Conservation Part of County Economy

Donley County farmers and ranchers continue to apply conservation measures to the land, some plans for individual operations dating as far back as the 1930's and 1940's.

Through the years the most popular and effective technique used within the county has been terracing. Terracing continues to be one of the major on-going programs farmers and ranchers request technical assistance for from the District Soil Conservation Service. A number of programs are available to landowners. Through Agricultural Conservation Programs (ACP) Donley County landowners can use funds provided through the ASCS for specific conservation practices with the SCS acting as the technical agent that carries out those programs.

In the last few years a more comprehensive soil conservation program, the Great Plains program, has entered the picture. Landowners enter into a three to ten year contract with the SCS to complete all conservation practices required on that parcel of land. At the end of the contract period no major erosion or watershed problem should exist. The landowner is obligated to continue to carry out specific management practices after the Great Plains program contract period however.

"Though the Great Plains is a unique region with special problems, the practices embodied in it should be as applicable in a drought cycle such as we're in now as it would during a spell of abnormally high rainfall," says James Donoho, District Conservationist.

In 1976, the Donley County SCS office had twenty-eight local landowners cooperating in Great Plains contracts with one contract expiring. Since August of 1976, the office developed five new contract plans.

District conservation plans represent an on-going relationship with co-operators some of whom have had a conservation plan for their property for thirty years and more.

"We try to revise these conservation plans as landowners make changes on their places. Changing to more grassland would make it necessary to determine just how much grazing capacity was there. A shift to more cropland means determining what the cropping allotment is for a given place. We try to change our plans as quickly

TERRACING CONTINUES to be the most requested conservation treatment by farmers and ranchers. County Judge Christal

Commissioners Face Increased Responsibilities

"If county government can't solve some of its own problems I'm sure the federal government will," says County Judge Billy Christal after attending the Panhandle County Judges and Commissioners Association at Canyon, January 28.

County government could lose some of the rights it exercises if local solutions don't keep up with new problems confronting this basic unit in American self-government.

Christal hopes the county will continue to shoulder its own financial responsibilities without pressure from the federal government. With the growing number of programs that demand local county participation such as Community Action the commissioners Court is faced with increasing responsibility.

Public participation budget hearings, Christal feels, would help change the attitude that the county government does pretty well as it pleases.

"We have too few people interested in how their tax money is spent and attending public hearings would help correct some misunderstandings. Too few people really know what we do here at commissioners meetings," said Christal.

Pending legislation at Austin could throw tax assessing into a cocked hat locally. The Creighton Amendment would influence tax revenues by forcing a complete re-evaluation of farm and ranch land basing the tax evaluation on the production of the land.

Opponents of the measure claim the bill would not give a true picture of the actual production of the land.

"Unless they can come up with a formula, there will be recurring inequities because one year will be a dry with no yield and the next a bumper. There could be potentially too great a fluctuation for year-to-year to fairly tax under this method," claims Christal.

Senate Bill 249 is cited by Christal as an example of the shifting feelings about the proper court to deal with juveniles in local circumstances. While not relishing the duties Christal feels the bill's intent, to put the juvenile court back in the hands of the county judge is good. He feels the county judge often knows more about the circumstances of a case than a district judge.

"I'm not looking for anymore responsibilities but I do think that the county judge may know more about a particular juvenile's case than the district judge might.

College Participates in National Vo-Tech Week

February 6-12 has been proclaimed as Vocational Education Week in the State of Texas by Governor Dolph Briscoe.

Clarendon College currently has six vocational-technical program offerings at the college. All programs except one was started in 1973, when vocational programs started playing a major educational role in America. The sixth program, Electronic Organ Repair, is in the first year of instruction at Clarendon College.

Each program has not only attracted students from all over the area, but has also brought students from other states to Clarendon such as Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. With the philosophy that graduates of the program should return to the small rural communities to fulfill the needs of these sing, Radio-TV Repair and Electronic Organ Repair.

