County court names voting judges, drops auditor plan

The Donley County Commissioners' Court met at 10:00 a.m. Monday, July 11, to discuss a variety of subjects, from repair of the bridge over White Fish Creek to whether or not to appoint a county auditor.

In a letter to the commissioners the Alanreed school board requested that the commissioners repair the bridge over White Fish Creek before school starts. One of their school buses has to pass over it, and they claimed, the bridge is dangerous at any time, but especially during a freezing rain.

The commissioners acknowledged the letter, but Judge Billy Christal said that Commissioner Jess Finley of Precinct 4 would have to accept bids for the project.

The commissioners then appointed judges for the for the voting booths during the year. They are:

The commissioners then discussed the faulty radar, which Ray Burch of Texas Dept. of Public Safety had told Commissioner Gene White of Precinct 1 would not pick up any speed above 75 mph during regular practice but would for some reason work when Jim Fuller of Custom Systems Radar came to check it out. White said that the radar had been returned to the factory twice for repair already and had come back in the same condition each time. White moved that the commissioners request a replacement from the factory while the warrants were still in effect, and the motion carried.

Next, the commissioners concluded that the auditor had too much to do already for the pay he received to take on the additional burden of cleaning the library and the courtroom of the old courthouse. Jess Finley moved that an extra bond be hired at irregular times to make a thorough cleaning of the old courthouse.

In his motion Finley also suggested that an air conditioner be put into one of the windows of the old courtroom where 4H members are now meeting at regular times. Finley's motion passed.

The commissioners then voted to adjust downward the taxes on a lot in northwest Clarendon belonging to Mrs. Vera Johnson. She had come in with a notice which cited her as being delinquent in her tax payments on the lot by $119.25.

The commissioners agreed that through an erroneous assessment Mrs. Johnson had been overtaxed for four years beginning in 1958. During those years she had been taxed as much as $15 and $16 a year, while both before and since her taxes have been in the 75 cent to 95 cent range.

After a motion by Commissioner Olace Hicks of Precinct 2, the commissioners then approved the purchase of a new desk for Tax Assessor Collector Chauncey Hommel.

A lengthy discussion followed about whether to hire a county auditor to maintain continuous records of expenses and to act as a county road supervisor. Judge Christal explained that final approval of the new office would have to be determined by a popular vote and that, once approved, the office could not be eliminated until after two years.

The commissioners approved a $200 purchase of equipment for Little League baseball.

Adopting a motion by Commissioner White, the court decided to contract with I&M Oil Co. (Phillips 66 station) of Clarendon for servicing of Sheriff's Dept. vehicles for the next three months. Through this arrangement the commissioners expect to be able to obtain regular gas at 58.3 cents per gallon and unleaded at 58.3 cents per gallon.

Judge Christal then brought up two questions relating to the penal code. He read a letter from the District Judge Robert E. Montgomery suggesting that Donley County Commissioners establish a Juvenile Board with a recompense to the members of not less than $50 and not more than $150 per month. However, the definition and expectations of such a board were too vague to suit the commissioners, so they tabled the subject until they had had a chance to get some clarification from the District Court.

Judge Christal then informed the commissioners that Judge Zook Thomas of Collingsworth County had asked him whether Donley was ready to commit itself to being a part of a proposed four county jail. Judge Christal reported that he had told Judge Thomas that he would take a wait and see attitude. "I didn't want to burn any bridges behind us," Judge Christal said.

Commissioner Finley said that his attitude and he said he felt it was common, was that if any jail was going to be built, let's build it right here.

After some discussion that question, too, was tabled, pending the results of an inspection by the Texas Jail Commission expected within a short while.

The last agenda item was a debt of $14,000 plus interest owed on the dozier. Commissioner White moved that the commissioners pay the debt out of the Road and Bridge fund Precincts 1 and 2. The motion carried.

