's book, Donley County, Land O' Promise, it states that Sammie Blocker was killed when his horse reared and fell backwards on him. Sammie Blocker, not Johnny, was the child who joined the church with me that Sunday morning. His sister Penelope Blocker had a six or seven year old son who died in the midst of a tonsillectomy in Amarillo. She wept as she told my mother and me about her loss. Penelope lived with us for a time, but I cannot remember her married name but am under the impression she was divorced.

You may wonder how and why so many of these young people lived in my home; we had five bedrooms and were only two blocks from what we called "main street." They could rent a room for three dollars a week and walk to work. Sally Hightower, aunt of US Congressman Jack Hightower of Wichita Falls, was one of the girls. Ruth Richerson, Mae Womack, Miss Lehman who was a Linotypist for THE CLARENDON NEWS, Jane Hillman, who worked in the Donley County State Bank and came home daily smelling of cigar smoke, were just a few. Evelyn Murphy's future husband, Claude Moore, and Densel Davis, who married Lotta Bourland, were two of the young men who at one time or other rented a room. My mother enjoyed having her own money, and in this way she could have a few shekles of her very own. We had a cow and chickens, and I delivered milk to a few neighbors and traded eggs for oranges and such at the grocery store. Carrie Johnson was an enterprising young woman who made beautiful angel food cakes on order and crocheted booties for new babies.

Suddenly I recalled something I'll wager no one else has ever mentioned. A lady, whose name I won't reveal, sat with her family in the pew directly in front of ours. Mrs. 'D' must have had a chemical imbalance or disorder or whatever for she had a body odor that just wouldn't quit! Whenever they came to church and they came frequently, I could hardly wait for the benediction so I could dart outside and breathe some fresh air! In my lifetime I have smelled that stench only four times, and it has nothing to do with cleanliness or the lack thereof.

Another memory of that vintage was of Mr. 'A', a man of considerable means, who made it a practice of being late for the church service. You could pinpoint the exact time he would enter from the northeast door by the conclusion of the doxology. That signified the collection plates had been passed and presented to the Lord. I remember Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Watson for they, too, were members of my church; and O.C. Watson, Jr., was a classmate of mine. His sister's name was Dorothea. Their younger brother was a victim of the polio epidemic of the 1920s. I can still see that precious, twisted body stumbling across the street toward the courthouse square as he made his way to town.

So many of these markers I am passing are inscribed with familiar names, but I must limit my remarks to those with whom I had direct contact. Kenneth Fink was one of my brother's closest friends. He was not interested in athletics, but he fitted in with the boys who were. On the other hand, Kenneth's sister, Florence, was a "dyed in the wool" tomboy. It was as if some embryonic joker had put their sexes in the wrong bodies. Brother said it was no secret that Kenneth had made Florence's graduation dress. In today's world that talented boy would probably be a famous dress designer. Kenneth and his wife owned and operated the newspaper in Childress for many years. The last time I saw them was at what would have been my brother's 50th CHS class reunion. My mother was the honored guest at the luncheon for she and Rufus White's mother (who was unable to be present) were the last surviving parents of that 1926 class. At that luncheon I saw my good friend, Mary Frances Caraway and her sister Agnes. Mrs. Caraway permitted Mary Frances to miss school and spend that day of Gilbert's funeral with me. It was a dear thing for her to do, and I appreciate it even to this day. It was also Mrs. Caraway who warned us never to go to a certain businessman's office alone! She didn't say why, but even as preteens we knew he probably was not a 'nice' man.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, superintendent and teacher respectively in Clarendon High School, had moved on by the time I reached the 8th grade. My sister, Sybil, a shy girl ten years older than I and easily intimidated, was afraid of Mrs. Nelson and was absolutely petrified in the presence of her Latin teacher. Miss Stevens had a glass eye, and her students swore she must have had that missing eye in the back of her head. She knew, without even turning around, who had shot that spitball. While I was never afraid of any of my teachers, I did not appreciate my 8th grade algebra professor. He was so very homely. No, he was downright ugly and had no business trying to teach a subject which he himself had not mastered. But for my mother, who "went through" the 10th grade at a Carthage, Texas, boarding school I would still be struggling with "minus quantities."

Adoptive parent meeting to be held

When abuse and neglect occurs, and children are no longer able to safely remain in their own homes, we are fortunate enough to have individuals willing to provide care and support to them in licensed foster homes.

