Quail Tornado Victims Dig Out

By LOWELL CARLSON

"It looked like a bomb hit the building from where I was standing," said Marvin Blevins as he recounted last week's tornado that smashed into the school buildings at Quail. "I was never much for going to the cellar but it made a believer out of me."

Blevins, whose land adjoins the school property, watched the funnel approach the buildings, saw the wind strip each tree of its leaves and float tin roofing out across a field like sheets of paper.

"They say you can hear them; they sound like an approaching freight train. This tornado could have hit us and I wouldn't have thought it was anything but a bad sandstorm. I couldn't hear a thing yet people ten miles away say they heard the noise," explained Blevins. "It was headed straight for our farm house and then turned."

The irony of the destruction and no loss of life isn't lost on Quail people. It was report card day and classes had been turned out at 2:30 p.m. The school grounds were deserted except for six girls who were painting in what's known as the Home Economics Cottage.

Observers who first saw the funnel approach the little farming and ranching community recalled it looked like a blue cloud.

THERE WAS NO AREA IN WHICH THE SCHOOL CHILDREN could have huddled without fear of falling debris. Yet, ironically, the superintendent's office remained virtually untouched as did the trophy case. The force of the storm created a war zone appearance. Within minutes rescue workers combed the rubble for injured people. Press Photo

Most estimate the time of impact at 4:00 p.m. Because it approached the town from the southeast, it crossed enough open country to be seen; but, time for warnings was scant.

"It couldn't have been more than 3 - 5 minutes from the time we warned the girls in the cottage until the funnel hit the building," said Terry Canada, Quail area farmer and former Clarendon College student. "It took a tree out not far from the cottage that survived a head-on traffic accident last year like it was a sapling."

Canada's own house "exploded" as Terry watched from a distance. The funnel veered across the Quail cemetery lifting, toppling stones, breaking off bits as it tracked toward the Canada house. There wasn't anything left but debris scattered for up to a mile from the house site.

"We found one of my shirts hanging on a barbed wire fence a mile from the house," said Terry. "We couldn't do much more than bulldoze out a trench and bury as much of the debris as we could find afterward."

Farmer's fields around the impact zone are scattered with trash and debris. It will take hours of precious time clearing fields with planting season bearing down now.

Canada, although he lost his house, personal possessions and an automobile counted himself lucky since until only a few days before the storm hit he had parked several John Deere 7700 combines at his home in

Local Instructors Conduct CPR Classes

Quick now, think! What would you do if your infant was choking with an object in his throat? Or, an elderly person seemed to be suffering a heart attack. Would you know what to do? Sadly, most people would not and would be forced to watch helplessly or seek help in the precious few seconds after the incident.

emergency should someone have a heart attack."

The five instructors currently participating in the instruction of CPR are Clifford, Diane Chamberlain, Kathleen Yankee, Billy Ray Johnston and Pat Robertson.

There are a number of emergencies that could potentially require CPR techniques to save a life.

"Would you know what to do?"

Some local people, certified to instruct others, with equipment supplied through the American Heart Association are conducting classes to help Donley County people cope with just such emergencies.

Because more than 650,000 Americans die suddenly each year the chances of having to aid a victim is not remote. The most common cause of sudden death is heart attack though. Five instructors recently were certified in Amarillo to teach cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to cope with such emergencies.

Two classes are currently running. Located in the United Methodist Church, the day and night classes make use of "dummies" supplied through the American Heart Association. With specially designed bodies that "breathe" and "exhale" students learn human respiration responses as they learn the technique of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"The most common signal of a heart attack is pressure, fullness or pain in the chest," said instructor Shirley Clifford. "We hope through this CPR course family members and others around people with a history of heart trouble can be equipped to handle an

Among them are poisoning, drowning, suffocation, choking, electrocution and smoke inhalation. The most common need though remains heart attack.

