A. R. Letts Sues J. K. Zimmerman for $162,000.

Suit for damages in the sum of $162,000 has been filed in the United States circuit court by Arthur R. Letts against J. K. Zimmerman. Papers in the case were filed late Thursday afternoon, but service was not obtained until Friday morning.

Defendant is a resident of Jackson county, Mo., but is at present in Tarrant county. Plaintiff is a resident of Donley county.

In the petition it is set forth that Aug. 13, 1906, the plaintiff and the defendant entered into a contract in writing whereby the plaintiff was given an option on a ranch in Donley and Hall counties known as the Zimmerman ranch. Defendant represented to the plaintiff, so the petition declares, that he was the owner of the ranch, and the plaintiff accordingly obtained the option which entitled him to the privilege of purchasing the ranch, which was estimated to contain 54,000 acres, for the price of $7 per acre, to be paid for in cash after plaintiff had been given sufficient time in which to examine the title, the option to expire Sept. 20, 1906. After entering into the contract the plaintiff devoted a great deal of his time and about $2,500 in making arrangements necessary to enable him to avail himself of the benefit of the option.

Continuing, the petition alleges that Sept. 20, 1906, plaintiff notified defendant of his acceptance and offered to carry out the provisions of the contract. Defendant, it is alleged, refused to convey the property, claiming that the option had expired Sept. 19.

Plaintiff represents that defendant was the owner of and could furnish a good marketable title to a large part of the land, and that the remainder stood in the name of the Bugbee-Coleman Land and Cattle company, but really belonged to the defendant, who owned practically all of the stock in the company. It is further represented by plaintiff that if defendant was not the owner of the ranch, his inability to carry out his contract arose from causes which were known to him at the time he signed his name to it.

Since Sept. 20, the defendant has sold a large part of the ranch to persons who are innocent purchasers, the petition recites, and prices much higher than that mentioned in the contract with plaintiff were obtained.

Plaintiff alleges that the property is now easily worth $10 per acre, and that as a result of the acts complained of, defendant has damaged him to the extent of $162,000, judgment for which he asks.

The United States circuit court convenes here Nov. 11, and unless continued for some cause or other, the suit will be tried at this term of court.—Fort Worth Record.

Suits on Illegal Leases and Sales.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 11.—While several suits have been brought at the instance of the General Land Office against lessees for fraudulent occupancy of lands, it is understood the principal suits are yet to be brought. Some of these suits, it is understood, will be of a sensational nature and will affect a number of prominent cattlemen of West Texas and other towns.

In the suits it is expected to be shown where a number of men have grown wealthy by leasing school lands. When the lease privilege is granted by the state, the lessee must make affidavit he intends to become a resident on the property and that he wants the property for a home. There are many instances, it is said, where persons living in cities have leased and purchased school lands and who have not lived a day on the lands. Cattlemen, it is said, who own land will lease lands adjoining the lands they own and let cowboys in their employ live on the lands. Often the provision is not this nearly complied with, for in most instances the cowboys stay in a centrally located ranch house.

It is expected that the contemplated suits will be filed some time next week. Several cattlemen, it is said, have surrendered their rights to the lands they have leased to the State, in order to avoid the suits.

Has the farmer any complaint coming? Let us see: Cotton is selling at 11 to 12 cents; corn is selling at 60 cents a bushel; Irish potatoes are selling at $1.20 a bushel, sweet potatoes are selling from 75 cents to $1.00 a bushel; prices for vegetables are almost out of sight, pork is selling at 8 to 10 cents a pound; chickens are quick sale at from 25 cents to 40 cents each; eggs are selling at from 20 to 25 cents a dozen; butter is selling from 15 to 25 cents a pound; sweet milk selling at from 25 to 40 cents a gallon; oats are selling at 65 to 70 a bushel; wheat is selling at $1.20 a bushel; common horses are selling at $100 each; good mules are selling at $200 and so on. No, the farmer has no kick coming. If he can not make money under present conditions it is because he does not plan for next week and for next year. He has not, since this government was founded, had the opportunity to make money on the farm than he has right now. The farmers ought to be in a good humor with everybody.—Tyler Courier.

Mrs. Chadwick, Convict Forger, Dead.

Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, whose amazing financial transactions culminated in the wrecking of an Oberlin bank, died in the woman's ward at the Ohio state penitentiary Thursday night. Mrs. Chadwick had been in a comatose condition for some hours previous to her death, and the end came peacefully. No friends or relatives were at her bedside; only a few prison attendants. Her son, Emil Hoover, had been summoned from Cleveland, but arrived 15 minutes after his mother had breathed her last.

