Missing Saw-Mill.

An old story is revived and re-dressed by the Detroit Free Press: The other day T. G. met an old friend, who was formerly a prosperous young lumberman up North, but whose bad habits of drinking resulted as they often do, though he has since reformed, and is trying to do better.

"How are you?" said T. G.
"Pretty well, thank you; but I have just been to a doctor to have him look at my throat."

"What's the matter?"
"Well the doctor couldn't give me any encouragement. At least, he couldn't find what I wanted him to find."

"What did you expect him to find?"
"I asked him to look down my throat for that saw-mill and farm that had gone down there."

"And did he see any thing of it?"
"No, but he advised me if I ever got another mill to run it by water."

The Law of Newspapers.

It is an unwritten law well understood in journalism, says the Boston Traveler, that no editor is under the slightest obligation to give a reason for his acceptance or non-acceptance of a manuscript. He is not called upon to write a private critique on the article to the author of it. His acceptance or rejection is an absolute and unquestionable fact. Among amateur writers this does not appear to be understood. All sub editors and reporters understand that it is an unjustifiable impertinence to ask the managing editor his reasons for publishing any matter submitted to his judgment. Outside writers and amateurs rarely seem to comprehend this truth, and their transgressions are largely from ignorance rather than intention. The nature of editorial work requires absolute power of decision, in order to preserve the dignities of the journal the editor conducts.

Mexico and the Mexicans.

Sunday is the great market day in all cities in Mexico; it is the chief business day. Ladies then appear upon the plaza in fine dress, and make purchases, having a servant with them to carry what is bought. In the coffee and sugar region these staples are plenty and cheap. Coffee equal to the best Rio or Java, sells at eight cents per pound, and brown sugar at two cents. The consumption of sugar in Mexico is amazing. Half the dishes at the table are sweetened and all drinks of every kind taste as if sugar were an absolute adjunct. Mexicans manufacture but little butter; indeed, it is rare in the markets but when used it is mixed with sugar. No one drinks coffee without sugar, and plenty of it, while the chocolate is most too sweet for the northern taste. And speaking of chocolate the writer may here state that there is no chocolate in the world equal to the Mexican. The cacao from which it is made, is grown all over the eastern slope of the Chicuite mountains, and along the coast, and is conceded to be the best in the world. Every one drinks chocolate in that country. They drink it in the morning as soon as they rise; then in the evening before retiring, and at intervals during the day. If you are on a visit at a private house, or in a hotel, the six o'clock bell will be followed by a knock at your door, when a servant will set before you a plate of cake similar to our finest soda crackers, and a cup of the most delicious chocolate ever offered to a lover of that wonderful beverage. A basket of oranges is also placed upon your table from which you are expected to partake. Coffee is drank at breakfast and dinner, the natives using no milk in it, but an abundance of sugar, and when they can afford it a few drops of pure cognac.
Onions, garlic and peper come from the upper country. Peper and garlic goes into almost every dish; the odor of garlic pervades the kitchen. Pumpkins and watermelons spring from the earth with the alacrity of Jonah's gourd. Sweet potatoes flourish in all sections, though they are not half as good as those grown on the Atlantic coast or river bottoms of the west, in the United States.

The most beautiful fruit is the cactus apple, while it is very flat in taste. Limes are seen everywhere and are substituted for lemons, which are scarce. They are very generally used to clean tin and brass ware, and form an important element in the appliances of the kitchen. The ginger of Mexico is of very fine quality; so too, the vanilla, which the coast soil produces without cultivation. The cotton of the east coasts grades well with that of any in our own country, and the rice grown in the Cordona valley, while somewhat peculiar in taste is a splendid article of food. Tobacco is consumed largely, but exclusively for smoking. It is best adapted to the soil near the coast, so tobacco growers, imagine, and with reasons that the tobacco grown upon soil similar, in every respect to that of Cuba, is just as good as that which Cuba produces.

