Annual Health, Wealth Fair set for April 28

Donley County Extension is hosting its annual Health and Wealth Fair in Clarendon on April 28 at the Bairfield Activity Center.

This is the seventh year for this event in the community. Last year, it was determined that the public had over $32,000 in health and financial services offered.

Each year, health conditions needing immediate medical attention are brought to the attention of fair goers as a result of the health screens. Since this is an important service to the Panhandle, encourage others who may not be aware of it to attend.

There is still booth space available for vendors. For information, call MaryRuth Bishop at 874-2141.

County livestock show board to meet April 18

The Donley County Junior Livestock Show Board will be holding a meeting on April 18, 2005, 7 p.m. at the Hedley Ag Department.

The board members would like to extend an invitation to all community members who would like to suggest changes or ideas for the 2006 Donley County Jr. Livestock Show. It is the goal of the board to provide a quality educational opportunity for all 4-H and FFA youth participants and encourage the growth of community support.

Little League to hold Tailgate Party Friday

Clarendon Little League will have a tailgate party on Friday, April 15, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. during the Lady Bronco softball game with Quanah.

Hamburgers, chips, drink, and a dessert will be available for $5.00. To go meals will also be available.

Lioness Club to hold fundraiser dinner

The Hedley Lioness Club will be having a home cooked Sunday dinner fundraiser on May 22, 2005, at the Lion's Den in Hedley beginning at 11:30 a.m.

This fundraiser will enable the Lioness Club to repair the roof on their building, which is leaking and ruining the floats that are stored there for the Cotton Festival.

They will serve roast and gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, corn, salad, roll, dessert, and a drink for $5.00 per plate.

Howardwick Club will meet this Friday night

The Howardwick Friendship Club will meet on Friday, April 15, at 6:30 p.m. at Howardwick City Hall.

Everyone is invited to attend. Bring a dish for potluck and visit with neighbors.

Mutual Energy seeks to raise fuel charges

AUSTIN – Mutual Energy SPP (ME SPP), has filed a request with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT) to reconcile fuel costs and increase fuel factors for electricity customers in the west Texas counties of Childress, Collingsworth, Donley, Hall, and Wheeler.

The request was filed because the existing fuel factors have not been met and currently do not meet the market price of natural gas used to generate electricity. Consequently, ME SPP has requested permission to increase the fuel factors used in calculating the total electricity bill and to recover through a surcharge the approximately $1.6 million (including interest) in fuel costs not collected from January to December 2004.

If the request to increase fuel factors is approved as requested, the new fuel factors would go into effect in June. Residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month would see their average monthly bill increase approximately $11.07, according to a public notice in this week's ENTERPRISE.

The beginning of the surcharge is timed to follow expiration in October of an existing $3.52 monthly surcharge from the last fuel reconciliation. A second existing surcharge for $3.84 per month will expire in January 2006. That surcharge was for the final fuel reconciliation when the area was served by West Texas Utilities.

The expiration of the two existing surcharges will offset the proposed fuel factor change and proposed surcharge by approximately $7.36 for residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month.

If the surcharge request is approved as requested, residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a month would see their monthly bill increase approximately $11.50 beginning in November 2005 and continuing through December

If the fuel factor increase and the surcharge are approved as requested, the price of electricity will increase from an average 10.9 cents per kilowatt-hour to an average price of 13.1 cents per kilowatt-hour. Even at the increased price, customers will be paying prices comparable to those paid by customers of WTU Retail Energy.

This is the second fuel factor adjustment that ME SPP has requested since January 2002. By comparison, WTU Retail Energy has increased its fuel factor four times during the same period of time.

ME SPP serves the approximately 7,200 customers in the five west Texas counties because they are located in the Southwest Power Pool, which has not yet begun retail electric competition.

ME SPP is a subsidiary of American Electric Power (AEP). AEP owns more than 36,000 megawatts of generating capacity in the United States and is the nation's largest electricity generator.

AEP is also one of the largest electric utilities in the United States, with more than 5 million customers linked to AEP's 11-state electricity transmission and distribution grid. The company is based in Columbus, Ohio.

Rural development to be forum's focus

Bryan Daniel, State Director for Texas USDA Rural Development, announced last week a series of statewide forums to present communities with information on the many programs available from USDA Rural Development.

The forums will be open to all current customers, prospective customers, and all other interested individuals and entities.

The forum for Armstrong, Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Donley, and Hall Counties will be held Wednesday, April 20, 2005, at 10:00 a.m. at Clarendon College Bairfield Activity Center.

The session will feature a presentation and discussion of all USDA Rural Development programs, including both direct and guaranteed lending opportunities for rural utilities, community facilities, business and industry, single family, and multi-family housing.

"USDA Rural Development is committed to making its programs and services available to all rural Texans, including individuals, small businesses, municipalities, community based organizations, and traditionally underserved portions of the population. Through its support of sustainable development of communities, USDA Rural Development works to improve the quality of life in rural Texas," said Daniel.

USDA Rural Development's mission is to increase economic opportunity and improve the quality of life in rural communities throughout Texas. Through the numerous programs offered by USDA Rural Development, communities can improve the flow of capital to businesses and address the essential needs of housing, water, education, and health care.

There is no cost to attend, and all interested individuals are invited. To learn more or to make reservations to attend the forum, call USDA Rural Development in Amarillo at 468-8600 Ext. 4.

Sales tax revenue increases

AUSTIN – Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn said last week that the state received $1.2 billion in sales tax revenue in March, a two percent increase compared to March 2004.

Local sales tax revenues also continue to grow across the state, and the City of Clarendon is on the plus side of the column for the first time this calendar year with a 14.88 percent increase for March and sales tax receipts of $17,082.49 up from $14,869.02.

The good news puts Clarendon just slightly ahead – by 0.63 percent for collections for the year to date.

Howardwick was also up slightly by 1.89 percent for an allocation of $799.33, but Hedley was down by more than 23 percent to $377.51.

Comptroller Strayhorn sent April sales tax allocations of $211.7 million to Texas cities, up 6.3 percent compared to April 2004. Calendar year-to-date, city sales tax allocations are running nearly 7 percent higher than last year.

