"HAPPY BIRTHDAY"

Duluth, Minn., Publicity: "The U.S. income tax was 47 years old Feb. 25. Does anyone want to sing 'Happy Birthday' to celebrate the joyous occasion?"

"When it was born in 1913, few people foresaw how the tax would grow. It started with a nibble of one to six per cent. Now it gobbles 20 to 91 per cent. "The result has been to eat up savings and capital and stunt the growth of the national economy."

"BEST IN 300 STORES. IN 27 STATES"

This is the heading of a clipping from the Phoenix, Arizona, paper and it refers to the daughter of W. B. Ayers of this city, naming Mrs. Audrey Agnes Morris as the top saleslady for 1959. The award given her is a week's all-expense paid trip to New York with round-trip airplane flight.

She and her husband, Emory Morris, who is Ass't. Manager of Anthony's live at 2927 N. 53rd Drive, Mr. Cox, store manager, says Mrs. Morris is a very fine person; her devotion to her job and sales ability have been a tremendous factor in the growth of their new store in Phoenix.

Shelby, Mont., Promoter: "There are probably child TV viewers who... believe that the human head is divided into three rooms, one with a hammer pounding away and another shooting sparks; that the human stomach is made of glass with a long crooked tube leading into it; that the stomach has a cute little trap door that lets the good 'B's' out and keeps the 'bad' aspirins in."

BAGBY MOTEL

AUSTIN — Texas politicians have been finding it hard to make hay with no sun shining.

A number of statewide candidates are stumping the state, and legislative contenders are getting invitations to speak at rallies and before special groups.

But bad weather and the unaccustomed earliness of this year's election schedule have made it harder for most to get campaign rolling.

Legislative candidates report they are most often quizzed on whether they favor (1) a teacher pay raise and (2) a general sales tax. "Yes" to the first and "no" to the second are generally regarded as safest answers. But many old hands have misgivings, feeling that the two commitments together may put them in a hard situation come the next session.

AMENDMENT LINE-UP — In the hoopla of a presidential campaign year, amendments to the Texas constitution probably will get only secondary attention, though they are of vital importance to all Texans.

Four are to be voted on by the people at the general election Nov. 8. Their order on the ballot, as determined by a drawing conducted by Secretary of State

Zollie Steakley, will be:
1. An amendment authorizing the Legislature to create a hospital district in Lamar and Hidalgo Counties and part of Comanche County.

2. An amendment authorizing the Veterans Land Board to issue bonds at 3½ per cent interest instead of the present 3 per cent maximum.

3. An amendment giving members of the Legislature annual salaries of $4,800 a year and $12 per day allowances for a 120-day session. Sessions could go no longer than 140 days.

4. An amendment authorizing the Legislature to license and regulate lenders and fix maximum rates of interest.

SCHOOL COSTS JUMP — A baby boom in the fifties means soaring school bills in the sixties, as indicated by the State Board of Education's 1960-61 estimate.

Board reported that cost of Texas public school program for next year will be $365,000,000. This is an increase of some $15,000,000 over the previous year.

Reason for the rise is more children — requiring more teachers, more books, more desks, etc. Total enrollment for next year is expected to be 2,254,574, an increase of more than a half million since the 1954-55 year.

Counties will have to pay $73,080,000, or 20 per cent of the $365,000,000 total cost.

"SLEEPY VILLAGES" GO BIG TIME — Twenty-one small Texas towns mushroomed into cities during the fifties.

Texas Municipal League reported on towns that had grown 150 per cent or more — some as much as 1,617 per cent.

Twelve of the 21 big growers are towns near to one of Texas' three largest cities — Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth. Topping the list with runaway expansion were three Dallas County towns. — Irving, up 1,617 per cent; Mesquite, up 1,323 per cent and Farmers Branch, up 1,211 per cent.

Industrialization was the key to the spectacular growth of most of the 21. In a number of cases, the coming of a single large plant started the boom rolling.