The Ranch and Feedlot Operations Program is under the direction of Mr. Jack Moreman and Mr. David Guill. The one year program, designed to give the student a thorough understanding in all phases of ranch and feedlot professions, will allow students who are interested in a ranch or feedlot career to gain knowledge and technical skills to meet the needs of coping with today's complex agricultural problems. The courses in this program are designed to give the students technical and management skills needed to make them more efficient producers and successful managers. Extensive field work conducted on ranches, feedlots, and related facilities offers a practical approach to the learning that embodies both a classroom and practical experience approach in the development of personal service skill concerned with a variety of beauty treatments. Automobile Mechanics at Clarendon College offers students an opportunity to learn skills necessary for employment in the automobile industry as automotive technicians. Using the most modern equipment available, the school emphasizes both the theory and practical skills of mechanics needed to prepare students for the career. The program is directed by Mr. Wiley Reynolds, an instructor with 17 years of teaching experience.

communities. Clarendon College has placed a great number of people in many small area towns. Many of those completing vocational programs at the college not only located in the smaller towns but have opened their own business, helping the economy and growth of those towns.

Programs currently offered at Clarendon are Ranch and Feedlot Operations, Cosmetology, Automobile problems in the ranch and feedlot industry.

Cosmetology has placed a great number of students in Clarendon and surrounding town in the past four years. Under the instruction of Mrs. Virginia James, the program offers 1500 hours of instruction over a one year period of time. Upon completion of the course, students are eligible and qualified to take the State Board of Cosmetology Exam.

Courtney Named Heart Chairman

Alice Courtney issued a call today for Donley County volunteers for the February 1977 Heart Campaign. Courtney is chairman of the campaign.

She pointed out two facts for potential volunteers to consider -- the reason for the Heart Association and the service volunteers can render. "Over half of all Americans who die each year, from all causes, die from heart and blood vessel diseases," Alice said, "and there are 29 million Americans afflicted with some form of it, or about one out of seven Americans.

"So we're talking about volunteers for help with America's number one health problem. In addition to collecting much-needed money for research, education and community service programs, the volunteers pass out information that can save lives. In a sense, the volunteers are saving lives with information made possible by those who gave in the past."

as farmers and ranchers change theirs which is impossible," said Donoho. James Gillespie, SCS technician changed or developed fifty-nine conservation plans during 1976 and will revise an equal number this year to stay current with changing land uses in the county.

In terms of acreage effected by individual farm or ranch conservation plans the work of the local SCS office in 1976 extended to some 50,476 acres in the county. Beyond the land figure though are people who sought out SCS assistance. Some 1966 individuals came in contact with SCS within the county if for nothing more than a phone call. Of this number 351 people did seek SCS assistance on a specific conservation problem.

Overseeing the work of the Donley County SCS is the District Board. Members include: Homer Hardin, chairman; Claude Thomas, vice-chairman; Ernest Barbee, secretary; Wayne Riggs, member and Bud Hermesmyer, member. The Board members are elected for five-year terms to give stability to the Board and members are elected to the Board in staggered terms. Approval is required from the Board for specific farm and ranch plans with the advice of the District Conservationist.

"The programs that appear to be the most popular with Donley County landowners are terracing followed by grass seeding, range seeding, pasture planning. These are also programs landowners can get financial assistance on," stated Donoho.

The management-type systems such as conservation cropping, crop residue management, deferred grazing, planned grazing systems likewise can qualify for certain federal funding.

The percentage of cost-sharing by the federal government varies. Some examples include: range seeding and pasture planning, 80 per cent; parallel terracing, 60 per cent; diversion terraces, 60 per cent; retention dams, up to 70 per cent; for live-stock water, 60 per cent; irrigation pipeline, 50 per cent; livestock wells, 50 per cent.

Cost sharing totals float with the actual contracting costs and are adjusted yearly to reflect costs. "I hope that farmers and ranchers will become interested in shelter belts again as a conservation tool. First started in the thirties, many of these windbreaks are in deteriorated condition now and need re-establishment. Personally I feel before too long there will be another big push to have them replanted," stated Donoho.

Many people have gotten a negative connotation about shelter belts. Donoho believes part of the explanation for this lies in the fact these strips of trees do take out of production some valuable land.

