Hobart Moffitt Hobart Moffitt honored with surprise party

Hobart Moffitt was honored recently with a surprise birthday party on his 88th birthday by the Lions and Lioness Clubs of Hedley. Hobart is the only living charter member of the club.

The Lions Club motto is "We Serve," therefore, members of the club agreed that honoring one who has served his community so well would certainly be in order. Not only has Hobart served the community through the Lions Club since it was organized in 1941, but he has served the community even longer as a businessman.

In 1918, Hobart was employed by Moreman-Battle Hardware of Hedley. He began working for Thompson Bros. Hardware in 1927. Twenty years later Hobart bought the business and since has operated it as Moffitt Hardware. Hobart is the type of businessman who is almost extinct, that is, one who will go an extra mile to render the best possible service.

In keeping with Hobart's love and interest in trains, a special cake shaped like a train was designed for the party.

Over 100 guests attended, some from many parts of the Panhandle, but all there for one purpose: to honor a man who is loved and respected by his fellow man.

People to receive Social Security statement of benefits

Every person who received or repaid any Social Security benefits during 1985 will receive a Social Security Benefit Statement, Form SSA-1099, during January 1986. Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, said recently.

The form will show the amount of Social Security benefits the person received as well as the amount of benefits they repaid during 1985. The form should be used just as any other form 1099 received from a financial institution when the person completes his or her Federal income tax return for 1985, Talbot said.

People who have substantial other income may have to include up to half of their Social Security benefits in their taxable income.

Included with the benefit statement will be IRS Notice 703. This is a worksheet that people can complete to see if any of their Social Security benefits may be subject to Federal income tax.

People who still have questions about the information shown on Form SSA-1099 can call the toll-free telephone number, 1-900-200-1099 shown on the form starting January 2. People who have questions about tax liability or figuring income tax should call the nearest office of the Internal Revenue Service at the number shown on the back of IRS Notice 703 if they cannot find the answer in IRS publications.

A free publication -- Publication 915 -- contains a detailed explanation of the entries on the benefit statement and explains about taxability of benefits. A free copy is available at any Social Security or IRS office.

The Amarillo Social Security Office is located at 3601 W. 15th, Suite 16 and the telephone number is 376-2241 (area code 806).

Feb. 3 last day to file for county office

Monday, February 3, 6 p.m., will be the last day anyone can sign up for one of the seven Donley County offices which will be up for election in the 1986 Democratic Primary election in May.

The office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2 and Precinct 3; County Clerk, County Treasurer; County

Judge; Commissioner Precinct 4 and Commissioner for Precinct 2 will expire at the end of 1986.

Justice of the Peace filing fee is $300. The other county offices filing fees are $600. Anyone needing information or have already decided to file should contact Billy Ray Johnston, Democratic Chairman.

Windbreaks important to rural areas

Severe windstorms can make life difficult on rural areas of the Texas Panhandle. One of the most economical ways we can tame these high winds is through the use of windbreaks.

A great deal of soil moisture is lost during the windstorms. Windbreaks are designed to reduce the wind velocity and conserve soil moisture which is so important to farming in this area. This extra moisture at planting time can play a major part in getting that good stand that farmers hope for every year. Then, after the crop is up, the dense stand of trees will protect the plants from strong winds that could destroy crops in their early stages.

Farmstead headquarters in another area where windbreaks play an important role. The trees effectively block the wind to provide excellent working conditions within the perimeter of the windbreak on even the windiest days. It is estimated that a well-planned, established windbreak can also save up to 30 percent in heating and cooling costs. Two or three rows of trees not only protect the farmstead from high winds but also improve the beauty, privacy and overall quality of life within their boundaries.

Anyone interested in establishing windbreaks on their farm should contact the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation Service office here in Clarendon at 416 Kearney or call 874-2339 for more information.

South Texas constable has own brand of justice for litterers

If you're the person who has been dumping bread wrappers along the roadsides in the Bluntzer community west of Corpus Christi, look out. Constable Bill Gibbens is after you.

Gibbens, a big, purposeful lawman, is serious. "If I catch him," he said, "I'll probably file several cases on him."

The chances are, Gibbens will get his man, or woman -- whoever is strewing the bread wrappers. He's got a perfect record on all the 30 or so cases he's filed on litterers. Nobody has beaten the rap yet.

Nino Gutierrez, district engineer for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation in Corpus Christi, is thankful for the constable's help in keeping down litter on the roadsides.

