She also showed a two year old mare, Sunny Cowgirl, to the Title Reserve World Champion Mare in 1977. In 1976 she won the Golden Spread All-Around Saddle, 14-18, and was high-point youth in horsemanship, showmanship and western pleasure.

At the Clinic, Debbie will discuss mounting, leads, head-set, showing tack, and dress-all vital to a champion in Western Horsemanship.

Remember-you'll get out of the horse project what you put into it. Hard work, long hours, and a positive attitude are the beginnings of a champion.

Moment of Meditation

"Redeeming the time."
Eph. 5:16
BY INEZ G. LAWRENCE

"Make the very most of the time, buying up each opportunity because the days are evil." This is the Amplified version of Ephesians 5:16. To most of us, time is taken up by our job. The money it provides buys the things we need or want. So we trade our time which is our allotted years here for money to purchase things. And some of these things are not nearly so important as we may think.

How often we lament, "If I had only taken time to say what I really felt. If I had just stopped to help. If I had only listened to what was being said." So it seems that a reconsideration of priorities is in order. At once we realize that caring takes time we have not been willing to give up to now. A set routine has eroded our supply of time and it is irritating to admit that everyone has exactly the same amount of time! Certainly it is not hard to major on minor things. We can drift into such a attitude easily. But it takes creative effort to make time for family togetherness when each member is caught up in a different schedule. It takes real thought to cultivate friends and keep the relationship with others with unless they are cultivated. And those who are to busy are the losers.

It is urgent then that we "redeem the time". After all how much would take for the love of your family and friends? Can you earn enough to forfeit them? There are other lonely faces all around us if we only take time to notice them. But they mean getting involved and we think we are too busy! But are we really too busy, or too uncaring? The days are evil to be sure, so the more reason for ur using each minute as wisely as possible; the more reason to love more deeply and share more willingly ourselves. As we redeem the time God has given, we will be glad we did.

The Lions Tale

BY GENE ALDERSON

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday at the Lions Hall. There were twenty-three members and one guest present.

Following a delicious meal and the regular opening ceremony, Boss Lion Courtney announced the following four chairmen for the Pancake Supper to be held on the evening of the first home football game which will be with Quana on September 14th: Tickets, Lion Alderson; Food, Lion Jack Daniel; Setting up for the Supper; Lion J. G. McNear; Clean-up, Lion Tunney Kent.

Our Scheduled program did not show up, so our guest, Mark Nixon, who is the new athletic director and men's basketball coach at Clarendon College, talked to us for a few minutes on his philosophies for coaching basketball and his plans for community involvement at Clarendon College during his coming year. Mark then answered questions from the floor. We appreciate your help with the program today, Mark.

Please explain the significance of the word "replenish" in Genesis 1:28, when the earth had not yet been populated?

Rather than attempt to deal with reasons of the earlier English attempts at translation and interpretation, it would be best to suggest that a common sense rule of translation is often forgotten: To provide a check for proper translation, any word should be translated in its context, background and sense of the original, then the word is translated into in the second language must return the same meaning as in the original. Here much is lost due to inattention to the exacting demands of honest translation.

In Genesis 1:28, the English translation of the Jewish Publication Society of America, The Torah published in Philadelphia 1967 from the Masoretic Text reads: "God blessed them and God said to them, Be fertile and

GRASS MAKES ITS OWN FOOD

- FOR GROWTH
- FOR FORAGE
- FOR GOOD LAND USE
- FOR SOIL CONSERVATION

By Waldo R. Frandsen, Range Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service

GRASSES, like all green plants, live and grow on food manufactured primarily in their own green leaves. Ranges, pastures, lawns, or other grass crops can flourish and conserve soil only as the individual plants have an opportunity to make food for their own growth.

Plant food is manufactured in the leaves, and not, as many people suppose, drawn from the roots or the soil. The plant gets the "raw materials" to make food from the soil and the air. Because the plant's "food factory" is above the ground, grazing, mowing, or clipping promptly stops production to the extent that green foliage is removed.

THE CHART inside this folder shows the main steps in manufacturing food within a grass plant. Anyone who cares for grass—rancher, farmer, lawn-keeper—needs to know something about this process.

