West Texas Utilities to install special meters and recorders

West Texas Utilities Co. within the next few weeks will install special meters and recorders for about 350 customers as it initiates a comprehensive study of electric usage patterns in its service area.

The 350 customers comprise a random sample chosen by computer from throughout the WTU system. Only residential and small commercial customers are included.

"These are the two classes of customers we know very little about, so far as their electric demand habits are concerned," said Darwin Breeding, manager of WTU's Rate and Regulations Department.

Breeding emphasized that the information provided by the special recording devices will have no effect on the individual customer's electric bill, but will provide valuable information about the entire system which eventually could benefit all customers.

"This data will improve our decision making," he said, "especially in rate structuring, marketing, engineering analysis, and corporate and systems planning."

Probably the most important use of the research results will be in electric loan analysis for future rate structuring. Breeding said President Carter's new Energy Act had made it "absolutely mandatory" that utility companies take the initiative to form load research programs that will provide accurate data for future rate issues as well as information to be utilized in the regulatory process. However, WTU's plans were underway before the Energy Act was passed.

State regulatory bodies, including the Public Utility Commission of Texas, also are requiring load research data from electric companies.

The first step in WTU's program will be to make personal contact with each of the 350 customers and to have them fill out questionnaires. The questionnaires will be administered by personnel from WTU's Customer Technical Services Department, headed by Bill Baxter. The questions will concern such basic facts as size of house, type and number of electric appliances, amount of ceiling insulation, and number of persons in the family.

The special equipment then will be installed at the site of the old meter, and the information recorded by magnetic tapes will provide specific details on electric demand by each customer.

"With the information from the questionnaires and the accurate load data from the tapes, we'll have a better knowledge of our customers' electric usage patterns," Breeding said. "It's possible that we can use this information to improve the utilization of our generation and transmission facilities, and this could be beneficial to all customers."

"For one thing, it will enable us to better define the loads that cause our system peak demands," he said. "This can help us decide such things as the feasibility of time-of-day rates for these customer classes."

Time-of-day rates for residential customers are under study by the Texas PUC, and already have been implemented on a limited basis by some companies in the state.

The initial phase of the load research program will last at least a year, and the project likely will continue as a permanent program, involving different types of customer samples. Also initiating such programs are WTU's three sister companies in the Central and South System. The four companies are sharing computer facilities in order to reduce the cost of the operation.

Clarendon youths honored at 4-H banquet in Amarillo

Outstanding youths from 19 Panhandle counties held the spotlight in Amarillo Saturday night, November 18, at the annual 4-H Gold Star Banquet. Thirty-seven boys and girls received the highest county award offered in the 4-H club program--the Gold Star Award--at the program at The Inn. With it, each youth received the acclaim of parents, fellow 4-H'ers, government officials, Extension leaders and other community leaders.

Hosts for the banquet were four member-owned electric cooperatives serving Extension District 1: Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, Inc., Hereford; Rita Blanca Electric Cooperative, Inc., Dalhart; North Plains Electric Cooperative, Inc., Perryton, and Swisher Electric Cooperative, Inc., Tulia. The 4-H program in Texas is directed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Honored from Donley County were Sherilyn Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Walker of Clarendon, and Drew Thornberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Thornberry of Clarendon.

Focusing on the banquet theme of "The Future is Ours," Dallam County Judge Becky King reminded the honorees and guests that the future is not the possession of only the young, but belongs to adults and senior citizens as well. "We share part of each other's lives, you and I," she said.

She told the youths that if one of them develops a new hybrid crop or develops a better way of accomplishing something, "we all benefit."

"We all join together in the responsibilities of the future," she said.

Judge King cautioned the youths, "Before you accept your part in that future, you'd better look at the challenges, the dangers that go with it." The dangers are both emotional and physical, she said.

"Accepting a challenge, any challenge is accepting life. If you want no failures, don't ever try to succeed."

Robbie Martin new deputy for Sheriff's office

Effective November 15, the vacancy for a deputy in the sheriff's office was filled when Sheriff Behrens hired Robbie Martin to fill the position.

Robbie is the first woman deputy to be employed in the Donley County Sheriff's office. Martin's duties will be those of a regular deputy. She previously worked in the office as one of the dispatchers for the office.

