GOLD for Europe last Saturday,
4 1/4 millions.

According to corporation philosophy, the old adage, "Wrong can never be right," is a fallacy. Corporation morality says that whatever is legal is right; therefore, to make wrong right it is only necessary to legalize it. Easy, isn't it?

To control labor, in order to absorb its earnings, is the problem constantly before the mind of the financial strategist. The same problem was the one from which the centralized power of Asia grew, and in later times the feudal system.

ONE of the strange things that occasionally happen in Texas was the payment for a negro slave in Dallas last Saturday. The sale was made in 1860 and a note given for $750 and not paid until Saturday when Henry M. McDonald, a lawyer of Paris, Tex., came to Dallas and received $750 cash from Joseph M. Dickson and turned over to Dickson the note given.

CHARLEY CULBERSON says he would not have the chairmanship of the democratic national committee under any circumstances. He can foresee the dissensions and wrangling he will have to contend with during the next campaign, besides the thought of being at the head of a party that will go down in defeat and afterwards being taunted with the responsibility of its failure caused him to promptly decline.

AN authority on financial affairs in New York says Europe is needing money badly and is selling stocks to get it. He adds: "It is a safe prediction that a continuation of British defeats will make money at this center very dear, as London will turn to New York for much-needed cash and offer very high rates for it. The effect of this movement upon securities is obvious. As long as money is dear, stocks will be sold and sold on a declining market. That is the situation in a nutshell, and the news from South Africa tonight is not calculated to encourage the hope that money will be in abundant supply, either here or in London, in the near future."

THERE don't seem to be much probability that the war tax will be soon reduced. The administration doubtless wants a plethora of treasury out of which to make extravagant appropriations. In Washington it is not believed that the entire law will ever be repealed. It is estimated that the law produces 100 million dollars a year above the normal receipts of the government. The estimate for this fiscal year is that there will be a surplus of about 40 million dollars in the treasury. It is claimed that if the war revenue had been repealed at the last session of congress, however, the probable surplus would have been turned into a deficit of something like 60 million dollars a year. When the war expenses, owing to the troubles in the Philippines, are cut down, the treasury surplus will be so large as to require action to diminish the income of the government, they say, but the probability is they will find plenty of schemes in which to put all the "surplus."

We Are Just as Bad.

It's a grand fight those South African Dutch are putting up to maintain their independence, and the sympathy of the American people who also bought their right to govern themselves at vast cost of life and treasure goes out in full measure to the gallant Boers. England has no more right to govern the South African republic than she has to send governors general to Maine or Kansas. Of course our right to govern the Philippines is not one whit better, but that doesn't alter the case in Africa a particle.—Kansas Populist.

The wageworker who supported his family on $1,000 last year must this year pay nearly $1,200 for the same goods—a raise of nearly 20 per cent in the cost of living, besides higher rent.

A BIG MONEY TRUST.

Some ten or fifteen years ago Bellamy wrote a book, called "Looking Backwards," in which the author is supposed to be living in the year 2000. The following is a quotation: "Early in the last century the evolution was completed by the final consolidation of the entire capital of the nation. The industry and commerce of the country, ceasing to be conducted by a set of irresponsible corporations and syndicates of private persons at their caprice and for their profit, were entrusted to a single syndicate representing the people, to be conducted in the common interest for the common profit. The epoch of trusts had ended in The Great Trust. In a word, the people of the United States concluded to assume the conduct of their own business, just as one hundred odd years before they had assumed the conduct of their own government."

It looks now as though the prediction is to come true, the financial sharks themselves forcing conditions that will bring it about.

A great financial institution, to be known as the National Bank of the United States, or the National United States Bank, is forming. This bank is to be the result of a consolidation of the National City Bank and the Hanover National Bank of New York, both controlled by the Rockefeller money trust, and a smaller local concern.

This consolidated institution is to be, according to present plans, the central money power of the United States, just as the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Imperial Bank of Berlin are in their respective countries.

Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage, after his retirement from the Cabinet, is to become the head of this bank.

The National City Bank of New York is practically the fiscal representative of the United States Government, through the favor of Secretary Gage.

The closeness of this relation has been shown openly on several occasions. The City Bank acted for the government in the transfer of the huge payments from the Pacific railroads to the Treasury, its intermediation preventing disturbance of the money market. The Treasury, acting alone, would have caused a shock to the mechanism of finance.

It also was the fiscal agent of the United States in the payment of the $20,000,000 to Spain, under the terms of the treaty of Paris, in payment for the Philippine Islands.