Water, entering the soil, forms a film around each soil particle and dissolves some of the minerals present. Tiny root hairs come in contact with these films of water and absorb the mineral solution. A network of small roots carries this mineral solution to the main roots. The roots transport it to the stems, stems carry it to the leaves.

Plants use phosphorous, nitrogen, potash, calcium, magnesium, and sulfur in large quantities to manufacture their food. They use other minerals such as iron, manganese, molybdenum, copper, boron, and zinc in only small quantities but must have them for good plant growth. All these minerals are in the solution, the roots carry to the "plant food factory" inside the leaves.

Minerals from the soil make up about 5 percent of the solid material in plant roots, stems, seeds, and leaves. Carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen from the air and water make up most of the other 95 percent.

The leaves take in carbon dioxide from the air through tiny pores. Using energy from the sun, the leaves recombine the carbon with oxygen and hydrogen to make sugars, starches, and fiber. The sugars then combine with the mineral elements from the soil to make proteins, plant oils, and fats. Unused oxygen and water vapor escape through the leaf pores.

The plant uses sugars, starches, proteins, oils, and fats to grow and reproduce itself. Animals get these foods when they eat the foliage or seeds.

A PERENNIAL GRASS stores food in its roots after it has made the season's main growth. It uses these reserves to live on while the plant is dormant, to make the first growth next season, and to start new growth after its green leaves and stems are closely grazed or cut.

The ability of perennial grasses to recover quickly after grazing or mowing makes these plants especially valuable for forage production and soil conservation. This same ability often deceives the user of grass into thinking he can repeatedly remove any amount of leaves without injury.

What happens to grass plants that repeatedly lose their green leaves during the growing season? Since no "food factories" are left to receive and combine the raw materials from the soil and air, the plant keeps drawing on food stored in the roots to grow new leaves. It robs the storehouse until the supply is exhausted and then dies of starvation.

Research shows that many grasses will not reach their maximum vigor and growth when more than half their leaf surface is removed by frequent grazing or mowing.

Repeated removal of green foliage causes a corresponding reduction in the plant root system. Top growth that is kept small cannot feed a large root system; neither can a stunted root system supply enough raw materials to support a large growth of stems and leaves.

A grass cover that is weak does not make efficient use of soil moisture and nutrients. As a result it does not provide the maximum amount of livestock feed. And it is not able to protect the soil from erosion by wind or water.

A dense cover of grass protects the soil from the battering, splashing action of rain. The leaves break up the raindrops and allow more water to soak into the soil, thus preventing erosion, conserving moisture for plant growth, and restoring underground water supplies. The higher and denser the grass, the better it shades the soil and keeps it cool. This reduces loss of water by evaporation and enables grass to grow better in hot weather.

