Recycle Your Oil

The City of Clarendon has a new public collection center for used motor oil. This special bin is for "do-it-yourselfers" who change their own automobile motor oil, and need somewhere to properly dispose of it free of charge.

Approximately 1.2 billion gallons of motor oil are used each year in this country. The qualities that make motor oil a fine lubricant also make it ideal for recycling. Motor oil does not wear out; it just gets dirty. These impurities can be removed through refining. This process allows oil to be used over and over without losing its lubricating quality. Only one gallon of used oil is required to produce 2.5 quarts of lubricating oil, where as 42 gallons of crude oil would have been needed. Plus, the waste by-products and remaining oil from the re-refining process can be used as asphalt extender and fuel oil. Studies show us "do-it-yourselfers" who change their own automobile motor oils account for 1/3 of the disposal problem. As much as 200 million gallons of oil are improperly disposed of each year in the U.S., primarily by independent people. One oil change from one car engine poured into a storm drain can create an eight-acre oil slick. In addition, the amount of oil in one oil change can ruin the taste of 250,000 gallons of water. Used motor oil contains many toxic substances such as lead and other additives.

How individuals can recycle? 1. Drain used oil into a suitable clean container with a tight fitting lid. Reusable oil recycling containers can be purchased at auto parts stores. Although a thoroughly rinsed one-gallon plastic milk jug may be used once or twice, it is too flimsy for repeated use and the oil leaves a residue which renders the plastic unfit for recycling. 2. Don't mix used oil with any other liquids such as antifreeze, brake fluid, gasoline, paint thinner or other solvents. 3. Take used oil to the new recycling bin.

If you would like to use the new recycling bin, it is located in the alley between Jefferson Street and Parks Street behind the city barn. At the present time we are only able to collect used motor oil from gasoline engines only. At a later date we will have the facility to take used oil filters too, but currently we are unable to do this. This is a temporary location for this recycling bin. Once the new recycling center is built for Clarendon, the bin will be moved to the site just North of the Attebury Grain Elevator. If you would like additional information or have any questions, you can call 874-3438 and ask for Tanya Bell.

Nursing Home News

Residents at the Medical Center Nursing Home are still talking about the Benefit Dance that was held on April 14, 1995. They are wanting to have another one soon. The T.V. that was given away at the dance went to Sue Leeper.

On April 19, residents gathered in the dining room to play all kinds of games like dominoes, cards, and checkers. Sybil Rattan won a game of checkers and Lillie Carmichael won the game of dominoes.

Thursday, April 20 residents enjoyed a pizza party provided by Jamz. The weather has been a little chilly and wet so we have not been able to go out on the patio or work in the garden. Hopefully the weather will start warming up again so we can plant our flowers and vegetables.

Residents have been enjoying arts and crafts. They have made things out of play dough, and drew pictures which they then colored.

The upcoming events will be current events, exercise, nature walks, and an Ice Cream party.

Anyone who has a large piece jigsaw puzzle and would like to donate it to the residents of Medical Center Nursing Home please contact Lisa Moss at 874-5221.

Volunteers Seek Loving Families

Nearly 1,000 volunteers nationwide are seeking host families for foreign exchange students in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE). Families are being sought for high school aged students from Europe, Asia, South America, Australia, and former Soviet Union for the 1995-96 school year.

Each year, thousands of American families welcome a foreign exchange student into their homes. By continuing this tradition of generosity, these families are contributing to the growing movement toward world peace. AISE is a nation wide non-profit organization which is currently seeking host families across the United States to host these foreign exchange students.

These exceptional students, ages 15 to 18, will arrive in the United States at the end of August, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in June of 1996. The students, all fluent in English, have been carefully screened by local representatives in their home countries, and have their own medical insurance and spending money.

AISE's main focus is teaching young people about the importance of the acceptance of other cultures. This is your opportunity to introduce your family to the many differing cultures of the world. If you would like to read some of the many student profiles AISE has on file, call 1-(800) SIBLING.

