Odd and Ends. Economy in Art.

Some people are nothing if not critical. As a specimen of art-criticism Mother Goose or Mrs. Partington could not beat this.

A member of the Legislature who voted against the purchase of Huddle's pictures of the ex-governors of Texas by the State gave the following unique reasons:

"Two hundred and fifty dollars a piece is too much for them oil-paintings. Oil aint so dear as all that, for I bought some the other day at two bits a quart. Besides chromos are a heap cheaper. I bought a chromo of Wellington crossing the Alps, and there was a horse in the picture, and it only cost a dollar and a half. None of the pictures of the governors of Texas has got a hoss in it."

Mathew Arnold will have to go to Texas to find a first-class "Phillistine."

Now we learn from Mr. Gladstone that England has been bombarding Alexandria and destroying neutral property in Egypt, not in order to restore order in the dominions of the Khedive at all, but "in prosecution of great interests of the empire." Are these the words of Mr. Gladstone or of Lord Beaconsfield? If England opened fire on the Egyptian forts at Alexandria "in prosecution of great interests of the empire" England committed a gross outrage on international law. Certainly the bombardment of Alexandria did not tend to keep open the Suez Canal.

Polled Cattle.

Other things being equal, a polled animal is preferable to a horned one. It would be a misfortune to make a cross which would introduce horns among our long and middle-wool sheep. A Devon, Hereford or Short horn steer or cow, minus the horns would be better, in all respects save appearance—and that is largely a matter of taste and cultivation. The energetic efforts to popularize the polled breeds in this country, assure the reasonable success of the Angus. The red polled Norfolk and Suffolk cattle of England have been introduced in smaller numbers, but have given satisfaction so far as we have learned. They have two advantages over their Scotch rivals—their red color is popular here, while the black meets some prejudice; and they are credited with being better milkers, as a class, than are the Scotch polled. Against these advantages are to be placed the somewhat serious objections of smaller size and less perfect form, from the meat producing standpoint. It is fortunate, however, that a good many of the Norfords are of medium size, and some of them are good beef animals. On the whole, we should welcome larger numbers of them to give a fuller trial. The Angus and the Norfolk have been greatly improved and the present types fixed within comparatively recent years. A like work can be done in this country.

Whatever explanation may be given, it seems a fact that a hornless sire or dam more certainly transmits this character to its offspring than does a horned parent transmit its horns, when the two are crossed. This being true, it will not be an especially difficult task to produce families of polled cattle which will possess in good degree all the other characteristics of the Hereford or the Short horn.—Breeder's Gazette, Chicago.

EUROPEAN CROP PROSPECTS.

Regular Correspondence.

London, England, July 30, 1882.

At a time when it is known that the wheat crop in the United States is the largest since 1880 and larger perhaps than the splendid yields of that year, it will be interesting to some of your readers to learn of the crop prospects in Europe which so materially affect the American grain market.

The trade for foreign wheat stands in London has been checked by finer weather, large spot supplies, and declining value in the United States. Business has been restricted and values were weaker on Wednesday and on Friday than on the previous Monday, and, although they remain nominally unchanged some concession to buyers have occasionally been made. At the close of Friday's market some holders become steadier in their demands, probably on account of the off-coast supply having for the moment run out. All things considered, however, the position of the trade must be considered weaker at the close of the week than at its commencement. The supply to the port of London down to Friday had been unusually heavy, namely, 293,160 bushels from India, 270,144 bushels from Russia, 176,184 bushels from Australia and New Zealand, and 165,032 bushels from U. S. Atlantic ports. After the heavy thunder storms which occurred during the early days of the past week the rain-fall has been but slight, and the weather has been for the most part sultry and overcast. The nights have been more or less chilly, and the hazy evenings and mornings have been of quite an autumnal character. During the month of July the weather has been broken and unsettled, and its influence on the wheat crop has been mostly of an unfavorable character. The month of July has naturally much to do with the ultimate result of the present, but the condition of the wheat plant as it stands at the close of the month is the out come of adverse influences commencing with the end of March, and to which the weather of July has but formed the part which has given the finishing touches to the whole. There probably has rarely been a season more persistently adverse to the proper development of the wheat plant, and July closes without the ground having once become warm. During the present week, should the weather permit, the earliest portions of the crop will be cut south of a line drawn from the mouth of the Severn to the Wash, and in the second week of August wheat harvest may be expected to become general south of the Humber. Toward the close of the past week the wheats have whitened fast for harvest, and the records of the thrashing-machine will soon take the place of remarks on the standing crops. Spring corn, on the whole has been harvested by the month of July and the oat crop seems likely to prove the best of the cereals in English counties. The trade for English wheat has come almost to a stand still from the scarcity of newly thrashed samples on offer, and native wheats have maintained a level of values which is relatively about 6 1/2 cts. per bushel higher than that of Foreign equivalents. In western Europe the early part of the week was stormy, and in the south of France—where harvest has been completed—the newly thrashed wheat has come to market in very poor condition. In Germany the earliest thrashings of the new crop of rye are said to be causing much dissatisfaction, the grain falling short of the expectations formed of it. Heavy rains fell on Saturday in Austria, and floods have occurred in the Danubian provinces, and in Hungary, doing great damage to the crops.

