CUSTODY OF CHILD DIVIDED BY COURT

CHILD LEGALLY GIVEN RIGHT TO VISIT WITH FATHER TWO MONTHS OF YEAR

After hearing testimony for three days from the largest delegation of witnesses to appear in a district court case in Clarendon in three years, Judge A. S. Moss continued custody of little L. B. Taylor, Jr., to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Webb, with the special provision that the child could visit his father, L. B. Taylor, from June 15 to August 15 of each year, in an exparte suit brought by Taylor in an endeavor to obtain complete custody of the child.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb had custody of the child since September, as a result of a divorce decree rendered in Wichita Falls.

Lengthy testimony was given by Taylor, former resident of Donley county but now residing near Bowie, to show that he had reformed and was capable of rearing the child. His testimony was corroborated by about 35 witnesses from his Montague county community.

A large number of witnesses took the stand on behalf of the Webb family and the child's mother, Mrs. Bernice Webb Taylor. The court room was packed during most of the three days of testimony.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Stewart were visiting in Lubbock Sunday.

Flies have been more prevalent in the past few days because of the rise in temperature.

One of the largest Saturday crowds since fall was in the city most all business firms being exceptionally busy during the entire afternoon and into the night.

THRIFT LECTURE FOR LIONS CLUB

ILLUSTRATED "WORK AND SAVE" LECTURE AND VISITORS FURNISH PROGRAM

With a good attendance the Clarendon Lions Club devoted its program period Tuesday to hearing an illustrated Thrift Lecture presented by Bill Word, Jr., and to brief talks by T. L. Benedict former telephone owner in Clarendon, but now of Carthage, Mo., and John E. Cooke, publisher of the Clarendon Banner-Stockman nearly thirty years ago, but now owner of the Rockdale Reporter and postmaster of that Central Texas City.

The illustrated lecture brought forcibly to attention that the blind spot in present day life was the failure to be able to prevent recurring depressions, while science had been able to surmount most all other difficulties civilization has to combat in its march forward. The lecture pointed out how by working, saving, investing in sound securities a four-sided wall of safety could be erected which would guarantee personal economic security. The preacher especially urged early saving of at least thirty-five cents per day, which at the age of sixty-five would secure one's old age, if other advices were heeded.

Announcement was made of the group meeting at Wheeler Thursday night and members were urged to attend.

Pioneer Settler Is In City On Visit

T. L. Benedict, Carthage, Mo., former owner of the Clarendon telephone system, is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Taylor and other friends in Clarendon this week.

Mr. Benedict, who came to Clarendon in 1902 from the Rio Grande country, is pleasantly swapping stories of pioneer days with his friends and recounting the struggles that early settlers had in the west against renegade Indians.

The former Clarendon resident was an early settler in the southwestern part of the state when "the only fence between Ft. Worth and El Paso was one around a graveyard."

Mr. Benedict sold the telephone system to the late O. L. Fink, moving to Missouri in 1923.

AUCTION SALE IS SLATED FOR MAY 3

FEELESS AUCTION SALES ARE GAINING IN INTEREST MONTH BY MONTH

Farmers and traders are making plans to attend the Fourth Monthly Auction Sale to be held in Clarendon Tuesday, May 3.

The sales are being sponsored by 26 Clarendon merchants and are held at the Fontayne Elmore trade lot two blocks east of the business district.

The unusual feature of the sales is that farmers and traders are invited to bring anything to the lots that they want to sell, and their items will be auctioned off to the highest bidder without any cost to the seller. Auction fees are eliminated for these monthly events by the sponsors.

Livestock, farm equipment, feed and miscellaneous items are being put up at each of the sales and bring good prices to the sellers. Some high bids have been rejected but the items in most cases were later sold at private sales before leaving the grounds.

M. L. Putman is auctioneer for the monthly auction sales, that are gaining wide favor as shown by the increase in amount and number of items listed for auction each month.

All farmers and traders are invited to participate in the sales and at no cost. The 26 merchants are sponsoring the events and want you to make Clarendon your market place, by attending the sales.

Former Clarendon Publisher, Visitor In City This Week

Clarendon had a distinguished visitor this week, when John Esten Cooke, owner of the Rockdale Reporter at Rockdale, Texas, and postmaster of that city, with his wife visited friends and relatives from Sunday evening until Tuesday afternoon. While here they were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Horn, and Mrs. W. H. Cooke.

Mr. Cooke published the Clarendon Banner-Stockman for ten years, leaving here in 1909 for Rockdale where he has lived all these years. Mr. Cooke, after making a success here with the Banner-Stockman, later absorbed his success as a publisher at Rockdale and served as President of the Texas Press Association and has continued among the leaders of that organization, even after he accepted the postmastership of his city, relinquishing the operation of the Reporter to his son, Bill, who is carrying on the family tradition in the newspaper world in a splendid manner.

Among the happy recollections of Mr. Cooke is the sport and associations of the old Clarendon Trap shooting Club, and his winning the Panhandle Trophy in that sport in competition with the best shots of the Panhandle from Vernon to Hereford.