Enterprise wins regional press association awards

THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE received six first place plaques in the Panhandle Press Association's 2004 Better Newspaper Contest during the PPA's 95th annual convention Saturday in Amarillo.

The local paper garnered more first place honors than any other newspaper in the Division I category for weekly newspapers but narrowly lost the General Excellence award to THE CANADIAN RECORD.

"We tip our hats to Laurie Ezzell Brown and her staff in Canadian for their well deserved win," said publisher Roger Estlack. "They showed greater strength across the board than we did this year, placing in every category except one while we missed placing in three categories."

"Still, we're very proud of our accomplishments this year, and we'll work to keep improving the ENTERPRISE."

"As always, it's important to note that we couldn't do it without our dedicated staff and the support of our readers and advertisers."

The ENTERPRISE received first place honors for Feature Photos by Ashlee Kidd-Estlack and Cheryl Johnson, Front Page Layout, News Writing by Ashlee Kidd-Estlack and Roger Estlack, Sports Photos by Roger Estlack, Humorous Column by Roger Estlack, and Editorials.

The paper also received second place awards for Headline Writing, Spot News Photos, Society Page, and Best Serious Column; a third place award for Advertising Initiative; and an Honorable Mention for Carrie Helms' "Life Lesson's" in the Serious Column category.

Judges said the ENTERPRISE's layout was "clean" and that it "jumps off the page."

ENTERPRISE news stories were praised for doing a "great job of relating facts to readers," and its feature photos were noted for having "good composition."

Roger Estlack's columns about Blue Bell Ice Cream and about the rumors in advance of his actual engagement were called "witty" and "clearly the best."

The society page was praised for its range of coverage.

The PLAINVIEW DAILY HERALD was the top paper in the Division II category for semi-weekly and daily newspapers.

In other convention news, three journalists were inducted into the PPA Hall of Fame, including the late Trenton Davis of the AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS, Rollie Hyde of the PLAINVIEW DAILY HERALD, and Faye Plank of the DALHART DAILY TEXAN.

Attending this year's convention and accepting the awards on the ENTERPRISE's behalf were publisher Roger Estlack and Web master Ashlee Kidd-Estlack.

We should get a grip on right to be offended

By Paul K. McMasters, First Amendment Center

Did you hear the one about the amateur comedians and the lawyer? It goes like this:

These two guys are standing around and start cracking lawyer jokes. A lawyer nearby doesn't think the jokes are funny so he gets them arrested and slapped in handcuffs. The punch line: The would-be comedians have to appear in court next month to answer charges of disorderly conduct.

Not that funny? That's because it actually happened last week at the federal courthouse in Hempstead, NY. The joke, it turns out, is on freedom of speech.

We Americans may have lost our sense of humor but we certainly have a firm grip on our highly developed sense of offense. The variety and pervasiveness of things that give offense make us cling more tenaciously to an assumed right to be easily and perpetually offended. So we're putting an ever-shorter leash on expression.

Just look at television. Well, maybe not. Not a day goes by that couch potatoes across the nation don't feel compelled to rise up in rage over yet another offense to their sensibilities oozing from their radio or TV sets. Here are some examples of how being offended translates into action just from the first couple of weeks of 2005.

The National Organization for Women and other women's advocates, incensed when a few radio stations promoted a letter-writing contest in which the winners receive free breast-enlargement surgery, have flooded the FCC with 3,400 complaints at last count.

A Cleveland man, watching an episode of "Fear Factor" during which participants were required to eat dead rats, vomited, became dizzy with disgust, bumped his head as he fled the scene of the TV assault, and then filed a $2.5 million suit against NBC.

For their part, broadcasters are reeling from record FCC fines for violating decency standards, whatever they might be, and worried about where the next complaint or lawsuit will come from. So they are courageously fighting back with a policy of pre-emptive surrender.

Fox network, for example, has developed a real problem with posters. In quick succession, network executives have put the kibosh on two separate instances of on-air bun-baring, one involving a cartoon character and the other an aging actor's backside.

In the first instance, Fox blurred the butt of a character in the "Family Guy" cartoon, which first aired un-pixelated five years ago. In the second instance, executives declined to accept a cold-remedy commercial that flashed the behind of actor Mickey Rooney, much to the chagrin of the medical firm's co-owner, who thought the ad should have been aired.

"There nothing sexual about the ad," said Rider McDowell, co-owner of Airborne. "It's tantamount to showing a baby's bottom." Make that an 84-year-old baby's bottom.

Meanwhile, cable network HBO has donated three films to PBS to reach a wider audience with its programming. But the public broadcasting executives will have to excise from one film a brief glimpse of an unclothed woman and one utterance of the F-word and a similar expletive from another film in order to protect PBS stations from the ever-watchful FCC.

And the bosses at Citadel Broadcasting Corp., which owns and operates more than 200 radio properties, yanked the Howard Stern show from some of their stations after the shock jock repeatedly uttered two words deeply offensive to the terrestrial radio giant: "satellite radio."

A few years ago, the Independent Journal newspaper in Marin, Calif., ran the following TV listing: "Transported to a surreal landscape, a young girl kills the first woman she meets and then teams up with three complete strangers to kill again."

Doesn't sound like something you would want your child to watch, does it? By the way, the listing was for "The Wizard of Oz."

We simply are not alike or of one mind when it comes to what may be fit and proper. Usually, there are as many reactions to programming as there are viewers or listeners. And if every one of those listeners or viewers is allowed to take his or her slice out of broadcast expression, there will be little left but pap and pabulum.

Certainly, we have the right to be offended and to take action when we are. But wouldn't we be more like the freedom-loving society we're supposed to be if we merely switched channels or hit the "off" button and trusted our neighbors to do the same?

The threat of arrest, FCC fines or lawsuits sets off a chain of self-censorship in which artists and authors fear broadcast executives who fear government officials who fear those who complain the most or loudest. That may make the broadcast medium, which hosts much of the continuing conversation Americans have among themselves, less "offensive," but it also will make it less entertaining, less informative, less enlivening-and, yes, less free.

