Ground Broken for Water Park

After years of studying, planning, and looking for financing, the dream of a theme park came closer to reality last Friday, March 24. Officials from Yesterday's Children and Thunder Junction broke ground on Phase I, a water park that they hope to open by Memorial Day.

The water park site is located on Highway 70, just north of Highway 287. The park is to pay royalties to senior citizens' organizations in the Panhandle, including a percentage of park's profits.

As soon as Phase I is completed, the organization expects to start on the second part of the project, a full-fledged Western theme park. That park is expected to create 2,500 jobs.

Construction on the water park was expected to be underway immediately.

Pat Kaiser began working on the project several years ago. Greenbelt Electric, as did several other organizations. The City of Clarendon provided help from tourism funds to help get the feasibility study completed. Many local people helped in various ways to keep the project going.

One very significant breakthrough came when Frank Hommel persuaded a guest at his Bar H Working Dude Ranch to seriously consider the project. That guest, David Williams of Great Britain, eventually became the key player in financing the park.

CLARENDON'S CHURCH OF CHRIST provided refreshments for guests at the Thunder Junction ground-breaking ceremonies.

They will also accept cash so they can buy what is not donated.

All of these items are needed desperately for the success of at least 150 disabled children. For more information contact Felicia Robinson or Christina Hommel at 874-3235. They will pick up the donations if necessary.

Letters To The Editor:

Dear Mr. Editor,
I would like to comment on your recent article about the college. I have recently bought a house, moved it to Clarendon and gotten married. My wife and I are also college students and have been for the past two years. Both of us have had good grades and have enjoyed our time at Clarendon College. We learned a lot about school and even more about life.

In our opinion, if you had half the facts about the college, its students, and their enrollment, our article would have been completely different. There are many reasons students come to Clarendon College, yes there are a few that come to party, but most of us here believe that education goes beyond the bottom of a can and getting laid!

From a students point of view, especially a small town student, Clarendon isn't such a big step up from high school. When you go to class at CC you aren't just a number and you can get more personal one on one help from the teachers or professors and other peers. Clarendon College offers a chance for students to become more involved in some of the activities such as choir, judging, and sports than a person could do at a larger university. There is also the financial aspect of CC. Clarendon is one of the cheapest colleges around with a fantastic financial aid department. The department has people that are willing to help students find a way to continue their education to better benefit themselves and their community. Many students at the college would not have a chance at scholarships at A & M, but they can at least try to get one at CC and if they are good, hard working students they have a pretty good chance. As you can see there are various reasons other than sex and alcohol that bring students here. Myself, I came for the size, cost, and the opportunity to play collegiate basketball. We both feel that we will graduate this spring with a quality education that will better benefit our lives.

As for the community worrying about problems from the students, its more likely the other way around. If there is any one group of young people that help corrupt Clarendon, it is the ones that are already here. Many times Clarendon College officials have had to report Clarendon youths to the law. For many of them and us the college is a gateway to an open door with new adventures somewhere else. Most of the Clarendon community looks down on students regardless of their race or where they came from. If it wasn't for Clarendon College there is a large portion of this small town that would dry up and blow away. There is nothing to do in Clarendon, and evidently the people like it that way because they aren't doing anything about it. Clarendon can't use being a small town as an excuse. This could be a nice place to live with a little work and a change of attitude.

Many of the things you wrote about in your article you definitely didn't take time to look at and evaluate all the facts. Our college is a good college that has made nation wide coverage for a number of reasons. Take a look at the basketball teams that have been in the top ten in the nation for several years. The RFO department has been noted and commended nationally, and the livestock judging team is definitely noted for its awards and efforts.

There are a few negative problems with Clarendon, but most of them come with any college. Maybe, Mr. Editor, you ought to look around you more closely and see what this community thrives on. Look at the facts the next time you decide to write such a critical, yet pathetic article about Clarendon and its students.
A Quality Student,
Cory Mays

To the editor & interested persons:

I want to speak to you for a moment in support of Clarendon College, its students, and faculty with respect to some statements made in "Bob's Scribbles" on March 23, 1995.

I have been acquainted with Clarendon College since I enrolled in the fall of 1954 and graduated in 1956. At that time its problems were indeed greater than they are now.