A dangerous collision.—Running into debt.

The Hon. J. B. Grinnell, of Iowa, is the individual who was advised by Horace Greely to go west and grow up with the country. In an address delivered recently in Iowa, on "The Church," Mr. Grinnell says:

"I don't deny that I am the man that Horace Greely told to go west. I have his letter, and it will be photographed soon, for the curious, on Mr. Greely's account not my own, I went west and took up a large tract of land; but not from mercenary motives. My first business was to lay out a town, and I determined that no intoxicating liquors should be sold there; and, up to this time, I may say that not one drop of ardent spirits has ever been sold upon that tract of land. I began three miles away from any house; and three years ago, when we had our quarter centennial celebration, we made the declaration that God had been grateful to us. No fire had desolated a human habitation, no man had found his way to the poor-house, not one had gone to the jail, and not one to the State prison."

The Chilians are beginning to reap as they have sown on the west coast of South America. Our news from Peru to-day is not only more ghastly in itself than anything which the cable has sent us from the scene of England's violent and aggressive interference in Egypt: it is of much more real importance to the people of the United States. History will not acquit the American Government of a serious responsibility for the waste of life and treasure and human energy which is now making the fairest regions of the Pacific South America a desert; nor can this sort of thing go on indefinitely without grave detriment to the best interests of our own country. The vacillations and the imbecility of Mr. Blaine, supplemented by the absurd performances in Chili and Peru of Mr. Trescott, have left a defeated people alone and face to face with an exasperated enemy which lacks alike the material force necessary to maintain order throughout the vast territories of Peru and the moral courage to deal justly and fairly with the Peruvian nation. It is impossible that the neutral powers of Europe should long submit to see this drama of brutality and obstinacy played out at the expense of their own citizens and subjects, and the chances now are that the people of the United States will find themselves compelled either to take decisive and possibly aggressive action to put an end to it, or to acquiesce in a European intervention which will make an end of all our pretensions to be regarded as the great predominating power of the New World.—N. Y. World.

Be Considerate.

Study the feelings of your children. Why force them to do that which they dislike? It is seldom that any good is gained by such a course. Why should your little boy be made to eat the fat of his meat if he loaths it, or anything, no matter what, that is repulsive to him? Or why make a child miserable by forcing it to wear articles of clothing which its taste do not approve or at which other children laugh? We think that little girls suffer more from this than from any one thing. Almost all of us have some such memory. We know a lady whose childish life was made wretched for a year by an obsolete old bag in which she was forced to carry her books to school, and another whose mother forced her to wear some old lace, which, though costly, was laughed at by the ignorant children who made her world, and declared that she actually wished herself dead until the lace was banished from her wardrobe. If you can manage it, be wise, and consult your children's tastes in these unimportant matters.

OFF FOR EGYPT.—THE EMBARKATION OF ENGLISH CAVALRY.

London, Eng., Aug. 2, 1882.