The TAFCE District meeting was held in Dumas April 20. Those attending from Donley County were Maxine Hardin, Anita Mooring, Betty Hester, and Donley County Home Economics Agent, Jeanene Sinclair.

The meeting was very efficiently presided over by Kay Bezner, District I TAFCE Director. She introduced the incoming director who will take her position after the State meeting in South Padre Island.

The keynote address was "Setting Your Goals In Life" by Jodie Thomas from Amarillo.

During lunch Sheri Bittick sang for the group. She is Miss Dumas Area and will represent the Panhandle in the Miss Texas pageant in July.

After lunch the 279 FCE members representing the nineteen counties in District I broke into three different groups for the afternoon session.

They returned home to Clarendon around 5:00 after a very enjoyable day.

Other members of the board who will be able to serve are Barbara Cosper and Helen Estlack. Both have many years of dedicated service to their credit.

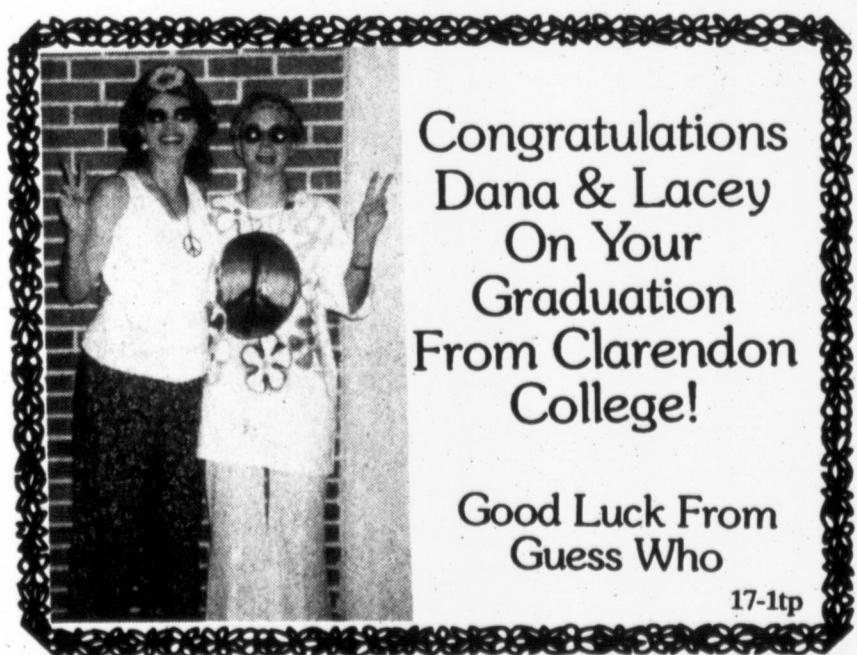

Dr. Richard Gilkey presented our program giving statistics of new cancer cases during the past two years and reporting on successful treatment of Donley County patients.

Camille Neis passed out current brochures and pamphlets available through ACS.

Members present were Genevieve and Red Caldwell, Briss Mann, Paul Bivens, Dr. Robert Powell, Murell and Dorothy Whitaker, Onita Thomas, Ann Luttrell, Dr. Richard Gilkey, and Camille Nies.

VFW Celebrates Loyalty Day

Loyalty Day has become a tradition with the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). With the passage of Public Law 85-529, signed by President Eisenhower on July 18, 1958, the VFW won a long, hard battle to have Loyalty Day approved by Congress. However, this day does not belong to the VFW alone, it belongs to all Americans. It is a holiday that celebrates an idea, and that idea is America.

It began over 200 years ago, when America consisted of thirteen colonies ruled by Great Britain. In 1775, the colonists started a revolution in response to the excessive taxation and harsh treatment by the British.

In 1776, the Continental Congress issued the Declaration of Independence, a document unlike any other ever written. It proclaimed that all of us are born with certain unalienable rights, of which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. With the Declaration of Independence giving new meaning to the struggle, the colonists fought on until they achieved victory over the British in 1781.