Foster care provides a temporary safe haven for children as Child Protective Services (CPA) caseworkers and foster parents work toward uniting children with their families. These children, through no fault of their own, were placed in abusive or neglectful situations by their biological parents. In some situations, they are not able to return home and deserve a chance for a new life with adoptive parents who can teach them that a family can be a safe place.

To learn more about fostering and adoption, attend an informational meeting the second Tuesday of each month at 7:00 p.m. Meetings are held at the CPS office located at 3521 SW 15th in Amarillo.

There were about 13 classmates with about 20 visitors who enjoyed a Mexican Pile-On meal with Strawberry shortcake for dessert. People attending were Martha (Spaulding) and Doug Lowe, Kathleen (Spaulding) Pixley, Mickey (Wynn) and Don Youree, John and Betty Jenkins, Merie Owens, Butch and Ursula Waddell, Louise Browne, Lanell Bell, Jim and Jean Taylor, Mary Ruth (Sargent) White, Don and Charlene (Sargent) Wells, J.D. and Marie Skaggs, Mark (Bud) and Betty White, Johnny and Nancy Brumley, Jack D. and Brinda Usrey and Leon Bevers.

They all really had a wonderful time. Doug Lowe stated that Mary Ruth White made her famous Peanut Patties, and he did not tempt himself. They all enjoyed stories from the past, took pictures, and really had a good time.

The Hedley Senior Citizens wants to thank the Class of 1955 for this very nice fundraiser. We enjoyed serving you. We are still praying for James Potts, Jim Mitchell, Margaret Holland and Ed Nichols and hoping God will keep them in His loving arms.

The Hedley Senior Citizens is raffling off a King Size Quilt with 2 pillow shams and 1 throw pillow. We will be giving it away at the Hedley Cotton Festival in October. Please support the Senior Citizens. We are trying anything we can think of to support our small community organization.

Please take care of and protect your animals. They have feeling, too.

ONLY GOD'S MESSAGE CAN BE PREACHED

(Jonah 3:1-2) Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, "Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach to it the message that I tell you." God wanted Jonah to preach repentance to the people of Nineveh. What if Jonah had changed the message? Would God have been pleased? Would the people of Nineveh still be saved? The answer would have to be NO! God is not pleased when His message is changed. Romans 1:16 tells us that the gospel is God's power to save. A pure unadulterated version of the truth of God will save people.

A perverted or changed gospel has no power. Pure water has the power to quench thirst, if you add salt, it loses that power. When you read Galatians 1:6-9, you will see that Paul rebukes the Galatians for allowing the gospel to be perverted. He told them if anyone came to them with a different message than they had received that those messengers would be accursed.

Do you ever wonder if you have the truth concerning God and your spirituality? The Bible is the only true source for truth. Creed books, "extra" new testaments, so called "lost books" of the Bible, can not give you the pure truth. Ministers who preach from these "extra" sources are not giving you the pure truth or gospel.

(2 Timothy 3:16-17) "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work." What else is left? If the Bible is able equip a man and make him complete, why would we want a message from something less? Please think about this and study your Bible. Our souls depend on it!

Cattlemen learn how to maintain profitability

COLLEGE STATION – Facing a triple threat of high fuel, feed and fertilizer prices, more than 1,400 cattle producers heard from experts at the 54th Texas A&M Beef Cattle Short Course on ways to maintain profitability.

The event, sponsored by the Texas AgriLife Extension Service, continues through Wednesday on the campus of Texas A&M University in College Station.

Dr. Ron Gill, AgriLife Extension beef cattle specialist from Stephenville, said during Monday's general session that cattle producers have no control over these costs, but they can control how much of these commodities is used in their operations.

"We have to really get our minds around and concentrate on the things we have control over," he said.

Gill said producers have control over the type and amount of feed that is purchased, the amount of fuel that is purchased, and must consider additional revenue streams when possible.

"How many of you knowingly or intentionally waste money?" Gill said. "Develop a systematic, planned approach to controlling cost. Don't start cutting costs first, then start thinking about what the ramifications will be."

If cows are under a body condition score of five, Gill said to consider these points: Look to see if you are overstocked. Is production potential for cattle matched to the environment? Is there adequate trace mineral?

"We've gotten very lax and lazy in management when we were selling $600 and $800 calves," Gill said.

That also has carried over into ranchers' driving habits, he said.

"You would be amazed at how much nonproductive driving we've done when there were cheap energy prices," he said.

An even tougher decision among some ranchers would be to reconsider the pickup they are driving, Gill said.