And that ain't no joke.

Brain filters out BO after long exposure

I have a smoke detector somewhere on my hall that needs a new battery. It has been chirping for months, and I can't decide which one it is.

After a week or two, I stopped paying attention to it; and after a month, I stopped hearing it altogether.

I was hearing it physically (my ear was accepting the sound waves), but because my ear had grown so used to the sound, my brain was too lazy to process it. That's a bizarre intro for what I really want to talk about: hygiene.

Monday mornings are rough, but last Monday was rougher than most. I worked until midnight, and then I had to stay up finishing homework and coping with my own miniature emotional crisis.

Crisis averted, I went to bed at about 4 a.m. and set the alarm to wake me up at 7. I still had work to do before class at 10.

My brain had learned how to tune out my alarm clock (much like the chirping smoke detector) and taught my hand how to turn it off without disturbing the rest of me at all.

I woke up at 9:30. I put on a hat and the pair of pants I had been wearing for the last couple of days with the t-shirt that I slept in. I rubbed the old mascara out from under my eyes and made a bee-line for the computer lab. By a miracle I finished most of what I needed to get done and made my way to the theatre to sit in the Green Room and wait for my acting class to start.

The Green Room is a magical place. The nucleus of the theatrical cell. It's the living room of the theatre family. A place with couches where we argue about politics, religion, and who isn't throwing away their mail.

I flopped down on a couch and apologized to the girl on my right, "I've had a rough morning. No shower."

"I'm so glad you said something," she said, "I haven't had a shower either. Let's sit together so no one will smell us."

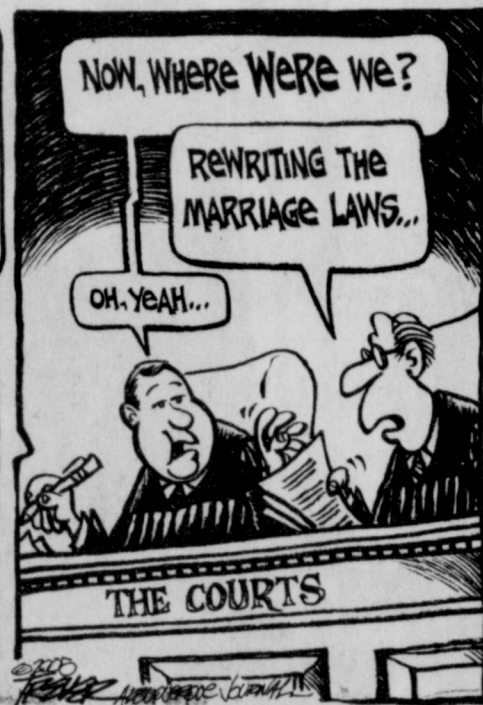

This sounded like a great plan. Another girl walks in wearing a baseball cap and sweats.

"I woke up late, and I am completely out of clean clothes," the girl said. "I've started buying new underwear instead of washing them, but I can't afford it too much longer."

I told her if she was concerned about smelling funny, she should come sit by the

Baylor's victory boosts women's sports

During the NCAA women's basketball championship, I was cheering for Baylor University's Lady Bears. They defeated the tough Michigan State University Spartan team by 84-62 to win their first NCAA national basketball title with the second-highest margin of victory in a women's NCAA title game ever. In five years, Coach Kim Mulkey-Robertson took a team with a 7-20 record to the pinnacle of women's collegiate competition. Both she and her team have made Baylor, Waco and all of Texas very proud.

Baylor's success was built on hard work, commitment, and sacrifice. They were able to take setbacks, such as last year's loss to Tennessee in the Sweet 16 round of the NCAA tournament, to galvanize their play. Coach Mulkey-Robertson and her players rebounded from that disappointment to win this year's national championship.

The Lady Bears are part of a trend toward more female participation in organized sports.

In 1971, there were only 325,000 women in high school varsity sports throughout the United States. Today there are 2.5 million. Before 1971, 32,000 women participated in college sports; today that number exceeds 150,000. Women's high school, college, and professional sports are drawing increasing numbers of fans. Women professional athletes are celebrities whose achievements are enjoyed by all Americans.

Texas has long been fertile ground for talented female athletes. Beaumont's Babe Didrikson Zaharias was the premier female athlete of her era, dominating the Olympics in track and field and later in professional golf. She stunned the athletic world on July 16, 1932, with her performance at the national amateur track meet for women in Evanston, Illinois. Mrs. Zaharias entered the meet as the sole member of her team and by herself won the national women's team championship by scoring 30 points.

Recent Texas female athletes include gymnast Carly Patterson of Allen, who won the coveted gold medal for the all-around competition at the 2004 Olympics. She is only the second female gymnast from the USA to do this; Mary Lou Retton, of Houston, was the first, 20 years ago.

Texas women compete in professional sports ranging from golf and tennis to the bruising world of professional rodeo. Three Texas women are at the top of the National Cutting Horse Association's pyramid in terms of titles and earnings.

The new athletic opportunities for young women are welcomed by many leaders including Lynne Cheney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities from 1986 to 1993, and wife of Vice President Dick Cheney. "Sports are good for women because it teaches you how to play hurt," she said. "Women sometimes think if you get knocked down, either literally or figuratively, you go into your room and cry. But what you learn in sports is that if you get knocked down, you get back up and try to get that ball in the net the next time."

When I was writing my book, American Heroines: The Spirited Women Who Shaped Our Country, Mrs. Cheney confided that her teen sports options were limited, so she took up baton twirling. The competition and drill required for baton twirling provided many of the same lessons you learn in sports, she said.

The importance of organized sports was proven in a study which found:

- Girls who participate in sports have higher levels of confidence, stronger self-images, and lower levels of depression;
- Girls who participate in athletics are more likely to graduate from high school and get better grades;
- Sports prepare girls to be successful in the workplace by giving them the opportunity to learn about teamwork, goal-setting, and the pursuit of excellence in performance. It is no accident that 80 percent of the female executives at Fortune 500 companies identified themselves as having played sports;
- Women who continue to exercise lower their risk of breast cancer and osteoporosis.

