ASCS report

During late May and June, many Texas farmers and ranchers will receive a crop or livestock questionnaire from Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service or will be personally interviewed by the Service's field staff. The information gathered through the questionnaire and interviews provides the basis for determining the acreage devoted to the various crops and midyear livestock numbers for the state of Texas and for each county. All individual farm and ranch information is kept confidential, and only state and county summaries become part of the final published estimate.

Emergency Feed Program

This is an ongoing program whereby a producer may file an Emergency Application at any time he thinks his own production of livestock feed has suffered at least a 40% loss.

1978 Loans

May 31, 1979 is the final date for producers to request price support loans on eligible 1978 crop corn, sorghum and soybeans.

Farm Program Signup

The 1979 Farm Program Signup ended April 30, and we have been told there will be no extension. We would like to express our appreciation to each of you for your patience and understanding during the final days of signup. About 89% of farms in the county with established NCA's signed an intention to participate in the program.

Reserve Release of Wheat

The National average market price for wheat has reached the release level. Farmers with wheat in the grain reserve program may repay their loans without payment of the early redemption charge. Repayment amounts shall include principal, applicable interest and any unused storage. Storage is earned through the date of repayment.

Release will continue through June 29 when prices will be reviewed to determine whether release should be continued or stopped.

U.I.L. grows as school participate

The current energy shortage apparently does not apply to Texas high school students involved in University Interscholastic League activities.

Clarendon High School students were no exception to the increase in numbers of participating persons. The events they entered showed much effort had been used by the coaches and students in the literary and academic activities where good showings were made by most of the participants and a number made it to the quarter and semi finals and a few all the way to state, for the contests.

Participating in the athletic events is for some students the high point of the year's athletic program, an there are those who participate in athletic and other events also.

Coaches for literary, academic, music, and athletic events in the Clarendon schools should be commended for the dedication they have evidenced as they helped prepare their students for the UIL events, and offered encouragement or consolation as the case might be.

Participation in the athletic, literary and academic, and music programs reached record highs in 1978-79, reinforcing the long-standing contention that one of two graduating seniors in Texas has taken part in a UIL activity during his high school career.

"Certainly, the UIL has had its problems the past year, with the numerous court cases and occasional one-sided press coverage," said Dr. Bailey Marshall, League director. "But I would be remiss to emphasize the negative and overlook the position aspects of our programs."

"More students were involved in UIL activities this past year than ever before and this participation by students on an equal basis has been and remains our ultimate goal. This is the reason the UIL exists," he added.

Across the board, participation by schools remained stable, with the exception of girls basketball, which increased by 55 schools. Football, the support and counsel of their girls volleyball, boys basketball, local patrons, have built the UIL swimming and track and field into the most outstanding organization on a per-school participation of its kind."

Individual participation, however, continued its upward surge, with more than 42,000 playing football, 30,000 and 23,000 in boys and girls track respectively, and 23,000 and 19,000 in boys and girls basketball respectively.

Elsewhere, participation in boys baseball neared the 16,000 mark, while more than 20,000 took part in boys and girls tennis. Approximately 8,000 participated in boys golf and 4,000 in girls golf. Swimming figures reached 3,500 for the boys and 2,500 for the girls, while cross country boys and girls totals sped near the 600 plus mark.

In the UIL music program, some 71,000 took part in choral competition while 40,000 participated in the solo and ensemble contest, and a whopping 215,000 joined bands and orchestras in UIL contests.

Participation in the UIL literary and academic contests was equally as impressive.

"The University Interscholastic League embraces more than a half-million participants and anytime your working with a program having the scope this one has, you must operate under a system of uniformly enforced rules and regulations."

Dr. Marshall said. "The participation by students on an equal basis has been and remains our ultimate goal. This is the reason the UIL exists," he added.

Acne, an adolescent problem

Adolescence is a difficult time. A problem with pimples can make it worse. Affecting persons from the early teens sometimes through the mid-30's, acne can be a serious medical problem. Left untreated severe cases can produce pitted scarring, the Texas Medical Association says.

During puberty, oil glands in the skin enlarge and become more active. Testosterone, a hormone common to both sexes but more abundant in males, causes this activity. These glands empty onto the skin's surface through pores and special channels called follicles. The more numerous the glands, the more prone an area is to acne.

If oil traveling to the surface breaks through its channel wall, the surrounding skin is irritated. This causes what are commonly called "pimples," "zits" and "blackheads." These occur mainly on the face, back, neck, chest and shoulders.