"How many of us would have bought our first diesel pickup if diesel fuel was 70 cents a gallon higher than gas at the time? How many of us love driving those diesel pickups? More than necessary."

Now is the time to also evaluate if you have the right type of cattle to fit the environment, Gill said.

"Would less cattle and less fertilizer net you more dollars?" Gill said.

"For some reason, cattle producers have it in their mind they do something different," he said. "We should have been more efficient when we were making $600 and $800 and putting some of that money away for times like today."

"If it's really as bad as we think it is, then we're going to have to do something different," he said. "We should have been more efficient when we were making $600 and $800 and putting some of that money away for times like today."

Gill said many producers are running without a financial or management plan and need to start running their cattle operation like any successful business. Even consider some things that haven't been done in past, he said.

"Invite somebody in to look at your operation," Gill said. "Not many want somebody telling you your faults. Get somebody to look at what you are doing and think outside the box. You may discover you don't know enough to start cutting costs."

Dr. Jason Cleere, AgriLife Extension beef cattle specialist and conference coordinator, said short course attendees will come away more focused on the efficiencies of the operation, utilizing best management practices and keeping only the top-performing cows in herds.

"Optimize production, that's the buzzword," he said. "The overall goal is to minimize costs without sacrificing performance ... It may mean running a few less cows. That's being discussed throughout the forage, nutrition and genetics sessions."

Clarendon boys represent city

Clarendon was well represented this past weekend by Michael Hall, Blaine Ellis, and J. D. Baxter.

These three young men competed in the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Junior Beef Challenge, at West Texas A&M University. This project involved each participant feeding a pen of three steers. The contest began April 1st, with each participant feeding their pen of steers for 120 days.

On Saturday, August 2, their calves were judged on carcass quality, their record books were judged for accuracy, they each gave an oral presentation, and they each took a written exam. This event is sponsored by the Donley County 4-H, and the Clarendon FFA chapter. It is a great opportunity for young people to develop an in-depth knowledge of the cattle industry as well as managing finances.

If anyone is interested in this project in the future, contact Leonard Haynes at the Donley County Extension office, or Don Hillis with the Clarendon FFA Chapter.

Drugs in the News

Nose Spray Helps Children with Sleep Apnea

According to an evaluation of over 60 children with a condition called mild obstructive sleep apnea (OSA), the use of a corticosteroid drug called budesonide provides benefit. Results of the evaluation were published recently in the medical journal Pediatrics. Children received either budesonide as a nose spray or a placebo nose spray (no active ingredient), that was administered into each nostril at bedtime for six weeks. Researchers noted several things in the children who received budesonide including an overall improvement in sleep, breathing became normal in over 50%, and improvements in sleep disturbance were still present even up to eight weeks after the budesonide spray was discontinued.

OSA is a medical condition in which the soft tissues in the nose and throat collapse, which blocks a person's ability to breathe for brief periods of time while they are asleep. The condition is sometimes difficult to diagnose because children with OSA are not always overweight, nor do they frequently wake up at night as adults with OSA often do.

Reward offered for fire

State and federal investigators have released video and photos recorded by security cameras on the night of the Governor's mansion arson and are asking for assistance in identifying the man or men shown in the video.

One video shows a man walking on a sidewalk near the mansion. Another video shows the arsonist running on another sidewalk near the mansion immediately after the fire was started. The men shown in these videos may or may not be the same person.

Investigators are offering a $50,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the arsonist.

The first video clip shows a man wearing a baseball cap with a longhorn logo, a dark-colored short-sleeved shirt and dark-colored pants. He may be wearing glasses and appears to be between 5 feet, 8 inches to 6 feet tall with a medium build.

The video and photos we are releasing are the best quality that we are able to achieve at this time. They can be viewed at <http://www.txdps.state.tx.us/video/news/video.htm>.

We are asking the public's help in identifying this individual. Someone may notice a particular trait on this individual. We believe that someone knows who this person is. Please contact us if you think you may know who the person in the video is.

Investigators are specifically requesting that news organizations show these videos statewide because of the large number of events that brought out-of-town visitors to Austin the night of the fire.

Anyone with information about the possible identity of the man depicted in the video can call investigators at 512-506-2849, 512-506-2861, 512-506-2862 or the Crime Stoppers toll-free hotline at 1-800-252-8477 or 1-800-252-TIPS. All lines will be answered 24 hours a day.

Prosecutors at the Travis County District Attorney's office have asked investigators to limit the amount of information given out on this case. Because this is an ongoing criminal investigation, the Department is unable to release additional details of the case.