Mrs. Chadwick's body was removed to a local undertaking establishment and prepared for burial at Cleveland.

Mrs. Chadwick embraced the Roman Catholic faith, and was baptized a few days before her death. Thursday morning she received the last anointment.

Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Bigely, was a native of Woodstock, Canada. She first came into public notice at Toledo, O., about 20 years ago, where she told fortunes under the name of Madame De Vere. While in that city she forged the name of Richard Brown of Youngstown, O., and for this crime was sent to the penitentiary at Columbus for nine years.

She served but a portion of her sentence, and then located at Cleveland, where she married a man named Hoover. Her second husband was Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick of Cleveland, a man of good family and excellent standing in his profession.

In the latter part of 1902, or early in 1903, Mrs. Chadwick, in the presence of her husband, gave to Ira Reynolds, the cashier of the Wade Park Bank of Cleveland, a box containing notes signed with the name of Andrew Carnegie. These forged notes are alleged to have amounted to $7,500,000. Reynolds gave to Mrs. Chadwick a receipt for the papers, which described the notes and the signatures upon them. Mrs. Chadwick left with Reynolds as an explanation of the existence of the note the statement that she was a natural daughter of Carnegie.

With the receipt of Reynolds in her possession Mrs. Chadwick went to different banks and many capitalists making loans, and paying not only high interest to the banks, but heavy bonuses to the bank officials who loaned her money. The extent of these transactions will never be fully known, but they run up into the millions. They involved men of high standing in the financial world and caused heavy losses to many banks.

Mrs. Chadwick, Beckwith and Spear were indicted for a variety of offenses against the national banking laws. Beckwith died before coming to trial. Spear pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary, and is now serving time at Columbus. O. Mrs. Chadwick was brought to trial on March 5, 1905, and after a hearing which lasted two weeks, was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud a national bank, and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Hard Times Increase Advertising.

An advertising solicitor in a southern city was asked by a reporter for a local newspaper if he was not enthusiastic over the prospect for "good times" and a lively business season during the coming fall and winter.

"No," said he; "I can't say that, so far as my business is concerned, I have any reason to congratulate myself because the outlook now is for exceptionally good times. The truth of the matter is, I have found after an experience of 20 years that the harder times are the easier it is for me to secure advertising. There are scores of business men in my town who never think of inviting patronage until their business begins to drop below normal."—American Press.

Lugitania Breaks all Records.

Four days, nineteen hours, and fifty-two minutes out from Queens-town with every trans-Atlantic record in her possession, the Cunard liner Lugitania swept by Sandy Hook light ship at 1:17 a. m. Friday and after a pause off the bar to await daylight steamed slowly up the harbor to receive recognition of the right to the title of "queen of the sea."

Three records were written in her log. The shortest time from any European port to New York, the fastest average speed for any trans-Atlantic voyage, 23.99 nautical miles, and the longest daily run, 617 nautical miles.

Translated into land miles her average speed for the run was 27.6 miles. Her achievement is a triumph for British ship building as the two records were wrested from the Germans and it may mark the passing of the old-fashioned reciprocating engine and the beginning of the universal installation of turbines.

Brigadier General Helm of Mississippi, a leading democrat, in an open letter, favors the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Now it is claimed that Governor Campbell is after the seat of Senator Joe Bailey. And what lends color to this statement is the fact that the governor "only smiles" when the matter is mentioned.—Decatur Messenger.

Wonder where the increase in size of ocean vessels will stop. In the recent record breaking trip of the Lusitania, 323 firemen, under orders to work to their limit, fed the furnaces between 950 and 1,000 tons of picked British Navy Welsh coal each day.

Allison Mayfield, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, says Texas is for Senator Culberson for president, but that if Bryan is a candidate he will beyond doubt receive the votes of the Texas delegation, as Senator Culberson would not permit his name to be used against Bryan.

A. G. Colliver is to marry Miss Carrie Rockefeller, and niece of John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Colliver is a native Kansan. The wedding will take place October 25.

The telegraphers strike has about frizzled out. This President Small could see, and he asked a vote to be taken on whether or not it be continued. He says their funds are exhausted and it is futile to try to win any longer. The strikers charge the national leaders with inconsistency in first claiming that the strike would be successfully financed and admitted that the general assembly was without funds, and with having conducted the fight in a half hearted, dilatory way. Small tried to explain his position, but was frequently interrupted by hisses. When he suddenly left the hall in the midst of the speech-making, cries of "resign" followed him. Sunday night Small issued a statement in which he said he was willing to continue the strike if the men insisted. Locals of Chicago, Baltimore, New Orleans and Atlanta voted to continue the strike, also Memphis and Montgomery. The executive board of the Commercial Telegraphers' union notified President Small that he had been suspended.

