

Commission Seeks Crop Disaster Relief

County Commissioners met Monday, August 18, in the office of County Judge Billy Crystal to discuss action on county disaster designation application, tax valuation review and conduct the regular business meeting.

The plight of county farmers and ranchers following the heavy rains of May and June was the background for the commissioners action to request disaster relief status from the governor's office.

Robert Keown from the ASCS office presented county crop loss figures explaining that farmers in the Jericho area especially were especially hard hit by rain, wind and flooding. Keown added though that farmers county-wide had received varying crop destruction.

Of the 510 farmers in the county, 460 reported being effected by some crop damaging weather. In the Jericho area, wheat losses were as much as 98 percent of the total crop. Cotton losses were placed at 10,200 acres. Milo farmers reported approximately 50 percent of the crop had to be replanted and if early frost comes a serious loss could come on the heels of the loss of much of the county's wheat and cotton crop for 1975.

Approval of the commission request for designation as a disaster area could make farmers in need of assistance eligible for emergency loans at five percent interest. Keown stated for such loans existed as some farmers faced extreme financial hardship if aid did not arrive soon.

Though Donley County was designated a disaster area in 1974 due to drought, commissioners observed that this status would not cover certain current losses due to weather destruction.

In other business the commission sought technical advice from a radar equipment representative before attempting to either replace through purchase or lease or repair the radar unit used by Clarendon police currently.

Members noted that the unit had been disabled four times already this year and that situation must be remedied soon. On information supplied to Judge Crystal leasing rates as opposed to outright purchase might offer the most economical solution to the problem of keeping a portable radar unit in operation.

Since the commissioners would meet again Friday, August 22, Crystal would attempt to get the sales representative to speak in person to the commission.

The continuing problem of tax valuation was aired but again no final solution could be found as the commission attempts to find an equitable way to tax county property fairly and still meet the needs of an inflation plagued county budget.

Sunflower Growers Watch First Crop

The spreading acreage of sunflowers in Donley County is one more sign of a diversifying agricultural base. The condition of the crop is generally good but local growers are reporting infestations of sunflower moth larvae which must be controlled to anticipate normal yields.

Farmers are generally withholding judgement until more is known about yield, insect control and the current crop harvest when it begins in the county.

Most farmers turned to sunflowers this year for the first time as experimental additions to their crop rotations.

Erratic weather this spring also altered regular cropping patterns and forced some farmers to turn to sunflowers as an emergency planting as rains and flooding destroyed cotton and grain sorghum plantings.

Growers have reacted cautiously as they face new disease and insect problems in this first season of sunflower production and most are breathing easier now that many fields are past the bloom stage.

Early growth stages are subject to attack by the carrot beetle which can cause serious loss but most fears never materialized as infestations were light or never materialized.

Pressure from the sunflower moth is a potential threat though. Unless the insect is killed in its larvae stage control is very difficult. In a clean field of sunflowers on the Don Robinson farm south of Clarendon on the Brice Highway, Don discovered some moth infestation. Recent rains may have rendered his aerial spraying ineffective.

Robinson likes the crop so far. He planted the field June 6 and the heavy June rains that demolished his cotton failed to get the sunflowers. Right now the field is in advanced bloom and seeds in the center of the head are firm in most cases.

Like many other farmers who planted sunflowers early this year Robinson contracted with Plains Cooperative Oil Mill and will deliver his crop to a Silvertown shipping point.

Robinson said contract terms seemed to make the crop comparable in monetary returns to grain sorghum and cotton. He believes the crop can tolerate a fairly wide range of soil fertilities but added that fertility was necessary for adequate yields. They seem to stand drought conditions well if planted early and off to a good start.

Sunflower harvesting presents some new challenges to growers entering production for the first time. Combine reels used to cut grain sorghum are useless for sunflowers. Robinson and his brother, Dale, may construct one home made.

