TWISTING WINDS, LIGHTNING, CAUSE COUNTY DAMAGE

CROP LOSS IS ALSO REPORTED AFTER HEAVY RAIN

BARN DESTROYED; HEDLEY HOME LIGHTNING STRUCK LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

Twisting winds and a bolt of lightning caused damage in Donley County last Thursday night and hard driving rain made replanting of many crops necessary.

The rain was measured at 53 of an inch in Clarendon.

A barn on the Bert Mayfield place was totally destroyed by a freakish wind that demolished the structure but did not injure several head of stock in the building.

The Mayfield loss was estimated at around $500.

Another barn was damaged on the E. M. Ozier farm when a section of the structure was carried away by the wind. The Ozier loss was set at approximately $100.

While Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson and their two children were sitting comfortably in their Hedley home, a bolt of lightning blasted open two china cabinet doors, scattering dishes on the floor.

The Johnsons, sitting in a living room were not hurt.

Striking the top of a broken lightning rod the electricity traveled to within a few feet of the ground, where the rod was suspended, before entering the kitchen.

Citizens of Hedley estimated the rainfall at from one and one-half inches to two inches with the heavier fall southward. The precipitation thinned toward the Baylor community it was reported.

hail fell lightly during the downpour but the crop damage was charged to the heavy rain.

One farmer in the Hedley community said he would have to replant much of his crop because the dashing rain caked and smothered the sprouting cotton.

The moisture, however, was highly beneficial to rangeland with ranchers reporting a better than average summer grass crop.

STRAY SHOT KILLS HORSE, SHERIFF ISSUES WARNING

$50 ANIMAL VICTIM OF CARELESS SHOOTING ALONG HIGHWAY

Following the death Sunday of a horse in the Goldston community, the victim of a stray gunshot, Deputy Sheriff Guy Wright issued a warning to persons firing guns along highways.

Wright said that it is against the state laws to shoot on, along or across any public road and those continuing such practice will be prosecuted vigorously.

The horse, whose owner's name was withheld, was a yearling and was valued at not less than $50.

The animal, Wright believed was killed by careless hunters shooting on the highway in violation of the law.

CHS Home Ec Class Completes Three Weeks Summer Work

The Home Economics summer class of Clarendon High school completed their first three weeks work this week, Miss Maurice Berry, instructor stated. Another week of work will be given the last week in August, and between the times, the girls will work on their home projects which will be exhibited at the end of the summer.

During the past three weeks, the girls, under the direction of Miss Berry, have prepared book reports on their home projects, have studied various embroidery stitches, and have improved the laboratory. This improvement included cleaning everything thoroughly and heat-proofing the work tables by means of a special varnish. A week was spent on each of these projects. The final meeting of the class will be held Friday.

Glider Pilot Is Forced Down Here On Wichita Falls-Amarillo Flight

Swooping low over the business section, swinging wide and settling softly off the edge of the pavement of Highway 370, west of town, John Robinson, San Diego, Calif., gave Clarendon its first sailplane visit Sunday afternoon.

Hundreds of local people quickly gathered as Robinson, a participant in the Southwest Soaring Meet at Wichita Falls, called for witnesses to sign his flight sheet. He had been in the air 5:25 minutes after taking off from Wichita Falls at 1:45 and landing here at 7:10, he said.

Robinson headlined the opening day of the meet but flunked a project flight from Wichita Falls to Amarillo for a cash prize of $100 offered by the Amarillo Junior Chamber of Commerce. The California birdman fell short of the 210 air-miles when late evening cooled the lifting currents.

Although he could have remained aloft longer, Robinson said it would have been impossible to have reached Amarillo. He blamed the lateness of his takeoff hour as the principal reason of his failure to reach Amarillo.

While the sailplane pilot will not receive his cash award, five points for his hours in the air will be applied to his contest record.

Coming in with about 200 feet altitude, the graceful varnished glider presented a beautiful appearance as it swung in lazy circles over the western part of town.

Picking out the sloping hill, Robinson brought the plane gently to rest just off the edge of the pavement without even disturbing the row of small trees that line the road.

Hundreds of people gathered at English Field, Amarillo, to welcome the arriving pilot, were doomed to disappointment.

Fort Worth residents welcomed around twelve hundred Baptist ministers who met at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in their annual Preachers Evangelistic Conference.

The Conference, according to Dr. R. C. Campbell, Executive Secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, is of vast significance. Rev. J. Perry King of the local Baptist Church attended the sessions.

NO RUSH HERE IN OLD AGE PENSION APPLICATIONS

Despite the liberalized old age pension bill, investigators were troubled little by new applications here Monday.

Expecting an avalanche of new petitions, the investigator came prepared for a busy day but only the regular run of persons were interviewed.

The liberalization of eligibility regulations will add 9,000 clients over 65, a 50 per cent increase in the rolls in this section, it is believed.

Meanwhile the May payments to old age needy were over $100 higher than that of the preceding month. One hundred and ninety three persons received a total of $3,152 for May whereas 189 pensioners was paid $3,040 in April.

The investigator will be here again tomorrow at the County Judge's office in the court house.

LIONS ANSWER A LITERARY QUIZ TUESDAY NOON

SOME KNOWLEDGE AND SMART GUESSING ASSURES SUCCESS OF PROGRAM

Clarendon Lions know more about literature and literary persons now than they did when they sat down to Tuesday's regular luncheon. A program conducted by Lion Dude Gentry in the form of a quiz about books, short stories and writers engaged the attention of the club, bringing out some gross ignorance, some quiet information and a lot of smart guessing.