School board OKs repairs

The Clarendon Consolidated School District Board Thursday night appointed an equalization board, approved two bids on repairs, payments of debts, final application for federal funds, and hired two instructors.

The members of the equalization board will be R.O. Nelson, Bud White, Steve Reynolds, Don Stringer and Owen Johnson.

School Superintendent Jeff Walker said that insurance will cover the $3,000 damage done to the gym roof by strong winds. For repair of the fire wall in the old auditorium, which Walker said was "rapidly deteriorating," the board approved a bid of $2,625.

The board also approved payment of "approximately" $650 to various taxing agencies of monies which the board has held in trust and of $401 to law firms for collecting delinquent taxes.

By applying for federal funds under the IMPACT program the school system stands to gain at least $3,000 - possibly as much as $8,000 (depending on how much is available after other federal obligations are satisfied), Walker said. The amount of money allocated to a school district under IMPACT is determined by the percentage of pupils from low income families attending the district's schools.

The school board also expects to receive federal funds to cover losses in tax revenue resulting from non-taxable federal housing units, Walker said.

In closed executive session the board approved the hiring of Richard Roper, formerly an instructor at Spring Lake, as band director and of Marian Staton, who taught previously at Sunray and at Clarendon Junior College, as home economics teacher. Also, Janice Johnston was transferred from her position in the Level III special education program to school librarian.

Tulia man's truck stolen, found near Clarendon

Sheriff Ernest Behrens brought an abandoned stolen pickup truck into Chamberlain Motors Sunday afternoon.

The 1977 GMC, belonging to C. McNeill of Tulia, had been left on a dirt road off 170 one mile east and eight miles south of Clarendon by the thief or thieves when it ran out of gas. Deputy Ralph Hill of the Donley County Sheriff's Dept. said.

McNeill said his truck had been stolen the night of July 4. "It was parked in front of my house near the McNeill Gin in Tulia," McNeill said. "I went up to take a shower and I was tired, so I went on to bed, leaving the keys in the truck."

McNeill said he frequently left the keys in his vehicles anyway because "one of the boys might want to use it and I'd always be having to reach into my pocket to give them the keys if I didn't leave them."

McNeill said he was puzzled that his 1977 Pontiac Bonneville, which had been parked by the truck and also had a key in the ignition, was not stolen instead of the truck.

The truck was returned to McNeill early Monday morning.

Regents increase CJC budget

The Clarendon Junior College Board of Regents Friday adopted an annual operating budget of $919,506 according to College President Kenneth Vaughan.

The new budget is an increase over last year's by $74,221, Vaughan said.

The extra money will be coming from state appropriated funds, Vaughan explained. He said Clarendon College will receive approximately $90,000 from the state.

GM gives tools to CJC Auto School

The Buick Division of General Motors presented the School of Automotive of Clarendon College with a gift of tools Friday, July 8, in ceremonies at the Automotive School.

John Wood, District Service Manager, Dallas Zone, Buick Motor Division of

General Motors made the presentation to President Kenneth Vaughan and Wiley Reynolds, instructor of automotive of Clarendon College.

Tools received by the school consist of essential tools to be used for service of Buick automatic transmissions, repair of power steering units, and tools used for installation of bushings and seals. All tools are designed for service on 1974 through 1977 Buicks. Value of the gift is estimated at $600-$700.

Back injury fails to stop active fruit-grower

Story and photos by Bob Hutton

Last October, 81-year-old Ollie Hommel fell off a ladder while picking apples and broke several vertebrae in his back. He was in the hospital and therapy clinic for 11 weeks, a long time for a man of action. But now, to see him move, one has to be told that he was ever severely hurt.

"The doctor's said that it was because he is such an active person that he recovered as well as he has," Hommel's wife, Beulah, said.

Ollie and Beulah Hommel moved from Clarendon to their present home just south of Alanreed in 1942. This used to be part of the old RO ranch - just cow pasture - but at the time I bought it, it belonged to W. J. Lewis," he said.