"You need a solid three bat reel on the combine and I'm sure you'll have to open the cylinder way up and slow the cylinder speed down some too," Robinson pointed out. And experienced growers point out that shattering can be a problem requiring platform attachments called seed pans to prevent seed loss before the head falls onto the header platform.

As sunflowers mature some lower leaves will fall off naturally. The stalk becomes dry and pithy but for maximum yield sunflower growers have found it necessary to go desiccate the plant to harvest before shattering becomes serious.

Robinson feels that knocking the seed out of the head won't be much of a problem but delivering clean seed at the required moisture content may since he's a first year grower like most others in the county.

There were no oil standard established but Plains Cooperative Oil Mill advised that the early planted sunflowers would be the most desired because of the oil content value and the special oil factors that make the sunflower desirable to specialty food processors.

For local sunflower growers the crop has been relatively easy to grow compared to cotton and grain sorghum. Don reported only three trips over the field following plowing; once to plant, and rotary hoeing and cultivating. The field looked remarkable clean; Robinson pointed out that the rapid growth they make shades out some potential weed competitors.

But, like all other crops, there are some drawbacks. Robinson explained that the cost of aerial spraying costs in the neighborhood of $12 an acre and seed expenses run close to $3 for the imported Rumanian seed most Donley County growers

Volunteer Corps Sought For County

Eleanor Sanders, local Public Welfare worker, wants to enlist a volunteer corps of Donley County residents who are concerned enough to aid the services the State Department of Welfare cannot provide.

The Care Corps, as it is called, seeks to enlist aid to help fatherless children, aging Texans, blind or fostered persons, recruit foster parents, help day care centers function.

Sanders observed that the Care Corps would provide an outlet for interests and abilities, allow local residents the chance to express their concern for those needing help right in the community.

Working on a volunteer basis Care Corps members can bridge the gap between two groups of society no matter how much time they had to give. Even a small service is very valuable when given simply because you want to help.

The DPW wants to accomplish two goals in creating the Care Corps. Volunteers can provide services and give assistance beyond what an often overloaded DPW office can spare through its own staff. Secondly, community involvement is the essence of making the DPW understandable and humanized within the community.

Eleanor Sanders presented the Care Corps story to Clarendon Lions Club members last week and urged those present to acquaint themselves with the program and recognize the actual need for such services in this community.

Need often remains concealed behind family home doors and DPW often is the only group beyond the family or friends that know of needy circumstances. Sanders emphasized that Care Corps was not designed only to aid the poor. Human needs beyond financial assistance were motives for the Care Corps.

The elderly, often alone without family to sustain them could be aided by Care Corps Volunteers if nothing more than to visit and help with needed household tasks. The ability to remain in their own homes with a measure of dignity and personal pride could be furthered by Care Corps volunteers.

"Someone in this county needs your help right now," said Sanders, "someone needs help to make his life brighter, more meaningful, and perhaps less lonely. Volunteer to help him and to help yourself by joining the Department of Public Welfare Care Corps."

with a second generation joining in the business. When their son Wes finished a business degree at North Texas he came back home to the family business. Now Wes and his wife, Susan who is a trained beautician, work beside Redell and Frankie to make the business a success.

Redell and Frankie also have a daughter, Sharon. She is married to Mr. Ronald Winfrey and they and their two children live in Dallas.

The store has become a virtual department store in those years since opening. Frankie's gift department with Fostoria, Franciscan, Oneida and other brands of distinction draws customers from a three-state area as well as her regular Clarendon area customers.

Frankie pointed out that Henson's stock not only china, pottery and silverware but jewelry and watches and they do engraving also.

"We've tried to weed out brand names and suppliers that were below our demands for quality merchandise and we've come to emphasize

"Blast" Scarecrows

Residents on the northeast side of Clarendon will hear what sounds like shotgun blasts this summer and early fall as bird damage in grain increases.