She is a certified deputy sheriff, having previously received her training and certification and waiting out the six month probationary period.

Robbie comes to Clarendon from Silvertown and is a student at Clarendon College. After this semester ends her work at the college will cut to a few hours.

Sheriff Behrens says he feels the addition of a woman deputy will be an asset to the department since it means full compliance with codes relating to the handling of women prisoners.

Guests were welcomed to the banquet by James Hull, manager of the Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative. Phil Moreman of Donley County, chairman of the District 1 4-H Council, was master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided

Varsity Bronchos split games with Boys Ranch

After a bitter defeat at the hands of the Boys Ranch Roughriders at Boys Ranch, the Clarendon Bronchos bounced back strong with a fast break offense and pressure defense--a Dean Overcast trademark--to win at Clarendon.

"Over at their place we wanted to win real bad but we were jittery and didn't play well," conceded Coach Overcast. "But we are working on our problem spots and things are looking better."

In the 50-45 loss at Rough-riders Gym, the Bronchos jumped ahead early but relinquished the lead late in the game. Justin Lemons showed signs of brilliance, dropping in 12 points for the Clarendon team while John Maloy and his 14 tallies paced the Roughriders. Too many turnovers plagued Clarendon as Boys Ranch outscored the Maroon and White 14-5 in the fourth quarter.

"All we can do is put that one behind us," said Overcast after the loss. "We'll just be ready for 'em Monday." They were more than ready as the Bronchos cruised by the Blue and Gold

Trade Day drawing $200.00

Last week the third name was drawn for the Trade Days ticket drawing, and W.F. Broadstreet, whose name was the one drawn, was not present. This will mean $200 dollars in this Saturday's drawing.

He was not present and when Brenda Holland's name was drawn in the second drawing with a ticket from Osburn's, the merchandise credit was $200. Since W.F. Broadstreet was not present the drawing this Saturday will be $200 again. Do not miss it.

Letter to editor

Last week my sister and two brothers visited some classmates and friends at Lelia Lake and Clarendon.

My brother made the remark that the people in these places now are just as friendly and helpful as he remembered the people being when we moved to Texas 49 years ago.

We want to thank everyone who helped to make our visit so enjoyable. Our special thanks to Mr. Nolen of Lelia Lake who was kind enough to take us to the Community Center to see the school pictures there.

such as how to build a campfire and put it out; lacing; how to use a compass; and other arts and crafts.

Troop 77 is selling Christmas ornaments to raise money this year. They are lovely crystal-like ornaments that will beautify any tree. If you are interested please contact one of the girls or a leader.

Counthouse trees are trimmed

With the return of clear weather work has been resumed on trimming the trees on the courthouse square, and hauling the wood away.

It would appear that a number of squirrels are being displaced since the long branches have been cut back. They have been in the habit of traveling from tree to tree via the overlapping branches and out of reach and nearly out of sight of humans. Damaged and broken limb removal will enable the tree to sustain its strength and put out new branches it can support next spring, in time to provide a homesite for the birds whose nests are gone now.

Lone Star Gas has already laid the groundwork for your energy future.

The jobs of more than 100,000 Texans employed in plants served by Lone Star depend on gas for heat processing or as a product ingredient. Long-term gas supplies are needed to preserve existing jobs, create new ones, and meet the requirements of our residential customers. Fortunately, Lone Star is in an excellent position to continue energizing our area's economy.

Lone Star has an 11,400-mile gas gathering and transmission pipeline system that connects with basins estimated to contain 50% of the remaining onshore gas reserves in the United States.

This same network also enables Lone Star to accept gas deliveries from growing offshore production in the Gulf of Mexico.

No other gas company in Texas has a pipeline network as extensive or versatile as the one we've put together and constantly modernized during the 69 years Lone Star has been in business.

No other gas company in Texas has the built-in opportunity to buy gas as selectively, to bargain as well for the best prices on new gas, as Lone Star.

Our pipelines can have an important effect on your energy future, because it's here where Lone Star is strongest that gas companies from across America will be shopping hard for new gas reserves.

Here's your key to the energy storehouse.

We fully understand the efforts of other gas utilities and transmission companies to get new gas supplies. Their areas also want this most economical of fuels for industrial use.