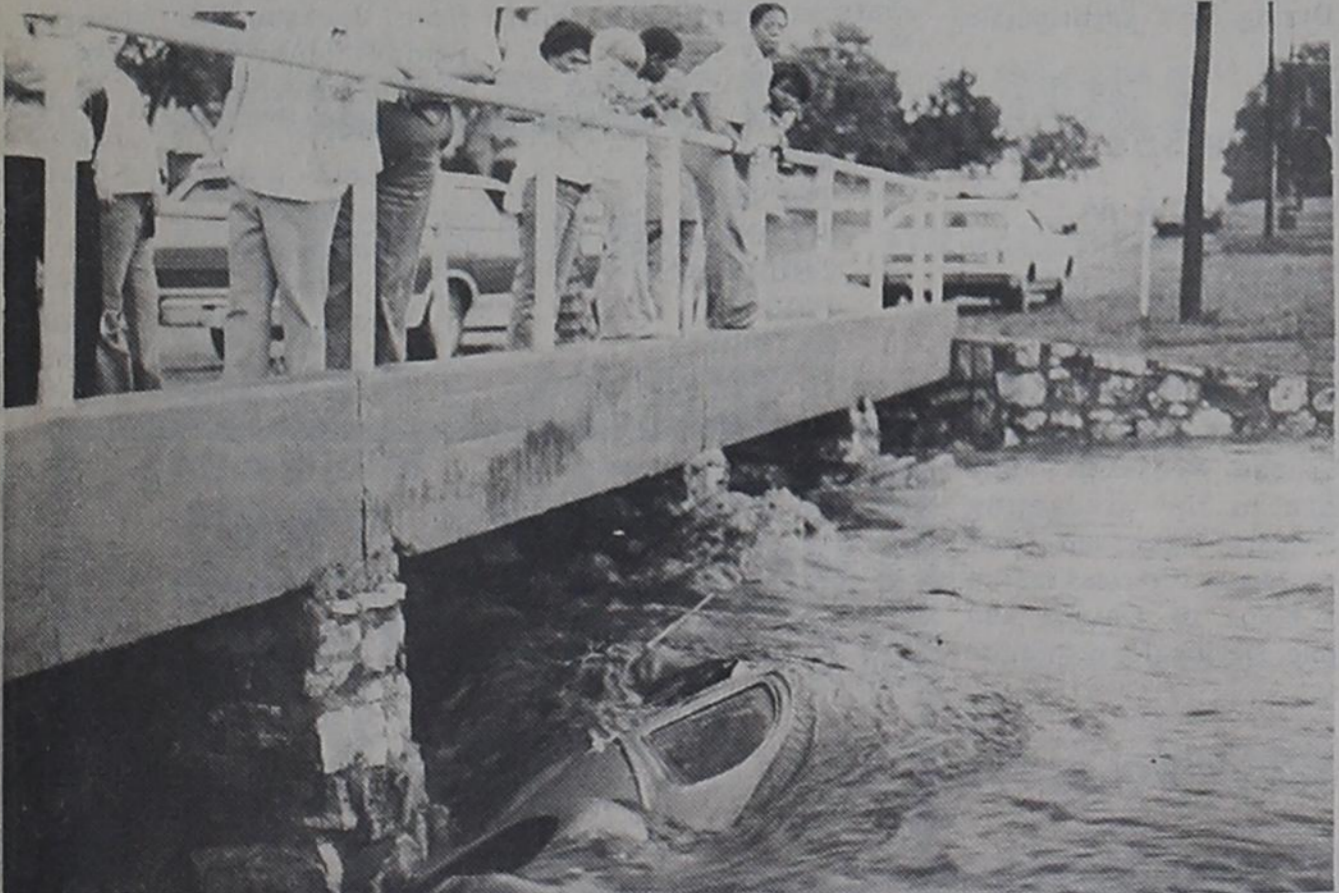

"There is a progression of techniques to use depending on the condition of the victim," said Clifford. "Clearing the airway is required immediately but if the victim does not respond you must proceed to such measures as mouth-to-mouth breathing, pulse checks and artificial circulation provided through cardiac compression."

CPR mastery can provide emergency care until advanced life support people arrive on the scene. It is always best to assume that a victim will need continued care and observation.

Clifford pointed out that CPR techniques for children varied slightly in that tilting a child's head too far back, as done with adults, might accidentally close breathing passages instead of opening them. Also pinching off the nose is not done in reviving small children and infants.

"These techniques become as rudimentary as A-B-C, airway, breathing and circulation," said Clifford. "It's important though VOLKSWAGEN USED TO RUN AN AD DEPICTING A VW Beetle floating in water. The ad copy stated something about fifteen minutes of floatation. But it was no gimmick Friday when Liz Bromley's durable old '66 model took to the deep in the flash flooding on Clarendon's southside near the ball diamond.

Undercutting by the raging current sent the car on its way toward the bridges over the water way.

Liz managed to exit through the driver's side window and actually had to swim for it as the car was swept away.

The VW rolled over and passed under the first bridge and came to rest forced against a bridge pillar on the Kearney Street bridge.

