FATHER-SONS TO HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET TUESDAY

DR. J. A. HILL IS THE SPEAKER, DR. B. L. JENKINS TOASTMASTER

Plans were completed this week for the annual Father-Son banquet to be held Tuesday, Nov. 29, at the First Christian Church at 7:30. Dr. B. L. Jenkins, founder of the movement is toastmaster for the occasion and is expected in his inimitable way to keep affairs going smoothly and rapidly during the entire evening. Main speaker of the evening will be Dr. J. A. Hill, president of W. T. S. T. C. at Canyon. Dr. Hill is well known as an excellent speaker.

Toastmaster

er and is expected to give an extraordinary address on this occasion.

Other numbers on the program will be the toast to the sons by Rev. E. D. Landreth and the toast to the fathers by Claude McGowan. Music will be furnished during the evening by Director Ray Robbins and the Clarendon Band. They will have some very special numbers for the banquet. And of course the most important part, a delicious three-course turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served to the hungry boys, both young and old. There will be the usual selection of the oldest and youngest fathers and the ones who have attended the longest number of years. Officials for next year will also be chosen.

Tickets for the banquet will be on sale next week for the occasion.

LOCAL AGGIES TO HOLD INTRA-MURAL JUDGING CONTESTS NEXT WEEK

Members of the local F. F. A. chapter will participate in a regular poultry contest in connection with the Green Belt Poultry Show to be held here next week. The local students will judge the same birds and take the same examination that students use in the annual Green Belt contest. First year students and second year students will not compete against each other, but will compete against members of their own class.

An F. F. A. emblem will be awarded by the local chapter to the high man in each of the contests. Junior Spier won the award in the first year class in the 1937 class.

High-top Shoes Take The Day

Yes, high-top shoes took the day and week, too, in Clarendon!

Last Saturday, at the Band's rummage sale, Rathjen's Shoe Store had given them some old-time high-top shoes which they thought they might sell to cotton-pickers. However, through the influence of Band Director Ray Robbins, some of the girls wore the shoes to school, and the fad started.

Monday all of the stores were being called on for the shoes and found their old stocks hardly full enough to meet the demands of the school girls—and even the boys were hunting some of the old-fashioned shoes, too.

CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN AT ONCE ON ROUTE SOUTH

CONTRACTOR LEAHL BRINGS IN CREW FOR 3.6 MILE PAVING JOB

Contractor Sam Leahl of Memphis brought in his construction crew and equipment the first of the week for the building of the 3.6 mile farm-to-market paving south from Clarendon on the route of designated Highway 18, taking off of No. 5, near the Clarendon Gin.

The job is to be completed in 65 working days, which with Sundays and holidays out, plus some expected rough weather, should put the new highway into service in 90 days, or around the first day of March, 1939. Engineer E. C. Dewey is here in charge of the work for the highway department.

The highway is to have a gravel base, and gravel will be taken from pits on the John Sims farm adjoining town.

Construction of this farm-to-market highway will turn loose some $23,000 in labor and supplies here in the next three months, and will be the first hard-surfacing on the designated North-South highway project gap between Clarendon and Turkey.

CLARENDON FIRE DEPT. HAS BUSY DAY TUESDAY

The Clarendon Fire Department were quite busy for a while Tuesday afternoon, when two alarms were sent in within approximately an hour of each other.

Both fires were grass fires and neither did any noticeable damage. One was near the west edge of town and the other was near the Adair Hospital.

R. B. GALLOWAY TO JUDGE ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW

EXPERIENCED AMARILLOAN SELECTED BECAUSE OF PAST RECORD

R. B. Galloway, Amarillo, Texas, an experienced and well liked poultry judge will judge the annual Green Belt Poultry Show to be held in Clarendon December 1, 2 and 3. Galloway has judged the show in the past and his judgment has met with universal approval among local poultry breeders.

Work on the premium list will begin this week. Frank White, Jr., has been appointed to act as a committee to secure a building in which to stage the show. Four hundred and forty-seven birds were shown in the 1937 show and indications are that the record will be broken this year. No entry fee will be charged for birds this year in an effort to encourage more poultry breeders to show their birds.

Over 40 judging teams have been invited to participate in the annual poultry judging contest held in connection with the show. Byers, winner of last year's contest, has indicated that it would be on hand to defend the trophy won last year.

A number of breeds new to the Green Belt Poultry Show are expected to be on exhibition when the show opens December 1st. Blue Andalusians, Columbian Wyandottes, Columbian Rocks, Black Leghorns, White Orpington and Lamona are breeds that will be exhibited for the first time. Black and White Giants, Partridge Barded and White Rocks, White Langshans, Rose and Single Comb Rhode Island Reds, Buff and White Leghorns, Speckled Sussex, Buff, Dark and White Cornish, Rhode Island Whites and Black Langshans are other breeds expected to be exhibited in the show.

Entries will open at 9 a. m. on the first of December and will close at 5 p. m. on the afternoon of the same day. E. V. Quattlebaum has been asked to have charge of placing the birds in the building. Over $100 in cash and merchandise will be awarded exhibitors, and ribbons will be awarded to the first four places in each class.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bell of Panhandle visited Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bell over the week-end.

LIONS VOICE CLUB APPRECIATION FOR DR. BARCUS

VOTE LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION TO STAMFORD CIVIC CLUB

Vice President Drennan was in the chair at Tuesday's Lions Club luncheon, in the absence of President Patrick, who was out of the city on business.

In honor of a Brother Lion present at the luncheon for the last time, Lion Bartlett spoke for the club in expressing its regret at the removal of Lion Barcus. The club stood as a visible expression of esteem, and Lion Bartlett was instructed to communicate with some appropriate civic organization in Stamford commending him to the citizenship of that community, where he goes to be the pastor of St. John's Methodist Church.

A communication from Lion C. J. Meeks, secretary of Group 27, concerning group meeting in Pampa, Nov. 30, at 7 p. m., was brought to the attention of the club. The attendance committee was asked to secure the number of those to attend and notify the Pampa club.

Lion Bryan announced the Father and Son Banquet next Tuesday evening. It was voted to dispense with the regular noon luncheon on that date and count the banquet as club attendance, the banquet cost to be credited to the members attending on the club books.

Lion Landreth announced the Thanksgiving services at the Baptist Church, Wednesday, at 7 p. m., the offering to be given to the hospital.

Lion Gillham announced the postponement of the finals in the boxing tournament until next Monday evening.

Lion Gillham reported receipts beginning to come in from the boars purchased for the F. F. A. boys.

The committees on transient charities, civic improvements and public entertainment reported progress.

Band Rummage Sale Clears Over $28.00

The Band Rummage Sale, held last Saturday, netted the fund $28 according to Ray Robbins, director.

The group held the sale in the old Clarendon Hardware building, next door to the Clarendon News, and had quite a lot of rummage given them.

Mr. Robbins stated that another sale will be held Saturday and requested all who had rummage that they would give them to please notify either Mrs. F. E. Chamberlain or Mrs. Odos Caraway.

The group were quite pleased with the results of the sale Saturday and expect a good day next Saturday.

Mercury Drops To 17 Degrees For First Freeze

Overcoats and long-handles were in popular demand Tuesday night as the mercury sank to 17 degrees for the first hard freeze of the year.

The thermometer rose steadily Wednesday, but government weather reports forecast colder weather today.

The coldest spot in the Panhandle was at Texline with a drop to 12 degrees, Lubbock suffered an over-night drop of 54 degrees down to 19, Amarillo registered 16 and Borger 17.

It was believed that there was sufficient moisture in the ground to prevent the cold from damaging fall wheat.

