Woman hospitalized after blaze

By Roger Estlack, Clarendon Enterprise

A Clarendon woman was hospitalized for smoke inhalation after an early morning fire broke out in her home Monday, March 29.

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched at 6:05 a.m. to the home of Judy and Orsbain Perkins, located at 706 E. Second; and Donley County Deputy Sonny Morasco was first on the scene and helped get the residents to safety.

Judy Perkins and her sister, Ruby Hearn, were transported by to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo by Associated Ambulance Authority, where Hearn was treated and released. Mrs. Perkins was later flown to University Medical Center in Lubbock, and the family was hopeful she would be released Tuesday. Mr. Perkins was not injured.

First Assistant Chief Jeremy

Powell said when firefighters arrived on the scene, fire was coming out of all windows and doors on the north side of the residence.

"The living area of the home was fully engulfed and beginning to vent through the roof of the residence," Powell reported. "The kitchen area located in the center of the residence was involved with fire and heavy smoke."

Powell said the bedroom area south of the kitchen was not involved with the fire but did receive heavy heat and smoke damage.

The fire was quickly brought under control, and firemen remained on scene until after 8 a.m. The residence sustained heavy fire and smoke damage.

CVFD responded to the blaze within seven minutes, and a total of 23 firemen and seven units responded.

City Fire Marshal Kelly Hill said late Tuesday that he and the state fire marshal's office had investigated the fire, and Hill said the origin of the fire appears to have been in the living room and appears to have been electrical.

A fund for the Perkins has been established at the Donley County State Bank.

Both eastbound lanes of US 287 were closed for more than one hour while fire units occupied them during the fire. "Some local residents may have temporarily been out of power as AEP/SWEPCO interrupted power to the residence for the firemen's safety."

CVFD recognized the Donley County Sheriff's Office, TxDOT, the Associated Ambulance Authority, and Anndria Newhouse with the Clarendon Firebelles for their assistance during this case. They also acknowledged George Hall and the Donley County VFW Post for serving a late breakfast to the firemen.

The city's firemen have been very busy the last few days. Also on Monday, the department was called to the Clarendon Dairy Queen to investigate the smell of smoke, responded to a grass fire which got into a pile of lumber next to a workshop at Jim Shadle's residence west of the city, and was dispatched to a residence on Collinson Street reporting the smell of natural gas.

Previously on March 26, the department responded to a residence in the area of 4th and Jackson where a discarded cigarette caught a trash can on fire; and on March 28, Clarendon and Hedley units responded to a grass fire call on the LOL Ranch on FM 2471 that was started by wind damage to a power pole.

City fires Webb

By Roger Estlack, Clarendon Enterprise

The Clarendon Board of Aldermen will meet in called session this Thursday, April 1, to discuss an interim appointment for the office vacated when City Administrator John Webb's job was terminated last week.

According to the agenda posted Monday, the aldermen will meet in closed session for consultation with their attorney and to discuss personnel issues - specifically the appointment, employment, and duties of an interim city administrator/city secretary - and then reconvene in open session to take action.

The board terminated Webb's employment last Tuesday night, March 23, in a called session for what Mayor Chris Ford called "a lack of confidence in (Webb's) ability to perform the duties of city administrator."

Alderman Will Thompson told the Enterprise that the board voted 3-2 to remove Webb. Thompson said he and Alderman Ann Huey voted against the measure and that Aldermen Larry Hicks, Tommy Hill, and Kyle Davis voted for the removal.

Mayor Ford said the board's decision was effective immediately and that Webb was given an opportunity to resign prior to the board's action, which was taken after the aldermen met in closed session for an hour and 45 minutes.

The mayor said he met last Wednesday morning with all city employees to inform them of the decision.

Webb has served as Clarendon's city administrator since October 2008. He did not have a contract with the city, Ford said.

A call to Webb's residence in Borger was not returned before press time Tuesday.

Contest attracts big crowd

More than 2,000 FFA and 4-H students were in Clarendon last Saturday, March 27, for the 29th annual Clarendon College Judging Contest.

The contest is the largest event in Clarendon each year, more than doubling the population each time the contestants come to town and is a significant boost to the economy. It draws participants from across Texas as well as from Oklahoma and New Mexico.

This year the total number of entrants was 2,247. That number does not include coaches, parents, and family members that also attend and visit Clarendon for the day.

Several local 4H and FFA members did well at the CC contest. In Livestock Judging, the Donley County 4-H Senior Team of Jacob Pigg, Jayson Pigg, John Pigg, and J.D. Baxter placed sixth.