With the recent return of drought conditions over much of the South Plains region, Donoho feels the Great Plains Plan can offer sound management help to ranchers and farmers. By working with co-operating landowners under the program, SCS technicians can work out a grazing program that will keep cattle herds together yet not over-tax the land resources a cattleman has to work with to make it through the long-haul to wetter years again.

"While I don't think conditions are as bad as the thirties certainly or even the fifties, you have to remember that we have more technology to combat the worst conditions especially in our production of row crops. Since the worst drought periods of the thirties and fifties, we've learned more about distributive grazing and overpasturing," pointed out Donoho.

Supplemental reseeding of native rangeland with Lovegrass is cited as a beneficial step toward increasing range capacity. For this coming year Donoho contemplates between twenty-five and thirty referrals for further practices, mainly terracing under ACP funding. Under the Great Plains Program pasture planning will continue steadily along with cross fencing projects, ponds, a waterway, range seeding and livestock water-pipe construction.

"We're staying constant on the amount of money or percentage of cost-sharing we can expect from the federal government for Great Plains and are actually getting more money for district conservation programs as opposed to Great Plains contracts," observed Donoho. Personnel ceilings announced by SCS for all states will limit the number of new projects initiated however.

In an effort to aid urban conservation practices, the local District Board last Tuesday authorized the District SCS office to begin a study to determine if further remedial flood control practices might be needed to prevent runoff damage within the city of Clarendon. The study itself would be performed by a special study group brought in.

Regionally, the SCS is co-operating in the continuing effort to get the North Rolling Plains Resource Conservation and Development program funded by the federal government to begin a comprehensive eight-county project.

Now over four years old, the plan would bring a geographically similar area under a long-term program for rural and urban improvement.

"We have been floating around right at the top of the list of projects to be federally funded under this resource conservation and development program but somehow each time some other area winds up getting the money. We always remain hopeful though," said Donoho.

VIETNAMESE DOCTOR CONTACTS CHAMBER

Le Huu Lan, a refugee Vietnamese physician, contacted John Sarich, Chamber of Commerce Secretary seeking information about possible community support for establishing a practice in Clarendon.

Dr. Huu Lan, general practitioner and surgeon in Viet Nam sought information about possible subsidization during the period prior to receiving a Texas license to practice medicine.

The doctor's letter intimated he would be interested in practicing in Clarendon following successful completion of his license exam.

The letter, circulated to Chamber members and hospital director Gerry Knight and hospital board members evoked no immediate reply. Billy Ray Johnston, hospital board member, expressed concern that the overture from the Vietnamese doctor would produce little more than the recent episode with the Korean doctor.

Ms. Dee Williams attended the John Brimhall Keyboard Workshop in Amarillo Thursday by invitation of Nizzy Music Shoppe. Mr. Brimhall is one of America's bestselling keyboard writers, lecturer, teacher and pianist. He also discussed new teaching methods and materials.

Mrs. Ray Hefner, Mrs. John F. Harlan, Mrs. Don Barker and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Scott, all of Amarillo visited with their mother, Mrs. Lenoa Quattlebaum, Sunday.

Soil conservation Technician Phil Longan completes a plastic overlay of a terracing project following actual shooting of contours and plotting of elevations. The difficulty comes with matching equal elevations while creating terraces that will accommodate farm machinery without impeding their use.

Reseeded contractors planting a mixture of Indian Grass, bluestems and the newly approved Kline Grass on a Watershed Structure on the Lawrence Hagy ranch south of Clarendon. The cover was not considered sufficient on the huge structures so over-seeding was undertaken to insure cover against erosion. The tractor and grass drill are steadied by a cable attached to the truck safeguarding against upset on the steep slope.

COLLEGE JUDGING TEAM PARTICIPATES AT FORT WORTH CONTEST

Clarendon College's Livestock Judging Team had two members tie for third in horse judging at the Fort Worth Livestock Show judging contest and the team finally placed sixth in competition against eighty-seven other contestants from twenty-nine teams.

Judging team coach, Jerry Hawkins, described the team's showing as 'quite good' in the face of competition from teams that had been on the road for a number of shows already this year.

"I'm real pleased with these students, especially Jimmy Davidson of Quitque and Cliff Widener of Memphis. Neither of these boys had ever judged in an FFA or 4-H event and they did quite well," said Hawkins. Most of the teams from four year colleges without a senior judging team had already made such shows as the Phoenix and Denver Livestock shows and came in off the road with considerable showing experience.

