VFW welcome soldiers with Sunday picnic

The Donley County VFW Post will be hosting a Welcome Home Picnic for the 974th Quartermaster Company this Sunday, August 15, 2004, beginning at 1:00 p.m. at the VFW Hall.

The VFW is asking all of its members, Ladies Auxiliary members, and the Friends of the Donley County Veterans to supply them with all the fixings for the picnic. They are also asking the community to help them welcome home our troops with food, donations, or anything you want to give.

The 974th Quartermaster Company out of Amarillo was deployed in Iraq for 18 months and returned home this past Friday. The VFW of Clarendon has been sending care packages and phone cards to the troops while deployed in Iraq. Three members from the community are members of the Quartermaster Company - G.J. Martindale, Sam Gerald, and Anita Rodriguez.

Help the VFW welcome these soldiers home this Sunday.

Churches to welcome CC students Aug. 24

The annual Ice Cream Social for welcoming students back to Clarendon College will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, August 24.

Churches in the area are invited to bring homemade ice cream and other goodies for the students to sample as well as participate in the fellowship.

This event has become a good time for the students and gives the community the opportunity to get to know them and invite them to the various churches. All churches are invited to participate.

If your church desires to participate, call the office of First United Methodist Church at 874-3667 and place the name of your church on the list.

Republicans to rally here on August 25

The Donley County Republican Committee invites all local citizens to a Republican rally on August 25 from 5 p.m. until 6:45 p.m. at the Courthouse Square.

Come and meet the local, state, and national candidates for public office. U.S. Representative Mac Thornberry, Texas Senator Robert Duncan, Texas Representative Warren Chisum, and local candidates Vicky Turnell and Andy Wheatly will be on hand to answer questions you might have about their platforms.

The committee will serve free hot dogs, chips, drinks, and watermelon. Bring your own lawn chairs.

Everyone is invited to come out and be a part of the democratic process. Becoming informed about the issues insures an educated vote.

Arrest brings 2001 arson case to close

A Clarendon man was arrested last week in connection with a 2001 house fire that officials say was arson.

Larry Wilson, age 48, was indicted July 15 and arrested last Friday, August 6. County Judge Jack Hall set bond at $100,000.

Sheriff Butch Blackburn said the arrest of Wilson closes the three-year-old case.

"It's been a long investigation, but we finally close this case with this arrest," he said.

Two other local men have previously been arrested and sentenced in connection with the fire.

Allen Turner, age 26, was arrested July 15, 2003, and sentenced to the Department of Corrections in December, Blackburn said. Two months ago, Jimmy Reese, age 49, also faced an arson charge in the case. He received probation July 1.

The sheriff said Wilson is accused of employing Reese and Turner to burn the old Saye house at the southeast corner of Sixth and Kearney streets in order to get the insurance money.

The fire started the night of February 13, 2003, and resulted in the total loss of the home. Officials suspected arson early on with Fire Chief Delbert Robertson noting that the blaze originated in the middle of the floor of an upstairs room.

The historic home was built at the turn of the 20th century and was purchased by the grandparents of Tommie C. Saye in the 1920s. Five generations of the Saye family lived there during their 60-year ownership of the property. In the 1980s, the house was sold to Clifford Alexander, whose family occupied the home for about 20 years.

At the time of the blaze, the house had been sold to the family of Larry Wilson.

The state fire marshal's office assisted with the initial investigation of this case, and the Donley County Sheriff's Office has continued the investigation to the present.

Midnight Maroon Madness

Coaches Brad Elam and Gary Jack was as members of the 2004 Bronco football squad practice blocking and running during last Friday's midnight workout. The Broncos are preparing for a scrimmage next Friday against Gruver, which will be followed by another scrimmage August 27 against White Deer. The regular season begins September 3 at home against Sunray.

Extension plans dove symposium series

SAN ANGELO - With dove season just around the corner, Texas Cooperative Extension has scheduled three "Dove Symposia" during August to bring hunters up-to-date on the state's most popular game bird. Registration for all three symposia starts at 8 a.m.

Dates and locations are August 19-20, First United Methodist Church in Coleman; and August 26-27 Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde.

"These symposia are designed to summarize the science and art of dove management," said Dr. Dale Rollins, Extension wildlife specialist at San Angelo and a coordinator for the events.

Dove experts from state agencies, organizations and universities, as well as several landowners will discuss how to capitalize on dove hunting opportunities.

The program topics are similar at all three locations, though speakers and landowner panelists will differ to customize the program to that particular site.

Topics on the first day will be:

"Dove Biology In Texas," "Dove Research Findings," "How Hunting Regulations Are Set," "Economic Impacts Of Dove," "Field Management For Doves," "Related Laws And Regulations," "Liability Considerations," "Future Of Dove Hunting" and "Managing And Marketing Dove Hunting" (landowner panel).