The Junior Team One of Tres Hommel, Brittney McAnear, Kati Adams, and Jake Owens placed eighth. Tres Hommel was 13th high individual out of 109 contestants.

The Junior Team Two of Blaine Ellis, Jake Hewett, and Kelsey McAnear finished in a three-way tie for 16th place.

The 4-H Horse Judging Senior Team of Chris Shults, Cheyenne Kosechata, and Cedar Stevenson placed sixth; the Junior Team One of Sam Spillers, Kade Hunsaker, and Alyse Simpson placed 12th; and the

Progressives destroying Constitution

By Dr. Marvin Folkertsma

One of the most telling moments in the healthcare reform debate occurred when Speaker Nancy Pelosi's trademark expression of perpetual astonishment kicked into hyper-drive after a reporter inquired about the constitutional status of ObamaCare. Pelosi paused and asked, "Are you serious?"

The shocking nature of the question jarred her sufficiently to repeat her response, pushing out something like a rhetorical hiccup. The subtext was impossible to ignore: progressives simply do not take the Constitution seriously, a point that also informed the statement issued by her office later, which assured all interested parties that the federal government can do pretty much what it wants through the commerce clause.

Quite possibly, this may have been the first time anyone in her entourage had ever perused this document. And for good reason:

The foundation of the republic so revered by most citizens is considered by modern progressives as an outmoded formulation created by individuals whose views are only of antiquarian interest today. This perspective must be held quite firmly, because taking the founder's views on natural rights seriously undermines the entire progressive project.

Especially during the colonial era, America's serious political thinkers insisted that rights were intrinsic to a person's moral being; indeed, in the words of Clinton Rossiter, rights were considered "inherent, universal, unalterable, inestimable, sacred, indefeasible, fundamental, imprescriptible, divine, God-given, hereditary, and indelible." For good measure, rights are also endowed by humanity's Creator, a point even the skeptic Jefferson pointed out.

People fought for their rights, especially the right to be free from external impediments, from arbitrary decrees, from being told what to do in the minutiae of life by unrepresentative government. Fighting required courage, perseverance, hardship; in the words of Abraham Lincoln's brilliant Lyceum speech, the founders knew that "their all was staked upon it—their destiny was inseparably linked with it." That meant risking one's life to preserve timeless moral truths. The founders risked it all; their actions are forever recorded in ledgers of heroism, in annals of freedom. That's what taking rights seriously really means.

Which is also the reason why entitlements are not rights. Progressives' moral relativism consigned the founders' convictions to irrelevancy by insisting that they applied only to a particular historical era, one that is now safely in the past and best forgotten.

In the place of rights, modern progressives have substituted entitlements, which constitute transfer payments from government to individuals, not timeless truths that call for courage or sacrifice by recipients. Quite the opposite, in fact.

For instance, demonstrating for healthcare or against welfare cuts or tuition increases is more akin to a whining-and-crying temper tantrum than an expression of moral seriousness grounded in a knowledgeable understanding of constitutional rights. Rights are ennobling and inspire courageous actions; entitlements are enfeebling and generate infantilism and complaints.

Contemporary progressives have hijacked the moral vocabulary of rights and applied it to a very different sort of behavior, the sort that does not engender freedom, but nurtures dependency. Or worse, submission to an entitlement-obsessed citizenry that invites tyranny.

America's founders recognized such a danger. They knew that freedom gained by rights is only a generation deep, but tyranny can last indefinitely, unless free men and women steel themselves to preserve the one and abolish the other. The question is, after years of subjection to a regime of entitlements, how much rights-based freedom will remain for individuals to make any choices?

Progressive statism narrows the capacity of people even to conceive of alternatives to the creeping servitude of entitlements, until finally, as Tocqueville predicted, the last vestiges of independent thought and action succumb to government's numbing tutelage, which reduces humanity to a status lower than that of beasts.

Further, as Abraham Lincoln warned, the concept of America as the last best hope of man on earth has been increasingly bludgeoned into disrepute by ambitious intellectuals and forgotten by citizens consumed by personal agendas.

Forgetting our country's inheritance of liberty founded on rights relegates American exceptionalism to a distant memory chased by desultory whims into an historical anachronism created by decades of progressive indoctrination. The ultimate price is the loss of our concept of rights, the loss of the only civilization in world history based on protecting rights and advancing freedom for all men and women. What once was, never shall be again.

Another Frenchman, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, stated that freedom could only be won, never regained. In light of the current confusion about rights and the prevalence of an entitlement mentality, there is no greater challenge for Americans today than to refute this proposition.

