Two Killed in Wreck

Two Wichita Falls women were killed in a one-vehicle accident on Highway 287 just inside the Donley County line Monday morning. Nell Cone Thiem, 64, was driving the Jeep CJ-5. She veered off into the median then apparently over-corrected, causing the vehicle to roll over 3 1/2 times. Thiem was thrown from the vehicle and killed instantly. It appears that she was not wearing a seat belt.

The passenger in the vehicle, Mary Louise McCoy, was partially ejected from the vehicle. She died a few minutes later at Hall County Hospital. Both bodies were taken to Spicer Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements.

The wreck was investigated by DPS officers from Memphis and Clarendon.

Local Girl Wins at State

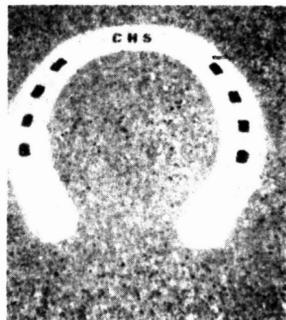

Del Rio, Texas was the setting August 19, 1989 for the annual State 4-H Dog Show. Donley County was represented very well by Misty Longan and her two dogs, Roller (Samoyed) and Lowboy (Longhaired Dachshund). There were 93 4-Hers with 142 dogs entered in the competition this year. Misty and her canine companions came home with their fair share of the ribbons and trophies. Roller took 1st Place in The Working Group (Breed) and thus went in for Best In Show; alas though this was won by a Springer Spaniel from won 2nd place in Open Senior Showmanship (the most difficult class of the competition). The three of them won 4th place in Costume (with Misty as Santa Claus, Roller a reindeer and Lowboy as an elf riding in a sled pulled by Roller). Lowboy also walked away with 5th place in The Hound Group. Lowboy also placed 9th in the Trick class and Roller placed 9th out of 67 in his Obedience Class. Great Job Misty and Friends! Congratulations!

Misty was joined by her mom, Sandra Longan and Judy McCally for the trip. All had a very good time. Besides the show itself, we visited Amistad Lake, Reservoir and Dam and crossed the border into Acuna Mexico for some shopping. Thanks to everyone who helped make this trip possible for Misty, especially those members of The K-9 Korp who helped raise the money but were unable to attend the show. A special thank you to Bob and Vera Andis and Melinda McAneer.

Bronco Boosters paint horseshoes on pavement in front of the school.

Bronco Trot

Work began early Saturday morning August 26, 1989 by Bronco Club Members, Jim Shadle, Susie Shadle, and Patsy Leffew, to paint Bronco hoofprints in front of our High school, Junior High and Elementary Schools on 5th street.

The enthusiasm and excitement was very impressive, as teachers students and parents all passed by and saw what was happening, and stated their feelings.

Some of the statements were: "What are ya'll doing?", "I've Got To See That Horse!", "Isn't this wonderful, everyone is so excited." Several people gave "Thumbs Up" signs as they passed by, while the streets were being painted.

One of the students and member of the bronco team stated, "I can't believe they're doing this for us." "It's the greatest thing I've ever seen." "How can they stay out in this heat, to do this for us?" "I'm impressed"

Jim, Susie, and Patsy, worked all day painting Bronco Tracks up the street and back down, without a break. I'm sure we all would like to thank them for their planning and completion of this project.

The Bronco Booster Club would like to thank Mary Martin for designing the horse shoe, the Highway Department for allowing them to paint on the street, Supt. Jeff

470 PCS Home Health Employees Terminated

According to Johnny Raymond, Panhandle Community Services' Executive Director, workers compensation costs has forced the closing of PCS Home Health Agency which serves 25 counties of the Texas Panhandle. The decision made by the agency's Board of Directors will affect over 1,200 elderly clients and 2,000 immediate family members panhandle wide. Raymond stated that clients served by the agency are elderly, disabled and low-income. The services provided by the agency include: meals preparation, house cleaning, general errands, bathing, medication, physical therapy and doctor's orders for medical services. "These services paid for by the Department of Human Services and Medicare are designed to assist the elderly to stay in their homes and not be forced into convalescent homes", Raymond stated.

The PCS Executive Director stressed within the last seven months worker compensation costs amounted to over $91,000, in just the health related programs. The Department of Human Services does not allow for such unforeseen and uncontrollable costs. They are held to a maximum hourly rate for services. In addition, delays in payments from Medicare have caused our agency serious cash flow problems, Raymond stated.

Raymond said that of the 470 employees being affected by the termination many are elderly people hired by the agency on a part-time basis. "these people are living on a fixed income and really depended on the 15 hours per week to supplement their meager earnings."

Panhandle Community Services, which has delivered Home Health to 25 counties for 15 years, has notified the funding sources of its intent and all contracts will be terminated September 30, 1989. "My hope is that another agency will assume this vital program and not allow these elderly people to suffer and be without these vital services", Raymond stated. "We had no choice."