Freezing weather was forecast for as far south as San Antonio and livestock warnings were issued to Panhandle ranchers.

Bronchos Defeat Pampa Gorillas 47 To 0

The Clarendon Broncho squad was in the highest spirits of the year yesterday afternoon, after defeating the Pampa Gorillas 47 to 0, in the season's closing game.

The Broncho squad began with a march down the field, and in the first five minutes of play, Allison carried the ball over for the first score, but they failed to make the point.

In the latter part of the first quarter, Grady went over for the second score and the conversion was good.

The Bronchos continued their march throughout the entire game, Morow scoring in the second quarter with the point good. Grady over in the third, with Huffman kicking the extra point and Allison, Grady and Hartzog scoring in the last quarter.

The Bronchos made more points in this last game than they had made all season, 13 points against Canadian being their highest score in any one game.

The squad were very elated over the high score, and most of them were looking forward to next year's season, after their first year's play.

The squad, which was made up mostly of green players, won four games and tied two during the season. In their conference games, they defeated the Lakeview squad, tied Memphis, and took a severe beating from Wellington.

The many football fans of Clarendon congratulated the boys on their season of football. They did well considering their experience.

COUNTY AGENT EXPLAINS 1939 FARM PROGRAM

FOURTEEN MEETINGS ARE HELD OVER COUNTY THIS WEEK

Approximately 200 farmers have attended the first six meetings held by the county agent, explaining the farm program for 1939, over the county during this week.

Meetings have been held at Skillet, Whitefish, Lelia Lake, Jericho, Goldston and Hedley the first two days of this week, and meetings were held yesterday at Giles, Martin and Hudgins, at which attendance was not reported.

Three meetings were scheduled for Thursday in error, but letters were sent out changing the date of the meetings at Clarendon, Midway and Windy Valley for Monday, Nov. 28th.

Donley farmers are well pleased with the 1939 farm program, H. M. Breedlove, county agent, said yesterday. They expressed the opinion that it was improved over the old farm programs and were behind it 100 per cent.

On December 10, Donley farmers will vote on the marketing quota, at which time they can express their desires for or against the continuation of marketing quotas in the farm program.

At these meetings H. M. Breedlove gives a detailed explanation of the farm program and answers questions concerning it, usually lasting only an hour and one-half. Breedlove expressed his desire that every farmer in Donley county would attend one of these meetings and understand the setup for the new farm program.

Meetings set for Saturday include Bray, at the school house, at 2:30 and McKnight at the school house at 7:30 p. m. The meeting at Clarendon Monday will be at 9:30 a. m., at the courthouse, and at Midway at 2:30 and Windy Valley at 7:30, both at the school house.

C. C. SLAVIN ON HONOR ROLL AT TEXAS UNIVERSITY

C. C. Slavin of Clarendon, senior law student at the University of Texas, is on the honor roll for the School of Law, announced recently by Dean Ira P. Hildebrand. Slavin has an average of B plus for his first two years' work in law.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hodges of Pratt, Kansas, are here this week visiting their niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Haile. During their stay here Mr. Haile took them to Canadian Monday afternoon to visit George Hodges, to Silvertown Wednesday to visit Tom Hodges and to Dickens Thursday to visit Mr. Haile's brother, C. C. Haile.

Mrs. David Johnson spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Grady Halbert and young son of Vernon.

THANKSGIVING WAS OBSERVED QUIETLY HERE

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE WEDNESDAY NIGHT ONLY EVENT

Thanksgiving, 1938, was a very quiet celebration in Clarendon and surrounding community. The Union Thanksgiving service, which is an annual occasion here, was held Wednesday evening at the First Baptist Church with Rev. Robt. S. McKee bringing the sermon. The music for the occasion was furnished by the McDowell Chorus recently organized here. The thank offering was directed to the needs of charity at the Adair Hospital, as has been customary for several years.

Clarendon stores closed for the day in general observance.

Most local families observed the holiday with the traditional Thanksgiving dinner with relatives, members of the family, or invited guests present. Some journeyed to other points to participate in family reunions there. In most homes turkey, dressing and other Thanksgiving edibles cheered the day, even if soda bicarbonate was needed before the dawn of Friday.

A few football fans went to Austin, Dallas, Lubbock and Pampa to see the feature football classics of college and high school, but most Clarendon folks enjoyed the games seated around the fire with the radio tuned in on the Turkey Day classics.

Some nimrods spent the day or a few hours in hunting according to the limitations of the seasonal game laws.

All in all, it was a quiet day throughout the county and Friday the whole populace will stretch out on the short sprint for the Christmas holidays.

RED CROSS FALLS SHORT OF QUOTA IN YEARLY DRIVE

HEDLEY REPORT NOT RECEIVED; DRIVE TO END THIS WEEK

Donley County is still far short of its $400 quota for the Red Cross roll call this year, Mrs. A. T. Jofferies, chairman, said Wednesday. The report from Hedley has not been received yet, but even with this and what more may be raised here, it is not expected that Donley will fulfill its quota this year.

The drive for memberships will continue the rest of this week, and everyone who has not done so, is urged to contribute to this worthy cause in the brief period remaining. The Red Cross is the most non-partisan and most effective of organization of its kind in the world and should be wholeheartedly supported.

LEE HOLLAND BURNED AS GAS STOVE EXPLODES

Lee Holland, member of the firm of Holland Bros. was burned last Monday a week ago when a gas cook stove at his home exploded, burning his face and head pretty bad.

The stove had been lit for some time, but was thought to have gone out, and when he attempted to light another burner the flames burst up into his face.

First aid was given immediately and his condition is reported as not serious.

Santa Claus Letters From the Kiddies Should Be Mailed To The News

Kiddies of Donley County will be glad to learn that The Clarendon News has again been designated as forwarding agency for Santa Claus and letters mailed to the merry old gentleman will be handled in the usual manner. School teachers in primary grades are also invited to have their charges send in their letters to Old Santa to The News.

Send the letters along NOW, for in a big issue of The News along in the middle of December much space will be allotted to these interesting expressions of the kiddies.

PALMER DISTRICT HEAD-LANDRETH RETURNS HERE

METHODIST CONFERENCE AT MEMPHIS MAKES APPOINTMENTS SUNDAY

At the closing session of the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference at Memphis Sunday afternoon, Bishop Ivan Lee Holt announced the appointment of ministers for the ensuing year.

Rev. George T. Palmer was assigned as presiding elder of the Clarendon district and comes here from the Sweetwater pastorate to assume his duties this week. He will preach at the Clarendon Methodist Church next Sunday morning, going to Memphis to preach Sunday evening. Rev. Palmer is regarded as one of the strong men of the conference, having held pastorates at Dalhart, Hereford and Sweetwater in the last ten years.

Rev. E. D. Landreth was returned here for his fifth consecutive year, to the general delight of the community. This is the first instance in the history of the local church for a pastor to stay longer than the four years which formerly was all possible under the law of the church.

Dr. Barcus, who has concluded his four years' as presiding elder of the Clarendon District, goes to Stamford, where he will be pastor of the St. John's Church, one of the strong congregations of the area.

Judge J. R. Porter of Clarendon was elected again as trustee of Southwestern University, and Sam M. Braswell was named trustee for Texas Wesleyan College at Port Worth.