Any way most any Lion now can engage in a very intelligent conversation with members of the women's literary clubs, or any other high-brows they chance to meet.

A visitor for the day was Engineer Payne of the highway department. After hearing announcement of the annual election of club officers for next Tuesday, adjournment came.

Vice president Drennan was in the chair for the meeting in the absence of President W. H. Patrick.

WEST TEXAS GETS 442 MILES OF NEW SHELTERBELTS

DONLEY INCLUDED WITH APPROXIMATELY 80 MILES OF PROTECTIVE TREES

WICHITA FALLS.—Approximately 442 miles of new shelterbelt was planted this year in '39 West Texas Counties, said W. E. Webb, State Director of the Prairie States Forestry Project in Texas. This means that Texas now has about 1525 miles of shelterbelts which will furnish badly needed protection to approximately 150,000 acres of cropland.

The counties that received the 442 miles of new shelterbelts were: Wilbarger, 39; Hardeman, 17; Foard, 9; Childress, 21; Cottle, 18; Hall, 68; Dickens, 8; King, 9; Donley, 80; Wheeler, 55; Gray, 28; Hemphill, 23; Collingsworth, 19; and the balance in Wichita, Clay, Baylor, Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Hockley, Terry, Lynn, Bailey, Lamb and Cochran Counties.

Approximately 4,100,000 trees were planted in the new belts. In addition to the planting of the new belts the losses were replaced in most of the previously planted belts. Approximately 2,250,000 trees were used for replacement planting.

The success of the shelterbelts, once they are planted, depends entirely on the farmer, said Mr. Webb. We try to furnish good acclimated stock and do a good job of planting but after this the farmer must take care of the belt by giving it good cultivation and protection from stock and rodents. Unless this is done out time and this is wasted and the life money is the use of his own money.

When the farmer loses his thing in the wind and gets no that all turn. It is essential to it that shelterbelt owners see that a good job of cultivation is done in order that the owner may realize all of the benefits from the shelterbelt.

The shelterbelts are already very noticeably influencing the crops and the land, said Mr. Webb. The trees in many of the early plantings have reached a height of 20 or more feet and many farmers have reported reduced soil blowing and crop protection on the lee side.

Farmers last year reported very decided increased yield because of the influence of the shelterbelts and this year many have reported that no blowing occurred in the lee of the belt; and it was not necessary to resow the crop one or more times.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McElvany left Friday for Columbia, Mo., where they will attend the graduation exercises of the University of Missouri. Their daughter, Avis Lee McElvany, will receive her bachelor's degree from the school of journalism where she has been an outstanding student the past two years.

Trucker Jailed For 24,000 Pound Load

He was glad to be jailed, Pierce said, quoting the man as saying that was his only chance to catch up on his sleep. He was released yesterday afternoon when his employers sent money for his fine.

THEY'VE GOT SOMETHING, THERE

Seems to us that the Covington (Ala.) News had something on the ball when they ran the following in a black-bordered box:

"To Whom It May Concern: If you have frequent headaches, dizziness, fainting spells, lame back accompanied by chills, cramps, bunions, jaundice, chills, or epileptic fits, it's a sign you are not well and are liable to die any minute. So hasten to this office and pay your subscription a year in advance, and make yourself solid for a good obituary notice!"

WE CAN'T KEEP FROM BRAGGING JUST A LITTLE

Visitors to the Reporter-News editorial room in Abilene get quite a kick out of the following bulletin posted in a conspicuous place there: "Notice—The Publisher, business-manager, editor, managing editor, city editor, night police reporter and church editor of this newspaper are preacher's sons. If any loud cussing is to be done around here, they'll do it!—Frank Grimes, Editor."

Modestly, and with only one preacher's son in the outfit, The Clarendon News challenges any newspaper staff in the Southwest on this point. There's no swearing in our office or shop, and we are duly proud of that distinction, and when one is familiar with all the temptations that face newspaper workers, the distinction is really appreciated.

A DETOUR THAT DOESN'T LEAD ANYWHERE

Discussing the fallacious attempts of Washington officials to substitute trade with South American nations for the huge volume lost in Europe, Peter Molyneux, sums up the situation as follows:

"The road to recovery by means of restored foreign trade, however, does not lie in the direction of increased imports from Latin America or even of increased exports to those countries primarily. Increased trade with Latin America in both directions is desirable, to be sure. But the idea that the producers of American export commodities can find markets in those countries to replace the declining markets in Europe and Asia is worse than utopian. It is positively mischievous. For the situation that is developing as a result of the renewed declining tendency of our export trade is fundamentally serious in relation to our whole domestic economy. If, instead of facing this situation squarely and of adopting ways and means of adjusting our policies to deal with it effectively, we are diverted into an impractical detour, impelled by theoretical and visionary political rather than by sound economic considerations, there is likely to be some rather rough going ahead of us."

THE TRUTH ABOUT BEER

Dr. D. H. Kress is head of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital. In a recent address he tells about alcohol, particularly about alcohol taken through the medium of beer.