Raymond blames workers compensation costs as the primary reason for the closing of this program and added, "we were hoping the legislature would provide relief on this problem. Instead it appears an additional 30% increase is facing everyone beginning January 1, 1990." Every county in the panhandle and several hundred clients and their families will be affected by our closing of these services. Expenses of convalescent homes that our clients may have to enter will be devastating, much less the trauma of having to leave their homes. That would be the tragedy!"

Dear Editor:

Well, it is a Thursday morning. After struggling to get out of bed and getting the joints moving I finally make it.

Soon, it is time to pick up the mail. I go to the Post Office and if I can find one spot there I can eventually get my ramp on the curb to get out and get the mail. There is no curb ramp at the United States Post Office but there is a law that says there should be.

I go to the bank. It is easy to get in there as they have complied with all the rules. Go on down the street though and see how many have steps in front of their places of business. What this means is they are saying, "We don't want your business so go away."

We have a reason for going up to the grade school. No curb ramps. A step into the school that can't be made by a wheelchair. So what are they saying? If you have kids that aren't up to the physical demands, keep them out of Clarendon schools.

You can't find but two restaurants that a chair can get into but they still want tourists to stop. Who has a restroom that a handicap can use? The story is: If you are handicapped, stay the h__ out of Clarendon!

Medicine Storage Tips

Proper storage of prescription and nonprescription medicines helps ensure their freshness and potency when medicines are taken. Here are six tips for storing and discarding medicines:

1. Do not store medicines in the bathroom. The moisture in bathrooms may speed the deterioration of many medicines.
2. Clean out all medicine storage areas at least once each year. Throw away medicines that are no longer being used.
3. Discard medicines that are outdated and discolored. If the medicine does not have an expiration date, throw it away after two years. Do not keep medicines that are not labeled.
4. Flush discarded medicines down the toilet. Do not leave medicines in the trash or other areas that are accessible to children and pets.
5. Do not purchase excessive quantities of medicine. Some medicines lose potency when stored for long periods of time.
6. Do not store medicines in automobile glove compartments. High temperatures can reduce the potency of most medicines.

Penalty For Possessing Milk Cases

Those colorful milk cases used by dairies to deliver milk to stores and restaurants are handy containers. They are great to store things in the garage or truck. College students love them for shelving in dormitories or apartments.

But using them or even possessing them is now illegal and can mean a big fine when convicted.

Governor Bill Clements signed legislation on June 14, which becomes effective on September 1, stating that any person who is illegally in possession of a milk case or cases shall, upon conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $300 for each case. This fine also applies to removing the name of the dairy from the case.

However, there is a "grace period" of 60 days...that runs to November 1...to permit those who have cases in their possession to return them WITHOUT PENALTY. That means cases may be returned to stores that sell the milk from the dairy named on the case, or the dairy plant itself, without any fine. After November 1, legal action will be taken.

Why was this law passed? "The case loss in Texas and across the nation is "tremendous", according to Glenn Brown, President of the Dairy Products Institute of Texas. The State of Texas had a loss last year amounting to over 7 million dollars. This not only affects the dairies but ultimately raises the price of milk to consumers. The industry regrets that this action had to be taken", said the dairy spokesman, "but the costs are prohibitive and keep increasing year after year."

This same legislation also provides an identical penalty for the illegal use of grocery shopping carts, bread trays, laundry carts and egg baskets. These industries also lose large numbers of this expensive equipment which is also reflected in prices to the consumer. The 60 day grace period also applies to the return of these items.

"College students are big violators," the dairy spokesman added, "as they use them for shelves and supports in their dormitories and apartments. People who drive trucks for business or pleasure keep supplies in these cases. They are also seen at marinas, open air markets and in countless other locations. In the past, cases have not only been used but also sold at flea markets. These will be checked after the grace period and punitive action will be taken."

Deathless Day A Bright Spot in Texas Summer

Thirteen isn't always an unlucky number. According to early reports, June 13, 1989, was the first day without a Texas traffic death in more than a decade.

"It appears that Texas may have finally achieved a deathless day, and we're delighted to see it," announced George R. Gustafson, president of Texas Safety Association and a spokesperson for the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts. "Before June 13, the most recent day without a traffic death in Texas was January 5, 1977. I'd say we were long overdue."

However, Gustafson said the safety belt coalition would wait until the end of the summer before declaring its "One Deathless Day" campaign an unqualified success.

"There is the possibility of late fatality reports being received," said David Wells, information officer at the Department of Public Safety.

According to DPS statistical procedures, anyone who dies of traffic-related injuries within 30 days after a wreck is counted as a fatality on the day the wreck occurred. The 30-day waiting period for June 13 has already passed, but Wells said there could be follow-up reports that the DPS hasn't received yet.

"In any case," said Gustafson, "we hope that we have reversed a trend this summer. Texas traffic deaths increased in calendar year 1988, the first such increase since 1984. We want those numbers to go down again in 1989."

To that end, the coalition spokesperson urged all motorists to continue driving carefully and to buckle up. "We still have a month remaining, and another holiday weekend, in the vacation season," he said.