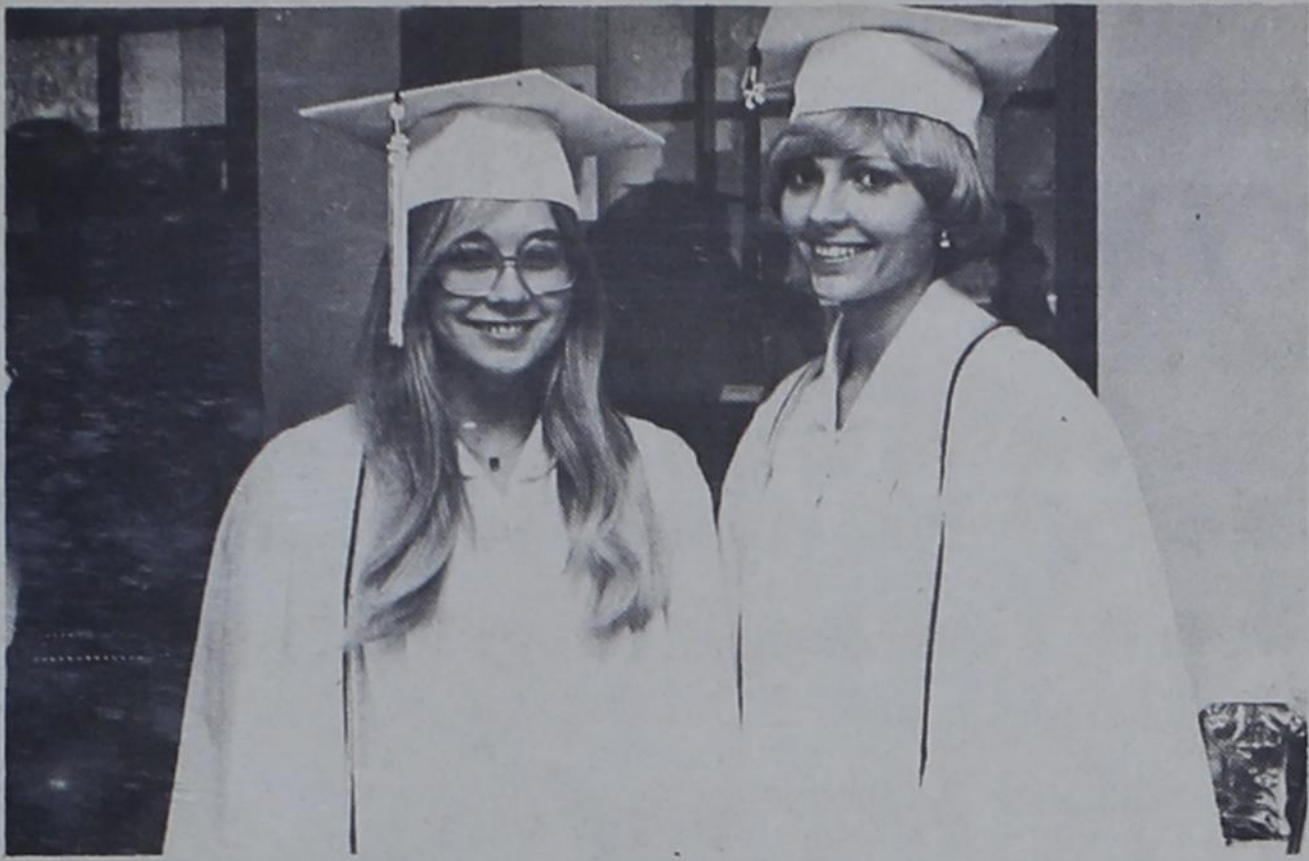

Several friends of Bromley tried to retrieve her overnight bag and a 35mm SLR camera still inside her car as it lay against the pillar.

"From now on when I'm back in Clarendon if it clouds up and I'm at Gibson's I'm going to hole up until its over," said Bromley. Photo by Clint Robinson

Biological "Clock" Studies by Researcher deVlaming

Editor's Note - Dr. Victor deVlaming was recently featured in MARQUETTE TODAY, the monthly news magazine of Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Dr. deVlaming attended Clarendon elementary school until age 12. He is the son of Mrs. Yvonne Constantin and grandson of Mrs. Chloe Smith, both of Clarendon. Since the article on his research project was published, Dr. deVlaming has been promoted to full professor at Marquette.

Victor deVlaming is a clock watcher.

DeVlaming, Assistant Professor of Biology at Marquette, is attempting to learn more about a biological "clock" that helps to regulate the biorhythms of humans and other living things.

His research is being financed in part by the National Science Foundation, which has awarded him a $41,000 grant.

"Within your body, this 'clock' regulates physiological functions like body temperature, metabolic rhythms, hormone release, and others," deVlaming said. "Biological cycles are constantly going on in an individual. With some it can be a daily cycle, with others it can be longer or shorter."

As evidence that the "clock" exists, deVlaming cites such common phenomenon as jet lag (the biological clock thrown completely off by drastic time changes), and the fact that most people have certain times of day when their productivity and alertness are highest.

In order to explore what regulates this mechanism in the brain, deVlaming is studying the pineal gland, a light-sensitive gland found in fish and mammals.

In humans, the pineal is located deep inside the brain. Information about environmental light is fed to it via the eyes.

DeVlaming uses goldfish for his study. In fish, the pineals are located on top of the brain, under a translucent region of the skull, and can be easily removed.

"We know that the pineal gland secretes a chemical called melatonin," deVlaming said. "Throughout a 24-hour period these secretions are variable. At night a lot of melatonin is released constantly. During the day little is released."

During the past year, the 34 year old researcher and his assistants have conducted numerous pineal experiments on goldfish. They work with more than 200 fish a month in the lower level of the Wehr Life Science Building. The fish are kept in several large glass or fiberglass tanks.

"By experimenting with goldfish, we have found that the pineal does have an effect on the reproductive system," deVlaming said. "We removed the pineal, and then treated the fish with melatonin. This caused the reproductive system to become inactive. This is the same as in nature. When day length gets shorter during winter, fish and other seasonal breeders, don't breed. During the spring, when day length gets longer, less melatonin is secreted, and they start breeding.

"The pineal gland is important in regulating biological rhythms," deVlaming said. Whether the gland itself is the biological clock, I don't know. But I think it is involved in 'clock' functions. It may be one of the cogs."

DeVlaming's research may lead to more knowledge about how environmental factors such as seasons and day length affect human's behavior.

Beyond this, it also may shed some light on what happens when the biological "clock" is out of kilter.

Melatonin, or some other pineal chemical, might be used in controlling the symptoms of Parkinson's Disease and epilepsy. Treatment with melatonin of patients with these afflictions calms them, and makes them more at ease and comfortable. Some scientists also are attempting to relate sleeping habits to the pineal.

Last Friday's storm system that ripped across Donley County almost had a possible tragic ending when a funnel cloud lifted just before striking the Will Chamberlain home northeast of Clarendon.

The Chamberlains credit part of their luck in avoiding complete disaster to the fact the doors and some windows on the north side of the house were open when the funnel approached.

"The front door and windows were open along with the damper on the chimney," said Brenda Chamberlain. "I do think people would be wise to open up a house in the path of a tornado because water and hail damage is better than having the house literally explode due to pressure differences."

Even so, the house was moved on its foundation slightly and the chimney for the fireplace toppled leaving a TV antenna standing several feet away.