The second day will begin with coffee and doughnuts at 7:30 a.m. Talks starting at 8 a.m. will be on: "Shooting Field Management," "Farm Pond Management," "Plants Important To Doves," and "Range-land Habitat Management."

A noon lunch will conclude each of the symposium programs. Extension's co-sponsors for the seminars are the Texas Wildlife Association, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Dove Sportsman's Society. Co-sponsors are the Texas Chapter of the Wildlife Society and Texas Farm Bureau.

Pre-registration is $40, due one week prior to the respective event. Registration at the door is $60 per person. For more information, contact Rollins at (325) 653-4576.

WT to host storytelling

Storytellers of the High Plains joins with WTAMU's Panhandle Storytelling Guild, the Panhandle Plains Museum, and WTAMU's Division of Nursing, and Supportive Care of the Panhandle in presenting the sixth annual storytelling festival, Voices in the Wind, planned for Sept. 10 and 11 on the campus of West Texas A&M University.

This year's festival focuses on the power of storytelling in healing. Tom McDermott of Ft. Worth is the featured teller for the two-day event. McDermott blends rich musical instrumentation with original lyrics, humor, and folklore in his performances.

A children's concert begins the storytelling festival at 10:00 a.m., September 10, in the Branding Iron Theatre. Cost is fifty cents per child.

From 1:00 to 3:00 p.m., McDermott will present a Storytelling and Healing workshop at the Harrington Cancer Center Auditorium in Amarillo. This free workshop is open to the public. An evening concert at WTAMU's Nance Ranch from 7 to 9 p.m. concludes the day's activities.

On Saturday, September 11, festival registration continues at 9:30 a.m. at WTAMU's Jack B. Kelley Student Center. McDermott will lead a workshop from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. that focuses on Storytelling and Music. From 1 to 3:00 p.m., members of the Storytellers of the High Plains present Tales of the Plains at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum. The festival concludes with an evening concert from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Admission to all of the festival events costs $35. Tickets for the evening concerts are $5 per person and $2 for those who are 18 and younger.

Survivor's walk

Tommie Saye (center) walks hand in hand with his daughter, Terry Askew, and his wife, Lucy, during the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life last Friday at the Clarendon College track. Saye and other cancer survivors kicked-off the fundraising relay by taking the first lap. The event raised $10,000 before ultimately being cut short because of stormy weather.

Sign-up to begin for CRP

In full support of President George W. Bush's recent directive to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to sustain the environmental benefits of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), Texas Farm Service Agency (FSA) has announced a General CRP Sign-up 29 to begin August 30, 2004.

Bruce Ferguson, County Executive Director for Donley County FSA explains that CRP Sign-up 29 is offered for those acres currently enrolled in CRP and set to expire September 30, 2004 or September 30, 2005. According to Ferguson, eligible cropland never before enrolled in CRP will also be considered for enrollment under General CRP Sign-up 29.

"As further expansion to the CRP program, President Bush has announced a couple of new initiatives including a Bobwhite quail initiative and an expanded wetland program designed to enhance wetlands and playa lake areas," said Ferguson. "Provisions and eligibility guidelines for these and other new CRP components will be forthcoming as USDA works through the development process."

In light of the projected 16 million acres of CRP set to expire in 2007 and an additional six million acres to expire in 2008, President Bush addressed his vision for the future of the CRP program - the nation's largest, voluntary conservation program offered for private lands.

In a continued effort to "restore, enhance and protect" environmentally sensitive land, build on producer stewardship, and enhance wetland and wildlife acres, the President expressed his commitment to re-enrolling as many CRP acres as possible up to a maximum of 39.2 million acres nationwide.

"Producers and landowners need to understand that CRP Sign-up 29 is completely separate from potential 're-enrollment' of acres expiring in 2007 and 2008," said Ferguson. "No provisions for these acres will be made until the 120-day public comment period has ended."

Individuals interested in making public comment pertaining to managing the large number of acres set to expire in 3-4 years, managing future CRP sign-ups, evaluating the program's environmental effectiveness or other related topics of concern can weigh-in on FSA's website at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>.

Comments on the issues regarding this program must be received within 120 days after the date published in the Federal Register. All written comments should be mailed to Director, Conservation and Environmental Programs Division (CEPD), Farm Service Agency (FSA), Room 4714-S, Stop 0513, 1400 Independence Avenue, S.W. Washington, D.C. 20250-0513.

For more information regarding CRP Sign-up 29 or public comment on the future of CRP, contact the Donley County FSA office in Clarendon at 874-3561 or visit the USDA Web sites at <http://www.usda.gov>.