The soil on the eastern slope produces no potatoes, cabbages, in fact scarcely any vegetables of any kind. These all reach the market by means of Indian carriers, or on the backs of burrows, from the upper country.

The Newspaper as an Educator.

The newspaper—the universal literature of our people—is itself becoming a library of knowledge and art. No man could read habitually even one of our chief newspapers without an immense opening of his horizon of thought, a great quickening of his intellect, and a substantial relation with the thought and feeling of the whole world. The difference between a man who can read well enough to enjoy his newspaper and one who cannot is hardly to be estimated. I suppose our newspaper education is the most influential of all in this country. But it depends for its existence and its improvement on the preparation for its use and enjoyment made in our common schools. It rises in tone, spreads in intellectual breadth and increases in moral purity as the reading class becomes more numerous and varied. It is a great mistake to speak lightly of newspapers. The press, I think, has a somewhat romantic and exaggerated idea of its supremacy in creating or leading public opinion, but in its general educating influence, its stimulus for thought, it has a certain tendency to create a taste for better reading than it can itself supply. I do not believe it is easy to overrate its national importance.—REV. DR. H. W. BELLOWS.

EX-SENATOR DORSEY has been interviewed by a Western reporter, to whom he declared presumably with tears in his voice, that his prosecution in the Star-rout cases was "altogether unwarranted and amounted to a persecution, and that the whole business was a conspiracy" instigated by that plausible humbug Thomas L. James. We do not see why Dorsey should thus, rage and imagine vain things. He has been vindicated by his State Committee and by the Garfield Fair Commission, and he still remains the official manager of the National Republican organization, so in the words of Heine, "Darling, what wouldst thou more?" Besides, he is to have a new trial, at which justice will probably be done to him, and that is what he was clamoring for last spring. Possibly he feels like the Irishman who when he received a similar assurance replied, "Faix, it's the thought of that same fact that's troubling me!" World

Is the Liquor Traffic an Industry.

Dr. Rankin in —Pilgrim Press.

There are those who claim that the liquor traffic should be supported, for the reason that it is "an industry which yield more toward the support of the Federal Government than any other."

Let us step up to this Beer-devil and challenge him as an industry; . . . What is an industry? Strictly speaking it is an employment in which men are diligent and painstaking. In this sense the classification is correct. There are in the U. S. 11,138 persons at work in breweries; 3,566 in malt-houses; 15,660 in distilleries, and 10,000 more variously employed as workmen, in and around these places. There are 21,828 persons employed in wholesaling; 322,288 in licensed, and 161,144 in licensed retailing. This makes a total of 545,624 persons employed in this business. All these people are diligent and painstaking; and in that sense industrious.

This is an army larger than the number who fell in defense of their country in the late war; and whose dust sleeps on every battle field between Gettysburg and the Gulf.

Surely, that which gives employment to more than half a million of men, women and children, deserves to be called an industry.

But in this sense, the business of the counterfeiter is an industry. Does not that give employment? Does not that yield support? The work which the counterfeiter does on steel-plate, is just as honest work, considered merely as a work, as that done by the Government-engraver. We must go a step further. Nothing is properly an industry, which is not productive; which does not confer a benefit, which does not give some equivalent for the money expended in its purchase; for supporting it. If society does not need the thing produced it is an industry, but a fraud.

There is scarcely anything more sacred than an industry; then the method by which an honest man seeks an answer for himself and his wife and children, to the petition, "Give us this day our daily bread."

It is the sacred shrine on which he lays himself for the sake of his dear ones. No matter how humble it is; if he cobbles old shoes, or patches old clothes, or even a rag picker, or a sloop-man, he does something for his race. His work has worth; brings him dignity and honor; brings him Gods benediction. Let him live; let him hold up his head among men; let him kneel down before his Father and our Father, and give thanks.