"Will heard the roar of the tornado first and ran to the house to warn me," recalled Mrs. Chamberlain. "We got in the pickup and drove away from the house to see what the funnel was doing."

What they saw were eventually two funnels that came from a storm tracking north from 287. One large funnel was joined by another smaller one to the east of the Chamberlain buildings.

The pressure lifted a gasoline barrel off of a stand and lifted a diesel tank out of the back of a pickup.

The cloud tore up mesquite to the east of the Chamberlains and undetermined damage was done to windmills on ranch pasture owned by Mr. Lewis.

"What's unbelievable about the incident is that people came almost immediately to help and we hadn't even contacted anyone in the minutes after it hit," said Mrs. Chamberlain. "I wish I knew but I'd be afraid to say who all came to help clean up and repair."

Senior Citizens Finalize Carlsbad Trip

Ruth Mills of Donley County Senior Citizens announced a special meeting of members of the organization set for Wednesday, June 1 to nail down can determine some sixty people came to help replace the roofing torn away on the east side of the house and feed the crew.

"People have been so wonderful it's difficult to believe all this has even happened. People are still coming asking if they can help," explained Mrs. Chamberlain.

Those bringing food included the following: Lucille Luttrell, Cennet Rhoads, Julia Longan, Thelma Bairfield, Ruby Dell Estlack, Freddie Joe Moreman, Sarah Shaller, Gladys Blackburn, Mrs. Don Hillis, Bobby Longan, Irene Jones and Oressa Delaney.

By Sunday afternoon the roof had been replaced, damaged ceiling repaired and water and hail damage to rugs and furniture taken care of. With a little help from friends the storm's effects were almost all cleaned up except the memory of the roar that came at the ranchstead that Friday afternoon in May.

Tuner Finds Each Organ an Individual

B. L. McCrary and his wife Marie know the old pipe organ in the United Methodist Church in Clarendon as though it were an old friend. For the past fifteen years the Oklahoma City-based tuners have regularly checked and tuned the organ summer and fall to make adjustments for changes in humidity and temperature.

"When my son Mark was here some weeks ago to make some repairs we were afraid that we might have trouble after he fixed the primaries," explained B. L. "Actually all that seems the matter is some dirt chips and glue in the wrong places."

McCrary explained that theoretically a pipe organ should last at least 75 years given systematic care. There is little to wear out on an organ beside deterioration of the console which they replaced for the church some ten years ago.

"This is an old Hillgreen-Lane organ manufactured by that company in Alliance, Ohio sometime during the 1920's," pointed out B. L. "The company no longer exists."

The McCrarys travel together now that the children are all raised and on their own and they try to line up service calls so that they can complete a number of tuning jobs on one extended trip. Before they return home to Oklahoma City the McCrarys will make stops in Amarillo and Canyon.

Presbyterians Honor Student Members

Members of the First Presbyterian Church in Clarendon gathered to honor students of the church Sunday evening with a buffet supper. Sponsored by the Progress and Living Memorials Committee, the recognition evening spotlighted the activities of church youth both in the church and in the community.

Honored for their academic achievements and community projects were Mike Moore, Bret Bryant, Blake Bryant, Karen Kotara, Belinda Bryant, Butch Blackburn and Mary Nell McGarity. Mary Nell, graduating senior, was named valedictorian of her graduating class for 1977 and was given a resolution of recognition from the Progress and Living Memorials Committee.

Food for the evening meal was provided by the Progress and Living Memorials Committee and by ladies of the congregation.

The students were each presented an edition of the Today's English Version of the Bible. Rev. Owen McGarity made the presentations with Mrs. Trey Chamberlain acting as master of ceremonies.

- * Cover all liquids stored in the refrigerator (especially frost-free models). Moisture is drawn into the air from uncovered liquids making the refrigerator work harder.
- * Be sure your appliance is standing level so that the door seals properly. By setting a glass of water on the top, you can see if it is level.

Approximately fifty 4-H girls are involved in clothing projects during the month of June. Level 1 of the project is designed to teach young or inexperienced youth good grooming habits, fabric facts, and how to plan for, buy and construct clothing. Level 2 is designed for the older boy and girl who have already gained very basic knowledge and skills in grooming and personal appearance, textile fabrics, buying clothes, fashion and sewing.

In each level, the 4-H'ers study and participate in activities which teach the importance of social roles, facts about textiles, clothing economics, and creation and design.

Four members were present to enjoy the lesson, discussion and social hour. Mesdames Gertrude Boatright, Alea Altman, Verda Hinds, and Willie Johnson were present.

BRONC BUSTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is Mary McGarity's last column in the Clarendon Press and we would sincerely like to thank her as well as Helen Riggs and Fuzz Davis for their devotion to writing school news on a weekly basis. We wish them every success.

This is the last Bronc Buster for the school year 1976-77. Tonight the seniors will be graduating at 8:00 at the College Auditorium. It will be the last time we will be the senior class and the last time we will all be together as a group.

Last week was quite a week of excitement for all of the seniors. On Monday, Teresa Jack had a cookout for the Senior girls and afterwards there was a slumber party. At the same time the boys had an all night party at Ricky Mooring's.

Thursday was class night and after it, there was a party out at Frank Hommel's pasture and also a slumber party for the girls at Mary McGarity's.