"We are very pleased at Constable Gibbens' interest and concern about the litter problem. I cannot recall a local official taking such an active position. We hope his efforts will be an inspiration and example to others," Gutierrez added.

Only two of those whom Gibbens has charged chose to fight it out in court. They lost. His cases are filed in the court of Judge John H. Williams, the justice of the peace in Precinct 2, Constable Gibbens' area.

"We have a good judge here. He feels the same way I do," Gibbens said. "He'll be coming in to work and he'll call me on the radio and say, 'hey there's a sack of garbage here.'"

The Clarendon Press, Thurs., Jan. 2, 1986

Most of the time when Gibbens files, the offender comes in, talks to the judge, and pleads nolo contendere or, rarely, guilty. Judge Williams levies a fine and sometimes requires the offender to work it off picking up the mess along the roadside.

"The judge usually first gives them an option of cleaning up the area or paying a fine. Sometimes, considering the extent of the litter, he might fine them and make them clean it up," he said.

Gibbens says he's surprised that only two people decided to fight it out. "It's rather funny because I guess there were only two or three times where people actually admitted it was their garbage and were contrite about it.

"Most of the time, seventy-five percent of the time, they claim somebody stole their garbage and dumped it out," he said. "I have to pay to have mine hauled off." Gib-bens adds with a wry grin, "I sure wish I could find that guy who's stealing it."

Gibbens says sometimes as many as five or six bags of household garbage are tossed out on the side of the road at one place.

There also have been instances in which construction material has been dumped out on the road.

Once, Gibbens found some rubble in a highway ditch from a construction site. Moving on down the highway, he found a little more. "I trailed the guy that way for about four-and-a-half-miles, over to where I found a house being rebuilt," he said.

Gibbens went in and found some material in the wall that matched some of the scraps he had collected along the way. "I had my man then," he said.

Finding a bag of garbage presents Gibbens with the unpleasant task of poking through it to find something that will lead to the person who tossed it out. Usually, there is some mail or some other item that leads directly to the guilty party.

"There's really not much exciting about going through somebody's garbage. It's really a pet peeve of mine. It just burns me up," he said.

And the litterers are not just what he calls "trashy people". He's nailed federal and state employees and even fellow law enforcement officers.

"It's liable to surprise you who might just dump their trash," he said. "By the time I've taken the time to go through their stinking garbage, though, I'm made enough to file on them."

But the bread wrapper litterer really gets Constable Gibbens' goat. Gibbens figures the person is buying old bread from a bakery and feeding it to calves or hogs. Gibbens theorizes that the litterer fattens the animals on the bread, sells them and, for a while, no bread wrappers appear in the ditches.

But then, after a while, the wrappers reappear. Gibbens has talked with the bakery and they are just as interested as he is in stopping the litterer. "They don't want their wrappers in the ditch, either," he said.

Right now, they are jointly trying to work out some way to help identify the offender. Maybe it will work, maybe it won't.

One thing's for sure: "I'll get him," Gibbens vows.

Texas highways undergoing construction

How far will a nickel go?

About 8,224 miles, according to the latest figures from the highway department. That's the number of highway miles currently undergoing some type of work in Texas following the five-cent a gallon fuel tax increase and the increase in motor vehicle registration fees.

The surge in roadwork is the result of a special legislative session in the summer of 1984. During that session, the lawmakers enacted an increase in both fees, which pumped enough money into the highway system to restore the construction and maintenance program. Prior to the infusion of funds, the highway department had been forced to reduce its maintenance program.

"We had reached a real crisis point in 1984," said Bob Lanier, chairman of the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission. "We are trying to operate a 1980s highway system on 1950s economics. The state fuel tax had not been increased since 1955. And, except for a minor change in 1982, registration fees for motor vehicles had remained essentially the same since 1957."

During the ten-year period prior to 1984, the number of drivers in the state increased by more than 46 percent," Lanier said. "But those same years coincided with a focus on fuel economy by motorists, so revenues from fuel tax were not keeping pace with the economy." And nearly thirty years of inflation, he said, had decreased the spending value of the long-standing five-cents a gallon state fuel tax.

With motor vehicle registration fees similarly reflecting nearly thirty-year-old economy figures, the highway department lacked the funds to meet the state's highway needs in the 1980s, Lanier said. Cars used less gas and were lighter in weight, a combination that had an adverse impact on both sources of revenue. And in Texas, millions of new motorists crowded 73,000 miles of state-maintained highways. A system that, by then, was both inadequate and in a bad state of repair.