Prior to the departure of three strong Household Troops—one from each of the regiments of Guards—the Prince of Wales yesterday morning inspected, at the cavalry barracks in Albany street, Regent's Park, two of these contingents, each mustering a hundred and fifty men. At half past ten, his Royal Highness, who was accompanied by the Princess of Wales and the Princesses Louise Victoria and Maud, drove on the ground amidst cheering which may truly be described as enthusiastic. The scene was indeed one that will long be remembered by all who were spectators. So far from repressing a national and patriotic sentiment, the military authorities gave free ingress to all who could make any pretense to personal relationship with any of the departing warriors; and the crowd on the parade-ground was a very large one. Their Royal Highnesses were received with the usual honors, the soldiers saluting and the band of the Horse Guards conducted by Mr. Charles Godfrey, playing the National Anthem. The Prince of Wales left the carriage and mounted his bay charger, in order to inspect the troops on parade. He wore a bright patrol jacket, with aiguillets; and regimental cap; the undress uniform, in fact, of a Field Marshall. During the inspection the band played the Coburg March; and afterwards, when the troops went by, first in squares, then in fours, and then in Indian file, the regimental marches which custom has become endeared to the men were played.

It may fairly be said that the troops looked magnificent, and fit to go anywhere. The peculiarities of their uniform struck everybody as being well suited to the service before them. The martial helmet and cuirass, grandly imposing as they are on a full dress parade, were discarded. No burnished steel, except that of the swords flashed in the clear bright air. White turbaned helmets of the light Indian pattern now generally adopted throughout the army, for service in hot countries, were the head-gear of both squadrons. Brown leather boots of the Blucher shape, with a swathing of serge, which, wound around the leg and fastening with tapes below the knee, is the Arab form of a gaiter, replaced the high jack boots, or Hessians, as they are erroneously called. The two squadrons formed up in column, and were addressed by the Prince of Wales, who congratulated them on their high efficiency, and said that though they had not been sent on active foreign service for a long period, it was no fault of theirs that they had not gone to the front before. He added that he had every confidence in them, and that his one regret was that he could not go in their company. After this brief speech, the Prince spoke a few words of kindly leave taking to the officers for service, who dismounted, and, removing their right hand gauntlets, advanced to the Royal carriage and took leave of the Princess of Wales.

It is well these warriors will not go forth to the burning Delta clad in these burning cuirasses and pipe-clayed breeches with which Londoners are so familiar. A lighter and more suitable uniform has been served out to them, and England will send forth no soldiers more eager for distinction than the picked men of the three splendid regiments which last heard bullets whistle at the battle of Waterloo. Their transference from the Barracks at Regent's Park to Egypt will be the strangest and most stirring episode in the lives of all those English soldiers who have never seen active service before. It is notorious that in the Iron Duke's phrase, "the dandies always fight," and if the life guards are called upon to show their mettle, no doubt that, in Sir Francis's Doyles words, it will be said of them "When the shot poured close and hot, they were good men and true."

Reduction in Postage.

The subject of reducing the present rate of postage on letters and printed matter is fast becoming ripe for the action of Congress. The senate committee on post-offices has recently considered this reform with favor; and it is reasonably sure of adoption within a recent period. To make the post-office as great and as cheap a boon to the people as can be done consistently with the public service, should be the earnest aim of our law-makers.

The post office has become a necessity of the life of every human being on this continent. It may be called the chief of our educative agencies. It spreads knowledge; it is the basis of quick business; it carries the burdens of friendships, of love, of sorrow, of joy.

Experience proves that just as fast as the postage on letters and papers is reduced, not only is the intelligence of the entire community quickened, but the receipts of the government from this source are increased. One great fact alone is enough to prove this. In the days before the adoption of the three-cent postage on letters, the national post-office cost a great deal more than it yielded. Now, the surplus of that department in receipts over expenditures is something over one million of dollars.

This fact—that the cheaper the postage the greater the revenue from it—may be said to have been discovered and established by an enlightened Englishman, Sir Rowland Hill. He was the great postal reformer of his age. For years he carried on a ceaseless and effective agitation in this cause, to which he devoted himself heart and soul.

At last after having everything thrown in his way by obstinate officials and the stubborn dislike of change, he carried his point into law. His reform was adopted a little over forty years ago. The postage on letters under half-an-ounce became one penny (two cents); and at the same time Parliament gave up its privilege of sending letters by franking, free through the mails.

The rapid result of this reform was to enable the English post-office, within a very short time to more than pay for its self; and Rowland Hill received many an evidence of his sovereign's and the nation's gratitude. He was made a knight; a national subscription yielded him a splendid gift of $65,000; and since his death a noble statue of him has been erected in the midst of the busy marts of London.

There is one great difference, indeed, between England and the United States, as relates to the postal service. England is small, compact and densely settled from shore to shore. The United States are spread over a vast, and in many places, sparsely inhabited territory. Of course the cost of carrying the mails is far greater here than there; and owing to the scattered population, the receipts per square mile must, as yet be far less.