TEACHER FUND GROWS —

Texas' teachers retirement fund has increased more than 35 per cent in the past decade, according to State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

Cavness reported that at the end of the last fiscal year the fund stood at $389,341,289. This is $140,000,000 more than 10 years ago.

Teachers pay 6 per cent of their earnings up to $8,400 into the fund. State matches their payments.

Fund provides for a minimum of $100 per month retirement pay for teachers and $75 a month for other school employees. To make the fund grow, it is invested in municipal, state and federal bonds and certain corporate securities under supervision of a board of trustees.

ATOMIC DISPOSAL HIT — Water pollution from atomic waste materials could pose a real threat to public health, fish and wildlife in Texas, said Gov. Price Daniel.

Daniel praised the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas for their concern over a proposal made at one time to dump concrete containers of low-grade radioactive waste materials in the Gulf of Mexico.

State Health Department, said the governor, keeps a continuous check on the state's surface waters for atomic pollution from fallout.

NEED FOR ECONOMY CITED — Need for the next Legislature to raise between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 in new tax revenue has been predicted by the director of the Texas Research League.

Alvin A. Burger, head of the private organization which studies state government, said state spending will require $1,000,000,000 a year in the 1961-63 biennium.

Burger urged careful analysis of the highway, education and welfare programs which take 85 per cent of the state budget.

As a money saver, he recommended taking the cost of maintaining farm-to-market roads out of the farm road funds. At present, this money can be used only for new construction, and farm road repair has to be paid out of other highway funds.

He suggested school consolidation as another avenue for economy. County governments, he said, need reorganization to eliminate duplication and problems in the efficient handling of money.

CAR INSPECTIONS DUE — Drivers without a green Texas-shaped sticker on their car windshields are advised to stop by an inspection station the first pretty day.

Department of Public Safety estimates that only about half of the 4,300,000 vehicles in Texas have had their 1960 inspection. Deadline is April 15. Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director suggests that the trip be made soon, before the lines get long.

ECONOMIST TAKES A LOOK AT COTTON SITUATION

College Station — The cotton supply in the United States during the current season, August 1, 1959, to July 1, 1960, is estimated at 23.7 million bales, about 3.4 million over that of 1958-59.

One reason for the increase in supply, said John McHaney, extension economist, is that the 1959 crop was about 3.3 million bales over 1958 because of larger acreage and a record yield of 474 pounds per acre. The larger acreage was due to the ending of the acreage reserve program which took five million acres of cotton land out of production in 1958. The Choice B support program also increased the supply in that it added about one million acres to 1959 allotments.

Of the 15 million bale disappearance expected during 1959-60, exports are expected to be about 5.6 million bales, double that of last season. One reason for this increase in exports is a decline in foreign free world production. The economist said even though the foreign production decline is estimated to be only two percent of 1958-59 production, such a decline alone could mean an increase in U. S. exports of about 14 percent over last year. This, he emphasized, illustrates what can happen in the long run if U. S. prices are maintained at relatively low levels. Other reasons for the export increase are an increase in cotton consumption and relatively low cotton stocks in the foreign free world.

Domestic consumption of cotton during 1959-60 is expected to be about 9 million bales compared to 8.7 million a year earlier due to a higher level of economic activity and the replenishment of the low level stock of textiles. The economist pointed out that the lower cotton prices may have also stimulated consumption to some extent. However, the effect of prices on cotton consumption is usually a long-term factor. He noted also that the minimum prices stipulated by the current price support program should help the future competitive position of cotton. Research and promotion, however, will have to continue their part in the future, along with lower prices at domestic mills for cotton. McHaney added that competition from man-made fibers continues strong and could be stronger if cotton prices were higher.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moss Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Traylor and children of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hill and Tony, Mr. and Mrs. Rhubert Johnson and children, Mrs. W. G. Johnson and Virgil, all of Hedley.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Scott Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Scott and Cheryle, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Scott, Glenda and Connie, Mr. and Mrs. Don Barker, all of Amarillo.

YOUR TAX BILL
How much money in taxes will the average man pay between now and age 65?