While all of us may not be natural athletes and have other talents and abilities we should cultivate, we can benefit from increasing our level of physical activity. Research shows we benefit at all ages from even moderate exercise such as walking.

We can also benefit from the lessons taught by Coach Mulkey-Robertson and the Lady Bears when they won the NCAA basketball championship. They demonstrated that we can all bounce back from defeat and achieve our goals through perseverance, tenacity, and determination.

Hats off to Baylor's Lady Bears!

Can't get enough of the Lady Bears? Visit their website at www.ladybears.com for more information on the team and how to support them. You can also purchase Lady Bear merchandise at the Baylor Bookstore.

Reader asks about city's paving project

I have a few questions about the paving that has been started. First let me say this town needs paved roads bad, and I'm not against it by no means. But, maybe you can explain to me and others why they tore up paved roads (not good paved roads, but paved) to start on?

There are so many unpaved roads that need it first, please explain to me and others the logic in this? Why not start on the unpaved first then the paved roads last? At least then we could have more paved roads instead of unpaved roads. Even paved roads with chug holes are better than most of our dirt roads.

Connie McKinney, Clarendon

Editor's Response: That's a reasonable question, Connie. The new paving and curbing will be done on several streets - both paved and unpaved. The work you're seeing now is city crews tearing up the old paving, which obviously doesn't have to be done on the dirt streets. The goal of paving is two-fold - to improve the streets and to protect those streets by controlling water flow, which is where the new curbs and gutters come in. The city's previously paved streets, like Collinson and Sixth, do not have curbs and gutters. It makes sense to re-pave and curb those streets in order to successfully tie them in with new curbs and paving on dirt streets like Seventh, Johns, McLean, and others.

Chadwick gains in Turkey King election

The race to be the 2005 Donley County Turkey King got more interesting this past weekend with the addition of Billy Chadwick as the final candidate for this year.

In a very short time, Chadwick's jar collected more than $78, and he's now within pecking distance of front-runner Janie Hill #1 of Clarendon, who had $85.47 at press time.

Howardwick Alderman Sam Grider was in a distant third place with $12.38, Janie Hill #2 of Hedley was in fourth with $8.95, and Gay Tibbets was in fifth place with $6.85.

Larinda Brown was barely staying in the top six with $4.25, and last week she phoned the ENTERPRISE to threaten to give her votes to some other candidate and said she intended to hunt down the person who nominated her like a wild turkey.

Destination Donley County Tourism is sponsoring the Turkey King election, and votes for your favorite bird can be cast at Lowe's Family Center, JD Steakout, and The Clarendon Outpost.

Local residents are encouraged to vote often as the election enters its final days. The next Turkey King will be crowned during the annual Donley County Turkey Strut on Saturday, April 23, 2005.

CHS One Act Play advances from area level

I know you're all waiting anxiously to hear about the high school One-Act Play competition last week. (If you're not, then go read something else, because that's what this column is about.) Area competition—halfway to State. Myles came home to get me before I was ready, so I had time to grab a banana and a Reese's Peanut Butter Cup for lunch as we headed out the door. It turns out the plays didn't start till 2 p.m. rather than 1:00 as we thought, so we got there in time for the first one, which was Happy High School.

Our guys went third, and they did an absolutely fantastic job. Every single kid was lit up and "on." The lights did what they were supposed to do, instead of going berserk and lighting somebody else's play when ours was on the stage. When some idiot's cell phone went off with Valkyrie music in the middle of the play, and the idiot got up and walked out of the theater, despite being warned to turn off phones and do NOT leave the theater—the kids didn't miss a beat. I almost felt like I was watching the play for the first time all over again, and the applause was spontaneous at the end, rather than polite.

So then came Channing, always the school to beat. They did an allegorical play that somehow merged the Book of Job with September 11, and they did it very well. A couple of us snuck out for dinner during Sunray's play, because I'd seen it last week and was about to starve by this time since the banana had been a while ago, but we got back for the last play from Higgins, which was The Miracle Worker. And they were really good, too. They even had a real pump that pumped real water for the "Wa-wah" scene.

So now, we're waiting for the scores. The Amarillo College theater students did their skits making fun of the plays (and of course spoofed hanging the "inconsiderate cell phone person"). The Clarendon play is about a mathematician with no social skills who gets a farm hand job, and falls for his lady boss's estranged TV star daughter, only she rejects him, then his boss rejects him, so he kills the daughter and then the jailer kills him—it's a weird sounding play. It's done in a series of flashbacks that aren't nearly as confusing as they sound. Still, it's kind of scary watching one's son play a crazy man...

Anyway, for their skit, the Amarillo College guy did "Gollum" from Lord of the Rings, "I LOVES the precious! NO, I HATES the precious!" Which actually was a pretty good approximation of the role...

(I know, I know, I'm taking forever to do this, but I want to draw out the dramatic moment. Can't help it—I tell stories for a living.)

So, finally, it's time to hand out awards. And of course, they do the Acting awards first. Brandie Lockhart and Tim Sears got Honorable Mention All Star Cast. Then Robert Shelton and Vanna Holton got All Star Cast. The last two times at least one of our guys got Best Actor, Best Actress—something... But this time, Best Actor was the guy from Channing who played Job, and Best Actress went to Helen Keller's Teacher from Higgins. And Rob and Vanna were standing up there for the "photo op" after All Star Cast looking like somebody had drowned their best friend, because they just knew they weren't advancing.

Clarendon • 874-9186

Then, instead of announcing the advancing schools, they had to announce Technical awards, which were given by the hosting college and have never been given out before. Our school won best stage manager (Grady Swearingen) and best lighting (Tyler Lewis), and then won Best Overall Technical Production which Will Drackley went up to collect, so the whole crew got to go up on stage for something. And of course all of us watching and rooting for Clarendon were about to have kittens waiting to hear who gets to go on to Regional competition. Except we're sure it's not going to be us because we didn't win Best Actor or Actress. I mean, we're hoping, but...