— Dr. Marvin Folkertsma is a professor of political science and Fellow for American Studies with The Center for Vision & Values at Grove City College. The author of several books, his latest release is a high-energy novel titled "The Thirteenth Commandment."

Mission accomplished on training

Potty training is complete, with almost an entire month to spare. Those of you who thought my child would win, I now laugh in your face. I'm not going to lie, it has been a very, and I emphasize very, long three months but it was well worth it.

Now I would like to brag about my daughter, the genius, who is officially potty trained one month before her second birthday. I am also proud to announce that this accomplishment gives me hope for all other goals I have set for her to achieve in her life. I am now positive that a "pushy mom" makes things happen. As for bribery and threats...

they also work quite well.

To the diaper companies out there, particularly Pampers and Luvs, you will no longer be receiving my patronage. I am forever done with your product. You have both served your purpose but I am completely and utterly happy that I no longer need you in my life. Goodbye and good riddance.

baby steps
by Julie Shields

I would like to thank my family who I have pawned off a good percentage of my diaper duties on. I appreciate you all helping out and dealing with my whining when I couldn't bear to change another.

I cannot express enough how overly excited I am about this milestone in Kyndall's life. While each milestone is exciting in its own way, such as walking and talking, nothing could possibly make me happier than never having to take care of a dirty diaper again. I suppose all I can say to really sum up how I feel is... April Fool's!

Health care effects beginning now

During a marathon voting session in the United States Senate (lasting until 3:00 am Thursday, March 25), my Republican colleagues valiantly fought to try to improve the massive health care reform bill that was pushed through the House of Representatives by Speaker Nancy Pelosi just days earlier. As we brought amendment after amendment up for a vote, the Democratic majority stayed in lockstep to defeat any attempt to remove even the most onerous provisions of this legislation.

In the middle of a war on terror, the Democrats even refused to vote for an amendment to remove this bill's new excise taxes on medical devices, such as prosthetic arms and legs, for our wounded warriors! What's more, they also voted to keep the new taxes on pediatric medical devices for children.

They also voted down my amendment to allow states the opportunity to opt out of the federal takeover of health care. The states, and their taxpayers, will be forced to pay for the significant mandates included in this bill. The Democrats also rejected another of my amendments to make permanent a tax credit to small businesses to help them pay for the mandated health insurance for their employees.

"When the dust finally settled," as they used to say in the movies, the Senate Democrats passed their fatally flawed bill on a vote of 56 to 43, with no Republicans voting "aye."

And the serious ramifications of this legislation are already being felt. Just one day after the bill was signed into law by President Obama, the new taxes on retirees' drug benefits are hitting many of America's largest employers. AT&T announced that it will take a $1 billion first-quarter loss related to the new taxes and said it will be "evaluating prospective changes to the active and retiree health care benefits offered by the company." Verizon also said that the bill "may have significant implications for both retirees and employers." Other major employers, such as farm equipment manufacturers John Deere and Caterpillar, also announced significant first-quarter losses due to the retiree drug benefits taxes in this bill.

This legislation will make drastic cuts to Medicare, reducing access and quality of care for our senior citizens. It penalizes and punishes businesses at a time of tremendous economic uncertainty. It could drive many doctors and other health care providers to stop taking Medicare, Medicaid and insurance program patients. It could force many hospitals, particularly rural facilities, to close their doors. It is a giant step toward a federal takeover of health care in this country.

The closed-door negotiations, the sweetheart deals, the denial of any bipartisan suggestions, and the smoke and mirrors procedures used to steamroll this bill through the House and Senate have rightfully disgusted the American people. Poll after poll shows that the American people did not want this bill passed in this form at all. They wanted us to begin fresh, take the parts of health care reform we could all agree on — no pre-existing conditions, insurance portability, and exchange pools for small businesses — and build on those.

Instead, this Obama-Pelosi-Reid legislation will make the federal government a part of every health care decision you make for yourself, your family or your business. It will raise taxes and premiums. It puts the Internal Revenue Service in charge of enforcement of its provisions. It is laden with mandates and fines. And it rings in an era of big government growth that will burden all of us — and our children and grandchildren.

CC to increase tuition to replace funding cuts

The Clarendon College Board of Regents raised tuition rates last Thursday, March 25, in anticipation of reductions in state funds.

Dean of Administrative Services Annette Ferguson said CC is facing a five percent reduction in funding from the state.

"Our estimates are that these increases will offset the expected reductions," Ferguson told the Enterprise.

