BROOKS MAKES PLEA FOR LOWER LICENSE FEES; FLAYS ALLRED

Speaking from the top of his sound truck, P. Pierce Brooks, Dallas real estate man, brought his campaign for Governor of Texas to Brownwood Wednesday. Mr. Brooks spoke in front of the court house at 2 p. m. Following the example of other candidates for the office, Mr. Brooks leveled his guns at Governor Allred, whom he charged with "carelessness, inefficiency, extravagance, waste and extreme unfairness." "This unfairness," Brooks said, "is very obvious in the Governor's refusal to provide funds for payment of old age pensions, while at the same time paying thousands of dollars each month maintaining a political machine, supposedly to make inspections of pension applications." Mr. Brooks pledged himself to immediately provide payment of pensions to all Texans over 65 years of age, regardless of circum-

Texas Legends and Folklore

By Olive M. Johnson, Director of Speech Arts North Texas State Teachers College

VII—Quaint Remedies and Superstitions

Among the curious superstitions held by the early settlers of Texas is their belief in mad stones, a kind of light-colored, porous rock of the stomach of a white deer, piled to a hydrophobic wound, stone would stick on for twenty thirty minutes and then drop showing that the poison had been extracted from the wound. Indigestion, the sovereign cure made by boiling the dried lining of a chicken gizzard. The early settlers always planted sunflowers and the house as a preventive fever; and when the fever comes came despite the sunflowers, administered the bark of a bud tree as a substitute for quinine. The panacea for warts was to take a neighbor's dish rag and rub warts with it and then bury rag under a peach tree. For sties, the rhyme, "Sty, sty, my eye and catch the first son who passes by" was in universal use. For stammering the cure was to rub the victim's ear, especially near the mouth, with the lights of a freshly killed hen. And all of our ancestors wore lumps of asafetida around their necks to ward off diseases in general. This, along with red flannel underwear—the color thought to be especially conducive to good health—undoubtedly laid many an evil spell.

The settlers believed in joint snakes and hoop snakes, many an old settler declaring that he had seen snakes unjoint and then join up again. Here is the testimony of one concerning a hoop snake.

"He curls himself into a 'loop,' takes his tail in his mouth, raises up like a wheel, and here he comes hell-raising."

It was the belief that the snake would straighten himself with his tail foremost, which he drove like a spike into his victim. He was so poisonous that if he drove this weapon into a tree, the leaves of the tree would begin to wilt and the tree would soon die.

"Why, I was hoeing one day," continues the oldster, "and here come a hoop snake rolling down the row at me. I hid behind the hoe handle and he drove his tail into the seasoned wood. That hoe handle swelled up and bust right out of the hoe!"

Brownwood Panel To Be Shown at Billy Rose Exhibit Ok'd

Final approval of the design for the Brownwood panel to be displayed as a part of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce exhibit at the Fort Worth Frontier Exposition was given by the local committee Friday and the design as approved is now being incorporated on the 2 by 5 foot panel which will tell Exposition visitors about Brownwood. Three drafts of the design were submitted by the designer before final approval was given.

In addition to the panel Brownwood will be represented by six sets of pictures of Brownwood scenes shown daily in the WTCC theater of the big show.

The Brownwood panel lists products from this county, statistics, Lake Brownwood, population and highways, and pictures of a river of pecans, two local colleges and Lake Brownwood scenes are included in the design.

Members of the committee who proved the panel are Gus Rosenberg, John Blake, James C. White, Mollie Armstrong and D. D. Moore.

City Milk Supply Is Being Tested

F. D. Brock, milk inspector for the State Department of Health, and John McGhee, city milk inspector, are making final checks in the rating survey of Brownwood's milk supply, and grades of the various dairies furnishing milk here will be ready for publication some time next week, according to city officials.

Tests now being made are on the temperature of milk being delivered here. The temperature requirement for Grade A milk is that it must be 50 degrees or less when delivered to the consumer.

If at any time on two successive occasions temperature of milk is found to be too high it will be sufficient cause for degrading the dairy which produced the milk, the inspectors announced.

WAXAHACHIE SPEECH LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN TO RE-ELECT ALLRED

WAXAHACHIE, Tex.—Weeks behind his stumping opponents, Gov. James V. Allred opened his belated campaign for re-election here Tuesday night with a scorching defense of his policies—even to "the vital issue of ribbon cutting."