Following is the appointments for the Clarendon district:

Presiding elder, George T. Palmer; Allenread-Heald, J. P. Cole; Briscoe-Allison, L. A. Reavis; Clarendon, E. D. Landreth; Clarendon circuit, J. A. Walker, supply; Dodson, J. R. Bright; Hedley, I. E. Briggs; Kerrville, O. F. Story; Lakeview, J. W. Haffkins; Lefors, M. R. Pike; McLean, W. M. Swim; Memphis, O. W. Carter; Mobeetie, W. B. Gilliam; Pampa, First Church, W. M. Pearce; McCullough, H. H. Bratcher; Plaska, C. W. Sargent, supply; Quitaque, U. S. Sherrill; Shamrock, Lance Webb; Shamrock circuit, O. C. Coppage; Turkey, A. V. Hendricks; Wellington, J. E. Kirney; Wellington circuit, J. R. Plant; Wheeler, W. W. Cook and missionary to Japan, Sam H. Hilburn.

171,000 Acres Are Signed Up In Game Preserve

One hundred and seventy-one thousand acres of Donley county land is already signed up under the game preserve which is being sponsored by College Station, through the county agent, according to H. M. Breedlove, county agent.

Breedlove said that 365 signs were already up and the office were putting them out as fast as they can get them made up. He further stated that they had about 100 signs on hand now and expected to put out a total of 800 signs over all parts of the county by the first of the year.

All are urged to get their signs as fast as they can get them made up.

Breedlove said the farmers of Donley county showed great interest in the preservation of the game and wildlife and they were cooperating in every way to make the campaign a success.

TO THINK—AND THEN TO WORK

On this Thanksgiving while we are giving thanks for all the blessings of our day, it might be well for us to think, too, about some of our modern thoughts.

Some people seem to think these days that it is no longer necessary to do much hard work to gain the things we give thanks for on Thanksgiving. These people apparently feel that the blessings of life are won in other ways—by luck or personal pull.

America and its abundant life of better things was not built on luck or pull. To the contrary, the blessings we now enjoy were created by generations of hard toilers; by men and women who worked hard to build agriculture and great industries. America has inherited the rewards of the honest labor of those pioneers, which is one of the things we have to be thankful for this Thanksgiving. Because they found ways to do things better and easier, we of the present generation do not have to work quite so hard as the old pioneers.

We still have to put in a good solid lick of work, however, for every man is still the architect of his own future.

So, at this Thanksgiving season, 1938, let us return thanks to the Almighty for the ability and right to think—for the right to work—and let us not fail to do both, for in them and their rightful use is the path out of this troublesome day into a future more abundant in the fruits of peace and happiness.

HARD TIMES

"I sometimes think we ought to be ashamed of ourselves when we talk about hard times in this modern age," said N. E. Foster in addressing the local Lions Club at their regular weekly luncheon Wednesday noon. And after he had finished the members of the club present more than likely agreed with him.

Mr. Foster went back to 1874 when he first came to this country as a small boy and told of some of the hardships the people of those days had to endure.

It was in 1877 when Mr. Foster, then an 18-year-old boy with a widowed mother and several younger brothers, drove five yoke of steers from 15 miles east of Gatesville to Richland Springs and delivered a load of corn, the proceeds of which, according to his statement prevented those dependent upon him from starving.

No doubt there are boys in this day and time who have the stamina necessary to go all alone over such a desolate country and on such a mission, but the point is the boys of this age are not called upon to brave any such hazards. The hardships borne by such men as N. E. Foster in those early days of settling this country have made it possible for us of this generation to be spared such ordeals and have at the same time given us facilities and opportunities that we could not otherwise have enjoyed.

In those days there were no automobiles, radios, picture shows, or even telephones. Natural gas was still confined in the earth, and electricity as we know it today was hardly heard of.

In contrast to the scenes that might have been observed on the public square on some Saturday night in 1877, let's take a look at what was seen here on Saturday night of last week: A prominent citizen who was out driving with his wife for a little fresh air decided to count the automobiles parked within one block and upon the public square. To their amazement they counted 614 parked vehicles and estimated at least fifty driving up and down the streets, making a total of nearly seven hundred cars, or approximately one-seventh of all the cars registered in this county. Three picture shows we are informed were crowded to capacity and all shops and stores open were doing a nice business.

ENOUGH TO MAKE ANYBODY DIZZY!

JUST HUMANS

By GENE CARR

This is by no means a criticism of those who were enjoying themselves on this occasion. On the contrary we heartily endorse the idea of relaxation and recreation, but after all, when one stops to really think: Are Times Really Hard?—Gatesville Messenger.

USELESS CAUTION IN TEXAS

In sidetracking the question of endorsing John Garner for President, the Democratic Committee exercised useless caution. An endorsement would simply have carried out the party will as expressed at the Beaumont convention. It could not have been resented by friends of the President unless the latter intends to run for a third term. And the third-term-for-Roosevelt boom was sunk a few hours after the committee's meeting—sunk by the results of Tuesday's general elections.

The big share that Texas has had in the National government for the last five years has been due to Garner more than any other man. The venerable vice president was entitled to his state's indorsement, if he wanted it. Under the circumstances, a failure to endorse implied opposition. Yet if Texas does not follow Garner, or some candidate of his way of thinking, in 1940, who will it follow?

The President has never said he would seek a third term. It is only fair to suppose he will not. It is but using common sense to recognize that none of his ultra-liberal associates could be elected. Either Garner and his like will be increasingly influential in shaping Democratic policies or the Democratic party will lose control of the National government.

There isn't a single good reason why Texas should let Garner down at this time. The committee's action—or, rather, its failure to act—will weaken him at Washington precisely when, for Texas' sake and the Democratic party's sake, he should be strengthened.—Austin Times.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—One of the hectic battles of the forthcoming 46th regular session of the Texas Legislature, in the opinion of Austin observers, probably will center around the proposal, made by Norman S. Taber, finance consultant of New York, to have the state take over $182,564,000 worth of county road bonds now outstanding. Taber's recommendation was the outgrowth of a resolution passed by the last Legislature, directing that the Board of County and District Road Bond Indebtedness have such a study made. Taber's firm was paid $25,000 for the job.

His plan, in brief, proposes that the state shall issue $182,564,000 of state 3 per cent 20-year serial bonds, which would absorb road bonds of the counties and districts of the state. The state bonds would be retired by pledging auto license fees now going to the Highway Department, amounting to $7,000,000 a year; plus about $3, 800,000 of license fees now going to the counties; plus about $10,000,000 a year revenue from 1 cent of the gasoline tax. This would create a debt service fund of nearly 21,000,000 annually while it is estimated only about $13,000,000 annually would be needed to retire the bonds. The surplus would, of course, go back to the Highway Department, since under the plan the $7,000,000 state auto license fee funds would only be used for the bonds as needed. Taber estimates the plan would save the counties up to $22,000,000 in interest charges over the 20-year period.

COUNTY OFFICIALS BEHIND IT

The idea of having the state take over nearly $200,000,000 worth of "dead horses"—bonds issued by counties and spent for roads that in many cases are already obsolete or worn out—originated with certain officials of some larger counties in Texas, whose finances are in bad shape. Not all county officials are in agreement upon the idea. In Dallas county, for instance, whose officials have been active for the program, officials have over-spent their general fund budget by some $600,000. They could absorb this deficit and have plenty of money left to give jobs and relief grants to persons who vote, if they could be relieved of their debt servicing charge. Critics of the plan, while admitting that it would probably enable a saving, are very doubtful whether politically-minded county officials would pass the saving on to local taxpayers. They think there would be no real reduction in county taxes, but merely a larger available sum for the local politicians to spend.

Highway Department officials are very cool toward pledging their share of the auto license fees to guarantee servicing the new bonds. They fear that a sharp cut in gasoline consumption, invention of gasoline substitutes, or other unforeseen development which might happen in 20 years, might take their $7,000,000 to service the bonds, and cripple their orderly and well-administered program of highway development.