In-district (Donley County) tuition will increase from $79 per credit hour to $83. Tuition in Gray and Childress counties, where CC has maintenance and operations taxes, will increase from $89 to $93; and tuition for all other Texas residents will increase from $98 to $102 per credit hour.

Non-Texas residents will see their tuition costs increase from the current $117 per hour to $133 per hour.

Regents also approved a $25 per semester increase in student room rates, Ferguson said.

"The money from the dorm rate increase will be set aside to pay for new furniture and new equipment in the dorms," she said.

The tuition and room increases will take effect with the fall 2010 semester. Meal charges for students will also be increasing due to higher costs incurred by Great Western Dining.

Regents considered and approved renewing the following administrative contracts: Wendy Altman, Director Childress Center; Christy Brooks, Coordinator of Workforce Development; Tex Buckhaults, Dean of Students; Michele Copelin, Director of Financial Aid; Ashlee Estlack, Public Information/Marketing; Annette Ferguson, Dean of Administrative Services; Brandi Havens, Registrar; David Hall, Academic Advisor/Recruiter Pampa Center; Ray Jaramillo, Vice President Pampa Center & Dean Workforce Development; Debra Kuhl, Dean of Instruction; Regan Silva, Librarian; Martha Smith, Admissions Coordinator; Darlene Spier, Assistant to the President; Annis Stavenhagen, Library Assistant; Will Thompson, Dir. Information Systems & Computer Operations; and Jamie Ward, Enrollment Services Counselor/Recruiter.

The board acknowledged the resignation of nursing instructor Peggy Stewart and the retirement of computer instructor Pam Denney.

In other college business, the board updated the bank deposit resolution with Herring Bank; and updated the college's core curriculum.

We had 17 members and one guest this week - Anndria Newhouse, guest of Lion Roger Estlack. Lions Hysinger and Buckhaults updated the club on events going on at the public school and college. The program this week was brought by Lion Estlack, who updated the club on the Clarendon Economic Development Corp. Board's efforts to fix up the Mulkey Theatre. The CEDC has purchased the building and put a new roof on it last summer. The board has gotten an estimate to restore the marquee lights and neon and is now interested in ideas from the community about the future of the building. Fundraising ideas for the project are also being discussed.

The only real news I have right now is still the May 7 Dance for the Hedley Senior Citizens and Silent Auction at the Donley County Activity Center. I have already received an autographed picture of Tim McGraw and Sir Richard Branson. We have some wonderful things coming along, and I know you all will enjoy Jody Nix. Will keep you posted on it. Please remember no alcohol.

The Hedley Ex-Students are still working on a few things to help the Cotton Festival. Hopefully I will be back to snuff in a few weeks. May God Bless You All.

Genesis House needs help to help children

By Ashlyn Tubbs, Clarendon Enterprise

An opportunity to work at the Genesis House in Pampa was announced by Sharon Braddock, executive director of the Genesis House at the monthly United Christians Fellowship Breakfast held at the First United Methodist Church on March 18.

The Genesis House, established in 1971, is a non-profit community based agency dedicated to providing children in need of a home a safe, secure and nurturing environment to help prepare them to meet life challenges and develop healthy life skills. Initially the house was intended to aid children between the ages of 13-17, but six months ago the house was approved for an amendment license that will allow children ages eight-seventeen who have needs to receive the proper support and attention they need in a secure home.

"It's one of the hardest jobs I've ever had, but its one of the most rewarding when you can see changes in attitude and improvement in school and interaction with folks that makes a difference in their lives," said Braddock.

The Genesis House aims to keep sibling groups together and help them grow and adjust in a homelike environment as well as in the community. There are two licensed residential homes, each holding eight children.

"There are a tremendous amount of family situations out there, such as parole involvement with drugs and alcohol," Braddock said. "When parents have been drugging and drinking they don't make good decisions and put their kids in bad situations. Seven out of nine of our children had parents in prison."

Braddock said that problems kids living in the house can have include substance abuse, mental health issues, behavior issues, truancy and defiant conduct disorder.

"Working with the kids has been quite an education," Braddock said. "It's helped me to appreciate my own children and grandchildren, and it's also helped me to have more tolerance for kids who are struggling."

But Braddock says working at the Genesis House has its rewards.

"I had an invitation a couple of years ago from a past client to attend her graduation from the Amarillo Police Academy," Braddock said. "My husband Jim and I went and it was wonderful to see her go through that. Now she's a police officer in Panhandle. You can't be any prouder than if it was your own kid."