The new country was called the United States of America. A Constitution was drawn up, providing for a democratic form of government. Years later, President Lincoln would describe our government as being "of the people, by the people, and for the people." To insure that the freedoms called for in the Declaration of Independence would never be lost, the Founders of our country added the Bill of Rights to the Constitution. Together, these three documents contain an idea of government that has lasted for over 200 years.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars started this observance of Loyalty Day in the early 1930's, when Communist agitators in America held parades on May 1, in which they attacked our country and our way of life. Today, long after the disappearance of communism, Americans still observe Loyalty Day as a day on which to reaffirm their loyalty to their country and allegiance to its flag. Veterans of Foreign Wars request that community citizens display flags in public observance of Loyalty Day on May 1, 1995.

VFW also joins all Americans in remembering the 50th anniversary of VE Day on May 8. This day commemorates the unconditional surrender of Germany to Allied Forces during World War II.

Most Americans have heard the quote, "Ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what you can do for your country." This is a sound principle to live by in a country such as ours, where the government is elected by the people, and where the public is expected to participate in the governing process. In these times of global political turbulence, Americans should pause and ask themselves, "What have we done and what are we doing now to demonstrate to the world just how we feel about our country?" After all, ours is a country that has held high the beacon of liberty, and asked nothing of other nations except that they sent her, in the words of Emma Lazarus emblazoned on the Statue of Liberty, "their huddled masses yearning to breathe free." Ours is a country that has taken the abstract ideal of "Freedom and Justice for All," and made it a way of life.

Everyone must pledge ourselves to maintain a free society in which loyalty is always respected. For without loyalty, the United States, the world's best hope for the future blest with freedom, cannot long survive. And, if we fail, the flame of freedom will diminish and fade forever.

Soup to Nuts

All my life I have heard of Shoo Fly Pie...always wondered what it could be. I never did know anyone who actually made one—or ate one for that matter. But now the search is over.

This pie is almost pure sugar. It is an interesting Early American dessert made with ingredients that were staples in everyone's kitchen pantry.

Cancer Scam Going Again

Every year about this time a firm begins soliciting donations for "Cancer research". The only problem is that only a very small fraction of their funds are actually used for research. Most goes to fat salaries for the officials in the organization and for solicitation. This year the questionable charity appears to be using the name "National Cancer Research Center". And Clarendon residents have already begun getting mail.

The only legitimate nationwide charitable organization doing cancer research is the American Cancer Society. The American Cancer Society is represented locally by reputable volunteers. Anyone with questions in Donley County can contact Darlene Spier, Ann Luttrell or Genieve Caldwell. All are volunteers for the American Cancer Society.

Shoo Fly Pie

Mix together:

- 1/2 TBS Baking Soda
- 3/4 Cup Water
- 1/2 Cup Grandma's Molasses

Set Aside.

Mix together:

- 3/4 Cup Flour
- 1/2 tsp. Cinnamon
- 1/8 tsp. Nutmeg
- 1/8 tsp. Ginger
- 1/8 tsp. Cloves
- 1/2 Cup Brown Sugar
- 1/2 tsp. Salt
- 2 TBS Butter

Cut the Butter into the flour mixture until it looks like crumbs.

Layer the two mixtures into an unbaked 9-inch pie shell beginning and ending with the dry mix.

Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Bake at 325 degrees another 30 minutes until center is firm. Cool and serve.

This should fix anybody's sweet tooth.

If you are looking for a special recipe or would like to see one of yours in print, drop by the newspaper office or write to Lynne Williams, Box 807, Clarendon, TX 79226.

Soil And Water Stewardship Week

Governor George Bush has declared April 30 - May 7 Soil and Water Stewardship Week. Our well-being depends on the production of ample food, fiber, and other products of the soil. The quality of these products depends on the conservation, wise use, and proper management of soil and water resources.

Protection of our water from pollution depends on sound conservation practices. Conservation districts provide practical and democratic organization to help landowners conserve and make proper use of these resources. The conservation movement has created and implemented a program of soil and water conservation in partnership with many private and public organizations and individuals.

It is fitting for all Texans to recognize the efforts of those who protect our natural resources and to appreciate the value of our soil and water.