Finally, the voters probably would be extremely cautious about voting the state, which now has virtually no bonded debt, nearly $200,000,000 into the red. Texans have built a splendid road system on a cash basis, without issuing bonds. They have never favored state bond issues, having defeated a proposed $100,000,000 highway bond proposal decisively a decade or more ago, and voting bonds only for relief purposes in recent years.

The Taber plan is so radical that it doubtless will not even be submitted in its present form, but it is virtually certain that some plan based upon it, calling for a huge state bond issue will be brought to the floor during the regular session. The county officials of many counties are for such a program—and the county officials represent a powerful political force with the legislators.

O'DANIEL MAKES A DISCOVERY

Gov.-Elect O'Daniel's plan for a State RFC to lend $15,000,000 to new industries, after a one-week public airing, has been abandoned, O'Daniel announced this week.

The reason for it, O'Daniel revealed, is because he "has been busy discovering that Texas has just such a setup." The governor-elect has discovered what some 129,000,000 of his fellow-American citizens have known for the past 10 or 12 years—that the federal government has an organization known as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which is headed by a well-known, sound-thinking Texas banker, one Jesse Jones, of Houston.

The governor-elect has now found out what nearly everybody else interested in the subject already knew—namely, that the RFC, by special authorization of Congress, has been making loans to small businesses and large, new and old, at low interest, to enable them to expand or begin operations. Of course, Mr. Jones only makes sound loans, but he has some $900,000 of small industrial loans outstanding now in Texas, and there is available up to $150,000,000 more for Texas, if the borrowers are sound. Mr. O'Daniel included in his statement that he was "not prepared to concede it would be necessary to have constitutional amendment" to carry out his plan, but the constitution says it would, anyway. In announcing his astounding discovery that the RFC has been on the job for years, Mr. O'Daniel also took a crack at the Legislature, when he remarked that "We already are moving ahead. And it didn't take an act of the Legislature to do it."

OIL HEARING QUIET

The monthly proration hearing in Austin this week brought only a handful of oilmen, and the excitement over Saturday and Sunday shut-downs apparently had died out. Only Roy Starnes, of Gladewater, protested them, and hinted he might file a suit to test legality of the shut-down order, if it is continued through December, as expected. Commissioner Lon Smith declared he wouldn't sign the order if it called for Saturday and Sunday shut-downs, but operators here believed Commissioners Thompson and Terrell would continue rigid proration. Resignation of Laten Stanberry, once a country newspaper editor, as oil and gas supervisor of the commission presaged other changes expected when Jerry Sadler succeeds C. V. Terrell as commissioner January 1.

EDITORS SEE DAMS

Members of the Texas Editorial Association, all veterans of 20 years or more of newspaper work, convened in Austin, were entertained by Jack Dies at his beautiful ranch home near the capital, and spent a whole day inspecting the Colorado River Authority development, as guests of CRA and Contractor Herman Brown, who is building Marshall Ford Dam. The editors were crammed with facts and figures about flood control, reclamation, irrigation and power development. They were feasted on barbecue and chicken, and thoroughly enjoyed the outing.

Straight Place and Show

See if you can tell which RITZ is which (and which is the horse) in this scene from Damon Runyon's "Straight, Place and Show," 20th Century-Fox comedy opening Wednesday, Nov. 30, at the Pastime Theatre. Those daffy brothers are balmy over the bangtails now, and Bedlam leads by a nose, in the film based on a play by Runyon and Irving Caesar.

Damon Runyon Runs a Gamut

From Shirley Temple to the Ritz Brothers is what you might call a gamut, and by no means a short one.

It is about as hard to imagine a writer who can turn out screen stories for both as it is to think of Toscanini and his Carnegie Hall cats giving out with Flat Foot Floogie.

"Any writer who can do that," you say, "is a genius." Damon Runyon can, and is.

It was Runyon, you may remember, who wrote "Little Miss Marker," the picture that four years ago pole-vaulted the miraculous Shirley to international fame. And it is this same Runyon, in collaboration with Irving Caesar, who has written what 20th Century-Fox considers the funniest story ever conceived for those hilariously swacky Ritz freres.

In fact the studio thinks so much of Runyon's story that they've billed the picture as: The Ritz Brothers in Damon Runyon's "Straight, Place and Show"—which is the title of the picture. And apparently Runyon thinks so much of the Ritz Brothers' comedy that he broke a lifelong habit and actually grinned when the film was previewed at the studio. Which, for Dead-Pan Damon, is practically the equivalent of rolling in the aisles!

Opening Wednesday, Nov. 30, at the Pastime Theatre, "Straight, Place and Show" features Richard Arlen, Ethel Merman, Phyllis Brooks, George Barbier and Willie Best.

Directed by David Butler, the film is one of the Movie Quiz $250,000 contest pictures.

F. F. A. MEETING HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Thirty-four members answered the roll call at the last regular meeting of the F. F. A. for the month of November, held Monday night.

Following an hour spent in playing games, Joe Williams called the meeting to order.

Songs, routine business and plans for future meetings were chief points of interest at the meeting.

The group discussed the possibility of financing the purchase of registered Jersey heifers under the Production Credit Association F. F. A. chapter plan and the group expects to go to work on the promotion of dairy cattle during the coming months.

LIBRARY NOTES

(By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

For the twentieth time we come to the celebration of Children's Book Week, Nov. 13 to 19. "The solgan, 'New Books, New Worlds,' suggests that long exciting book trail that leads to new discoveries and new adventures—experiences that bring to young people not only a rich store of fun and entertainment but also a wealth of knowledge and understanding to help them interpret life and the world they live in. In books they visit far places and meet peoples of other lands. In books they see the history of our own country come alive and the wonders of modern science make a thrilling story. In books they find high adventure but also everyday experiences they can share. In books they learn the beauty and power of fine words. What a happy and eventful book trail is offered to boys and girls of today."

How true the above quotation is comes to one over and over as they look through book lists. If only there were money enough to make a beginning!

Thinking back the reader realizes how few books were formerly printed for children and how limited was the choice. But that is no longer true—12,500 original books for children have been published in the last twenty years, providing a wealth of new books for children of all ages.

May Lambertson Becker, so well known to children's librarians, says that the distinguishing feature of children's books this year is their high spirits and standard of fun—the spirit which produces lovely laughter, often for the whole family. The fairy tale is still with us, often in beautiful new editions. The classics which each generation tries to pass on to its children have come back in uncommonly pretty dresses. History and vocational stories are unusually attractive. Biography for young people has set itself new aims, and triumphantly fulfilled them, having a technique of its own. Mrs. Becker goes on to say that many of the children of the first year when Book Week was celebrated are now shopping for books for their own children—and they face the task of choosing from the many—not the few.

Bakersfield, Calif., is very proud of the fact that she has one of the best libraries in the state, which leads in library work. One of the pleasures of my recent visit there was browsing for hours in the children's library—a lovely building some distance from the main library. I came away with long lists which I almost enviously longed for for our children. Would that some generous citizen would make us a donation with which to get them—any amount!

Seventy-one leading book stores over the nation reported the following as the best sellers for the week ending Nov. 4: "The Yearling," Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings; "Rebecca," Daphne du Maurier; "My Son, My Son," Howard Spring; "And Tell of Time," Laura Krey; "All This and Heaven, Too," Rachel Field. In non-fiction "With Malice Toward Some" by Margaret Halsey; "Listen! The Wind," Anne Morrow Lindbergh; "The Horse and Buggy Doctor," Hertzler; "The Importance of Living," Lin Yutang.