Those interested in being employed at the Genesis House must be at least 21 years of age, have a high school diploma or GED, be able to work a flexible schedule, be a member of a dedicated team, and be committed to helping youth have a brighter future. Background tests and drug tests are required as well.

"The biggest requirement is that you have a lot of patience and tolerance," Braddock said. "You have to let things roll off your back and not take things personal. A lot of the times the anger the kids have has nothing to do with you. You have to be firm, fair and consistent."

To apply for a job at the Genesis House or for more information, contact Sharon Braddock at 806-665-7123 or 806-663-1856.

"You'll never find anything that will be more rewarding," Braddock said.

Season brings memories of Easter dresses past

Do you think spring is here to stay? Our apricots are in full bloom along with all the neighbors' fruit trees, but I am never sure that is a good sign. Of course, the wind has picked up also but this may be one of those years we bypass spring and go directly into summer. If that is the case we may be in for some dreaded storms. If that is what it takes to put some water in the lake with no damage or injuries, we can endure a few storms.

Easter is April 4 and that brings back so many memories such as Alanreed Baptist Church, Easter egg hunts, and a new dress.

All my life I remember getting a new dress for Easter usually with new white shoes and in the 1950s a hat and gloves. Mother was the master of "make do" and would mix a sleeve pattern, neck pattern, and skirt pattern together, add some lace and come up with a new fashion. I hated the fitting, but that was better than being so big you had to wear it forever. I continued the practice of new Easter dresses for my girls and some of the cutest pictures I have are them in Easter finery.

So my question for today is, do mother's still go shopping for that perfect Easter dress for themselves and their daughters?

I wonder if the white shoe rule is still in effect or maybe you can wear them as long as they go well with your dress. By the way, Ole Jim said he never heard of the white shoe rule.

In all the egg hunts and fashion statements we don't want to forget the reason for Easter. That is to celebrate the living Jesus Christ who died for our sins and was resurrected. What a different world we would live in if that hadn't happened. So have fun but remember Jesus.

We have some sick people that need your prayers that include Mary Giesler with pneumonia, Hulan Bright who is being treated for cancer, and Dean Arnold who is not recovering from surgery as fast as they would like.

Burton boasts fabulous Texas Collection

Aren't we happy we're Texans? If that thought hasn't occurred to you lately, it will after examining Burton Memorial Library's fabulous Texas Collection.

Authors, Jane Rayfield Welch and J. Larry Nance traveled 16,000 miles in 13 weekends to photograph county capitols. These structures "range from meager native stone boxes to skyscrapers of glass and steel." Their book, The Texas Courthouse, is in three parts: A brief essay, photographs, and notes on countries. Readers can almost visualize courthouse functions and hear conversations on the courthouse square as they read Welch's descriptive narrative at the book's beginning. You will be especially interested in the palatial edifice on page 79.

Early Texas Homes by Dorothy Kendall Bracken and Maurine Whorton Redway provides a lovely history of varied century-old Texas houses reflecting background differences among Spaniards, Frenchmen, Englishmen and Germans. Old South influence is evident in ranch style and plantation homes. It depicts a "living past with a promising future if citizens continue to preserve and maintain them as homes, shrines, or museums." These high-interest stories represent time-consuming research, accurate interviews, and 30,000 miles of travel over length and breadth of Texas by the authors.

Jim Box, in Your Texas Government in Pictures with 485 illustrations in comic strip form, assures readers his writing is not a comic book treatment of Texas government. His text is a professional job from the standpoint of information. Skillfully used cartoons heighten interest. It is an appropriate supplement for college introductory courses as well as younger grades. Teachers, he says, "It teaches future citizens how machinery of state government operates, how they can intelligently participate in it, how they may be able to cope with some of the problems." This relatively brief but adequate book is "innovative to the extent it balances cartoons and text." Readers in general can enjoy and benefit from this book.

Anyone interested in the art of cookery will delight with The First Texas Cookbook, a copy of the original published in 1883. You might even recognize contributors' names. It contains 721 recipes plus 80 household aids of the time. Authors,

David Wade and Mary Faulk Kooch express, "Not only is it a document of the people of early Texas and their culture, but it showcases some of the fine approaches to food chemistry and imagination. Three most important ingredients of any recipe are love, patience and butter. For these early Texans, cooking was a labor of love as it required to much more time. Their patience had to be expanded when struggling with kitchen tools of 1883."

These selections only "introduce" the volume of our library's large Texas collections. In addition to this introduction, readers will find biographies, portfolios, histories, mysteries, Texas poetry and fiction, and Texas music available. Hopefully, many of these will be described in future articles.