The Cookes drove from Clarendon to Wheeler, where they will visit relatives before returning to Rockdale.

GOVERNOR ALLRED IS RIGHT

Fitting in perfectly with President Roosevelt's public works program as an aid to economic recovery, Governor Allred is proposing the erection of a courts and office building for state governmental use at Austin.

Governor Allred points out that the rents now being paid by the state for office space in the various buildings in down-town Austin, will liquidate the federal PWA loan necessary to finance the needed structure.

Texas can afford to own her office quarters, when rents in fifteen or twenty years will pay the bill.

CALL FOR TWENTY PERCENT REDUCTION IN APPROPRIATIONS OF STATE GOVERNMENT

The Senate Appropriations committee this week indicated that they would submit a budget calling for twenty percent reduction in the appropriations for operation of state government, which is by way of being the most heartening sign on the tax payers' horizon at the present moment.

In Texas and throughout the Nation there is growing demand for economy in operation of government, federal, state and local, and the law-maker with his ear to the ground cannot fail to sense this mounting avalanche of public disapproval of anybody, high or low, who fails to get in step with the will of the people.

Citizens far from the seat of state government at Austin see enough signs of slipshod methods and bureaucratic waste to justify them in the belief that twenty percent reduction is none too large. At Austin the picture is still clearer.

What Texas needs is reductions of state costs. Washington needs even more in its multiplicity of bureaus.

LITTLE BOY BLUE

This year over 4,000 children will die beneath the wheels of traffic. One of them may be your child or your friend's child or that youngster down the block.

The number of these unnecessary, tragic accidents is diminishing, but not fast enough.

We quote the first stanza of an old familiar poem:

"The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands;
And the little red soldier is red with rust,
And his musket molds in his hands,
Time was when the little toy dog was new
And the soldier was passing fair,
And that was the time when our little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there."

Four thousand "Little Boy Blues" this year? Four thousand little toy dogs waiting? Upsetting, isn't it? But does it upset you enough?

Will it be on your mind when driving a bit too fast on a city street? Will you slow down when you see a child playing near the curb? For the responsibility is yours; there are no brakes on an impetuous youngster.

Will you, in your car, remember "Little Boy Blue" and drive more carefully.—Sam H. Riley, manager Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company.

A GOOD MOVE

In a recent issue of the Shamrock Texan we read an article to the effect that the Wheeler County commissioner's court had voted to buy all their printing and office supplies from local firms. This order to buy all printing will mean some $2,500 to the two printing firms in the county—and who is more entitled to that printing than the local firms who are in a position to do more for their county than any other business in the county.

The columns in the newspapers reach more people and carry more weight than any other medium—local newspapers in the average small city say and do more towards urging people to trade at home than any other medium and a publisher is usually the first person to practice what he preaches.

Our policy is to encourage the citizens of the town and county to support local merchants—and in turn when the local merchants support us, we are grateful.—Paducah Post

SMALL TALK

Light and easy conversation is scoffed at by some people, and said to be froth, signifying nothing. And there are likely people who would like to be elected to congress for the purpose of enacting a law against small talk. Laws as absurd as that have been passed. But to abolish small talk would be a disaster, at least to some people.

Small talk was never intended to say something, but to say anything. Silence cannot endure. It not only disturbs ones composure, but gives the impression that the other fellow is only taking stock of us.

Small talk is the average person's shield against saying what he really thinks. Arnold Bennett said: "Some people go about the world pouring out the truth as though it were the essence of violets. Such practice is dangerous and leads to loss of friends."

Small talk is defined as "light or trivial conversation" Such a definition forgets that this light talk is the means for discovering whether two people are likely to have anything in common. Small talk may better be defined as a preliminary skirmish to acquaintanceship or friendship.

It is through the lightest talk and the most trifling signs that we usually estimate whether it is safe or amusing to drop our guard and let go with some light observation of our own.

PASTORS AND POLITICS

by Jeff D. Ray

The political pot begins to simmer. Pretty soon it will be boiling hot. Then there will be a good chance for many of us to play the fool. Every citizen should have a sane nonintermittent interest in the question of who are to be our officers and by the use of both ballot and personal influence he should seek to put efficient, trustworthy people in office. But a wise man will refuse to be used to pull chestnuts out of the fire for wily, self-serving politicians. My suggestion is that all of us keep cool, politically at least, during the coming campaign. Let us not allow any candidate, from Governor to Constable, to persuade us that the salvation of the country or even efficiency in the office in which he aspires depends necessarily on his election.

Since I am, myself, a sort of "one-gallop" preacher, may I presume to give some fraternal advice specifically to men of my own craft?