WARNING: The following column is an editorial (i.e. an opinion, a point of view) and may contain ideas with which some readers may freely disagree. It could be harmful to liberals, socialists, and other small mammals. Read at your own risk.

Liberals want more taxes, less freedom

A commentator made the point of classifying members of the Republican Party as being either "very rich" or being people who are trying to pass themselves off as being "very rich." The accusation that the Grand Old Party is strictly for blue bloods is one that is nothing new, although it is an intellectually lazy charge.

The fact of the matter is that Republicans come from all walks of life, and many of them are small business owners who are by no means wealthy but who would like to keep more of what they earn.

I personally am not a Republican, although I do tend to lean toward that party. I have not paid dues to the state or national GOP for several years because of my frustration with the way our state leadership has shafted West Texas and the way our national leadership has abdicated on Reagan's philosophy of a smaller federal government.

I consider myself a strict libertarian, and that's with a small "l" and not a capital "L" only because of the lack of viable candidates on the Libertarian ticket. As a libertarian, I believe that government should basically leave us the heck alone and exercise only those powers granted to it by the Constitution.

My personal beliefs hold that less regulation is better than more, that my money is mine and not the government's, that federal programs that steal my money and give to someone else are immoral, that government's job is to defend us against domestic criminals and foreign aggressors, and that Americans should encourage conservation of the environment but not be prohibited from utilizing the resources God has given us.

Those ideals are generally in line with most Republican goals, and I therefore tend to vote for the candidate with the "R" by their name. Given the chance, I'll throw a vote to an "L," and in limited circumstances, I'll give a "D" a chance on the local or state level.

But I never vote for any candidate of the Democratic Party for national office. I just can't do it because the philosophies and attitudes of the left are too far removed from my own. Let me share a few broad examples with you.

Liberals typically believe that the "very rich" are "very bad," which was really what the author of the letter was trying to say. I've always found this as being odd since many of the left's most popular leaders (i.e. Kerry and Kennedy) are in fact very, very wealthy. The left paints such people as being greedy, and Democratic candidates proudly beat their chests and promise to raise taxes on the rich to pay "their fair share."

I don't think that being well to do is a bad thing. Typically, it means someone has worked very hard and gotten way ahead in life. It is, after all, a part of the American tradition to want to make something of yourself, to better your condition, and to see to it that your children have life easier or better than you did.

Liberals, by contrast, see wealth as ill-gotten gains. They believe that wealth should be taxed (stolen) and redistributed to other people. Those who have should share their good fortune with those who have not. I believe that those who have not should work as hard as I have if they want to have what I have.

Democrats also operate under the basic philosophy that the federal government exists to help people. This is exemplified by the left's perpetual and unwavering support of programs like Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps, Head Start, free lunches, and all forms of welfare payments.

I, on the other hand, believe that the federal government exists to provide for the common defense, establish justice under the law, and protect the liberties of the people. I believe that government programs tend to sap people's freedom by making them dependent on those programs for their very sustenance. Payments from the state lull people into a false sense of security and create the perception that they are entitled to a carefree retirement, entitled to free medical care, and, in some cases, entitled to a free ride through life.

I believe that nothing in this life is free and that working men and women always end up paying for government programs of all types.

Democrats believe that the government has the right to set rules and regulations that determine how all businesses are run, how all goods are produced, and how employees are paid.

I believe that the government has a narrow right to regulate interstate commerce under the Constitution but that the Founding Fathers never imagined a government with the authority to tell you how to operate your business, how much you pay your employees, how much water a toilet or a washing machine can use, or how wide the front door to your establishment has to be.

In a nutshell, Democratic policies result in less economic freedom because of constraints on capitalism and less personal freedom because, due to high taxation on income and payrolls, people of all income brackets have less money to pursue happiness as they see fit.

I believe more freedom is better and keeping more of your money in your pocket makes you more free.

New dorm room puts damper on plans

Back to school. Three words that strike fear into the hearts of children and lesser wimps. Words that make the hair stand up on the back of my neck and beads of sweat appear on my brow. Deer in the headlights. Entire paragraphs made of fragments. No complete sentences in sight.

I get so scared about school starting, I forget how to make good sense and use good grammar. I suddenly realize that anything I write from now on is going to be subject to judgment and grading and will exist as a permanent testament to my intelligence. I'm in big trouble.

That fear is nothing like the realization that I have to move back into the dorm. I love living in the dorm, but I hate moving. I hate lifting heavy things and carrying them up the stairs.

I started the move back to school this weekend. Yes, it is a little early. I'm a Resident Assistant this year, so I have to go early and do some training and get the dorms ready for opening.