"We had, in effect, become a federal-aid highway system. If we could not get federal dollars to do a project, the project didn't see reality," Lanier said. "With federal budget cuts a constant worry, we felt it was time to let our fees reflect the current needs."

The state fuel tax was doubled, from five cents a gallon to ten cents. Motor vehicle registration fees were increased and restructured from a formula based on the weight of the vehicle to one based on the age and value of the vehicle.

The impact of the fee increases on the highway system has been far-reaching, according to highway department engineer-director Mark Goode.

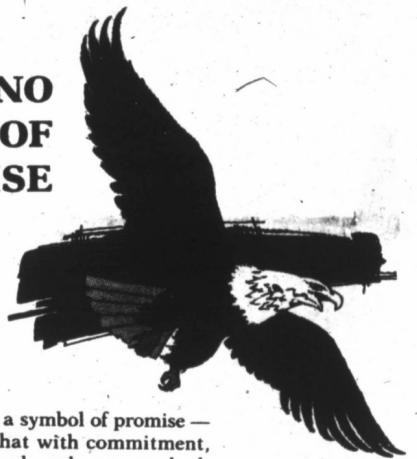

"As of November 1, 1985, we had more than $2.8 billion in highway projects under contract," Goode said. "That is nearly double the $1.5 billion we had two years ago." Goode said the number of projects jumped from 559 in 1983 to nearly 1,000 in 1985. And the scope of the projects includes safety, construction, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

"We now have 8,224 miles under contract in the entire state, more than 10 percent of the entire state highway system," Goode said. "That is enough miles to cross the state from Beaumont to El Paso 10 times."

"With the increase in fees, we can now plan projects and begin construction in as little as two years, by using state funds entirely," he said. "By contrast, federal funding can take six to eight years to secure."

"Our state's highways can't wait that long," said Lanier. "With the increase in fees, we're quickly addressing the highway needs across the entire state."

IT'S NO BIRD OF PARADISE

It is, however, a symbol of promise — the promise that with commitment, resolve and hard work, we can, both individually and collectively, reach our goals and progress into a better tomorrow.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My husband is dead. Both his parents have now died, leaving wills which were never probated. Apparently, my son inherits his father's share under both wills. This includes my in-laws' house. How can I sell the property that so my child can have the money?

A: One of the major benefits of probate is that it clears title to real estate. In this case, you seem to have a house in the names of a couple who are both deceased, and no executor or administrator to represent them.

Your attorney will read the wills and advise you what specific steps must be taken to satisfy title insurance requirements. Only then can the house be marketed.

Q: Are there any countries that do not have agreements with the United States to enforce child support against American citizens within their borders? Where can I get a list of these countries?

A: The State Department can provide information on agreements made between the United States and foreign countries. Within the U.S., Texas has enacted the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act to enforce support orders made in other states. Versions of this Act have been adopted by all the states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Under this Act, the country where the support-paying parent lives will bring the lawsuit on behalf of the absent, support-receiving parent.

Underground storage an important part of the Lone Star Gas System

If you ask average Lone Star Gas customers where the gas they use in their homes comes from, you'll get many answers. They will range from, "I don't know, except that it comes in a pipeline from my meter," to, "Somewhere out there is a gas well with my name on it." Both are essentially correct, although they refer to the two extreme ends of a system which extends from the wellhead to the burner tip, with lots of stops in between. Generally, so long as the gas is there when they need it, the customer really doesn't care how it gets there.

That responsibility weighs heavily on companies like Lone Star Gas, however, since it's their job to see that gas is available when their customers want it. Under normal circumstances, that "gas well with the customer's name on it" keeps the pipeline filled with enough gas to supply everyone's needs. But, what happens when extremely cold weather causes some of those wells to freeze up while demand for gas is abnormally high, or other emergency situations call for a fast infusion of gas into the pipeline? That's where another important part of the system comes into use. It's called underground storage, and it's something Lone Star Gas knows a lot about.

since they helped pioneer the process. The first recorded experiment in storing gas underground was successfully accomplished in 1915 in Welland County, Ontario, Canada. Several partially depleted gas fields were reconditioned. Gas was injected into the field, pressure was built up, and the following winter, gas was withdrawn to meet peak demands.

Lone Star's, and the state of Texas', first underground gas storage was in the Petrolia gas field near Wichita Falls in 1933, but it was later abandoned because there were so many old wells in the field it was impossible to keep it from leaking. The gas industry's first successful storage in a depleted oil field was by Lone Star Gas at its New York City field in Clay County near Henrietta. Shell Oil had abandoned the field in 1950 and Lone Star took it over in 1952, putting it on line in 1953.