"I said cars and ran a service station in Clarendon before I moved out here 35 years ago. Wanted to get away into the country. I've always liked to grow fruits and flowers."

Ollie planted every tree on the place," Beulah said.

including these evergreens around the house. See that 'V' over there. It's kind of grown together now, but you can see it if you try hard enough. That was our victory garden. Everyone was planting them during wartime."

"It really surprises you how fast evergreens can grow. I wish now we hadn't planted so many. I hate to have my house hidden."

Pointing to a large evergreen at the eastern side of the house, Ollie Hommel said, "A tornado came through here five years ago and knocked that down. I got some fellows with oil rig trucks to come out and lift it back up again, and we supported it with these guide wires."

He walked along the tree-shaded drive that circles his house to a bush-enclosed garden filled with several varieties of dahlias and a single rose bush. "Dahlias are my favorite," he said. "I don't sell them. They're just a hobby. The heat keeps them down. When cool

City's share of water bill lowered

The Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority Board of Directors Thursday night reelected current officers to the same posts and approved the budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

The officers reelected are: R.A. Yarbrough of Childress, president; W. Carroll Knopp of Clarendon, vice president; James L. Kuhn of Clarendon, treasurer; and William J. Lowe of Clarendon, secretary.

Since more water service is now available to other cities in the authority than was the case last year, Clarendon, Hedley and Red River Water Authorities will be paying proportionately less as their share of maintaining the facility, according to William Lowe, Greenbelt Water Authority secretary.

The percentages of shared costs for 1977-1978 are as follows, compared with 1976-1977:

|                           | 1976 - 1977 | 1977 - 1978 |
|---------------------------|-------------|-------------|
| Childress                 | 33.12%      | 35.96%      |
| Quanah                    | 16.71       | 16.89       |
| Clarendon                 | 20.25       | 17.50       |
| Crowell                   | 9.82        | 11.06       |
| Hedley                    | 3.09        | 2.78        |
| Red River Water Authority | 17.01       | 15.81       |

The percentages are based on total water consumed by each city, Lowe said. Besides the budget, the board discussed recurrent instrumentation problems that apparently have been caused by electrical storms and extreme temperatures. Kuhn said that malfunctions had been occurring nearly every day until two weeks ago when some new coils were installed. Now, he said, most but not all of the problems have been eliminated.

More sophisticated equipment developed since the filter plant was built could rectify all the problems, Kuhn said, but the equipment would cost about $20,000. The board decided to wait and see before approving that expense.

THE DAY THE LARK LEFT HOME

For days his parents had been watching over him, since even before he had shattered that shell. The shattering had been his first strenuous exertion, his first experience of violence. It had been followed by a continual urge to chirp which, in turn, had been borne of a continual urge to eat.

He had been virtually featherless then with bulging eyes. He could but wobble about among the leaves and twigs and scraps of thread that were his nest. A lucky stroke for his ego it was that he could not see himself!

But eventually the feathers came, the head proportioned itself to the eyes, and he could stand on the nest's edge with more of a sense he would not fall. His parents encouraged him with increasing impatience to spread his wings and hop out into the ether. What kind of parents are they, he wondered, to birth him, feed him, protect him, nurture him, and then, all of a sudden, insist that he leave?

But there was something mysterious within him, another urge—a virtual inner goading—that made him want to venture onto the invisible sea of air himself. His parents were simply blunt interpreters of that inarticulate agitator within.

Then he plunged. There didn't seem to be any decision involved, hardly even any intention. Yet he could not honestly say he had fallen either. It was simply a catastrophic act; he had jumped.

And he could feel the levels, the directions of the air currents. His body lifted, swooped, shivered with uncertainty a few seconds, dove and lifted again. It seemed to him he was not learning but rather remembering.

What a sight below him! Checkered fields, a large pond with cattle standing in it knee-deep, the glimmer of tin roofs, and a narrow grove of trees—among them his own tree.