More recently the Secretary of the Treasury has made it the place of first deposit for the internal revenue of receipts of $1,000,000 a day, which he is diverting from the Treasury in order to prevent an accumulation there of surplus funds necessary for the conduct of the people's business. This transaction is not only profitable to the bank, but it gives it valuable prestige by advertising its peculiar relation to the administration.

The National City Bank is known to have an ambition to make this relation permanent, and more nearly official; that is, becoming in fact, what the old United States Bank was in law, until President Jackson's coup—the central money power of this country, as the banks of England and France and the Imperial Bank of Germany are in theirs.

To this end the ancient Custom-house building was bought from the government. It will cost $3,000,000 to remodel and refurnish its interior, and even more to build an edifice expressive of the bank's new relation to the business world.

The stockholders are expected to decide at the meeting next month just which is to be done. Housed in the old Custom-house, it would look like the "Old Lady of Thread-needle Street's" younger sister, and looks count for a good deal in business.

It has increased its capital from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000. The bank now does a business four times as large as that of any other institution of the kind in New York. Its loans are about $100,000,000, backed by a strong surplus reserve.

The allotment of the new stock will be divided. Fifteen per cent. will be taken at par by the directors and the other 85 per cent. will be distributed pro rata among the directors and stockholders alike.

The last sale of National City Bank shares was at $2,007 for a $100 share. The "book value," based upon the actual surplus to be divided if the bank were to go into liquidation, is nearer $500. The difference between that and $2,007 represents the value of the good will and prospective earning power.

Bryanites Seeking Fusion.

It is no longer a secret that overtures are being made by the Bryan contingent to the middle of the roaders, to bury all past differences and unite in an effort to secure the defeat of the republicans in the elections to take place next November. Word has been sent in every direction, and wily messengers from the democratic camp have arranged to visit all populist conventions and other large populist gatherings and, if possible, secure the endorsement of the scheme.

At the state executive committee meeting held in Dallas on Saturday last, we are informed that the matter was discussed, but what action was taken, if any, we are unable to say. We are not a member of the state committee, and as it was published that the session would be executive—that is, that none but members were expected to participate in its proceedings, we did not presume to obtrude upon the privacy of their deliberations. But the secret, if secret it was, has been divulged, probably by some of the "leaky" members of the committee, and the matter is now the topic of discussion in populist circles. The proposition, as we hear it, is novel, and borders almost on the ridiculous. As it appears to us, it is simply the old St. Louis scheme of 1896, with a few added frills. Substantially as it comes to us, it is as follows:

First, the populists, in national convention are to adopt as their national platform the Omaha demands, with the addition of the initiative and referendum, or direct legislation.

Second, the populists are to nominate as their candidate for president William J. Bryan, and some man acceptable to all reformers as vice president—Judge Caldwell of Arkansas, Judge Clark of North Carolina or some other man of national standing and reputation.

Third, Mr. Bryan and whoever is chosen as his running mate, are then and there to accept the nominations.

Fourth, The populists national convention is to be held one month previous to either the democratic or republican national conventions.

The democrats will also nominate Mr. Bryan, and he will accept their nomination, too.

There are some other minor details and incompatibilities in this proposition, which seem to us fatal to its consummation. In the first place, Mr. Bryan could not consistently accept the populist nomination upon such a platform as has been indicated, since he has for years been inveighing against several of its cardinal principles, and holding them up to the ridicule and contempt of his following. His motives, however honest would be impugned, even by populists.

If he should accept the nominations of the populists, and declare himself openly in favor of all the principles in the populist national platform—the Omaha demands and direct legislation—how could he consistently accept the democratic nomination on the "Chicago platform" of 1896, which impugns the Omaha declarations in a number of places?

It is, as we look at it now, a trap, a snare, a delusion, planned solely to compass the destruction of populism as a party, by injecting disorder and confusion in our ranks under the pretense of patriotism, and a desire to serve the masses.

Our experience in democratic promises should be a lesson to us. The proceedings at St. Louis in 1896 should not be so readily forgotten. It will be noted that the state executive committee has suggested that the conventions to select delegates to the national convention be held in the different congressional districts be held within the next thirty days. At these conventions it is the purpose that none but men in harmony with the scheme be elected as delegates to the national convention. In case even a majority of this class can be selected, the unit rule will be invoked, and the mouths of all opposers closed. We are not opposed to anything which means good for the people, which means good for the people—the people who are sweating as it were blood under existing infamous rule of plutocracy, but we are not so stupid, forgetful, so criminally confident as to believe for one moment that any real, lasting good can come to the wage-workers of this country by adopting such a policy.