Besides Davidson and Widener, team members for the Fort Worth trip included the following: Emmett Yarbrough of Fritch, Donald Smith of Pampa and Ronnie Lee of Paducah. Smith and Lee served as alternates for the team.

Final ratings for the team include eleventh for hogs, nineteenth for sheep and nineteenth for cattle with the team ranking eleventh overall in standings with the twenty-nine teams at the show.

Hawkins noted that the team that won horse judging honors at Denver placed just ahead of Clarendon's horse team at Fort Worth.

The team worked out with stock at Abilene Christian on the way to Fort Worth. Competition at the Fort Worth contest was limited to junior colleges and four-year colleges without senior judging teams. The competition included such four-year schools as Tarleton and Fort Hays.

SPRING ENROLLMENT OVER 500 AT CLARENDON COLLEGE

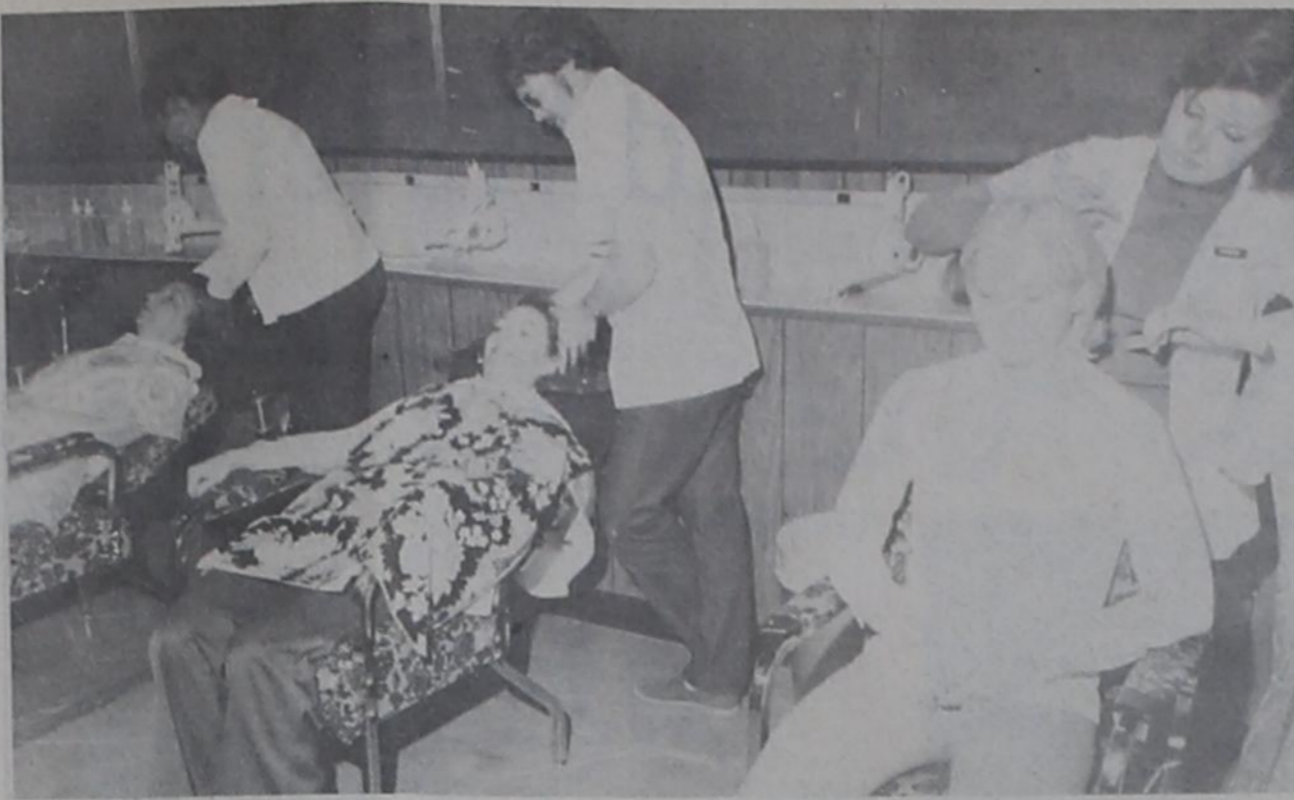

Spring enrollment at Clarendon College was at 518 students with two days of registration remaining.