"No matter in what form alcohol is taken, its effect is the same, whether in large or small doses. The one who takes one drink is one drink drunk. The Journal of the American Medical Association is supposed to express the voice of that association of medical men. It says: 'Alcohol is a poison, inherently, absolutely, essentially; in a drop or in a gill, in a pint, or in a gallon, in all quantities and in every quantity, it is a poison. Plainly the quantity cannot alter its chemical constituents.'"

Dr. Kress also discusses some popular misconceptions in regard to alcohol. Instead of being a help against cold, he says emphatically that alcohol actually lowers body temperature. He says further, "In sickness, in the past, alcohol was prescribed because it produced a feeling of well-being. It is true, a patient suffers less pain under its influence. It makes the sick man unconscious of his actual condition and danger, as it does to one exposed to severe cold. It pulls down nature's danger signal. It makes the cold man feel less cold and the sick man feel less uncomfortable." He says, however, that these feelings are deceptive. He concludes "that there is some poisonous product in the fermentation of beer which, either along or in common with alcohol, weakens and in extreme cases destroys the internal glands which control the elimination of waste matter of the system and are its chief protection against infection. Therefore, the agitation in favor of beer and wine is distinctly an agitation for the shortening of the people's lives."

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN.—Having played every card in his hand in an effort to jam through the House of representatives, his constitutional amendment for a sales tax, and four times having been defeated, Gov. O'Daniel and the sales tax forces aiding in his fight prepared at the weekend for a fifth and final effort.

The Governor played his hole card last Friday, when he signed the bill liberalizing the pension rolls. In his Sunday morning broadcast, he placed the laurel wreath of victory upon his own brow, and celebrated a triumph he seemed to regard as already won.

Senators Are Arrogant

The strategy this week was designed to put the last ultimate ounce of pressure upon the determined House minority which has opposed the constitutional sales tax. The House had sent its Omnibus tax bill to the Senate, where the State affairs committee promptly killed it, after hearing only three of a string of 40 witnesses. Motion to kill was offered by Sen. Will Pace of Tyler, and only three votes—those of Clint Small, Manly Head and Olan Van Zandt—were cast against it. Those voting to kill included Collie, Graves of Dallas, Martin, Moore, Nelson, Pace, Roberts Shivers, Stone of Galveston, Stone of Washington, Weinert and Winfield. Van Zandt the blind senator from Grayson county, administered the death blow to the bill, when he refused to sign a minority report, which would have enabled it to go to the floor. Immediately afterward on Pace's motion the same committee killed the House Gross receipts tax bill, which has been pigeonholed in the committee for a month. This cut off all possible methods of raising pension revenue at this session except through a constitutional amendment for a sales tax. The Governor, in his radio talk, referred to it as a "compromise settlement" of the question. Actually, it was the most high-handed and arrogant refusal by nine senators to accept any compromise that has the Senate blocked a regular session in refusing to consider the sales tax bill.

Plenty Liberal

Under the liberalized pension law, a couple over 65 might win a 200-acre black land farm, a residence costing $10,000, have a $1,000 life insurance policy each, and a substantial cash balance in the bank. They might further have six grown sons and daughters, single and living in their home, and earning $2400 a year each. But would still be entitled to a pension, with no questions asked. Such a picture lends credence to the doubts of those who have had experience with the strict interpretation which the Federal Social Security board places upon the "need" requirement before doing out the Federal cash.

Filibuster Costs a Million

The costly filibuster in the Senate, which has virtually stymied all important legislation during the dying weeks of the million-dollar record-breaking lengthy session, continued last week, and was due for another chapter. Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston, acting in behalf of the Senate majority who are opposed to the price-fixing "fair trades" act, but politically afraid to vote against it held the floor for two days with a reading of a history of the Texas Press, and a list of the 900 newspapers published in the State. He was "debating" the bill sponsored by the Texas Press Association to fix a flat rate for legal publications, and require their publication in newspapers instead of posting them on courthouse doors. The fair trades act lies directly under the newspaper bill on the Senate's House bill calendar. Purpose of the filibustering group is to avoid a vote on the fair trades act by refusing to get to it on the calendar.

Long Time, No Pensions

Meanwhile, pending in the Senate unacted upon are the driver's license law, corrections to the highly controversial land vacancy bill the county road bond indebtedness bill, and a dozen other matters of utmost importance to the State generally.

The final attempt to pass the sales tax amendment was scheduled for early in the week in the House, and the issue may possibly be decided finally before this column is in print. If it should pass, the sales tax which has figured in the last three gubernatorial campaigns, will overnight become the hottest political issue in Texas and participants in the 1940 primary campaigns will begin oiling their artillery on either side at once. If it should be adopted by the people, it will, of course, be many months before the law brings in any pension revenue.

Long Time, No Pensions

Meanwhile, pending in the Senate unacted upon are the driver's license law, corrections to the highly controversial land vacancy bill the county road bond indebtedness bill, and a dozen other matters of utmost importance to the State generally.

The final attempt to pass the sales tax amendment was scheduled for early in the week in the House, and the issue may possibly be decided finally before this column is in print. If it should pass, the sales tax which has figured in the last three gubernatorial campaigns, will overnight become the hottest political issue in Texas and participants in the 1940 primary campaigns will begin oiling their artillery on either side at once. If it should be adopted by the people, it will, of course, be many months before the law brings in any pension revenue.

Texas Business Shows Incline During April

AUSTIN.—In contrast to a national slump, Texas business climbed upward during April, Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas economist said today.