Two mechanical "scarecrows" that operate on butane tanks are booming every two and a half minutes in a field of maize owned on Wayne Stevens on the Charles Morgan farm.

Bothered by crows and blackbirds, Stevens purchased the guns in Oklahoma and places them at random sites in the field changing the position so that the birds do not become accustomed to their location.

The crow guns are manufactured in Holland and sold in the United States by the B.M. Lawrence Company of San Francisco.

Not only do the guns scare birds but photographers walking toward it not knowing when the timer will click off another blast.

When the picture was snapped the gun had just fired and thus the barrel end view.

Several families have complained about the distracting noise made by the gun especially during the night time hours. Mrs. Troy Moore stated, "The thing about drove me crazy for three days. We didn't know what the thing was; I thought someone was out back shooting a shotgun but my husband said whoever it was would have a broken shoulder by now firing that many shots. I think they have stretched out the intervals between blasts now. I know bird damage is always so bad down here but the thing is distracting to say the least."

College GED Exam Set

Lloyd Water, Clarendon College Public Relations officer announced that the G.E.D. (High School Equivalency Exam) will be given on Wednesday, the 27th of August, 1975 at Clarendon College, Clarendon. The tests will begin at 8:00 in room 103 in the College Administration Building. It will take approximately ten hours to complete the exam. Cost of the exam will be $13.00, payable at the time of the examination.

Anyone interested in taking the tests should contact Beryl Clinton, Lloyd Waters, or Floyd Guinn at the college before the 22nd of August, 1975. To contact by phone, call 874-3571 or you may contact the college by writing Box 968, Clarendon, Texas 79226.

Eligibility For Taking The Test

The applicant must:

- * be a resident of Texas or a member of the armed forces stationed in Texas
- * be at least 17 years of age and officially withdrawn from school for one calendar year (If a 17 year old enters the military service, this requirement is waived with parental consent but the certificate of high school equivalency will not be issued until one year from the withdrawal date.)

John Payne NM Bank Examiner

John Payne, long-time Clarendon clothing merchant, has accepted a position with the New Mexico Banking Commission and will leave soon for in-service training in Albuquerque.

Payne recently sold John's Clothing Store to Tex Selvidge and placed the family home for sale located on West 5th Street.

Stockmen Due Credit

Livestock producers facing financial problems due to current low market prices should take a close look at the Emergency Livestock Credit Act of 1974.

Just over a year old, the Act provides for emergency financial help to the producer whose business has a good chance of success if it can survive the current liquidity crisis.

Recent changes have been made in the Act that make it more palatable to both the borrower and lender," points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga, project leader in farm management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Under the original Act, almost 400 Texas lenders filled 624 guaranteed loans in 163 counties as of June 18, 1975. Total guarantee was for $70,739,290, an average of $113,364 per loan.

Many cattlemen can use this type of financing, and the situation will probably continue into 1976, contends the economist. Therefore, the recent changes in the Emergency Livestock Credit Act should help them protect their operations from financial disaster in the coming months.

Editorial Comment "Jefferson's Dream Come True"

Thomas Jefferson called it "A Bill for the More General Diffusion of Knowledge." Jefferson and his friend George Wythe prepared it for the Virginia legislature and he hoped the passage of the bill would give each free child (the bill excluded girls, Indians and slaves) three years of schooling without charge.

We have been ever at the task of defining what is public education since the days of the founding of the Republic. It is a measure of the evolution of our democratic values that Jefferson's plan for education in Virginia is now considered supremely elitist, whereas in his own time it was judged so excessively philanthropic and hopelessly naive that the legislature refused to even debate it.

The definition of public education has changed so that our country's educational system should more properly be called a learning society.

But the principles of Jefferson's hope for the future are still valid. "Preach, my dear sir, a crusade against ignorance, establish and improve the law for educating the common people" Jefferson wrote to a friend in 1786.