Frank R. Ford has figured out the answer, in an article which appeared originally in the New York World-Telegram and The Sun and has been condensed in Reader's Digest.

This average man is 29 years old, makes a little under $100 a week, and has a wife, two children, a low-priced car and a mortgaged home.

In the next 36 years, says Mr. Ford, he can expect to pay $47,221 in taxes. That amounts to $25.23 a week — or more than 25 per cent of his income.

Federal income taxes are the biggest single item. Even so, they come to but 44 per cent of the total. The balance consists of social security taxes, real estate taxes, personal property taxes, taxes on gasoline and tires, sales taxes, state income taxes, and so on.

To cap the climax, Mr. Ford emphasizes that the figures are conservative — for they don't take into consideration future tax increases. And the way things are going, increases seem as certain as tomorrow morning.

What it amounts to is that the average man puts in a quarter of his working time in behalf of the government. Then, what money he has left has been ravaged by inflation.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Allison and family of Midland visited the week end with his mother, Mrs. J. L. Allison.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beverly and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kunz visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bell at Turkey.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Edgett are the proud parents of a baby girl born March 22nd in Adair Hospital here. She weighed 6½ pounds and was given the name Gwendolyn Ann Edgett.

He is now a senior art student at West Texas State College at Canyon and was presented in a one-man showing of paintings and drawings Sunday in the Fine Arts Building of the College.

Don has great ability of feeling and an honest vitality and can go a long way with his painting with encouragement."

The exhibition is open to the public and will run for several weeks.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Fish Pond Improvement
More ponds are being built in the Donley County Soil Conservation District than ever before. And with ponds people naturally think of fish. With fish the means of producing and stocking these fish is important.

All existing fish should be removed before restocking is attempted. If the pond is new this removal wouldn't apply. The undesirable fish can be removed by treating with three pounds of five percent rotenone per surface acres a few weeks before hatchery fish are to be delivered.

Kinds and amount of fish to stock depends. A combination of largemouth bass and bluegill could be used. Channel catfish may be added in addition to the above. If only one species is planned to be stocked then channel catfish would be the species to use.

There are a number of things to look for in selecting a pond for stocking: (1) The pond should be larger than one-fourth acre. (2) The average deep section of the pond should be at least ten feet. (3) Trees and shrubs should be removed from pond area during construction. (4) The watershed should not be highly erodible.

Management of the pond could be largely taken care of application of fertilizer. If started early enough this should keep down the growth of submerged weeds. Also this will help the growth of the young fish.

Pond scum can be controlled by the application of from two to four pounds of copper sulfate (bluestone) for each acre foot of water.

Fishing should normally start sometime after the fish have spawned. This can be indicated by the presence of small bass, bream, etc. After this there should be no restriction as to the size or number of fish to be taken out. If the fish are big enough to clean then take them out.

If interested further in fish pond improvement either contact the Soil Conservation Service, any member of the Soil Conservation District Board, or the County Agent. Any of the above will be glad to help you further concerning this.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