I have always lived on the third floor. For the last two years, in two different dorms, in four different rooms, I have always lived on the third floor. The first floor is in the basement, so I only had to take one flight of stairs to my room.

My new room is on the fourth floor. That's the top one with no elevator and two flights of stairs.

The first couple of times I went up the stairs, I got off on the third floor. I was just used to one flight. When I came back down, I'd get off on the third floor instead of the ground floor. Force of habit.

After a few trips up there, I became fully aware that I do not live on the third floor.

I know it's just one more flight of stairs, but it's twice the distance I've ever had to travel before. It was hot and humid, and I swear I have never sweated like I was sweating after two trips.

The fourth floor turned out to be a real disappointment. I acquired a marshmallow gun this summer. Really it's just a piece of PVC pipe twisted into a glorified peashooter, but it was going to be the coolest thing ever.

I had this plan to sit up in my window and shoot marshmallows at the couples spooning on the porch. I had an extra gun

life's lessons
by carrie helms

so I could have company, too.

No such luck. My window faces the back of the building. No one makes out behind the building. That's ridiculous.

I could just make a friend with someone on the other side of the building. Except, oh wait, I forgot, now we have screens on the windows. You would think that would be great because it's safer and cleaner and all that, but it really puts a kink in my plans for fun.

Besides that, now if Prince Charming wants to throw pebbles at my window to awaken me with a moonlight serenade, there is a distinct possibility I will be unable to hear the gentle tapping on the glass. He might think I'm ignoring him and therefore rejecting the gesture, when that is most definitely not the case.

Unless he's Alex Rodriguez, the fourth floor is a little high to be throwing rocks with any accuracy. That's why I put my name in lights in the window. Just in case.

Right now I'm the only person in the entire building besides the dorm director and her husband. It's pretty lonely and a little scary, so I'm glad for the screens.

There's no one to shoot yet, anyway. And my Prince Charming, well, he's AWOL.

Small businesses drive Texas economy

By Bill Hammond

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics recently announced that Texas added 73,600 jobs in the past year, nearly 13,000 in May alone.

As we cheer this news, it is only fitting to pay tribute to those who made this possible — small employers.

During the economic downturn of the past several years, it is the small business owner who has endured the most hardship.

These employers do not consider layoffs as the first line of defense when times get tough. Instead, they typically take a little less themselves, so a few more people can stay on the payroll for as long as possible.

Today as the economy recovers, it is now the small employer who is leading the recovery.

According to the U.S. Small Business Administration, small businesses create 75-percent of all new jobs in our economy and employ 50-percent of all private sector workers.

Small employers often work seven days a week. They have no human resource department or legal team, or information technology staff, or numerous other divisions those of us in large organizations rely on daily.

We must keep in mind what small business needs from government: An economic climate that encourages innovation and investment. Regulation that is practical and not burdensome. A tax system that serves to stimulate economic activity and jobs creation in the private sector. Good public schools for an educated workforce. A legal system that protects the rights of the injured, but eliminates junk lawsuits. Affordable health care options for their employees. Safe streets and neighborhoods. Clean air and water. An efficient transportation system.

We salute and honor the contributions of small business owners across Texas. It is the economic engine of Texas and it represents the future well-being of our children and grandchildren.

Bill Hammond is president and CEO of the Austin-based Texas Association of Business (TAB), which represents 140,000 employers and 200 local chambers of commerce in this state.

Only very rich people are Republicans

I can't begin to tell you how offended I was at your [July 30, 2004] commentary about the Democratic National Convention.

This election has nothing to do with Bill Clinton. Bill Clinton's eight years are over, and please let me stress the eight. That means that Billy Jeff, as you referred to him, won the presidential election two, count them, two times. Also, I hate to break this to you, but if Hillary had run this year, Billy Jeff would be back with lots of time to, well, you know.

Please tell me the difference in lying about having an extramarital affair and lying about Saddam Heussian [sic] having Weapons of Mass Destruction. President Clinton's lies got him in a very embarrassing set of circumstances with his wife. Dumbly's lies are costing young American lives.

Do you remember the day that George Dumbly had Colin Powell go on national television and show all the satellite photos of rolling labs manufacturing Weapons of Mass Destruction? Why did we stop tracking those labs? Did our satellite cameras quit working? Seems to me we could have kept an eye on them, and we would have known exactly where they were. Why not just send a smart bomb after these WMDs?

Oh, and how about that great landing on that aircraft carrier with the big "Mission Accomplished" sign? Didn't that make you want to wave your ole flag for that fighter pilot? How embarrassing! Let me try to explain it to you. You see, Mr. Chaney [sic] and Mr. Rumsfeld had already made up Dumbly's mind about invading Iraq. How do you suppose the Halliburton crews were already in Kuwait ready to go put those oilfield fires out? Do you think they could've had a heads up a few months before hand? Heck, they even beat the military to the oilfields.