Clarendon College and the college district have tried to render that ideal in the reality. It serves as a storehouse of information and as a forum for continuing education for those of the community willing to avail themselves of its services.

Clarendon College is a mirror of that hope for the common people. The ideal of universal education with a sense of community is what community college is all about. And with such Federal programs as the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, the Nation has in fact gone a long way toward making a commitment to provide a college education or its equivalent to every qualified young person willing to make the effort necessary.

Moreover, graduation from a high school or college is no longer seen as the end of schooling. Adult education in many forms—private and public, formal informal, for pleasure and for profit—nowadays touches the lives of nearly half the adult population at one time or another in this country.

Through this community college many people would never otherwise come in contact with higher education or learning, there is a difference. Retraining for new occupations, learning for personal accomplishment, achieving some personal goal college at the university level can do this.

The needs of the community are the best guide for programs of the college. As the number of senior citizens increase with advanced health care the period of retirement lengthens and for many people it requires a new series of adjustments. A college course in meal planning and cooking for older adults could serve a useful purpose. The college has already sponsored courses in physical exercise for adults and quilting.

We need to rethink what college is for. Especially the community college. Too used this year. The sunflower head moth remains the greatest threat currently in county fields. The insect burrows into the back of the head and destroys the seed from within.

Sunflowers

Growers expect yields of 500-1500 lbs. on dryland with adequate fertility and 1500-2500 on irrigated although few if any Donley County farmers irrigated sunflowers this year.

With the recent approval of Paraquat as a desiccant by the EPA farmers can now begin applications on fields that have reached physiological maturity. But county agents warn against premature applications of the killer which will cut yields.

Robinson feels the cost of Paraquat will be higher than the cost of use on cotton because of the bulk of the plant. Two quarts per acre may be common as a rate for desiccating.

Many fields of late planted sunflowers in the county were not planted under contract and for these farmers the fall price will be based on open market conditions which no one can even estimate at this point. Most farmers will continue to produce under contract; especially with a crop so new to this region of the plains.

For most farmers it is wait-and-see as sunflowers approach maturity in this first year of expanded production.

Henson's

certain brand names like Quasar TV's, Hotpoint kitchen appliances, A-C Delco automotive parts, and Anchor paints," Redell points out.

"We're a jobber for A-C Delco, have been for a long time now and we sell both retail and wholesale. A lot of people don't know though that we give discounts on auto parts so you're more than likely able to buy here in Clarendon as cheaply as elsewhere."

Henson's once called themselves the A.R. Henson Tire Company but as new lines of merchandise were added or established lines expanded the name sounded cumbersome so the family shortened it to just Henson's because it seemed to convey the multi-line nature of their store better.

As sales of radios and TV's climbed through the years Henson's have not only sold but serviced TV's, installed antennas and tried to offer customers the assurance that their radio or TV wouldn't become an orphan once they took it out of the store. Brands like Motorola-Quasar, Sony and others are that brand name assurance.

But Henson's is more than appliances and tires and hardware. They carry oil paints, art supplies, gardening equipment, sporting goods, plumbing supplies, the list is impressive for a town the size of Clarendon. Henson's is also James Ashcraft and Dorisene McAnear who've been with the business for fifteen years. Lawn mower repair to tire changes is Ashcraft's department while Dorisene waits on customers in the showroom area.

Behind the stock of merchandise there is a simple belief that makes everything else worthwhile as store owners for the Hensons and that is as Redell said, "We've tried to treat customers that come into this store the same way we'd want to be treated ourselves."

And with Wes and his wife, Susan, and their two children Jeffrey and Suzette a second generation is making a way of life from small town merchandising now. Wes, who's responsibility is primarily appliances, radios and TV's also doubles as serviceman when calls for repairs or installation come in.

For the Henson's small town business remains a challenge and a satisfying way of life. For Redell, Frankie, Wes and Susan Clarendon is their kind of town.