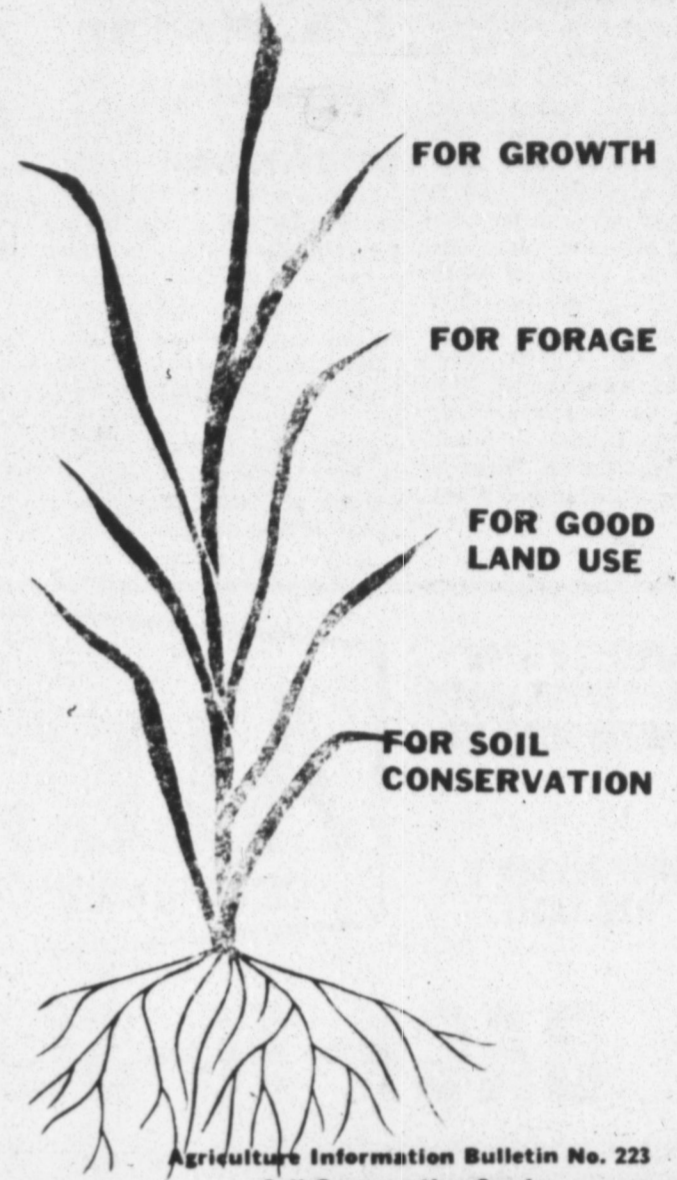

For every pound of growth above ground, most grasses produce a pound or more of roots. Some of the better forage grasses send their roots down 10 to 15 feet. Some lawn grasses may penetrate as deep as 3 to 4 feet.

DECAYING GRASS roots, leaves, and stems and the manure produced by grazing animals supply organic matter to the soil. This maintains its tilth and fertility, makes it more absorptive, and reduces erosion. To the extent that grass reduces the amount of water running off the land, it helps reduce floods.

During the drought of the 1930's and again in the 1950's wind erosion occurred largely on land that had little or no plant cover because of cultivation or too close grazing. Wind-tunnel studies have shown that a good growth of grass breaks the force of the wind before it can reach the ground and move the grains of soil.

Thus, the man who values grass sees to it that his "food factory" is large enough. Everywhere, grass plants must have adequate green leaves to survive and grow.

Friends of the Library

Friends of the Library entertained the children's reading program participants with a picnic party at the court house last Tuesday, July 31. There were approximately 32 children present. Mrs. Charles Deyhle represented Friends and gave the children the refreshments. Mrs. Horace Green represented the Library Board and handed out certificates. There were 82 readers and many of them just lacked a few books earning two certificates before their reading was interrupted by family vacations. There were 32 certificates earned with everybody receiving their bag of gold nuggets.

Christina Leathers and Martie McConnell earned 2 certificates. New library hours beginning now will be from 9 a.m.-12 noon and from 1 p.m.-5 p.m. So as you go to the postoffice to get your mail come in to the library and pick up some new books or some of the magazines. As of September 1, you can check out five hard backs and five paper backs. If your child has neglected his reading skills during summer vacation you can still have a couple of weeks to help him or her regain the loss. Come to the library!

Cotton bale weight penalties

In 1933 the Texas Legislature passed the following Act concerning cotton bale weight penalties: Art. 5679b. Deduction from agreed price for deficiency in weight. When any buyer of spot cotton has made a bona fide bid for same from sample or bale and the sale price is agreed to between the buyer and seller, the buyer shall not make any deductions from the total value thereof as agreed to between the parties by reason of the weight of said bale of cotton, unless such bale shall weigh less than four hundred (400) pounds. If the bale weighs less than four hundred (400) pounds a deduction of not more than One Dollar ($1.00) may be made by the buyer. Nothing contained herein shall prevent the buyer from refusing to accept a bale of cotton weighing less than three hundred and fifty (350) pounds. Acts 1933, 43rd Leg., P. 379, ch. 150, Sec. 1.

Art. 5679c. Recovery of double amount of unlawful deductions: If deductions or charges are made contrary to this Act, then the seller or grower of such cotton may recover from the buyer or ginner twice the amount of the deductions or charges in the same manner as is allowed for recovery by law for usury. Acts 1933, 43rd Leg., P. 379, ch. 150, Sec. 2. (VERNON'S CIVIL STATUTES OF THE STATE OF TEXAS ANNOTATED Limitations to Markets and Warehouses, Art. 5524-3764a).

