Hedley Cotten Festival next week

A dream has come true. Twentyeight years ago this October, the Hedley Cotten Festival was a dream of Bob Harris, Aubrey Lee Cherry, Oudie Messer, Clifford Johnson, Hobart Moffett, the late Charles Rains, Harrison Hall, Leon Reeves and many others.

Some of the officers and organizers for the Old Settlers of the Hedley Community were Mrs. Clyde Bridges, Tom and John Tate, the late Mrs. Ruby Watts Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Farris, Mill Mosley and many many others.

This celebration is sponsored jointly by the Hedley Lions Club and the Hedley Public Schools. The purpose was to give Thanks for the bountiful cotton crop of the Hedley farming community.

This part of the Donley County farming area has never had a complete failure in the past 28 years. There has only been one year when plans went astray and the parade had to be postponed for a day because of rain. Enthusiasm is as great today as it was for the first festival.

Bronchos to meet Childress Friday

The Clarendon Bronchos travel to Childress Friday night to take on the No. 2 state ranked Bobcats. They come into the game with a 4-0 record. Their victories have come against Quannah (14-0), Memphis (34-0), Paducah (47-0), and Wellington (32-7). The Bronchos are 2-1 with wins over Quannah (21-3) and Stinnett (53-14). Kick-off is set for 8:00 p.m.

Coach Allen's comments on Childress: The good thing about playing Childress is it makes you work on technique because they are so fundamentally sound. The key to us winning the ballgame will be our execution. We are physically ready after having the open date to work and be rested. The character of our kids will enable us to play a good ballgame. They are mentally prepared to give all they have.

Childress doesn't have the depth that they have had in the past. They will use 7 players both ways. Of course, they are led by QB Perry Morren (Sr. 200) on offense. Everyone knows he is an outstanding passer. He will throw to SE Clifton Cornish (Jr. 143), Flanker Rodger Hughes (Sr. 149), and utilize the backs out of the backfield some. Their running attack is led by Ralph Sims (Jr., 135) and Quentin Klepper (Jr., 168). On defense they do have some size Chuck Deyhle - $10 worth of gas; Betty and H. L. Hooten - needle point napkin rings and napkins and Lee Ann (Palmer) and Charlie Beverly, of Dallas, the Levi quilt.

Friends of the Library wish to thank everyone who worked to prepare for the Barn Dance and to all those who made it a success for the benefit of the Library.

This is the most ambitious event which has been undertaken for the library and the support of those interested persons is most appreciated.

Proposition 3, the Family Farm & Ranch Security Act

In contrast to all the talk of expansion in the "Sunbelt States", there is an exodus taking place in Texas. It is an exodus of family farmers who are leaving productive land because they are unable to cope with the inflationary costs and the heavy debt loads of a business which has become too risky for the average financial backer.

Lawmakers in Texas are trying to reverse this trend in order to protect the decades to come. Proposition 3, the Family Farm and Ranch Security Act, is an opportunity for voters to determine the future production of food and fiber.

Today, there are only 159,000 farms in Texas. That's 53,000 fewer than there were in 1970. And each year two to three thousand more farmers leave their land, mainly because of financial difficulties and pressures to liquidate their land holdings to settle production debts.

When foreign investors, developers, and land speculators drive land prices to record levels, it is oftentimes the only practical choice for a farmer to sell his land, and in many cases turn around and lease the land, becoming a tenant. Because of those same prohibitive land costs, it is difficult if not impossible for young farmers to purchase a small tract of land and find a beginning in agriculture.

As a result, not only is Texas losing a number of farmers, but the average age of farmers is 59 years old and increasing each year. Likewise, there is an increase in tenancy on Texas farms. Farm land is rapidly falling into the hands of absentee landlords, and instead of new farmers in Texas, an almost feudal system of tenancy is developing.

It's been the history of our democracy that a large base of private ownership not only brings about more competition, but also creates more productivity. Private, individual ownership also generates pride and a belief in stewardship to maintain property for future generations. The Family Farm and Ranch Security Act is a program of state guaranteed loans to aid entry level farmers obtain land for the production of food and fiber. It is an important public policy, a concept that the State of Texas should use its natural resources in the wisest manner and preserve them for decades to come. Legislators have decided that it is imperative to keep family farmers living, working and producing on the arable lands of the state.