National business has slumped continuously during the past five months, but Texas has remained horizontal during that period, and took an upward trend last month, Dr. Buechel said.

CLARENDON METHODIST CIRCUIT

J. G. Walker, Pastor

Had two very fine services at Ashtola Sunday. Young people called in their service in the evening. When they arrived to begin their service they found that the lighting system had failed and some time was taken to go out and get lamps. When they arrived with lamps we were glad to let them in and we found their lamps trimmed and burning. We read in the Bible about ten young ladies who were invited to a marriage feast. In order for them to be admitted to the feast they must bear a torch or light which was a token of honor and respect to the Bride and the Groom. They all took their lamps or torches and went out as was the custom, to meet the Bridegroom. Five of them figured that there might be a delay in his coming and they took oil in an extra vessel so as to meet an emergency. For this thoughtfulness they were considered as wise virgins. The other five were doubtless as equally intent on honoring the Bridegroom; and started with lamps and bright lights. They figured that everything would go just as they expected and saw no need of a reserve of oil. For this careless way of thinking and acting they have been called the foolish virgins. In this case the coming was delayed and the oil in lamps had all been consumed; but the wise had only to reach for the extra vessel and refill their lamps and join the marriage procession; the foolish began to beg; they went out and tried to buy; but it was too late—the "door was shut". The Ashtola people did not begin to beg nor go out to buy. They went to their homes and found the reserve—the lesson here is to always live close to God's storehouse which is always filled with oil for every emergency—even death and the judgement. Report shows that the Lela Lake Sunday school was good. Brother Mace said that all the good-looking people in Lela Lake were at Sunday school; but told me later that Mrs. Mace was not there. Wonder what she will say about that? We go to McKnight Sunday morning and to Bray in the evening. Think of and pray for us. The reunion is over and it is lonesome on this hill now. OPERATION Gene Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Butler, was operated on for appendicitis Monday afternoon in the Adair Hospital. His condition is reported to be satisfactory.

GASOLINE REFUND TO BE PROBED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

CHARGE DEALERS SECURE REFUNDS ON FICTITIOUS NAMES IN CLAIMS

AUSTIN, June 8.—Charge that gasoline dealers are using fictitious names in filing claims for gasoline tax refunds, the House last week created an investigating committee to check what they termed losses of between five and six million dollars in revenue.

Speaker R. Emmett Morse will appoint three members to conduct the inquiry under the direction of a resolution by Lon E. Alsop which was adopted.

Alsop directed most of his discussion to the increasing amount of gasoline tax refunds, which are allowed on motor fuel used in vehicles not operated on state highways. Last year, he said, $6,800,000 was refunded on 187,000 claims, while this year the Comptroller estimates there will be 210,000 claims.

He said dealers had affidavit forms printed and used fictitious names in filing claims.

Alsop said it was not the intention of the resolution to stop legitimate refunds to farmers.

No more does the housewife need bother the men folks about putting up the screens and storm windows. In panel form either may be adjusted to a permanently affixed metal frame—and from the inside. Since the glass and screen panels are also metal bound and lock against the frame, a snug fit is assured. A shutter in the frame permits ventilation during winter months.

The Low Down FROM HICKORY GROVE

Susie and I, we got a boy, and he graduated in Chemistry the other day, so we sashayed out there to Berkeley, California, to see him get his sheepskin. And say, they have a President of the school there, who is a humorist—Bob Sproul. He made a speech.

He told the Co-eds and the Boys there, that opportunity is perching everywhere—if you take off your coat and go to work—and stop listening to the Messiahs. A political Messiah, he is a person who complicates a simple everyday problem so as to fix, so he can fix it—and get elected or re-elected. Sproul, he took off some veneer—from politics.

I do not know which party Mr. Sproul belongs to, if any—but he is the kind of guy we need more of, down on our muddied Potomac.

He belongs up there in my list of favorite 2 fisters, with something in their bean—like Mr. Pat Harrison, and Yankee Martin, and about one dozen others there who have some iron in their backbone, and not rub'r. Yours, with the low down, Jo Serra.

APRIL CLAIMS 100 TRAFFIC VICTIMS ON TEXAS ROADS

TOLL OF RURAL ROADS IS ALMOST DOUBLE THAT OF CITY HOROUGHMARES

DALLAS, June 7.—Open roads in Spring are fit subjects for poets to write about, but they shed their luster during April for the State Department of Public Safety when a survey showed highways and country roads claimed nearly twice as many lives as did urban streets.

As compared with the thirty-seven lives taken in city traffic, designated highways claimed fifty-two motorists and pedestrians and country roads took an added toll.

The April traffic toll officially was set at 100, a number which included belated reports on one death chargeable to February and seven deaths chargeable to March.

Only six of the victims were children of five years or under, only eight were between 6 and 17 years.

Twenty-five were young people between 18 and 25. Another twenty-five were between 26 and 40, while another twenty-five

DALHART YOUTH TO ASK PRESIDENT TO XIT REUNION IN AUGUST

DALHART, June 7.—Completely outfitted as a Western cowboy, Billy Cotton, 10 years old, left Dalhart Sunday morning to present personally to President Roosevelt in Washington, and Mayor LaGuardia in New York miniature steer hides on which are lettered invitations to the Fourth Annual XIT Reunion in Dalhart next August 7 and 8. His parents accompanied him.