The above statute is still on the books (V.A.T.S. Arts. 5679b, 5679c), but very few persons know about it. There has never been a court case under the law to recover deductions, or to interpret what the law means. Nevertheless, the law clearly limits the use of cotton bale weight penalties on the part of buyers of cotton by specific description (as contrasted with buyers of futures).

If a spot cotton buyer charges any cotton bale weight penalty at all on a bale weighing 400 pounds or more-- or if he charges such penalty in excess of $1.00 on any bale weighing less than 400 pounds--a seller or grower can get back double the amount of the bale weight penalty the buyer has charged. The Texas usury cases are not clear as to whether the Statute of Limitations for recovery of cotton bale weight penalties would be two years or four years. However, in either event, any excessive deduction collected within the past two years, and of which there is evidence, could be recovered.

Will the 1933 Act stand up in court if it is tested today? Occasionally, it has been criticized as being an antiquated and improper state regulation of interstate commerce. But, it is important to notice that the Texas Attorney General does not enforce the Act by criminal lawsuits as a method of enforcement. The degree of state regulation which the Act contemplates is minimal.

If the 1933 Act means what it says, then cotton buyers need to be aware of its provisions so that they will not write excessive bale weight penalties into their contracts. And, cotton growers and sellers must use the protections available to them. As stated earlier, they may have successful civil actions against buyers for refund of wrongfully paid bale weight penalties--and, by analogy with the usury laws, they may be able to recover attorneys' fees for those lawsuits. Also, a letter from a local attorney, mailed on behalf of a number of cotton growers to the buyers operating in the area, and discussing the implications of the statute for them, would possibly be very helpful for the present harvest and for the future. It would certainly be less time-consuming than litigation.

Moreover, growers and sellers should remember the power they have to enter into contracts freely, and that the exact language used in the contract is very important. Producer-sellers are cautioned to review total contract before signing. A contract should specifically define price per pound times number of pounds as the total value.

Finally, cotton producers should be aware that they are at complete liberty to negotiate with buyers about excluding cotton bale weight penalties from the sales contract. The Texas Cotton Association no longer disciplines its members for failure to follow the Association's suggested penalty schedule, which involves penalties of $5.00 and $10.00 per bale on certain categories of overweight and underweight bales. For this reason, some buyers are no longer allowing the rubber-stamped words "TCA Rules" to govern the terms of the contract, but are writing their own penalties into their printed form contracts. The relevant sections of those contracts should be read very closely by sellers and growers.

The Research and Education Department would appreciate an opportunity to answer any questions regarding this discussion.

Balanced Budget

The New Hampshire state legislature became the 30th state in the union to demand a constitutional convention for the purpose of writing a balanced budget provision in the U. S. Constitution. New Hampshire becomes the 8th state to pass resolutions supporting a balanced budget resolution during 1979. Only four additional states must pass similar resolutions before Congress is required to take action.

McCords honored on 40th anniversary

The 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McCord was celebrated Sunday August 12 at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

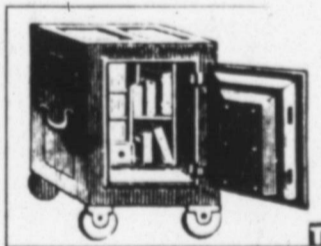

Children of the couple Mrs. Mary L. Price of Santee, Calif., Mrs. Sue Hardy of Floydada, and Lloyd McCord, Jr. of Lelia Lake hosted the event. The couple has four granddaughters and two grandsons.

Lloyd McCord married the former Frances Marie Heara in Groom, Texas on August 12, 1939. They have lived in Clarendon for 36 years.

Lloyd is retired from the Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co. He has been active in civic and church duties. He has been a City Alderman and a fireman for many years.

They are both members of the First Baptist Church and have been Sunday School teachers many years.

Many relatives and friends attended the reception. They hosted a 11:00 lunch at Mutts Restaurant for their children and grandchildren prior to the reception.