You notice that "The Yearling," by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings still leads the list of fiction—a book recently added to our shelves. We have had Mrs. Rawlings' "South Moon Under," for some time. This was a book-of-the-month club selection when it first appeared in print as "The Yearling." Both are stories of the Florida cracker country. Florida's jungles, the wild and beautiful hammock country in which live a proud self-reliant industrious people, forever struggling against the encroachments of the tropical forest and wild beasts. The characters in the story will prove unforgettable—the Baxters, father, mother and Jody, "the yearling," and the unruly, lawless forresters—and not less important, Flag, Jody's yet fawn and old Slewfoot, the bear. It is a story of human, lovable people, of the breathless beauty of this semi-tropical land, and a story with a spiritual meaning, with the pathos and the victory of man's struggle and triumph—a story you will not forget.

The author, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings was born in 1896 in Washington, D. C., where her father was in government service. In 1918 she graduated from the University of Wisconsin and soon married Charles A. Rawlings. For ten years she did journalistic work in Louisville, New York City and Rochester. Then she fled the confusion of cities and went to the jungles of Florida. At first Isolated Cross Creek, Hawthorne, Florida, was only rare gaming-ground, but now she owns and operates a grove of 4,000 orange trees. Mrs. Rawlings wrote short stories and brief poems, but in 1933 she wrote her first novel, "South Moon Under," followed by "Golden Apples" in 1935. She is described as a "rudy romanticist," never giving the loathsomeness of which Erskine Caldwell writes, but always the finer things buried beneath the rough exterior of these Florida Crackers.

Much consternation was felt in the late summer, when a bus company purchased the stately Georgian mansion in Cockermouth, England, where William Wordsworth was born, with the intention of razing the house to make place for a bus station. The Wordsworth National Memorial Committee soon raised $8,125 and bought the site, much to the relief of Wordsworth's many admirers.

The German writers, says Mr. Heusch, have not scattered widely; they have turned to democracies as a flower turns to the sun. And then Mr. Heusch asks the question, which is troubling all the world, who have loved German literature because it was good literature: "What is to become of German letters? Can there be a spontaneous flowering of literary talent when men are not free to express their thoughts and ideas openly. Such of the exiles as are famous enough to be translated into other languages will continue to write, but where will their successors come from? I am skeptical of the survival of German literature without German soil. Truly we are present at the death of a culture, insofar as culture is perpetuated in letters."

Off the Dole—On the Payroll

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary Texas Breeder-Feeder Association

Last week we discussed the folly of keeping livestock and poultry "on the dole"—just enough feed to keep them alive. Everyone will agree that they don't pay until they are on the payroll, which means placing them on a producing ration. Thinking of the farm as a factory turning raw materials into commercially finished products, the livestock must be considered both as machines and as labor. As machines they transform materials into new forms; as labor they do part of the work for themselves.

As machines they must have all the raw material for which they have the capacity; as labor must work regularly at the job, if they are to pay a manufacturer profit to the owner. It is the owner's job to see that the raw material is supplied as needed, in the proper combinations, in productive quantities, and at regular hours so that there will be no idle time for the machines and laborers.

If it takes twenty-five pounds of feed daily to keep a cow giving a gallon of milk, she must have more to produce two gallons, and still more for three gallons. Authorities estimate that twenty-five-pound hens can get along on seven pounds of digestible nutrients a day, but it will require nine pounds for the same twenty hens in full laying. Since no feed is totally digestible this means that allowance must be made for the indigestible waste materials in the feed, which varies widely in different feedings materials. Production for sale, whether of eggs or milk, comes from the surplus feed above a living ration.

The substance of this theme is to take the animals off the dole and put them on the payroll.

The quicker the feed is turned into a salable product the better the chance of profits—always with the reservation that the ration is properly balanced for purpose it is intended, and that it shall be supplied at the rate at which it will be most efficiently utilized.

It is a common saying that "a fat hen won't lay," but it is certain that a poor one can't lay. The "fat hen" theory is putting the cart before the horse—the hen gets fat because she isn't laying, and therefore turns her food into fat instead of into eggs. This may be her own fault (lack of laying capacity) but it is just as likely to be because the feed she gets is better adapted to fattening than to egg production.

Now is a good time to start the light weight turkeys on full feed for the Christmas market. Ross M. Sherwood, chief of the poultry husbandry division, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, quotes a man who has handled a great many turkeys as saying that "my records show that the profit in turkey raising is almost in direct proportion to the size of the birds."

In other words it costs about the same to raise a small framed turkey to the finishing period as a large one, and the latter has a larger capacity for putting on edible meat. Since a pound of turkey is practically always worth more than the several pounds of feed required to make it, the bird which will use the most feed in the finishing period is the best market for the feed.

Whatever the size of the skeleton, it is only the fat turkey which will bring the top market price.

Common Sense Ways Of Avoiding Colds

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 23.—Prefacing some reasonable advice on common sense ways of avoiding colds, with the remark that it is a mistake to say you "catch" a cold. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, added "As a matter of fact the cold catches you when you are not up to the mark, physically. Therefore:

1. Keep yourself as physically fit as possible. Eat nourishing food. Have your meals at regular times. Avoid rich, indigestible combinations. Include plenty of milk, other dairy products and fruit in your diet. Remember to drink plenty of water—several glasses during the day, every day.

2. Dress according to the weather. Add a sweater to your outfit, or a heavy coat when the frosty days come. Avoid sudden chilling. Don't expose yourself unnecessarily to draughts. Don't sit around in wet clothing. If you are caught in a drenching downpour, change to dry clothing as soon as possible.

3. Take some outdoor exercise every day. Be out in the sunlight as much as possible. If you have a job that keeps you indoors most of the day, you will find it pays to spend a few minutes two or three times a day, at an open window, flushing your breathing apparatus with fresh air.

4. Get plenty of sleep. Strike a balance between work and play. Don't fool yourself into thinking you can play around at all hours of the day and night, day after day; snatch a few hours sleep, and be entirely fit, physically, and ready for your profession, your job, or for school, or household duties, when morning comes.

5. Colds are spread by the discharge from the nose and throat. Every time the victim of a cold has a coughing spell, germ-laden droplets of mucus are brought to the surface and spread around. Every sneeze throws germ-laden spray into the air. Avoid these hazards. Don't mingle unnecessarily with persons who have colds.

6. The careless cougher or sneezer sprays his germs all around the place and leaves them on everything he touches. Don't use a common drinking cup. Have your own towel and wash cloth. Always wash your hands before eating.

7. If you happen to be overtaken by a cold, show as much consideration for your neighbor as you would like him to show to you. Don't be a transmitter. Don't broadcast your germs. Sneeze or cough into your handkerchief. Use paper handkerchiefs that can be burned or otherwise disposed of. The quickest way to get rid of a cold is to go to bed; eat very lightly and drink plenty of water. At the first indication of fever, send for your doctor, and then follow his advice.

Prisoner Escapes!

Guard Killed by British Officer in Daring Escape from German Prison Camp

Hunted by all the police in Germany, he found refuge in the heart and home of this lovely little girl of the Berlin streets . . . Calmly, bravely she faced the police and lied for him—lied for an enemy of her country whom she had known but one short night . . . Not even the threats of certain death could break her devoted loyalty to him.

You'll be held breathless by this exciting story of escape from a German prison camp. You'll be thrilled and fascinated by this romantic girl who took such desperate chances to hold the only tender, sincere love she ever knew . . . no wonder the late O. O. McIntyre called it "The most absorbing book I've read in five years."