Friday began early. At 7:00 the Seniors' mothers gave the class a delicious breakfast. They also gave us bibs - waterproof ones. It was misting outside but no one noticed because everyone was drenching each other. But there was no sun to dry us off so many, if they didn't have a nearby dryer, froze.

After a class of squirting across every desk, Coach Overcast got smart. He let his free enterprize class quietly go down to the football field and have at it. After fifteen minutes we were all sick of having buckets of water poured on us but Coach wouldn't let us leave. Every five minutes he would announce that we had so many more minutes of fun and excitement. By the five minute announcement we were begging to leave. After that class everyone was sick of water but the world decided to leave us with one

Words cannot begin to express our deep appreciation and thanks to all of the wonderful friends, neighbors and relatives who worked so hard to help us repair our home after the tornado Friday. It would have taken forever for us to repair it alone. It's impossible to name each one individually because there were so many and we were afraid we would fail to mention someone, so we want each of you to know we are so grateful.

We also wish to thank each of you for the food, prayers, phone calls, cleaning supplies, plastic tarps, buckets etc. Without all this I don't know what we would have done. It's wonderful to live in a small town and to be loved by so many lovely, wonderful people.

The Bereans Did Their Own Thinking

Not many of us think for ourselves when it comes to matters in religion. We prefer to leave religious subjects and Bible issues to those supposedly trained and skilled in this field—the priests, theologians, pastors, and ministers. Sometimes we get the idea that the Bible cannot be understood by common people. Some religious leaders even teach and encourage this view.

Does the Bible say anything about the ability and the responsibility of the average person to understand its message? Most certainly it does.

The Jews of Berea, for example, are described in the New Testament as "noble." Yet, they were not famous, nor were they rich or powerful. In fact, they were somewhat obscure. The description of their nobility is recorded in Acts 17:11:

"These were more noble than those in Thessalonica in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so."

This reference to the Bereans is significant because it is plainly a tribute to a religious people. The Bereans were noble in attitude. They were noble because they were eager to be taught the truth—they were sincerely truth-seekers! Although ready to receive religious teaching from others, they were at the same time very careful to examine such teaching in the light of the scriptures.

Unfortunately, this attitude of the Bereans—the spirit of independent, personal investigation—does not prevail widely among religious people in the twentieth century. It is a sad commentary on our lack of love for the truth (2 Thessalonians 2:10-12). Man is in a pitiable state when he possesses neither the intellectual vitality nor the spiritual interest to study God's will for himself.

The New Testament abounds with evidence that harmonizes with the attitude of the noble Bereans. The apostle Peter insisted that Christians should know what they believe and why they believe it, "ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (1 Peter 3:15).

The apostle John places the responsibility directly upon every Christian to follow the pattern of the Bereans and prove every teaching to be sure it is from God: "because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1).

By revelation John commends very highly the favorable characteristic of the church of Ephesus of being ready at all times to check truth against error. They had "tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars..." (Revelation 2:2).

Members of churches of Christ today are simply trying to reproduce faithfully the church of our Lord as it existed in the first century—the same in doctrine, worship, name, organization, service, life and work. The Bible clearly teaches that the seed of the gospel—the word of God—will produce after its kind, pure and undenominational Christianity. The first century church was founded upon the basis of the word; it follows that the same word must serve as the blueprint for the twentieth century church.

We invite our friends to "search the scriptures" to see whether these things be so!

Five Minutes Warning Was All!

preparation for going on the harvest.

The destruction to the school was complete yet inside the rubble strewn shell of the building the superintendent's office remained intact as did the trophy case down a corridor.

Inside a storm cellar located near the superintendent's home the students, superintendent and his wife and the janitor and his wife along with a nearby neighbor huddled as the funnel demolished buildings outside. Pressure from the cyclone pulled on the door while the superintendent and janitor held onto a length of rope from the inside.

The only injury occurred when the janitor's hand was cut in the futile effort to hold onto the door as the tornado pulled it from the hinges. So terrified were the students following the ordeal that rescue workers had to carry them out of the shelter.

"Within thirty minutes after the tornado hit, Carrol Daves of Carrol's Drive-In over at Wellington had 200 sandwiches over here," recounted Marvin Blevins. "The City State Bank supplied us with food and soft drinks. People have been very good about dropping what they were doing and helping us clean up here."

Following the storm, students from Wellington and Samnorwood came to help clean the rubble from the cemetery. Men's groups appeared to carry salvageable items from the school to a storage site in Wellington. County and State road crews with trucks and bulldozers began the job of cleaning up while Quail residents pitched in.

The wreckage was high. The tornado destroyed two school buses, five, perhaps 6 cars were wrecked along with two pickups. The school's drivers education car was demolished under heaps of rubble and trees.

"Someone might have been killed here if Memphis law officials had not been driving some backroads around here," explained Blevins. "They alerted authorities and put the warning out on the radio. Some kids ran from house-to-house and warned people to take cover."