He chided political foes for the "character of the campaign against me, which would be lamentable if it were not in some respects laughable," and then stood up in serious vein for the old-age assistance he fosters.

"I don't know but what the people ought to be grateful to my opponents for discovering a brand-new issue in Texas politics, an issue so refreshing and so earnestly discussed that it must have afforded a great deal of entertainment for many weary audiences. I refer, of course, to the vital issue of ribbon cutting."

He admitted attending one ribbon cutting at a bridge near Wichita Falls and confessed he didn't know what to do, "until I remembered seeing newspaper pictures of the President in a similar position and I reached out and snipped the ribbon."

Texas Out of Depression
"I am happy to report that Texas is financially and fundamentally sound," said Allred. "It is not only on the way out of the depression, it is already out, and we are going to stay out."

"There is no occasion for the dire predictions of disaster and demand for new and oppressive taxes. It is an old political trick in Texas to throw up a smoke screen of talk about 'deficits' as a basis for new and enormous tax burdens. No new taxes at all will be necessary for general purposes of government, for schools or for highways."

"I do not hesitate to predict that the State deficit will be entirely wiped out within the next two years, without any additional taxes."

In defense of the old-age assistance plan, target of opposition jibes from the stump, Governor Allred said:

"May I remind you, in all humility, that I am the only candidate for Governor who publicly advocated adoption of the old-age assistance amendment? I did this on my visits over the state about which my opponents are now complaining."

"No law is ever satisfactory when it is first passed. All of them have to be amended from time to time and the Legislature is free to make changes in the old-age assistance bill as its defects become obvious. The law isn't perfect, of course, but unquestionably it is one which will 'help' to close the road that leads over the hill to the poorhouse."

Needy Need Not Worry
"I issued a public statement that if it became necessary to call another special session when we are in possession of sufficient information to fully advise the Legislature as to our need (for financing old-age assistance) I would call another special session. That statement still stands and the needy old people of Texas have nothing to worry about."

The Governor said he had been criticized for not calling another session of the legislature to raise additional funds.

"This is a strange criticism in Texas," he said. "Heretofore the complaint has frequently been made that we have had too many special sessions, but never before that we have not had enough."

"Reckless statements have been made that it was my plan to finance old age assistance from liquor taxes alone. I will be perfectly frank with you," Allred said, "since the people voted to legalize liquor I think it ought to be taxed. I am wondering if these gentlemen who are trying to make political capital of such demagoguery advocate abolishing taxes on liquor."

He dismissed the thought of additional taxes with the assertion that "unless the Legislature changes the Texas law so as to authorize payments of outright pensions to everybody over 65 years of age (which it can do, of course, but which would endanger our chances for Federal money), then, based upon the percentage qualifying under the laws of other states, I tell you frankly we are not going to need many more taxes."

He said he wanted the State Highway Department to continue free from executive or political interference; asserted more laws sponsored by organized labor in the interest of those who toil had been passed by his administration than any other in the history of the state, and said twenty four of the thirty-one platform planks adopted by the State Democratic party after his nomination had been carried out at least in part.

The Campaign Opens

Governor James V. Allred made his first political address of the present campaign at Waxahachie Tuesday night, and officially, the campaign for Governor is on.

The tenor of the Allred campaign, if the opening address is an indication, is in sharp contrast to that of his opponents.

In the face of continued statements of other candidates that Texas is financially in bad shape, that the country is heading for ruination, is Allred's statement.

The address also was singularly free from Utopian plans that are designed only to attract votes, but which are impossible of operation.

To illustrate how utterly ridiculous is the claim of some of these candidates that we could get Federal aid if we pensioned everybody, let me remind you that the National Congress appropriated only $85,000,000 for matching old age assistance in all the states.

Everyone favors old age assistance, but at the same time there is no justification for holding before the people of Texas any scheme that upon the face of it cannot possibly be worked out.

Not dealing in extravagant promises, but promising a continuation of his business-like administration, not dealing in personalities but promising a minimum of politics in government, the sensible feet-on-the-ground address of Governor Allred will appeal to the people of Texas.

Possibly in the name of economy, certainly not in the name of safety, the city of Brownwood has permitted to be erected a number of "Stop" signs at various street intersections.