Engine Collision Promoters to Be Arrested.

Over 20,000 people saw the pre-arranged head on collision of two locomotives at the Fort Worth fair grounds Sunday. The engines started at either end of a quarter-mile straight track and came together with a crash in front of the grand stand. Both engines were of the old abandoned type, and not capable of any very high rate of speed. They were under full steam, however, when they came together, and there was enough of realism about the mimic railway catastrophe to excite the crowd.

County Attorney Roy claims that under the law of the state the maintaining of a track for a railroad collision and other features at the fair grounds Sunday was just as much in violation of the statutes as an open theater or saloon in Ft. Worth would be.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of all parties against whom information was filed, and placed in the hands of a deputy sheriff for service.

The city council held a meeting Monday and authorized the sheriff to order the tent, recently occupied as a restaurant, moved out of the fire limits under a penalty of from $10 to $50 for each day it remains.

Want Prohibition in Potter.

Agitation which has been quietly going on for several months took definite form today when formal petitions were put in circulation asking the commissioners' court to call a local option election in Potter county. Five petitions are being circulated today by members of the committees appointed by the meetings for the purpose. To make the petitions obligatory on the commissioners' court, as many as 250 duly qualified voters in this county must affix their signatures to the petitions. Members of the committee today expressed themselves as confident of securing the necessary number of signers.

The petitions when signed will come before the commissioners' court at the November term. The court is then obliged, after verifying the signatures to the document, to call an election in not less than 15 days nor more than 30 days. This would throw the election in the last of November or the first of December.

Both sides of the question have a number of warm and active adherents and the campaign is certain to be one of the most strenuous ever waged in Amarillo. In December 1901 Amarillo voted for prohibition and the law remained in effect here two years. It was widely violated and at the end of two years the measure, on resubmission, was defeated. At that time the precinct a few miles from Amarillo was left out of the prohibition territory. This time the entire county is included in the petition and all the surrounding counties are "dry" territory.—Amarillo Panhandle.

At Beaumont Saturday a jury, after being out 36 hours, awarded Mrs. S. H. McGary a verdict of one cent in a suit for $1,500 for being put off a train at the wrong station.

Doc McDonald, 18 years old, living on Cobb Creek, south of Hillsboro, while endeavoring to catch a horse in his father's yard was kicked on the mouth by the animal, the blow knocking out nearly all his teeth and breaking one of his jaws. Since the occurrence mortification has developed and reports from him received indicate that his condition is critical.

While seated on his front porch in Texarkana Sunday with his feet propped up, E. M. Sumner, a white man was shot and instantly killed by Monroe Ballard, a negro preacher. Two shots were fired, both striking vital spots. Ballard barricaded himself in his home, and when the officers and crowd of citizens went to arrest him he opened fire on them. The officers turned the fire and the negro fell, riddled with bullets and died an hour later. The two dead men resided in adjoining houses. Ballard became angered because Sumner had persuaded the landlord to order him to vacate because he was a negro.

Early Sunday morning the safe of the Kirby Lumber company at Silsbee was rifled of $7,500 of the funds of the lumber company, which was deposited by Paymaster T. H. Hunter, who was engaged in making the regular rounds of the Kirby mills, and was to have paid off at Village mills on Monday. Of the amount stolen all save $300 was in currency, and the burglar left behind several hundred dollars in silver. The safe showed no signs of having been blown, but both doors were found open, and the combination would not work. The burglars also entered the commissary of the Gerson Lumber company and secured a few dollars from drawer and shoes and other articles valued at $40.

UNCLE GEORGE

THE SLOVEN.
She came to the breakfast table in a torn, dirty dress, with half combed hair. The table was without a cloth, the breakfast badly cooked. The children were dirty and quarrelsome, and she saw them slip away to school without attempting to wash their faces or change their soiled aprons. Her husband had hastily swallowed a cup of coffee and left the house without a word to wife or children.