Fourteen major Texas cities reported a fatality-free Independence Day weekend in the coalition-sponsored "Give Death A Holiday" promotion. They were Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Brownsville, Bryan/College Station, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Laredo, Lubbock, Midland, Tyler, Waco, and Wichita Falls.

Healthy Group Members Have Flexibility

Healthy families have the ability to solve problems, Mirta Cardona said here recently. "A healthy family doesn't mean that the members do not have problems," Cardona said in her presentation at the "Strengthening Our Families" seminar in McAllen. She is administrator of programs for children and adolescents at Charter Palms Hospital of McAllen.

"Healthy families have the ability to solve problems," Cardona said.

The seminar was conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Expanded Nutrition Program and the McAllen Independent School District.

Cardona said healthy families define the limits and boundaries of the family. There is respect for members and each member has his or her own "space".

Healthy families also take responsibility for their actions, especially the parents, she said.

The educator said families are in constant change and the family must grow and adjust with the children. "Families are not static, they must have some flexibility," she said.

"When families are rigid, nobody grows," Cardona added.

Families should try to transfer their heritage and culture. Children today know very little of their extended family and very little of its history and struggles, she said. Cardona said healthy families also have two-way communication. "All members should have the freedom to communicate."

The sharing of power also is another trait of a healthy family. Authoritarians and dictatorships stifle families, Cardona said.

She said that healthy families should have clear and defined roles and rules.

Advances In Cotton To Be Featured At TAES Field Day At Halfway

Ongoing efforts of scientists to improve the area's agricultural mainstay, cotton, will be presented at the 80th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station on Tuesday, September 12, 1989.

Trailers will transport visitors along research sites at the High Plains Research Foundation. The facility is located 14 miles west of Plainview on U. S. Highway 70. Tours will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m.

Enhancing cotton fiber quality is a major effort at the research facility, said Dr. John Gannaway, TAEX cotton breeder. The development of F2 hybrids and glandless varieties will also be discussed on the tour. Other cotton research areas include Ascoshyta blight resistance and earliness. The public will also be able to view performance trials of the latest commercial varieties, strains and hybrids under development by TAEX, Gannaway said.

Other stops on the tour will feature corn quality research, farming systems for weed control and multiple irrigation planting systems. The field day will also feature displays of equipment, farm supplies and information booths.

The program is a cooperative presentation of TAEX, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the High Plains Research Foundation, the U. S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Service and the Texas Forest Service.

Hedley News

Hedley Schools began the 1989-90 year Monday with enrollment up considerably from the first day of school a year ago. We also have several new faculty members this year. Terri Lackey will be teaching various classes in third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. Peggy Allred is our new home economics teacher. Glenn Boyd is vocational agriculture instructor and FFA advisor. Jackie Pierce occupies a new position on the faculty, that of special education aide. Nita Massey is our new assistant in the cafeteria. Two temporary members of the faculty are Pat White and Cynthia Hill who are substituting for LaMoss Lambert and Terri Lackey, respectively. A new superintendent is to be named tonight (Monday).

Twenty-three students and sponsors attended First Baptist Church's Back-to-School Bash Friday evening. The group traveled to Amarillo for bowling and a pizza supper.

Dorothea Crawford and Pauline Kaufman had for visitors Tuesday through Thursday of last week their sisters, Norene Powell from Odin, Arkansas, and Naomi Kemp from Amarillo. Other visitors were niece Kim Powell and her little daughter Megan from Arkansas; Pauline's daughter Jeanine Ciley; daughter-in-law Wanda Knightstep from Amarillo, Dorothea's daughter Carolyn Blackwell and daughter Shanda; a friend, Shelly Jackson; and Sonja, a foreign student from Germany who is spending this school year with the Blackwells. Also, two aunts from Dimmitt, Geneva Dennis and Jaunada Curtis; a cousin from Amarillo, Frances Morrison; Jane Taylor from Memphis; and a family friend from Clarendon, Billie Penix. The visiting and eating went on "day and night", as Pauline put it.

Jeff Wilkinson spent Wednesday night through Saturday morning in Hall County Hospital with a pinched nerve in his back. Jeff is on break after successful completion of his first quarter at Texas State Technical Institute in Amarillo. He returns to school September 5.

Mildred Hoggard has been quite ill in Hall County Hospital. She was transferred Friday to Saint Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Hedley firemen made their first run from the new fire station Friday afternoon. The call came from the Doyle Messer residence, where an electrical chord to the refrigerator shorted out and caught the wall on fire. Fortunately, damage was limited, and no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Garrison spent last week in the Dallas area. They took daughters Freedom and Promise to Six Flags, Wet and Wild, the Wildlife Park, the Rameses exhibition at Fair Park, and other attractions in the Metroplex.

Clothes Closet

The First Baptist Church of Hedley will have their Clothes Closet open for business on Saturday, September 2 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

We have lots of nice clothing on hand. If you would like to donate clothes contact Betty Hoggatt or one of the ladies at the church. Hope to see you Saturday!