Blackheads are thought by some to be pores clogged by dirt. Instead, they are channels or pores filled with dried and discolored oil, bacteria and skin tissue. With an opening on the surface, they seldom become inflamed. But whiteheads, without wide external openings, trap material under the surface. When these rupture or become inflamed, knots or lumps can form.

hygiene habits, by contagious bacterial infections, by unhealthy sexual practices, or by strenuous athletics.

Acne may be controlled but not cured. Many non-prescription creams and soaps are of some benefit. But persistent acne should be treated early by a doctor. Treatments will vary according to the type and severity of the case. Preparations which reduce oiliness and cause mild peeling often are prescribed. These, available in skin tones, mask blemishes while helping to control acne.

In severe cases, doctors may open inflamed lesions. Attempts by the individual may cause inflammation and scarring. Physicians also may prescribe antibiotics to reduce bacteria in channels. Estrogens, female sex hormones, sometimes are prescribed for females to decrease the size and output of the oil glands. Ultraviolet light and sunlamp treatments also are effective at times.

Gas lighting and fuel use act

Final rules prohibiting installation of outdoor gas lighting fixtures and preventing gas distribution companies from providing natural gas for outdoor lighting have been adopted by the U.S. Department of Energy, it was reported today by G. Dan Rambo, Regional Representative for DOE.

These rules implement section 402 of the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act, signed by the President on November 9, 1978. The Act prohibits gas outdoor lighting installations as of the date the Act was signed and outlines procedures and dates for curtailing gas supplies for outdoor lighting purposes.

The authority and responsibility for administering the prohibitions will be delegated to the appropriate state regulatory authorities. In most cases, this will be the state public utility commission.

Residential and municipal customers who were using natural gas for outdoor lighting before the Act was signed may continue receiving gas until January 1, 1982.

A proposed rule banning outdoor lighting was issued February 13, 1979, and hearings on the proposed rule were held in Washington March 22.

Memorial services held for Mrs. Martin

Memorial services for Mrs. Elenor Martin, were conducted on the Clarendon Rebecca Lodge by deputy Clara Hammond, at 8 p.m. Monday May 28.

The charter was draped by N.C. Lee Welch and her supporter Inez Skinner. Helen McCarty placed flowers at the altar. The service was closed with a prayer by Lee Welch. Twelve members were in attendance.

How to become a truck driver

Of all the jobs in the trucking industry, perhaps none can match the romance associated with driving.

While the lure of the open road and the promise of new places over the next hill are exciting, in reality, truck drivers have to be some of the most responsible people in the industry. When a motor carrier looks for new drivers, it wants mature, reliable people who display good judgment.

These qualities are important to the employer because he (or she) is entrusting a vehicle that may be worth $50,000 -- and a cargo often worth twice that -- to a driver.

The U.S. Department of Transportation also sets minimum qualifications for interstate truck drivers. A driver must be 21 years old and pass a physical examination. The physical requirements include good hearing, 20/40 vision without glasses, normal use of arms and legs--unless a waiver is obtained -- a normal blood pressure.

Some lucky young people learn to drive a truck from friends or relatives. Others, who grow up in rural areas, learn by doing some kind of farm work.

If you're going to learn on your own, first prepare yourself as much as possible. Take a driving training course (for automobiles) and auto mechanics courses. Check community and technical colleges in your area to see if they offer truck driving courses. Study the federal and state truck driving regulations.

You may also want to check out one of the many private truck driver training schools throughout the country. Some are very good, some not, but most are expensive. An average tuition may be $1,400 for a six-week course.

Some trucking companies have their own driver training courses. They like to have drivers familiar with their operations and procedures. Remember, before you sign anything, consider: No one can guarantee that you will actually get a job. If you live in rural area, there may not be any jobs available nearby. You may have to move hundreds of miles from home.

If you are lucky enough to become a truck driver, you can expect to make about $498 a week as a long-haul truck driver, about $9.33 an hour as a local truck driver.

golf quiz

The game of golf and its playing implements have been greatly refined and modified since Scottish shepherds first started hitting fleeces-lined sheepskin balls around pastures shortly before Columbus discovered America.

In order to conform with the Rules of Golf, all golf equipment now must meet standards set by the United States Golf Association, the game's governing body. One of the regulated items is the ball.

Q. What is the maximum allowable weight and minimum size of a golf ball?

ANSWER: Under USGA standards, the weight of the ball cannot exceed 1.620 ounces. The ball must be at least 1.680 inches in diameter. The USGA constantly tests new balls, clubs and other equipment in order to preserve the traditional character of the game. Equipment is tested by experts in aerodynamics, physics and other specialties on sophisticated apparatus.