The invitations are on snow-white leather, cut to duplicate a steer hide about three and a half feet long and two feet wide. Lettering is black. Each hide is suspended at the top from an Indian arrow shaft, to each end of which is laced by leather thongs a genuine Panhandle flint arrowhead.

Among those attending summer school in Canyon the first nine weeks will be Fannie McGowan, Joan Thompson, Mattie Rhodes, Joyce Link, Sara Virginia McGowan, Mildred Pittman, Ralph Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Todd and Geo. W. Kavanaugh.

TEXAS COTTON IS EXPECTED TO HIT 50-YEAR LOW

AUSTIN.—Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton expert, today predicted a 50-year low for United States cotton exports this year.

Dr. Cox, director of the University Bureau of Business Research, estimated exports this year at less than three and a third million bales, compared with an average predepression total of nearly eight and a half million.

"The big reason why the United States has lost foreign markets for cotton is that it has not been willing to sell at world market prices," he declared.

Reasons Why Electric Refrigeration Is BEST IN West Texas

- I. Dry, Hot Climate requires exceptionally low temperature in your refrigerator to properly preserve food. Only Electric Refrigeration can give equally low temperatures (around 40 degrees) in July and August the same as in January.
- II. Low Electric Rates are in effect for refrigerator users. Economy of operation, plus the simplest refrigerating mechanism ever built, plus safety from toxic fumes, safety from combustible explosives, plus multiple-cold food protection—all these combine to make electric refrigeration best suited for use in West Texas where summer months undeniably are hot and dry.

Random Reflections

By DICK COOKE

"The Donley County oil mill will definitely be built before cotton season even if the first construction does not include all we hoped," interested parties told the News today. The sale of stock is going forward rapidly with already one-fourth of the market issue taken, they said.

The liberalized old age pension bill is rather like giving a check. If there's money to your credit the check will be paid. If not its like the pension bill.

Hubert Reavis, one time Clarendon Junior College one-man track team, continues to make a name for himself in Eastern track meets. Captain of the Duke University Blue Devils, Reavis recently won praise in a Durham, North Carolina newspaper which said: "Paced by Captain Reavis, the Blue Devils out-pointed the United States Naval Academy in a dual meet last week. Reavis turned in one of the fastest one-man performances in the history of the Duke track. He ran four events, captured three of them and finished second in the other. He won the 100 and 220-yard dash low hurdles and was second in the high hurdles.

The Donley County commissioners court will meet Monday in regular session and one of the questions to be decided is whether or not Clarendon shall retain the NYA Home Residence project.

Donley County, long known as a charitable and religious center, finds the question more of a moral issue than a matter of dollars and cents. The home affords training to many needy girls which probably would otherwise be denied a right to learn a vocation.

A noted scientist recently declared that gold fish gulping and the jitterbug craze is an indication of declining mental efficiency in the North American race. In short he believes we are becoming a bit balmy.

Along with his statement he said the older the race, the higher the rate of inferior intellect.

Allen Bryan, Homer Mulkey and J. R. Gillham made a trip to Canyon Monday afternoon to investigate details of the celebration to be held there July 26, and to check with officials concerning their experience in using the ball park for a rodeo ground.

The hitch with the local program is whether or not a rodeo held in the afternoon and night at the College Field here would injure the grass enough to make it prohibitive.

We have to get in a plug for the business somewhere. Last week, Lee's Cafe ran an ice cream ad in the News and Saturday sold 40 gallons of ice cream in less than three hours.

The Rev. Orion W. Carter, former Clarendon College student and for the past four years pastor of the Memphis Methodist Church, was last week appointed pastor of the First Methodist Church in Childress. The Memphis pulpit will likely be supplied until annual Conference in November when a new pastor will be appointed.

We are not in the habit of taking potshots at the present administration, but standing on the corner the other day we overheard this one we are passing on to you.

One of the leading members of the whittlers and tobacco chewing club had just read the report of the planting of the shelter-belts in the Panhandle. "Yeah, Roosevelt made monkeys out of us Panhandle farmers and so kinda square things up with us before the election is planting us some trees to swing around in."

Garden Glances

Presented weekly by the Garden Club

"America the beautiful lies in the hands of the gardeners"

"America the beautiful lies in the hands of the gardeners". The gardeners are going to find it necessary to labor more diligently to prevent the grass having a withered appearance, and the annuals from being scraggly. These high warm winds and dry atmosphere are not promoters of fragile beauty.

One of the most colorful lawns with its intervening green mats of grass is that of the Stallings'. There has been considerable landscaping with flowers, shrubs, trees, and rocks at the Gilbert home. The annuals are very showy, and clever plot arrangements denote many hours of work. The Charles McMurtry lawn is very restful with its velvety grass and many shrubs and trees.

There is another type of hedge now, "The Bird of Paradise" which is not the botanical name, but one we all use. These hedges are gorgeous in yellow and red. They are readily seen when you pass a home where they are growing.

This is Regal Lily time and they are majestically reigning on the Weidman, Potts, Brumley and numerous other lawns. The lawn at the Methodist Church is carefully worked and very attractive. The Swift lawn and that of the Boston's are very attractive too. Perhaps the white homes with green and colorful surroundings appealed to this garden glancer. A clump of multi-colored stately hollyhocks in the back yard of the Patrick home lingered in my memory too. They are such willowy stately flowers bending in the wind.

Flowers are so companionable, and trees such comforting friends that the gardener secures happiness in their environment.