The enrollment for spring at the time of this article was only three students less than the fall enrollment of 521 students. Officials of the college were very pleased with the retention of enrollment. Normally, national figures indicated that the average spring enrollment is 10% less than fall figures.

A total of 330 students are enrolled for classes at Clarendon. Pampa continues to increase in off-campus enrollments with 131 enrolled for academic courses and 33 enrolled for cosmetology bringing the total for Pampa to 164 students. Other off-campus programs enrollments are Childress with 11 and McLean with 13.

Vocational-Technical enrollment at Clarendon for the spring are Auto Mechanics, 13; Cosmetology, 8; Radio-TV, 12; Ranch Operations, 12; and Vocational Nursing, 21.

Registration for the spring ended Wednesday, February 2. The spring semester will end May 13.

Students learn proper hair care by actual experience from the beginning of course work. Shown standing from left to right are Dorothy Massey, Wayne Roberts, Bonnie Green. Seated left to right are Billye Loudermilk, Loona Maddox and Delois Heard.

STUDENTS IN Automotive mechanics courses at the college learn not only technical information about engines, transmissions and repair and maintenance but they also are exposed to the business side of mechanics. Some will become owners of their own business eventually.

Open House at CC's Vo-Tech Depts

In conjunction with Texas Vocational Week, February 6-12, two departments of Vocational-Technical Training at Clarendon College will hold an open house.

Tomorrow, February 11, all residents of the area are invited to the college to visit the schools of Cosmetology and Radio-TV Repair.

Cosmetology will feature demonstrations of latest hair-cuts, styles and techniques throughout the day.

Visitors will have an opportunity to visit with students of the Radio-TV Repair and Electronic Organ Repair classes. Displays of the latest equipment and information about the classes will be available for guests.

Host and hostess for the open house are Mr. Lee Jackson and Mrs. Virginia James. The open house will be held from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

physician or professional nurse. Working with several area clinics and hospitals, the program provides adequate work experience for students in the program. Upon completion, students are eligible to take the State of Texas Vocational Nursing exam.

The Radio and T.V. Repair school furnishes theory and practice required to qualify a person for employment in the various areas of the radio, T.V. and electronic service industry. A two-year program, under the instruction of Mr. Lee Jackson, Radio and T.V. Repair has placed graduates in a great number of area towns that either were short of technicians or were doing without these services prior to the Clarendon College student locating his services in that community.

In its first year of existence at the college, a new program in Electronic Organ Repair will soon help supply the area with technicians qualified to meet the demands of a field that is short in qualified personnel. The program, also under the direction of Mr. Jackson, is one of only three of its kind in the nation. Students completing the two-year program will be qualified to service and repair all types of electronic pianos, organs and guitar amplifiers.

Residents interested in visiting any of the programs are welcome at anytime to come to the college. The School of Cosmetology is open daily from 8-4 p.m. for services to the public.

Positions to expire on city council

City Manager, Bud Knorpp stated three positions for the City Council would expire including Mayor H.M. Breedlove's, Aldermen Cecil McAfee's and Glenn Wallace's terms also expire April 2.

Knorpp reminded potential candidates that the filing deadline is March 2.

Donley County Soil and Water Conservation at Work

ON ANNA MOORE SIMMONS place plowing of shinnery is being done with the assistance of the Great Plains Conservation Program. Lovegrass will also be established converting worthless rangeland into productive pastureland. With the establishment of the lovegrass a grazing system can be developed that should increase stocking capacity of the entire place.