So finally, the moment comes, and the coordinator is giving this great long spiel about how the alternate gets to go to Regional in the event that one of the advancing schools doesn't get to go, and I'm ready to throw something at him. (Not that I'm not doing the same thing here, dragging it out like this—Roger may shoot me for going on so long about one thing.) The Alternate school is Higgins, The Miracle Worker. And I'm shocked. And hopeful.

The first of the two advancing schools is Channing—which we figured, since it was Biblical and the judge was from Lubbock Christian University and Channing almost always goes to Regional. So then we're all holding our breaths because a couple of the other plays were pretty good; and after all, it comes down to one person's subjective opinion, and of course the coordinator was delaying without appearing to delay, and finally he gives the final name. The other advancing school is Clarendon. Our kids.

So we scream and applaud and jump up and down and beat on the kids' backs because we're all in theater seats and can't reach them to hug them.

Then we go out into the lobby and hug people and beat on their backs some more and hug them and stuff. The son gives me his medal to hold. (Isn't that what moms are for?) And we made plans to go to the "big city" of Levelland in another week.

So, that's what happened in Amarillo last week at the Area 1 A One-Act Play competition. Other stuff happened in Clarendon but not a whole lot and this was a lot of fun, so I thought you'd enjoy getting the play-by-play on it.

Wynn, Archuleta exchange vows during March wedding

Amy Hope Wynn of Eules, Texas, and Jason Daniel Archuleta of Fort Worth were united in marriage on March 5, 2005, in Amarillo at Kingswood United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Kevin and Patricia Wynn of Follett. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Alvis Milstead of Plains, Texas, and Mrs. Cecil Wynn of Follett, both of whom attended the wedding.

Jason is the son of Patricia Archuleta and the late Daniel "Archie" Archuleta of Clarendon. He is the "special" grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Hall, also of Clarendon, who attended the wedding as well.

The Reverend Mark Jobe of Gateway Church in Southlake, Texas, officiated the ceremony.

Amy wore a white, cathedral length gown of satin with an overlay of white organza. The ruffled pleated empire bodice was surrounded with beading of pearls and sequins. The gown fell into a cathedral length train with small motifs of silver metallic threads and pearl beading all over the skirt. She carried a clutch bouquet of red Gerber daisies, red tulips, red roses, and seeded eucalyptus tied at the base with ribbon.

The Maid of Honor was Heather Howard, sister of the bride, of Amarillo. The bridesmaids were Amy Hawk of Arlington, Emily Lauchner of Eules, Amber Thompson of Amarillo, Jamie Larmer of Grapevine, and Junior Bridesmaid Kayla Hall of Claremore, Oklahoma. The girls wore red organza floor length gowns with red satin wraps at the shoulders. They carried white clutch bouquets of white stock tied in white ribbon to complete their attire.

Flower girl was Miss Avery Bailey, daughter of Jason and Laura Bailey of Amarillo. The ringbearer was Mr. Dylan Howard, nephew of the bride, son of Mark and Heather Howard, also of Amarillo.

Best Man was Jeff Lyle of Lubbock. The groomsmen were Erik Arellano of Lubbock, Jason Bailey of Amarillo, Aaron Larmer of Grapevine, and Michael Christian of Lubbock. Junior Groomsman was Hunter Howard, nephew of the bride, of Amarillo.

Ushers were Mark Howard, brother-in-law of the bride, of Amarillo, Jason Winn of Canyon, Ashton Anderson of Lubbock, and Kyler Barkley of Lubbock.

Prelude and ceremony were provided by Ian and Aubry Ferguson of Canyon.

A reception dinner and dance followed the ceremony at the Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo. The buffet tables and traditional bride and groom's cakes lined the room, and music was provided by Wayne Williams of All About Music as the couple danced the first dance together.

Amy works as a hair designer for Moutons Salon in Bedford.

Amy and Jason Archuleta

She graduated from Ogle School of Beauty in 2003. She also has a degree in psychology from West Texas State University in Canyon.

Jason attended Texas Tech University and Clarendon College, pursuing a degree in Ministry. He is currently employed by Life Outreach International as a prayer consultant.

The couple honeymooned on a cruise to Cancun, Cozumel, Honduras, and Belize.

They are making their home in Eules.

Howardwick Baptist plans to hold spring revival

Congratulations to THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE for all the awards the paper received this weekend from the Panhandle Press Association. The eleven new awards will look nice on the wall, but he will need to begin on the other wall soon. Roger tells me, "It's all of us, not just me, that earn these awards." Maybe so, but without his direction I couldn't do my part, so thanks boss.

White Deer has come to the aid of our fire department with the gift of a Suburban. The plans are to convert it to a rescue truck for use in case of fires or other disasters. Speaking of disasters, I hope everyone filled out the information card that appeared in the ENTERPRISE regarding home storm shelters. I have often thought about being trapped in a shelter, and this is a good idea.

The Howardwick Baptist Church will hold the spring revival April 24-27 with a pot luck dinner Sunday at noon and snacks following each evening service. The times are Sunday 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday services will begin at 6:30 p.m. The messages will be brought by former pastor Robert Griffin of Oklahoma City with singing led by Leo Day of Spur.

Linda Dwight completed the Big D Texas Marathon in Dallas, Texas, on April 3, 2005.

A total of approximately 2300 runners participated in the marathon, with 450 runners completing the 26.2 mile run, while others branched off to a five and 13 mile run. Linda completed the 26.2 mile run and placed 15th in her age bracket (40-44) with a time of 05:17:47.

Hendrix donates children's books to library

During the past two weeks, I've taken opportunities to examine the 150 children's books donated to Burton Memorial Library by Mr. Alan Hendrix of Lubbock. Thanks again, Mr. Hendrix, for your generous addition to Clarendon's outstanding Youth Library.

In addition to popular Newbery and Cadecott award winning books, this beautifully illustrated group of selections presents appealing titles to entice readers from age levels pre-school to young adults.

About Time gives youngsters a first look at time clocks. Even youngest readers can appreciate historical interest in Happy Birthday, America; Teddy Roosevelt; Miss Bridie Chose a Shovel by Leslie Conner, concerning a special immigrant; and My Teacher for President by Kay Winters.