APRIL FARM CASH INCOME IN TEXAS IS $27,006,000

AUSTIN.—Texas farmers received $27,006,000 in cash income during April, a fourth more than in April last year, and nearly 4 percent above the five-year average, University of Texas business statisticians said today.

For the first four months of 1939, farm incomes have totaled $77,956,000 a gain of more than 5 per cent above the 74,127,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University Bureau of Business Research, said.

Marked differences are noted in various sections of the State, however. For the most part crop reporting districts devoted to livestock growing fared well because of heavy shipments of cattle and calves, while areas dependent largely on cotton and cotton seed as a source of income showed unfavorable comparisons.

Dr. Buechel predicted that the improvement over the corresponding periods of last year would be maintained.

PENSION BILL IS SIGNED BUT NO FUNDS AVAILABLE

POINTS ON HOW TO GET MONEY, IF THERE IS ANY, EXPLAINED

AUSTIN, June 7.—The answer to the all-important question of how to finance Texas new liberalized pension remained a problem this week after Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel signed the bill last Friday.

Here's how to get the pension money if there is any.

No. 1: Don't be impatient. Since the legislature has, as yet, provided no taxes out of which to pay pensions, there may be no money. Current pensions already are being paid out of funds the state has borrowed from a bank.

So, there is a possibility that there will be no new pensions and old pensions may be drastically cut.

The highest you can get is $30 a month, the lowest $5. The amount will be determined on a basis of your needs.

To be eligible, you must be in need, at least 65 years old and a U. S. Citizen.

You must have resided in Texas five or more years out of the last nine, not be an inmate of an institution, nor a drunkard.

You cannot own more than a homestead residence or have personal property of more than $1,500 if married or $1,000 if single.

You cannot have more than $360 in cash nor more than $1000 paid up life insurance.

You cannot have made transfer of property to qualify you for a pension as heretofore.

The fact that you might have children or other relatives able to aid you financially or otherwise will not disqualify you for a pension as heretofore.

If you think you can qualify, go to your county old age assistance Administration office Monday morning and get in line.

When it comes your time, an official will register you and give you a questionnaire which you should take home and fill out. Answer all questions carefully. When it is filled out, return it to the office. Cases will be considered in rotation as they are registered.

TREATMENT OF HAIL DAMAGED TREES GIVEN

Many people have asked for information regarding treatment of damaged shade trees, shrubs and orchards due to recent hail storms. J. F. Roseborough, horticulturist of the A & M College Extension service, says that prompt and careful action can cut down the damage to a large extent.

Where the foliage twigs and top part of the branches are destroyed, paint the damaged areas with an ordinary paint brush in the following solution: 3 gallons of water, 3 pounds of soap, 3 ounces Paris Green, 3 ounces Paradichlorobenzene, 4 ounces glue and lime to make a good paste.

This will seal the exposed parts and prevent loss of sap. In cases where larger portions of the wood is exposed, the surface should be covered with asphaltum paint after the bark has begun to heal, usually within three or four weeks.

The pruning off of damaged growth should be delayed until new sprouts have begun to come out of the branches when the proper place to make the cuts can be easily determined.

Trees that have suffered from hail damage should be watered throughout the summer whenever possible to encourage the development of foliage, the horticulturist indicated.

Mrs. Abe Cole and daughter of Amarillo were here Sunday.

ADVENTURE OVER THE ANDES!

SAVE FEED AT ITS BEST

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary Texas Breeder-Feeder Association

This is the season when the weather tells the story—will there be a corn crop or not. As everyone knows there is a critical period in which corn either makes or it doesn't. We have been in the habit of taking a crop of mullins with the best grace possible, but few tasks are more thankless than gathering a mullin crop.

Fortunately it is easy to escape that discouraging job—driving over an acre to fill the wagon, on box with corn that is mostly cob and chaff. Besides, when corn matures in the field the mullins is about all we get, while the stalks themselves—at the right stage—contain as much digestible nutrients for livestock as a crop of half-filled short ears of dry corn.

When drouth threatens to cut the corn crop short, when the lower leaves begin to "burn", when it is plain that the grain harvest will be light—then it is time to save stalk and all while it is still green enough to make good ensilage. The trench silo is the answer. It can be dug in a hurry, and cheaply, and the ensiled corn will retain all the nutritive value it had when cut.

Instead of permitting the corn to stand in the field and completely dry up, why not save stalk, foliage, grain and all in one operation?

The trench silo is not only emergency crop insurance, however; it is life insurance for the livestock. It is "production credit" to keep up the milk flow, fatten the lean kine, or merely hold normal health and vigor to growing animals through the months of drouth or cold. As such it is becoming as common on Southwestern farms as barns and corn-cribs. It is the cheapest storage known, and retains more of the digestible nutrients in the feed than any other form or method of curing and storing.

Now that the peak of crop cultivation is passing, there will be time in the next few weeks to get the trench silos ready.

The best ensilage is made by cutting the corn or sorghum after the grain hardens but before much of the foliage dries up—while the stalks themselves are still green and succulent, but not before the grain is well matured. This is one of the things we have learned since the silo boom of forty years ago—that the best ensilage is not made from immature crops, as used to be recommended. That we can make ensilage from even dry stalks by supplying enough water to saturate them and facilitate fermentation; but the natural juices of the plants are better, and the crop should be ensiled at its best.