Since that time I have regularly employed one or more of the students part time to help with farm work and to help me with the show steers. I have always found these students to be hard working, honest, and dependable young people. Many times I have turned away 10 or more applicants each year because I did not have enough work for them. Some of these young people have become life long friends and still visit me at times. I have found them to be of finest character and integrity. In my opinion if a person will work he cannot be all bad.

To me this speaks well for the recruitment personnel to be able to obtain students of this caliber in such a competitive atmosphere.

If you venture outside the confines of Donley County you will find that C.C. does have a very fine reputation. Many places I have showed and sold cattle I have had people associate Clarendon with the college, its students and faculty. They have made many good comments to me. Specifically the judging teams are our best ambassadors. They have competed and placed in the top 5 at stock shows in places like Denver, Phoenix, Kansas City, Louisville, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Houston and others. Representation like this not only helps the members but Clarendon as well. I have observed these young peoples behavior on many occasions and found it to be very honorable. I am sure the athletic and other departments have done as well. I am just not as familiar with them.

Let us remember that disagreement, disention, and falt finding only benefit a few, so lets work together to support and make better, what we have. Also may we remember if there might be an occasional bad apple in the barrel lets not judge the whole barrel bad.

Just a local farmer interested in our community.
Thanks for listening.
Don Robinson

Administrators Write:

Clarendon College was founded in 1898 to provide quality postsecondary education for the residents of its eight-county service area. This is accomplished through a philosophy which requires the college to consider the widely diverse needs of its students and to enhance their personal growth as they become better citizens. In an effort to provide information dealing with the college's purpose and philosophy these facts were compiled.

Accreditation - In the Fall, Clarendon College was visited for reaffirmation of accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS). This reaffirmation visit is a peer-review by other community college administrators and staff members from outside the state of Texas. They are asked to evaluate the institution. The results of the reaffirmation process produced 53 recommendations and several suggestions to be addressed by the college. Recommendations are the result of not having a policy or process in place to address each of the 490+ "must" statements in the SACS' Criteria for Accreditation. Therefore, the SACS review team found reason to make recommendations in only 11% of the areas investigated. It would be incredible for a whole team of visiting academicians to fail to find any area in need of improvement.

A recommendation given by the visiting team must be responded to by the institution within six months of the initial visit. A suggestion from the visiting committee is just that, "a suggestion" and it does not require a formal response or action. The deadline for Clarendon College's response to the visiting committee's recommendations is April 17, 1995.

At that time, a group of SACS readers will evaluate Clarendon College's responses to its recommendations. Action on the status of the college's accreditation will occur at the June 1995 meeting of SACS. Other institutions within the state have reported as many as 80 to 100 recommendations, a much higher percentage of discrepancy than was found for Clarendon College. If any college cannot complete an action on a recommendation, then it must submit follow-up reports on plans of action until the action is completed. Some institutions have followed-up for as many as 5 years before completing an action that meets the SACS criteria.

In reference to the issues raised about the Clarendon College Library and its recommendations, in 1984 SACS only suggested expansion of the library. In the recent report the SACS visiting committee asked the college to "demonstrate" the adequacy of the library staff, collections, facilities and hours. It was felt that the best way to demonstrate the library's adequacy was to compare it to other community colleges in the state. Here is that comparison

The report 1993 Texas Academic Library Statistics compares the Clarendon College library to other Texas community college libraries. The rankings in the report are based on full-time student equivalent calculations (FTE). These calculations take into consideration all full- and part-time students. The statistics show that of the 59 libraries operated by community colleges, the Clarendon College Library ranks in

Staffing
12th of 59- number of librarians and professional staff per 1,000 FTE students

18th of 59- number of librarians and professional staff per 100 FTE faculty

35th of 59- total staff per 1,000 FTE students and 100 FTE faculty

Collections
26th of 59- library expenditures as a percent of academic expenditures

33th of 59- total expenditures per FTE student

41th of 59- collection expenditures per FTE student

38th of 59- total expenditures per FTE student

47th of 59- collection expenditures per FTE faculty

Library Hours
59th of 59- number of hours library is open per week (CC library is open 45 hours/week)