Plenty of books with situations in which older youth and young adults can identify are available. Astronomy; events from the ancient world which changed the course of history; author Molly Griffin's document involving America: Time of Pearl Harbor in which readers will be moved as well as entertained; and The Heart Calls Home by Joyce Hanson, the story of a runaway slave as he lives in a "time of new beginnings" are available for those who are especially interested in those areas.

Children who dream of a horse or pony of their own will be delighted with Kingfisher Horse and Pony Encyclopedia, a reference guide for the whole family, with superb pictures by horse photographer, Bob Langrish.

Locating and Evaluating Information on the Internet offers valuable assistance, not only to students, but to all ages. I suppose none of us will ever quite understand the events of September 11, but young adult readers, as well as adults, might appreciate author Mitch Frank's attempt to answer questions about the attack on America in his book, Understanding September 11.

Stories from The Life of Jesus retold from the Bible by Celia Barker Lottridge "provides powerful retelling of events in Jesus' life and stories He told, focusing not on interpretation, but on stories themselves as they might have been heard in Jesus' time."

by mary beth nelson

Included with this new collection is Children's Own Longfellow, a lovely book to inspire your children's appreciation and respect for the popular and distinguished Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, often referred to as "the most influential American poet of his day," Evangeline, Village Blacksmith, Hiawatha, Paul Revere's Ride, and Wreck of the Hesperus, writings contained in this book, are only five of Longfellow's numerous, outstanding contributions to America's literature in both poetry and prose.

As closing of the school year approaches, no doubt, additional research and book reports will be required.

Teachers, Parents, and Students: We hope you will allow Burton Memorial Library to assist you with your end-of-school projects.

Comptroller reminds businesses about renditions

Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn this week reminded Texas businesses to render their property with county appraisal districts by April 15.

To render is to list the taxable inventory, furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment and other property that a business owned or managed as of January 1, 2005. Appraisal districts may use the information to set property values.

Texas business owners are subject to monetary penalties if they file their annual property tax rendition late, fail to render or file an incomplete or false rendition.

"If some businesses are not paying their fair share of property tax, that places a greater tax burden on honest, hardworking business owners and homeowners," Strayhorn said.

Rendering allows property owners to record their opinion of their property's value and ensures that the appraisal district sends them a notice before changing a value on their property.

Owners do not have to render exempt property, such as church property or a farmer's equipment used for farming.

If more than one appraisal district appraises a property, the property owner should render in each appraisal district office.

Property owners who need more time to file their renditions may file a written request with the chief appraiser on or before April 15 to receive an automatic extension to May 15. The chief appraiser may also grant an additional 15 days after the May 15 deadline if necessary.

The Comptroller's office also announced that owners whose property was damaged by a storm, flood or fire last year may file a special decreased value report that could lower their final tax bills. Property owners have until April 15 to file the decreased value report, which indicates their property's condition on January 1, 2005.

Rendition forms and decreased value report forms are available from the appraisal district or the Comptroller's office. The rendition forms ask for the property owner's name and address, general description of property by type or category and the property's location.

For more information about rendering property, deadline extensions, penalties and rendition forms, taxpayers may contact the Donley Appraisal District at 874-2744.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting April 12, 2005, with Boss Lion Monty Hysinger in charge. We had 20 members and no guests.

The public school is very busy at this time with a tremendous number of students still active in UIL competitions. The one act play will compete this Thursday, and the district competition in golf and tennis is this week. More mandated tests will be held next week.

We received two thank you notes from stock show participants whom our contribution helped in the sale.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

Former district attorney addresses local Rotarians

Retired Potter County District Attorney Rebecca King spoke to the Clarendon Rotary Club on Wednesday, March 30.

Mrs. King provided the club members with insight into her career as a public servant. She shared her experiences as an advocate and probation official with juveniles in the court system while working as a secondary education teacher. She also served as Dalham County Judge and detailed her career path that led to service as a District Attorney for Potter County. Mrs. King's years of service and dedication to her public was evident as she related numerous experiences within the judicial system. With unflinching integrity and faithful support, Mrs. King served her community well. She and her husband, Jack, have a ranch in Donley County.

The Clarendon Rotary acknowledged J & W Hardware as the March Business of the Month. Congratulations to Earl and Julie Hartman and to the Wise family for their continued contribution to the Clarendon community.

Earlier in the month, Pam Denney, instructor at Clarendon College, presented the Open Door Policy to the Rotary. Non traditional students are finding Clarendon College user friendly. Those involved in promoting this alternate approach to education are willing to inform the community of their support on behalf of NONTRAD students.

On Wednesday, April 6, US Marine Corporal Cass Tibbets spoke at the noon meeting of the Clarendon Rotary. He is the nephew of Michael and Gay Tibbets of Clarendon. Corporal Tibbets was stationed in Iraq for 18 months and has been in several other countries including Japan and Thailand.

Carol Maxey with Stroke Prevention Plus of Dallas will be guest speaker on April 13, and Relay for Life on April 20 will be the programs. Visitors are always welcome.

Donley County 4-H Club holds meeting for month of April

By Ashlyn Tubbs

The Donley County 4-H April meeting was held on April 5 at 6:00 p.m. The meeting was called to order by President Danielle Ford, and Club Reporter Ashlyn Tubbs led the club members in the 4-H prayer. Recreation Leader Annie Patten led the US pledge, followed by Vice President Paul Goetze leading everyone in the 4-H motto and pledge.

Door Greeter Danielle Smith conducted the roll call with 29 members present. Tubbs read the minutes of the last month's meeting. Goetze provided information about electric camp, and County Extension Agent MaryRuth Bishop reminded the 4-Hers to hurry up with the geranium sales. The organization is trying to sell enough geraniums so that County Extension Agent Leonard Haynes can kiss a pig.

Mrs. Goetze took officer nominations for next year's 4-H officers followed by Ms. Bishop talking about summer camps that we might be interested in.

Paul Goetze introduced Deputy Kelly Hill of the Donley County Sheriff's Department. He talked to the club about drugs and how to be safe. He brought his police dog and demonstrated to the club members how she finds drugs. He also showed the members several different kinds of drugs.