What do you think is hurting our economy the most right now? I know what's hurting my pocketbook the most, the price of gasoline. Do you really buy this supply and demand song and dance? Have you noticed that all the oil companies have merged into three? Do you think they might have had a little inside hint of what was to come? What about those Halliburton contracts that no other company got to bid on? I could go on.

This is my opinion, and I am entitled to it. I hope you will play fair and print this letter. So, my opinion is this. The only people that are Republicans are either very rich or are trying to make somebody think they are rich.

Brad Dalton,
North Donley County

Editor's Response: Comparing Bill Clinton's affair to the war in Iraq seems like quite a stretch to me, but I will tell you the basic difference. American intelligence, British intelligence, Russian intelligence, and communications with other Middle Eastern governments all said that Saddam Hussein either had or was developing weapons of mass death. Members of the Clinton administration and the Democratic congressional leadership also believed Iraq to have weapons of mass death. President Bush trusted and acted on what was assumed to be reliable information. Bush did not lie. Clinton did lie.

If you want to play the "why didn't we" game, then why didn't we respond more forcefully to earlier acts of war committed on the United States when our embassies were attacked, the World Trade Center was bombed the first time, and a hole was blown in a US warship? Maybe we were too worried that we might upset the pantywaists in France or on the United Nations Security Council.

As to conspiracies, do you suppose Cheney, Rumsfeld, and the board of Halliburton were on the Grassy Knoll also?

Yes, I do buy the supply and demand "song and dance" as you put it. Perhaps you have heard of an outfit called OPEC. Perhaps you might notice that when they limit production (i.e. supply), the price goes up because demand remains high. Perhaps you might also notice that environmental nutcases and their lackeys in the Democratic Party have enacted strict regulations on domestic oil and gas producers and have successfully prevented US companies from utilizing the natural resources on this continent and have therefore made us more and more dependent on foreign oil, thus compromising our overall national security. But that's just my opinion.

Fire training school marks 75th birthday

COLLEGE STATION - US Sen. John Cornyn marked the 75th anniversary of the Texas Municipal Fire Training School in College Station on Sunday, July 25, highlighting the important role firefighters play as first responders on the front lines of homeland security.

"I'm committed to ensuring that Texas firefighters remain well trained and equipped as they stand ready to protect our homes and families," Cornyn said. "The safety of our cities and towns is among my highest priorities, and the men and women who protect our hometowns need more support than ever."

The Municipal Fire Training School, one of the largest firefighter training programs in the United States, is conducted by the Texas Engineering Extension Service (TEEX). A member of The Texas A&M University System, TEEX has established itself as a worldwide leader in the delivery of training, technical assistance and technology transfer services.

Sen Cornyn held roundtables with first responders across the state over the past year, including in Houston, Dallas, Sherman, Waco, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa, and Beaumont to discuss local emergency preparedness as part of an ongoing effort to address the security needs in Texas hometowns. The first responder roundtables provided communities the opportunity to express their needs and concerns directly to Sen. Cornyn.

The Texas Municipal Fire Training School was established in 1930 and hosts nearly 3,000 firefighters and instructors from across Texas and throughout the country, providing critical infrastructure an integral training for emergency responders to ensure the safety and protection of citizens.

Members of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department attending the 75th anniversary Texas Engineering Extension Service Municipal Fire Training School in College Station July 25-30 were Buddy Howard, Joey Garcia, Mike LaRoe, and Chuck Robertson. Firefighters from across the state participated in training exercises ranging from battling fires to rescue operations.

Looking Back

15 Years Ago

THE CLARENDON PRESS, August 10, 1989

A new traffic light now regulates traffic on the western edge of Clarendon, and a law enforcement officer has been nearby to help remind drivers of the new signal. Area residents should exercise caution in the area, however, until regular users of the highway - including heavy interstate trucks - become accustomed to the new light.

50 Years Ago

THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER, August 12, 1954

Two persons from Clarendon and three from Goodnight are among the 249 candidates for degrees who expect to participate in summer commencement exercises at West Texas State College. Robert H. Naylor, Clarendon, is a candidate for the Master of Education degree, while Robert W. Clifford, Clarendon, is seeking the Bachelor of Science. From Goodnight are Vivian Mae Newberry, candidate for the Bachelor of Science, and Laura Lou Smith and Floy Sue Smith, seeking the Bachelor of Business Administration.