New Immunization Guidelines

For the first time since the 1971 enactment of the Texas immunization laws the minimum requirements have been revised, in accordance with recommendations from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and the American Academy of Pediatrics. Most of the changes are related to specific timing of vaccine administration, as illustrated below:

COMPARISON OF THE OLD AND NEW IMMUNIZATION RULES AND REGULATIONS

Vaccines	Old Requirements	New Requirements After 9/1/78
Trivalent Oral Polio (TOPV)	3 doses required, with at least one dose on or after the 4th birthday. Not required after age 19.	3 required, with one on or after 4th birthday, or during month prior to, or of, 4th birthday. Required to age 19 years.
Inactivated Polio (IPV)	Nothing specified in the old rules and regs.	In lieu of TOPV, 4 doses required, plus booster every 3 years, until age 19.
DTP/Td	3 doses required, with at least one dose on or after the 4th birthday, in the 12' group, at least one of the 3 doses must have been received within 10 yrs.	3 doses required, with one on or after 4th birthday, or during month prior to, or of, 4th birthday. For 12' group, same booster requirement.
Measles	1 dose, or parental history of measles illness. Not required past 12th birthday.	1 dose which must have been received on or after the 1st birthday, or during month of the 1st birthday. New histories after 9/1/79 must be physician-verified. Required thru 6th grade (age 12 yrs.) starting 9/1/79 then 1 year higher each Sept.
Rubella	1 dose required up to age 12. Illness history not acceptable in lieu of vaccine.	No change.
Mumps	None required.	Starting 9/1/79 one dose will be required for those below age 8, or below 2nd grade, then one higher grade/age each Sept. Mumps illness must be physician verified.

While the above rules and regulations attempt to establish minimum standards of protection, the Texas Department of Health recommends a more comprehensive schedule. Ultimately, individual patient needs and physician judgement determine which vaccines are administered.

Physician-verification of measles and mumps illness, required after September 1, 1979, will insure that all children in schools and child-care facilities have accurate records. This requirement will call for even more than the usual amount of coordination between health and educational professionals.

Informational literature for physicians and the general public is being revised in accordance with the expanded regulations, and is available at no charge from the Literature Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756.

Law Changes Right of Way On Ramps And Frontage Roads

AUSTIN—Texas drivers need to know about an important new law which will seriously affect how they drive on freeway frontage roads.

The change is so important that ignoring it could literally become a matter of life or death.

The law, passed in the recent session of the Texas Legislature, gives traffic entering or leaving freeway ramps the right of way over frontage road traffic.

It was signed by the governor on June 11, and becomes effective August 27.

It reads in part: "The driver of a vehicle proceeding on an access or feeder road of a controlled access highway shall yield the right of way to a vehicle entering or about to enter or leaving or about to leave the road to enter the highway."

Many ramps on Texas highways already are arranged that way, and YIELD and other signs are in place on the frontage roads for this kind of operation.

Other places where ramps and frontage roads meet, however, are not. There, the signs presently are arranged to require the ramp traffic to yield.