AUTOMOTIVE INSIDER

CLARENDON DEALER TO OFFER GAS FOR 99¢ PER GALLON* Thru 2008 & To Sell Vehicles For Just $29 Down & As Low As $129 Per Month*! Customers To Pay Just 99¢ Per Gallon Until 2009 When They Purchase Any Vehicle This Wednesday, August 13th Through Saturday, August 16th!

Claire Wilson, Staff Writer

CLARENDON, TX — Mr. Phillip Frazier, General Manager of Stanley Chevrolet in Clarendon, just announced that he has issued a directive to the Management and Sales staff at the dealership to accept all reasonable offers from any customer who purchases a vehicle between now and Saturday, August 16th. He states that he has several local auto loan specialists willing to waive all payments for 90 days with approved credit and he will sell pre-owned vehicles for as low as $29 down and as low as $129 per month*! Add gas for only 99¢ a gallon for the rest of the year* and that's an unbeatable deal! All recent trade-ins, lease returns, service loaner vehicles and dealer demos at Stanley Chevrolet in Clarendon are to be sold off during this event.

This unprecedented 4-day sell-off event is scheduled for this Wednesday, August 13th through Saturday, August 16th. This event must take place regardless of any weather conditions that may arise.

Frazier offers a simple explanation for this unprecedented sale, "We've had record sales due, in part, to recent manufacturer discount pricing programs. As a result we are now extremely well-stocked with hundreds of new and late-model, low mileage trade-ins, most with the remainder of the manufacturers' warranties still in effect." He adds, "During this massive sales event we will offer unbelievable discounts on all of these pre-owned vehicles and sell many for just $29 down and as low as $129 per month*. In addition, during these four days we will give every buyer free oil changes for one year. As you can see I am committed to doing what it takes to sell off our entire pre-owned vehicles by even if people have had serious credit problems in the past. We've arranged for several finance representatives to be on-site each day to assist those with past credit issues. We can finance all qualified buyers."

He also points out that in most instances their prices could be thousands lower than local auction prices.

"Current automotive market conditions indicate that the best values exist in the pre-owned market. The recent surge in new vehicle sales due to several manufacturers' national discount programs has created a surplus of pre-owned vehicles leading to a rapid decline in the prices of like-new vehicles. It couldn't be any better for pre-owned vehicle shoppers." Expect to purchase a quality used vehicle at the lowest possible price, including vehicles priced as low as $4,400.*

"Gas for 99¢ a gallon until the end of the year*, plus cars for $29 down and as low as $129 a month*."

Phillip Frazier, General Manager

There will be an enormous selection of vehicles to choose from, including Chevrolet, Pontiac, GMC, Buick, Toyota, Honda, Nissan, Chrysler, Jeep, Ford and more.

Frazier explains, "Interest rates are still very low but are poised to rise in the near future. Most of all, we've got over a million dollars worth of inventory—that's hundreds of new and pre-owned cars, trucks, minivans and sport utility vehicles to choose from. It can't get any better for the serious auto buyer!"

For auto shoppers looking for a very low payment and price there will be many choices, including a 2003 Ford Taurus with automatic transmission and A/C for just $29 down and $129 per month*. Sample payments will be clearly marked on all vehicles. All you'll need to do is obtain credit approval, then pick a vehicle and a payment. It's that simple.

He cites other examples, three 2008 Pontiac G6s fresh off of program and very well equipped with moonroof, power package and alloy wheels for only $29 down* and $259 per month*. For those auto shoppers looking to trade their current vehicle, all trades will be purchased for 100% of their current Kelley Blue Book value*, whether leased or purchased (paid off or not*). You won't want to miss this unique opportunity to purchase a pre-owned car, truck, minivan, sport utility, luxury, or economy vehicle with an unbelievably low down payment of just $29 and monthly payments as low as $129 per month*!

"We are flooded with used vehicles that must be sold or shipped to auctions located throughout the Southwest United States, which will cost us thousands in shipping costs that we want to avoid," he says.

Frazier reminds prospective buyers, "We will waive all payments for 90 days with approved credit, plus give buyers free oil changes for one full year. We will make sure that we can complete every deal during store hours. No overnight camping or squatting will be permitted."

Those wishing to beat the rush should shop early and take advantage of our extended sale hours over these four days at Stanley Chevrolet, located at 1211 East 2nd Street in Clarendon, Texas. For further info on this sell-off, please call:

Laptops: Initiative brings new methods to classrooms

sharing of ideas and resources with several other school districts including Wellington, Memphis, Childress, Floydada, and Highland Park.