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

The Perfect Church, Part II by Mack Garrison

If a reporter had interviewed Noah as he stepped on the dry ground of Mount Ararat from the ark it might have sounded something like this:

Reporter: "Noah! Mr. Noah! May I have one moment of your time?"

Noah: "Sure. Why not? Praise the Lord."

Reporter: "Mr. Noah, our future viewers would be interested in hearing what it was like on that old ark with all those stinking animals all that time. Was it difficult for you and the Missus? Could you get any sleep? Did you get sea sick? Was the work overly hard?"

Noah: "Well, yes, yes, no, and yes. It was very hard on us all. We worked very hard during those many days feeding and tending to all the animals. We realized that if we didn't do our best that one day centuries to come some little girl would have to do without her pony or some little boy without his toad. It was God's will and His mercy, you see."

Reporter: "But tell us, how DID you stand it? We would like to know."

Noah: "Well, you see, Mr. Reporter, (chuckle) although the work was very hard and the smell was atrocious, it was the ONLY boat afloat!"

"The church." God's only vehicle for getting the gospel message out.

It's the only boat that WILL float in this topsy-turvy, sin-sick world we live in.

Trying to live for God without the church would be like an NFL football team playing against a very good opponent without a huddle. It can't be done!

Some say that the church is a place of healing and rest. And some say that it is a place of study and learning. And still others say it is a place of repentance and remorse, while others say it is a place of joy and laughter. And then far too many think it is all a big joke.

Jesus said, "And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it" (Matt. 16:18).

Jesus did not mean that Peter was the rock but that He Himself was that rock. And Peter's confession was the root of the church: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Jesus spoke with the woman of Samaria in John 4. He told her that He was the living water and could fill her need eternally. He then told her of the sin she was living in. When it dawned on her that Jesus was someone special she asked Him a very peculiar question. "Our fathers worshipped in this mountain and ye say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship." She wanted to ask Jesus where she was supposed to worship. Here stood God in the flesh offering her living water from the well of God and she wanted to know where to go and worship. How amazing!

I am not qualified to give the physical make-up of the perfect church, but I can say with all assurance, "Don't look here or there for the perfect church, but go to the well and there you will find it." To quote a very wise man of God, "If I did find the perfect church it would no longer be perfect because I would be there."

Reporter: "But tell us, how DID you stand it? We would like to know."

Day-care Costs Taking Big Bite Out Of Family Budget

The cost of child-care outside the home has changed little over the past decade—but it is still a major budget outlay for many American families.

"Child care is one of the major expenses facing working parents," said Nancy Granovsky, a family economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Parents want quality and convenience in child-care services."

According to the Urban Institute, child-care costs consume about 10 percent of the average family's income.

"While the 10 percent is an average, there is a wide variation in what families spend on child-care costs," Granovsky said. "Wealthier parents may spend only 5 percent of their income on child-care while families that are less well off financially may spend as much as 20 to 26 percent."

"These costs are a big budget item, comparable to housing costs in many cases," said the specialist.

Parents should pay close attention to how they spend their money, Granovsky said. They need to be aware of how much of the family budget goes to child-care services and of the level of quality and convenience of those services. But they also need to be aware of where the rest of the money goes, too.

Families needing child-care services have a number of options, including family day home-care providers and day-care centers.

DARREN SPIER, Jason Lee, Russell Estlack and Ernie Lee work on a room at the museum. The other scouts were assisting Russell with his Eagle project.

ELMONETTE BIVENS, MARY GREEN and Allan Estlack lead ceremonies for the Arrow of Light for Clint Green (in front of Don and Katherine Williams), Jacob Smith (in front of Martha Smith), Jerry Green, and Evan Williams (in front of Bob Williams). The Arrow of Light is the highest award in Cub Scouting.

ROY BERTRAND, William Boston, Scott Bivens, Elmonette Bivens, Josh Modragon, Chris Chamberlain and Robert Bertrand all moved up. This den is entering its second year of Webelos, a new program.

ALLAN ESTLACK supervises parents and scouts as Cathy Kidd, Rene Stroud, Caleb Stroud, Phil Stroud, Brock Holland, Bobby Kidd, Keith Kidd, Missy Kidd and Sara Kidd participate in the promotion ceremony as the scouts move from Bears to Webelos.

MAUREEN BUTTS puts a new scarf on Zack Butts, as Gayla and David Davidson rescarf Jon and Mike and Neva Spier rescarf Hunter. Elmonette Bivens is in the center. They are graduating from Tigers to Wolves.

JULIE HARTMAN works with Dales Askew, Nathan Floyd, Jared Hartman and Aaron Kidd. All these boys are new Tiger Cubs.

Scouts Meet

Pack 437 held a meeting at Clarendon's City Park on August 24. Troop 433 hosted the affair by having a hamburger cookout for the Cubs, their leaders, and their families. Doing the cooking were Tommy Saye, James Thomas, Teddy Ashcraft, Joey Lee and several Boy Scouts.