BUSINESS MATTERS

Rural communities work on economic development

How can rural areas look at current issues and trends in Texas, and design an economic expansion plan to their advantage?

Rural communities deal with two basic disadvantages in economic development: remoteness from markets and smallness of size. Therefore, the challenging issue for small rural communities is to work with other counties and entities in the area to develop a regional strategic plan. Almost every rural issue has a possible regional solution tied to a local need.

The Texas Department of Commerce's Office of Rural Affairs encourages rural communities to develop a long-term plan for businesses that will restore the resource base and make a profit. Commerce suggests that rural areas take steps such as organizing and chartering a community based credit union, laying out a five-year plan for telecommunications, and reviewing the prospects for combining city and county government. Multi-county regions can work on long-term infrastructure plans such as roads, hospitals, airports, and water supply. Rural communities can also request a profile of their county from Commerce. Another idea for economic expansion is to make a list of idle assets such as store fronts, buildings, stock pens, and real estate for sale, and have the local utility use it during visits to trade shows. Communities can also consider adopting the half-cent economic development sales tax, which can provide funds to retain and expand businesses.

A town's quality of life and community benefits can be incentives for new and current residents. Enhance a community by organizing a small school bus to pick up senior citizens for medical appointments and shopping during the day. Or, create a Youth Extended to Seniors program where high school students call on at-home elderly to provide services for a small fee.

Tourism is another profitable business for the rural Texas economy. Service clubs can organize a one-time or annual event/festival geared toward local interests and cultures, which can put much-needed funding into local coffers. Food competitions, music/dancing, arts and crafts, historic sites, and natural landmarks are typical examples of local festivals and activities that attract tourists. For more information, contact Commerce's Office of Rural Affairs at 512/936-0232.

The Texas Department of Commerce's mission is to serve its customers by building partnerships that create economic opportunity and prosperity for all Texans. Business Matters is provided as a free service. If you have any questions about Commerce's programs and services, please send them to:

Grasscycling Becoming More Popular

By Ellen Henke
Lawn and Garden Expert

Millions of Americans reduce, reuse, and recycle but grasscycling? Grasscycling is a new form of recycling that's gaining ground among lawn care professionals and home owners alike in an effort to reduce the millions of tons of clippings discarded into municipal landfills each year.

Clippings make up more than 10 percent of the total municipal waste dumped in landfills annually. Many areas have already passed laws to change the way we dispose of yard waste.

Grasscycling is a natural process of decay and renewal that recycles the nutrients present in grass blades. You can grasscycle by simply leaving short clippings on your lawn. Since grass is 85 percent water, short grass clippings decompose quickly, returning up to 20 percent of their nitrogen to the soil. This creates a valuable food supply for your lawn's root system.

Proper mowing is the key to effective grasscycling. Specially designed mulching mowers make grasscycling easy by chopping clippings into tiny pieces and blowing them into the turf. This is particularly helpful in the spring, when seasonal shower accelerate your lawn's growth.

If you use a standard walk-behind or riding mower, follow the "one-third" rule: Mow your lawn often enough so that you cut only one third of the grass blade at any one time.

University research show that grasscycling doesn't add to a thatch problem. Thatch is mostly dead grass roots caused by improper mowing, watering, or fertilizing.

Grasscycling can also save you money. One season's worth of clippings is roughly equivalent to an application of commercial fertilizer. Most importantly, by recycling a natural resource, you can take pride in your efforts to preserve the environment.

So reduce waste by reusing grass and grasscycling this spring. You can rest assured that in terms of the environment, the grass will be "greener" on your side of the fence!

Children Lack Fiber In Diet

Children may not be getting enough dietary fiber, says a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"The U.S. diet is highly refined, and over processing removes much of the natural fiber that children and adults need," said Janice Stuff, a research instructor as Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Fiber or roughage is an essential part of a healthy diet. It aids in digestion, may reduce cholesterol, and protect against colon cancer. Fiber can also correct constipation, a common medical complaint in children. Stuff says a 40 pound child needs 10 grams of fiber daily, compared to 15-20 grams for teens and 25-35 grams for adults.