Yet, even with this comparative disadvantage, our post-office, with a three cent stamp, more than pays its way.

The proposition now being discussed is to reduce the postage on half-ounce letters to two cents, and to diminish the postage on printed matter one-half. This would be the same rate of postage as now exists in England, France and several other European countries.

Judging from the facts which have been stated there can be no reasonable doubt that such a reductor would very soon yield a larger rev-

Reading Aloud.

Many an evening may be pleasantly beguiled if one member of the family circle is appointed to read aloud while the family sew or knit or listen perhaps in pleasant idleness. If parents would introduce this into their families, they would soon see the levity and giddiness that make up the conversation of too many circles giving way to refinement and dignity. The amount of knowledge thus obtained is almost incalculable.

A Nest Hit.

Every Sunday a clergyman of some denomination goes out to the prison at Carson and treats the prisoners to a sermon. One Sunday the reverend gentleman who had been taking his turn at the theological wheel, accosted an intelligent looking convict in the yard with,—

"I never see you at divine service." "No," answered the prisoner (in for an unseccessful stock transaction.) "No, my work out here in the yard makes it impossible for me to attend service."

"Ah; sorry to hear it. We've just had a splendid time—services and choir singing, and every thing precisely the same as in our church. The only difference" (this quizzically) "was in the congregation."

"Yes," returned the prisoner clameily; "this congregaition has been caught."

His reverence gazed far field, and silently admired the beauties of nature.

Starting Out.

In setting up a home for two, be satisfied to begin on a small scale.

It is too common for young housekeepers to begin where their mothers ended. Buy all that is necessary to work skillfully with; adorn your homes with all that will render it comfortable. Do not look at richer homes and covet their costly furniture. If secret dissatisfaction is going to spring up, go a step farther, visit the homes of the suffering poor; contrast your own neatly furnished rooms with their cheerless apartments. You will then be prepared to meet your husband with a grateful heart, and be ready to appreciate the toil and self-denial which he has endured in the business world to surround you with the delights of home; and you will co-operate cheerfully with him in arranging expenses that his mind will not be constantly harassed least his family expenditures may encroach upon public payments. Be independent; a young house keeper never needed greater moral courage than she does now to resist the arrogance of fashion. Do not let the A's and B's decide what you have, neither let them hold the strings of your purse. You know best what you can and ought to afford. It matters little what people think, provided you are true to yourself, to right, and duty, and keep your expenses within your means. Then you may both be independent and happy.

Why is a wrinkled face like well plowed field? Because furrowed with care.

Buffalo Bones.

It was a matter of curiosity to us what became of the smaller bones, in the heaps of buffalo bones on the praries and hill-sides, where the bone pickers had not been, until we saw a groupe of cattle gathered around a heap of bones each one chewing them as if life depended on it. One cow had half of a pelvis bone, and another a Scapula or shoulder blade, the end of which they were vigorously chewing. Stook men tell us that this is a common practice of cattle, and that they doubtless consume large quantities of these bones each year. We have not yet satisfied ourselves as to the reason for this singular habit.

Trees.

Let every one having town property or farms, make an attempt this winter to set trees for shade and ornament. The Cottonwood is most easily within reach, and if properly set and watered for the first season will soon give satisfaction. The attempt made here two years ago failed because the trees were left unprotected against stock and were not properly watered. Let each person secure and care for a few trees, if not more than a half dozen, and we will introduce an element of comfort and beauty that will more than pay for the slight cost involved. Will some person of discretion and experience take orders and attend to the supply? Fruit trees of nearly every description can be grown if diligently guarded and cared for. Is it not about time to turn an occasional side glance in this direction.

Vines.

The Pan Handle portion of Texas seems peculiarly favorable to the growth of vines of all kinds. Grapes abound in a natural state and of superior quality. Other wild vines and creepers are common, grasses of certain kinds follow the same drift, melons squashes, &c., have always grown here in profusion. Bermuda grass which resembles a small creeping vine—is being successfully introduced not only in Kansas, but here also and we suspect will soon figure largely for grass pasture. Forty acres of Bermuda grass would be equal to 160 acres of the native supply.

Taxes.