You preachers have as much right to mix in partisan politics as anybody living, and personally I resent anybody's effort to deny or abridge that inherent right. But did not our distinguished fellow preacher from Tarsus declare under divine inspiration, "All things are lawful but all things are not expedient?" By which I suppose he meant that for expediency's sake it is not always right for a man to do what he has a right to do, whatever he may feel he ought to do in the matter of personal influence on the outside. I think any balanced man will agree that the preacher ought not to take partisan politics into his pulpit, either directly or indirectly. If there is a moral issue involved he may and should discuss that. Only let him be sure that it is a genuine case and not some spurious thing a politician has trumped up with which he hopes to pull the wool over the preacher's eyes. In a preacher practice of nearly 60 years, I have only twice publicly advocated the election of a given candidate. In both cases, years apart, it was done because I thought the men embodied a "great moral issue." Both were defeated and both turned out to be crooks.

May I presume to give the politician a little fraternal advice? You had better let the preacher alone. He is not an astute politician and usually by public advocacy does his candidate more harm than good. Don't you remember how preacher Burchard defeated Blaine for president by his "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" oratorical fight? As a rule, if you want to defeat a candidate, get a preacher or a bunch of them to campaign for him on platform or in pulpit. A preacher in a political squabble is as dangerously uncertain as a politician would be in the pulpit.

There is just space for another affectionate word, and that is to the sisters. I hope this year they will not worry the life out of the poor old candidates as they have in the past with various schemes—suppers, raffles, booths, etc.—

Meet Old Friends Through This Newspaper

FOR MORE THAN HALF A CENTURY FOLKS HAVE BEEN MEETING OLD FRIENDS AND MAKING NEW ONES THRU THE COLUMNS OF THE CLARENDON NEWS

Each week subscribers read of the activities of many people, whose names are mentioned in these columns—some of them your neighbors and close friends. Others are well known by reputation or through reading about them in the newspaper. "Humanity makes news." The News endeavors to bring you all the news concerning the people of the area it serves.

The Clarendon News is a welcome visitor in homes throughout this area. It pushes no doorbell to gain entry; it brings no sigh from the busy housewife; "Well, there is another agent." It is no hand bill cluttering up automobiles, nor blowing around over the front-door yard and premises. It is not a mailed circular that attracts only passing attention from possibly one person in the family and is thrown in the waste basket. No man coming in from his day's work sits down and asks his wife, "Where is the latest mailed circular?" But many town and country people alike ask, "Where is this week's News?"

That is the clientele Merchants reach when they use THE NEWS for advertising purposes. It is a clientele that is responsive to merchandising messages well told.

LIFE AND WORKS OF HAROLD D. BUGBEE, CLARENDON ARTIST

by Jo Ella Stewart Randel

(Editor's Note: The following sketch is a paper read before the Clarendon Junior Les Beaux Arts Club last week as a featured number on their regular program. In the absence of Mrs. Randel, her mother, Mrs. W. C. Stewart read the sketch.)

It is indeed a pleasure to appear on this program this afternoon for two reasons: I am sure that regardless of whatever club associations I form in the future, the Junior Les Beaux Arts Club will always have the warm spot in my heart for truly, this club makes definite strides in club work that are not made by many of the senior clubs. Aside from the pleasure that meeting with this club gives me, I can think of no subject that I had rather discuss than the life and works of our own Harold D. Bugbee, who sees beauty in sage and sand, whose life is full of action and vigor as his pictures, and whom I would like to have you regard as not only the most promising artist of the southwest, but as a West Texas' historian.

The West is gone; most of our ranch life exists now in orderly corrals. West Texas with her miles of paved roads, progressive cities and diversified farming cannot be far different from other sections of the state.

Each year our cities of the Panhandle have "western" celebrations. If the atmosphere of the old west still remained in this section, we wouldn't need these celebrations—we'd want a change and so we'd probably have a circus on the days we have these celebrations.

But for our children and our grandchildren, for that matter many of us, Harold Bugbee's paintings are not only important for the sake of art, but they are preserving for us the west that exists no more.

It is unnecessary to describe Harold to you, his neighbors, as his cowboy attire, his energetic stride and pleasing personality are known to you, as each of you know his cowboy attire is not the publicized artist's temperament springing to life, but that Harold wears these clothes because they best serve him while riding, climbing hills, and going with his case into canyons to see the calf roped or study the rolling clouds of the west. It is through constant association with ranch life that Mr. Bugbee obtains his life-like animal paintings. On being asked how he painted a bucking broncho, Mr. Bugbee replied, "By first riding it—you feel every swift movement."

Mr. Bugbee is not a native of the Panhandle, having moved to Clarendon from Lexington, Mass., his native state, at the age of twelve. Not long after the Bugbee family moved to Clarendon from Massachusetts, young Harold saw the larger ranch lands being sold into small tracts and he resolved to preserve this phase of Texas life not alone for its magnitude and beauty but for history. He has faithfully carried out his desire.

Bugbee, scion of an old New England family of architects and shipbuilders, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bugbee. His father before joining Col. Thos. S. Bugbee to trek southward to become among the first cattle kings of the Panhandle, was a member of the famous Sousa band and regarded as one of the nation's greatest clarinetists. His mother Grace L. Dow, was a painter of such ability that her teacher told her that she was ruining a career when she married. And it did seem strange that this youth, reared in the shadow of Harvard should become enamored with West Texas in such a short time.