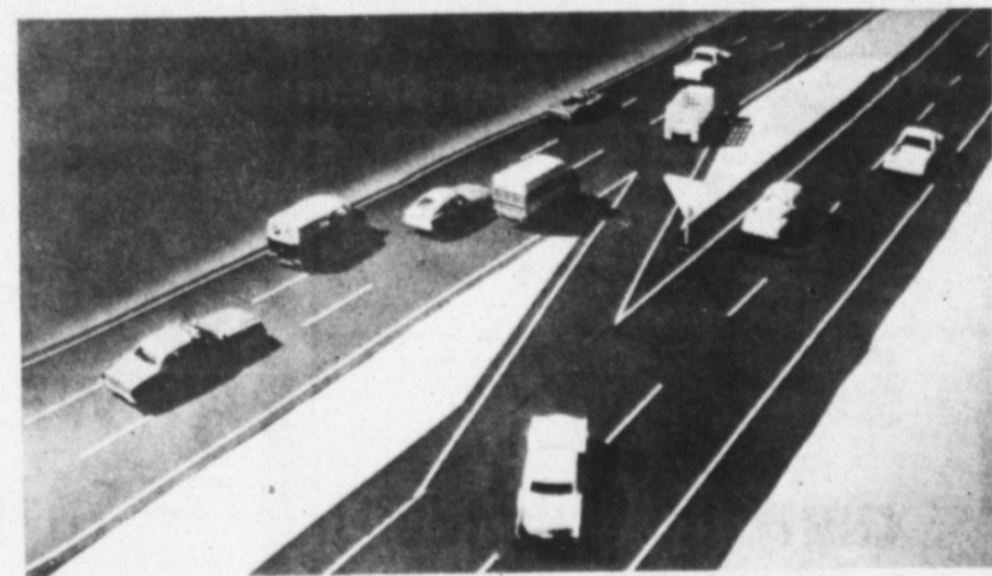

The situation is especially critical where the frontage road carries traffic in both directions. Ramp traffic both entering and leaving the freeway crosses opposing streams of traffic on the frontage road.

The wise motorist should be alert for any changes in signs on the frontage road he may drive regularly and should be aware that all ramp traffic will legally have the right of way over frontage road traffic later this summer. He should also be aware when using freeway ramps that other drivers may not be aware of this law change and may overlook the new signs. Signs are being changed now. Drivers should heed new sign arrangements as they encounter them.

Frontage road traffic must yield to vehicles entering the freeway.

On two-way roads, both lanes of traffic yield to vehicles using the exit ramp.

IMAGINE A WORLD WITHOUT COMMUNICATION

Communication is important not only between individuals, but between business and the consumer.

At WTU, we think it's important that consumers know about the services we offer, our billing practices and the details, and all the portions of your bill. We also want to provide you with information on how to use electrical energy in the most efficient manner possible. Conservation of our energy is important to our future and to you as a billpayer. It's also important that you and your family know the proper safety measures required when working around electricity.

These are just a few of the reasons WTU feels it's important to communicate with you on topics that concern and involve you. At West Texas Utilities, we're working to serve you better.

SANDRA ANN VEAL

Sandra Ann Veal engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCombs announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Ann Veal, to Mick Jobert of Amarillo, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kinnie Reese of Dallas, Texas. They plan to wed on August 31st at the First Baptist Church of Clarendon. The couple plan to reside in Amarillo.

JENNIFER MONROE, shown with ski overalls by Weather Tamer, is a 15 month old model in a fall and winter showing of new-season fashion apparel in stock at Baby World and Lue Ree's in Lubbock. The fashion concious young miss is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Monroe, of 8007 Durham in Lubbock, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Monroe of Clarendon. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Dorman of Tahoka.

Foreign land investments

According to preliminary totals, Texas is the leading target of foreign investors in U.S. farm land. Tony T. Dechant, President of the National Farmers Union, reported here today.

Speaking at the County Barn, at a session sponsored by Farmers Union county organizations of the Northern Panhandle area, Dechant said that about 9% of the foreign investments in U.S. farm land involved Texas properties and that a majority of the acquisitions have taken place during the past three or four years.

Dechant said the alien investment information is based on the first returns under the Foreign Agricultural Investment Disclosure Act. Foreign investors, who had an interest in U.S. farm land as of February 1, 1979, when the law became effective, were required to disclose such holdings to the county ASCS Office in which the land is situated. Investors acquiring an interest in U.S. farm property after February 1, or hereafter, have 90 days within which to make the disclosure. Dechant said that a recent general accounting office (GAO) spot survey of 148 counties in 10 states also revealed some disturbing data on alien investment in Texas agriculture.

The average price paid by foreign investors for Texas farm land was about $250 an acre or hereafter, have 90 days higher than the average paid by domestic purchasers in the same counties, he related.

An alarming percentage of the alien owners—about 20%—were in the process of changing land use, GAO reported, for example, from range land to cropland in Texas.

Only about 12% of the foreign investors, reported in the GAO study, participated in USDA Soil Conservation activities and other farm programs.

Dechant said that the GAO Report reveals that a high proportion of foreign purchases is being concealed through the notorious Caribbean Tax Haven, the Netherlands Antilles. The report says that about 36% nationally and about 40% of Texas transactions are so handled, to conceal ultimate ownership and to obtain a virtual federal tax-free status.