A sudden yearning struck into his heart and stomach at the same time. He lost several feet of altitude because the yearning had weakened him so much. He wanted to go back to that tree.

He circled about, but he knew it was pointless. His parents would still be there no doubt, but they would peck at him, warding him off as though he were an intruding hawk. And even if they received him, would he not shortly feel gawky in that little nest? Would it not be like, saying he wished he had never been born? All of Nature would hound him like the Furies!

He tensed his wing muscles. Lifting again, he found a current going northwest that suited him. His script had been written for him centuries earlier, and he knew it by heart. He must hunt, mate, nest and, most importantly of all, sing.

The Clarendon Press, Thurs. July 14, hail twice this summer. It hurts their appearance and affects the selling of them, but they're still good," he said.

When Hommel planted his first trees in 1942 the only kind of root stock available to him was the Standard. The problem with the Standard, Hommel said, "is that it needs 35 feet of spacing between trees. It spreads out so much. That and its tall height make it difficult to gather from. Also, it takes the Standard, four years to start producing fruit."

"I wish now that I could have planted only the Spur type, which needs but 20 feet of spacing. It's the grafting and the selection of certain root stock that make the Spur grow with a spread half the size of the Standard and start bearing the second year."

A third type of tree, the Dwarf, Hommel said, bears quickly, and the fruit is just as large and as good in quality as the Standard, but, he added, they require staking and are subject to wind damage.

The limbs of the Standard Yellow Delicious trees were thick and sagging with their fruitful burden as Hommel drove his pickup through the orchard. "I just let them grow low on purpose," he said. "I can gather them easier down there."

If you had a method of thinning six to seven inches apart, you could get uniform sized apples, but not if you let them grow naturally. There are some chemicals for thinning trees, I didn't use any because I didn't know what kind of results I would get.

For a really choice crop, Hommel said he can demand $7 to $8 per bushel. "A choice apple," he said, "is one that is smooth, free from blemishes, large and of a uniform size."

A long system of irrigation pipe stretched over the land near Hommel's house, but he said it was used mostly for the acreage leased out to grain farmers and was not often used for the fruit trees. "For the fruit we have pretty much enough rain," he said.

Although Hommel looked as strong and healthy as could reasonably be expected of a man his age, he admitted he can no longer keep up the pace he was accustomed to before he fell off the ladder and that he needs help.

The orchards ought to be cultivated about three times a year, to do it up properly.

HOMMEL is just as attentive to his dahlia garden as he is to his fruit orchards.

HOMMEL prefers the short, narrow Spur type of tree stock to the tall, broad Standard type.

HOMMEL examines half-damaged Standard Yellow Summer Champion apples.

he said. "I have some help with the pruning, which must go on even during the dormant season."

"There are a lot of things that need to be done around here. The young people just don't take to it. The work's too hard for the money. They'd rather be off making $9 to $15 dollars an hour. I don't know what'll happen to it. You just get used to things, to doing what you have to do today."

Driving up the winding drive and glancing back at the white house, practically hidden by the tall, shady evergreens and at the dahlia garden and at the scattered groves of fruit trees, anyone might reasonably wonder what kind of lure could entice one away from this veritable Garden of Eden. Somewhere among those orchards, one imagines, must be a singular tree whose fruit contains the desire for knowledge of the world.

Donley 'CETA' youths get career counseling

By Larry Stotser

Career orientation for Donley County's CETA summer job participants was held Friday (July 8) in the County Courthouse Annex.

The orientation was organized to prepare the students for their future careers. New CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) regulations requiring labor market orientation for all summer youth participants went into effect this summer.

Donley County was allocated $765,000 by the U.S. Labor Dept. for the summer program. Participants come from lower income families and perform a variety of public service jobs throughout the county. The youth receive $2.30 per hour for 40 hours per week.