Caldwells Take Cruise

Mrs. T.M. Caldwell has returned from a two-week trip and cruise through the Mediterranean. Joining a tour group of 280 from Houston, led by Dr. Charles L. Allen, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Houston, they flew in a chartered 747 to Rome then boarded the chartered Greek liner, the Apollo, at Naples. Before leaving Rome, they visited the Sistine Chapel and St. Pauls Basilica.

Sailing first to Alexandria, Egypt, they went to the great Pyramids in Cairo and sailed on the Nile at sunset. Going on to Beirut, Lebanon, they went inland to the ancient cities of Byblos and Baalbeck. Crossing into Syria, they visited Damascus, oldest continually inhabited city in the world, where the conversion of St. Paul occurred and events relating to it.

They then sailed to Haifa, Israel, and were in the Holy Land several days, spending one night in the beautiful Intercontinental Hotel in Jerusalem. While in Jerusalem, they went to the museum, Shrine of the Book, where the Dead Sea Scrolls are held. Being in the Holy Land was a most moving experience, Mrs. Caldwell reported, and one that no words could ever describe.

To climax their stay in the Holy Land, Dr. Allen held a communion service at the Garden of the Tomb. After leaving the Holy Land, the group sailed to the Greek Island of Rhodes, seeing the magnificent Palace of the Grand Master, then to Ephesus, Turkey, where the seven cities of Ephes are being excavated. On Patmos Island in Greece, they saw the cave of St. John, where he wrote the Book of Revelation. Sailing on to Athens, they saw the ancient city of Corinth and the Acropolis. They flew home from Athens.

There were so many wonderful and fascinating things. Genevieve reported a fabulous trip. Before departing, she was honored at a Bon Voyage luncheon at the home of Mrs. Merrill Winsett in Amarillo.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

By Monty Sowers
District Conservationist

People who enjoy having birds around their homes will find a new Soil Conservation Service brochure, "Invite Birds to Your Home," a big help in planning and landscaping for birds.

The brochure, written by Olan W. Dillon, Jr., SCS biologist, tells the birdlover how to satisfy habitat needs of nesting and wintering birds with trees, shrubs, and food. It tells how a conservation landscape plan used in the selection of trees and shrubs will beautify your yard and attract the kinds of birds you like. "A conservation landscape plan will guide you in placing bird-attracting features near a window, patio, or terrace so you can observe the many varieties of birds that accept your invitation," Monty Sowers, SCS district conservationist at Clarendon states. Even birdlovers in dense residential areas can attract birds by providing water for drinking and bathing and living fences and other shrubs for cover. "A single plant, the elderberry, is used by 51 species of birds and will 'dress' your yard nine months out of the year with its white flower clusters and red-black berries," Sowers said.

"Invite Birds to Your Home" will tell you the kind of food preferred by different kinds of birds, and how you can provide for them during food-short winter months. Single copies of "Invite Birds to Your Home," Program Aid 1093, are available free at Soil Conservation Service offices. The booklet can also be purchased for 75 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Bronc Buster

By Liz Bromley

Last Friday, I registered for school. Yet, after twelve years, this time was different from all the others. This time, I was a senior. My locker is among those at the first in the hall. My friends and I are in our last year at CHS. Melancholy? No, I am looking forward to reaping the rewards that twelve years of education has brought. Ecstatic? You bet. Monday was the first day of all seniors' lives. Twelve long, hard years have passed. There have been many teachers who have trained us. Have we at last accomplished the basic knowledge we have had drilled into us for the past twelve years? I believe we will know the answer to this when we walk across the stage for the last time in May to receive that long awaited for sheep skin.

The first day of school came and went very rapidly for many. There are several new faces—all of whom are welcome here in CHS. There are new teachers and new students, all of whom we are proud to have join the ranks of those of us at CHS.

There are many in CHS. Reportedly, there are 65 or so who are participating in football. There are without a doubt, 71 people in band. We are now the largest band among our competition. That's a good feeling, isn't it?