At present, Lone Star has nine active underground storage areas serving its 1.2 million customers in Texas and Southern Oklahoma. In addition to New York City, Lone Star has storage areas at LaPan and Ambassador, also near Henrietta; Hill Lake and Leeray, both near Cisco; Pecan Station, south of San Angelo; Pottsville, west of Hamilton; Lake Dallas, east of Denton; and the largest of the nine at Tri-Cities, near Athens in Henderson County. These areas have a total capacity of 62 billion cubic feet (Bcf) of working gas.

There are three types of underground storage areas. The most common, and the one utilized by Lone Star, is depleted oil and gas fields. Salt domes and aquifers are used elsewhere. The process is basically simple. Using compressors, gas is pumped into the depleted field directly from existing transmission pipelines, and it stays there until it is needed. It's like having a checking account at the bank. You insert gas when you have it, leave it there until it's needed, then draw it back out.

Gas can be inserted into any of the areas which have available capacity from any place on the Lone Star system. For instance, if a million cubic feet (MMcf) are purchased in West Texas and the only area with space available is at Tri-Cities in East Texas, the gas is simply pumped into the system at one end and out of the system into storage at the other.

Lone Star has learned from past experience approximately how much gas will be needed to maintain its system under normal and high demand situations. The system, with its nine storage areas, is designed to supply all customers with all the gas they need under normal conditions. It is during periods of high demand that storage gas and curtailments are used to maintain the integrity of the system.

Curtailments are a necessary part of the gas system and have been for years. Curtailment does not mean that the system has run out of gas, but that it has run out of capacity. Electric generating plants and large industrial customers normally use about two-thirds of the gas in the system while residential and commercial customers account for the rest. However, during extremely cold weather, the needs of residential and commercial customers increase, and are Lone Star's number one priority. To insure that they have enough gas, the large volume customers are then curtailed. The large volume customers will usually switch to a standby fuel until the curtailment is lifted. These customers all have curtailment contracts with Lone Star, so they know that when high demand situations arise, they will have their service cut back. This procedure frees most of the gas on the system for use by residential and commercial customers. If the demand necessitates a quick infusion of gas to maintain the system, it will normally come from underground storage.

How would one recognize an underground storage field if they happened to drive past it? There's no easy or obvious way, since no giant above-ground complex is necessary. What you would usually see would be some buildings which house the station and compressors, some above-ground piping, a dehydration plant and some storage tanks for any oil that may come out of the ground when gas is released. The only thing big about it is the amount of gas stored there. For example, at Tri-Cities, the maximum capacity of working gas is nearly 30 Bcf. In layman's terms that means 30 billion cubic feet; but how much gas is that? The basic measurement of gas is the Mcf, or one thousand cubic feet. If you turned on one burner of your gas range at medium flame and left it burning for 200 hours, or 8 1/2 days, you would have used 1Mcf of gas. Now, multiply that by 30 million and you have 30 Bcf. That will cook a lot of meals, heat a lot of water and keep you warm or cool for a long time.

1840 - Francisco Vazquez de Coronado was appointed by Viceroy Mendoza of New Spain (Mexico) to lead an expedition to find the Seven Cities of Cibola. The expedition failed, but it did explore much of the Southwest including parts of Texas.

1948 - The site of Fort Hood, named for Civil War leader John Bell Hood, was selected between Killeen and Geotville.

1860 - Bascom Giles entered prison as a result of the Vicksburg Land Board Scandal, the first elected state official to enter prison for a crime committed while in office.

1970 - The Raza Unida Party was organized in Texas by a group of Hispanic Texans who were hoping to create a new political force in the state.

1974 - The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport was officially opened. With 17,000 acres of land, it was the largest airport in the world at the time.

Watt's Happening in Hedley

by Peggy Watt

Ruby Bardwell left Sunday to spend Christmas in Midland with her granddaughters, Wes and Debra Gay and family and Alan and Deanna. She couldn't remember what their last name is.

Bill and Jo Bridges spent part of the week in their farm home west of town. They divide their time between Hedley and Amarillo where they have a home. Jo works at Northwest Texas Hospital. They lunched at the Senior Citizens while they were here. Larry and Karen Casey, Crissie, Jason, and Katie joined them for the weekend. Fred and I went out and visited for a while Saturday evening.