In the hearts of many populists there is a determination to stay "in the middle of the road." The Mercury believes that we should work out our own salvation, along the lines originally adopted at Omaha, or like Nelson on the Nile, go down, if we must, with our own flag flying at the masthead. Our motto is "death before dishonor."—Mercury.

Didn't Tell It All.

Gov. Elect Nash, of Ohio, makes it vit that the campaign cost him ninety-three thousand dollars. His candidate must in that state a sworn statement of their campaign expenses. This does not take at Hanna and others spent. On a pie comes high in Ohio.—Hall County Herald.

But the Herald don't seem so ready to praise the doings of John R. McLean, the democratic candidate in the law. He defied the law to file a statement of his expenses. Under the law candidates are allowed to file an itemized statement. Candidates except Mr. McLean complied with the law. The penalty for violation of this section of the law is a fine of $1,000.

No prosecution has ever been instituted, probably because this is the first instance of a candidate defying the law openly. If any action is taken against Mr. McLean it will devolve upon the attorney general or the county prosecuting attorney. Prosecuting Attorney Schwartz says: "As a matter of courtesy, I might wait upon the state attorney general to act, but it is probable that if I wrote to him he would request the county to take charge of the prosecution. I have not determined what action to take."

Mr. McLean's expenses during the late campaign have been estimated at $300,000. F. J. Heer, treasurer of the democratic state committee, made affidavit in Columbus that the total revenues of the committee were $18,149.55, and the expenses $18,189.83.

"Golden Rule Jones" filed a statement at Toledo showing that $9,866.36 was spent in trying to elect him governor.

What the Herald says is probably true, but don't keep much more of the truth in the background.

$20,000 in Cattle Prizes.

The contest between the Hereford and Shorthorn cattle for recognized supremacy as the beef cattle of the West will be fought out in Kansas City during the last two weeks of October, 1900.

There will be a joint sale and show with $20,000 in prizes, the largest prize list ever offered in a strictly breeders' show. The show and sale will last two weeks and all of the cattle entered will be held at the yards until the close.

The competition will be friendly, but it will be competition of the most thorough sort. There is no sweepstake prize to be offered, but the breed that can make the best showing at a national exhibition held at the gateway of the stock breeding portion of the United States will have won more than any number of sweepstake prizes.

The Herefords and Shorthorns have been ranked for rank among the breeders and this is the first time they have agreed to meet and show, independently, at fair or exposition.

Going out now even with a stupor balance of trade in favor of this country. With conditions that will largely reduce the balance of trade more will be shipped out.

The currency bill that has been passed and is now in the hands of the exporters of gold can be taken back and treasury notes for gold and get gold for the treasury.

It is also provided in the bill that the secretary may, in his discretion, redeem silver dollars in silver certificates in gold. In case there is any considerable amount of gold exported the government will issue bonds to get the gold. The redeemed money will not be paid out again. So we will have currency contraction and more bonds. The sum and substance of the republican financial policy, or rather the Wall street financial policy, being put into law by the republican party, is less money and more bonds. Do you favor it?—Mo. World.

Green Issues a Call.

Last Saturday a call was issued to the members of the Republican State Executive Committee by Chairman E. H. R. Green for a meeting in the city of Waco on Saturday, January 20, at 10 a. m., for the purpose of fixing a basis of representation, and to name a time and place for holding the State convention to elect four delegates and four alternates to the national republican convention, to be held on June 19 next in Philadelphia, Pa.

Congressional chairmen are advised to withhold their calls for congressional conventions until full instructions are given by the State Executive Committee.

By the death of M. L. Hayward of Nebraska, the Republicans lose a United States senator and the Democrats will gain one, as the state has a Democratic Governor.—Hall County Herald.

The error which a great many newspapers labor under, to the effect that Nebraska has a Democratic Governor, proceeds perhaps from the fact that the last victory at the polls in that state was claimed as a Democratic one. The Governor is a Populist, and at the last election there were only candidates for the supreme judgeship and regents of the State University. A Populist was elected to the first office and a Democrat and Silver Republican to the other two offices. As is well known, the Populist Governor appointed a Populist, ex-Senator Allen, to succeed Hayward, and did it though Mr. Hitchcock, a Democrat, was backed by Nebraska Democrats for the place.—Dallas News.

Old People Made Young.

J. C. Sherman, the veteran editor of the Vermontville (Mich.) Echo, has discovered the remarkable secret of keeping old people young. For years he has avoided Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, Heart trouble, Constipation and Rheumatism, by using Electric Bitters, and he writes: "It can't be praised too highly. It gently stimulates the kidneys, tones stomach, aids digestion and gives a splendid appetite. It has worked wonders for my wife and me. It's a marvelous remedy for old people's complaints." Only 50c. at Ramsey's drug store.