Our cheerleaders brought home the honors. We have every right to be proud of Mona Robinson, Jan Barbee, Fuzz "Fonze" Davis, Christi Cagle, Teresa Jack, and Kim Radney. They are the first cheerleaders ever to bring home the "Spirit Stick" from camp. Their honors include two blues, two reds, and one white (not necessarily in that order). All of CHS is proud to say, "These are our cheerleaders!"

Tonight, our great Bronchos will scrimmage in Fritch. The time for the B-team is 5:30. The varsity will play at 6:00. The two new coaches-coach Wilson, head coach and Coach Crockett, the new assistant coach-along with the regular coaching staff welcomes you to come and see our teams perform! Go, Broncs!

Seen Around—Hardley anybody has changed; but it's good to see everybody again.

To the only married student in CHS (unless someone else is secretly married)—Rhonda Owens relinquishes her crown as of last year's graduation to Freda Holland. Get ready, girls, we need an heir for next year.

Mona Robinson—too bad you weren't around to help build pyramids in the days of the Egyptians! Any comment, cheerleaders?

Don Hillis—What fun is a watermelon roast with all girls? Walter Riggs—care to explain again to Mrs. Stavenhagen about the qualifications of a good student?

Pat Weatherston—is that truly real?

Where is Tami Douthit?

Fuzz Davis—why do the cheerleaders call you the "Fonze"?

Mike and Bubba Newhouse—are ya'll really ready to marry Kim off?

Dina Mays—did you ever get yourself straight on locations of classes?

To all from all the Mighty Seniors—WELCOME!!! Heh! Heh!

There is, at last, one teacher who is graduating with us in May. One teacher who, after many years of teaching under several different conditions, still cares. Mrs. Todd, are you enthusiastic about this year, too?

Cathy Castner—after all, a chair is a chair is a chair. Will this year include a trip to the basement again?

Will Mrs. Grady ever catch up or slow down or whatever comes first?

Will everyone pass English IV?

Will today's freshmen ever become tomorrow's seniors?

Will last year's juniors ever finish "Gone With The Wind."

Will Bronc Buster survive one more year? Of course it will! Until next week—once again.

Adios!

Cutest Couple—Mr. and Mrs. Terry Collins, nee-Debbie Robertson.

Religious Thoughts

By DR. JAMES BRANDON

It is important that families understand and know the fears and frustrations that older people face. Since neither time nor culture cultivate meaning for the elderly, it is understandable that many older people live with dimmed hope and diminished joy. Fears and frustrations are generated by many problems:

- (1) The need to make a radical change in life style after retirement;
- (2) The haunting fear that reduced income will not the self-respect which goes with being needed;
- (3) Feeling ironical situation of being physically healthy but psychologically defeated;
- (4) The loss of productive work and the self-respect which goes with being needed;
- (5) Feeling trapped by a house in need of repairs located in a decaying neighborhood where nearby services are disappearing;
- (6) A gnawing realization that family members either tolerate or ignore them;
- (7) and the constant wondering about how it will all end and what agony must be endured before it ends.

One sensitive person has written that it is not death the elderly fear most, but life, perhaps long years of life, under impossible conditions.

The Biblical attitude toward the aging stands in sharp contrast to contemporary attitudes. In the Bible, old age is promised as a reward for respect toward parents. "Honor your father and mother" (this is the first commandment with a promise,) "that it may be well with you and that you may live long on the earth" (Eph. 6:2-3). Throughout the scriptures all people are urged to show reverence and respect for the aging: "Hearken to your fathers who begot you, and do not despise your mother when she is old" (Prov. 23:22); "Do not rebuke an older man but exhort him as you would a father; treat...older women like mothers..." (1 Tim 5:1-2).

Paul, in his letter to Timothy, challenges children to care for the aging and needy in their families, to return benefit for benefit to parents who have nurtured them when they were young" (1 Tim 5:4).