The response from our young readers has been very good in regard to our Summer Reading program. Approximately forty children had enrolled the first week.

Congressman

Collins says

Congress and the federal government are the major causes of the energy shortage in America today, Congressman Jim Collins of Texas said. "The energy shortage is real and it is government-caused," he said. "When the government decided to regulate the oil industry in 1973 and put price controls on domestically produced oil, that is when the energy shortage began. Price controls are only on one commodity -- oil and gas. Government price controls placed a limit on domestic oil at $5.50 a barrel. Arab OPEC oil then increased to $14.50 a barrel. As price controls took effect, domestic production decreased and our imports of oil increased," Collins said. The Texas congressman noted that since 1973, when Congress placed price controls on the oil industry in the U.S., domestic production dropped from 9.2 million barrels a day

(mbd) in 1973 to 7.6 mbd in 1978. In 1973, the U.S. imported $3 billion of oil and in 1978 we imported $42 billion of oil. "The way to solve the energy shortage in America is to completely deregulate oil and gas now. We need to get the politicians and bureaucrats out of the energy business because the way government approaches a problem is to create a new agency."

"In 1977, President Carter asked for and Congress created the Department of Energy with a $5 billion budget. In two years DOE's budget has more than doubled in size to $11 billion, and then have not produced one drop of oil."

"As a matter of fact, this bureaucratic nightmare's budget is more than what the entire oil and gas industry in the U.S. spent for producing our energy," Collins said.

Gasohol bill passes

The Texas Senate passed legislation by a vote of 28-0 legalizing the production of alcohol in Texas for fuels. House Bill 1986 authored by State Representative Bill Keese (D-Somerville) and sponsored in the Texas Senate by Valley State Senator Raul Longoria (D-Edinburg) is legislation vital to the development of alcohol fuel facilities, such as gasohol, in Texas.

The legislation creates a new permit in the Alcoholic Beverage Code allowing for the production of gasohol. Currently, the alcohol portion of gasohol has been prohibited in the State for more than forty years. Under a changing energy situation, the law presents a barrier to the development of gasohol in Texas. Already gasohol shortages are being experienced in some parts of the nation. Texas is currently experiencing some diesel fuel shortages.

The legislation was one of two bills by Keese to remove existing institutional barriers to gasohol. House Bill 2068 which would allow the construction of large-scale gasohol facilities in Texas met strong opposition from the Liquor Lobby in the State Capitol. Current Texas law requires that a holder of a liquor permit be a Texas citizen or if a corporation, that the corporation be 51% Texas-owned. Holders of beer permits are exempted from this provision.

"The Liquor Lobby just did not realize that they were standing squarely in front of gasohol's future in Texas", Keese related. "They learned the error of their ways though. We had almost every agricultural commodity association and farm organization in the State behind this bill."

Keese stated that the Lobby relented upon a strong showing and counter-lobby by the agricultural community.

The Texas Senate amended House Bill 1986 to include the very important elements in Keese's other legislation, House Bill 2068.

"I must say that no one person or group was responsible for passage of this gasohol legislation. It was a real community effort."

Agricultural Commissioner Reagan Brown had previously endorsed both pieces of legislation and worked behind the scenes for passage of the legislation, as did Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale.

"Had we not been able to amend HB 1986 to include HB 2068," Keese stated, "we would have lost a $15 million federal loan guarantee for a pilot gasohol facility in the Rio Grande Valley." The Valley gasohol pilot plant is expected to generate 470 jobs in the community of Santa Rosa, Texas, $330,000 in State and local taxes, and $26.5 million to the local economy, according to data supplied by the Texas Industrial Commission.

The Commission's director, Gerald Brown, further reports that should ten percent of the total motor fuels market in Texas become gasohol, the impact on Texas would amount to 6,000 workers employed directly in gasohol and would require 79 additional gasohol facilities the same size as the Valley plant.

Mr. Brown further stated that although "there is no short term solution to the current energy problem, the development of an in-state alcohol plant and a gasohol program would help diversify the Texas industrial economy, create stable employment for the state farm community and provide a domestic source of clean energy." "Furthermore, substantial benefits would accrue to the State and Nation in terms of reduced reliance on imported crude and reduced balance of payments on the foreign trade account."