But, if instead of contributing to the wellbeing of his race, he turn his activities, and energies, and ingenuities the other way; why, the more diligent he is, the more painstaking, the more industrious, the more for mankind and womankind, for children and babes. His industry may descend with maledictions upon the race. In this sense, who is so industrious as Satan himself. Those 545,624 persons who are engaged in converting what God has given us in a wholesome and nutritious form; in the form of apples, and grapes, and hops, and grain, and potatoes, into that which is the source of temptation, and misery and crime; or who are dealing out this vile stuff from early morning till the hours of midnight, for the mites of the poor, they complain of us because we are interfering with a great industry! They say "This is our means of support. You tailor, or shoemaker, or trader, or grocer, or milliner, or minister, or whatever you are, if you interfere with our business, we will interfere with yours. If you will not sign our application for license; if you will not stop your loud craze and ranting about the evils of our business, then you shall preach no more sermons for us; you shall make no more coats for us; no more shoes for our children; we will buy no more meat, or potatoes, or butter, or flour, or whatever you have to sell, of you. Besides this industry of ours in addition to giving support to more than half a million of persons, this very last year of our Lord, brought $80,854,216 into the United States Treasury; in the last nineteen years, has brought $981,967,218 there" . . . . .

There are very few physicians who would think it a paying business if they were compelled to pay $5.00 for a hack to ride to a patient when they could charge only $1.00 for the visit. And if a great-hearted American gentleman, as some of them are, should do it 365 days and earn $365 he would hardly think he was making much money, when his hack-hire had cost him $1875, and he was $1510, out of pocket. He would hardly call his business a great industry, though perhaps the livery-man might so regard it. The United States Government is in the position of this philanthropic man, who expends $5.00 for the privilege of earning $1.00. For the $80,854,216 which have been paid as revenue into the United States Treasury during the last year, the people of the various States and Territories have expended at least five times that amount to pay for work-houses, reform-schools, asylums, jails and penitentiaries made necessary by the liquor-traffic.

So when we write down the $80,854,216 as revenue from this traffic, let us also write down the $404,271,080 which the traffic has cost the people; and it will appear that the people have suffered themselves to be taxed $331,416,864 for the sake of granting the 545,624 persons engaged in the manufacture and sale of the different kinds of liquors, an opportunity to pursue this greatest of all the American industries, on which is so largely built the prosperity of this great American Republic.

Again, let it be known that 40,000 bushels of grain are yearly taken from the bread market of the country by this manufacture; taken from the tables of the poor; from the mouths of the hungry; its life giving principle exhausted, and a death giving principle substituted, what then? That at the average of fifty cents a bushel $20,000,000 to be deducted from that sum of money which goes into the United States treasury; or, to be added to that sum of money which the people of the United States are willing to tax themselves for the sake of having the Federal Government so generously supported by the great American Industry.

Add to this the productive industry of the country from taking the $700,000,000 now spent for liquor from the legitimate articles of traffic; of taking the half million persons now engaged in making and selling liquor from the pursuits that are proper and legitimate; a loss equal to not less than twice as many dollars as the persons engaged; yes, and of taking from the sum total of human labor; of human productiveness, the efforts and the earnings of 300,000 of the poor decrepit, broken-down, staggering, blundering, dying men and women who are the victims of the Liquor-Traffic; and we begin to see that the falsest and most delusive of claims, is the claim that the Liquor Traffic is an industry at all; is anything among the industries, but Satan among the sons of God.

The cattle market of the country, as a whole, was quiet yesterday. There was but little change in values reported, but business was draggy. Chicago had 9,000 cattle and market slow and prices irregular. New York was dull. Here at Kansas City trade was quiet and prices unsettled.

Frank James.