In the meantime, why not check it out?

the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Viner pleaded true to some of the allegations listed in the State's Motion to Revoke Defendant which was filed on October 7, 2009.

Viner was convicted originally on June 1, 2009 for the offense which took place on February 2, 2009. Viner received five years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, probated for five years.

In addition to being sentenced to four and a half years, Viner is also required to pay a $2,000 fine to Carson County and pay $313 in court costs.

Jose A. Mora was placed on probation for a period of three years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Mora pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for possession of marihuana. He was arrested in Carson County on October 16, 2009. The State filed a complaint and information against Mora on January 4, 2010.

"The complaint and information filed in this case, and numerous other cases across the district, are the charging instruments that begin felony prosecution," said Inman. "These charging instruments help expedite the felony prosecution process, while reducing the amount of time and energy our office and law enforcement spends if we are able to resolve the case before it is presented to the grand jury."

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Mora is required to pay a $3,000 fine to Carson County, and is also required to pay $140 in restitution, $327 in court costs, and complete 200 hours of community service. If Mora violates probation, he could face up to ten years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

John Lewis King, Jr. was placed on probation for a period of four years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. King pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for possession of marihuana.

King was arrested in Carson County on January 5, 2010. The State filed its complaint and information on March 10, 2010, charging King with the third degree felony offense.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, King is required to pay a $4,500 fine to Carson County, and is also required to pay $140 in restitution, $327 in court costs, and complete 200 hours of community service. If King violates probation, he could face up to ten years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Stephanie Marie Gerhardt and her husband, Craig Allen Doan, were placed on probation for a period of ten years for the first degree felony offense of possession of controlled substance and the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Gerhardt and Doan both pleaded guilty for the offenses that took place on January 18 and were placed on deferred adjudication for both offenses.

Gerhardt and Doan pleaded guilty to a complaint and information filed by the State on March 10, 2010.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, both defendants were required to pay a fine of $7,000 fine to Carson County, and are also required to pay $140 in restitution and $654 in court costs and each must complete 400 hours of community service. If either Gerhardt or Doan violates probation, they could each face up to 99 years or life in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Jose Amador Sanchez-Miranda and Veronica Vindiola Estrada were placed on probation for a period of ten years for the second degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Both Sanchez-Miranda and Estrada were convicted and sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, but the sentence was probated for a period of ten years.

Both Estrada and Sanchez-Miranda were arrested in Carson County for the offense that took place on March 21, 2010. Both defendants pleaded guilty to a complaint and information filed by the State on March 25, 2010.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, both defendants are required to pay a $5,000 fine to Carson County, $140 in restitution, $327 in court costs, and 200 hours of community service.

GREAT EXAMPLE OF LOVE

The most beautiful example of love was the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. God loved us enough (John 3:16) that He sacrificed His Son. Jesus loved us enough that He allowed Himself to be sacrificed, even though He had done nothing worthy of death. His abuse and death is prophesied in the Old Testament. Isaiah 53:4-6: "Surely He took up our infirmities and carried our sorrows, yet we considered Him stricken by God, smitten by Him and afflicted. But He was pierced for our transgressions, He was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was upon Him, and by His wounds we are healed. We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way; and the Lord has laid on Him the iniquity of us all."

The "greatest story told" has to be the gospel of Jesus Christ. Truly it is a wonderful love story! All the souls of the world were at stake, and the only solution was given. It came at the greatest cost to God for the most unworthy recipients, us. And, it was offered to all. Titus 2:11, "For the grace of God that brings salvation has appeared to all men..." God didn't and does not discriminate. All souls were and are precious.