Donley County Judge Billy Christian welcomed the participants to the orientation before the group and individual counseling sessions began. Funds from CETA must be allocated and approved by the county commissioners, courts and judges in each of the 25 participating Panhandle counties.

David Duncan, vocational coordinator for Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation, which directs the program, told the participants that funds for their summer jobs come from the Federal government, "which is nothing but the taxpayers—your parents and your neighbors."

"There is a general misconception that CETA is a federal welfare program. To me, welfare is something for nothing. CETA participants are performing services and jobs for their communities in return for salary and training."

The participants, who range in age from 14 to 21, were urged by Duncan and TPCAC Region 5 Coordinator Jimmie Sessions to be on time and show up for work every day.

"You may not think that cleaning toilets and chopping weeds is much help to you right now, but someday your potential employer is going to call up your supervisor and ask about your work habits, and his recommendation could mean the difference in you getting or losing the job," Duncan said.

Participants were also given instructions in filling out job applications, medical histories and resumes. A "self-directed career planning test" was administered to determine individual career preferences and abilities. The results will be used by both TPCAC and school counselors throughout the students' remaining school years.

Dee Williams was the honoree at a birthday celebration Friday night. Helen Smith, Viola Bones and Hazel Monroe attended the Dinner Theatre in Amarillo to help Dee celebrate the occasion.

Howardwick Partyline

By Sharon Mills

Saturday night was the regular meeting night of Howardwick Lions Club and it was an outstanding evening. Boss Lynn Cherry spoke to everyone present about his long year as President had suddenly come to an end. Lynn expressed that he had sincerely enjoyed the year serving as Boss Lion of such a great Club. He thanked all of the officers and chairmen of the committees for such a great job of making their fellowmen feel needed. A special thanks was given to the ladies for bringing the fine food and serving it for the entire year.

Howardwick was one of the only clubs in District 2T1 to have had a net gain of 35% in membership in one year. Past District Governor James Wheeler of Amarillo was present again to install the officers for the coming year. They are as follows: Robert Reed - President; Ernest Taylor - First Vice President; Melville Mills - Second Vice President; Wilson Maxey - Third Vice President; Glenn Doty - Secretary & Treasurer; Albert Moore - Tail Twister; B. F. Crossland - Lion Tamer.

Members of the Board of Directors are: Clarence Hamilton, P. T. Taylor, Neal Mann, Glenn Helton, and Lynn Cherry. Boss Lion Cherry closed the meeting by stating he would be the new Zone Chairman of Hedley, Howardwick, Memphis and Clarendon Clubs. He said he would still be available to assist the new President in any way needed. He also gave many thanks to this column for reporting the Club's news.

Mahaffey - one year; Albert Moore - two years; Robert Reed - two years; Melville Mills - three years; Jim Corgill - three years; Will Corgill - three years; Neal Mann - four years; and Glenn Doty - five years. Lion Cherry also received the Past President's pin and a perfect attendance pin. Mrs. Lynn Cherry also received the pin. Lion and Mrs. James Wheeler were presented gifts, as well as each of the officers from Lynn Cherry. O. yes, the granddaughters of Lion John Sarich received pins of tiny windmills, which they were told are Texas Air Conditioners. The two girls, Elly and Lisa Ryder of Massachusetts, will have something to show their parents, and to be proud of. I'm sorry I can't remember the other pin awards which were given. So, you can see it was a wonderful night for the Lions.

Willie Blevins was in Vega last Tuesday on business and was in Amarillo Wednesday to meet her brother, Buster Abston of Glenrio. New Mexico to accompany him to his doctor. Willie's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson are moving from Pampa to Wichita Falls and spent Thursday night with her.