Following the meal, each of the Cub dens was raised to the next level of Cub Scouting. The Tiger Cubs, led by Julie Hartman and Tommy Saye, received their Tiger Cub patches. Next Gayla Davidson, Neva Spier, and Maurine Butts were introduced as Den Leaders for the new Bobcat Den. Last year's Wolves were promoted to Bears under the direction of Dee Ann Sears while Kathy Kidd's Bears were promoted to Webelos. The first year Webelos were awarded their Summer Time Pack Awards and Quality Unit Awards; they also received compasses to use this next year. Allen Estlack, Cubmaster and Elmonette Bivens made the presentations.

Highlighting the awards ceremony was the presentation of the Arrow of Light to Evan Williams, Clint Green, Jacob Smith, and Jerry Green. Following the ceremony, the boys saluted their leader, Mary Green, who had worked with them ever since their Tiger Cub days. They then marched across the bridge into Boy Scouting, where Scoutmaster James Thomas and his assistants received them into Troop 433 by presenting them with the Troop's red and black neckerchief.

Estlack Seeking Eagle Rank

As one of the requirements for the Eagle rank, Russell Estlack has chosen a project to restore one room of the old Adair Hospital and to set up an exhibit of the history of Scouting in Donley County as a service to the Saints Rost Museum.

Russell planned and supervised the restoration of a room which will eventually house the hospital equipment used when the hospital was in operation. The project included scraping off old paint, repairing the ceiling plaster, cleaning, and painting the room. Lending a helping hand were Darren Spier, Jason Lee, Ernie Lee, Roger Estlack and Allen Estlack.

Russell also supervised the moving the repair of a showcase donated by George Wayne Estlack which will be a part of the Scout exhibit. A number of items, including a totem pole made by a troop in 1926, have been placed on loan to the exhibit. If you have any old pictures, newspaper clippings, or other items you would like to display, please contact Russell Estlack at 874-3683 or Tommy Saye at 874-3844.

Adequate lighting makes sense for... reading, working and studying.

Use the correct lighting for all your tasks by remembering these lighting tips.

- When possible, move your light source around until you eliminate any shadows or glare to make it easier on your eyes.
- Look for a light source with soft, even illumination so the brightness is balanced down, out, and up.
- When buying bulbs, remember that the lumen rating tells you the light output of the bulb. The watts are how much electricity is needed to produce the light output. And bulb life is the estimated number of hours the bulb will burn.

Mexican Independence Day for 1828

"The 16th of September, the anniversary of the Declaration of Mexican Independence, was celebrated with a great deal of order and unanimity and considerable enthusiasm of feeling," Joseph C. Clopper wrote in his journal from a trip to Texas in 1828.

Clopper, a native of Pennsylvania, visited San Antonio as one of several stops on a journey to Mexican Texas in 1827-28. He was one in a party of Americans who had brought trade goods from the United States. They set up shop at San Antonio for several weeks in late summer and early autumn 1828, and this stay gave Clopper a good opportunity to explore the principal city in Mexican Texas.

For the Pennsylvanian, San Antonio seemed to be especially cosmopolitan. "The traveler hears around him a confusion of unknown tongues," he wrote. The speakers of these diverse languages, according to Clopper, included "the red natives of the forests in their different guttural dialects, the swarthy Spaniard... the voluble Frenchman, a small number of the sons of Green Erin (Ireland) and goodly few of Uncle Sam's nephews."

Surrounded by the babble of so many tongues, the San Antonio visitor, according to Clopper, "feels himself now for the first time in his life a stranger truly in a foreign land."

Clopper chanced to be in San Antonio on Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16, and he left a record of his enjoyable participation in the proceedings. The events all took place on the main plaza, which had been especially decorated for the day.

"A stage was erected in the public square, very much resembling a huge bedstead with a tester and curtains reaching down like drapery to the platform," Clopper wrote in his diary. Atop the posts on each corner of the stage were mounted the flags of Mexico, the United States, Great Britain, and France. The flag of Spain, from which Mexico had won its independence only a few years before, "forming carpeting for the staircase ascending to the stage."

During the afternoon of the holiday, soldiers and citizens from the city paraded through the streets in anticipation of events that would follow. Then in the evening a priest delivered a public address from the festooned stage. "I was told it was an excellent and patriotic composition," Clopper noted, but since he spoke little Spanish he was unable to judge for himself.

Following the Independence Day oration, the whole square was cleared and then lighted up with lanterns and candles "for the enjoyment of the dearly love fandango." The giant public dance actually consisted of five or six separate bands playing simultaneously for dancers in different areas of the square.

With hundreds of people in the light of candles and lamps, most of them dancing to the strains of waltzes and reels, the American declared: "Never before did I witness so large a collection of such happy beings."

Oriental Vegetable Production in Texas Could Tap State and National Market

by Robert L. Haney

The growing demand in Texas and the U.S. for Oriental vegetables offers an opportunity for agricultural producers of this pricey specialty crop. At present, most Oriental vegetables used in Texas are shipped in from California, Florida or Hawaii.