Our County tax rolls, prepared by J. S. Rockwell our assessor, for 1882 are ready, approved by the commissioners and on file. Sheriff J. D. Wilson will be ready to receive taxes, and give drafts about October first. The State and County tax on an ordinary section, 640 acres of land is one dollar and forty-four cents ($1.44) to which is added to actual residents, a poll tax of $1.75. Other personal property &c. is assessed advalorum. Our very low rate of taxation may be due to the fact that the county expense is small and no court house erection is yet on foot. The county leases a building in town for county purposes. Having no whiskey on sale and as a consequence but little of the violations, or the lawlessness common in most frontier towns, reduces our local expenses considerably. Surely none can complain of being overburdened with taxes. Moneys may be sent the Sheriff or to any personal friend who may be engaged to apply the same and obtain tax receipts. Send by registered letter, as our Post Office is not yet a money order office.

PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious. Brown's Iron Bitters will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache or constipation, and is positively not injurious.

Gents—Upon the recommendation of a friend I tried Brown's Iron Bitters as a tonic and restorative for my daughter, whom I was thoroughly convinced was wasting away with Consumption. Having lost three daughters by the terrible disease, under the care of eminent physicians, I was loth to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but to my great surprise, before my daughter had taken one bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters, she began to improve, and now is quite restored to former health. A fifth daughter began to show signs of Consumption, but when the physician was consulted he quickly said "Tonics were of no use," and when informed that the elder sister was taking Brown's Iron Bitters, responded "that is a good tonic, and is worth a trial." ADOLPH PAREL.

Brown's Iron Bitters effectually cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Weakness, and renders the greatest relief and benefit to persons suffering from such wasting diseases as Consumption, Kidney Complaints, etc.

Frequent rains have bothered the hay-makers this week.

J. H. Parks left again on Tuesday for a surveying trip of three weeks.

T. S. McClelland is off for a three weeks trip.

Walter Dyer left for Mobeetie this morning.

Geo. T. Osborn cuts our stock brands. Geo. is a Jewler.

Professor W. T. Randall is able to be about again.

T. W. Morrison is still in a feeble condition.

Water melons are now abundant and delicious.

Beasley is in town, and is under treatment for a scrofulous disease.

J. F. Evans & Co., sold their beef to Bell and Atkinson, of Kansas.

Mrs. C. Goodnight was in town on Thursday, and made a short tarry.

Osborn's team pulled in a big load of groceries on Tuesday, from Mobeetie.

Prof. J. H. Combs and wife went to Mobeetie this week, for a little pleasure excursion.

That Great Eastern Company, with $14,500,000, and 500,000 acres of land has been heard from.

Messrs Sacra & Richards have four thousand head of yearling steers the this side of Mobeetie.

Sacre and Richards are putting up a herd of beeves which they will start for Caldwell, in a day or two.

Sacre and Richards round up their beeves to morrow, between Reckerd and Allan Creeks.

It is rumored on the street that there is to be a change in the proprietorship of the White House soon. It is to be regretted.

Nelson, beef-buyer, passed through here on Thursday, for Grande Vista. He goes from there to Coleman and Dyer's

A herd of about 800 beeves, lately bought of Adair and Goodnight, passed north of town last Sunday on their way to Dodge City.

The New business house erected by L. H. Carhart is nearly ready for use. Who will occupy with a full store of General merchandise.

Lusion Morrison, was so far recovered that he left the first of the week for the Ranch, on Running Watter, ninety miles to the southwest.

Judge G. A. Brown returned from Mobeetie on Wednesday morning. He was in attendance upon the session of the court there for several days.

A. Hamlington, otherwise "Bob," has left the stage line to Blanco Canon, and is now at work for J. J. Stanton, in the hay field. Bob will make a first class Nestor.

One of J. G. Murdock's horses was out, probably by a loose wire, on Thursday evening, and bled profusely. The injury is not as severe as was at first supposed.

Grande Vista, Aug, 20th, 1882. Mr. Jerry Shay rounded up 250 head of mustangs to-day and penned them in the plains corral with the mess wagon. So he said.

A. R. Carhart and Mrs. L. H. Carhart left on Monday morning, for their respective homes in the North; one in Trempealeau, Wis., and the other in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The profusion of melons is fully appreciate by all. The hungry boarders eat, and the Dr. laughs in his sleeves.