BRUSH CONTROL by AERIAL SPRAYING - In the upper left hand picture sandsage is being treated by aerial spraying with the assistance of the Great Plains Program. The control of sandsage on rangeland allows young plants to emerge and get a start. Tied together with rest and proper management of grass more production can be realized. In the upper right hand picture Joe Robinson checks some mesquite that has been aerial sprayed. The aerial spraying hurts the mesquite allowing the grass to improve. Following brush control pastures should be rested, allowing the grasses an accelerated growth period due to not having the competition of the different species of brush. The problem of brush, mesquite, sandsage, shinnery, etc. is still one of the major problems in Texas. The Great Plains Conservation Program is one method to obtain assistance in helping fight this problem.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT - Weeping lovegrass seeded on the Lazy F Ranch with assistance from the Great Plains Conservation Program has proved to be very beneficial to the overall management scheme on the ranch. The lovegrass works well in conjunction with a planned grazing system that incorporates both the lovegrass and rangeland. The lovegrass growth cycle lends itself to producing high quantities of good forage at the same time that native range needs deferment.

Lovegrass produces best when under an intensive management system which includes fertilizer, rotation and proper stocking rate. A planned grazing system which incorporates both native range and lovegrass is a combination which as an end result will increase not only the carrying capacity on native range but should also increase net returns on the ranch.

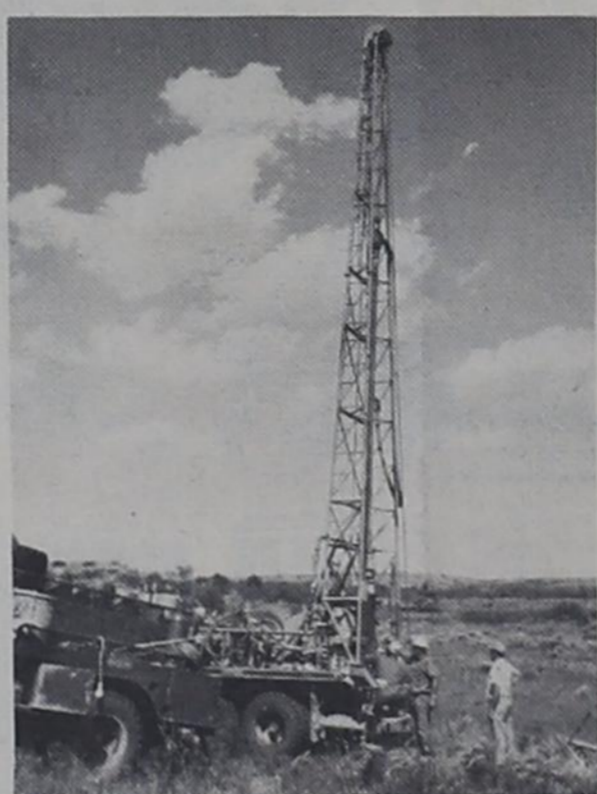

WELLS AND WATER STORAGE Facilities developed through the Great Plains Conservation Program are a source of abundant, high quality water for livestock on Donley County ranges. The water storage facility is designed to furnish adequate water for the maximum number of livestock watering at the facility for a period of seven days without additional water. This type of facility is used extensively in well managed grazing systems on lovegrass and with planned grazing systems on native range. This facility can also be used in conjunction with pipeline so that one well may better serve one or more pastures.

"THE OLE FISHIN' HOLE" - The addition of conservation practices which can be used as combination facilities is one of the primary goals of the Great Plains Conservation Program. A seep pond can be used as an economical source of water for livestock, an excellent fishing pond and an outstanding site for dove and duck hunting. The initial cost is relatively low and the benefits are high. Cool, clean water, thick bermudagrass and good tall shade trees make excellent areas for family outing or campouts.

The planning and construction of the Lakeview Watershed project was the most ambitious conservation plan ever undertaken in Donley and Hall counties. Initial work on the project began in 1968 and required an act of Congress under the authority of the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act [Public Law 566, 83rd Congress] to begin actual construction of the series of watershed structures.

Six local district, county and city agencies and governments supported the project. Prior to completion of the water retention structures the five separate streams which drain into Mulberry Creek and The Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red did annual damage to some 18,000 acres of farmland plus the flood threat to Lakeview, Plaska and Brice. The estimated annual floodwater, sediment, erosion, and indirect damage was placed at $256,211 in 1967.

Health Food Users

by Cynthia Manning

Growth of the market for "health foods" is accelerating. Who are the people who make up this market? What motivates them to buy health foods?