Morris and Eddie Castner were in Lubbock visiting their son, Billy and Shirley Castner and children. Tim accompanied his grandparents home. Morris and grandson, Tim, caught an eight-pound Channel Cat on trout line Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pick Cox's daughter and son-in-law, Janet and Billy Walker of Amarillo, spent Saturday night and Sunday with them. Willie McCluskey, grandson of the Coxes, of Benjamin, spent the Fourth with his grandparents. After the visit Mr. and Mrs. Cox took Willie to his aunt, Sandra Layton of Dumont, where he met his parents. Sandra is a daughter of the Coxes.

Bids for the construction of the second phase of a multi-million Interstate 40 project in Donley and Gray Counties are expected to be received at the July 26-27 letting of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The project, which includes lime stabilization, subgrade, asphalt stabilized base and concrete pavement, extends from one mile west of Alanreed westward for 9.9 miles to a point east of Jericho.

Dealines for drought emergency loans due

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will receive applications until September 30, 1977, under special loan programs initiated by President Jimmy Carter to assist farms, and improve community water systems affected by prolonged drought.

FmHA County Supervisor, Robert A. Keown, said the application deadline was designated by a federal interagency Drought Emergency Coordinating Committee in naming areas eligible for benefits of the special programs. Donley County in Texas is among the areas designated.

FmHA farm emergency loans, covering losses from drought and providing additional credit needed to restore production are available to farmers who lack other sources of credit. Loans, which may be supplemented by grants, are available for emergency measures such as deepening or drilling new wells to improve community water systems adversely affected by drought. Another deadline applies to emergency water system projects; they must be completed by November 30, 1977.

Robert A. Keown said the FmHA office for Donley County at Clarendon, can supply further information on terms of the special drought emergency programs.

Gooch suggests ways to control cattle grubs

Cattle grubs cost the Texas livestock industry several millions each year. Losses to this pest are an important problem in Donley County, according to Ronald Gooch, county extension agent.

Losses occur at all levels in the production and marketing chain, he says. The cow-calf producer is concerned about the reduced milk production by mother cows and resulting reduced weaning weights of calves. The feeder suffers profit losses as a result of reduced gains and lowered market price for grubby animals.

The packer who buys and slaughters grubby animals realizes hide losses, carcass trim, increased handling costs and lowered carcass value. Consequently, cattle grub control deserves the attention of the entire beef cattle industry. Gooch points out.

Cattle grubs can be effectively controlled through the proper use of systemic insecticides. Depending on the operation, systemics can be administered as dips, sprays, spot-ons, pour-ons, mineral mixes or feed additives.

Best results are obtained when animals are treated as soon as possible after termination of heel fly activity and when grubs are small. This time usually occurs in June and July in Donley County.

Gooch has a complete listing of chemicals and methods of treatment for systemic cattle grub control. He urges beef cattle producers to call or drop by his office for the recommendations.

A Claim...

A CONTRADICTION

If a man should say, "I love life," and at the same time raise a gun to his head with the intent of ending his life, his action would contradict his claim. In exactly the same way, if a person should say, "I accept Christ as my Lord," and then fail to submit wholly to Christ, his behavior would contradict his claim.

Jesus asks, "Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (LUKE 6:46). Can you answer this question? If Christ is your Lord, you are his servant and must submit to his commands. If you call Christ "Lord" but do not obey him, are you not contradicting your claim?

On this very point Jesus declares: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven" (Matthew 7:21). Jesus recognized that there is a vast difference between calling him Lord, and obeying his will.

Christianity, far from being merely a way of doing certain things, becomes a way of doing everything. There is now purpose and order and direction to his whole life — secular and spiritual.

If the Lord, through one of his apostles, says, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of your sins" (Acts 2:38), this presents no problem — it is instantly obeyed.

When he instructs, "Walk in spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh" (Galatians 5:16), the servant complies and becomes more like the Master.

So also with all the Lord's commands. They are accepted, revered, and applied; because the Christian knows that "this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous" (1 John 5:3). Thus the child of God implies complete submission to the will of Christ when he says, "Lord, Lord."