Nevertheless, Lone Star's obligation is to the million-plus residential, commercial and industrial customers who depend on us to meet their energy needs in the decades ahead.

We're determined to meet our obligation in full by getting our area's fair share of new gas reserves as they enter the market in volumes large enough to be handled economically.

It can be done because of Lone Star's pipeline system.

Our gathering system goes into areas where other gas companies haven't begun to build. Our far-reaching transmission network gives us excellent capabilities. Our underground storage system often lets us take deliveries when many companies cannot.

All we need to buy the gas you'll need in the decades ahead is your understanding that we must recover the actual cost of the new gas we buy.

Give us that, and we'll deliver you the best gas bargains that money can buy. But the longer we wait, the more expensive the bargains will be. And we're eager to get on with the job.

Lone Star Gas Company
We're working energetically for your area's future.

Soil Conservation Service

The ability of farmers and ranchers to continue to produce adequate food and fiber was the number one natural resource concern expressed in Texas during a series of statewide meetings held earlier this year.

Soil erosion by water, deterioration of rangeland, shortage of municipal and rural water supplies, and irrigation water management came in second, third, fourth, and fifth—respectively—in a tabulation made by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

George C. Marks, state conservationist for SCS in Texas, said that some 8,500 Texans established these priority concerns during a series of 377 public meetings held last spring and summer. The meetings were held in compliance with the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977.

Jim Donaho, District Conservationist for Soil Conservation Service in Clarendon, said the number one resource concern expressed in the local Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District was food and fiber production, wind erosion, rural development, and Socio-Political concerns came in second, third, and fourth, in a public meeting held May 16, 1978 at Clarendon.

SCS and local conservation districts sponsored the meetings in each of the state's soil and water conservation districts.

The other statewide concerns listed in order of ranking were flooding, loss of rural lands to urban sprawl, soil erosion by wind, rural development, increased demand for recreational facilities, and loss of wildlife habitat.

The public inputs from Texas were forwarded to Washington where they will be combined with responses from the other states. National concerns will be announced in 1979. At that time, the public will again be asked to help SCS and conservation districts decide what conservation programs should be used to solve local concerns.

A national conservation program will then be presented to President Carter to concentrate on the Nation's top natural resource concerns on a priority basis.

Traditionally cast as a villain, the coyote stands condemned of killing cattle, sheep, goats, chickens and desirable wildlife. However, studies have shown that the coyote is an effective rodent and rabbit control which helps the landowner harvest and store more food and produce more meat for the table.

The abundance or scarcity of the coyote's natural food such as rabbits, rodents, and other prey determines how frequently a coyote will visit a chicken house or raid a sheep pen.

When times are hard, visits by the coyote may be often, but during times of high rabbit or rat populations, the coyote pays his way.

The coyote has been trapped, poisoned, shot, runover, chased and harassed for many years. While this attempt to eradicate the coyote has failed to reduce his numbers, it has reduced the old, weak, and foolish from his ranks resulting in a swift and cunning animal producing more of their kind while expanding their range nationwide.

The coyote can add another determined hunter to the list of his pursuers: the price of coyote pelts continues to increase in value.

Hunting coyotes with sight dogs or trail dogs has been a sport for years, but the use of a predator call and an accurate rifle is relatively new spanning about the last 20 years.

The expense of handling, feeding and transporting hunting dogs has been a deterrent to the new coyote hunter while the cost of a predator call is within every hunter's reach.

The coyote or predator call has improved over the years with many brands and varieties on the market. The new calls are not necessarily more effective, however.

Early predator hunters used converted duck calls or fashioned their own needs to sound like a rabbit in distress.

The experienced predator caller is most successful when an area holding coyotes is found and scouted prior to the first call.

Ideal coyote country can be pastureland, river or creek

The Coyote -- is he a friend or a villain bottoms, or even weed patches. Since the coyote hunts at night when the rodents are out feeding, it is hard for the predator hunter to find them at night.

Once an area is found, the hunter can pick a hill or mound overlooking a tract of land with cover and place himself along the side of the hill which breaks his outline. Movement and sound are two things the coyote will notice first. Do not slam vehicle doors, talk, smoke or make quick movements in the potential calling area.

Once you are setup, call for several minutes while watching for movement in the area. Slowly move your head scanning the trees, brush, weeds in front and behind you for a coyote slipping up on the "imaginary" rabbit.