In addition to specific biblical references concerning respect and care for aging persons, one prevailing truth which permeates the scriptures is the sacredness of human personality. Respect for persons should be a vital part of our religious experience and should characterize our attitudes toward the older members of our society. Respect for old age is a human attitude which distinguishes man from beast. (See Christian Life Style for families, Christian Life Commission BGCT, 308 Baptist Bldg. Dallas, Texas.)

Someone told me this: "If nobody knows about all the trouble you are in then you don't live in a small town."...We all joke about our small towns, and every town does have its routine gossips whether small or large. But, when we have problems, and we well know how this is just now, it is these small towns that we know so many more of the people. It is in these same small towns that folks come running to help and ask what they can do. Maybe there are advantages both places but as for me we have always lived in and appreciated a small town...It doesn't have to be just a certain size; just so long as it still has that good neighborly feeling one toward another.

Now and then we read that some girl was raped and maybe killed with folks listening in to her cries for help and walking by on all sides...It seems so tragic and we ask how it could possibly happen. They tell us you can get into it yourself for interfering. Maybe even shot right at the scene or molested later...They say folks just learn to keep out of other people's business... But...could this happen in our small town, with dozens knowing about it, and no one willing to help, or even call the police? Again we ask, could this thing happen? We just can't believe that it could...

Failure is more often the lack of energy than lack of capital. Wouldn't it be nice if one could turn off his worries along with the bedroom lamp.

Will Rogers once said: "We spend half our time trying to find something to do with the time we rushed through life trying to save." Never be too disgruntled with your lot, in life, maybe God planned it that way so that could fit into His plan."

Author Attends Bicentennial Meet This Month

by VIRGINIA BROWDER

It was our good fortune to attend the Bicentennial Conference in San Antonio, August 8 and 9 as representative from Donley and Hall counties. As I recall, Panhandle was the only other town from the Texas Panhandle represented there. A large room was filled with displays from mostly middle and southern Texas cities and towns.

The Donley County flag, some of the county medallions, the Bicentennial scrap book with the photographs and architectural drawings by "Butch" Hancock, a copy of the program for Saint's Roost Saga, and Donley County Land O' Promise were prominently displayed for all to see and ask about. While the conclave was more a "show and tell" gathering than a sale, I did sell a Donley County medallion.

It was all-together an inspirational meeting. Mr. Sam Kinch, State Chairman of Texas ARBC introduced the keynote speaker, the Honorable John G. Tower. Preceding that we had been properly welcomed by a lovely lady, Mayor Lila Cockrell of San Antonio. Of course, Mrs. Gene Brownrigg, whom many Clarendon people met during the Ann Armstrong Day in May was one of the busiest people at the conference, answering questions and directing seminars.

I came away from the meeting thinking how nice it would be, if the amphitheatre in Cibola Valley could be completed and the Donley Countians could continue some of the fine Bicentennial program begun last spring. It is certainly too bad to let such a great beginning wind down to a dead stop. Please, one and all, give this some serious thought and let's see if we can't gather the loose ends and go on with some of our patriotic plans. Thus, will Donley County keep her flag flying and be worthy of the nation wide publicity accorded her as the first rural community receiving Bicentennial status and recognition.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell of Lubbock are visiting his parents, the Shelby Bell's this week. Robert has resigned his position and plans to return to college this fall.

Bill Briggmanns

Visit In Clarendon

Bill Briggmann, an employee of Santa Fe Drilling Co., and his family are vacationing here with relatives.

Briggmann has spent the past 13 years on overseas assignments in Venezuela, Tripoli and most recently Iran, where he spent two years.

In a telephone interview with Mrs. Briggmann, she said Tripoli was the place she enjoyed living the most, however, they were treated well in all countries.

During the years abroad, Mrs. Briggmann became multi-lingual, learning Arabic and Iranian well enough to shop and sightsee without problems.