The Hedley United Methodist Church enjoyed sandwiches and Christmas goodies Wednesday evening in the Fellowship Hall of the church and treated James and Juanita Carter with an old fashioned pound. When Juanita saw the sacks, she thought we were making sacks for the needy. The children of the church exchanged gifts.

J.T. and Helen Lamberson attended a birthday party for their great granddaughter, Mikale Lamberson in the home of her parents, Mike and Donna Lamberson of Pampa.

Murrell and Dorothy Whitaker made a quick trip to Amarillo last week. Murrell commented that the crowds were bad in some places.

The First Baptist Church held their annual Christmas party Wednesday evening. Santa and Mrs. Claus made a visit and presented approximately 85 bags of goodies. Those present also enjoyed a covered dish supper. I've heard several people comment about how cute Mrs. Claus is. Makes me sorry I can't be in two places at once. I have never had the privilege of meeting Mrs. Claus. Actually, if asked, Santa might not admit that he's ever met me.

The members of the Hedley Church of Christ made their annual visit to the people of Hedley and gifted them with bags of Christmas goodies. That's a lovely tradition. I know my parents both look forward to the visit from the people from the Church of Christ.

On December 20th, the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades at Hedley School presented their Christmas program. Called 'The North Pole Goes Rock and Roll,' the children did a fine job, as usual. They knew their lines well and I guess they knew the songs. I couldn't hear the singing very well over the accompaniment. The only song I could understand was Shanna McCrary, and she was singing with a mic. Santa and Mrs. Claus did a great job with their parts. Both the regular Santa and the Rock Santa were good.

Jonnie Wilson left Monday afternoon to spend Christmas with her sister in Las Vegas, Nevada. Several people in town sent quarters with her to play the machines. She drove through because her luggage was too heavy with quarters to fly, I think. Virgil McPherson has been delivering the home delivered meals for her, and looking after her mother, Mrs. Eppers for her, too.

Fred and I visited for a while Sunday evening with J.C. and Helen Woody. Fred got along really good with their littlest grandkid, Matt. I thought we might bring him home with us.

Well, we made it through Christmas fine. We had all our family home with us. Thunder came from Amarillo, and Leon and Linda came up from Memphis. I got a necklace with the word 'Grandma' on it. I'm looking forward to my first grandchild. I've made up my mind that I'm not going to spoil it like most grandmothers do. I'm going to let Fred and the boys do that. Poor little kid. It will have two unmarried aunts, three uncles, four grandparents who have no other grandchildren, and a great-grandmother and great-grandfather. My boys have already told Linda they intend to spoil it. Leon acts like it's the first baby ever born on the planet Earth.

Boots and Eunice Ward had all their family home for Christmas but Robbie wilkes. He lives in Florida and was unable to come. Those who were home were Ronnie and Becki Ward and T.J. of Ulysses, Kansas, Chris and Jason of Clarendon, Glenn and Wanda Ward, Randall, Helena, and James Lee of Childress, Debbie and Glenn Eric of Stephenville; Ricky and Pam Ward, Lewanna and Brent of Lakeview; Jean Wilkes and Keven of Childress; Leon and Carole Ward, Amanda and David and Lorene McCrary, Dean, Shanna and Shanna of Hedley. Lawun and Tonya still live at home.

Tommy Wayne and Carolyn Clendennen and Benjamin of Amarillo and Paula Clendennen of McLean joined Tony at their parents, Tom and Opal Clendennen for Christmas. Opal always enjoyed having Benjamin.

Johnny and Diane Conatser, Jason and Bradley of Dalhart spent Christmas with his parents, Johnny and Doroene Conatser. They visited with Boots and Eunice Ward during their stay.

Bob and Jessie Roland went to Amarillo to be with their son and daughter-in-law, Bobby and Pat for the holiday. Jessie bought the dogs some fantastic gifts.

Pie Adamson and Rita Stone spent some time in Hedley last week. Pie told me she came to tend to some business, but I think she was just homesick for Hedley. I know if it were me, I would be. They attended church at the Methodist Church and lunched at the Senior Citizens.

Terry and Judy Ball of Dallas and Don and Judy Ball of Bowling Green, Kentucky spent Christmas with L.D. and Darlene Ball. I keep wondering how L.D. and Darlene keep their daughters-in-law straight. Both of them are named Judy. They went by and admired Billy and Tena Powell's Christmas tree. Tena has it decorated with all handmade decorations except for the lights.