The coyote has an uncanny ability to come long distances directly to your location. Whether you are hunting or photographing the coyote, be prepared before the coyote gets into range.

ing, his diligent control of destructive rodents, and insects, and the sport and monetary value to the hunter help compensate for the damage he does.

Aside from being useful, the coyote is one of the few remaining symbols of a wild, free, self-reliant breed that is not here on earth BECAUSE of man but IN SPITE of man.

Coaches and fans behavior may effect athletes

Many individuals influence the high school athlete, and none is beyond pausing a moment for introspection. They should ask themselves what kind of examples they are setting for the young adults who look up to them. A better understanding of what athletics is all about, a new viewpoint, might go a long way toward correcting many of the problems of today's sports world.

As a figure of authority, the high school coach may be a key individual in molding a youngster's life. The ideal coach is a calm and patient leader who understands that both winning and losing are inevitable, and that strength and character can be derived from both experiences.

show after devoting long hours to studying the rules, practicing mechanics and working themselves into sound physical condition.

The fan's view, on the other hand, is from the opposite end of the court, 20 rows up, and is often based upon meager knowledge of the intricate rules of the game. Such critical behavior sets a poor example for boys and girls.

Every one of us can be a better person through a close association with athletics. But this can be accomplished only if our athletics do not suffer from dissension, over-emphasis on personal gain or glorification, and other similar ills. To remedy these will take some patience, a little understanding, the proper perspective and the right attitude.

It will take a personal commitment from coaches, principals and superintendents, fans, parents and all adults to put fun back into sports. Don't owe us much to the boys and girls who play the game?

Bronc Buster

Well, it is the week after Thanksgiving and now everybody is full! (at least until Christmas.)

Last Tuesday the Varsity Bronchettes played Lakeview there and beat them 40-39. A very close game, too close for comfort!

The Bronchos played Boys Ranch there Friday. The J.V. got beat by the score of 56-14, high points were Drew Thornberry and Scott Newland. The Varsity lost to Boys Ranch by 5 points, the score was 50-45. Monday night the Bronchos again played Boys Ranch. The J.V. just lost by 15 points, 53-38. Brad Thompson was high point followed by Lance Thornberry. The Varsity won 60-42. Keith Floyd was high point.

Today the varsity teams will begin playing in the Wheeler tournament. Both teams started off in the bracket matched against Mobeetic. Next Tuesday all four basketball teams will be playing Spearman here. J.V. girls start at 4:00. I hope everyone will continue supporting all these magnificent teams!

F.H.A. is going to have a meeting Monday to talk over some business and plan a few events. All F.H.A.'ers are asked to attend this meeting. Remember the people who go to state convention are the ones with the most points!

Spanish club wants to remind everyone to vote for their Mr. Ugly candidates! There's not much more voting time.

Next Tuesday the Drama Department is planning a production entitled "Antic Spring" Characters in the play are Kenny Swearington, Robert, Cynthia Hardin-Ginger, Doug Foster, Sam, Karlen Cantrell.

Gwendolyn, Shawn Barker-Elbert, and Julie Putman-Blossom.

Here's a tad bit from here and there...

Janette M. Why do you want to go to Boys Ranch again? Colleen C. Oh, you want to go back too! Kelli H. You lost your contact where? It's a good thing Coach Overcast "Got it!" Lisa and Jamie Mc. Someone in your backseat? No... Oh well, Tim enjoyed the walk! Coach Slover. A map for X-mas? Sulynn A. "Bloodhound?" Spencer H. There's more in the middle of an egg McMuffin? Renee C. Try drinking your coke next time! Steve D. Hi! I'm seven, what are you? Rick H. Lighting the torch on your arm? Angela G. "Good looking guys?" Mai O' Man! Jenni D. "Snake skins?" Drew T. Did you get gravel on your pillow? Justin L. Which way you going buddy? Kestin C. Who said that? Kelly T. Expert on candy bars and kids?

Health Hints For Today

by R.L. Gilkey, M.D., A.B.F.P.