More than a financial program for Texas farmers, Proposition 3 is a public policy drafted to protect the future supply of food and fiber. It is a policy that supports the concept that our limited supply of prime farm land should stay in the hands of farmers so that every consumer will have a secure future of adequate food supplies.

Texas is a state that is enjoying growth in its economy. It is also a state with an ever growing population. But even with expansion of business and commerce, Texas remains a state which is dependent on its agricultural economy and trade. Saving the foundation of the economy, the family farm system, is an urgent concern for us all. We urge that you vote YES on Proposition 3, November 6.

Is your church drifting away from you?

Be sure to watch this new television series and find out:

October 7

What to do when your church leaves you.

We often think in terms of people leaving the church, but today the fact is that many churches are leaving the people. Many twentieth-century churches have cut themselves loose from the foundations which for generations have given them a broadly Christian perspective. Are you one of the many who has sometimes felt that your church is leaving you?

When the tenets of naturalism and rationalism were applied to the Bible, they ruled out such things as the miracles recorded in the Bible. There was the historic struggle to demythologize the Bible. You stand on solid ground in that belief along with some of the greatest minds of the ages. To be a Christian in the New Testament sense does not obligate one to deny his intelligence in any way. Rather, the approach of genuine Christian faith can in fact stand the challenge of all honest intellectual investigation. There is no need to fear any question, for there are answers to all man's inquiries.

Again Paul warns the Galatian Christians, "But even if we, or an angel from heaven, should preach to you a gospel contrary to that which we preached to you, let him be accursed. As we have said before, so say I now again, if anyone is preaching to you a gospel contrary to that which you received, let him be accursed" (Galatians 1:8,9). Prayerfully read the book of Acts

As a "filtering down" of the modern liberal ideas occurs, a paralyzing frustration sets in among the people. Many of the churches have accepted the naturalistic, rationalistic views and have adapted their programs of work only to temporal matters, leaving spiritual, eternal matters behind. As a result the large denominations have turned primarily to social action, rather than to evangelism and spiritual concerns. Yet, all the while, there is some kind of token homage paid to some of the old language.

Is there an alternative today? Is there some guidance for those who seek the face of God in a secular world and in some cases a secular church? The answer is a clear affirmative.

To claim a complete solution to a multi-sided problem such as the one we've just been discussing may not be immediately possible. However it is possible to suggest the path on which to move toward a solution. The fact that you can relate to the problem of a "departing church" reveals that you have some sort of a belief in the authenticity and authority of the Word of God, the Bible. You stand on solid ground in that belief along with some of the greatest minds of the ages. To be a Christian in the New Testament sense does not obligate one to deny his intelligence in any way. Rather, the approach of genuine Christian faith can in fact stand the challenge of all honest intellectual investigation. There is no need to fear any question, for there are answers to all man's inquiries.

Prayerfully read the book of Acts noticing the life of the early church. Attempt to read without regard for the traditions you have received, to read as if reading for the first time what the church should be like. Then begin to reconstruct for yourself a profile of what the church should be today.

With God in the picture as loving heavenly Father, as creator and sustainer of the universe and as guide for man through the maze of life, all those "maybes" of which we spoke a few moments ago are changed into certainties. It is pretty obvious that modern man cannot make it alone. Continually we are made to realize that we need God and His church on His terms.

Our hope is that your decision will be to begin today, even now. In simple faith like that of those early converts in Acts, commit your life in its totality to Jesus Christ. Turning from an old life lived in step with the world, submit your will and your entire being to Jesus by being baptized into Him. Be resurrected to a new life of action in His body, the church, and thereby join the struggle for the renewal of the simple faith of New Testament times.

Health Hints for today

Sinus-This is one of the worst years for hay fever, sinus and asthma. Our early rains produced an abundant crop for weeds, so avoid them if possible. If you can't then use an antihistamine like Chlortrimeton or Teldrin. If these make you sleepy use Sudafed. For those who have severe symptoms you can use Contac, A.R.M., Dristan, Triaminic, etc., if you don't have high blood pressure or thyroid disease. One simple remedy you can all use is a warm, weak salt water nasal wash in the morning and again at night. These nasal symptoms will persist until we have a good frost or freeze.