To quote from the Magazine, West Texas Today, "Possible no artist in the southwest is so well equipped with background and a deep knowledge of things western as is Harold Bugbee, who grew up at the feet of the late Col. Chas. Goodnight. He is on the high road to fame, for his work has found favor with those who know true western art. He is already nearly as great as Remington and Russell." That was in 1936 that West Texas Today printed those words; today, authorities are ranking Harold with Remington and Russell and looking to a greater future.

At seventeen, his first effort in oil was accomplished. It was a scene from the home pasture, a cowboy in the foreground, a few frightened cows, clumps of sage, a bleached cow skull and a rattlesnake. "It was this first picture, that bold and dashing color that the artist so well uses today, gave a hint of possibilities" says Texas Art and Artist in a lengthy article in tribute to Harold.

After a conference with Bert Phillips, a competent artist of Taos, Harold went to Des Moines, Iowa where he studied under Chas. A. Cummings and completed a four year course in three years. Preceding this art training, however, he attended Texas A&M and studied lines and perspective under Professor Geist, returning to Clarendon to attend Clarendon College one year.

Mr. Bugbee was married to Miss Kathryn Patrick, a member of one of Clarendon's most prominent and pioneer families. Kathryn is indeed the "right" wife for Harold, an inspiration in his work, and tireless in her efforts to assist him. Her encouragement reflects somewhat the same spirit in which her pioneer grandmothers were evidently inspired when they stood side by side with the builders of the west.

Harold plans his own pictures and they are always original. He has had sizeable exhibits in art galleries of New York and Chicago, where Harold finds ready markets for his work. His paintings have also been exhibited in every Texas city of prominence, and he spent some time in New York sketching and painting. His summers are spent in Taos and he has worked one summer in Colorado Canyon.

In the most prominent place in the Hall of State at Dallas hangs one of Harold's finest pieces of work—R. B. Masterson driving a herd of cattle. The oil is painted on pine, with the grain of pine forming the clouds and dry creek bed. The herd, chuck wagon and drivers are moving so that the map of Texas is discernible when one studies the picture. Another significant piece of work is his mural "Coming of the Cattleman," which hangs in the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum at Canyon. It is the artist's conception of the arrival of Charles Goodnight with a heard of Longhorns in 1870 entering the Palo Duro Canyon.

His first big sale was a dozen oils which Ernest O. Thompson bought for the lobby of the Amarillo Hotel.

Harold has also gained fame with his portraits. Notably that of Col. Chas. Goodnight, T. D. Hobert, Sam Isaacs and Will Rogers.

In his studio at the Chas. Bugbee home, west of Clarendon, Harold works from nine in the morning until six or seven at night, either working on oils or illustrations for Field and Stream, Ranch Romances and the American, and a dozen other publications for which he illustrates. J. Evetts Haley's "Col. Chas. Goodnight" was illustrated by Bugbee as well as "Cowboy Life" by Rufe O'Keefe.

Interesting, I think, is the comment that Harold's fervent admirer, Lynn Bogue Hunt, the foremost animal illustrator, made of Harold. While in New York, Ray Holland, editor of Field and Stream, sent Harold to see Artist Hunt and ask his opinion of his paintings. Upon walking into the studio, Harold found Hunt busy, so Hunt told him to arrange his pictures against the wall and he would look at them when he had time. Bugbee did as told and in the intervening time looked at Hunt's work. He turned to see that Hunt had arisen, walked over to his pictures and was silently and closely inspecting each one. Suddenly he exclaimed, "My God, Man, you can paint!" So then he told Harold that hundreds of Artists came to see him each week to have him judge their works—but never work like this, he said, From that day on, Hunt and Bugbee have been close friends—great admirers of the other's art.

Fannie Elsewood, editor of Ranch Romances, and Ray Holland that great admirers of Bugbee's work. Texas Art and Artist, Texas Art and Sculptors and Texas Who's Who are lavish in praise of his work.

Gene Howe, Amarillo editor, is quite complimentary of Harold's work and Sam M. Braswell of the Clarendon News said recently, "There is no doubt but that Harold is a great artist; he has reached that place now where he can take his place among great artists of the nation."

Last week, I was talking with John McCarty, editor of the Amarillo News-Globe and asked him if I might quote him on Harold. With his affable manner, he said, "Quote me as saying anything

The Low Down FROM HICKORY GROVE

A feller says to me the other day, Jo, he says, you get around some and are not entirely blind—what do you think of the women and the hats they are wearing?

And I says, brother, you have come to the right place. But I have nothing against the women, I says; but the hats, we can gas about them.

And you sometimes see farmers put hats on their horses—but you cannot blame the horse for his sky-piece.

And with women's hats, they are in the same boat, and I am one the women's hide—I am for the women versus some hatter cooking up a joke on them.

But women who venture out much in these new chapeaus, or go to the country, they maybe should keep a lookout for nimrods—and especially during the open season.

But for favoring the ladies and sidin' with 'em, and taking their part—that is me all over.