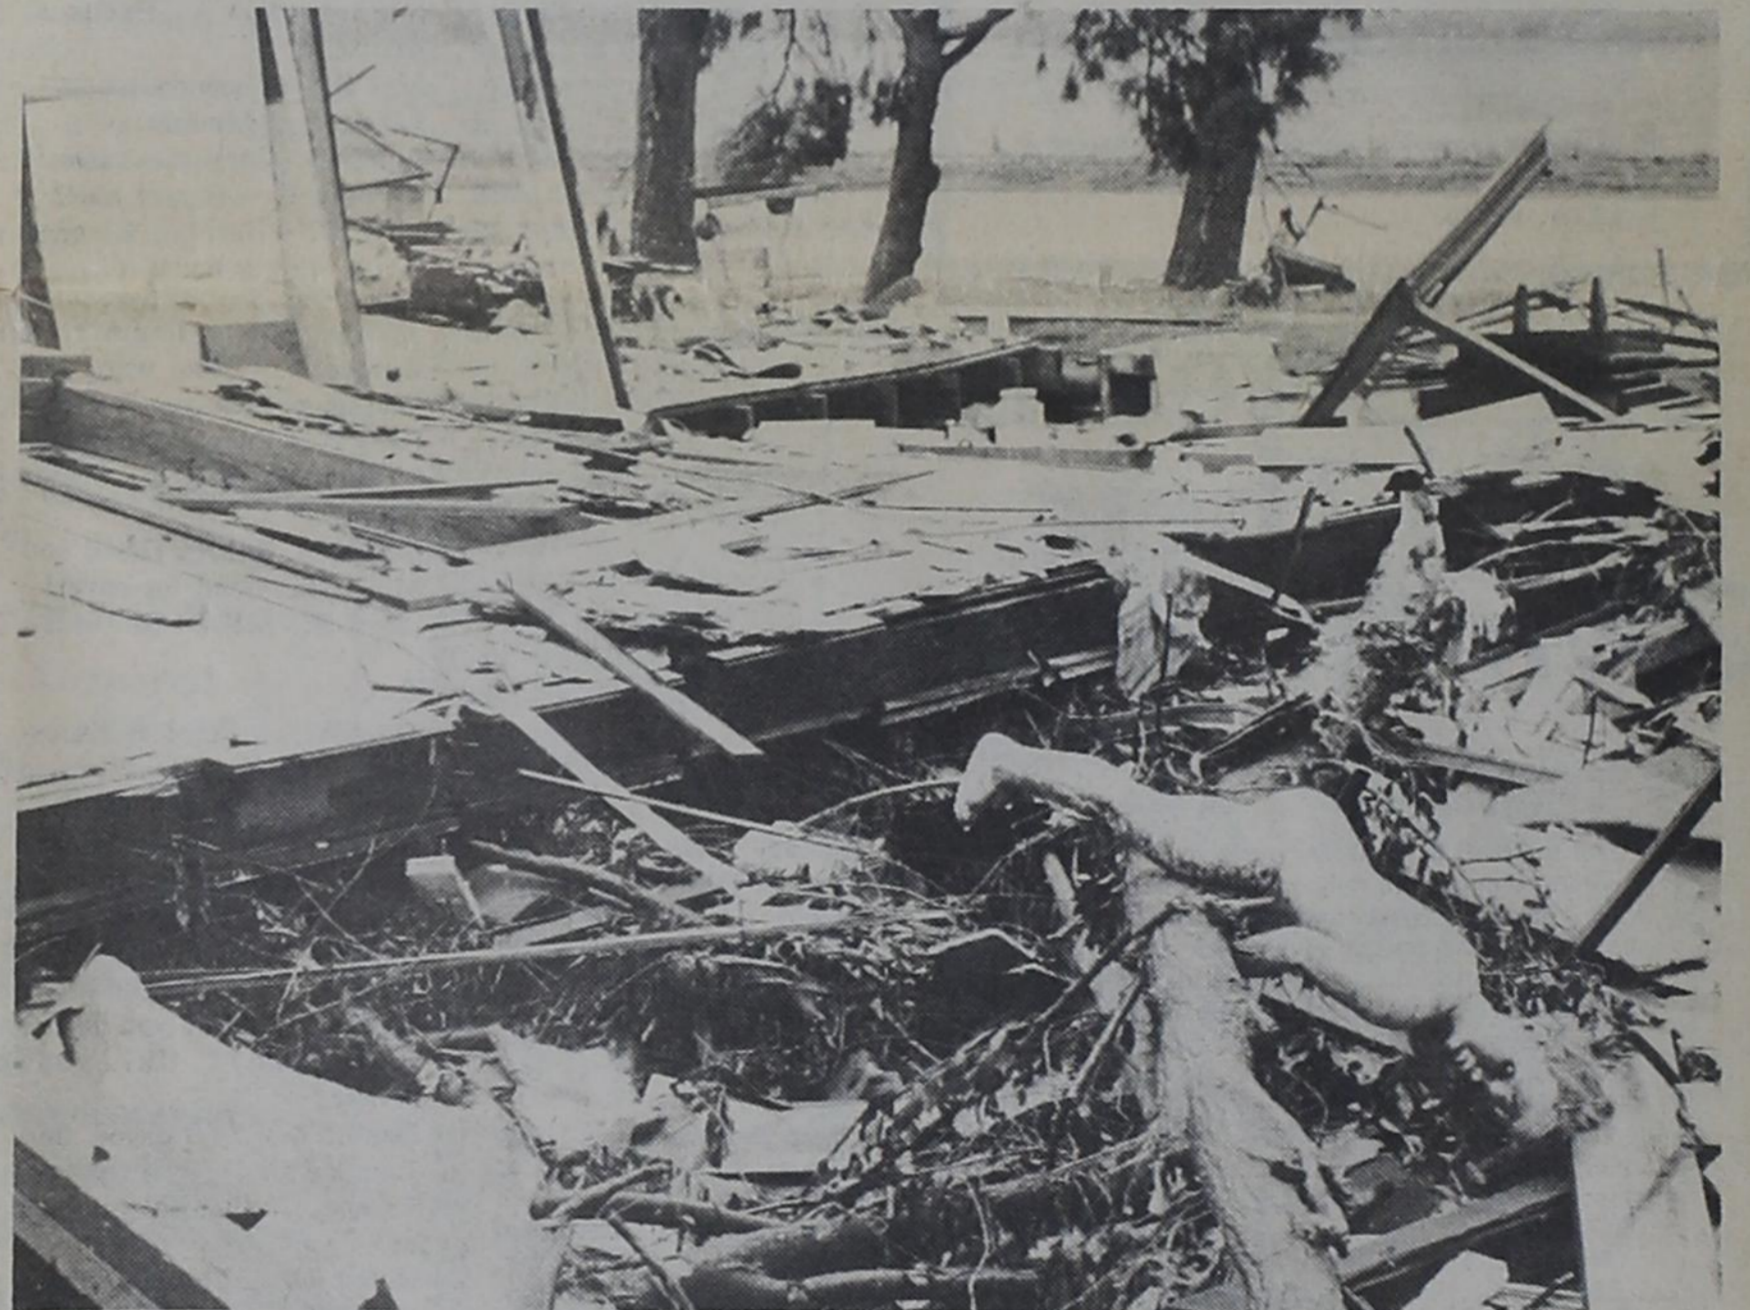

Bizarre examples of the tornado's might could be found the next day. A tractor's cab was pushed completely forward smashing it onto the hood. The tractor had been attached to a planter and the outfit had been forced out into the field as though planting without a driver. A chisel plow had been picked up and periodically dropped back to earth breaking off points as it fell to the ground each time.

Life goes on though. School graduation was scheduled for Tuesday, May 17 and that's what Quail did. Inside the Baptist Church parents and children gathered like refugees in their own town.

"It started to cloud up again and when that first roll of thunder came I just couldn't sit still anymore," recounted Marvin. "A bunch of us left to go outside just to see what was going on; we were just too nervous to sit inside after what happened Monday."

THE ONLY INJURY occurred when the janitor tried vainly to hang onto the cellar door as the tornado pulled it from the hinges. Press Photo

Banquet Honors Oldest Scouts-Newest Eagles

Over one hundred guests and Scouts attended the Saturday evening banquet at the high school cafeteria honoring newly minted Eagles. Highlighting the evening was a speech by Mr. W. J. Stubblefield of White Deer and organizer of the first Scout troop in Donley County.

Receiving their Eagle rank were Eddie Bright, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bright; Rick Hayes, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Hayes; and David Lane, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Lane.

Also receiving honors Saturday were Dan Sawyer, formerly of Clarendon, who received his Silver Palm award, the highest rank in Eagle Scouting. In the history of Troop 33, Dan is only the third to receive the Silver Palm. Eddie Bright was named Senior Patrol Leader for 1977 and Rick Hayes was honored with a trophy for being Senior Patrol leader for 1976.

Named Assistant Senior Patrol Leaders for 1977 were Leroy Sanchez, Richard Sanchez and Spencer Hayes. Chris Ford received his Gold Palm Award also at the ceremonies.

Making presentations was Scoutmaster Tommie Saye. Also recognized for assisting the troop were Bobby Hoggard, Claude Thomas Charles Blackburn and Tim Saye along with Explorer Advisor Pat Robertson.