The surrender of Frank James, the noted desperado, to the Governor of Mo is an event in criminal history worthy of note. His personal experience, and the exercise of conscience, that voice of God and manhood in man which it is so hard to extinguish illustrates a prominent doctrine of orthodoxy, that no man can be an outlaw, an orphan and an alien in the world, or in the universe, and be happy. Milton has it when he represents Satan soliloquizing, "Where ere I turn tis hell, myself am hell." Man's highest and only permanent happiness is reached in righteousness toward himself and God and in a kindly and brotherly attitude towards his fellows. Even if the voice of Society should say "Depart from me ye worker of iniquity." A gloom like the shadow of a great calamity, or the dreadfulness of a dungeon falls upon him and he soon longs for death. What multitudes of men and women already "cast out" are to day in the agony of a living death! The diversion of the hour elaps, in a sense, the pain of the punishment, but in the quiet midnight hour, it returns with all its weight of woe. Would it were possible for all thus to return to themselves and society with as frank a confession and as heroic a determination to retrieve the past and redeem the life from death!

We see no way but to let the law take its course; and if evidence is made, conviction must and will follow. Then we may find a chance for the exercise of mercy and clemency that would more effectively demonstrate the majesty of the law, than the infliction of the penalty. If possible so be it.

GOT IT AWFULLY!—A minister who went about talking spiritualism ventured up the river the other day and called at a house whose mistress was very deaf. When the old lady finally opened the door the good man asked: "Are there any spiritualists living here?" "No," she replied, "but they have got it awfully over to the next house," and then slammed the door in his face. Benefit and Festival.

Its hard to think faster, or act more rapidly than woman in times of trouble. Just one day for preparation, and the bell rang out, the banquet ready, and a more cheerful evening and a better ordered supper was seldom seen anywhere. Mr. Bartlett the sufferer by the fire and for whose benefit all were working sat as guest at the head of the tables. Fair faces gleamed with that real beauty born only of generous and noble doing, while number and ready hands served the well filled tables and collected the cash, adding a nice sum to the already respectable fund. The large new store was tastefully arranged with table pictures and ways of diversion. One could hardly be sad though in the midst of loss and calamity, surrounded by substantial tokens of sympathy. Rev. Mr. Cartlich could not be present but sent his wife, his money and a large four pound sweat potato, from his garden which was sold at auction at a fine figure. Mrs. Murdock, thoughtfully plucked a cluster of ripe strawberries from a spring setting and rare with us, which was sold over and over again, netting five dollars to the treasury. The music was in good taste. Prof. Combs, had charge in lieu of Mrs. C. detained by sickness. He first introduced Rev. Mr. Allan, who gave a brief sketch of Bryant the Poet. Prof. C. read Thanatopsis, and L. H. Carhart, The Planting of the Apple Tree, by the same author. Mr. Parks gave us "Poe's Bells," W. D. Kimball read a humorous experience of a Dutchman riding a "Bronco." Mrs. Kimball read an essay, descriptive of the early founding of the Colony here as seen by herself four years ago, while the children contributed their cheer and song making the occasion one of the most sociable and the best evenings of the series of the monthly gatherings for which Clarendon has a right to be a bit proud.

Gentlemen:—For years I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and could get no relief (having tried everything which was recommended) until, acting on the advice of a friend, who had been benefited by Brown's Iron Bitters, I tried a bottle, with most surprising results. Previous to taking Brown's Iron Bitters, everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered greatly from a burning sensation in the stomach, which was unbearable. Since taking Brown's Iron Bitters, all my troubles are at an end. Can eat any time without any disagreeable results. I am precisely another person.

HOME NEWS

Baled hay is selling at $15.00 a ton in town. It is of good quality and in ample supply.

Mrs. Combs is confined to the house by a severe attack of erysipelas of the face.

Geo Osborn has several fine and valuable trades that he will sell reasonably or trade for stock or horses. call and see.

We were favored with a pleasant call from Messrs, Mitchell and B. H. Caldwell of the Goodnight range, and Mr. W. Dyer.

Frank Willis Esq. Candidate for Judge of the Thirty-fifth District will be chosen. A Competent man for a responsible place.