Yours, with the low down, JO SERRA good about Bugbee's work and personality." He went on to say, "He's a head and shoulder above any other cowboy artist—Dunton, Russell and Remington have found a worthy successor in Harold." Mr. McCarty will use twenty-five or thirty of Harold's sketches in the Amarillo News Golden Anniversary edition.

But, it's rather like being in a forest—one can't see the forest for the trees. So it is with many people in the Panhandle today—they are so familiar with western scenes that they do not appreciate the real greatness of Harold's work, but the west is going modern, and in a short time every citizen of the west will turn to Harold's work for its historic value, aside from the fineness and skill of his painting.

The Illustration

Beauty was interwoven with practicality in the building of San José, gem of all the Texas missions... Coffee, too, serves a double purpose. A delightful beverage in itself, it has a mildly stimulating quality that brings relief from fatigue. Admiration Coffee is roasted to just the right degree to preserve the essential oils that give this "lift," and its oven-freshness insures against staleness. Try Admiration today. You cannot buy a finer coffee.

San José is properly acclaimed one of the most inspiring and beautiful of ancient edifices, where the art of the Old World mingled with that of the New. It was founded in 1720, but not completed until 1731. Recent restoration gives a good idea of its original magnificence.

There Is Always Worship Fellowship—Service

With hearts aglow with the glad message of Easter it would seem unnecessary to urge any Christian to be in the worship hour of his church the following Lord's Day.

However, people are so constituted that they want to relax after a mountain top experience and as a result they go into the valley. What a fine thing it will be if all will capitalize on the exhilarating experience of last Sunday to reach a higher height in the Christian life. It ought to be done and we are happy to believe that it will so be. Great Christians are grown by the constant effort.

Christian people are to add to their faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, love. This is the Bible plan of growing in grace. There are few parking places on the road to Heaven. People who park usually get off the road.

Regular services at the Baptist Church Sunday. Your presence will greatly stimulate the interest in the service. The church needs you, and we feel that you need the inspiration of the church.

Garden Glances Presented weekly by the Garden Club

"America Beautiful lies in the hands of the gardeners."

The gardeners are gladly welcoming the return of spring for the second time this year.

Several large Chinese Elms have shed their dead foliage and are a lacy green again. Two very noticeable ones Monday were at the Charles Murphy home and on the Clappitt lawn. Some of the apple and cherry trees are not only donning their green, but are becoming again. The cherry tree at the Mulkey home is conspicuously beautiful with its many blossoms and tender green leaves.

Numerous shrubs that have been set out this year were still dormant when the severe freeze came, so now these are displaying their first leaves. There is a row of maples recently placed around the curb of Mrs. G. W. Antrobus' lawn that are leafing, also several shrubs that are used in relandscapeing that are unfolding their green buds.

Don't neglect to glance at the gorgeous array of tulips in Mrs. Mollie Grey's back yard. There are tulips. They did not drop their heads permanently as the majority of the iris after the snow storm.

No lawn or flower garden is complete without its lily pool, bird bath and bird houses. The frogs are eagerly croaking their love calls in the pools this week. Fill your bird baths for the school children are joyously announcing the return of the orioles, mocking birds, and scissor tails. The robins have been in town for several weeks, and some members of the gay singing wren family have been inspecting the wren houses that are to let at the Prewitt's and Joe Goldston's lawns. So perhaps Spring is really here to stay.

Mrs. Sam Dale.

Several contest games were participated in and after each contest the winner presented the prize to the bride-elect.

The barber pole idea was carried out throughout the party scheme since Mr. Helton is a promising young barber in Amarillo.

A clever introduction of the shower was a miniature barber-pole filled and surrounded by lovely gifts which were presented to Miss Stewart. After the gifts were opened and admired a wedding dress and veil were fashioned out of newspaper and pinned on the bride-to-be.

Plate favors were small barber poles and on the bride-elect's plate was a miniature bride and groom standing on either side of a barber pole.

Following several months of successful F. F. A. achievements the Clarendon Chapter will feature a Father and Son banquet, the first in the Clarendon chapter history. This banquet with most chapters throughout the state is regarded as an annual event which brings the fathers and sons to a yearly get-together, giving the boys a chance to illustrate to their fathers the work that has been accomplished in the past years work in vocational agriculture. The time of the banquet will be used in awarding to the different boys the laurels that they have won by presenting certificates of merit and other awards that will repay them for their accomplishments in the year's work.

After placing high in several recent contests the Vocational Agriculture Dairy Products and Dairy Cattle Judging teams competed in the Plainview Dairy Show that was held on the 19th of this month. In this contest, various money prizes were awarded to the outstanding achievements in the judging contest. However it is not known whether or not the Clarendon teams qualified for any of the goals striven for.

In connection with all of the other accomplishments of the F. F. A., the Vocational Agricultural Class is finishing a successful year with field work which requires the attention of the entire class in terracing and studying the formation of different landscapes. This type of work has been neglected because of attention to the other duties but is being brought up in order to train the students in that phase of Voc. Agri.