Because we want you to know Mercury Books, we'll send you this one—"Everything Is Thunder," by J. L. Hardy—practically free. We'll supply the book, if you'll pay 10c for postage and handling. Out of more than 100,000 copies printed we have less than 5,000 left—and they're going fast. Hurry and send a dime for complete copy of this intensely interesting book of more than 90,000 words. Panhandle Sportsmen To Hear Noted Speakers Explain Plan For Texas' Game Organization

The most comprehensive game and fish conservation program ever undertaken in the Panhandle will be launched in Amarillo the afternoon and evening of Nov. 30, when approximately 800 sportsmen will gather at the Herring Hotel for a regional meeting of the Texas Wildlife Federation.

Elaborate plans for entertainment of the visitors are being made by members of the recently organized Panhandle Outdoor Sportsmen's Club, first of many such units to be formed in the High Plains territory to further the state wildlife program. This group now has 75 paid-up members. At a meeting Monday night the members voted to reserve places at the banquet in a body. More than 70 reservations were immediately turned in to Pat Flynn, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, in charge of reservations.

At the afternoon session, Dr. Walter P. Taylor, senior biologist at Texas A. and M. College, will tell of game conditions throughout the state and what part the college extension service is taking in improving them. Other speakers include H. H. Williamson, director of the extension service; R. A. Callender, fund director and research expert for the service; William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission and Dr. B. B. Harris, dean of North Texas State College, who will talk on "More and Bigger Fish."

Also included on the afternoon program are Senator Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls, Rep. Jack Little of Amarillo, Gene Howe and John McCarty, publishers of the Amarillo News-Globe and others interested in conservation in the Panhandle.

At the evening program, following the banquet at 7:30 o'clock, the convention will be treated to one of the most interesting wildlife films ever made, that belonging to Mr. and Mrs. George N. Aldredge of Dallas. This remarkable picture is in technicolor and was filmed by Mrs. Aldredge on their private game preserve near Dallas. J. W. Chapman, state game manager, will be the principal speaker.

Reservations for the banquet are $1 per plate. Carl Hinton, secretary of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, urged all county officials and sporting club members or enthusiasts to make their reservations immediately. Mr. Hinton also stressed the desirability of other towns in the Panhandle forming clubs similar to the Amarillo unit, even if it

The Low Down FROM HICKORY GROVE

Fifty years ago they used to cure just about all the ills of man or beast, by bleeding. And you had to be a pretty hardy kind of person to survive the doctor.

And you know, it half-way looks to me like they are up to the same tricks again. But this time they are trying it on business instead of on people or horses or cows, etc.

Business sure is getting white around the gills—and weak in the knees.

But I see where this here old Dock Pat Harrison down there in the mud-cat state, he says bleeding, it is further outa date and worse for business, than it was for grandpa. He says we gotta do something to revive business, except more taxes.

That old boy, we need more of that kind of gent, with good horse sense, down there on our wide Petomac.

Yours, with the low down, JO SERRA.

EDITOR'S CORNER

The High School finished its second six weeks' tests Wednesday. The year is fast passing away. There are some who haven't done so well up to now. Students, 1938-39 is the best year to finish that work you are doing. If you let this chance slip by, it won't be so easy to make up. Make those grades and make them good. Some have the attitude of "if I can get by, why study any harder?" That is altogether wrong. Besides being too big a chance to take of dropping below the line, those grades on the passing line aren't nearly as valuable as a B or an A.

Quite a few of our College Hill students are always begging for assembly. They want an assembly program so that they will get out of classes. Those students were certainly given their money's worth Friday. Assembly period fell to the first period, and it was held at that period. Just after we had finished that first assembly program, a representative of Woodbury College walked into the office and asked to speak to the student body about their occupations. Assembly was called again the third period. According to Miss Howren and Mr. Burton, who have been here longer than the rest of us, that was the first time CHS or CJC had two assembly programs in one day.

We overlooked thanking Pinky Price for his CC reunion. Pinky put the homecoming over in a big way; it really was a success. It was just like a Christmas present to those who attended. The program was handled nicely with no mix ups. So was the whole affair and it was due to Pinky's

BRONCHOETTA KNOWS ALL.

Dear Bronchoetta:
Who does Mildred Phelps insist it isn't cold and refuses to wear a coat?
Gertrude.

Dear Gertrude:
If you would look on Mildred's arm, I believe you would find the answer. Just between us kids, it is a present from Elmer Joe Hays.
Bronchoetta.

Dear Bronchoetta:
Is Freddie Lynn becoming a heart-breaker?
Musically yours,
Clara Nette.

Dear Clara Nette:
I'm really not supposed to tell that one, but I will give you a clue. Just ask Dorothy Jean Bogard. I believe she knows.
Your human question box,
Bronchoetta.

Dear Bronchoetta:
Are Billy Goodman and Ivon Ellis that way about each other? Is it the real thing this time or just another campus madness?
A Range Rider.

Dear Range Rider:
At last the "perfect romance" has blossomed in CHS. Let's hope it will last. Why so inquisitive, are you jealous?
Bronchoetta.

Dear Bronchoetta:
Who does John Burton King like? Doesn't he like the girls here? I'm really crazy about him, but he doesn't seem to notice.
Musically yours,
Clara Nette.

Dear Clara Nette:
John Burton is practically a woman hater, but don't give up. Maybe he hasn't discovered you yet. He recently made the statement "All girls are the same to me." I guess that's your answer.

own bull-headed spunk. When he started the plans for the homecoming, everyone told him he should stop before it was too late. They said that it could not possibly be successful, that it was just too big an undertaking. But of course that didn't stop Pinky. He just went ahead and put it over by himself. Pinky Price, CC Exes and CJC students as well as the city of Clarendon owe you more than they can repay, but we thank you anyway.

REGULAR ASSEMBLY

The regular assembly opened Friday at the first period with songs. Then a chorus of ten girls directed by Mrs. Bryan sang "Little Annie Rooney." Kitty Ruth Bailey sang a solo, "Peggy O'Neil," with the other girls joining in the chorus. The chorus next sang "Ten Pretty Girls," following which the entire student body sang "The Long Trail" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Following this were two songs sung by Jane Williams and "Old Man River," sung by Raymond Wood.

After the program, Miss Nell Cook introduced the characters in "His Ozark Cousin," a play to be given by the Curtain Club. Announcements were then made and the assembly closed with other songs sung by the student body.

SPORTS

We have not, as yet, learned who will letter on this year's squad, but there are several men who are almost sure to letter. We want to congratulate some of those boys this week; next week we will get around to some more of them. The following is not only our opinion but also that of the many fans we have interviewed.

Big Boyd Allison comes first in ball-packing ability. He made the larger per cent of our scores this year, and did the kicking. Each time he lugged the pigskin, it was advanced several yards. Boyd has two years more with the Bronchos, and he is certainly going places.

Colie Huffman is tops in Broncho defense. He called defense signals and was the pop leader of the team. He was in on nearly 80 per cent of the tackles and when he blocked a man he always got him. Colie displayed exceptional ability as captain. He always argued for the best and never made a dumb choice. Colie will be with the Bronchos one more year.

Colie was injured in the Groom game and H. L. "Brick" Lane stepped into his place. Brick made a majority of tackles saving the Bronchos many long losses. He played back man and always got his man. He tackled like a college guard and blocked many passes. Lane is a senior this year.

Bob McWhorter plays second fiddle to no one when it comes to filling a guard position. Bob is a small fellow, but oh! what a punch he packs. He has played guard all year and will Wednesday complete a marvelous job. "Bull" is famed for his never die spirit. It doesn't make any difference how the score stands, he always fights his hardest. When he goes through with a ball carrier, the defense falls as if struck by lightning. Bob has one more year to play for the Bronchos, too.

Canadian Independent School District recently voted a bond issue of $84,000 for the erection of a high school building.