Some other things we have learned about trench silos: The walls should not be perpendicular. The ensilage packs and keeps better in a trench with sloping walls because in settling downward it is wedged into narrow space and thus avoids shrinking away from the walls, which permits air to enter and spoil the outside of the mass. Also sloping walls are easier maintained.

The walls should be as smooth as possible in any case. Old silos in which the walls have sloughed off in places should be smoothed up before filling. This will widen the trench and increase the area of the "face" from which the daily supply is cut. The relative width and depth are not as important considerations as keeping the square footage of the face in proportion to the number of animals to be fed. Talk it over with the county agent, or your neighbor who has one, follow proven recommendations.

Present Pullman Service Won Over Rail Heads

A STRANGE twist of fate saved the fortunes of George Mortimer Pullman, founder of the sleeping car, from collapse in 1864, when he brought out his famous "Pioneer," first modern sleeper, at a cost of $20,000. Railroad men admired the car, but shook their heads at the size and construction. "Too wide for station platforms, too high for bridges," they said.

Pullman fought to alter the platforms and bridges, but his was a losing fight. When all seemed lost, tragic fate intervened. President Lincoln was assassinated April 14, 1865. The President's remains were moved in state from Washington to Springfield and, as special homage to the Emancipator, Pullman's new car was used as part of the funeral train. Bridges and platforms, accordingly, were quickly altered; and the "Pioneer" received its dedication at the solemn pageant.

Overnight the "Pioneer" became celebrated, this car of 75 years ago that was to prove the inspiration for the sleepers of today—sleepers that are carrying travelers to both the New York and San Francisco World's Fairs, as well as to every other point on the nation's map. As an incentive to visit the Fairs, the Pullman Company is conducting a contest for the naming of new Pullman cars. Fifty free round-trip tickets to either World's Fair will be awarded for the best names submitted. Names will be judged on the basis of originality, uniqueness and suitability. Entry blanks may be secured at any of the 21,000 ticket agencies throughout the country and Canada, or by writing to the Pullman Company, Chicago.

The "Pioneer," shortly after its participation in the funeral of President Lincoln, was put into service on the Chicago & Alton railroad. When General Grant decided to use it on his visit to his old home in Galena, other roads made the necessary alterations on bridges and platforms. This was the spur that Pullman needed; he proceeded to build more cars, to be owned jointly by himself and the railroads.

After thirty years as an industrial leader and philanthropist, Pullman died at Chicago, October 19, 1897. His largest bequest at the time of his death, was of $1,200,000, which established the Pullman Free School of Manual Training, with these purposes:

"That the children of those associated with him in the town of Pullman and its enterprises might be trained in the ideals of clean living, good citizenship and industrial efficiency, which were his own inspiration, and through which alone the workman might hope to attain his true development."

Care in Transplanting Saves Many Plants

WHEN REMOVING SEEDLING FROM FLAT AVOID DISTURBING ROOTS BY TAKING PLENTY SOIL WITH IT. SET SEEDLING DEEPER THAN IT WAS IN FLAT, FIRM THE SOIL AROUND IT AND GIVE SOAKING. USE BERRY BOX OR SOMETHING SIMILAR TO SHADE SEEDLING FROM DIRECT SUN.

Three Steps in Transplanting.

From the opening of the gardening season until cold weather checks out warm days, there is always more or less transplanting to do. It is an all season task whether it is annuals in spring, perennials in late season, or dividing and transplanting perennials. Careful transplanting into the garden row or border starts the plants on their way with little check. Poor transplanting will kill many of those moved.

Dig a large enough hole to spread out the roots, firm the soil carefully about the roots, soak the transplanted plants into place, and shade newly transplanted plants from hot sun for a few days. These are elemental points in successful transplanting. Another factor is that of trimming the tops to balance the root system which is bound to be somewhat disturbed and shortened in moving. This is done by trimming off half the leaves.

Mix a level tablespoonful of balanced plant food thoroughly with the soil in which the seedling is to be planted. For making holes to receive seedlings from seed rows or boxes, a dibber is the handiest tool. This is merely a steel or cast-iron rather blunt pointed instrument which you stab into the soil, give a twist, and the hole is ready for the plant. It is much faster than digging each hole with a trowel. The dibber will also be very useful for bulb planting in the fall. You need one in your garden tool kit. Observe distances carefully in transplanting. The little seedlings may look lost and lonely when put a foot apart, as in the case of zinnias, but remember the size they will attain if given a chance to do their best. It will pay and you will get more from your plants than if you crowd them so no plant can reach its best development.

Select a cloudy day if possible and also preferably a cool one to avoid the wilting of the plants. Pour a little water in the hole before you set the plant and then soak it in afterwards. The object is to get the earth in as close and perfect contact with the roots of the plant as possible so that the roots will at once begin the work of supporting the plant and starting it into renewed growth. After transplanting recovery is quickest if the plant is shaded from the hot sun for a day or so. Paper tents are easily made from newspaper, anchored with a few clods. Strawberry boxes may be saved for the purpose, as they are easily handled.

Early Christian Colony Influence Still Lingers In Clarendon

WEST, SOUTH AND NORTH CULTURES BLEND FOR RARE DISTINCTION

Editor's Note: The following historical data was gathered by Brownwood Emerson for the Pampa News. Emerson gives credit for the tale to Clyde I. Price of Clarendon, owner of the copy right of Willie Newbury Lewis' book "Between Sun and Sod," who courteously granted permission for the source and brief description and to an interview with J. D. Stocking.