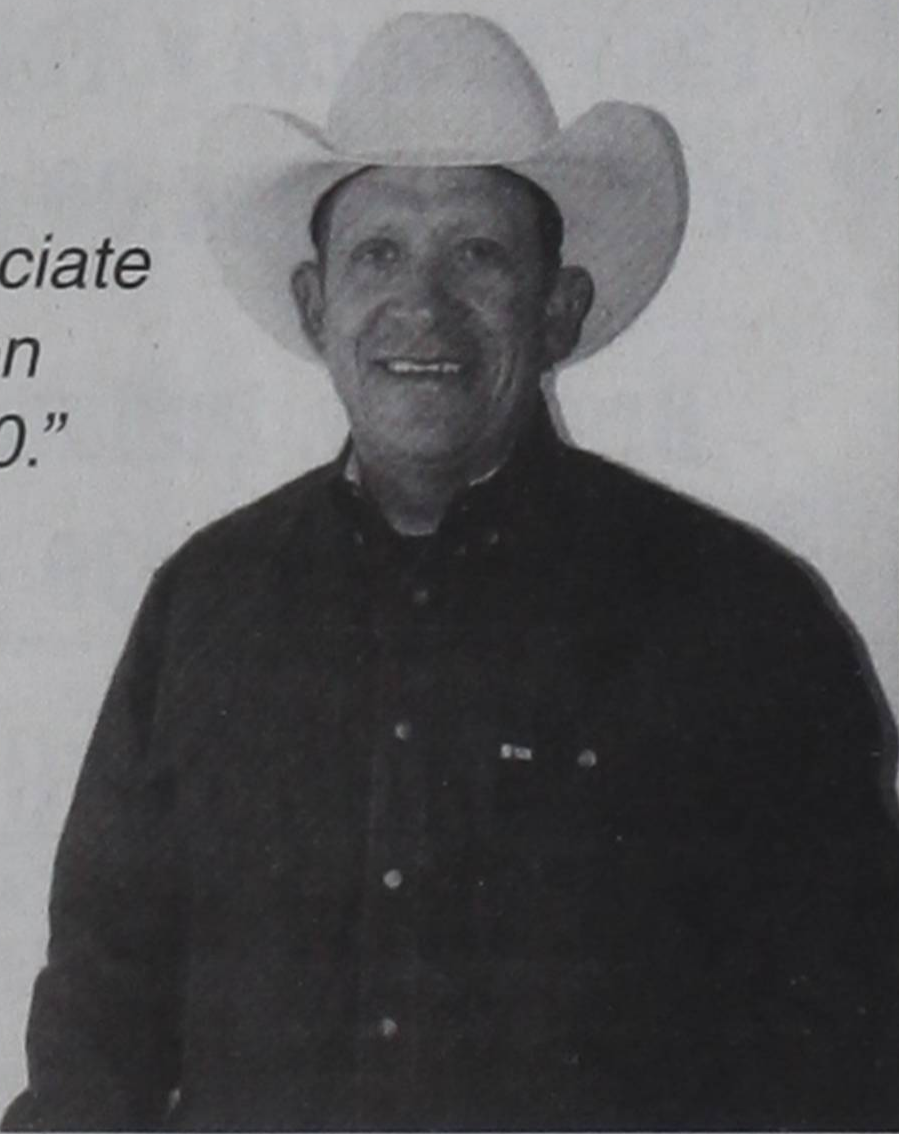

This story also has a great ending. He arose! Because there is an empty tomb, we all have the hope of being resurrected and going to live with God for eternity if we choose to follow Jesus. The Savior sacrificed, and we must also. Jesus denied Himself and was obedient to the Father; we must also. My prayer is that this story is told more than 2 days a year, Christmas and Easter. The exact days of when He was born and arose are not known. We should not worship a date, but the Man that was also God. Let us everyday think about Christ and what He has done for us. Let us live for Him always.

CHS Broncos take down Indians

By Sandy Anderberg

Thirteen huge runs in the second proved to be the inning that sealed Quana's fate as the Broncos blasted them 19-0 in five innings Monday night on the road with Troy Chambless was on the mound. The Broncos went to 5-1 overall and perfect in District play at 3-0.

The Broncos jumped out to an early advantage in the first inning when they scored three unanswered runs. But they shocked their opponent in the second inning when they crossed home plate thirteen times. They added another two runs in the fourth and fifth.

"We played a really good all around game," coach Brad Elam said. "Stephino McCampbell and Johnny Gaines both made outstanding defensive plays and Brayden Phillips threw out another base stealer. He has thrown out all four that have tried (to steal a base)."

On the offensive side, the Broncos were unstoppable.

"Troy Chambless and Bradley Watson pitched giving up only three hits and three walks," Elam said.

He also noted that Phillips and Watson was on base four times and scored three runs while Gaines had a big day at the plate going five for five with two doubles and two homeruns. He also scored four runs and drove in eight runs. David Roberts reached base all five times at bat, which included a double and two bases for getting hit by a pitch. Brady Miller scored two runs and Chambless reached base all five times with three of those coming from walks.

On Friday, the Broncos added another mark in the win column with a 4-1 dusting of the Memphis Cyclones. Johnny Gaines was on the mound and threw five good innings while striking out eight hitters and allowing only one unearned run. Troy Chambless relieved Gaines and close the door in the sixth and seventh innings.

The Broncos played hard and knew the importance of the outcome.