MY SHIP, THE LAUGHTER

I call my ship the "Laughter,"
We travel side by side;
Many a storm we've fought through,
On many a swollen tide.

When raging waves o'er throw me,
My ship says, "Smile pal, smile,"
"Show old man Sea you still exist."
And make the splash worth while.

These wise words give me courage,
They make me want to rise,
The current cannot sweep me far,
When "Laughter's" standing by.

Some cargoes harbor trouble,
And others anchor wrong,
But any place my ship takes rest,
That's where a laugh belongs.

Perhaps I'll be forsaken,
My hopes washed out to sea,
I know somehow they'll find an isle
If "Laughter" laughs with me.

GETTING AROUND ON COLLEGE HILL

The new fall and winter styles seem to lean to the radical side. Pat Morris and Christine Knox caught the eyes of students and teachers alike when they strolled down the halls wearing white blouses embroidered with the signatures of their friends and short philosophical phrases on life.

We are not an authority on styles, but Elgin Risley is our candidate for the best dressed girl in school. Just notice for yourself the next time you see her.

Earl Shannon has decided to organize a Liars Club. Earl of course will be the first president as he is the undisputed champ of white (?) lies. Jack Reeves and Pheobe Ann Buntin are still campaigning with their tall tales for the office of vice president. The club will meet the 33rd day of each month.

The goffer-match cover collecting fad is still in full swing here at CJC. Charlie Murphy still ahead with nearly 900. Rayburn Smith, Pheobe Ann Buntin, Frances Grady, Ethelyn Drennan and Jack Reeves are in the running neck and neck.

By the time you read this there will be only one more night to the Boxing Tournament the F. A. boys have been holding. The last night promises to be full of thrills and upsets. Already the student body is speculating on the champions this year. Let's all turn out for the final fights and enjoy ourselves while helping the boys.

The Ohio Education Association has recently issued two valuable bulletins, one entitled, "School Recovery Lags," the other, "School Levy and Bond Issue Campaigns."

Contract will soon be let by the Barstow Independent School District for the construction of a new $100,000 school building.

ON OUR BOOK SHELF

A very recent book which has created much comment is "35,000 Days In Texas," by Sam Acheson. This book is the story of the "oldest business institution in Texas," The Dallas Morning News, and the story of this newspaper is the story of Texas. The author is an editorial writer on the News and practically all of the material is taken from the files of the paper; hence it is authentic.

The book begins most interestingly with an introduction by J. J. Taylor, editor-in-chief of the News, who tells of some of the traditions of the paper. The first chapter deals with "The Old Lady By the Sea," The Galveston Daily News, started in 1842, by one Samuel Bangs. Most interesting in the chapter is a story not taught in school about the dispute between Sam Houston and Mirabeau Lamar as to who was responsible for the victory of San Jacinto. The paper was Lamar's partisan and strenuously opposed Houston in both his public private life until the very end. The book shows that the heroes of the past were not heroes by any means in their own time and were as vigorously attacked by the newspapers as are public figures today.

The Dallas News today is noted for being extremely conservative and probably the most completely neutral paper in the state. But this was decidedly not so in its first years; not until after the World War did it refrain from very frankly taking sides in politics and other matters. Scarcely any public office-holder until recent days escaped scathing denunciation in the News except Woodrow Wilson.

Up to 1885 the News was located at Galveston and for many years the branch at Dallas simply a duplicate. Soon after 1900 however, The Dallas News overshadowed its parent. In 1923 the Galveston News was sold. The book deals only with the Dallas paper after its establishment.

The last part of the book is rather weak and not so very interesting. Not so much detail about state and national events, but a great deal about the part played in Dallas civic affairs by officers of the paper is given. Of course, this is done partly because most readers are very familiar with the events of the past 15 years and the attitude of the News toward them, and too, it is impossible to evaluate what events will be most important in future history. But except to Dallas people the activities of G. B. Dealey and the excessive discussion of the city plan for Dallas are quite unimportant and uninteresting. "35,000 Days in Texas," certainly gives some unusual and to most people little-known sidelights on Texas history which should be much more known. There is really a wealth of information in the book presented in an entertaining manner. The book is not, we admit, particularly literary in style, but who would want or expect a book on a newspaper to be filled with poetic prose? It is quite appropriately reportorial.

STUDENTS HEAR MISS CLOUD

Something unprecedented in the way of assemblies happened Friday—two were held. At the third period, Miss Alma Cloud, a representative of Woodbury College in California, lectured on the subject of success. Miss Cloud said that it does not do any good to know the qualities of success unless you apply them. From a story of collection of wastebasket applications she had found that the most frequent reasons for discarding applications were misspelled words, carelessness in answering questions, and poor penmanship. The qualities wanted by employment managers are: (1) friendliness; (2) aptitude; (3) training; and (4) intelligence. In an interview the late Harvey Firestone said: "If an individual shows up for a job with defects in his character, actions, etc., I may hire him, but I will discount his pay check for each defect."

Miss Cloud illustrated to the students how to avoid such defects in appearance, actions, and talk. She also said that it isn't the credits made in school that will be used in life, but it is the knowledge retained that must be used. At the close of her lecture Miss Cloud answered questions asked by the students concerning employment and occupations.

Miss Cloud's lecture was one of the best that local students have heard. Although the speaker was an unexpected visitor to the school her talk was as excellent as her credentials indicated.

Terraces Check Erosion Damage

Broad-based, level terraces with closed ends retain practically all the water on the land where it falls, giving an equal distribution of moisture which results in a uniform crop stand. Farmers of the wind erosion area are finding that yields on terraced fields are higher and that erosion is checked. Terraces are recommended wherever contour farming is not sufficient to prevent loss of water. This farmer is constructing a terrace on a field in one of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration areas.

AMARILLO. — Farmers of the Texas Panhandle are finding that terraces are a good investment. Not only do these broad-based, level structures aid in checking erosion, but they also tend to increase crop yields. Many farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service demonstration areas report that terraces have more than paid for themselves during the first year by increasing crop yields.

Terraces already have been constructed on more than 160,000 acres in the Soil Conservation Service demonstration areas in the Texas Panhandle, and several thousand additional acres will be terraced during the winter, the farmers report. Thousands of more acres have been terraced in the nine Wind Erosion Conservation Districts in the Panhandle, and hundreds of farmers are building such structures in other parts of the state not included in these areas, it is reported.

Properly constructed level terraces will hold practically all the rain water on the ground where it falls, thereby allowing the moisture to soak into the soil where it is available for crop use instead of flowing down the slopes to cause gulying and sheet erosion.

Water backed up behind the terraces results in an even distribution of moisture over the field and a more uniform crop stand. During heavy rains this fall, tests revealed that moisture had penetrated the soil of terraced fields to depths from two to three times as great as on un-

Education is commonly measured by the number of years of schooling one has had. One whose school training has been abbreviated is often said to be uneducated. This is not so. This popular conception of education as something confined to schools and school rooms, the acquiring of book facts, formal drill, and discipline is altogether too narrow.

Education is not a new process, but it is receiving new interpretation. It is in reality a process as old as the race itself. Whatever influences one in such a way to determine his future conduct is a means of education. Education may thus be good or bad; may elevate or debase. The school, though conventionally regarded as the only institution of education, is of comparatively recent development but it is not the most fundamental means of education. Reflection shows us that there are multitudes of influences which help to determine the character of every individual. Let us note a few of these factors.

First consideration may properly be given to the home. Honesty, veracity, politeness, good manners, clean living and temperance, are most easily inculcated in the home. Institutional influence also plays a great part. Various societies, clubs, lodges and guilds encourage social instinct and give intellectual and moral uplift. The daily newspaper, the magazine, the telephone, etc., all furnish incentives and knowledge for learning.