If ever there was a Plains town that aptly deserved mention as one that has an entirely distinctive atmosphere, that town is Clarendon. Clarendon is a bit of puritanism transplanted, to which has been added the tang of the west and the charm of the Old South. One is tempted to use the word "old-fashioned" but that would connote that the town has had its day. Clarendon is far from the past tense. As the county seat of Donley county, Clarendon has a population of 2,756, has cotton gins, a chick hatchery, and is the principal commercial center and shipping point. Cotton production in the county ranges from 10,000 to 25,000 bales a year, and the production of other crops is hay, 25,000 tons; sweet potatoes, 5,000 bushels; grain sorghums, 200,000 bushels.

More than a thousand cool, clear springs and an abundant supply of underground water are found in the county. Despite all the advances of time and the inevitable change of customs, the influences of Lewis Henry Carhart and of the group of northern Methodists that founded "Saint's Roost" ancestor of today's Clarendon, is still apparent. Culture, education, church—these keynote the Clarendon of today as well as they did in the 80's. There is none of the boisterous brawling West in Clarendon's story, as there is in Tascosa and Mobeetie, although naturally enough the old west has left its imprint.

How could it be otherwise, with the famous JA Ranch right in its own back yard, and the figure of Charles Goodnight, the Daniel Boone of the plains, often dominating many an anecdote connected with the history of the town? It is a rich and multi-colored panorama of Plains history that has centered in Clarendon.

Into the picture there comes prominently into view such names as Lewis Henry Carhart, the man who had a genius for leadership, and whose ambition was to found a colony with temperance and churches and schools. The first Clarendon, the town the cowboys nicknamed "Saint's Roost" was located on a flat lying near the junction of Carroll creek and Salt Fork. This location is eight miles northwest of the present town. An historical marker has been erected along highway 18, 1 1/2 miles from the site of the old town.

Carhart, the guiding genius of the colony, was a graduate of Northwestern University and of the Garrett Biblical institute. Assigned to Arkansas as a trial preacher in 1866, he made rapid progress and 1877 found him in Texas presiding over the Denison district and in charge of the Sherman pastorate.

Carhart possessed good looks, charm of manner, and affection for people. As soon as he settled in Sherman he undertook to promote the building of the first brick church in town. Later he Went on a tour for the immigration board at Austin to lecture in the north of the benefits of a state where the sun never failed to shine. All this zeal culminated eventually in the establishment of Clarendon, on October 1, 1878, named in honor of Carhart's wife.

GO AHEAD... GET TOUGH!

All of the colonists acquired land and many of them settled on sections out from town among others the Hassers, Stammers, Wagners, and the Holdens. Donley county was organized in 1882, with Clarendon as the county seat. At that time the county had a population of only 175. On April 11, Judge Emanuel Dubbs, the former buffalo hunter of Mobeetie, swore in the first officers; G. A. Brown, judge; H. B. White, treasurer; Jim Otey, Tax assessor; J. H. Parks, surveyor; Charles Goodnight, Leigh Dyer, and S. B. Nall, commissioners.

It was not many years later until the Fort Worth & Denver extended its line west from Wichita Falls, and old Clarendon moved to the new location on the railroad. The new town enjoyed the advantages of being a railroad terminal for several years and shops were located there, but all this ceased about 1902 when the roundhouse was destroyed by fire.

Though old Clarendon has disappeared its influence still marks the new town. There's Clarendon's college, whose sponsoring spirit was W. A. Allen, a refined, scholarly gentleman who in 1884 founded an institution known as the Allentown academy.

Clarendon was the location for one of the first, if not the first, Episcopal churches in the Panhandle. At one time, also there was a Catholic school and convent located here.

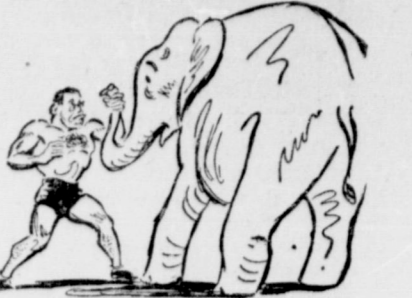

Among the many interesting articles in the collection of J. D. Stocking, pioneer Clarendon druggist who has had his store in the same location since 1885, is a copy of an election called in Clarendon in March 1889 to determine whether pigs should be permitted to run at large in the town. There being more hog owners than the opposing faction, the pigs were not restricted, Mr. Stocking says.

Names Mr. Stocking links with early Clarendon history include those of Harry Gass, Ben Chamberlain, Harry Jefferson, Tom Arlington, Tom Martindale, W. H. Oliver, Ralph Jefferson, postmaster, George S. Suddith, a one-arm stage driver, George W. Graham, Roy Carhart, Morris Rosenfield.

Space does not permit other than a brief sketch of a few facts concerning Clarendon in this article. The most complete and best story on Clarendon as well as the Panhandle in general is to be found in Willie Newbury Lewis' excellent book, "Between Sun and Sod," illustrated by H. D. Bugbee, Clarendon artist, and copyrighted in 1938 by Clyde I. Price, of Clarendon, historian and collector of Texana.

Arrangement of the book, its excellent literary style, and the complete picture it presents of the entire Panhandle scene, stamps it an outstanding contribution to Texas literature.