The Belle and the Buzzard.

Buzzards' feathers have gone up in the market since the ladies now wear them in their hats. The buzzards themselves had better go up and stay up too, ere the craze for their old red heads for hat ornaments is developed. All other birds, bugs and reptiles have had their run; buzzard's heads come next.—Kaufman Sun.

I want to let the people who suffer from rheumatism and sciatica know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved me after a number of other medicines and a doctor had failed. It is the best liniment I have ever known of.—J. A. DODGEN, Alpharetta, Ga. Thousands have been cured by this remedy. One application relieves the pain. For sale by Ramsey, druggist.

An Interesting Announcement.

The management of the Great Texas-Colorado Chautauqua at Boulder, Colorado, announces that its next session is to be from July 1st to August 15th inclusive, longer and in every way stronger than ever.

The management is now booking, regardless of great expense, the very best educational and platform talent secureable in this country for the edification and pleasure of the hundreds who will be on hand during the session. The further announcement is made that, in the interest of complete satisfaction for its guests, the Chautauqua Association will considerably enlarge the previously existing cottage, tent and dining facilities and will operate the whole itself, contracting nothing to outside parties, and completing every detail necessary to comfort and pleasure in advance of the opening date.

It is said that every county in the Fifth district has a candidate for congress to take the place Mr. Bailey will vacate. Grayson county so teems with congressional material that an election has been ordered to determine what one of its candidates the county shall support at the nominating convention.—Fort Worth Register.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

If you have a sign over your door you are an advertiser. You can not carry everybody to your sign, but THE INDUSTRIAL WEST can carry your sign and your message also to the people of this and surrounding counties. Persistent publicity is the price of business prosperity. An advertisement does not sell the goods, but it puts you in touch with the buyer and helps you sell them.

"When times are dull and people are not advertising," says John Wanamaker, "is the very time that advertising should be the heaviest." Such is the advice given by America's merchant prince. Some traders say it don't pay to advertise. They think they know more than Wanamaker. That's where they make a big mistake. Wanamaker's advertising has made him rich and famous. Wanamaker's methods on a smaller scale would be as good in Clarendon as they are in New York or Philadelphia. Turn over a new leaf and advertise in THE INDUSTRIAL WEST.

Did you ever think of it? "Every newspaper reader is a buyer." If you have anything to sell, the people will not know it unless you advertise. Talk to Panhandle people through an ad in the INDUSTRIAL WEST.

The largest and oldest established paper is always the best advertising medium. If you want results, put your ad in this—the people's paper. If you don't want any more trade, don't ask for it. The people will accommodate you by going to the man who does advertise.

Nearly 2500 people read this paper every week. Are you getting your share of their custom? People are reading it who might be induced to visit your store if you saw fit to attract their attention through the paper they read. The people are here, and they are buying their supplies somewhere. If you are not getting your share it is no fault of ours. How is it with you? The live dealer, who keeps his name and business prominently before the public eye, is the one who attracts trade. That's natural. People don't hunt for stores in a cemetery. Tell them where you do business and give them a reason for trading with you. Place a catchy ad in plain terms in THE INDUSTRIAL WEST, where advertising space is worth more than it costs. Every reader is a buyer.

If their parents would permit it, there would be over fifty weddings in Vernon in less than a week; of boys, who have just discarded knee breeches, and girls that have not let down the first tuck in their dresses. Yum, Yum!—Vernon Globe.

About fifty tons of hay belonging to Judge Polly, which was stacked on the north side of the river, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary, and several arrests have been made.—Canadian Record.

The political pot has begun to simmer in and around the county capital and ere long you will see the names in The Chief of the parties who are willing to sacrifice self-interest to manage the county affairs next term for the dear people. One candidate has handed us his announcement to appear in next week's issue.—Miami Chief.

The section force on the Southern Kansas railroad have been cut down to two men. The horse race came off Monday, the winner to take both horses. There was not a watch in the crowd slow enough to keep the time. It was the general opinion that the time was somewhat faster than Southern Kansas passenger time.—Panhandle Herald.