Vows exchanged by Wise - Killingsworth

Wedding vows were said Friday, June 24, 1977 at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church in Clarendon for Miss Robbie Wise and Mr. David Killingsworth. The Rev. William R. Lawrence, former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Clarendon and now at the Calvary Baptist Church in Borger officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Wise is a resident of Clarendon and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Phillips of Childress, Texas. She attended Clarendon High School and graduated in May of this year. Mr. Killingsworth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Killingsworth of Kelton, Texas and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Killingsworth of Kelton, Texas. He graduated from Shamrock High School in May of 1974 and then attended Clarendon Junior College for two years.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a bodice fitted white wedding dress, accented with Chantilly lace that accented the cuff of flower edging. The floor-length skirt, made of silk chiffon, was accented with lace edging at the hem and a taffeta under skirt. The veil was of French illusion. It was attached to a wide band headpiece and both were accented with Chantilly lace. The groom wore a baby blue tuxedo with a matching ruffled shirt and bow tie.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with greenery, a candelabra and a unity candle. The bride's colors were baby blue and white. The bride's bouquet was made of white silk roses and blue baby's breath, tied in blue and white ribbons and white pearls.

Mrs. Jessie Adams served as organist. Music played before the wedding included "More", "A Time For Us", "Evening Star", "Twelfth of Never", "Colour My World", "Brian's Song", and for the mothers and grandmothers, "Whither Thou Goest". Mrs. Eddy Helms, of Hereford, Texas, sang "The Wedding Song" and the bride came in to the traditional wedding march.

The best man and groomsmen wore sky blue tuxedos trimmed in midnight blue. The ruffled shirts were also trimmed in midnight blue with midnight blue bow ties. Ushers were Bobby Connors, friend of the groom from Kelton, and Greg Spencer, cousin of the bride from Houston.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wise chose a light blue A-line dress with an overlay of blue voile. Mrs. Killingsworth wore a royal blue knit dress with a pleated skirt. Both mothers wore corsages of white roses.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried a long-stemmed white silk rose. The best man, groomsmen and father of the bride wore boutonnieres of white carnations. The other men of the wedding party wore boutonnieres of white carnations. The grandmothers, guest registerer, and servers wore white carnation corsages, as did the organist and soloist.

A reception was held in the reception hall of the First Baptist Church. Miss Shelly Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graves and niece of the groom, passed out rice bags during and after the reception.

The bride's table was presided over by Miss Laurie Stone and Miss Karla Nance. Both were seniors this past year at Clarendon and classmates of the bride. The bride's table was covered with a white Chantilly lace cloth over a cloth of solid blue. The flower arrangement was of blue and white carnations and blue baby's breath. The flowers from the bride's table were given to the First Baptist Church as a parting gift from the bride and groom. The cake was made by the bride and Mary Hermesmeier. It was decorated in the bride's colors of baby blue and white. It was covered in blue roses, white bells and doves, with loops of blue scallops on the sides.

The groom's table was presided over by Mrs. Brenda Shields and Miss Mary Hermesmeier. Mrs. Shields was a senior this past year at Clarendon and a classmate of the bride. Miss Hermesmeier was a sophomore at Clarendon this past year. The groom's table was covered with a cloth of light blue. The flower arrangement was of white carnations and blue baby's breath. The groom's cake, made by the bride and Mary Hermesmeier, was of chocolate, in a double ring design, and decorated in chocolate roses. The bride's bouquet was caught by the maid of honor, Miss Kaye Ridenour. As she left the church, the bride wore her mother's corsage.

Learning about snakes can save a life

More than 90 percent of snakes in Texas are non-poisonous and quite useful to man, according to a noted herpetologist at Texas A&M University.

And even the poisonous ones help keep down the population of rodents and other pests," says Dr. James R. Dixon who is engaged in research on snakes for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

From years of study and research and a wealth of field experience, Dixon is able to relate dozens of useful findings. Since Texas is blessed with such an abundance of snakes, he finds that knowledge of snakes can do much to relieve anxiety and prevent indiscriminate killing of all snakes.