In a study conducted by the Consumer Research Center, the Texas A&M University System, it was found by means of a health food survey in Dallas and Houston that health food purchasers and the confirmed users were not the socio-economically disadvantaged, but rather middle-class people in the active, productive age bracket. The purchasers were not concentrated in older age groups and lower socio-economic groups as previously shown.

Another important finding of the study is that the smaller percentage of the lower income group people who purchased or constantly used health foods spent greater proportions of their money in health food stores. The implication is clear: lower income people who are not health food users must spend a higher proportion of their income for food as compared with the high income group, but the food expenditure of the poor would be an even greater proportion if they bought food labeled organic/natural/health. Generally, much higher prices are charged for health foods in comparison with the corresponding conventional foods.

Health food users gave their reasons for use as "help one stay healthy," "are nutritious," and "cure specific illness." Fewer gave the reason as "less preservatives and additives," "better flavor and texture," "keep weight down" and "more vitamins and minerals." Confirmed users either lacked nutritional and scientific knowledge of blindly accepted promotional claims by manufacturers. Some 59 percent felt that use of commercial pesticides affects nutritional value of a product points to their lack of knowledge. The findings of this study in regard to the rationale or motivation for using health foods imply a genuine effort to understand the psychology of health food users who are so concerned about health and nutrition is essential before an effective counter attack to combat nutritional misconceptions can begin.

The general public bought most vitamin and mineral supplements from the supermarket in the form of multiple supplements. Confirmed health food users bought their vitamins from health food stores.

For you health food users in Donley County, here is a recipe for a common natural food called "Granola" you might like to use.

GRANOLA

The information handed out by volunteers deals mainly with recognition of warning signals of heart attack and stroke, emergency action and information of the risk factors of heart disease.

Alice asks volunteers who want to fight for lives free of cardiovascular disease to call 874-2626.

High blood pressure won't "just go away." It can lead to heart attack or stroke. See your doctor and follow his advice. Ask your Heart Association and give generously. We're fighting for your life.

For a heart-healthy diet, eat foods low in saturated fat and cholesterol. This means less red meats and whole milk products, and more fish, poultry and fresh vegetables. Ask your local Heart Association for more information.

Heart Disease causes premature death and disability. Your Heart campaign dollars support research which will help stop unnecessary death and suffering. Be generous when a Heart volunteer knocks at your door.

Heart Awareness Week

Heart and blood vessel diseases will kill more than one million Americans this year—a death toll greater than that of all other causes combined. In order to make the public aware of this colossal problem, the Donley County Division of the American Heart Association is sponsoring "Heart Awareness Week", Feb. 7th through Feb. 14th in the local junior high school.

According to Mrs. Douglas Shelton, Chairperson of the public school "Heart Awareness Week" Committee, the programs for "Heart Awareness Week" are designed to inform the study body of the perils of heart disease, how to avoid the problem, and what the American Heart Association is doing to curb the #1 killer. "With these programs, we hope to alert the young people of the risk factors which can be reduced early in life in order to decrease premature death and disability from cardiovascular diseases," said the Chairperson.

"Heart Awareness Week" is another Public Education Project sponsored by the Donley County Division of the American Heart Association.

INTRODUCING "SPIRITUAL GROWTH GROUPS"

A Spiritual Growth Group is usually made up of 12-18 people who meet together in a structured setting for 18 sessions. The purpose of the group may vary according to the needs of the group. Usually it will involve some aspects of family life as everyone is in some way involved in family.

The Edwards Personality Preference Schedule is the psychological inventory used to measure 15 areas of the personality or emotional structure. One of these 15 areas will be dealt with at each of the sessions following two sessions for getting acquainted and establishing some guidelines for group procedure.

The Spiritual growth groups have been used successfully to enrich and reinforce family life, assist couples in reconciliation following separation and support those who have experienced the breaking of family units recover and reconstruct. They also have served well with college age adults and teenagers in coping with various difficult life situations.

EVALUATIONS

I travel a good deal across this country and the Spiritual Growth Foundation is the single most exciting Christian therapy process that I have seen. It is trans-church. It is being used of God to enable people to be whole.