The population of Asian Americans living in Texas is quite large and growing with the majority of them living in the metropolitan centers of Houston, San Antonio and Dallas-Ft. Worth, though a surprising number have settled in smaller cities.

Growing, too, are restaurant numbers offering the exotic cuisines of India, China, Japan, Vietnam, Mongolia and other Far East countries. This has increased demands for Oriental vegetables, including those consumed in restaurants and by families preparing Oriental food in their own home.

Additional demand for Oriental vegetables is expected as new research supports the health benefits of vegetables and fruit, reinforced by the National Cancer Institute's recommendations.

This potential market was recognized early by horticulturists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX).

"Most of our state, but especially East Texas and coastal regions, is ideally suited for production of most Oriental vegetables," said Dr. Sam Cotner, TAEX horticulturist.

"Many Texas vegetable producers are looking into diversifying their operations by growing specialty crops, especially Oriental vegetables," Cotner said.

Research on nitrogen and boron requirements of Chinese cabbage and mustard was conducted at the Overton TAES research facility in early 1988, said Dr. Vincent A. Haby.

In the spring of 1988, a specialty crops committee, made up of TAES scientists and TAEX horticultural specialists, was organized to investigate production of Oriental vegetables in Texas. Goals included evaluating the performance of several Oriental vegetables under Texas conditions, developing cultural practices for optimum yield and quality, and evaluating market responses to these vegetables.

The 1988 State Oriental Vegetable Trials at Overton tested several different varieties of Chinese cabbage, mustard and radish in a replicated trial, and Chinese peas, bitter melon, asparagus bean, okra, and kale in an observational trial.

This replicated trial was transplanted in August and seeded in September. Both plantings of the observational trial were seeded. The site, which was trickle irrigated, had been pretreated with methyl bromide, but no additional insecticides or fungicides were used.

Significant yield differences occurred among Chinese cabbage varieties, according to D.R. Earhart, who conducted the trials. Tropical Delight and Magica yields were greater than China Pride in the August transplanting, whereas, Napa Hybrid and Jade Pagoda produced indeterminate, but statistically similar yields. Tropical Delight was the lowest yielder in the September planting.

A comparison of the two planting dates showed almost a reversal in yield among varieties, with Jade Pagoda and Napa Hybrid having higher yields in the September plantings when compared with Tropical Delight. China Pride and Magica produced indeterminate yields, which could be explained, Earhart said, by the fact that Tropical Delight and Magica reach their maximum growth in less days and the other varieties continued sizing.

Chinese mustard exhibited some of the same growth trends as the Chinese cabbage with yield appearing to be a function of head size. Length of time from planting to harvest also was a factor, Earhart said, even though yields were greater in September plantings due to growth time, the visual quality was equal.

Increase yield of Chinese radishes was due to root weight, Earhart said. Yield of tops and root size also followed this pattern. Chinese radish tops were evaluated because they also are edible as are the seed pods produced when flowering occurs. Of the four varieties, only Chinese White produced flowers, which did not adversely affect root quality.

Days to harvest also affected yield of Chinese radish. Yields at 70 days growth showed a 50 to 75 percent increase, primarily due to root size, compared with the 64 day growth period. Although these roots were huge when compared to common radishes, they did not exhibit the pithiness associated with currently accepted radishes. The quality was excellent whether harvested at 64 days or 70 days. The variety Minowase, which yielded 42 tons per acre when planted in mid-September, became milder with age.

Varieties of Chinese Okra (Luffa gourd), asparagus bean (Yard Long), and Bitter Melon are more adapted to spring plantings. Each produced a small amount of fruit, but not enough to evaluate. The Chinese mustard variety and Japanese white celery were of very poor quality and would not be recommended for production.

Chinese kale (Green Lance) attracted many species of damaging insects (aphids, cabbage worms, etc.). This was very unusual, Earhart said, since there was no significant insect problem on any of the other crops.

Chinese cabbage (Bouquet) exhibited germination problems that caused a reduction in the number of transplants for the August planting and reduced stands in the September planting.

Several Oriental vegetables tested show potential for alternate or new crop production in East Texas. Further research is needed to compare these vegetables with other varieties for quality, yield, plant populations, fertility, intercropping and market evaluations, Earhart said.

True Confessions

In the New Testament there is a frequent association between confession and baptism. Very often the words are found in the same verse.

The fact that confession and baptism are so often found together reflects early Christian practice. Confessing that "Jesus is the Messiah" was part of the essence of Christian faith.

That emphasis echoes Jesus' teaching. In Matthew 10:32 and in Luke 12:8 Jesus said that he would acknowledge those who confessed his name. Those who denied him, he would deny.

Thus confessing that one believes Jesus to be the Messiah was and is a part of becoming a Christian.

But confession does not end with baptism. A Christian's life should confess allegiance to Jesus every day.

In fact the post-apostolic church quickly enlarged the meaning of the term. In the persecutions of those early centuries, Christians who were imprisoned and subjected to torture without denying the faith were called, "confessors". That name was one of deep respect and admiration.