Modern schooling isn't what it used to be

What do you remember about summer when you were a kid? I remember trips to the library while Mother did the laundry at the Laundromat, reading Zane Gray and Nancy Drew, seeing those timeless NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC magazines, eating tomatoes from the garden, running with my sister, the cool water from the windmill, and anticipating school.

Around the middle of August, Mother took her two daughters on one of two trips a year to Amarillo, shopping for school clothes. (The other trip was shopping for Christmas.) I know, I know. We all go to Amarillo several times a week now; but this started in 1943, and making that trip to Amarillo was an adventure. Polk Street was the street to shop with more wonders in every store, especially that hamburger and Coke at Woolworth's.

Then we were ready for school. Our school list was much shorter than today's with a penny pencil, Big Chief tablet, a box of eight Crayola crayons, scissors, and LePage's school glue. Later we had a notebook and theme paper. If we had a cold, we used a handkerchief and didn't need a nap pad because we were in school and no sleeping was allowed.

I learned to read with Dick and Jane, and there was no so-called "new math" for us. We memorized those multiplication tables, learned penmanship with page after page of perfect letters, and had new spelling words every day.

My five-year-old grandson, Ryan Fross, has his own computer with spell check, a calculator to do his math, and is not impressed with NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC. I wonder what stories he will tell his grandchildren sixty years from now? They will shake their heads in disbelief and wonder how he learned anything.

The one thing that has remained the same is the yellow school bus. Since school will start in a few days, watch out for its precious cargo.

Good news from some of our sick ones. Wanda Nazworth had her hip replaced, and what a story she has to tell! She should be home in a few days with lots of physical therapy ahead. Ed Bills is out and about after his open-heart surgery and says he is doing well.

The fire department meets August 12 at 7 p.m., and the Hot Shots meet August 17 at 7 p.m.

Martin Baptist Church sets barbecue, revival

Martin Baptist Church will be celebrating the close of summer with the annual chicken barbecue and revival.

The celebration begins Saturday, August 14, with the chicken barbecue. During the day, there will be all sorts of activities going on with the cooking of the chickens and various fellowship and games. Fellowship will begin at 7:00 p.m. that night with the barbecued chickens and all the trimmings. The Northfork Band, a southern gospel group, will be ministering music that evening.

Chicken can be purchased at Lowe's and will be prepared and cooked for the evening meal. The entire community is invited to attend.

Along with the barbecue, Martin Baptist Church will also be holding revival services beginning Sunday morning. Todd and Darla Keller and family will be leading the praise and worship with Todd bringing an inspiring and renewing message each service.

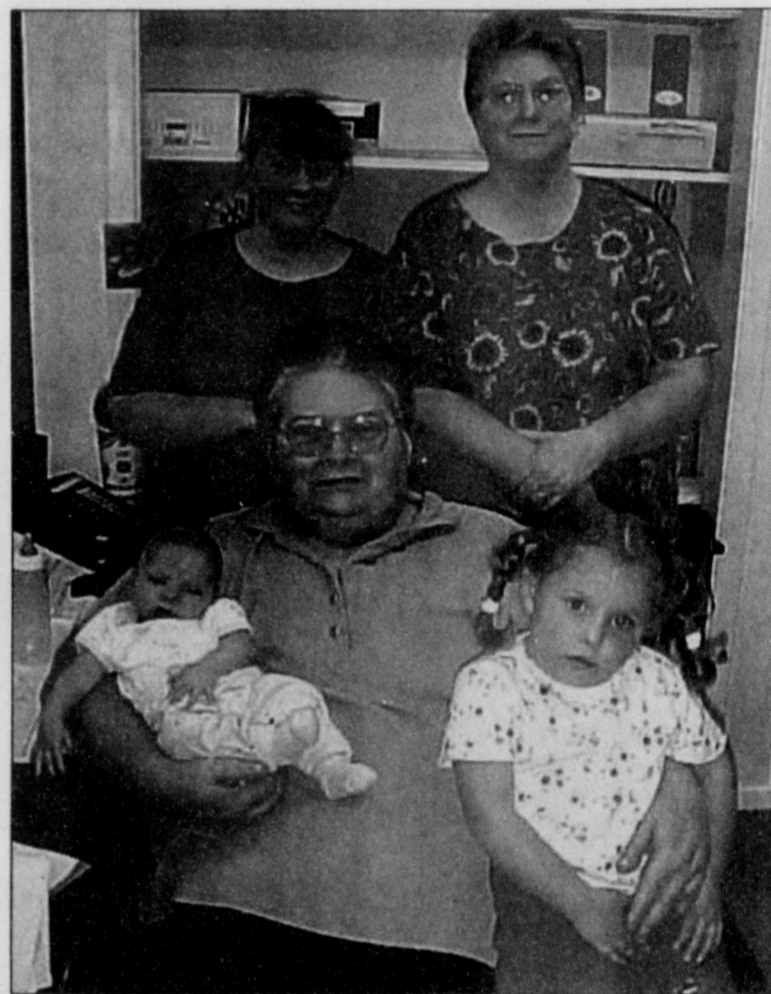

The Kellers are a family devoted to leading God's people to the throne of grace through worship. Their truest desire is to see people respond to God's call in Revelation 3:20, "...

if anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with Me." Through songs of praise and hymns of old, the Kellers will lead you to worship, and by sharing the Word of God, Todd and Darla, along with their children, are leading churches to open themselves up to God's fellowship.

Todd is a graduate of Wayland Baptist University. Todd and Darla have served in West Texas churches for over ten years. Their goal is to see the church renewed through an openness in worship. Their children, Grant, Bristol, Paige, and Brooklynn, take an active roll in worship through voice, instrument, and drama.

The Kellers are in their sixth year of full time ministry and evangelistic work. The Keller family are members of the Conference of Texas Baptist Evangelists and make their home in Amarillo when not ministering to all of God's people.

This invitation is extended to the entire community of Donley County and to all to join with them at Martin Baptist Church in welcoming the Keller family and joining in fellowship and worship. Plan to attend and expect renewal and restoration of God's spirit within you!

Burton Library offers historical romances

Burton Memorial Library congratulates THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE for its award as a winner in the National Newspaper Association's 2004 Better Newspaper Contest. Also, for receiving first place from West Texas Press Association's Better Newspaper Contest. Our community remains proud of the ENTERPRISE's continued excellence in journalism. Way to go Roger, Cheryl, and Ashlee!

Readers who enjoy historical romance will find a treasure in Wildflower Brides containing four novels with an Oregon Trail setting: Brides in the Valley by Andrea Boeshaar; Cathy Marie Hake's The Wedding Wagon; A Bride for the Preacher by Sally Larty; and Pamela Kaye Tracy's Murder or Matrimony. Additional historical romance is found in the appealing How to Lasso A Cowboy with combined writings of Jodi Thomas, Patricia Potter, Emily Carmichael, and Maureen McKade. 39th President Jimmy Carter's first fiction novel, American South and War for Independence offers a moving love story with vivid action and suspense.

Author P.G. Nagle presents strong characters in Glorietta Pass, a descriptive, adventurous, fictional Southwest writing of the 1860's concerning the Santa Fe Trail and New Mexico territory.

Many new non-fiction selections offer high reading interest. Century of Triumph, History of Aviation by Christopher Chant covers everything from the Wright Brothers' first flight from Kitty Hawk, through the Jet Age, to our modern age space program. Included with this fabulous information are 200 illustrations by John Batchelor, accompanied by "never before published watercolor posters of World War I scenes."

Variety of non-fiction extends to Unchained Memories, with "Forward" by Henry Louis Gates, Jr., and introduction by Spencer Crew and Cynthia Goodman. Told in dialect, more than 40 narratives and photos from former slaves' interviews reveal their extraordinary life experiences. This would be a marvelous resource book for students' Social Studies research later in the year. Readers might also be interested in American Son, in which writer Richard Blow describes the last defining years of John F. Kennedy, Jr.

Hedley teachers ready to start new school year

We had a nice rain one night last week. Bill Carson said he had .70 inches, and Jim Mitchell said he had .69, so I figured we had .65 in town.

I don't have a rain gauge but I do have a small jar on my patio where it is not under the eaves of the house or under the trees. I usually forget to empty it between rains though.

The teachers started to school this week. I was amazed at the number of teachers teaching at Hedley. Bryan Hill is the superintendent, Jolene Wilson is principal, and Terry Collins is the Athletic Director. The coaches are Danny Mejia, Bob Giffin, and Mike Prescott. Mr. Giffin also teaches science.

The other teachers include Lon Adams - vocational ag; Timber Lee Potts - kindergarten; Sheila White and Cheryl Koetting - second; Debbie Hill - third; Nicki Adams - fourth; Judy Garrison - fifth; Mark Montgomery - sixth; Bruce Howard - science and choir; Jeanie Gregory - special education; Tangelia Cope-lin - English; Linda Naylor - English, and English as a second language; Lyndon Messer - history; and Kari Lindsey - computer science. Twannah Hall, Hope Stephens, and Gay Lollar are aides. Patrice Wood is the Title One reading teacher. Sherry Stone, Rosie Wright, and Debbie Hall are the cafeteria workers. Bridget Christopherson is the secretary, and Nancy Mullins is the business manager. Sara Moss and Rob Range are the custodians. Rob and Richard Castro drive the buses.