William Koogle's outfit, consisting of four wagons, loaded with cedar posts, drawn by 28 oxen, came into town on Monday evening. They camped for the night on the east side Carrol Creek.

An outfit of a number of horses, mess wagon &c., will start on Monday for a cruise down country, for cattle. They will attend roundups on several ranges, different ranges in this vicinity will be represented.

George A. Backus Esq. of Philad. is expected here about the middle of September to engage in sheep or cattle growing. Mr. Backus is well and favorably known to the News through a mutual friend, and we speak for him a cordial opening for business.

Temple Houston, District Attorney for this District, made us a pleasant call on Thursday of this week.

He left this morning, with Sam Dyer, for Grand Vista Ranch. We understand that he goes from there to Tascosa to attend Court.

The Case Cattle Company boys branded up Mr. Cartlich's cattle on Monday, and were treated to a bountiful supply of melons.

The old gentleman thinks they can get around more melons than any similar number of boys in the Pan Handle.

Mr. Chadwick who is engaged in gathering Buffalo Bones about forty-five miles from Clarendon on the plains is in town. He has been in search of stray mules and has heard nothing of them thus far. Parties having any knowledge of said mules will undoubtedly confer a favor, by letting Mr. Chadwick know of their whereabouts.

They still claim, in some parts of Texas that a bull team can out-travel a pair of mules with a load. Bull teams in that State are not a thing of the past by a considerable. Kan. City Current.

Bill Koogle says the above is correct and that he will wager his bulls against the same number of mules. We think Bill would win.

Several calves of cows being milked about town, are diseased to such an extent that they cannot take nourishment, and are totally blind in some instances. It is undoubtedly owing to exposure in the pens, in the hot sun, and an insufficient amount of water. Parties milking cows should look to this matter and see that the calves are treated properly.

Our readers will notice in our columns this week, under the head of announcements, the name of George T. Osborn as Candidate for Sheriff of Donley County. Mr. Osborn has acted as Deputy Sheriff before the organization of this county and proved himself eminently qualified for the position. Living in this country for many years, he is as well acquainted with the country and the people as any man, and is immensely popular every where. It is only necessary to have it known in season that George is a candidate, in order to insure his election. We have no doubt but that his friends will take hold of the matter and see that he is elected, with a splendid majority.

Through the kindness of Messrs Otey and McClelland the foreman was treated to a ride over to Mulberry on Saturday last. The route was beautiful following along the Goodnight fence and across an arm of the plains for a distance of about eight miles. The grass along the route was the best that we have yet seen, and the cattle were rolling fat and the finest condition possible. We stopped for the night with Mr. Goodnight at his camp on the head of Mulberry, he was preparing a surveying party for the plains. We recognized several of the boys among the outfit. Next morning we were pleased to witness the boys "tug" their saddle horses also the "bronco" that pitched a little interested us. After being pleasantly entertained we pulled our freight Many thanks for the ride.

Esary came in with another large load of baled hay from the plains Thursday. The first load of baled hay put up in the Pan Handle was brought in last week.

Concert & Festival.

Will all interested in having a grand vocal and instrumental concert and Festival meet at the new store building this Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Several.

D. W. Van Horn & Co. will close out all summer goods for cash from their stores at Fort Elliott, Mobeetie, and Clarendon—to make room for a large fall and winter stock.

All persons indebted to D. W. Van Horn & Co. at Fort Elliott, Mobeetie or Clarendon, are requested to call and settle accounts.

We wish to purchase a heavy stock of goods this fall and need our funds for this purpose.

D. W. Van Horn & Co.

Quarterly Meeting.

Rev. A. A. Johnson, Presiding Elder of the Dallas District of the M. E. Church, is expected at Clarendon to attend the fourth Quarterly Meeting of the Society here on Sept. 3d. There will be service here on Saturday and Sunday in usual manner. Prof. J. L. Hatfield of Athens Ohio, is also expected to accompany the Elder, on a sight seeing tour. Let our neighbors and friends from all sides make a note of this and be present. Extra endeavor will be made to accommodate all who come.

The announcement in our columns this week, of Temple Houston as Candidate for District Attorney will be gratifying to the voters of this District, who have already formed a most favorable opinion of Mr. Houston, as the present incumbent of that office.

Mr. Houston is a young man, but full of work, talent and energy—in fact, a natural born lawyer. We have no doubt the voters of this District will return him to the office he now so efficiently fills.