Facilities
The following information comes from a survey of Texas community colleges with less than 2,600 FTE students

Clarendon College Library

6.53 sq. feet per FTE student (when all students from all locations are counted)

12.12 sq. feet per FTE student (when only students on main campus (primary users) are counted)

In comparison

4.57 sq. ft./FTE student

Amarillo Sq./FTE

6.85 sq. ft./FTE student Cisco Junior College

12.5 sq. ft./FTE student Frank Phillips College

4.54 sq. ft./FTE student Hill College

6.58 sq. ft./FTE student Midland College

9.30 sq. ft./FTE student Ranger College

Many of the actions required by the 53 recommendations have been completed and will be sent to SACS for review. Other plans of action will also be proposed at the same time for their approval. The level of accreditation and the status of Clarendon College will be determined by SACS in June after they have had the opportunity to review the college's responses.

Reputation - Going off to college is a major event in an individual's life. Students entering the doors of postsecondary education will face many challenging decisions away without adult figures (mom and dad) to help them make the right decision.

As stated earlier, the mission of Clarendon College is to serve its constituents and enhance their lives as they become productive citizens. Clarendon College is mandated by the state to be an "open-door" institution which means accepting students of marginal backgrounds, as well as well-prepared, academically strong students. Admissions policies at four-year colleges, such as Texas Tech, require specific academic scores on standardized examinations; so the comparison of academic quality between community college students as a whole with a student body from a 4-year college would be inappropriate. Individual comparisons of student success can be made:

2) the Sunday, March 26 edition of the Amarillo Globe News Business section wrote of Daniel Hudson of Memphis who "went to Clarendon College for two years" and now manages the only commercial connection to Internet in Amarillo.

These examples can go on and on. Clarendon College has always been and will continue to be a "value-added" institution. The college does not turn away any student. In a consumer driven climate, one must realize that students have many academic choices. However, Clarendon College attempts to be different by providing a personal and caring quality that will foster its "consumers" through the trials of leaving home for the first time and being on their own.

Whenever students take charge of their lives for essentially the first time you will find that some will experiment with their new freedom. According to a National Survey done by Harvard, all institutions find alcoholic consumption to be a major problem. This Fall, Clarendon College hired a full-time security guard to patrol the main campus from 7:30 p.m. until 3:30 a.m. His primary responsibility is to ensure the safety of the college's students and enforce campus regulations. The college also has a very strong policy on the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the campus which carries with it a $200 fine. If caught with alcoholic beverages in the dormitory, students are automatically dropped from school.

In viewing the dorm policies of other institutions, the college has found that Clarendon College has one of the firmest policies dealing with dorm visitation. Male students are not allowed into the female dorm rooms nor are females allowed into the male dorm rooms.

Policies in place are formulated by the Administration and Board of Regents to assist young people away from home for the first time to make their own decisions and, hopefully, make them wisely.

Enrollment - Clarendon College opened a new dormitory complex in the Fall of 1994. The college had its all-time high housing enrollment on campus of 230 students. Approximately 25 students were granted permission to live off-campus because of the dormitories being full. One would expect with this trend the enrollment numbers would be up but on the main campus enrollment was off 31 students from the Fall 1993 figure of 389. The loss was found to be in the commuter student. The Geographic Evaluation Model of 1993 cited that the college's service area (Armstrong, Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hall and Wheeler counties) had a population of 59,363 people in 1980 compared to 51,636 in 1991. Those individuals falling in the 16-24 age bracket (which are considered traditional-age college students) made up only 9.66% of service area's population compared to this age bracket constituting 13.81% of the statewide population. These facts show that there are fewer students to draw from in the college's service area, which is where the biggest loss in numbers occurred.