COLLEGE ASSEMBLY

Musical duets were the feature of the C. J. C. assembly held Tuesday at the sixth period. Wilfred Hott accompanied by Raymond Wood sang, "I'll Meet You In Dreamland" and the two sang "Shine On, Harvest Moon." Theresa Bain and Inell Biffle sang two parody songs. The whole group also sang several songs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Thompson of Wellington visited Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Brents Sunday.

ASSEMBLY

Assembly was held Friday at the second period. The program opened with the band playing "SIBA March", "Sir Galahad Overture" selections from "Tannhauser" and "19th Infantry March." Mr. Gillham then showed the cups and pennants won by the F. F. A. Judging teams. Following this, Mr. Burton made some announcements.

SENIOR PERSONALITIES

Inetha Collier's name is to be found on the honor roll every six weeks. In her Freshman year she was president of her class at Ash-tola and at graduation time was valedictorian. She enjoys basketball, swimming and dancing. She was one of the leading characters in the Senior Play this year. She has been a member of the Interscholastic Spelling team all four years in high school and has received a ribbon every year. This last year it was a blue ribbon. June Harrison is another Senior girl that makes excellent grades. She came to Clarendon from Chamberlain. She is about five feet four inches tall and weighs about one hundred six. Pretty brown eyes, fringed with long dark lashes are her most charming feature. She has entered spelling and Essay writing for the Interscholastic meet. She, too, is a devotee of swimming and dancing as are most of the Senior girls.

Homer Charles Speed has perhaps won more cups than any boy in school. Last year he went to Austin as a member of the dairy judging team from Clarendon, and this year, he, together with two other members of the Poultry judging team, has won eight loving cups. In his junior year he also won a cup for news writing in a contest conducted in Lubbock. In his freshman year he had two poems published in a book of Texas poems called "Paris Nights," and "Yucca." This prominent member of the Senior class of '38 is about five feet eight inches tall and weighs one hundred and thirty seven pounds. He has entered Essay writing in the Interscholastic meet and enjoys swimming, dancing and golf. He is a former member of the Boy Scouts and is a Junior Life guard.

Dorothy Kerbow is one of the most musical seniors in the class, since she is able to play both the piano and the violin and sings very well. She is a good dancer and says that dancing is her hobby. In her sophomore year she was leader. She is a former camp fire girl, likes to swim, is crazy about cats and loves to sew, planning to major in Home Economics. She was a member of the winning volleyball team and was in the Senior play. This versatile member of the class of '38 is five feet three inches tall and weighs one hundred and nine pounds. She has light brown hair and green eyes. She is one of the most popular members of the class.

Why are Billy Latson and Billy Horton always on the warpath? Claudine Haley seems to have an attraction for blonde bakers. Only one thing beside a ghost could make J. D. Swift take off like he did Thursday night.

Howard Gibbs keeps the trail hot to the library every day at the 6th period. Could it be something beside books that induces him to spend so much time there? Why has J. B. M. sworn off women for life? Did Sunday night have any bearing upon the matter?

Why are some Juniors so anxious to become seniors? Why does Cleo Russell stay shy of Heath's Cleaners? Does Waldron Melton know anything about the matter? What were several Band boys doing Friday night at Memphis or was it Saturday morning?

SENIORS GIVE PLAY

The Senior Play "Art For Heart's Sake," was presented Thursday evening, April 14, in the college auditorium to an appreciative audience. Although the plot was light, each player acted his part spiritedly and the play moved forward snappily. Especial mention may be made of the acting of Inetha Collier as the fat woman supposedly on a reducing diet, J. D. Swift as a pseudo-singer, and Jack Gardenhire as the bell hop.

Seniors acting in the play beside those mentioned were: Ralph Grady, Royce Lummas, Ethelyn Drennan, Jo Word, Dorothy Kerbow, Charlotte Word, Mildred Atterberry, and Kathleen Ryan.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS
BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—An apparently well-founded report that Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, thrice unsuccessful candidate for Governor, will announce for a fourth try within a few days, centered the attention of politicians here this week-end. Hunter led the field of three candidates opposing Allred for a second term two years ago, and his entrance, most observers here believe will cut into McCraw's potential strength somewhat, and insure a runoff in the Governor's race. With no Ferguson candidate entered, the consensus of opinion here is that Hunter will pick up a substantial part of the Ferguson bloc of votes, that otherwise probably would go to the Attorney General, Harry Hines, highway commissioner, who is regarded as another likely last minute entrant, is said to be well regarded by a sizeable group of anti-liberal voters, as he has been an active churchman, and if he enters, he may take some strength from Thompson that would offset, to some extent at least, the votes Hunter would attract from McCraw.

BIG OPENING FOR McCRAW

Elaborate plans have been made by McCraw's organization for his opening speech at Arlington, between Dallas and Fort Worth, Saturday evening. Band music, a town holiday free special trains from Dallas and other attractions have been provided to muster a crowd expected to approach 10,000, with two large cities adjacent to draw from. Considerable interest attaches to McCraw's opening speech because he is expected on that occasion to clarify his position on State questions other than taxation. He issued a statement declaring against further taxes, but at the week-end had published no views publicly on pensions, farm relief, law enforcement, education and other pertinent questions which are expected to furnish the issues between himself and Ernest O. Thompson.