Rheumatism, disordered blood, general debility, and many chronic diseases pronounced incurable, are often cured by Brown's Iron Bitters.

A Pleasant Evening.

The vocal and Literary entertainment for the past week was held at the White House. Miss Alice Hubbard had charge of the programme and made the affair an entire success. The exercises were skillfully cast upon the thread of "Longfellow's Life and Works;" Mrs. Judge Brown read a very well written review of the great poet; eliciting general applause, Mrs. Prof. Combs read "Famine" from Hiawatha, Mrs. Marie Lyman read "Alva Clem," a soldier who lost his life in a sham battle at Galesburg, Illinois 1880. Mrs. W. A. Allan, read "Katie Lee, and Willie Gray," S. P. Read gave an enjoyable humorous reading, the Dutchman's experience setting a hen. Messrs White and Huntley together with Mrs. B. H. White rendered the music finely combining violin tamborine and organ, with the vocal.

We noted a clearly defined culture and good taste, with an absence of all starch or stiffness. Every body seemed at home and enjoyed the matter decidedly.

The next gathering will be in two weeks—and will be duly announced. OBSERVER.

Overworked men and women, persons of sedentary habits, and others whose system needs recuperation, nerves toned, and muscles strengthened should use Brown's Iron Bitters.

Zucatto's Printing Process.

We have now for sale one of the above in perfect order. Prints note, letter and fool-cap size. Is of inestimable value for copying letters, maps, and plats. Two hundred to three hundred impressions from a single copy. Easily worked. Will sell low as a change of business no longer calls for its use. Enquire at the News office. L. H. Carhart.

We are informed that Walter Dyer lost one of his best saddle horses, last week. It was hooked by a steer while driving cattle.

Increased Demand for fine Cattle.

The number of American buyers now in Europe in search of fine cattle is larger than at any previous time, and indicates the tremendous strides which the live stock business is taking. The majority of these purchasers are from the west and there is apparent a wide-spread desire not only to increase the herd, but to greatly improve the quality of American beef. Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa are represented among the searchers for animals of individual merit, and the shipments of pedigree cattle from England and Scotland will be very large. Foreign advices indicate the growing popularity of the Polled-Angus or Aberdeen cattle. Many American buyers are looking over the best herds in Scotland, and in securing the choice individuals are compelled to pay fabulous prices. It is evident that the victory was won at the Paris Exposition by the black hornless cattle has finely resulted in what may be termed a craze for them. Within the past six months prices for cattle of this breed have increased almost three-fold, and it is questionable whether the supply of desirable animals will supply the demand on this side of the water, to say nothing of the increased demand for them in European Countries, particularly in France. The breeders of Shorthorn cattle are also threatened with a dearth of good stock. The English herds are being rapidly depleted, and first class stock is bringing outside prices. The competition of the past four years since the Herford and Polled cattle fanciers have demonstrated their strength, has resulted in an increased demand for pure-bred Shorthorns, and while American breeders are placing excellent stock upon the market, the best known and most successful English breeders are receiving large and frequent orders. The rage among American breeders is largely confined to the production of a high class of grades, and the struggle between the friends of the various beef breeds has become one in which the public are deeply interested. The result of this controversy will eventually do away with scrappy beef, and, if the fight continues to grow in intensity, it cannot be many years before the great ranchman of the plains will be compelled to pay still greater attention to the qualities of the sires used upon the native cows. There has been a very great improvement in this respect, as the receipts at all western markets conclusively prove, yet there is room for further improvement.—Chicago Tribune.

Notwithstanding the large importations of American beef and Australian and New Zealand mutton into Great Britain during the last few years, the British consumer derives no benefit in the way of cheaper meats, from the fact that they are sold entirely as English beef and mutton. This imposition upon the common people has attracted the attention of the Government.

Bluntness.

Perfect honesty of speech is something we soon tire of. Now and then the coming in of a blunt expression from a good, strong, honest man is like a clap of thunder in a hot, sultry day in summer, and we like it; but when a man gives it to you all the time, and is always blunt and bluff on the plea that he is too straightforward to be speaking the honey-lapped languages of society, and continually tread down the courtesies and etiquettes of life, he violates good taste and true proportions of things.

Winding a string tightly around the body of a limb in June or July, will cause barren fruit trees to yield the following season. The string should be cut the following spring or early winter.