Influenza-We have had a minor epidemic of intestinal flu, with nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea. For most of us this can be controlled with simple remedy's like Donnagel or Pabizol with Paregoric, and similar medications. One caution, in the very young, this illness can be persistent and hard to eradicate. It should only last two or three days. There is evidence that this is now a nationwide epidemic, but it is a self limited and of short duration. My best advice is simply to avoid those persons with the intestinal flu.

Immunizations-Although we have seen a few cases of Type A influenza in the 8 to 16 year olds we don't anticipate an epidemic. The Center For Disease Control anticipates sporadic influenza outbreaks this winter. They recommend immunizations for those with 1) heart disease, 2) emphysema or other lung disease, 3) chronic kidney disease 4) diabetes, 5) chronic anemia, 6) malignancies. What this means is, that if you are in a high risk group - to get a flu shot. I am in a high risk group because I am exposed to influenza every year, but then I take a flu shot every year. Only twice in the past twenty years have I had the flu severe enough that I haven't been able to so I believe in "flu shots". Unfortunately "cold shots" are no longer available. Colds must be treated symptomatically with rest, aspirin, and cough syrup, but more on colds later. Hopefully this hints will help your health, and save on doctor bills.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Several years back I was picked up on a charge of intoxication, fingerprinted and jailed. I was released the following day after paying the fine. On certain types of employment applications, I must list any arrests. Can I have this conviction removed?

A: Public intoxication is a Class C misdemeanor. Whenever a fine is paid for a Class C misdemeanor, the conviction not only becomes final, it also becomes non-appealable.

A conviction, by its very nature, cannot be removed by legal action initiated by you.

Q: I have a question as to whether my lawyer did something unethical in representing me in an estate matter. Should I hire another lawyer to investigate?

A: You may bring your complaint before one of the district grievance committees of the State Bar of Texas. If you do not know the name of the chairman of the grievance committee in your area, write to the State Bar in Austin. It will not be necessary for you to have a lawyer represent you before the grievance committee.

Q: In filing a suit for damages resulting from an auto accident, my attorney said the fee would be one-third of any court judgment awarded in my favor. Could I save money by paying the lawyer on an hourly rate instead of this kind of contingent fee arrangement?

A: Ask your lawyer to give you an estimate of the number of hours he or she expects to spend on the case and whatever expenses would be involved. Most law suits for damages are handled on a contingent fee basis for two major reasons: most clients prefer to have the option of paying the lawyer nothing if the law

HAIR STYLES AND HISTORY

The three faces of a single perm.

At various times in history, hair has symbolized status, strength, virility, morality and fashionability. It has, accordingly, been braided, bobbed, teased, tormented, sheared and seared with curling irons to fit the fancies of each epoch.

In the Twenties, women announced their independence by bobbing their hair; in the Sixties, men and women made the same announcement by letting their hair grow.

A fashion-passion at the beginning of the Eighties is the new perm. With built-in body—but without frizz or an unnatural look—it's a far cry from the perms of the past.

Just introduced, ammonia-free Instant Styling Perm by Revlon even takes the guesswork out of choosing the proper size curler by means of a new feature called, "Predict-A-Curl." Predict-A-Curl virtually guarantees that you get just the amount of curl you want: a body wave, a gentle wave, soft curl or firm curl.

According to experts at Revlon, perms can help almost any type of hair look better. With fine hair, for instance, you can achieve the appearance of fullness with a body wave. By waving or curling thin hair, you can achieve the illusion of density because each hair will cover a larger scalp area. And for straight hair, a body wave not only imparts body, but it also lends a softer look.

In the past, when one style—such as the page boy or bouffant—was clearly "in," anything else was unmistakably "out." But for today's woman, who leads a more independent and active life, fashion is a matter of choice. You can pick the look you want—and get it—with the help of the Predict-A-Curl invention and Instant Styling Perm by Revlon.

A Moment for Meditation

By INEZ G. LAWRENCE

"As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country." Prov. 25:25

We have come to a very beautiful country, but it is a far country. Naturally mail from newspapers written in English and short wave broadcasts. The newspapers are in such demand that we are lucky to get one or two each week. But we go on, blissfully ignorant until something like the Nuclear Protest comes along. Then we see it on Norwegian television and can understand it in their language.