"A child can get 10 grams of fiber each day by eating a sandwich using whole wheat bread, a medium apple or pear, a half cup serving of vegetables and a half cup serving of beans or lentils," she said.

Parents should increase amounts of dietary fiber slowly and encourage their child to drink plenty of water. "If the body is not used to it, fiber can cause gas and stomach cramps at first," she said.

Stuff urges parents not to become too zealous about fiber. "Remember, a child's requirement is only one-third as much as an adult, and fiber should be balanced with other nutritional sources. Too much fiber can cause children to feel full before they get all the calories they need," she said.

Stuff says there is evidence that too much fiber can prevent absorption of needed minerals, such as calcium, iron, and zinc. "When children learn to balance their diet with high-fiber foods, they are beginning good habits that will offer healthy benefits over a lifetime," she said.

Write a Letter to the Editor

The Clarendon News welcomes letters to the editor. However, there are some principles that will make such letters more effective.

First, concentrate on the issue and avoid name calling. Calling Senator So-and-so "a fat, stupid SOB" may be purgative for the writer, but it will not change anyone's mind.

Second, be factual. Do your homework. Facts are much more persuasive than opinion.

Third, sign your letter. Unsigned letters will not be published. The person who is too cowardly to sign his or her name is not worth anyone's attention.

Finally, be timely. If your letter comes in after the deadline, it will not appear until a week later - or it may be too late to be relevant.

The Clarendon News publishes most letters that come in, regardless of the writer's position. Publication does not mean that the newspaper agrees or disagrees with the writer. It does not even mean that the paper considers the issue important. Letters to the editor are a public forum.

The paper has confidence that its readers can sort through material for what is informative, what is entertaining, and what is worthless.

Parents! Are you looking for new entertaining reading for your children? Students! Are you looking for books with a different "twist" in plot? Teachers! Are you wanting colorful stories to entice your students during these last few weeks of school? All of these categories are available at Burton Memorial Library.

One of the many I highly recommend is The Cowboy And The Black-Eyed Pea cleverly written by Tony Johnston, and attractively illustrated by Warren Ludwig. Ms. Johnston's story is a western version of the famous fairy tale, The Princess and the Pea. Just as the pea identified the true princess, the black-eyed pea reveals the true cowboy. The colorful, western language combined with Mr. Ludwig's outstanding illustrations depict the characters in a humorous way to delight young readers as well as older elementary children.

The Legend Of The Indian Paintbrush by Tomie de Paola tells how a young Indian artist fulfills his Dream-Vision of creating "a painting that was as pure as the colors of the evening sky at sunset." An informative author's note concludes the beautifully told Indian legend. Tomie de Paola has written other wildflower legends including The Legend Of The Bluebonnet, an old Texas tale.

Where else can the magic of language be better conveyed to the young reader than through poetry? Lee Bennett Hopkins has compiled a group of poems from outstanding children's writers. The title, Side By Side, is exactly what it implies, poems that need to be read with your child. Kindergarten students will be receptive to hear their teachers read these brief writings of verse brought to life by Hilary Knight's appealing illustrations.

Your fifth grader is probably familiar with the Bluebonnet Books. In the past, fifth graders have participated in the selection of books which have received the Texas Bluebonnet Award. According to Librarian, Mary Green, the library currently has the set of twenty books on which elementary children will vote in the 1995-1996 program. The Bluebonnet books offer a variety of challenging and enticing reading. Some even approach social issues of which your children are aware. For example, Smoky Night by Eve Bunting, writer of more than 100 children's books, thoughtfully presents a child's possible viewpoint of the Los Angeles riots. These exceptional books might provide exactly what your child is needing for that final book report.

The close of a school semester often requires additional reading and reporting for the youngest student through college age. The library staff is always glad to assist students with research. If a particular project requires extended study, why not let Mary know in advance, thus, enabling her to examine resources pertaining to your needs more thoroughly, and having them available when you come in? This time saver will prove beneficial, and result in more efficient library service for our community. Burton Memorial Library, a wonderful asset to Clarendon and surrounding areas. Why not check it out?