"We knew going into the game it was going to be a tough one, but we passed our first big test," Elam said. "We jumped on the board first scoring three runs in the fourth inning."

Watson got things going with a solid single to center field and was able to advance to third on a bad throw from the pitcher. Gaines would eventually knock him in and he scored on a close play at the plate. Gaines earned the next score and David Roberts scored on a Brady Miller single.

"Memphis was able to get a run back in the next inning, but Brayden Phillips was able to drive home Justin Shillings for the fourth run in the bottom of the fifth," Elam said. "We were able to score just enough runs to win. Our pitching was good again and (our) defense made plays."

Pain Reliever May Help Control Diabetes

According to a new study published in the Annals of Internal Medicine, a pain medicine may help people with type 2 diabetes lower their blood sugar. The medicine is salsalate, a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) used to treat conditions like arthritis. Researchers randomly added salsalate or a placebo (fake medicine) to the current antidiabetic regimens of 108 individuals. After 14 weeks, hemoglobin A1c levels, a measure of blood sugar control, decreased by 0.5% or more among subjects who took salsalate. This blood sugar lowering effect has already been reported with aspirin, a cousin of salsalate. However, the high doses of aspirin needed to produce the same decrease in blood sugar have been linked to a greater risk of bleeding.

Diabetes is a group of disorders in which people have trouble controlling their blood sugar due to a problem with the production or action of a hormone called insulin. In addition to a healthy diet and exercise program, treatment may include medications taken by mouth or injected under the skin.

Lady Broncos bring home two more wins

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos scored big against Claude and McLean last week to add another two wins to their record when they edged out the Lady Mustangs 3-2 at home Monday night and took out the Lady Tigers on the road 9-1s. The wins put the ladies at 15-4 and 3-0 overall.

Junior hurler Danielle Ford (13-1) earned the wins, and senior Dominique Mason was behind the plate. The ladies are currently ranked number 16 in the Texas Coaches Poll.

In the Claude game, the first inning ended with each team scoring one run and the next two innings remained scoreless.

The Lady Mustangs were able to put another run on the board in the fourth inning to take the lead. But the Lady Broncos would not be denied and added two runs in the sixth to get the win. Dominique Mason earned a base hit, and Caitlyn Christopher followed with a base hit also. Emily Clark was the next up at bat and stayed determined to get a hit. She slammed a double that scored Mason and Christopher to get the go-ahead and winning run.

"We had some mistakes early and got down, but they played hard in this game," head coach Gary Jack said. "Emily really battled and she had a good game and was able to catch a line drive and throw a runner out on third at the end. Everyone played hard and made several good plays to help win this game."

Jack gave credit to Elissa Holland for solid play and Ford for striking out 10 hitters. The ladies took on McLean on Friday and racked up another win. The ladies took control early and never looked back in the eight-run win. Danielle Ford was on the mound once again. Jack also gave credit to several players for their outstanding hitting.

"Elissa, Caitlyn, Trevela (Dronzek), Maci (White), and Dominique hit the ball very well for us. It was a good win."

The ladies will be in action Friday, April 2, at home against Follett beginning at 4:00 p.m. They will play West Texas High at home on Tuesday, April 6, also at 4:00 p.m.

Census is vital to farmers, ranchers and rural America

Bruce Ferguson, Executive Director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Donley County, announced today that FSA has teamed up with the U.S. Census Bureau to encourage all farmers and ranchers to complete the 2010 census.

"I believe rural America is the heart and the soul and the guts of America. And, I believe that we have to start paying real attention to our farm families and to those who live in rural America if we want to preserve that value system," said Ferguson. "So, it's important for us to figure out new strategies and different strategies and expanded strategies for bringing prosperity back to the farm, prosperity back to the ranch, and prosperity back to rural communities."

These strategies begin with the completion of the census forms, which were mailed in March to all residents in the United States.

Having everyone counted is critical to the security of rural communities and will ensure that the more than $400 billion in federal funding will be allocated to these communities annually to support schools, broadband initiatives, hospitals, emergency services and public works projects.

The need for rural America to be counted in the census has grown since it was first implemented in 1790. Back then, the 13 original states had a population of 3.6 million, with 94.9 percent living in rural areas. By 1990, that number significantly decreased to 24 percent of the population living in rural areas.

Yet, according to Ferguson it is the farmers and ranchers who are the backbone of rural America and provide the food, fiber and water that is essential to all Americans, wherever they live.

"This prosperity starts by each farmer and rancher completing the 2010 Census," said Ferguson. It's not only the law, but an avenue used to help revive America's farm, food and values. Everyone needs to be counted."