Next month's meeting will be held on May 3. Goetze reminded us about the woodworking and that Junior Photography would be held on Tuesday at 4:00 p.m. at CHS.

Annie Patten drew for the door prize, and Cole Ward won the wooden clover. President Ford adjourned the meeting to a game led by Annie Patten. Refreshments were provided by the club managers.

Broncos struggling in district

By Sandy Anderberg

The Bronco baseball team is determined to claim a spot in post-season play and is working hard to see that they continue on after district play. The Broncos slammed Shamrock for the second time this year in a 17-0 romp in five innings on their home field.

The Broncos led by four runs in the second inning and added seven to the scoreboard in their next at bat. The fourth inning gave the Broncos a big enough lead that the game was called in five.

"We played our best game of the year," Coach Brad Elam said. "Austin Howard pitched great. He only gave up four hits, and he worked ahead in the count. Our defense played great, too and did not make any errors, and our infield was superb."

"Our hitting finally came through for us. Clint Watson reached base four times, scored three runs, and drove in three runs. Dalton Askew had three hits and three RBIs; and Austin reached base four times, scored two runs and drove in two runs. Grady Swearingen reached base four times and had three RBIs."

The game with Claude did not turn out as the Broncos would have hoped, as they were defeated 5-11. The Mustangs took the early lead, but the Broncos fought back to lead by one run in the second inning. Claude was able to score seven runs in the last three innings, and the Broncos were scoreless.

Austin Howard played good defense at shortstop, and Dalton Askew had two RBIs. Tyler Lewis and Stephen Ford each reached base three times. We made some errors that cost us, but not hitting the ball after the second inning hurt us the most."

The Broncos will travel to Childress to take on their junior varsity Friday, April 15, beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Lady Broncos qualify for area track meet

By Sandy Anderberg

After battling the wind and cool weather in Panhandle last week, the Lady Broncos completed their District meet and advanced four competitors to the Area meet, which was held on Wednesday of this week in Panhandle.

Results of that meet will be reported in the next issue of THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE.

Haley Shelton will advance in the long jump with a qualifying jump of 15'8". She earned 2nd place with that jump. Shelton also placed 7th in the 100-meter dash at 13.11 and 5th in the triple jump with a best jump of 32'6 3/4". Shanna

Shelton threw the shot put a distance of 32'7" to claim 4th place. Jessica Hernandez finished 3rd in the 3200-meter run at 14:00.71, and she also ran the 1600-meter run and ended with a time of 6:32.35.

Kaitlyn Howard ran the 300-meter hurdles in a time of 50.24, which was good enough for 4th place.

The 400-meter relay finished 5th at 54.49 and was run by Shelby Watson, Kaitlyn Howard, Regan Lemley, and Haley Shelton. The 800-meter relay came in 8th with a time of 2:00.02, and the runners were Jill Cornell, Samantha Myatt, Lemley, and H. Shelton.

Jill Cornell competed in the long jump (13'6 1/2") and triple jump (29'3"). Regan Lemley ran the 100-meter dash in 13.5 and competed in the triple jump (28'6").

Erica Depew 800-meter dash (3:21.56); Samantha Myatt 400-meter dash (74.3); Shelby Watson 7th 400-meter dash (65.54); Abby Patten 3200-meter run (15:40) and 1600-meter run (6:51); Haley Carter 1600-meter run (6:48).

Lady Bronco softball squad stops Caprock JV

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos traveled to Amarillo Friday, April 8, to take on the Lady Longhorn junior varsity team. The Lady Broncos played hard and were able to defeat Caprock 14-10, making them 10-3 for the season. Haley Shelton was on the mound.

The Lady Broncos led their opponent two runs to one in the third inning before getting hot at the plate in the next at bat. Senior Laura Dziejcz hit a huge solo homerun to get things started and the Lady Broncos added three runs in the fourth.

They continued to add to their lead and sealed their win in the seventh inning as they took away any chance for Caprock to stage a comeback.

"The girls hit extremely well," Coach Gary Jack said. "It was a good game, and we hit the ball as well as we've hit it all year. We were in control all of the way."

Jack added that the Lady Longhorn defense kept them in the game and that allowed the game to appear closer on the scoreboard than it actually was.

"It was a good game for us, and we made the defensive plays when we needed them," Jack said.

Dziejcz: 1 HR, 1 double, 1 single; Haley Shelton: 7 strike-outs, 3 singles, 1 double; Destiny Weatherston: 1 double, 1 triple; Shanna Shelton: 3 singles; Kristin White: 2 singles; Sade Faas: 2 singles; Kaitlyn Howard: 3 singles; Jamie Simmons: 2 singles and one bunt for a single; Sarah Depew: 1 single.

The Lady Bronco softball field has a new scoreboard courtesy of Greenlight Gas and Greenbelt Electric, which will be up and running by the next home game on Friday, April 15. This is a district game against Quanah beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Vaccination of Older Persons Against the Flu

A recent study based on more than 30 years of information involving persons 65 years of age and older who received vaccinations against influenza (flu) was published in the February 14, 2005 issue of the Archives of Internal Medicine. Based on their findings, researchers indicate that vaccinating the elderly against the flu may be less effective in preventing flu-related deaths than we had previously thought.

Research findings indicate that the level of vaccination among the elderly increased from 15% before 1980 to around 65% in 2001. However, estimates of flu-related deaths in this age group also increased during this time. Vaccination during this period did not seem to save the number of lives everyone had expected it would. The research group stopped short, however, of stating that older persons should stop getting annual flu vaccinations. They suggested that US health officials expand vaccinations to all healthy individuals, including school age children. Such efforts will hopefully prevent the transmission of the flu virus in future years to high risk individuals such as the elderly.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION OF MUTUAL ENERGY SWEPCO FOR AUTHORITY TO RECONCILE FUEL COSTS AND TO INCREASE FUEL FACTOR

On April 1, 2005, Mutual Energy SWEPCO doing business as Mutual Energy SPP ("ME-SWEPCO" or "Company") filed its application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") to obtain reconciliation of the Company's eligible fuel factor expenses incurred during 2004 ("Reconciliation Period"), and to increase its fuel factors. This filing was made pursuant to Section 36.203 of the Texas Utilities Code.