Tickets and programs for the banquet were donated by Mr. and Mrs. George Wayne Estlack of Clarendon Office Supply and Printing.

In recounting Clarendon's first Scout troop, Stubblefield credited Mrs. Adair of the JA Ranch with being instrumental in fostering Scouting in Clarendon.

"Because Mrs. Adair had become interested in Scouting in England she was naturally anxious for Scouting to take root in the United States," recounted Stubblefield. "She instructed her ranch foreman down on the JA Ranch to invite us down for an outing."

Stubblefield told of the boys' hike to ranch headquarters allowing each to ride a wagon for two miles than fall off to hike until their turn to ride came up again.

"Without the kindly but distant attention from the ranch foreman we would have run out of grub before we returned to Clarendon," said Stubblefield. "And we got to the point once of making a pair of underwear for one of the boys by cutting holes in the bottom of a toe sack after he lost his pair crossing the Red River after a headrise."

Stubblefield received a standing ovation from the gathering at the end of an obviously moving experience for the retired banker and farmer from White Deer.

During his career Stubblefield was instrumental in establishing Scout troops in Clarendon, Groom, Amarillo and White Deer. He is also one of Scouting's longest monthly contributors on the rolls.

Mr. W. R. Wilkerson is home after a lengthy stay in the Groom Hospital. Athalee Dodson of Arkansas spent the weekend with Ms. Pauline Jones.

Mrs. Lilly Mae Carmichael visited in the Wes Wilkerson home Thursday of last week.

MRS. INEZ JOHNSTON, her mother Mrs. Bridges and Mrs. Lucille Luttrell pour quantities of food to lions every Tuesday.

Good Things From the Lions Kitchen

Every Tuesday Mrs. Inez Johnston and Mrs. Lucille Luttrell expect forty people to dinner. That's how many hungry Lions plan to feed at the Lions Hall.
 Cooking for a large family like Inez did with a family of eight makes it easier to think in terms of pounds of potatoes, dozens of rolls and pork chops. Lucille, a member of a family with six brothers started cooking at the age of 13 and hasn't stopped since.
 "I guess I love to cook. I suppose my favorites are cooking pastries; I love to bake rolls and breads and there's no telling how many recipes I've clipped and saved from magazines through the years," said Lucille.