Shopping trips to the bazaars and shops abroad yielded among other things rugs. A prayer rug, Persian and Bactrian rugs are used and enjoyed as floor coverings. Although expensive their beauty and durability make them popular and practical.

Mrs. Briggmann regretted having to leave Iran and at the same time is looking forward to being permanent residents of the United States. After a month's vacation the Briggmann's will be residing in Louisiana.

Mrs. Briggmann is the daughter of Mrs. Quata Phillips of Clarendon.

Junior High Suits Up For Football

Seventh and eighth graders suited up for football practice for the first time Tuesday. Amid the jostling and horseplay the boys talk about the last Dallas Cowboys game and who threw the winning touchdown pass and who intercepted who. On the field they can emulate a new generation's heroes and make life resemble art for awhile.

Frist day suit-up is the usual: misplaced mouthpieces, broken straps to be repaired or replaced, torn jerseys, it all takes time as the boys wear pads for real now.

Van Choate, from rural Clarendon, sits down on a bench as the writer asks questions. "Are you taking pictures for the annual?" When the writer replies not that he wants some pictures for the newspaper, the reply comes instantly, "Oh, you want to see us get our blocks knocked off?"

All probably know that their future role in football at Clarendon depends on how they play ball as Junior High team members. Coach Wilson and Bromley manage the eighth graders while coaches Hall and Crockett look to the seventh graders.

Wilson talked about the Junior High football program and school athletics before leaving the locker room. "We've got some ideas we want to try with these kids but I'm sure we won't know much before the scrimmage. I've always worked in schools where I had responsibilities with Junior High kids, except last year."

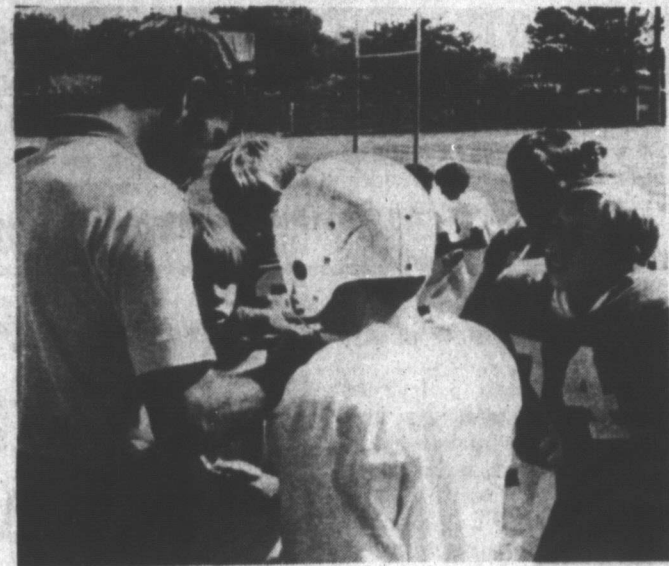

"We need to keep looking to the future as we play football. These kids are the future! And at this level of the sport I find it very necessary to work closely with other departments I find it very necessary to work closely with other departments in the school. There are a lot of demands on the kid's time, band, classroom assignments. It's rough on the kids and coaches both. That's why we try to cooperate with other teachers, but it's hard to do sometimes. Communications is so important between coaches and teachers to keep things open and cooperative.

This year about twenty-two seventh graders and twenty-four eighth graders suited up to test their abilities. Clarendon Junior High plays Valley September 9 at Valley; starting time 6:00.

I am afraid that there is not enough interested parties to keep this news column going to therefore this is the last time it will appear unless interest picks up. If you decide you want it to continue let me know and I will start it again, but it takes news being reported to me before it can be written as I can not write something I do not have. I have enjoyed writing this column and hate to discontinue it.

If you do decide you want it to continue please call me, Mrs. Jess Finley--779-3147. Thank you.