Joyce Boliver enjoyed the company of Jimmy and Sharon Boliver and Angie of Amarillo during the holidays. Her other son, David and Allene of Trenton, New Jersey, didn't get to come home, but Joyce told me she talked to them Christmas day.

Bill and Mary Kay Clubb enjoyed her parents, Lewis and Maurine Conner and Joe Martin of White Deer for Christmas.

wood, Jennifer and Heather of Amarillo; Roy and Sue Brown, Les, Susan and Cindy and Helen Crump, Karen and Lisa of Hedley. I stopped by and visited with Grace for a while Saturday afternoon. She and I were best friends while we were in school, and it's always good when we can visit. I finally had the chance to tell her that we are going to finally be grandparents. She has 16 grandchildren!

Mildred Lett visited with Juanita Brown and her family during the afternoon Christmas day.

Junior and Martha Hill enjoyed the company of all their children during the Christmas holidays. Jeff and Lori Hill of Ralls; Tim and Sherrie McDougal of Lubbock; Johnny and Gail Hill, Karen and Lisa and Loretta Crump. Justin and Jason of Clarendon joined Leon and Carole Ward, Amanda and David in their parents home.

Mrs. Gertrude Boatright is enjoying a few days visit from her son, Edward Todd of San Antonio.

Attendance was a little low at the Methodist Church Sunday. I guess some of the people are still out of town for the holidays. Sharon and Earl Wheatly are still in Dallas so Rev. James Carter's daughter played the organ. Kay Talley led the singing. I appreciate Kay. I haven't been able to talk for a week much less sing. This was the best Christmas Fred's had in years. I wasn't able to make a sound all during Christmas!

We decided to begin a study of the Doctrines of the Methodist Church on January 8, 1986. Rev. Carter will lead the study and it will begin at 6:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and take part in this series of lessons.

In case there's anyone who hasn't heard, the cotton burr truck from the West Texas Gin was stolen. Prompt action on the part of Blackie Johnson and Deputy Charles Blackburn from Clarendon resulted in the truck being recovered at Estelline. At this time, nobody had been arrested for the theft.

Fred had the best Christmas he's ever had. I think. Last Sunday I started getting hoarse at church and by night, I couldn't make a sound. I've spent the whole week not being able to talk above a whisper. Happy New Year!!!

The Lion's Tale

By GENE ALDERSON

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday at the Lions Hall. Twenty members and three guests were present. There was a mix-up as to whether we would meet today and we apologize to any members who were not contacted about the change. Lion Bentley did a good job of leading the singing acapella. Liantamer Messer introduced David Smith and Debra Mackey, a secretary from Memphis, who were the guests of Lion Donald Smith. Also visiting the club was Phil Moreman of Stephenville, who is a veterinary assistant with Fletcher Animal Clinic. He was the guest of Lion Fred Carter. Boss Lion Winsor read a thank you note for a food basket which the club delivered at Christmas. He also announced a very important directors meeting to be held Monday night at 7:00 p.m. at the Lions Hall. Meeting adjourned.

Letter to Editor

My husband's grandfather, B.E. Jones, recently had surgery and was unable to strip his cotton. But thanks to his good neighbors and friends working together and taking time away from their own busy schedules the task was completed.

It is comforting to know that our grandparents live in a community as loving and caring as Clarendon. It is with heartfelt gratitude that I write this letter.

MONEY SAVING IDEAS

Americans could save $20 billion on home heating costs—and still keep warm—by turning back the thermostat and using electric or kerosene heaters to keep occupied areas warm, according to Dr. Walter Dow of Robeson Industries.

The key is choosing the right heater and using it safely and efficiently. Electric models are convenient, reasonably priced and use readily available "fuel". Kerosene heaters heat a room better, faster and cheaper than electric units, but require more attention.

Today's heaters are safer than ever. Look for tip-over switches, automatic shut-offs and improved protective grills and cleaner-burning kerosene models, like Robeson's Kleen Burn II.

At-home safety is important, too. Place heaters in low-traffic areas, at least 3 feet away from draperies or furniture. Use only 1-K kerosene and store it in a tightly sealed, clearly marked can. Don't use an electric heater on the same circuit with other high-wattage appliances, and be sure extension cords can handle the 1,500 watts electric units use.

Dear Friends,
We wish to thank you for the flowers, visits, cards, food. Most of all we thank you for your prayers during my illness and stay in the hospital and since we returned home. Words cannot express our appreciation. We love all of you, and wish you a Happy New Year.