However, Norway is so beautiful our minds are soon clear again. There is lush greenery everywhere. Flowers grow in profusion in the yards, and the open markets feature as many flowers as vegetables or fruit for sale. One cannot look at Norway without knowing God cares deeply about beauty and shares it with mankind. He also provides resources for man's survival. The people here seem to be aware of this judging from the vegetable gardens by almost every house. The gardens have the basic items that those in Clarendon have in the fall except for okra. In its place they grow leeks and rhubarb in abundance. Stravanger is a city of about eighty thousand, but it has the feel of a small city. The pace is leisurely and shops close early for families to have time together. Everything is closed on Sunday and many shops close at noon Saturday.

The people seem to have deep integrity. They are careful to explain how to make change and why they took a certain amount from our open palm. You sense they are honest, so you feel less confused about the currency. Norway is far away, but the

Erosion problem quiz

Have you got an erosion problem? One way of determining whether you do or not is to ask for assistance in developing a conservation plan.

If you are uncertain as to whether or not you need a plan, the following quiz may help you decide.

- | | YES | NO |
|---|-------|-------|
| 1. Do you have cropland fields that are not terraced? | ----- | ----- |
| 2. Can you see rills and ditching in your field? | ----- | ----- |
| 3. Is there a buildup of sediment in your fence rows or at the edge of your fields? | ----- | ----- |
| 4. Do you farm using a crop rotation system? | ----- | ----- |
| 5. Are waterways and grass strips trapping sediment? | ----- | ----- |
| 6. Are you farming in straight rows? | ----- | ----- |
| 7. Are ditches moving farther out into your fields each year? | ----- | ----- |
| 8. Are your yields dropping off even though you are using more fertilizer? | ----- | ----- |

If you answered yes to 3 questions or less, you have all winter to call the local SCS office. If you answered yes to 6 or more questions, you need a plan, but only have the rest of the week to call. If you answered no to all 8 questions, you must have your place in grass, or have already implemented a conservation plan. If this is not the case, you might better take another trip to the field and "improve your honesty", you may be cheating yourself. After you complete your "honest appraisal", call or come by the SCS office for assistance.

achievement," Joe Kelly Butler of Houston, chairman of the State Board of Education, points out.

"For this reason, results will be reported in a manner that will help everyone become more effective."

Individual student results will be made available only to the student, parent or guardian, and the school personnel directly involved. School principals will receive summary reports on the performance of students in their building. District-wide summary reports will be presented to each superintendent.

Overall student performance, both by individual campus and by district, will be reported each year to the general public by the board of trustees.

Each test question will relate to a specific objective or skill students are expected to learn by the time they complete the third, fifth, ninth grade or "exit level". Alton O. Bowen, Texas Commissioner of Education, explains.

"We use the term 'criterion-referenced' simply because it is a short way of saying the answer to each question must lead back to a specific objective," Bowen explains.

These objectives are not new in Texas. First developed during a series of statewide workshops in 1973-74, the reading and math objectives formed the basis for the Texas Assessment Project, last year's sample statewide test program. However, one of the grade levels has changed under the new plan mandated under Senate Bill 350, the public school finance law passed by the 66th Texas Legislature.

The reading and math tests for ninth grade or "exit level" students developed as a part of TAP will be used again under the new test program, Bowen says.

Educational Testing Service under its four-month contract will build new exams for fifth grade students. (The Texas Assessment Project tested sixth graders based on sixth grade objectives last year.)

"We will be able to build on the sixth grade objectives, but there will naturally be some change in the questions," Bowen adds.

The nationally-known testing firm will also build brand new writing exams for fifth and ninth grade or "exit level" students.

"This is a difficult test area because a good letter or other piece of writing has been hard to judge in purely objective terms," Bowen points out. "However, Educational Testing Service has developed procedures for training people to do the scoring in other states. The secret, of course, is to make sure the person scoring the test is able to make valid judgements about a piece of writing."

Months of preliminary work necessary to building the tests and setting guidelines for the contract have been completed by both curriculum and assessment specialists at the Texas Education Agency.

More than 40 public school teachers, curriculum directors, and principals have worked with Texas Education Agency staff members to decide precisely what should be measured at each grade level and how the test questions should be constructed.

The exams will be field-tested with some 8,000 fifth and ninth grade students in 75 school districts during October, 1979. Once these results are in, the final test models will be fine-tuned for statewide use next March and April.

Specific test questions will change each year while, at the same time, the test designers work to maintain the same level of difficulty, Bowen points out.