At a time when the television ridicules belief and Jesus disciples' are constantly tempted to deny Jesus through greed or dishonesty or pride, Christians can still respect those who confess that Jesus is Lord and live lives that demonstrate submission to Him.

No Christian is perfect. But those who are striving to remain loyal to their confession find strength and encouragement in meeting with others of like mind. It is hard to live a Christian life in isolation.

offer a wide range of services at varying costs," Granovsky said. "Interestingly, the costs of these two types of day care changed very little between 1975 and 1985."

An Urban Institute analysis found that expenditures on day care did not rise at all and that family day home-care costs had risen only slightly. But, the analysis showed that the hourly cost of care by a relative or sitter in the home had risen dramatically, Granovsky said.

August 23, 1989, at Quail, with participants making several stops in that area looking at Virginia, Valencia, Runner and Spanish peanuts. Some dry land Spanish peanuts were also toured and looked very good, although specialists on the tour said that it would not be typical of this area most years.

Participants had the opportunity to hear from Dr. Thomas Lee, Jr., Extension Plant Pathologist, about peanut diseases and prevention, and Leon New, Extension Agricultural Engineer - Irrigation, about the latest technology in irrigation and proper management of irrigation equipment.

After the tour, a meal was provided for participants by Agri-Max, and Warrick's, Inc.

We did get an opportunity to look at some peanut fields in Donley County that morning with Dr. Lee, and several Agri-Max representatives prior to the tour. Dr. Lee indicated that peanuts in Donley County were looking pretty good for the most part but good, warm weather would be needed through September and early October for peanuts to mature out good. Other areas of production that Donley County peanut producers should look were crop rotation, increased planting rate, earlier planting dates, use of foliar fungicides and soil fungicides.

Dr. Lee said that one of the most important practices in peanut production is rotation. A three year rotation would be best, (1. Peanuts; 2. Cotton; 3. Sorghum) for this area, or at least a two year rotation of peanuts and cotton. The better rotation program, the less likely the need for fungicides.

Producers should also look at planting the earliest possible date after April 10, and when the soil temperature is around 60 degrees F. Planting rate should be at least four seed per foot of row and five per foot of row would be better on early plantings.

Use of foliar fungicides is usually needed late in the season when temperatures are lower and humidity is high. Dr. Lee suggested that peanut producers in Donley County plan on spraying three times (August 15, September 1, and September 15) a year for best results. Soil fungicides would likely be needed where peanuts have been growing for several years for pod rot and other disease problems.

Subscription Rate: Two Hens or a Billy Goat

Donley County residents are advised that a crew is in town selling magazine subscriptions. These are NOT a fly-by-night outfit. They are the professionals of Richard Pearce, Field Circulation Manager for the Texas Farmer Stockman.

Richard Pearce is an entertaining visitor. He has quite a repertoire of anecdotes about periodical sales. Pearce started work for the magazine (then the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman) back in 1939. He quit a $104-per-mo job as a school teacher. The School Board thought he was crazy, but that first week he earned $87 in commissions. He never looked back.

One of Pearce's first customers was a farmwife in Oklahoma who agreed to trade two old hens for a three-year subscription. Pearce had convinced her that the Farmer-Stockman was a clean, educational magazine, ideal reading for a young girl--such as her daughter--who was involved in 4H. As an ex-schoolteacher, he recommended the magazine highly. Her eight-year-old daughter agreed to help catch the hens. But in the course of the chase, Pearce ran squarely into a steel clothesline pole, a rather stunning experience.

After he recovered enough to do so, he chased down the traded-in hens, although without the eight-year-olds' help. With the poultry securely in hand, he turned around and found his hostess laughing heartily.

Even though he still hurt, he realized what a humorous sight he must be. But the farmwife denied that his appearance was the source of her mirth. Rather, she said, it was what her daughter had said. After he had collided with the pole, the youngster discontinued the chase. When her mother asked her why, she had a straightforward reply: "Mommy, I think that he must not have been a very good teacher!"

"Why not?"

"You should have heard what he said when he hit that clothesline post!"

Now Pearce cannot remember just what he said. But he figures it must have been spontaneous. Back in those days, it was common for the magazine to accept in-kind exchanges for subscriptions in lieu of money in cash-poor rural areas. In fact, the thirteen salesmen often had a big load of chickens to sell to the Enid Poultry Company.

One of the more unusual "trade-ins" was a billy goat. One of Pearce's salesmen traded a subscription for the goat, then was faced with the prospect of disposing of it for cash.

The salesman's solution was ingenious. The salesman tied together all four goat- feet, and tossed the animal in the back of the car. He and his colleagues took it to the Friday night dance at Hinton Oklahoma. When the band took a break in the middle of the evening, the salesman had an impromptu auction. Good bye Billy, hello cash.

In October, 1968, Pearce and his sales crew stopped at a hotel in Great Bend Kansas. That evening, he tried to make some phone calls. Since the phone did not work, he went to the lobby to find out what the problem could be. The attendant informed him that the building was on fire.