NEWS OF SAFETY

How To Prevent Spills

Safe, efficient operation of a riding power mower can keep you from riding for a fall, and your grass from rising to a fault, if you take these safety tips from the experts at the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute:

1. Be thoroughly familiar with the owner's manual. Know where all controls are before you climb into the driver's seat.
2. Never leave your mower without turning off the engine and disconnecting the spark plug wire.
3. Never allow another person to ride with you.
4. Be sure children and animals are kept out of the area you will be mowing.
5. Take extra care when you back up. Look behind you to see what you may be running over.
6. Mow up and down slopes rather than from side to side to maintain greater stability. Try not to stop or start on slopes.
7. Cut your speed when going down slopes, or around sharp turns, to prevent tipping or losing control. Remember, a mower is neither a toy nor a hot rod.
8. Avoid public highways and watch out for ditches, creeks and holes in the yard. Keeping your mind on the job can keep you at the wheel, and your lawn at a beautiful level.

Statistics show that the average American is not eating "too much" candy, or even "too much" sugar. Americans consume about 16.9 percent of their average yearly caloric intake in sugar. This is within the accepted Recommended Dietary Allowances set by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences' National Research Council.

V.A. information

If you're a veteran planning to enroll in or return to school under the GI Bill, Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office, has a useful check list to help keep those VA education benefits coming regularly:
Double check your choice of courses to be certain they will count toward your educational objective.
Register early. VA and your school need time to process your registration so that GIBill checks can be started your way promptly.

Avoid dropping classes after registration.
File for your GI Bill benefits as early as possible.
If you have to interrupt your education, notify VA promptly and advise the date you expect to return to classes.
If you change addresses, notify VA promptly. Of course, you'll want to notify the school and the Post Office, also.
Submit transcripts to the college admissions and records office immediately after application is made. This will speed up the school's certification to the Veterans administration.
If you have any questions about the GI Bill or eligibility for it, contact the nearest VA regional office, county service officer, or a service officer from one of the national veterans organizations.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: When I bought my car, the title was registered in my husband's name. Now I am considering a divorce and my husband says he might take it away from me. Is there any way I can prevent this?

A: The property accumulated by a husband and wife during marriage will be divided in the divorce decree. The judge has full freedom to award possession of any property bought during a marriage to either the husband or wife, regardless of who paid for the property. If the judge awards you the car, you could have the title changed simply by sending a certified copy of the divorce decree to your county tax assessor.

Q: Does the law allowing you to turn right on a red light also allow you to turn left onto a one-way street?

A: Yes, you may turn left onto a one-way street after stopping at a red light, if you are in the far left lane of a one-way street. The "right turn on red" law, however, allows cities to exempt individual intersections from the law by posting a sign prohibiting turns on red lights. Also, this law does not give you the right-of-way when you turn on a red light — you still must wait for pedestrians and other traffic to clear before making your turn.

without the signature of the other spouse. A convenient means of assuring that there is no question concerning cashing the refund check is for both of you to take it to the bank, cash it, and divide the money before you leave the bank.

Q: If I fall behind in my car payments, does the loan company have to give me any kind of notice that they are going to come pick up my car for repossession?

A: No, your loan company is not required to notify you before it takes possession of your car. The law only requires that the car be removed in a peaceful manner and without the use of force. Before your car can be sold, you must be given 10 days notice of the time and place of the sale, and you must be advised of the amount of the cash lump sum payment necessary to retain your title and ownership, in case you wish to satisfy the creditor by paying off the balance owed on the car.

Q: If I buy a new mobile home, am I entitled to receive a warranty from the seller?

A: Yes. State law requires that new mobile homes and all appliances in the home must be covered by a one-year warranty delivered to you in writing by the seller at the time you sign the contract of sale. The warranty also requires the seller to correct any defects within a reasonable time after notification by you. If you have a consumer complaint concerning mobile homes or their warranties, you may contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office.

Former resident is buried at Weatherford

J. B. "Jake" Estes, former resident of Hall and Donley counties died May 15 at Weatherford, Texas, where funeral services were held Friday, May 18.

Jake Estes was born at Boyd, Texas March 13, 1914. His family moved to the Texas Panhandle when he was three years old.

Although Mr. Estes established a Memorial business some twenty years ago, which expanded to become the Estes Memorial Vase Corporation in Weatherford, he had served as a minister since 1954. For several years he pastored churches in the Weatherford-Ft. Worth area. Probably the most exhilarating experiences of Jake's ministry were realized during the two Evangelistic Airlifts he and his wife made with an all-denominational group to England and Sweden in 1964-1965. During the last five years he had served as a minister for the Texas Alcoholic and Narcotics Educational Program.

Mr. Estes is survived by his wife, Annie Marie "ANN"; one daughter, Mrs. Norma Jo Greenway, one son, Roy Dee Estes, both of Weatherford, and six grandsons; three sisters; Mrs. Juanita Dillon of Weatherford; Mrs. Jimmie Dickson of DeQueen, Arkansas; Mrs. Gladys Baten, and one brother, Bailey Estes both of Clarendon.