Our Autumn weather is hard to beat, men are out all day and night coatless and exposed, and yet comfortable. Its a perfect inspiration to breathe such clear pure air. It is length of days to men in health, and better than medicine for invalids.

The Sunday School and sunday services are attended by a larger percentage probably than can be shown in most of the towns or large cities of the State Rev L. H. Carhart preached Sabbath evening on the Resurrection.

The Railway engineer corps are now north of the main fork of Red river making a permanent location of the road, work will go forth at once or very soon. It is rumored that Mr Gould now has control also of this line. A team from the R. R. surveying outfit came in to town for supplies and corn with a four mule team last week.

Our next issue will contain a very spicy and interesting description of the noted Palo Duro Canon, lying some 30 to 100 miles to south west of us! from the pen of our young District Attorney Temple Houston, of Mobeetie. The Yosemite valley of California nor any of the picturesque scenes of the old world are rivals of this old and long famous Palo Duro. Let our readers and friends at a distance prepare to spend a month among the wonders of the Panhandle of Texas next summer.

B. H. White Esq. will be made County Clerk by unanimous voice. His long experience, legal ability and popularity makes a clear case. The new County Records have just arrived, and the County may well congratulate itself in having the splendid set of books opened by an experienced hand. Parties at a distance who have had legal papers long on file may expect them soon.

The Tuesday evening entertainment will be at the new store room of L. H. Carhart. Sociability and song will be the principle features of the evening entertainment interspersed with a review of the life of the poet Bryant, and readings from some of his finest poems. All are cordially welcomed. No matter boy's if some have not time to go to camp twenty or thirty miles away for a clean shirt. "A mans a man for a that and a that" an honest face will carry you through.

Card.

I hereby tender my sincere thanks to the Citizens of Clarendon and vicinity, who responded so promptly and aided so efficiently in my effort to protect a remnant of my property at the late fire.

Your unexpected generosity and the noble acts of the Ladies at the Concert and Supper has relieved me largely from the total loss which I sustained, and places me under obligations which I can only repay by striving to prove myself worthy of it.

To Men, Women, Children all accept my deepest heartfelt thanks.

A. BARTLETT.

A Big Fire.

About noon on Tuesday of this week our people were startled by a cry of "Fire" and soon found the Livery & Feed Stable occupied by A. Bartlett Esq. in a sheet of flames. Wells yielded abundantly and all worked with heroism, but in less time than would seem possible all was a hopeless loss. Fortunately no horses were in the stable at the hour of burning. Mr. Bartlett lost almost all his winter supply of hay and grain, amounting to nearly $500.00 which falls hard on him just now. The people rushed for their pencils as heartily as for the buckets and before the fire was half over the loss was partly healed by cash. Our people are always ready in every such calamity or emergency. The loss is also heavy upon L. H. Carhart the owner of building. There was no insurance. Fortunately the air currents were at rest, a windy day would have ruined us. The cause or source of the fire is unknown. Some think a party of small children with matches did the mischief, others lay it at the door of some careless smoker.

Candidates.

They are numerous and expectant as may be observed by our columns. The News is interested in seeing the best man in all places of trust.

Judge Brown has filled the position for the short term to the satisfaction of all, and doubtless will be the peoples choice again. T. S. McClelland seems to be the only man on the ticket for surveyor. He has a good reputation for integrity and ability, and will fill the position well. James T. Otey cannot fail to make a good Assessor. W. D. Kimball is in for the keys of the treasury; he boasts of friends and can make bonds any required amount. Osborn and Gentry will have a neck and neck race for the responsible and important office of Sheriff, both have many friends. The vote will tell. J. G. Murdock Esq. a lawyer of good standing and well booked on Texas Laws, will be the County Attorney without opposition. Prof. Combs is the unanimous choice for Justice of the Peace, and S. P. Reed Esq. for Constable.

State and District Candidates will elicit attention and a full vote. We prefer Davenport for Congress and Brown for Representative. Jones and Marten are the Liberal and Independent candidates for the highest position of trust in our State and we hope will be the choice of the people as they will be the choice of many voters in and about the county of Donley.