She sat for a while gazing indifferently at the untidy table and disorderly room, and then began lazily to set things in order. She dwelled over her work without spirit or system, and the children were home from school before the beds had been touched. The two oldest girls hurried up stairs with scowling faces at her scowling command to them to make up the beds. Dinner was half an hour late and her husband stormed up and down the untidy house, ate an ill-cooked dinner in sullen silence and hurried from the unpleasant home. The children followed, scattering to the neighbors, to the barn, anywhere away from home and mother. The darkness drove the various members of the family into the house again, but they came unwillingly, and slipped away to bed uncared for, cross and wretched with their badly nourished bodies, and hearts that hungered for the peace and comforts of home.

Do you think this is an exaggerated picture? It is not. There are homes just like this, and the dirt and disorder and discomfort and heartache lie at some woman's door.

For the overworked wife and mother, for the invalid, for the ignorant who are trying to learn, who are doing their level best to bear a heavy burden, we offer pity, sympathy and help, but for the indolent woman we have only scorn.

There is no place in the universe for a lazy woman. We will care for the sick woman, we will tolerate a cross woman—but what shall we do to the lazy woman. Because the home is the very center of life, the home-keeper must be active, orderly and conscientious—these qualifications she must have, and if she can add to these, thrift, intelligence and tenderness, we find wherever she is, that most blessed and beautiful of all earthly delights, a happy home.

ETERNAL DISH WASHING.

We may in this item be repeating to our lady readers a tiresome truth, but it will show them that at least one editor appreciates their real condition in life. The quiet fidelity with which "she" will dish-wash her life away for "him" is a marvel of endurance and grace. Just here is the servitude of woman the greatest. No sooner is her work done than it requires to be done again. Man works up jobs, ends them, and takes his pay. This pay can be translated into something else desirable. A man works all day and draws pay for his day's work. This pay allures him, as oats a horse, homeward bound. Thus men work by terms and jobs; and although work is endless as to quantity, yet when cut up into terms and jobs, we men go heartily on our journey and count our milestones. Not so with our mate, if we are so fortunate as to have one. She mends our socks, and we put our irrepressible toe upon the darned spot and she darns it again. "She" washes for the family, and the family makes haste to send back the same garments to be washed again. "She" puts the room in order and we get ready to be "rid up" again. The same socks, the same washing, the same room every time. She has no successive jobs, no terms, no pay day, no tally-stick of life. She washes the same dishes 365—yes, three times 365 times every year. No wonder she breaks it and is glad of it. What a relief it must be when she can say, "I have done with that dish."

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would it be believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a medicine of known composition, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too its remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended. A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take and easy.

Three of Walter Stanton's children were badly hurt Sunday by being thrown from a buggy in a runaway. They were coming down the slope near the convent when some boys came running up behind on bicycles, scaring the horse they were driving, causing him to break into a run. The buggy finally came in contact with a post at the Bearden vacant lot, which had been set in an old road, broke the shafts of the buggy and upset the children. Golda, the oldest girl, about 12, was cut and bruised about the head, and a 5-year-old girl received a cut on side of throat and neck. The baby's scalp was badly torn for the length of three inches, laying the bone bare, and considerable sand and gravel lodged under the edges of the skin in the opening. Grace Besaw, a neighbor girl, was with them, and also received injuries. It was a narrow call for all of them, but it is thought all will recover without serious, permanent injury.

Gus Jacques Falls Dead From Apoplexy.

Gus Jacques, formerly in business in Clarendon, but for some six years a merchant of Dalhart, fell dead just after 8 o'clock at the Adams house Saturday night. He had been in bad health ever since the death of his wife nearly a year ago, the doctors pronouncing his disease as Bright's disease. He had spent a month in a hospital at Fort Worth and seemed to be improving somewhat. A few days before Attorney White and Mr. Jacques' brother from Dalhart went down to see him and returned here Saturday morning with him, the doctor advising him not to go to Dalhart on account of the altitude. His brother continued his journey home. Mr. Jacques ate heartier than usual at supper that evening, but an hour later, while alone in a closet, he dropped forward in death from apoplexy and was discovered shortly afterwards by a drummer. He was carried to the house, prepared for burial, and his brother at Dalhart notified, who returned on next train, accompanied by Adie Hill, who shipped the body to Dalhart for burial.

Mr. Jacques had many friends in Clarendon who regret his death. He was a pleasant gentleman to deal with, was of a sunny temperament, generous and kind-hearted. He had fewer enemies in Clarendon than perhaps any other business man, and he grew in popularity at Dalhart from the beginning of his residence there. He held the office of county treasurer at the time of his death. He was in his 59th year at time of death, and besides his brother at Dalhart, has relatives living in Arkansas.