"Then I better go back up to my room and get my luggage and paper work!"

"There's no time," said a husky fireman. "You better get out now, while there is time!"

He did. But he left his records, luggage and car keys in the room. Without the keys, he could not move his car. He watched as the hotel burned to the ground and saw a huge steel beam fall across his late-model car.

Ironically, two years later a couple of unemployed oil-field workers confessed to arson and fingered the hotel's owner, a retired Lieutenant Colonel. But by then, Pearce was back on the road, of course.

Pearce retired in January 1987. But a year later, he had an opportunity to resume his old job. Now is working for a fifty-year tenure. Despite droughts, sandstorms, fires, car wrecks and clothesline poles, Richard Pearce is still selling the Farmer-Stockman. The 76 year old gentleman promised to return in three years to renew the Press's subscription. I wonder if he'll accept a couple of hens in barter?

two years of construction is budgeted at more than $5.45 million. Architect for the project is the firm of Hannon, Daniel and Dickerson of Amarillo, which also designed the present AQHA building completed in 1984. Exhibit design for the museum is by Gerard Hilferty and Associates of Athens, Ohio, whose equine exhibits include the Kentucky Derby Museum at Churchill Downs and the International Museum of the Horse and the American Saddle Horse Museum, both located at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington. General contractor will be named later this month.

The Heritage Center & Museum will offer a variety of exhibits about the history of the American Quarter Horse, the first equine breed developed in the Western hemisphere. Also included in the Heritage Center will be the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame, which has inducted 27 people and four horses who have contributed substantially to the development of the American Quarter Horse breed. The museum also will have a visitor orientation theater, gallery for changing exhibits, a library and archives, classroom, museum store and artifact storage. Space adjacent to the Heritage Center is planned for a demonstration arena for live Quarter Horse performances, with seating for 200 visitors.

The entrance to the Heritage Center will include a two-story sloping triangular wall facing Interstate 40. Life-size equine figures on the wall will depict the varied activities in which American Quarter Horses compete. The breed's versatility will be highlighted throughout the visitor orientation theater and exhibits.

Because of its accessible location along Interstate 40, the Heritage Center is expected to attract more than 200,000 visitors annually. The Heritage Center's annual operating budget will exceed $400,000 and it will initially employ 10 people.

Construction of the building and installation of the exhibits is scheduled to be completed by mid 1991.

John Deere Offers Safety Films

A new "John Deere Consolidated Safety Videotape", which includes 11 safety segments on one 84-minute 1/2 inch VHS tape, is now available. The new tape replaces the "John Deere Safety Programs" tape and contains four new segments in addition to the previous seven tapes.

"We believe this tape could be a valuable addition to the agricultural programs offered by schools, groups and clubs for use in safety instruction as well as for personal use," said Dave Schmerse of the product safety department at Deere & Company. "Agricultural equipment safety is very important and this tape shows, through animation and staged scenes, what could happen to a person if the wrong procedure is used or if machinery is not handled correctly."

For example, one tape outlines the hazards of "bypass starting" or starting a tractor by using an instrument across the starter instead of using normal starting procedures. "This procedure could injure or kill the operator if the tractor is started in gear," said Schmerse.

Other tapes discuss combine safety, warning signs, safety attitudes and how accidents affect lives. Lawn mowing and an industrial tape are also included.

To order a VHS cassette mail $15 (Illinois residents add 6.25 percent sales tax), to: Deere & Company, Distribution Service Center, Safety Films Dept., 1400 Thirteenth St., East Moline, Illinois, 61244. Order number DKVHU 89580-EN.

Bradward on Classifieds 24

Heaven be praised there are so many young musicians and would-be musicians who enjoy making music. Beats lots of other silly things kids and adults could be doing.

But where to get fine used musical instruments?

Heaven be praised for uncountable stamp and coin collectors always seeking new treasures for their collections.

All of us enjoy the artistry of those skilled in knitting and quilting, crocheting and embroidering.

We admire craftsmen who are talented in making cabinets and furniture.

But sooner or later these things must change hands.

Money for college or for sickness, unemployment, moving out of town, divorce, or to settle an estate.

So whether you seek to buy or sell, think classifieds.

For buying, the best headline Bradward ever created is this:

RARE COINS (OR STAMPS) CAN BE SOLD WHEN A GREAT NUMBER OF OTHER THINGS YOU OWN CANNOT BE GIVEN AWAY.

Yes, friend, if this headline can serve your purposes, adapt it and use it.

Never believe you can get more by selling to dealers in far away places often with only post office boxes for an address. Often you will do better for yourself near home.

Nothing beats the classifieds for quick conversion to cash. Nothing beats the classifieds for finding what you seek.

Where? In the classified PERSONALS.

Did you know PERSONALS are the second most widely read column in your newspaper? Right next to "help wanted" for readership.

Arrange with your newspaper staff for a series of classified ads. At least 4 insertions in a weekly newspaper, at least 7 in a daily.

You will then have the widest possible reading audience interested in your treasures.