CIVIL RIGHTS

The House of Representatives last week commenced the debate on a bill generally called "the Civil Rights Bill". Actually, the "popular name" adopted for this measure was not intended to set forth in a brief statement the purposes of the bill. The major purpose in choosing that title was to use something which would be appealing to the innate sense of fairness in the American people; something which would be inviting to the extent that the people generally would not take too much interest in the "small print" so often referred to. This approach is not different from the approach which has been used by the advocates of centralized government and advocates of world government for the past several years. These proponents were not making sufficient headway in approaching the problem by trying to sell the merits of centralized government in the United States and world government on an international basis, to the people of this country. Hence, they hit upon the idea of progress by the use of catchy phrases and instead of talking about the encroachment of the Federal government on the rights which had so long been exercised by the several States, or talking about replacing the dual sovereignty form of government with a single all-powerful force in Washington, D.C., or talking about subjecting the people of this country to the government of a court or legislative body made up of people from many foreign countries, they started talking about civil rights, world law, world peace and order, Commission on Human Rights, protection of the weak, economic development, Federal aid in all facets of the economy, under various pleasing titles. They realized that they were not going to be able to put over the world government theory on the American people or to usurp the rights of the States, all in one fell swoop. So, in conjunction with their new sugar-coated approach, they also conceived the idea of proceeding with their program on an item-by-item basis. In short, they are adopting the same plan in politics which has proven so successful in military operations. That is, the "divide and conquer" theory. The program works this way: If a group of people in one geographical area of the United States are opposed to the complete package of centralized government because of their traditional belief in "States' rights," they have been approached on a conciliatory basis of giving to these people in the first instance those segments of the overall program such as Federal aid in several economic areas, and foregoing any of the distasteful portions of the overall program. But what the people in these geographical areas fail to realize is that the world order advocates are only foregoing these distasteful parts of the program temporarily. Next year they will be back with more demands and will expect to make a settlement by giving up some of their demands and gaining perhaps only a few. The danger is that each year there is a gain; whether it's large or small, they plan on the gain. By this method they can keep up a constant pressure and thereby wear down the opposition. That is exactly the plan which has been utilized in this so-called civil rights bill. No one, to my knowledge, denies or wants to deny any loyal American citizen the right to vote and I daresay that a bill guaranteeing this right and confining the measure to that particular principle would pass the Congress by unanimous consent, if such legislation were necessary. In fact, if the so-called civil rights bills had been limited to the voting right question, there would have been no filibuster in the Senate and no long delay in the committees in the House.

CHILDREN

Now to another subject and some statistics which may not be particularly helpful, but they are indicative and informative. The White House Conference on Children and Youth has just released a report reflecting the following statistics. Families are larger — 58 percent of the children are now in families of three or more children. Seven States now have 44 percent of the children under eighteen. Incidentally, Texas is listed as one of the seven States having the greatest child population. More children are going to school longer. On the other side of the ledger, we find that juvenile delinquency is still rising, that gaps in programs for delinquents are wide, that city slums still provide one of the worst environments for children, although the poorest housing is in rural areas and small cities. There are many other pertinent facts, but space in this newsletter will not permit them to be listed.

BLOWIN' Out the CORNERS
by Uncle Zeb

Castro needs his pills without any "Sugar-coating." Each of you that have passed the draft age can remember how they used to sweeten up everything from turpentine to castor oil with sugar in order to make the old home remedies possible to swallow. After growing up we were given the regular bitter pills and were supposed to be able to take them. We have been favoring Cuba with "Sweetening" in the sugar market to the harm and detriment of our own sugar producers. If he and his country are grown-up enough to do all this "Sassy talk" then both he and Cuba are big enough to take their pills without any sugar-coating.

Some seem to fear if we take the sweetening out of our loving favors to Castro, that he will turn to his other woo'er, the communists. This seems to be a calculated risk that we must take but it seems more acceptable to our self-respect than being played for a sucker. You can't buy real friendship with money, much less true love.

Mr. Castro reminds us of a spoiled brat that has lost all confidence in everybody but his hero, Mr. Himself. Most dictators rise to power on a wave of hate and destruction. Once there at the top they try to stay by keeping alive some common bitterness and hate.

If we would be a little more independent with our affection for the real people in Cuba might wake up to the fact that they do need friends. After all Mr. Castro does not need any more enemies, as someone remarked recently, he does have himself. And when you have yourself for an enemy, you seldom have any desire for a friend.

The postal rate increase seems unfair and uncalled for to us, and we are against it teeth and toenail. In the first place we are just now getting reconciled to the last raise. To be right honest, we haven't.

We heard of the conservative old gentlemen that forked over a dollar to his wayward son for spending money and when he was back for more the next week he wanted to know what happened to the other gift. The idea is not the same but we would like to know what happened to the income from the last hike.

Sen. Olin Johnston, chairman of the senate post office committee says that the first class letter service is already paying 25% more than the actual cost on the 4-cent basis. This amount would jump to 50% over with a 1-cent hike.