Temple Houston Esq. a worthy scion of the old war horse and Statesman of early Texas fame, will be reelected Attorney for the Thirty-fifth District.

OFFICE OF Lindsay, Hemming & Co. BANKERS

TO THE PUBLIC

GAINESVILLE, TEXAS, SEPT. 25, 1882.

The responsibility of a large and growing business has induced us to recommend to our Stockholders an increase in our Capital, and a conversion of this institution into a NATIONAL BANK, in order that we might thereby extend its influence and usefulness, and, at the same time, have the counsel and advice of a careful and conservative directory. This having been acceded to by them, we announce that in November we shall open a National Bank with a paid up capital of about $250,000, into which this business, without interruption, will be at once merged, by transferring all accounts to the books of the new organization.

The same line of policy in the management will be pursued as that governing us now, our purpose being to establish a safe and profitable business on a basis that may be as liberal as is consistent with good banking.

Judging from the latest reports from the Kansas City markets it is to be inferred that the latest Texas beef reaching there will bring good prices.

Telegram to the Ft. Worth Gazette. Philadelphia, October 16.—In the United States district court this morning Judge McKennon denied a new trial to James R. Black, Thomas A. Mc Davitt and Cristian Price, convicted of star route conspiracy, and sentenced Mc Davitt to pay a fine of five hundred dollars and to be imprisoned for one year and Price to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and to be imprisoned six months. The sentence of Black was deferred.

A better feeling was reported in the cattle market east of us yesterday. Chicago had a fairly active trade and reported firm prices. Receipts 6000. At St. Louis the demand was said to be good and prices steady. Boston had a firmer market and there was a better feeling in Buffalo under the influence of light receipts. East Liberty was dull, but prices steady. Here at Kansas City there was a fair market. Buyers taking hold with a little more life. Prices steady.—Price Current, October, 25.

Cattle Market.

The few transfer of stocks through the country indicate a disposition of holders to wait for higher prices. Stock cattle are in statu quo, no change of values for a month, ranging from $17 to $20. No movement of any note in the contract market, but little doing in one and two year old steers. We quote for spring delivery $10 to $12 for yearlings, $15 to $16 for two year old steers. The cattle more quiet, but firm; inquiry lighter owing to near approach of winter.

In butcher stock the market is fairly supplied with a very good quality of beef and prices are firm.—Stock Journal.

Native Cattle and Hogs.

Pittsburg (Pa.) Stockman, Oct. 12. Among the cattle designed for feeders now being marketed here there are frequently animals of similar age and weight which bring a difference of ten dollars per head on sale. Although there is really good ground for this discrimination, the seller does not always see it. Quality and form are characteristics which the experienced buyer of feeders is never slow to appreciate, as is shown by the fact that the high-priced stock is almost invariably the first taken. Of two lots of 1,000 pound feeders, for instance which bring a difference of 50¢ @ $1 per cwt, in market, the more costly can be sold two or three times over while the cheaper is finding a bidder. The seller of this stock should know what he is doing. Size and weight without style and quality, will not command top prices and to expect that it will do so is unreasonable.

Mail Facilities Wanted.

The Panhandle cow punchers, through our correspondent at Mobeetie, complain of the want of mail facilities because the mails from "Texas" reach them later than St. Louis and Kansas matter—and desires the Journal to use its influence with the "powers that be" to help them out. The Journal would do so with pleasure and while we do not underrate the influence of this paper, if we can help it, we do not think the P.M.G. would take anywhere near as notice of the thunder we could hurl much against the department, for its evident neglect of duty, as he would if the aforesaid cow punchers would state their wants on a polite petition signed by all the people of Wichita Falls, the Panhandle, their relatives and friends in other states and foreign parts and enough fictitious signatures added, to make the petition respectable. If the advice is good, take it. "A word to the wise, &c."—Stock Journal.