I hope I haven't missed anyone. The Methodists had a special visitor Sunday, Cooper McClesky was there. Cooper is about six months old.

Two Abell-Hanger Foundation scholarships were awarded to students who plan to major in nursing.

This year the TILF awarded 307 new awards and will renew approximately 200 awards for a total of more than 500 scholarships for 2004-05, with an approximate value of $1,025,000. Recipients may attend any approved college in Texas.

Rowland competed in science at the 2004 UIL Academic State Meet. She also participated in UIL calculator applications, mathematics, basketball, track, and cross-country throughout her high school career. Congratulations to Debbie Hamilton for winning the beautiful afghan donated by Mary Giesler. Forty-five dollars was raised to support our Senior Center and Meals on Wheels.

We extend our appreciation to Buddy James for the wonderful donuts he has donated.

Volunteers are needed at the Center. There are plenty of opportunities to volunteer, from driving the van to front deskwork. Just one day a week, 1½ to 3 hours a day is all that is needed. If you or anyone you know can volunteer, come by the Center and speak to Marlee Sharp or Julie Sides.

Those celebrating birthdays this week are Rual Chism, Allene Leathers, Jim Garland, Jack Hall, Joyce Jackson, and Evalene Goodnight.

We send out get well wishes to Robbie Hill and Eddie Bright.

Texas VINE training to be held

The Texas VINE program will host a training session in Clarendon on September 9, 2004, at 9:30 a.m. at the District Courtroom at the Donley County Courthouse.

Texas VINE, or Victim Information and Notification Everyday, gives crime victims access to suspect and offender jail status and court developments 24 hours a day.

Texas VINE is a free, anonymous, and continually updated telephone service. Every 15 minutes, 24 hours a day, information is transferred from county databases to the National VINE Communications Center in Louisville, Kentucky, where the information is stored.

Those updates are available immediately to Texas crime victims who sign up for the service by calling 1-877-TX4-VINE or 1-877-894-8463.

Texas VINE is a statewide program with 45 counties operational and another 50 in the process of setting up their systems.

Texas VINE was established by the Texas Legislature through House Bill 1572, enacted in September 2001.

The Legislature allocated resources to implement a statewide automated victim notification system under the direction of the Office of the Attorney General's Crime Victim Services Division.

Ease your child back into school

By Mary Ruth Bishop, County FSA Agent

Establishing a normal school routine can be hard for children of any age after the long lazy days of summer. Here are some tips that might help make going back to school a less stressful experience for both children and parents.

1. Get kids into the school mode early. Many children have a summer schedule that includes staying up late and sleeping in. Kids need at least a week before school starts to get back into the school schedule.

2. Talk with children about their fears and concerns. Many children who are changing schools or even classes have anxieties and fears. Discuss their concerns and do some advance problem solving and planning.

3. Get involved with your child's school. Most importantly, get to know your child's teachers. Make a point of meeting them and discussing their expectations. Use the meeting to talk about your child's special needs and goals. Find out about homework and projects. Teachers are more likely to contact parents when they have a good relationship.

4. Talk to your children about what they want to accomplish and get out of their school year. Discuss their academic and social goals, but emphasize balance. After school activities should not detract from academic work or add stress to their lives.

With squash so plentiful we sometimes get tired of cooking the same old thing. Try the following recipe for a different twist to squash.

Crockpot Squash and Pork Chops

6 thick pork chops
2 medium acorn squash
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
3/4 cup brown sugar
3/4 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet or browning sauce
1 tablespoon orange juice
1/2 teaspoon orange peel, grated

Trim excess fat from pork chops. Cut each squash into 4 or 5 crossways slices; remove seeds. Arrange 3 chops on bottom of crockpot. Place all squash slices on top; then another layer of three remaining chops.

Combine salt, butter, sugar, bouquet sauce, orange juice and orange peel. Spoon over chops. Cover and cook on low 6-8 hours or until done. Serve one or two slices of squash with each pork chop. Serving Size : 6.

Easy Squash Pudding Cake
1 pkg. yellow cake mix
1 small pkg. vanilla instant pudding
4 eggs
1/4 cup oil
3 cups yellow squash or zucchini, grated
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 cup nuts, chopped
confectioners sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine all ingredients; blend then beat at medium speed for 4 minutes. Pour into 3 greased and floured loaf pans. Bake 50 to 55 minutes or until cake tests done. Do not overbake. Cool in pans 15 minutes. Remove from pans to finish cooling on rack. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar.

For more squash recipes, please come by the Donley County Extension office. We have put together a recipe booklet called "Alternative to the Same Ol' Squash"