Cool weather tips - You prepare your car and house for cooler weather don't you? What about yourself? Clothing should be several layers, so that you can remove a jacket or sweater if you get too warm. Never wear clothing that is too tight in cold weather. It will aggravate frostbite. Humidify the house. The hot weather of East Texas is due to the humidity, not the temperature. Put a pan of water on the floor furnace or on the stove. Not only will you feel better, you won't have to heat the house as hot. If you have asthma or emphysema, don't humidify the house. It will make you worse.

Arthritics should use an electric blanket. It helps the stiff sore joints. Deep heat rubs, avoiding drafts, and mild exercise helps also.

Exercise in the winter? Everyone should. If you have heart disease, stay out of the cold weather and the wind, but you can still exercise. Start with stretching exercises to the shoulders, back and arms. If you have a bike or treadmill use it. If not, set up a walking path in the house and walk daily. But walk outside if the weather permits.

For joggers who don't like ice on the street, take a tip from the boxers and skip rope. Did you know that skipping rope is more than twice as effective as jogging? Skipping rope will give you the exercise, and balance and co-ordination.

Diet is important during cold weather because the carbohydrate intake goes up. This is why diabetics need to watch their diet more closely. Those persons with an overweight problem need to be cautious for the same reason, but it can be a help if they want to lose weight. In cooler weather we all burn more calories, so if you keep your diet low on calories and carbohydrates (as you do in the hot summer months), you can lose weight. For the rest of us, we need the carbohydrates. We need to gain those few pounds each winter, and lose them in the summer.

Weather changes are healthy for all of us. You wouldn't live as long in a climate without change. The key to good health is "be prepared". Give yourself more time when it is cool. Drive more carefully, exercise more cautiously and eat wisely. You'll live longer and better.

Stamp collecting items available at post office

Postmaster Robert McCombs today reminded holiday shoppers that the Clarendon Post Office has available several stamp collecting items that are suitable for Christmas gifts.

Mr. McCombs said that the post office has the latest edition of Stamps & Stories, the popular U.S. Postal Service guide to stamp collecting, as well as the 1978 Mint Set, which contains all 28 commemorative and special stamps issued during the year.

The 240-page Stamps & Stories, the popular U.S. Postal Service guide to stamp collecting, as well as the 1978 Mint Set, which contains all 28 commemorative and special stamps issued during the year.

The 240-page Stamps & Stories book, priced at $3.50, relates more than 100 stories about U.S. stamps and is designed to introduce non-collectors to stamp collecting as well as to provide interesting philatelic information such as current market values to both novice and experienced collectors. Mr. McCombs said that many of the stories in the new edition are new or have been substantially changed since the 4th edition appeared last year.

The 1978 Mint Set, priced at $4.50, is the latest in a series of annual sets of commemorative and special stamps released by the post office each year prior to Christmas. The cover of the colorful set features a montage of artwork related to the stamps inside and dramatically wraps around all three sides of the folder. Acetate strips on the inside provide spaces in which the enclosed stamps may be mounted and displayed.

In addition to these two items, Mr. McCombs said, the post office also has a number of popular topical stamp collecting kits available for beginning collectors. The kits have topics ranging from "The World of Sports" and "Space," to "Birds and Butterflies" and "Diamonds and Triangles." Each of the $2.00 kits also includes a small 20-page album, mounting hinges, insert sheets for additional stamps, and a 32-page booklet entitled "The ABC's of Stamp Collecting."

The Lions Tale

By David Davidson

There were 25 members and three guests for the weekly meeting and program.

Reynold for an excellent program and movie. O'Rourke is the Panhandle Emergency Medical Service (EMS) Coordinator and Reynolds is the Medical Center secretary assisting her. The EMS has saved many lives in the panhandle area by providing a professional ambulance service for cities and rural communities that many times had inadequate facilities. Each ambulance is staffed with trained Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) linked to doctors and specialists by radio. They are trained and equipped to handle almost any medical emergency that might arise. There are seven EMTs serving Donley County and over 1300 serving the panhandle area.

In addition to the ambulance service a poison hotline 1-800-692-1331 and helicopter serve the rural communities so they are not isolated from medical help.

Since the establishment of the EMS in the panhandle area mortalities have been reduced 34% in newborns, 15% on cardiac victims, and 18% on head injuries from motor accidents. This EMS is considered one of the best in the nation and a model for other systems to follow. We should be very thankful and appreciative of these people and the service they provide our community.