Traffic Hazards

Such business in the name of advertising is bad enough; it is made worse when the money thus paid will go out of Brownwood and the return to the city is small but the situation is rather unusual when a sign which is intended to assist traffic becomes a traffic hazard.

There are too many ways to have automobile accidents as it is, without a colorful invitation to the motorist to quit minding the most important business at hand at the moment.

I really should not go right ahead and introduce to you one of the sweetest, cleverest friends I know after that dirty remark, but I want you to know her so badly that I'll just wash my mouth out and go right ahead.

It was through the sweet hospitality of my adored one, Jennie Harris Oliver that I met Beulah and Edd. They are her neighbors and of course, I took them right to my heart as anyone does who ever visits their Falls. Beulah is a very retiring sort of little person.

Somehow I have finally squeezed out the information that she was born in Texas, that's the way of her friendliness and sincerity, brought to Washita county when just a child and lived in a dugout on her father's homestead as we all did, who really pioneered the LIPSCOMB—Max A. Blau, farmer of the Booker community in Lipscomb county, was so well pleased with results obtained by contouring his cultivated land that he has contour listed all of his pasture, consisting of 139 acres, according to C. M. Gay, county agricultural agent.

Blau ran his furrows seven feet apart and in strips of four furrows or 28 feet wide.

great and beautiful state of Oklahoma. Beulah was the fourth of eight children who were brought up to know that a lie was wrong.

A natural story teller from birth she was chastized often. She didn't stop at little white lies like who had stolen the brown sugar, but "windies" that would make a Texas Ranger take off his hat and bow low and then present her with the "dew."

It was through Jennie's help and encouragement that she learned to write with Edd a very loud and persistent side line booster. She is positively the most persistent stick-to-it worker I know. She never gives up that a story is not saleable.

She sent out one story thirty-seven times before she sold it, but it SOLD. She thinks learning to write and writing after you have learned is one per cent talent and ninety-nine per cent hard work with a bushel of determination thrown in.

The result is always a tender thrilling love story. Beulah and Edd live a love story all the time and perhaps that is why it comes so easy for her. She is a prolific writer too. She keeps the mails busy taking them out and bringing home the bacon. She is always working on the one BIG story for a high-powered magazine but in the meantime she doesn't let the grass grow over her typewriter worrying about it. She knows that she must keep writing to get places.

She wrote her first story in about 1923. Sold it for twelve-fifty in twenty seven. She had sold several other stories before then. The first one in twenty six to Dell Publishing Co., Sweetheart Stories, for eight dollars, and thought she'd really done something. She has been selling off and on ever since.

She sold to Sweetheart Stories, Cupid's Diary, Love Story Magazine, Thrilling Love Stories, All Story, Love Romances, Western Stories, Cowboy Stories, Wild West Weekly, Household and McFadden. Her poems have been in Harlow's Weekly, New England Housewife, Our Dumb Animals, All Story, Love Story, Oklahoma and local papers.

Besides being a writer, she is altogether loveable and lovely. Her home is always open to her friends and neighbors. She is an integral part of community life of Falls and the children of Falls think she is a fairy princess. All in all everything that Edd thinks about her, I can "second the motion" and feel very lucky indeed to have her as one of the priceless jewels on my friendship chain.

four list a pasture is during the growing season, preferably in the spring of the year, during a rainy spell. A better job of listing can be done when it is wet and less of the grass turf will be destroyed.

DUBLIN—Lem Keith has plowed under a two-foot growth of sweet clover. He planted this land to peas and plans to plow them under later, according to Mark Buckingham, Erath county agricultural agent.

Keith remarked recently, "While I am following more soil-building payments than I will receive from the Government, I have followed such a plan for 20 years and have never been paid except through my yields for doing so."

According to a statement by the county agricultural agent, Keith sold $1,500 worth of Irish Potatoes from his farm last year.

F. B. Shannon, farmer of Chalk Mountain also in Erath county, is diverting 103 acres but plans to plant 152 acres of Sudan grass. He has already terraced about 50 acres of field land and planted five acres of crop land to permanent pasture and he plans to do some additional terracing and some pasture contours this year.

PECOS—Mrs. Fern Tatom, food supply demonstrator of the Monahans home demonstration club in Ward county is making her grape vine posts serve a dual purpose.