Any greater cost on a letter than the actual expense of getting it to the destination becomes a tax on the mother or the sweetheart that is writing to their boy in service. To make the letter service bear the cost of magazines, letters from congressmen, newspapers or any other part of the program could be nothing short of a tax on one segment of the people.

Our founding fathers thought that all the people should have the benefit of papers, magazines, and other sources of information. It was thought to be for our good, and became a public service to the people. If they were right then, it is still alright today, and there could be no more wrong in that than in spending public money on health.

No, it just looks like another sneak attack on the pocketbooks of we tax-payers by people who think that taxes and debts can only go one direction, and that is up. We're agin' it.

Self-Denial has become a trait that few of us practice, and what is more tragic almost none of us teach to our children. To think our family should have everything that other folks get has become a common denominator in most of our financial planning. That our children should be given the frills and thrills equal to those given by any parents among our acquaintances has become not only a goal but a must.

On the surface it sounds like a noble dedication and worth not only working hard to achieve, but also going in debt to the hilt for. We tell ourselves our children are the best in all the town, and they certainly should be, to us. We reason that they will be young only once and that we owe them the best and the most of everything from entertainment to luxuries. It is easy to see how we completely sell ourselves on the idea to the point that the ultimate result is forgotten.

There are some very important outgrowths that we need to consider. We cherish our pioneer families, not only because they blazed a trail but for their ruggedness and self-denial during their active years. This not only made security for them but also for the children. We are thankful later on for every lesson in thriftiness that we remembered. It helped us when the chips were down, and down they will come sometime.

Someday our children will be awakened from the dream world we have built around them. We need to weigh carefully whether the used up memory of some popular frill will be more valuable than remembered lessons in Self-Denial along with a reasonable amount of stable and planned security.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas adults by the thousands are going back to school this year.

Their object: to learn what nuclear warfare could mean to the country and what they can do to better their chances of surviving it.

Texas Education Agency and the State Division of Defense and Disaster Relief are co-sponsors of the civil defense adult education program. Since the program got under way late last year, 2,816 persons over the state have taken the free 12-hour course. Another 1,295 persons are attending 66 classes now in progress, and 150 new classes are due to begin this month.

Classes are held at public schools and taught by public school and junior college teachers who have been trained and certified by TEA's civil defense staff.

Seven new teacher training workshops are scheduled within the next few weeks. Eventual goal is to have civil defense classes in or near every Texas community.

Course material ranges from study of the effects of a nuclear bomb and probable capabilities of hostile powers to step-by-step instructions for personal survival preparedness.

Persons interested in having the course in their communities may contact their local school superintendent or write Civil Defense Education Director, Texas Education Agency, Austin.

NO SESSION BEFORE PRIMARY — Gov. Price Daniel said he will not call a special legislative session to raise teacher pay before May 7 — the first primary date.

Conferences with lawmakers have convinced him, said the governor, that there is no hope of a successful session during the coming eight weeks.

However, the governor said he may call a session after the May 7 primary or submit the school improvement program as an emergency measure at the 1961 regular session. If he waits until 1961, Daniel said he would recommend an increased program to make up for money lost by delay.

Many observers have noted that a special session after the first primary election would pose many problems. As much as 25 to 30 per cent of the House could be made up of "lame ducks" — persons retiring from office or defeated at the poll. Incumbent legislators with run-off races would not want to leave their home districts to come to Austin.

Teachers would prefer to have the matter submitted at a special session. Regular session rules require that the budget be provided for before new spending can be considered. Last year approval of the budget was just about the last thing before adjournment.

ACCIDENT STUDY — A new study indicates that motor vehicles and heart attacks or similar difficulties were involved in more than half of Texas' fatal industrial accidents in the last fiscal year.

Industrial Accident Board reported on an analysis of 23,000 accident claims. In the group studied, it found that fatal accidents were most often connected with motor vehicle, 28 per cent; heart disease, 26 per cent; slips and falls, 10 per cent; striking or being struck by an object, 7 per cent.