Discussion of enrollment figures must also encompass the college-wide enrollment. The enrollment figures for the past three years ranged from a low in the Spring of 1994 of 741 to an all-time high this spring of 822. The main campus enrollment was 26 students lower, a loss of less than 8%. Many of these non-returning students can be attributed to completion of courses at Clarendon College or failure to make their grades. Here are the figures taken from state reports on file with the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

- System-wide
- Fall 1992 - 782
- Spring 1993 - 780
- Fall 1993 - 747
- Spring 1994 - 741
- Fall 1994 - 788
- Spring 1995 - 822

- Main Campus
- Fall 1992 - 359
- Spring 1993 - 311
- Fall 1993 - 389
- Spring 1994 - 360
- Fall 1994 - 358
- Spring 1995 - 332

Scholarships - Financial commitment in the form of scholarships is a must if an institution wants to attract top academic students: In an effort to assist in attracting more of these top students, Dr. Stockton and the Board of Regents budgeted $15,000 for scholarships which were awarded in 1994. An anonymous donation of $5,000 allowed the college to establish a Presidential scholar award program specifically geared to attract students who scored above a 23 on the ACT and over 1,000 on the SAT. The college's scholarship committee, composed of the director of financial aid and six faculty members, set selection criteria for the scholarships and also selected the recipients. The faculty has a direct hand in setting the level of academic excellence for the college based on their student selection for scholarship awards.

Vocational/Technical Offerings - The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board assigns certain mandates to govern vocational/technical training programs. One of the most crucial is a mandate stating that 85% of the program's graduates must be employed, in the military or receiving additional education one year after program completion. The college's cosmetology program failed to meet this criteria and was in jeopardy of losing its state funding. The THECB recommended a sunset review for the program which allowed the college to continue offering cosmetology while addressing the areas of concern expressed by THECB. The Board of Regents and College Administration discussed at length the report. It was determined that closure of the program was inevitable due to the monetary mandates of the recommendations and the student placement rates resulting in a total loss of all state funding for the program. The college continues to support a cosmetology program at its Pampa Center.

The addition of new programs has been addressed. In order to receive approval for a new program the college must provide labor market demand documentation indicating the potential employment of students in the college's service area. Without the location of business and industry in the college's service area it is difficult to meet this criteria and add other programs. Improved employment opportunities in the eight counties are the only true means of improving the college's vocational/technical offerings.

Fine Arts Department - The college's fine arts department has experienced a tremendous year in the music department. A total of 22 students are a part of the music program which will be going on tour this month to the eight-county service area. The drama students were under the direction of part-time instructor Katherine Williams due to the requested year's leave-of-absence by the college's drama instructor/department head. Subsequently, this staff member recently resigned from that position and a full-time instructor will be sought now that her decision is final.

These facts show the college is not an institution at risk. The college will take the necessary steps to assure re-accreditation. It will also continue to follow the mission of the community college "providing quality education to each and every student who walks through its doors".

Rabies Troubling Texas

Rabies is a centuries-old viral disease. In years past in the United States, incidence of Rabies was highest in domestic species, especially the dog. With the advent of widespread vaccination in the 1950's, incidence of reported cases of rabies in wildlife began to overtake those of domestic species. In the United States at present, wildlife Rabies far surpasses cases in all domesticated species.

Nationwide, important wildlife hosts of Rabies virus have included skunks, raccoons, foxes and more recently in Texas, the coyote. Superimposed on this terrestrial wildlife cycle is a largely independent cycle in insectivorous bats. At the present time in Texas, rabies in both wildlife and bats is increasing, and is an ever present consideration, particularly in rural areas such as Donley and surrounding counties.

Yearly vaccination of the dog and cat population continues to be the best prevention of human exposure to Rabies. These animals in many cases act as "buffers" for humans against exposure to wildlife with Rabies. By law in Texas, Rabies vaccination are to be administered by licensed veterinarians only, so that adequate records can be kept, and an informed decision made.

Humans, especially children, should not approach and/or handle sick or injured wildlife, due to the risk of bite wounds and inadvertent exposure to Rabies. If injured or ill wildlife are discovered, contact the Game Warden with the Department of Fish and Wildlife in your area.

There is a large area of South Texas currently, where there is an epizootic of rabies in several counties. Due to trapping and transportation of coyotes from these areas, and resultant movement of this South Texas strain of the Rabies virus into at least two other states and one foreign country, the entire state of Texas is under Rabies Quarantine. No dog-type species may be transported if unvaccinated.

In the Panhandle area to date there has been no South Texas strain of the virus located. However, we do occasionally see Rabies in wildlife and in domestic animals. In 1993, several personnel at the local veterinary clinic had to undergo the preventive treatment due to exposure to a rabid cow. Clinical signs in cattle include bellowing, inability to swallow, dropped jaw, circling and "star-gazing."