Pushbutton phones available

Touch Call (pushbutton) telephones are coming to Clarendon June 18, 1979, according to J. H. Davis, Memphis Division Manager for General Telephone.

"Touch Calling is an optional service that lets the customer push buttons instead of twirl a dial," Davis said. "The simplicity of the phone means fewer dialing errors are made, and calling is faster and easier."

Davis said equipment is being installed in the Clarendon telephone building that will provide the service beginning June 18.

He pointed out recent developments in equipment have made it possible to provide customers Touch Calling upon request at a reasonable cost. The new equipment uses little valuable switching center space and requires shorter installation time than was previously possible.

The new optional service will be available only to one-party business and residence customers for a one-time new or change-in-service charge and a small monthly charge which varies depending upon the style and number of telephones.

"Pushbutton telephones are the phones of the future as they are designed to work in complete harmony with the new generation of telephone equipment now being installed across the nation for both local and long distance services," Davis said.

"Customers can usually punch a seven-digit number in the time it takes to spin a nine on a conventional telephone."

The telephone company manager pointed out that in addition to the speed, convenience and accuracy, each Touch Calling button plays its own electronic musical note.

Get Your Room Air Conditioner Ready For Summer

As winter finally breaks her grip on most of the country, thousands of homeowners will begin the spring ritual of cleaning, raking, fertilizing and so on, getting ready for summer.

But many will forget one of the most important steps in preparing for summer... getting the air conditioner ready.

It's not surprising. Probably, the moment the air conditioner is turned on, it will whirr to life, blowing cool, dehumidified air into the room. It probably has for years. But if it doesn't, you're going to find it difficult to get a good night's sleep on that first muggy night of the year.

So, for those who do not wish to risk a sleepless night later, here are some tips from General Electric, one of the nation's largest producers of room air conditioners.

Turn the air conditioner on. Check to see that you're getting an unobstructed flow of cool air into the room. Be sure that curtains or furniture will not block the flow of air.

Be sure the filter is clean. Take the filter out and clean it if necessary. This is an important step to assure that the unit operates as efficiently as possible. If you don't know how to get the filter out, consult your use and care book.

Check the coils, inside and out. Dirt accumulation on the coils tends to reduce efficiency also. This is most prone to happen on the outside coils. If the coils are covered with dirt, or if dirt has accumulated within the next two months.

"Airline deregulation is currently being hailed as a model for a proposal to deregulate the trucking industry," said Bennett C. Whitlock, Jr., president of the American Trucking Association, Inc. "But close attention should be paid to airline deregulation's unfavorable and unpublicized impact. It's a harbinger of what's ahead if the deregulators have between the fins, air will not be able to carry away the heat efficiently. The unit will have to work harder and you'll have to pay more in electrical costs. (This type of dirt accumulation calls for steam cleaning by an appliance service technician.)

Trim bushes and shrubs away from air conditioner. Bushes, shrubbery or any other obstacle around the outside of the unit also will impede the heat exchange process, causing the unit to function below par.

Seal around the air conditioner. Be sure there are no air leaks around the air conditioner to let in the hot, muggy summer air. The less heat and humidity the air conditioner has to remove from a room, the less it has to operate, saving you electricity and money.

What if it doesn't work? If the unit will not operate at all, first check the electrical system. Be sure the unit is plugged in firmly. A partially loosened plug sometimes will not make electrical connection. If all looks okay there, check the fuse or circuit breakers. If they're okay and it still won't start, then it's time to call in a technician.

What if you get no cold air? If the unit operates, but does not cool the air, even after running for four or five minutes, there could be several explanations but any of them will require the services of a technician. In that case, call your factory technician so you can correct the problem in your air conditioner before it becomes a problem in your household.

their way with the trucking industry." Following airline freight deregulation in November 1977, most of the air carriers raised cargo rates by an average of 10 percent. This was followed in January 1979 by another increase of about 10 percent. On a compounded basis, the figures show a 21 percent hike in rates in just 14 months.