Community Colleges Play Major Role In State's Economic Development

By Texas Association of Community Colleges

When it comes to developing and training workers for today's careers, Texas community colleges are writing the book on work force development.

The numbers are overwhelming: Texas community colleges provide more than 90 percent of the state's training and retraining programs, offer career training in 1,800 technical and vocational fields, provide training and support services to more than 6,500 companies, and educate more than 70 percent of all first-time minority students in public higher education and half of all college-level students.

Technical training, the heart of the work-force development, is flourishing at community colleges throughout Texas, providing well-paying careers for individuals and highly qualified employees for industries. One example is North Harris College's Geoscience Technology Training Center, the first of its kind in the nation. The center trains technicians, geologists and geophysicists to use the latest in geology software.

"The new software has pushed geology technicians further up the career ladder," says Dennis McMullin, product marketing geoscientist at Landmark Graphics. "Frankly, North Harris College is the only program I know of where technicians can be trained to do this kind of work."

With its new process technology associate's degree program, College of the Mainland is helping supply industry's need for process technicians at the numerous chemical plants and refineries in the Gulf Coast area. "The job of a process technician has increased in complexity because of advancing technology," says Bill Raley, College of the Mainland associate dean of technical industrial education. "Historically, refineries hired people with a high school education. Today, industry wants to hire people who have a relatively high degree of skills and knowledge."

Austin Community College, using a $48,000 grant, is taking a strategic approach to technical training with its planned development of an advanced technology training center for the region. The goal of the program is to change and enhance the way technicians are educated for the work place by rewriting curricula in math, science, an engineering technology. The payoff should be students with sharper technical skills and immediate market demand from business and industry.

The Wall Street Journal reports a recent survey of Texas employers who say they are already having trouble finding technical and other skilled workers. To meet this ever-increasing need, Texas community colleges have entered into hundred of partnerships with local businesses and industries.

South Plains College's Lubbock campus, for instance, has been established as a remote training site for General Motors service technicians. This continuing education program enables local GM automobile dealers to send their technicians. This continuing education program enables local GM automobile dealers to send their technicians for additional training, while limiting travel expenses and time spent away from the work place.

Texas community colleges have not ignored the reality that many workers need to learn basic skills before they can be taught the latest in technology. Grayson County College in Denison is among the state's community colleges providing local industries with on-site developmental reading, writing, and math classes, as well as a variety of courses specific to particular fields.

Participating industries encourage their employees to attend these classes and often offer tuition reimbursement. And at Northeast Texas Community College, a $600,000 National Workplace Literacy Grant from the U.S. Department of Education has been earmarked to update basic skills for workers at Lone Star Steel, Pilgrim's Pride Industries, the United Steelworkers No. 4134 and other area companies.

"How to coordinate and finance such a rapid infusion of training for the jobs of the future must be a top priority for business, government, and education," says Dr. J. William Wenrich, chancellor of Dallas County Community College District. "The good news is Texas has already invested in the most important resources to make it happen - a statewide community college network that is established, proven, and accountable."

Planning Your Retirement

Facts From America's CLUs and ChFCs

Put Your Estate In Order (NAPS)-Q. Is it true if I leave everything to my wife it is free of federal estate taxes?

A. Yes. Husbands and wives may leave everything to each other, free of federal estate taxes, by using the unlimited marital deduction. But if your estate will be worth more than $600,000, using the unlimited marital deduction may waste your $600,000 exemption. One alternative is to set up a trust using your $600,000 exemption and giving your spouse a lifetime income interest in the trust. The balance of the estate may pass to your spouse federal estate tax-free by way of the unlimited marital deduction. When your spouse dies, the trust's balance will pass federal estate tax-free to your trust beneficiaries. Your spouse can then use his or her $600,000 exemption, adding up to $1.2 million being sheltered from federal estate tax. Any part of your estate left unsheltered will face estate tax rates ranging from 37 percent on the first taxable dollars to 55 percent on any amount over $3 million.