All the research done on this type of program stresses that one of the most important factors in ensuring success is adequate teacher training on use of the laptop and integration of technology into their current curriculum.

The teachers will also receive two more days of training before the school year begins.

"I look forward to quick access to technological tools in every subject area. The wealth of up-to-date information in every subject area provides additional resources which can be accessed by both my students and me in a class period. Also, I believe students will have another avenue to produce work products which allow them to use creativity and critical thinking skills," says Jan Campbell, CCISD fifth grade teacher.

A new technology facility is currently under construction west of the Administration Building. It is expected to cost between $800,000 and $1 million, which officials say they can build with no tax increase. The expected date of completion is November 2008.

School Board President, Wayne

Hardin, explains how this building came to be. "Last fall, we analyzed the needs of the school district. We identified the need for more space for technology. The current room for the server and office of Marva Thomas (CCISD Technology Coordinator) is actually the storage room for the theatre arts department. Melody Hysinger (CCISD Instructional Technology Specialist) shares a room with the diagnostician and speech pathologist. We knew we were getting the laptops and needed a place to store, work on, and image them. We looked at using some of our present facilities but then decided to do it right and build a building specifically for technology. It will have a couple of classrooms, a video-conference room, and a place to bring computers to be worked on. We have visited other schools that have the laptops to learn from their mistakes so we didn't have to reinvent the wheel. The whole school board is supportive of and excited about this project."

Clarendon CCISD will hold an orientation night soon. Handouts will be distributed, and the policies regarding laptop usage will be explained. It will be mandatory that parents attend. If parents aren't present, the student will not be issued a laptop.

THANK YOU

Thank you to family and friends for every act of loving kindness and concern during my 70 day stay at BSA Hospital. I feel well and am getting stronger every day. The prayers said on my behalf were most important in my recovery. The cards, flowers, food, visits, and phone calls were very much appreciated as well. We are so blessed to live in this area and have so many friends. Again, thank you.

Bright & Cloe Newhouse

Our family would like to thank all our wonderful friends in Clarendon for the cards, phone calls, and donations made in memory of Mike. We miss him more than words can express, but your thoughtfulness and prayers have helped so much during this difficult time.

With Sincere Thanks,
Louise Horton and family

Summer energy tips from SWEPCO

SHREVEPORT, La., July 22, 2008 - "Hot summer weather with temperatures in the upper 90s and high humidity make you eager to stay cool but save energy at the same time," says Scott McCloud, SWEPCO spokesman. SWEPCO customers can save money on their summer bills by following these energy tips to reduce electric usage in the home," adds McCloud.

Install clean air conditioning filter on a regular basis in the summer and replace or clean it monthly. Dirty filters cause the equipment to work harder and use up to five percent more energy.

For economy, set the air conditioner thermostat at 78 degrees. Each degree below 78 adds about eight percent to your cooling costs.

Use portable and ceiling fans whenever possible to help circulate air and help reduce the amount of air conditioning required. They only cost a dollar or two a month to operate because they are smaller wattage appliances.

Set your thermostat at a higher temperature while you're away from home. This way the air conditioner won't be on as often while you're out.

Perform heavy housework chores in the cooler time of day - this includes washing dishes, baking, and laundry work. These create heat and moisture that put an extra strain on the air conditioner. Vent clothes dryers to the outside and use kitchen exhaust fans to get rid of excess heat.

Keep direct sunlight out as much as possible. Close curtains, shades, and blinds to hold down the temperature inside the home. Consider light colored roofs, outside walls, drapes, and solar screens that reflect the heat.

Weatherstrip doors and windows to prevent expensive air leaks. Make sure all windows and doors are closed when the AC unit is operating.

The attic should be properly ventilated to prevent excess heat build-up, which causes your cooling system to work harder.

Insulation is important and can pay for itself by lowering your cooling costs by as much as 20 percent.

To operate at maximum efficiency, air conditioning equipment should be inspected and serviced each year by a licensed contractor.

Be sure the damper is tightly closed on a fireplace to prevent air loss.

Keep furniture and draperies away from air vents inside the house. Air should be allowed to flow freely throughout the home.

Shrubberies growing against the outside walls, as well as trees that shade the roof, act as a barrier against the sun and can reduce the amount of energy required to cool your home. Make sure shrubbery is trimmed away from the outdoor compressor unit so there is ample room for good air flow. SWEPCO customers are encouraged to practice these measures in the summer for wise energy use in the home.