Profile of aging in America

Since the Older Americans Act was enacted in 1965, the United States has come a long way in recognizing and meeting needs of its older people. The 1965 Act resulted in the establishment of the U.S. Administration on Aging in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and of State units on aging in every State. These were the first elements of the national network on aging. In 1969 the Act was amended, providing for areawide tests of social service delivery to older people in comprehensive, coordinated plans. The 1973 amendments to the Act created the Area Agencies on Aging which now operate in about 600 areas covering the United States and the nutrition program which provides hot meals and social outlets to persons over 60. The 1973 amendments also authorized funding for senior center building alterations and renovations. In October 1978 President Carter signed comprehensive amendments to the Act which-

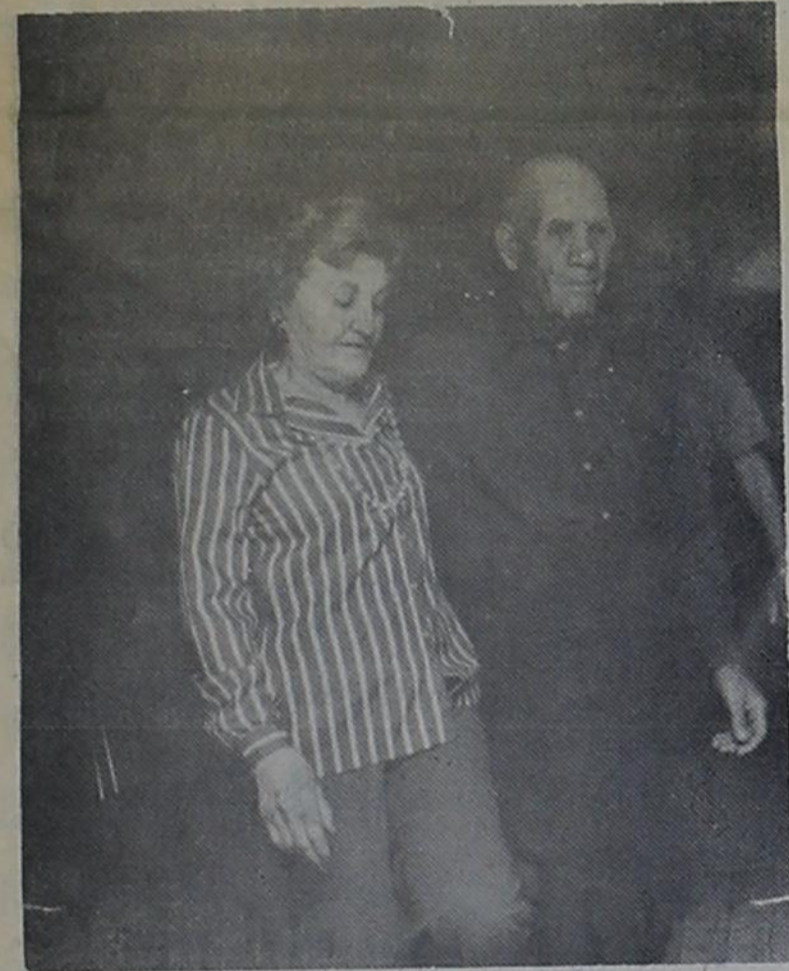

- *Bring together all service programs-Social Services, Nutrition Programs and Multi-purpose Senior Centers-under a single title of the Act, giving stronger, simplified management and reporting.
- *Provide for stronger grouping and coordination of scattered community social and other services. Each community must designate a focal point for delivery of comprehensive services.
- *Strengthen the preference or priority given to the neediest in delivery of social and other services.
- *Give the Administration on Aging and the Aging network more active roles in long-term services and care. The network built around the Area Agencies on Aging will play a leading role in development of community long-term care facilities, inside and outside of institutions.

have multiplied across the years. In the past six years the administration on Aging's budget has increased tenfold, from $45 million to $500 million. Other major programs affecting older people, Medicare and Social Security for example, have also greatly increased. Since the nutrition program started in 1973, it has grown to more than 10,000 localities or meal sites which in 1978 served about 135 million hot, nutritious meals. About 17 percent of the meals were home-delivered to shut-ins. Social Services delivery to older persons has approximately doubled over the past two years. The broad variety of services-transportation, home chores, home health care, information and referral, legal counseling, home repair, escort, outreach, and others-are designed to allow frail and partially disabled elderly persons to lead independent lives in their homes and communities and avoid premature institutionalization. Total number of persons/units of service jumped from about 6 million in fiscal year 1976 to 11 million in FY

1977 and reached 13.8 million in FY 1978. More than 2,000 senior centers have been assisted in their building programs by grants from the Administration on Aging. Nursing home ombudsman services which protect the rights and interests of nursing home residents have been stimulated by Administration on Aging grants for the past four years. More than 200 are underway across the country. Advocacy and legal assistance to the elderly are another main focus of the Administration on Aging. AoA has awarded $3 million to 47 States to stimulate advocacy efforts on behalf of older people and is establishing five regional resource centers and a national center to provide training and technical assistance in rulemaking, drafting of legislation, impact litigation and related areas. New linkages between the Administration on Aging and other Federal agencies will yield increased services for older people: A recently-signed agreement with the Farmers Home Administration establishes a demonstration program to improve housing for people in rural areas who need an assisted residential living environment. With Labor Department an agreement focuses on increasing services and employment opportunities for older persons under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) as with the Health Services Administration (HSA) a new agreement will expand and improve the health care status of unserved and underserved elderly by linking the aging network with HSA facilities.