DRIVELINE

KEEP IT CLEAN — a dirty, clogged air cleaner can rob you of precious gas. Engines use 14 to 15 times more air than gas by weight. A dirty, clogged air filter causes engines to burn more gas. Check the air filter by holding it up to a light. If you can't see light through it, replace it. Regular oil filter replacement and properly inflated tires can also contribute significantly.

THE DON'TS OF DRIVING:

Don't drive with your foot on the brake. It's surprising how many people do this unconsciously. It makes your engine work much harder.

Don't gun your engine when starting. Jackrabbit starts at intersections eat up gas.

Don't drive faster than the speed limit. Cars get 21 percent more gas mileage at 55 than cars going at 70. That's two extra gallons in every ten.

Don't idle that engine. Cars waste about a quart of gas for every 15 minutes of idling.

Car roof racks loaded with baggage cause severe wind resistance, which costs up to 17 percent more gas usage. If the rack is necessary, pack your items in a wedge shape, putting the smaller ones up front and the larger ones in the back.

When driving at high speeds, keep your windows up if weather permits. Windows that are rolled down cause aerodynamic drag and a decreased gas mileage. In fact, on long trips lowered windows may cause as much loss as a car air conditioner. For short trips and everyday driving, though, air conditioners are a significant drag on mileage.

BETTER HABITS - BETTER HEALTH

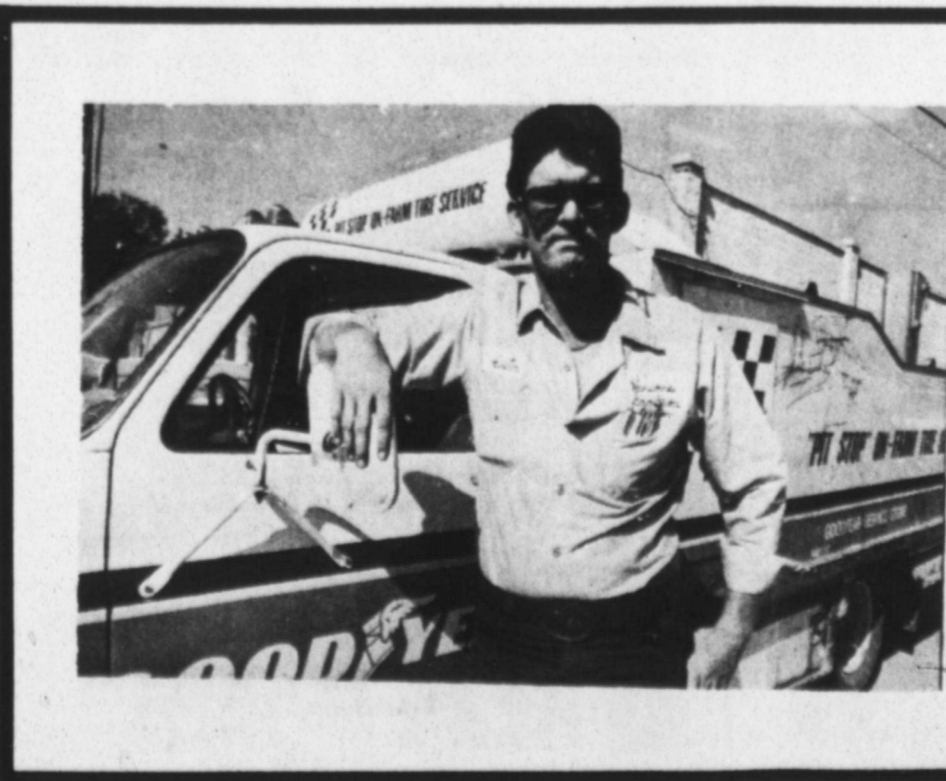

Many kitchen accidents occur when consumers use poor work habits or fail to read and save manufacturers' use and care instructions and thus misuse kitchen devices.

With the variety of kitchen equipment and appliances available today, it's most important to read use and care instructions carefully. For example, never use heat-resistant glass ovenware on top of the range or under the broiler.

When using a microwave oven, check the manual to see what cooking accessories and materials can and cannot be used.

Don't overload electrical wiring by plugging too many appliances into one circuit. Replace or repair frayed or broken cords.