Thompson, meanwhile, off to a flying start before a good crowd at Waco last planned a second sectional rally at Sulphur Springs Saturday afternoon. Reaction to his Waco opening speech reaching Austin, was in the main, favorable, and his campaign managers appeared to be pleased with the serious note which he sounded and his discussion of the State's affairs.

THINK ROAD FUNDS SAFE

The quick switch of President Roosevelt from an economy program, as advocated in his budget message to a spending plan to promote recovery from the recession, found a welcome among Texas good roads enthusiasts. The President's recommendation, for appropriations at least equal to the usual sum for U. S. aid on highways, and Congress' apparent approval, indicate that the Texas road program for the fiscal year 1939 (starting July 1, 1938), will suffer no reduction from the present $15,750,000 total. It has been threatened with a reduction by one half, as recommended previously by the President, and opposed by the majority of Texas congressmen.

LON IS UNHAPPY

Announcing that he will oppose both his colleagues on the Railroad Commission, Ernest Thompson, running for governor, and Judge C. V. Terrell, seeking re-election, Railroad Commissioner Lon Smith, the "forgotten man of the Railroad Commission," this week wept bitter tears over the situation. Smith, who has fought his colleagues consistently, but unsuccessfully, being a minority of one, claims the commission has 422 employees, and that he has named less than 100, while his "rightful share" ought to be around 140. He also let correspondents know that he plans to run for re-election in 1940, notwithstanding his previous announcement, while fighting Thompson's re-election two years ago, that he would retire at the end of his present term. He is due to be elected Chairman of the Railroad Commission next January, succeeding Terrell, under the Commission's precedent of rotation of the chairmanship, but unless both Thompson and Terrell agree, Smith may lose that honor when his turn comes around.

FEW SENATE CHANGES

The complexion of the next Texas Senate—regarded as the conservative branch of the Legislature—will not be much altered, regardless of the outcome of the gubernatorial elections, under present indications. Fifteen of the 31 Senators are up for re-election, and to date, only eight of the 15 have opposition, and one of these, Frank Rawlings, of Fort Worth, has announced he will not seek re-election. Claude Westerfield, of Dallas, has seven opponents, including two present Dallas House members; Grady Woodruff of Decatur is opposed by Rep. McConnell of Palo Pinto and R. C. Lanning of Henderson faces opposition from E. M. Bramlette, former county judge of Longview, and Reps. Tennyson of Wichita Falls and George Moffett of Chillicothe are after the seat of Ben O'Neal of Wichita Falls, ex law partner of Governor Allred. "Eph" Davis, of Brownwood is opposed by Penrose Metcalfe, whom Davis narrowly defeated four years ago. In the Rio Grande Valley area, Jim Neal has two opponents, Lon Messer of Corpus Christi, and Rogers Kelley District Attorney of Edinburg. Valley politicians visiting Austin describe Kelley as a brilliant and personable young prosecutor, an able politician and an odds-on bet to succeed the veteran ranchman, who came to the Senate when Archie Parr was unhorsed in the Valley District.

Without opponents to date are Clay Cotten of Palestine, Van Zandt of Tioga, Claude Isbell of Rockwall, L. J. Sulak of Lagrange, Weaver Moore of Houston, the veteran Tom Holbrook, of Galveston, and Rudolph Weinert of Seagin, who is serving out a short term following his selection at a special election after Welly Hopkins of Gonzales resigned.

NOTES

Rascom Giles, veteran of 17 years service in the Land Office, and more recently an employee of the State Tax Commission, threw his hat into the ring for Land Commissioner, opening with a slashing attack upon the methods of Commissioner Bill McDonald, up for a second term. Giles understood to have the backing of the present administration, school organization heads and others who have been critical of McDonald's methods of leasing school lands, but said he was "opposed to the vacancy racket whereby the state is put into an unholy partnership with land grabbers, pays the bill for taking property from bona fide owners and turns seven-eighths of the spoils over to vacancy vultures."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—/itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Some inkling of the difficulties of the Society Editor may be gleaned from the following:

"Mrs. (censored) because she does not want a lot of folks she owes to know she had a party) entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon. The first prize was won by Miss (censored because she sings in the choir.) Second prize was won by Miss (censored because she teaches in the public school.) The consolation prize was won by Miss (omitted because her mother objects to dancing). Among those present were Miss (censored because her employer objects to dancing) and Mrs. (husband out of work and doesn't want people to think she is extravagant). The guests departed under cover of darkness.—Durango News.