"PUT YOUR LITTLE FOOT?"

Health and aging

"Better health through better care" is the theme of Older Americans Month this May. Health is the key to active, independent, productive lives for older people, who comprise the fastest-growing age group within the American population, according to the Administration on Aging, the Federal agency which funds nutrition programs, community services and senior centers reaching millions of people. AoA is the principal advocate in the Federal government for America's 34 million persons 60 years over. Health for older Americans covers broad areas and measures which everyone should be aware of. Major factors in the health of each individual are food, exercise, personal hygiene, housing, living conditions, avoidance of excess alcohol, drugs and tobacco, control of stress and tensions and, highly important to health of the aged, accident prevention. The great increase in longevity now causing a dramatic aging of the American population is itself largely the result of general improvement in health and living conditions in the United States during this century. More than 25 years have been added to the average American life since 1900. And this increase in life expectancy from 47 years in 1900 to 73.2 years in 1977 has added a whole new generation of living people to American society. This is one of the great human achievements of the century. But it poses a major challenge to make the added years a benefit to older people themselves and to American society. America now has the richest talent pool of able older citizens that any nation has ever produced. And they are only the first generation to benefit from major social improvements over the past half century-better educational opportunities, better health care and greater economic prosperity. Each succeeding generation will be better educated and more highly skilled, better able to serve society. Attainment of the highest possible level of health is essential to unlocking the potential benefits to society represented by this still largely untapped storehouse of knowledge and wisdom. It is the key to realizing the highest possible performance during the years that have been added to each life. Most older people are vigorous, alert and independent. Their active, productive lives are invalidating the stereotypes of old age. More and more Americans now actually look forward to their older years as a time of personal fulfillment and freedom from responsibilities and constraints. For the first time, most people can aspire to lead active, useful, healthy lives into the 70's and 80's. There are now about 13 million Americans over 65 who are vigorous, independent and able to participate in the mainstream of American life without assistance. They constitute about 60 percent of the over-65 population. About 40 percent of the over-65 group do have limitations imposed by chronic conditions, physiological, or suffer from poverty conditions. They total 9 to 10 million persons, and about 3.5 to 4 million of this group have limited mobility and are homebound or at least need assistance in moving about to perform ordinary life tasks. About one million older Americans reside in nursing homes or other chronic care facilities. Studies of nursing homes show a large number of residents could live outside in the community if adequate home services were available. The Administration on Aging has been helping communities build such services and coordi-

ate them. U.S. Commissioner on Aging Robert Benedict has said that comprehensive community services ought to be for older people what education systems have been for children, a rich mixture of public and private services including education, recreation, senior centers, congregate meals, transportation and escort services, home-delivered meals, in-home health and homemaker services. The system would include community centers where older people can receive services and give services to others, and a variety of community living arrangements for people who need some support they cannot get at home. An essential part of the continuum of services to older people would be quality nursing home care, opening out of the community to allow residents access to the social, health, recreational and other services of the community. A prominent researcher, Josef P. Hrachovec, calls exercise the closest thing we have to an anti-aging pill. He states that exercise acts like a miracle drug. Ironically, fully 45 percent of adult Americans don't engage in physical exercise. See your doctor for an exercise regimen.