The annual examinations will be administered by specially-trained personnel in each school district under the guidelines and supervision of the Texas Education Agency, Bowen adds.

The second Texas Assessment of Basic Skills contract will be submitted to the State Board of Education at its January, 1980, meeting. This contract will cover both the administration, scoring, and reporting process for the first statewide testing program.

Students completing the third, fifth, and ninth grade each year will take the tests in late March or early April, depending on local school district schedules. Results will be reported by the end of May of the same school year.

Ninth graders who do not score well may re-take the test each year they are in high school. However, this repeating will be designed solely to help the teacher pinpoint weak areas for more intensive instruction.

"The whole testing program is designed to help the student and the school improve

Basic skills test for schools

The State Board of Education Saturday (September 8) took its first major step toward implementing mandatory tests in the basic skills with approval of a $118,446 contract awarded to the Education Testing Service of Princeton, N. J.

The Texas Assessment of Basic Skills, this state's first mandatory public school test program, will begin next spring as some 450,000 fifth and ninth grade students are tested in reading, mathematics, and writing. Third graders will be added to the annual program in 1980-81.

The contract awarded Educational Testing Service will cover test development and field testing from September 10, 1979, through January 7, 1980. It will include: (1) Development of reading and math tests for fifth grade; (2) development of writing tests for fifth and ninth grade or "exit level" students; (3) field test administration and analysis of results for the Texas Education Agency.

Students completing the third, fifth, and ninth grade each year will take the tests in late March or early April, depending on local school district schedules. Results will be reported by the end of May of the same school year.

Ninth graders who do not score well may re-take the test each year they are in high school. However, this repeating will be designed solely to help the teacher pinpoint weak areas for more intensive instruction.

"The whole testing program is designed to help the student and the school improve

baby FACTS & FANCIES

A baby who swims before she crawls may sail to a higher IQ, according to the surprising results of a recent study.

Is it possible to raise your child's IQ? Yes, says a new study.

Infants and toddlers who swim are brighter, have better powers of concentration, are more intelligent, better coordinated and more self-assured. These were the findings of the West German Federal Ministry of Education, based on tests administered over a number of years.

Even babies as young as three months, says the Ministry, benefit from learning to swim by becoming better coordinated and more self-assured.

TIPS ON BUYING A NEW CAR

Common sense, patience and a little effort can help you make smart decisions on the type of car and options you really need, get a fair price and greatly reduce your chance of future aggravation. This is what the experts say at Sun Company, which refines a considerable amount of gasoline cars run on.

1. Decide just how big a car you need under most situations. The fact that you might have to occasionally haul some 4x8 sheets of plywood does not necessitate the purchase of a full-sized wagon.
2. If you've settled on an intermediate-sized sedan, decide how much you can afford to spend. Intermediates range from about $4,000, stripped, to $7,000, fully equipped. Choose options realistically.

3. Shop around and test drive your top choices—drive up hills, over bumps and railroad tracks; accelerate, brake, make sure the car performs to your expectations.

4. Tell the salesman you're ready to buy but will deal only with someone with the authority to close the deal (most salesmen don't have it).

5. Before signing on the dotted line, feel comfortable that you've found the best prices and that all options and extra charges are itemized—on paper. Although it's not always easy, shop around for financing, too, for the lowest payments and the shortest loan possible.

After checking the car for defects before taking delivery, you can finally drive into the sunset feeling satisfied—and smart.

The Kelly Snyder oil field, for instance, warrants the injection of carbon dioxide to sustain its production, but at the regulated selling price for the crude, the company would lose $1.03 per barrel produced because of the cost of the process.

The restoration of credibility of national leadership is difficult to anticipate in the random, stop-and-go, blame the industry, break up the oil company threats—attempting to shift the blame to Cabinet and staff by having them tender resignations will fool few people.

A President often takes on a "father of the country" image. How many fathers promote self-reliance and a pattern of achievement in a family by deriding them, or by ignoring the pros and cons of difficult choices to be made between alternatives?

ENERGY UPDATE

FABULOUS FORECASTS THAT CAME TRUE

The energy crisis took most of us by surprise—yet keen observers predicted it years ago. In this article, the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Apache, an independent oil company, points to one cause: the difficult choices that should have been—and still must be—made.

By Raymond Plank

When the President called upon the nation to wage the moral equivalent of war on the energy problem, our industry was saddened—but not surprised—to find itself targeted the enemy.