If Electric Service Should Fail...
WEST TEXAS COLUMNIST WRITES AN "AD" ABOUT THE DISCOMFORTS POINTS and PERSONALITIES
by doris pope
(It is through the courtesy of the Hamlin Herald, that we are permitted to reprint the following article, written by that paper's able columnist, Doris Pope, which appeared in a recent issue of the Herald. We are deeply indebted to her for so accurately describing the after-effects of this spring's unusual storms.)
Now with everything at our finger tips with just a click of a switch, we are inclined to take too much for granted. However, there are times when we are forced to stop and think what a world it would be without such conveniences—you know, we kinda get a taste of the "good old days" that we hear dad and grand-dad talk about. That's what happened to Hamlin folks Saturday afternoon when the electric current was dead from 2:10 until 5:40.
Low, gray rain clouds made lights almost a necessity in order to carry on business, so when the current went off, the sale of candles increased a thousand per cent. We stayed in the dry goods stores awhile observing the effect of candle lights, and it struck us as rather amusing when people grabbed a bolt of material, a pair of socks or some other merchandise and ran to the front door, holding the article up and squinting, trying to see what color it really was—just like in the "good old days." (Maybe that will account for some of the terrorizing colors people are wearing.)
And the poor kids, how they did miss the Saturday afternoon picture show! It's really a shame that they didn't have some stereoscopic parlor pictures to look at like ma and pa had—back in the "good old days."
We wandered over to two of our beauty shops and found dozens of women and girls draped on the floor, chairs and stools, literally sticking their heads in the fire to dry that new wave set. That reminded us that back in the "good old days" grandma didn't shampoo her hair in the winter or in rainy weather; she just rolled it up on curlers.
We noticed the barber shops also felt the lack of electricity. You know back in the "good old days" they weren't bothered with all those little electric gadgets 'cause grandpa just turned a bowl down on pa's head and started cuttin'. The finishing touches were accomplished with the old blue and white shaving mug and razor.
We stopped in to see how the drug stores were making out with their Frigidaire motors stopped and their candle light. Somehow or other they didn't seem too happy about it. Now we could rave on and on about this, but what's the use? Printing presses were stopped, bank machines halted, in fact, there wasn't a business house in Hamlin that did not feel great finally did come on after three and a half hours, people gave whoops and hollers that made the Indians back in the "good old days" look like sissies. (No charge to the West Texas Utilities Co. for this spiel.)

Life of Col. Charles Goodnight Is Recalled In Memorial Fund Drive

GOODNIGHT, Texas—"I have never seen Colonel Goodnight but I know him." That is a typical expression in the Panhandle country. So dynamic was the man's character that his spirit lives on almost 10 years after his death.

"A force of nature rather than a mere man," is the description of him written by Florence Finch Kelly, New York Times writer—who never knew the colonel and likely never heard of him until she read his biography.

Yet, the grave of the man many say contributed more to the development of the Panhandle than any other individual, still is unmarked.

Charles Goodnight was born in a humble Macoupin county, Ill., farm home just three days after the historic Alamo had fallen. As a boy he rode bareback all the way from Missouri to Texas—saw his first buffalo as they were being killed by hunters on the banks of the Trinity River. Still, as a boy, he got a start in the cattle business by herding another man's cattle for a share of the calf crop. Unable to make money from his cattle—for there was no market for them—he whacked bulls to freight wagons off and on for three years.

Never adept at book studies, he was a keen student of nature. He saw things other men passed by, and by the time he was grown he was scouting on the frontier for federal troops and rangers. He saw his full share of Indian battles and long before any white man thought of making his home on the plains he was riding across them.

He established three famous cattle trails and finally established a ranch of his own near Pueblo in Colorado. He was always far ahead—eager to stay on the fringes of civilization.

In 1876 his cattle were driven into Palo Duro Canyon and a short time later he joined them. With the late John Adair of Scotland he established the JA Ranch, figured prominently in the activities of the cattlemen of this section for a quarter of a century. For many years he was the pulse of the Panhandle. And even at his death in Phoenix, Ariz., December 12, 1929, he was envisioning greater things for the region he loved so well.

An effort was recently started to erect a suitable monument to the plainsman. A goal of $1,000 has been set. W. H. Patrick of Clarendon, chairman of the Goodnight Memorial Fund committee, said today contributions of any amount are appreciated. He pointed out that checks and money orders should be made out to "The Goodnight Memorial Fund" and mailed to Mrs. Harold D. Bugbee of Clarendon, treasurer, or presented to members of the committee in the different communities of the Panhandle.

TEXAS COTTON ALLOTMENTS RAISED BY AAA AMENDMENT

Amendments to the new farm act provide a reserve of 4 percent which will be added to the cotton acreage allotment of each state and that farm cotton allotments in necessary cases shall be raised to a minimum level, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman to the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The total increase in allotments due to the amendments may exceed 2 million acres, he said. The original acreage allotment for 1938 was 25,300,000 acres. In Texas the additional allotment will amount to around 280,000 acres.

The 4 percent reserve will be used to assure minimum allotments to small cotton farms, provide additional acreage for farms on which allotments were materially reduced because of an unusually large number of small farms in the county, and to provide representative allotments to counties or farms which otherwise would receive allotments which are low in comparison with the amounts allotted to producers in similar areas and in comparison with their usual cotton acreage.

The amendments also provide that if the allotment to any farm is less than 50 percent of the sum of the 1937 cotton acreage plus diverted acres, the allotment shall be increased to 50 percent, provided the increase does not bring the allotment up to more than 40 percent of the tilled land on the farm.