get a home. An essential part of the continuum of services to older people would be quality nursing home care, opening out of the community to allow residents access to the social, health, recreational and other services of the community. Denture wearers are discovering new security with a denture adhesive seal called Sea-Bond. Older Americans are the fastest-growing segment of the American population. Last year, their numbers increased at a rate 2.9 times faster than the under-60 population. Since 1900, the over-60's have increased four times as fast as the under-60's. Today, Older Americans number 34 million whereas there were 4.9 million in 1900. Today, one of every seven persons in America is 60 or over-it will be one in every four Americans in 2035, if projections hold true. From a young country, America is becoming an older country. What does this mean for American society today and tomorrow? The increase in elderly population increases the incidence of disability, sickness, isolation and low income. The loss of physical health, death of important persons, loss of income, reduced social status are all facts of life for the aged. Between 3 million and 3 1/2 million Older Americans today are on the verge of losing their independent way of life in their homes and communities. They need help in coping with some aspects of their lives if they are to remain independent and not join the million Older Americans already in nursing homes. Many of these persons in need of help are among the very old, whose numbers are increasing fastest of all. People 60 years old and more are seven times more numerous today than in 1900. But the 75-plus group is 10 times larger. And the 85-plus group is 17 times bigger. Increasing age brings increasing problems, as every one knows. A Pennsylvania Welfare Department survey measured problems of mobility in old age and found Twenty-two percent of persons 65 to 69 years old reported difficulty going up and down stairs. Thirty-five percent of those between 75 and 79 reported difficulty. For those over 80 years, more than 50 percent reported difficulty. The United States is at last developing a knowledge base about the social and medical needs of older people living outside institutions, an effort led by the Administration on Aging of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Some communities are developing networks of comprehensive, coordinated social services which already significantly help many older persons remain independent. But such services as yet hardly begin to meet the scope and scale of the problems facing the millions of elderly. Studies of institutional care conclude that up to one-third of the million elderly persons already in institutions might be able to live in the community if support services were available. The prospect of more adequate support services in the communities is particularly important to the 3.5 million frail and vulnerable elderly. All would prefer to stay in their homes, near their families, in their communities. Maintaining frail older people outside nursing homes can mean significant savings of public funds. More than 40 percent of all Medicaid expenditures are for long-term care in nursing homes. The specter of losing independence and entering a nursing home is particularly haunting to many of the 8 million Americans who live alone, the great majority of them women. One of the most striking demographic developments of recent decades is the trend toward elderly living alone. The increase in elderly persons living alone has been running three times as fast as the growth in the size of the elderly population. Today one Older American in four lives alone. Almost four times as many older women as men live alone. (Women marry men older than they are, generally, and enjoy almost eight years longer life span.) Most women can expect to be widows. And their chances of remarrying are not good. In 1930 there were two widows for every widower. Now the ration is five to one. About two-thirds of all widows live alone. And their incomes are generally low. One-fourth live below the Federal poverty index. Elderly people who are alone, functionally disabled, very old, isolated and on low income should receive the highest priority of the human service delivery system. The objective is to maintain their independence, which they alone can no longer assure even with family help unless they get assistance. They want to continue to live their lives in their homes and neighborhoods. The community is the key to assuring a decent life for them. That is why it is so important for the whole community to be involved directly in the planning, management and administration of human service programs for Older Americans.

If you are a worker, and delay collecting social security benefits before 65, you can get a special credit that will mean a larger benefit if you delay your retirement past 65. The credit adds one percent to your benefits for each year from age 65 to 72 in which you continue working. For more information, inquire at your local Social Security Administration office.

Collins - Callahan engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Collins and Glenn Callahan, all of Memphis, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Deborah Kay Callahan, to Bryan Eugene Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hill of Hedley, Memphis.

Miss Callahan was graduated from Memphis High School and attended WTSU her freshman year. Hill is a Hedley High School graduate and has attended WTSU for two years.

Cattle prices to be better

With a decline in cattle numbers, cattlemen can look for improved prices into the 1980-84 period, says a livestock marketing specialist.

Dr. Ed Uvacek with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says there are fewer cattle and calves on farms and ranches now than a year ago as well as fewer beef cows and replacement heifers.

"All this points to improved cattle prices for the next five years or so," believes Uvacek.

"Current forecasts predict a new cattle cycle with a few years of herd buildup, peaking in cattle numbers by 1985 or 86."

"Remember, however, that the cattle cycle is only numbers," reminds Uvacek. "In reality, it reflects the producer's reaction to profitability in the cattle business. Producers expand their herds when a profit is made or anticipated and decrease their herd size during periods of poor prices."

"At the bottom of the cycle, suppliers are usually low and prices improve. In turn, this stimulates producers to expand their herds. That's where we are now," contends the marketing specialist. "Eventually, there will be over-production, near the peak of the cycle, and prices will decline again."

Generally, cattle numbers are opposite to price levels, according to Uvacek. There is considerable lag, however, so the price and numbers cycles don't match evenly. "If 1979 does begin a new cycle, cattlemen should expect high prices on through about 1984 or 85," he predicts. "Prices will then decline somewhat as the new cycle peak approaches."

Production costs will continue to plague cattlemen, notes Uvacek. Even without a price decline, the cost-price squeeze will create severe economic problems for the cattlemen by the mid-1980's. Rapidly rising costs will force cattlemen to become more market oriented and more efficient. Production practices will have to yield to sound marketing decisions for maximum net returns.