The function of play as an educative factor is only just beginning to be realized. It is necessary that a child has relaxation and invigoration. Play not only retraces ancestral experience, but anticipates future adult experiences.

The school should be, and is coming to be the institution which co-ordinates all the best educational processes of life and adds its own special forms. The school is the standard-bearer of the highest ideals of the present and of the past.

The second year course of education in the Clarendon Jr. College is called, "Curriculum Development," in which students discuss the above mentioned topics. The main objective of "Curriculum Development" is how to improve a school system. It is required for those students desiring to teach, but it is very interesting and helpful to any person.

SEE 1938 MILK RECORD

A new high record of milk production in 1938—about 110 billion pounds for the full year—is indicated by monthly estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The increase over 1937 is about 4 per cent.

Butter is the most important manufactured product, using about 41 per cent of the total milk production. An equivalent amount is used as milk and cream. Cheese takes about 6 per cent of the milk, evaporated milk case goods about 4 per cent, ice cream about 3.5 per cent, and a number of other products the remainder.

The general trend of milk production has been upward during the last 15 years and per capita production has been relatively stable. The proportions used in the various products have not changed significantly during this period.

Work for 3,277 men and women was provided during September by the operation of 82 Works Progress Administration projects in the Panhandle territory, it was reported today by Administrative Officer A. A. Meredith.

Temporary suspension of four county road improvement projects in order to enable workers to accept seasonal agricultural employment caused a considerable decrease in the number of workers on WPA rolls, Meredith stated.

Work was completed on eleven projects and seventeen new projects were inaugurated during September. Included among projects completed were improvements to 14 miles of farm-to-market roads in Wheeler, Ochiltree and Dallam counties. Painting of roof signs in 23 towns throughout the territory as an aid to air navigation was completed also. Other projects completed were sewing rooms in four localities and community sanitation work in Hall county. These projects were replaced by others offering continued employment to the workers previously employed.

Meredith reported that $74,023 had been expended by WPA in 11 projects completed and that local governmental agencies had supplied $25,849. Approximately 210,670 man-hours of work were provided.

Inaugurated during the past month were projects providing improvements to State Highway 5 in Childress county, State Highway 86 in Swisher county, lateral roads in Wheeler county, and streets in the city of Childress. Mineral resources survey was opened in Deaf Smith and Ochiltree counties, and an underground water survey was started in Ochiltree and Carson counties. House-keeping aide projects were opened in Childress, Hall, Deaf Smith, and Randall counties. Sewing room units replaced those completed in Ochiltree, Donley and Hall counties. Similarly county-wide sanitation work was continued in Hall county. The seventeen projects placed in operation will be financed by expenditures of $108,321 by WPA and $32,756 supplied by local agencies. They will provide 325,106 man-hours of work.

The Weatherford school board recently voted an increase of $5.00 per month to its public school teachers.

Let Us Be Thankful for the Privilege of Living Electrically

Thanksgiving

1620 They cooked a turkey before a blazing hearth fire.

They baked in a dutch oven. They dipped candles, had flickering light. They spun, wove and sewed cloth by hand. They spent weary hours cleaning house. They chopped ice in rivers and lakes. They didn't have it so easy.

They would have been thankful for all the electric servants we now have.

1938 We depend on an automatic electric range to cook the turkey.

We use controlled electric heat. We flip a switch, get a flood of good light. We use electric looms, electric sewing machines. We use electric vacuum cleaners, save time. We have electric refrigeration. We have it a thousand times easier.

We are thankful to live in an age when Electric Service is plentiful—and costs so little.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs.

What you may need is a particularly good woman's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and thus help calm your aching nerves, give more energy and make life worth living again. More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's "compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling thru" trying times like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? IT MUST BE GOOD!

Aggies Now Feeding Litters For Spring Show

The litter division of the 1939 spring show will be the strongest in the history of the local show if the litters now on feed develop. Last spring seven litters were shown in the local show and prospects are that at least 15 will be shown in the 1939 show. The litters are largely Hampshires with a few Poland litters making up the balance of the group.

ACHING COLDS

Relieve Their DISTRESS This Easy, Quick Way!

To bring speedy relief from the discomfort of chest colds, muscular rheumatic aches and pains due to colds—you need more than "just a salve"—use a stimulating "counter-irritant" like good old warming, soothing Musterole. It penetrates the surface skin breaking up local congestion and pain resulting from colds. Even better than a mustard plaster—Musterole has been used by millions for over 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong. 40¢. Approved by Good House-keeping Bureau. All druggists.

Clarendon F. F. A. Enters State-Wide Hog Contest

Local F. F. A. members are working harder than ever on their hog projects this year in an effort to win the Hog Improvement Contest sponsored by the State Swine Breeders' Association. The contest is open to all Texas chapters of the F. F. A. and is planned to reward the chapters doing the best job of swine production in 1939. Three prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded the three winning chapters.

Soundness of F. F. A. chapter plan from a swine production standpoint, number of boys completing swine projects, total pounds of live hogs produced, per cent of boys owning a registered sow, per cent of boys owning a registered gilt, per cent of boys who fed out a litter of pigs or more to 180 pounds average weight or more, per cent of boys who provided adequate pasture, per cent of boys who exhibited hogs at a local show, per cent of boys feeding home grown grain, either grown on the farm or purchased in quantity at harvest time, publicity given swine production projects, and accuracy and neatness of individual records and chapter summary are the points that will decide the winner of the contest.

A scrapbook of pictures of registered pigs and sows is being prepared for the contest. Newspaper clippings are also being placed in scrapbook. Each student is being graded in his school work to a certain extent on his efficiency in carrying out his part of the above program. The local chapter owns registered Hampshire, Duroc, and Poland boars and is carrying on an extensive program in an effort to win the top prize of $100.

Clarendon Boy Plans To Attend College

John Gilbert, Clarendon lad, who is gaining recognition for his progress in scientific cattle breeding and fitting, is planning to attend college that he may have the benefit of all the latest and best in his chosen line of work.

Wednesday's Amarillo News, in Vance Johnson's "Line Rider" column had this to say about John:

"Since he finished Clarendon High School a year ago last May, John Howard Gilbert has been scanning periodicals, reading college bulletins, watching the newspapers for advertisements of the kind of a college course he wanted. A successful 4-H Club boy and the son of Cattleman Clyde Gilbert, his mind was made up as to what he wanted to do when he left high school. Quickly he plunged into work at his father's Willow Springs Ranch, on a tributary canyon of the Palo Duro, adjoining the JA Ranch. For a long while he batched there on the edge of the canyon, now lives with a couple at the ranch, seldom goes to Clarendon, where father and mother live. His whole day, his whole thought, surrounds cattle.

"With his father's help, he bought two fine heifer calves a couple of years ago, acquired another at the Amarillo Fat Stock show. Paid good money for every female he bought, now has 17 head of fine bred Herefords—a good start toward a herd.

"Now, he is making plans for a college course starting about the first of the year. For three months he will attend Iowa State College, taking a special course for herdsmen... preparing himself for that day when the fitting of his cattle will be an important part of his business. After March he will return to the ranch stay until January of 1940, when he will return to the Iowa college to complete the course.

"His decision, though he thinks it's a wise one, will prevent him from showing a calf in the spring which he believes will be just good enough to capture the purple at the Amarillo Fat Stock Show. Last winter he fed three calves for the show. One was a small, typey thing that got off his feed somehow and didn't come along. He cut it back, but upon his return from the Amarillo show began feeding it in preparation for '39.