For example, two types of small snakes he often finds in flowerbeds around houses are quite harmless hunters of slugs and worms.

Other larger, harmless snakes may go in garages or other out-buildings after mice or rats. And if a house has any openings a snake may come inside for the same purpose.

Since there are so many different kinds of snakes in Texas, Dixon says it's easiest to learn to recognize the poisonous ones first.

He adds that in Texas there are four kinds of poisonous snakes: rattlesnake, moccasin, copperhead and coral snake. But, there are nine forms of rattlesnake in Texas, one of moccasin or "cottonmouth", four types of copperhead, and one type of coral snake.

Cattle feeders help ease wheat crisis

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Beef cattle in feedlots and the quick response of the market system are coming to the rescue of wheat farmers in trouble. A bumper crop, poor export demand and a heavy supply of wheat in storage is creating a temporary crisis in the Southern Plains.

Cattle feeders are finding wheat at prices prevailing in June is their cheapest feed grain ingredient. Some feedlots were using as much as 33 percent wheat in their rations, according to Dr. Don Farris, professor of livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas A&M University.

Food grains such as wheat are not normally fed to cattle except in by-product form or in special circumstances. But since the transportation and storage system cannot efficiently use all the wheat for food grains at harvest time when there is a bumper crop and heavy supplies, beef cattle are a ready and viable market to convert it into a higher valued food and even store it for later use.

Beef cattle are a major component of the balanced wheel in the world's food system, because they can harvest, convert and store a wide variety of plant materials for later consumption in another form by humans," says Farris.

"During the winter, wheat fields provide grazing for cattle at very little cost to the economy, because when properly grazed the grain yield is not significantly reduced. When a wheat crop is so poor that harvest is not economical, it is utilized by cattle.

"High quality forage is not always available for cattle because harvesting and storage of some forages is expensive. Some of the least efficient cattle systems in the world are the all-forage systems in the tropics where cattle lose weight and sometimes starve during the dry season."

Farris, who has done research on the economics of cattle systems in the U.S. and other parts of the world, says that grain and cattle systems are complementary in many areas of the world. In fact, having grain available for feeding during stress periods or in winter allows some areas to stock pastures more heavily and more efficiently convert low-valued forage into meat.

"They can't even compete favorably for U.S. feed grains with poultry, hogs or dairy cattle in the U.S. or grain for export for that purpose. In 1975, grain prices were high due to foreign demand, cattle prices were low, and grain feeding of cattle declined sharply.

When the wheat harvest is over in the Plains and wheat is in storage it is not likely to be economical to feed it to cattle, except for the poor quality wheat or damaged due to lack of capacity to harvest it on time or properly store it.

Gabie Betts Burton Memorial Library announces gift

The Gabie Betts Burton Memorial Library announces today the receipt of Texas Folk Songs by William A. Owens, a gift of Southern Methodist University Press and the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Texas Folk Songs includes 135 songs, a number of them in versions by more than one singer. The book is divided into nine chapters containing British popular ballads, Anglo-American ballads, Anglo-American love songs, Anglo-American comic songs, songs and games for children, play-party songs and games, Anglo-American spirituals, and Afro-American secular songs.

The British ballads were brought to America in the seventeenth century and later carried westward to Texas by the adventurous pioneers who settled the state. The later American love ballads are mournful and plaintive songs, while the Anglo-American comic songs are full of raw, rugged and raucous humor exemplifying the pioneer West. New music transcriptions of the melodies have been provided by musicologist Jessie Ann Owens from the original recordings. Although bibliographical source notes are included, Texas Folk Songs is not a book just for scholars. These songs have been collected, as Owens has written, "for those who love to sing them as well as for those who have an interest in the past."

Lots of bullheads and sunfish are being caught, however, fishing for crappie and walleye is slow.