Altogether, in the last fiscal year, the Board processed claims resulting from 195,000 non-fatal accidents and 497 deaths.

Annual cost of industrial accidents is estimated at $500,000,000 a year. Board plans to make an accident analysis every year to information for planning improvement programs.

UTILITY PAYMENTS AVAILABLE — Cities and private utility companies can now get reimbursement for money spent moving utility lines to make way for new interstate highways.

State Highway Commission said it is now ready to begin making payments under a law that was held constitutional by the State Supreme Court earlier this year.

Cost of the utility moving, as well as construction costs for the interstate system, comes 90 per cent from federal funds, 10 per cent from state funds.

BRIDLE PATHS CONTESTED — Whether a person owning grazing rights in a state park area can bar the public from riding horseback in that area is at issue before the Supreme Court.

High court is to hear arguments March 30 stemming from a dispute over use of the Davis Mountains State Park.

Trial court upheld the right of the grazing lease holders to lock out horseback riders while the lease is in effect. Court of Civil Appeals held that riders should be kept out at least nine months of the year.

State contends that if a public park in locked, it is no longer any good as a public park and that any lease is predicated on this assumption.

BOMB LAW ATTACKED — A law prohibiting possession of a bomb or conspiracy to bring about a bombing is under attack in a case before the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Defendant in the case is accused of having masterminded a bombing of the premises of a non-striking employe of a Dallas industrial plant during a union walk-out. Two persons who were convicted of having thrown the bomb in the victim's driveway said they were carrying out the defendant's instructions.

Attorney for the defendant called "dangerous" a law that makes it a felony to possess items from which a bomb could be made.

CRIME TOLL MOUNTS — An average day in Texas sees 3 murders, 3 rapes, 7 robberies, 32 aggravated assaults, 43 automobiles stolen, 266 thefts other than automobiles and 125 burglaries.

This is the end result of a crime increase that in the past ten years has brought a 73.2 jump in crime while the population increased only 24.4 per cent.

Department of Public Safety announced that in all categories, crime in 1959 was up 3.9 per cent from the previous year. Largest gain was in aggravated assault — up 22 per cent. Only robbery showed a decline.

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

Ed Koterba (our favorite Washington correspondent) says; we have a new parasitical germ which feeds mainly on the taxpayers dollars, that is eating away on Capitol Hill. In fact has eaten away two-thirds of all the rooms in the two Senate Buildings. This germ is known as "Committee." This year they will cost us $3,500,000. They now have committees to investigate committee's.

We had our name placed on the mailing list of Mr. Clark W. Thompson of the state's ninth congressional district, now the Rice news is flooding in. It started out innocently enough, we are interested in the Family Farms staying in existence and understood Mr. Thompson was also. His title's on the correspondence we received read something like this: He is a member of the House Agriculture Committee, chairman on the Rice committee, also one of his own making, Chairman of the Family Farm Sub-committee.

Now we have all this information on the plight of the rice growers down Galveston way, a report on Family Farms, put out in August of 1956, with directions in setting up committee's on the local level.

After diligently studying all this, on the last page he suggested a man should head this committee. Oh well, we didn't care so much about it any way, especially after George said: they have rice in China also, without committee's but couldn't see as how it was helping the price of cotton in Donley County. Don't do away with this information yet, he added; after all this snow melts and the rainy season yet to come, we may have to change to rice growing.

The week of March 20 through 26 is National Wildlife Week throughout the United States. The week is sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation and various State Affiliates. Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas sponsor the event in Texas.

The theme for National Wildlife Week this year is WATER. Water is one of our most common natural resources, yet one of the most valuable. Water has been caught in the squeeze of expanding population, industrial uses, and agricultural uses. Many communities face critical shortages that stem directly from our own wasteful abuses.