"TEXAS" The Musical Drama

Canyon, Texas, May 16, 1977...The Company chosen to present the twelfth season of the musical drama "Texas" will gather Sunday, May 22 at the Branding Iron Theatre on the campus of the West Texas State University to begin rehearsals. Signing contracts, greeting old friends and making new ones, taking pictures for the Souvenir Program and for area newspapers, hearing the directors and staff outline the plans for the new season and a showing of the film of the production, will be crowded into the first afternoon. From this day, the cast will rehearse eight hours a day, six and a half days a week until the opening bugle on the first night of the season, June 15, 1977.

Her home is in Canyon, Texas and she received the Outstanding Citizen of the Year Award for her work as president of the Board of the Palo Duro Hospital during the funding and construction stages. Mrs. Hull is the alto soloist at the First Presbyterian Church of Canyon.

Cattle Outlook Improving

Some improvement in cattle prices this spring and summer appears not only possible but highly probable, says a livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
 Dr. Ed Uvacek points out that the improved outlook is a result of lower beef production, some decrease in pork output, and further increases in population and disposable income.
 "Price rises for fed and feeder cattle should continue to be rather healthy through the second quarter of the year and into the early part of the third quarter," believes Uvacek. "However, there will be some weakening of prices into the fall and winter."
 The specialist expects fed cattle prices to top out in July but to generally remain strong throughout the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barbee attended Baccalaureate Services in Houston for his nephews Rod and Rick Mullin.

About half of the cast will return. Pamela Hurst will come back as Elsie, Patti Claubaugh as Kate, Joe Anderson as Dave Newberry, and Jerry Williams as Tuck. Two who carried leading roles in the past will return: Don Washburn as Calvin, and Lois Hull as Aunt Anna. Uncle Henry will be new to the cast. He will be played by Robert Boyd.

Pamela Hurst will bring her engaging concept of Elsie back to the Pioneer Amphitheatre stage this year. Since her distinguished theatrical career at the West Texas State University, Miss Hurst has been teaching speech and drama at Canyon High School. She grew up in New Mexico, recently lived with her family in Lubbock, and now is moving to Dallas in the fall where she has been accepted at the Dallas Theatre Center.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Koontz visited Mr. and Mrs. Otto Elliott Thursday night.
 Jeffrey Helms of Lelia Lake spent Friday night and Saturday with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Koontz.

Mr. Boyd is a member of the speech faculty at West Texas State University. After early experience and training in theatre, he worked two years on his doctorate at the University of Colorado in business communications and now teaches in that field at WTSU. His acting background includes theatre courses at Baylor where he obtained his BA. Direction and drama teaching at Sonora, Texas and completion of his master's degree in the field at WTSU. Last summer he taught a course in European theatre and took a group of students to see and study plays in several European countries. A man of fine bearing, Mr. Boyd brings an intense interest in the part and a voice of rich quality to the production.

Joe Anderson will bring his great performance of "Dallas" back to "Texas" when he appears again as Dave Newberry. He had many successes in college productions before he appeared in last season's cast. He capped these by his performance of Harold Hill in "The Music Man", and Ferdinand in "The Tempest" for which he won awards.

"Feedlots intend to market about six million head during the second quarter-April through June," notes Uvacek. "Since there is some indication that some cattle may have been marketed early, second quarter fed cattle marketings may even be lower than originally anticipated. Even the original estimate, though higher, would still produce only about 1 per cent more fed beef than a year ago."
 With further seasonal reductions expected in the slaughter of nonfed cattle and cows, beef production during this quarter could easily run 3 to 5 per cent below the same period a year ago," points out the specialist.

Dennis and Anna Harrison attended Les Beaux Arts Show at Patching Club House Friday afternoon.
 The Chamberlain Community Center meeting was cancelled because of severe weather and flooding of the roads to the Center.

Don Washburn is returning to the company as Calvin after two years of study and performance in California. As a pupil there of the well known drama coach Edward Wright, the tall leading man had the opportunity to appear in the Jack Manning production of "Macbeth" at the Griffin Theatre in Los Angeles, and to play in "Merry Wives of Winson" with Will Geer at the Teatricum Botanicum. Mr. Washburn's previous appearance as Calvin was in 1974. When living in the Panhandle, he appeared in many plays, musicals and ballets. He has also had directing experience.

Jerry Williams will be playing Tuck for the tenth time this season. He has won many followers with his interpretation of the part of the ragged prospector who reveals a determined and valiant man through his patches. After years of teaching of speech therapy, Mr. Williams opened "Et Cetera", a novelty shop in Canyon which he has just sold. He will now be in the gift section at Sakowitz in Amarillo.

"Fed cattle marketings during the third calendar quarter should total 5.8 to 5.9 million head. This, coupled with lower pork and nonfed beef production, could sharply reduce total red meat supplies by the third quarter to levels below a year ago," adds Uvacek. "That's really encouraging and should keep price strength firm."

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cowan of Tulia visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dingler Sunday afternoon.
 The Dennis Harrisons visited Mr. and Mrs. David Lane Friday evening after the stormy weather cleared out.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Butch attended the Scout Banquet Friday night.
 Mrs. Jessie Sneed, Mrs. Bradis Ballew and Mrs. Clara Mae Carter were visitors of Ruth and Nell Corbin Sunday.