Dr. R. Lofton Hudson-Founder-Director Midwest Christian Counseling Center

I know of no program in the United States which is effectively reaching so many needed non-hospitalized people as the Spiritual Growth program. Dr. North E. West, Counseling Psychologist Veterans Hospital, Ft. Meade, S.D.

I have had occasion to send many troubled people who have been selectively engaged in a Spiritual Growth group experience. The results to these people have been most gratifying to them and to me from a professional standpoint. Dr. James Matthews, M.D. Lubbock, Texas.

The pastor will begin a "Spiritual Growth Group" Tuesday, Feb. 8th at the parsonage at 7:30 p.m. Contact the pastor for more information 874-2195 Eldon McMath.

County Government

County judges at the seminar in Canyon strongly supported a proposed house bill to give counties ordinance making powers. Supported by Phil Cates the bill would give counties ordinance making powers with the consent of local voters after an election to determine if county voters supported such a lawmaking device at the county level.

A device to increase county revenues through increased auto use fees, Senate bill 166, was supported by the county judges of the Panhandle Association.

"County government, just like individual households is being hit by inflation and finding ways to meet this increase in operating expenses is difficult. For example, grader blades that once cost us $2.50 a foot are now $2.70 a foot and you know blades don't last long on our kind of road surfaces. There are costs we simply have to plan for in the future," pointed out Christal.

A real controversial bill is the one designed to allow counties to charge a sales tax. Christal would make no predictions about its reception in Donley county other than to say he expected great interest in the house and senate vote on the bill. Projected levels of the sales tax were estimated at one to two cents by Christal.

Though the county has recently required the inventorying and marking of heavy equipment and cars no thorough-going procedure has been developed to identify and inventory county-owned equipment.

That would all be changed if House Bill 94 is passed by this session of the Legislature.

County Judges worry about their media image like other public officials do. Part of the meeting dealt with that specific problem.

"Public opinion of county government is hazy, Carol Wilson, Managing Editor of the Canyon News brought out the question why weren't

Mrs. Bill Waddell is having tests made in a Houston hospital this week. Mrs. Scott Waddell, who has been with her, returned home Sunday.

The Hedley High School Boys Basketball Team, the Owls, finished the conference games undefeated. They will be heavy favorites to win the district tournament which will be held in Clarendon February 24th, 25th and 26th. Trot Lemley is their coach.

reproters trained in county government? There seemed to always be little concern about this basic unit of government. There should be complete coverage by the local newspaper of county government. I think we could have a lot less problems with the public understanding their government if we did," summed up Christal.

Proper Energy Management Can Save You Money!

HELPFUL TIPS FOR YOUR DISHWASHER

- A dishwasher will usually hold a whole day's dishes. It takes as much hot water and energy to wash one dish as it does a full load. Stack your dishes out of sight in your dishwasher and wait until you have a full load to turn it on.
- Use only detergents manufactured specifically for dishwashers. A wetting agent helps prevent water spots on glasses and silverware.
- Clean the filter screen often. A clogged filter can reduce the efficiency of your dishwasher.

COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

Eighteen women were present for the ladies golf luncheon Feb. 3rd. Have heard several compliments on the delicious luncheon they were served. you know we do have good food at the club-you really should come try it.

The women voted to contribute $300, matching what the men's Ass'n had contributed, to be used on the golf course. What a nice gift from our Men's & Women's Ass'n. Am sure the gift will be put to good use.

The women also voted to hold their Championship tournament June 23rd and 24th. That means that we had better start working on our games right now.

We had a very good weekend on the golf course. Not only our members but also many green-tees players enjoyed the course Saturday and Sunday.

The ladies met for bridge and luncheon Monday, Feb. 7th. Maxine Hardin was hostess for the day.

Wednesday night the record dance with beer and pizza was held. Will have to go into more detail about this next week.

Friday night, the 11th, we have our buffet and bingo. It surely would help if you would call the club and make your reservations for the buffet.

Wednesday, the 16th, we have happy hour from 5 until 7 o'clock.

We would love for you to join us at some, if not all, of our club functions. We like to see the club being used and enjoyed by our members and guests.