Back in 1960, an eminent geologist, Michel Halbouty, said, "I can safely predict that between now and 1975 we will have an energy crisis in this country. Then the people will say, 'The oil industry is to blame. Why weren't we told?' Well, I'm telling them now!"

The cornerstone of a viable energy-supply policy consists of three fundamentals:

* Maximizing the domestic production of oil and gas via price decontrol and the development of our oil shale resources.

* Expediting development and transportation of coal, as well as its conversion into natural gas and gasoline.

* Expediting construction and utilization of nuclear plants for electrical power with appropriate safety precautions available within technological and operating competence.

Since limited high-cost energy is part of mounting inflation, recession and rising political and social unrest, energy reality is integral to all aspects of national well-being.

Yet, while our energy problems intensify, the drilling of exploratory and development wells has been running behind earlier figures. Why—with prices up—should this be? One factor is

Mr. and Mrs. Ansil Adamson and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stone spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stone and family at Canadian.

Mrs. Jeanne Johnson of Memphis visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kerr and grandson Mark of Altus, Oklahoma visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

Johnny and Kathy Woodard of Denison, Texas were here to visit the Woodards this weekend.

Tracy and Sharon Sanders are here from California, are here for about two weeks visiting all the Sanders family.

Phyllis Rutledge and children Tiffany and Jeff, of Amarillo were down this weekend to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Bland. Tiffany stayed a few days with grandma and grandpa until they take her home.

Deceptive reptile

It looks like a snake, moves like a snake, and glisters like a snake but it isn't a snake at all. What is it?

It's a misnamed legless lizard called the glass snake, according to Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine. In fact, at 27 inches in length, it is the longest lizard found on the North American continent.

Centuries ago, the ancestors of today's glass snake did have legs, but as they took to burrowing underground those appendages disappeared, according to the National Wildlife Federation's monthly magazine for children.

How can you tell a glass snake from the real thing? Like all lizards, the shiny, gray-brown glass snake has eyelids, which it can open and close. Snakes, on the other hand, have no eyelids and cannot close their eyes.

On close inspection, says Ranger Rick, you will also find that the glass snake has a mouthful of teeth—about 165 of them. Too close an inspection is not recommended, however, since glass snakes, though nonpoisonous, often bite when handled.

The glass snake, which is found along the Atlantic Coast from North Carolina into Florida and in parts of the Midwest, got its strange name from its peculiar tail. If its tail is tugged or hit, it may break like glass into several pieces.

Contrary to popular notion, the pieces never join together again or grow into new lizards. Instead, the lizard grows a new tail. "A glass snake's original tail is at least twice as long as its body," reports Ranger Rick, "but its new tail is shorter and stiffer." Fewer than half of the glass snakes found in the wild still have their original tails.

Often the glass snake may choose to leave its tail behind to fool a predator. A king snake, for example, will be distracted by the still wriggling detached tail, while the glass snake makes a quick getaway.

So, if you're afraid of snakes, don't jump to conclusions next time you see a slithering, legless creature in the grass. Instead, take a closer look. Any "snake" that winks at you is a lizard.

Visitors in the home of Mrs. Jim Rumpy Sunday, also helped Mrs. Debbie Edmondson, at Medical Center Nursing Home celebrate her 80th birthday.

Present were Mrs. Ruby Wiltout, J.M. Bynum, Mrs. Price Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Gray, of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Warner, Mrs. Jeanette Berry, Rondala and Darla of Amarillo; Geraldine Rumpy, Mr. and Mrs. Trent Bolin and Andrea of Pampa; the Claude Thomas family, Mrs. Rumpy and the honoree, Mrs. Edmondson.

Animals get tooth cavities, but far less often than humans do, says Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine for children. That's because food rarely sticks between their teeth, and because the foods they eat are better for their teeth than the foods people eat.

Ever Close in mind and heart

No further away than a picture. A smile or remembered phrase. Our loved ones live in memory... So close in so many ways. For how often does a sunset Bring nostalgic thoughts to mind Of moments that our loved ones shared In days now left behind! How often has a flower, Or a crystal autumn sky Brought golden recollections Of happy days gone by! Memory has a magic way Of keeping loved ones near... Ever close in mind and heart Are the ones we hold most dear. Marjorie Frances Ames In Memory of Rick Foster 40-11c