There are many ways in which water has suffered from mistreatment: pollution caused by dumping wastes from our homes and industries into streams, lakes and tidewaters; drainage and filling of wetland areas; destruction of forest and farm lands through practices that allow top soils to be washed away; depletion of natural stream flows and underground water supplies; wasteful practices in homes and industries, and ill-advised development of streams by dams that destroy irreplaceable outdoor recreation places and other land assets. Every abuse that we impose upon our life-giving resources — soils, forests, grasslands, wildlife — further depletes our supplies of usable water. And since each of these occurs because of the way people mistreat their lands, it must be the people who correct them.

The Donley County Soil Conservation District has been working toward water conservation along with soil conservation, since the District was started. According to C. B. Morris, Chairman of the District Board of Supervisors, the SCD is glad to have the opportunity to use National Wildlife Week to stress water conservation in the District.

GABIE BETTS BURTON LIBRARY NOTES

EDITH BARNES

Two different writers have made statements that should make each of us stop and think. The first: "In England 55 per cent of the people regularly read books while the figure here is only 17 per cent." The other, that we in America think it smart to resist any kind of learning and often brag about the fact since we finished school we never crack a book. If this is true it is time we dusted off a statement made by H. G. Wells some time ago: "Education is running a race against catastrophe." Also begin to know that the intellectual is no longer a person for us to make jokes about. We are learning already that the love of good books, music, paintings, etc., doesn't make that person a "sissy," nor do you have to have the I.Q. of a genius nor a long string of college degrees to appreciate these good things in life.

Anyone who has ever read Mark Twain, and who hasn't, will enjoy his "Autobiography." He doesn't spare himself nor any of the people he didn't like (he thought Brete Hart was an awful stinker). Early in the book he warns the reader when he says and I quote: "When I was younger I could remember anything, whether it happened or not." Mark Twain could write about anyone at any age as though he was that particular person. Yet in his dealings with people he was as naive and trusting as a baby. He was taken in and fleeced so often he probably lost count of the times. Because of this he was not only broke but thousands of dollars in debt at the advanced age of 58. He wrote a book and went on a world lecture tour. In three and a half years his manager was able to cable him to come home that he had not only paid his creditors one hundred per cent on the dollar but he had over eighteen thousand dollars free and clear in his own bank account. He could have so easily taken the bankruptcy law and left his creditors holding the bag, but that wasn't his way of doing things. Before he went broke he had already sworn off putting any more money in inventions as he had lost on everyone of them, so when he had a chance to buy a bucketful of stock for a little of nothing in Alexander Graham Bell's telephone company he turned it down flat. You are almost sure to love Mark Twain and his "Autobiography."

Infectious Hermit Crabs
Few living men have seen so much history, both as participant and observer, as Herbert Hoover.

The other day he spoke before a religious group. He pointed out that Marxist thinking was plaguing the country, and that "more leaders of the Christian faiths need to realize the ultimate end of this infection among us."

Then he made a memorable observation: "The real meaning and purpose of socialism is the governmental operation of all commerce and industry and the reduction of life to pure materialism."

"This infection creeps through our nation by deluded and misled men and by disguised organizations, fronts and cults. These agents of infection are like hermit crabs which crawl into such terms as 'liberal,' 'progressive,' 'public electric power,' 'managed economy,' 'the welfare state,' and a half-dozen others."

Soil and water conservation leaders here are looking forward to issuance of the world's first water conservation postage stamp by the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C., C. B. Morris, Chairman of the Donley Soil Conservation District Board, said today.

The commemorative 4-cent stamp, printed in 3 colors, will be issued April 18 at the National Watershed Congress in the national capital at a ceremony featuring three cabinet members, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, Interior Secretary Fred

A. Seaton, and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

The stamp will go on sale on the following day, April 19, at other post offices throughout the country, including those at Clarendon and Hedley.

"The beautiful new stamp dramatizes the fact that water is today our most precious and most limiting natural resource," Morris said. The stamp is being released at the Seventh National Watershed Congress, Morris pointed out, because of the influence of upstream land treatment and small dams in small watersheds on our water supplies.

This Congress, he said, brings together each year representatives of 30 or more agricultural and conservation organizations concerned with water problems in the nation's small watersheds. Mr. Morris said local observance of the water conservation stamp's issuance is being planned.