Exports Set Record

Texas merchandise exports climbed to a record $59.97 billion last year and represented a substantial increase of 14.9 percent over 1993 figures, according to preliminary data released today by the Texas Department of Commerce. The U.S. as a whole posted a healthy 10.2 percent increase in exports in 1994, but was well below the Texas growth rate.

For the first time since state level export figures became available in 1987, Electronic Equipment & Components edged out Industrial Machinery & Computer Equipment as the state's number one exporting industry, with a dollar value in excess of $11.29 billion. Industrial Machinery & Computer Equipment accounted for over $11.07 billion, while Chemical & Allied Industries, the number three industry, exported in excess of $10.66 billion.

"Once again, Texas' export growth rate is higher than that of the entire nation's," says Commerce Executive Director Brenda F. Arnett. "And with Electronic Equipment and Components as the number one export industry in Texas, there remains little doubt as to the diversity of our economy," she adds.

Mexico and Canada, Texas' two primary export markets, showed large percentage increases during NAFTA's first year. While Texas exports to Mexico climbed by a strong 17.0 percent, shipments to Canada surged by 28.7 percent - nearly double the state's overall growth rate of 14.9 percent.

While some expect exports to Mexico to drop in 1995 in light of the current situation with the devaluation of the peso, it's worth noting that of Texas' top 25 export destinations last year, 14 countries posted higher growth rates than Mexico. In fact, amount Texas' top 25 export markets, Thailand showed the strongest growth in 1994, with Texas shipments to that nation doubling. Other leading export markets showing at least 30 percent growth in 1994 included Turkey, Argentina, Venezuela, the Philippines, and China.

Jamboree To Be Held

A benefit musical jamboree will be held April 22, 1995 in the Silverton, Texas Show Barn. Musical groups performing will include The Country Six, the 3 M's, Psalms IV, Valerie Moss, Country Sounds, and Grammy & Pop. The entertainment is scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m. and last until 10:00 p.m. Mesquite grilled hamburger plates will be available before the show for $4. Admission to the jamboree is a $5 donation to the Medina Children's Home. Tickets will be available at the door. For more information contact John T. Francis in Silverton at (806) 823-2524.

Last Chance To Buy Trees

The Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District still has a few trees left from their annual tree sale. The trees that are left are 21 Arizona Cypress seedlings, 1 5-gallon Mexican Plum, and 1 5-gallon Montmorency Cherry tree. The Arizona Cypress seedling are $1.60 per tree and the Mexican Plum and the Montmorency Cherry trees are $15.00 per tree.

Donations Needed

The Veteran's Memorial project needs money if they are to build the proposed monument on the courthouse square. Anyone who would like to contribute to this cause may contact members of the VFW in Clarendon or members of the American Legion in Hedley.

The Arizona Cypress tree is used for erosion control, windbreaks, and landscaping. It grows to be 40 to 60 feet in height. The Mexican Plum is a small tree that blooms like other native plums but does not sucker. It is pest free and drought and heat tolerant. The Montmorency Cherry tree grows sour cherries. It is a leading commercial variety. The large, roundish, bright red cherry with yellow flesh is great as a pollinator for other varieties because it is self-fertile. It is excellent for pies and canning.

"Productivity appraisal" may lower the property taxes on your farm, ranch or timber land!

Texas law allows farmers, ranchers and timber growers to pay property taxes based upon the "production value" of their land rather than on its market value. This "productivity appraisal" means qualified land is taxed based on its ability to produce crops, livestock or timber—not on its value on the real estate market. And it can mean substantial property tax savings.

When is the application deadline?
 If your land has never had a productivity appraisal, you must apply to your local appraisal district by May 1 to take advantage of this benefit on your 1995 property taxes. You may get up to 60 extra days if you have a good reason and ask for it by May 1. If you miss this deadline, you may still be able to apply, but you will pay a penalty. Check with your appraisal district office.

Do you need to reapply annually?
 If your land already receives agricultural or timber productivity appraisal, you normally don't need to reapply unless the chief appraiser requires you to. If a new application is required, the appraisal district will notify you by mail.