Commission Docket No. 25314 established the fuel reconciliation methodology for use in the ME-SWEPCO service territory until the advent of customer choice in that area. ME-SWEPCO's total under-recovery balance for the Reconciliation Period is $1,596,997.32 (including interest). ME-SWEPCO seeks authority to collect that balance through a surcharge to be collected over a 14-month period, effective with the November 2005 billing month.

The Company's fuel reconciliation filing does not affect the Company's base rates that are currently in effect. All of ME-SWEPCO's customers are affected by the Company's application. The average effect on Residential Service customer using 1,000 kWh would be an increase of $11.50 per month, or an 11.0% increase in total billings for the year.

In addition, Commission Docket No. 29331 established the methodology for calculating ME-SWEPCO's fuel factors. ME-SWEPCO seeks authority to increase its existing seasonal fuel factors pursuant to that methodology, effective with the June 2005 billing month.

The Company's fuel factor filing does not affect the Company's base rates that are currently in effect. All of ME-SWEPCO's customers are affected by the Company's application. The granting of the fuel factors requested in this application will result in an increase in billing for an average residential customer consuming 1,000 kWh per month of $11.07, or approximately 10.5%. The proposed fuel factors by voltage type are as follows:

Voltage Level	Quarterly Fixed Fuel Factors
	December - February	March - May	June - August	September - November
Transmission	.046588	.077407	.062593	.044663
Primary	.047698	.079152	.064054	.045747
Secondary	.051293	.084770	.068676	.049199

These changes will be subject to final review by the Commission in ME-SWEPCO's next reconciliation.

Persons with questions or who want more information on this application may contact Jeff C. Broad at 400 West 15th Street, Suite 610, Austin, Texas 78701 or by calling Mr. Broad at (512) 481-4555. A complete copy of this application is available for inspection at the address listed above.

The Commission has assigned Docket No. 30965, to ME-SWEPCO's application and an intervention deadline will be established. Persons who wish to formally participate in this proceeding, or who wish to express their comments regarding this application should contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas, Office of Consumer Protection, P. O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326, or call (512) 936-7120, or toll free at (888) 782-8477. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSOLIDATE POLLING PLACES

The passage of the Help America Vote Act of 2002 ("HAVA") all Texas counties have to be HAVA-Compliant by January 1, 2006, deadline. To be compliant means having one (1) accessible voting machine in each polling place also known as DREs or Direct Recording Electronic Machines. The machines are expensive, but money is available to help pay for the cost associated with our purchase or lease of the DREs, and training and education related to the proper use and testing of such machines. Donley County is scheduled to receive $3,000.00 per polling place. At this time Donley County has

With the balance being paid by the taxpayers along with the on going costs of maintenance expenses and software upgrades. The County will be holding a public hearing to determine if consolidating polling places #103 Martin-Baptist with #101 College-Bairfield, leaving #102 at Howardwick at City Hall, and leaving #201 at the Courthouse for Precinct #2; then #301 Community Center and #302 Lella Lake with #303 Hedley - Lions Club, and #402 McClellan Residence with #401 Community Bank. Leaving only six polling places with one being for early voting. PUBLIC HEARING IS APRIL 21, 2005, AT 6:00 P.M. IN THE DISTRICT COURT ROOM OF THE COURTHOUSE. Please try to attend, if possible we need all public input. Also there will be a demonstration of one of these DREs on April 12, 2005, at 2:00 p.m. in the District Court Room of the Courthouse. Focus energies on growing Donley County

By MaryRuth Bishop

Where is your focus? Throughout this last season in the NBA, it was absolutely fascinating that, at the end of the season, out of 29 professional teams, only five had winning records on the road. One of the main problems? The opposing fans rooting for the home team... Interesting to note that of those same teams, 21 out of 29 had winning records in home games. So when the game is on the line and that multi-millionaire superstar is taking a critical shot in the fourth quarter, chances are better that he'll make it at home but miss it on the road. Why? Because most of them aren't completely focusing on their task. Instead of the basket, they're thinking about the guy in the 4th row.

"Home field advantage" is at play in everyone's lives every day.

The Citizens of Donley County's focus is to support and enjoy our communities, family, friends, school and way of life. We can help support that by volunteering and helping with various activities, shopping at home not driving to Amarillo or Pampa or Childress. Remember we have the Home Field advantage. The "crowds" are often hostile, but if we just pay attention to what we can do, to what our little job is and do it to the best of our ability, quite often we will come out on top. Spending your money in Clarendon, Hedley, Howardwick and Lela Lake creates movement in the basic structure of our county. Money coming BACK into the county. Volunteering for some activity helps get the job done, you can be the cheerleader or support that is needed to keep the focus on the job at hand.

Will you win awards right out of the shoot? Probably not. Will you make a million in a year or two? Not likely. A better question is: With a different focus, will you get better at whatever it is that you're doing?

In fact, will you quickly get better at nearly everything you do? Absolutely. Will you feel great about yourself as you are doing your best? Yup... IF you pay attention to how you succeeded so you can repeat it, and IF you aren't worried about someone else's performance or what anyone says about you.

You see, all of life is a game. Whether you are in front of crowds or all alone, you will act based on what you are thinking about - on what you are paying attention to.

Do you think Tiger Woods routinely steps up to the ball thinking, "I'm going to hook this one. It's going in the trees."??? Not a chance. Now, there is a chance it may go in the trees, but that is not where his focus is. And that is why it usually ends up right. To allow others to control your focus, to lose sight of your goals for seconds, then minutes, then hours will cause you to fall down constantly. Control your focus; and you will be in control of your emotions, your actions, and your life.

Coming up: Health Fair is coming up: April 28, Bairfield Activity Center, 10:00-4:00pm.

July 2nd Arts and Crafts Fair booth forms are available at the Extension Office. The parade will begin at 10:00 am that morning, so we should have a great morning of customers.