Doom of the Gambler.
Father Vaughan, brother of the late cardinal, who has been preaching against the "sins of society" in London, addressed a fashionable audience at the Mansion House. Among other things he told the story of a dream that he had on the night of his arrival in Dublin.

He fancied that he saw a well known gambler passing to and fro in single loneliness in one of the outer courts of Heaven. When he could stand his solitude no longer the gambler approached St. Peter and confessed that he had secured passage to Heaven by cheating, and begged for permission to descend to the infernal region to see what his former friends were doing down there. St. Peter consented and furnished him with a return ticket.

In the inferno he found an enormous crowd of fashionable men and women, all being forced to play bridge without stakes. He watched the play with mingled feelings until, overcome by his former passion, he drew forth his return ticket to heaven and staked it and lost. A society woman secured it, and clutching it tightly, she at once made her way to the gate, where Satan congratulated her upon her success, but pointed with a smile to a legend on the ticket, "Positively not transferable." Thereupon she screamed and tore the ticket to shreds, and the devil led her back to resume her everlasting play in the infernal drawing room, over the portal of which was written, "All hope abandon, ye who enter here."

Dallas Divorces.

The United States Census bureau is having R. B. Leach, an expert, gather statistics on divorces. His investigations during the two months he has been in Dallas covered the period from Jan. 1, 1887, to Dec. 31, 1906. During that time he found that there were approximately 20,000 marriages and 4,800 divorces in Dallas county. The number of divorces in proportion to marriages runs a little higher in Texas, he said, than in Illinois, the only other state in which the Government representatives have been engaged so far.

The purpose of the work in which the department is now engaged along that line is to make a report to Congress upon which it is proposed to endeavor to secure uniformity in the divorce laws of the different states. Congress proposed to pass such laws for the Territories, and it is expected to recommend to the several states of the Union that similar laws, or the same laws, be adopted by them.

The census report on the matter will be completed, it is thought, and publication made some time in December of the present year.

At an Indiana wedding the bride used a sword that had been in the family for a long time to cut the wedding cake. The sword had been in 64 engagements in the civil war and was captured by a Confederate soldier by the father of the bridegroom. Another innovation at this wedding was the serving of jelly and preserves made by the bride's mother when she was married in 1875.

Government Experts on Rabies.
Government scientists have demonstrated that rabies is an actual disease, as our forefathers believed, and not an imaginary ill, born of the fears of persons bitten by a "mad dog." The latter contention has grown in strength in recent years and it is rather hard, or was, to find scientific support of the old-fashioned belief in hydrophobia, communicated by the bite of a mad animal.

The scientists of the Department of Agriculture, who have been conducting a series of highly interesting experiments at Bethesda, a station of the department in the suburbs of this city, have established the fact that the disease is not only real, but that it is germ-generated. It is also established to the satisfaction of the scientific experimenters that the disease is infectious, and communicable, just as the old-fashioned folk contended.

On two occasions mad dogs were killed in the vicinity of the station where the experimenters were at work, and the carcasses were examined with minutest care. It was through microscopical examination of the brains of the dead dogs that the scientists were able to isolate the germ of rabies. Animals inoculated with the germ have invariably developed rabies, or hydrophobia, the terms being used interchangeably.

Several animals bitten by the two mad dogs were taken to the experiment station and detained for some weeks. Four months after being bitten a horse, apparently in sound condition, suddenly became mad and killed himself by beating his head against the walls of his stable.

A cow and a horse died 20 days after being bitten. One horse is still alive and in apparently a healthy condition. The death of the horse after four months shows that animals which have been bitten should be kept in detention for a longer period than three months.

The scientists have made some very delicate operations in inoculating the brain of a healthy animal with a tiny portion of the brain of one infected. The brain of the animal to be used in the experiment was opened up and a small particle of the brain of an animal which had died of rabies was introduced. The incision was then closed. Rabbits were used in these experiments. When one rabbit was inoculated another would be subjected to the same operation, with the exception that none of the infected brain was introduced. The object of this operation was to demonstrate that it was not the operation that affected and killed the animal.

In every one of the number of cases every inoculated animal died of rabies, while the animal operated on but not inoculated got well.

Having established the fact that cases of rabies have developed in healthy animals having not only isolated the germ that caused the disease, but having transferred the disease to other animals by means of the germ, the Government investigators feel they have completely established the fact that hydrophobia is a genuine disease. It is needless to say the experimenters believe that the fear of hydrophobia is entirely justified.