A few days since J. N. Askren of Deaf Smith county, shipped from Hereford a carload of broomcorn which he sold to parties in Round-rock, Texas. In the car there were nine tons and he received $100 per ton f. o. b. cars at Hereford. He raised this corn on thirty-seven acres of land and devoted only a portion of his time to it during the year. This is one of the best paying products we have heard of being grown on the plains, and if more people will turn their attention to it, it will be an easy matter to get a steam broom factory located in this country which will insure a ready and profitable market here at home and at much better figures than can be secured elsewhere, as the saving in freight would be a good deal. Let this matter be discussed by the people in general and a steam broom factory secured for Amarillo.—Western Advocate.

Referring to the above the Dallas News says:
"The day is just dawning for the Panhandle part of Texas. The people should look around and see what they can do. It has been ascertained, after much trouble and loss that parts of it are not fit for agriculture in the full sense of the word, but all of it is good for forage crops. This has made those parts a stockgrowing country. Nowhere on earth can the small stockgrower find a better country for his business. If forage will grow in that country as well as it does, broomcorn ought to do well, because it is akin to the forage plants. This product is bringing a remarkably high price this year."
As a money crop, broomcorn beats cotton and we believe it would prove one of the surest crops that could be planted.

It has come to be a settled business principle that advertising and success go hand in hand. The time has passed when a man could establish a business and, little by little, build it up to profitable proportions without the aid of advertising. Competition is too fierce.—Patent Record.

Does He Plead Guilty?
The following article was published in the last issue of the INDUSTRIAL WEST:
A COWARDLY CUR.
"Some writers of newspaper articles forcibly reminds me of a cowardly cur that sneaks under the doorstep to hide himself, while he snaps at the honorable visitor as he enters his neighbor's house. Or we may justly liken the man who is too cowardly to sign his name to his articles to the man that sneaks around and hides himself in brush (thicket) to waylay, murder and rob an honest, upright citizen. An honest man will not write and have published what he is afraid to sign his name to Yours, with the utmost contempt for all such cowards."
An article appeared in the last issue of The Agitator signed "Ob server." The writer began his article by saying: "Sam Jones is authority for saying, 'It is the hit dog that always yelps.'" In the name of common sense what is "Observer" setting up such a howl about? If he is not guilty, then there is no room for a controversy, and if he is guilty, I cannot afford to notice him. Yours contending for the truth,
L. TOMME.

HOW TO MAKE WOOD PULP.
After an Exhaustive Picking Process a Coarse Mass is Produced.
The utilization of wood pulp has lately taken some new and interesting forms, especially in the line of ornamentation, says the New York Sun. The pulp is taken as it comes from the mill, and after being first fully dried, it is then in an indurating pickle, so called, with coloring if desired.
This pickle is composed of any compound or solution capable of indurating the mass, and, after the material is taken out of the pickle and thoroughly dried, it is run through a mill and ground sufficiently fine to insure a mixture of the particles which have not absorbed the indurating substance with the particles which are fully hardened. The powdered pulp is then compressed, with the application of heat, in a mold or die, with the result of producing a homogeneous and cohesive thoroughly indurated particle—objects produced in this manner polished or otherwise to their appearance, according to their use.

Some Ancient Industries.
Wickerwork, demanding strength of muscle, skill in construction and marked touches of beauty in the details of finishing, was a business at that moment in the past ages in which the artisans of the period tested their thought. The dwelling, the arches, their so-called "wicker" were planned and ably executed by the wickerwork builders, as given the fashioning of the and the construction of canoes; and here another was brought into requisition—the paring of the skins of animals essential for the covering of these, all ships, for everything must be taut and trim, ready to battle with ocean's waves.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
Manager Martin, of the Pierson drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In these days of la grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Calumet. For sale by H. D. Ramsey.

e Great Presidential Campaign of 1900.
The policies of the great political parties now being formed for the campaign are discussed. The voice of the people as recorded by ballot at the approaching Presidential election will probably decide the policy of the nation for the next decade. Every citizen should study the great questions that are before the people. This can be done through the medium of the paper. Now is the time, for every voter to subscribe to the most reliable newspaper. The Semi-Weekly Republic is also called The Republic Sunday Magazine. Its half-cent price is alone worth the subscription price. It is made up of special articles by the best literary talent, and contains a variety of subjects of current interest. For the benefit of the ladies the latest fashions are handsomely illustrated. The Republic Sunday Magazine is always interesting to every member of the family.
The subscription price of the Semi-Weekly Republic is $1.00 per year. The Republic Sunday Magazine $1.25 per year. Both papers are now being offered at the very low price of $1.50 for one year. To secure this low rate both must be ordered and paid for at the same time.
Address all orders to The Republic St. Louis, Mo.

When you read this paper, hand it to your neighbor, ask him to read it and send in his subscription.