She planted grapes on the north side of her house and posts were put up for the grapevines to grow on. She decided that as the grapevines would not grow very tall this season, she would plant a row of peas and beans on each side of the grapevines, thus saving water and making a double use of the posts.

Mrs. Tatom has also put out over 200 tomato plants. Other vegetables in her garden include black eyed peas, okra, string beans, corn, squash, watermelons and cantaloupes.

This demonstrator has also started a small orchard consisting of pears, peaches, and pecans.

BEAUMONT—At a cost of only $3.80, Mrs. N. Comeaux, bedroom demonstrator for the Portacres home demonstration club, purchased the paper, canvas, tacks and paste to paper her bedroom, the varnish for the woodwork; three rugs and a paper basket.

KINGSVILLE—Roses planted in a bed only 24 inches apart are easier to water and to cultivate, according to Mrs. D. M. Warner, Riviera home demonstration club member of Kieberg county.

She also stated, "As the tops develop, shade is provided for the roots of the plants." Mrs. Warner arranged the rose varieties so that they would harmonize when they bloomed.

There has been a striking development in the use of the national parks for winter sports, the park bureau reports.

Advertisement for 'LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS' by Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people.

Q. How many kinds of birds are there in Texas? E. G. D. Navasota, A. Including local and migratory birds, there are some 700 kinds.

Q. What part of the tillable land of Texas is in cultivation? T. O. Waelder, A. Approximately 40 per cent.

Q. How many counties in Texas are named after signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence? O. L. G. McDade, A. 26.

Q. What is the average annual crop production of Texas? I. L. Gatesville, A. For the past twelve years the average has been $487,335,000, Texas ranking first among the states in total value of agricultural products.

Q. What was the strength of Coronado's forces in his search for the "seven lost cities of Cibola" in 1540-42? B. B. Cotulla, A. Some 300 mounted Spanish noblemen and 800 to 1,000 Indian retainers. The expedition was outfitted and equipped in all the gala attire of an army of the period prepared to go into battle and with ample supplies for the long march that was expected.

Q. Why is Mexican money in circulation in a certain mining region of Texas? H. N. Austin, A. Probably because the miners prefer it, knowing it better than they know United States money, or else to effect a small saying in exchange.

"Texas Empire Builders of '36"

Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 21, 1836 - events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32 page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36," telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936.

The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 10 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Will H. Mayes, 2010 S. 2nd St., Austin, Texas.

I enclose 10 cents in coin, securely wrapped, for a copy of "Texas Empire Builders of '36."

Poplar Tree Yields Nectar

The remarkable straightness and height of the tree and the lightness and workability of its wood, as well as its rapid growth command yellow poplar to the forester and landowner. Its distinctive beauty of form and foliage have always attracted attention. Another feature is honey production; a well-developed tree of 20 years will yield enough nectar to bees to make four pounds of honey.

EXHIBIT TO SHOW DEVELOPMENTS OF WEST TEXAS AREA

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 2.—The stirring and colorful story of the development of agricultural pursuits in West Texas will be told graphically at the Texas Frontier Centennial celebration, opening here July 18, in a display being arranged by West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

D. A. Bandeca, Vice-President and General Manager of the West Texas organization, has taken the leadership in arranging the exhibit to depict the development of America's "Last Frontier." The exhibit will tell in a dramatic and impressive manner the story of wheat, wool and mohair, oil and minerals, agriculture with its cotton, feeds and diversified products and cattle.

Diagrams, murals, oil paintings, and motion pictures are the mediums through which the story will be told. More than 80 West Texas towns, and four cities of New Mexico, will have booths and exhibits.

Interesting feature of the exhibit will be the display of more than 400 branding irons which has been loaned to the show by A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank at Houston.

West Texas educational institutions also will be well represented in the exhibits.

The exhibit building is built as an old depot station 110 by 80 feet in size.

NAZARENE REVIVAL TO START SUNDAY

REV. J. LEE GAINES

The Nazarene Church, located at Ave. D and Durham Street will begin a revival on next Sunday morning which will continue for one week, with the Rev. L. Lee Gaines, of Miami, Fla., doing the preaching. Rev. Gaines is pastor of the First Nazarene Church of Miami, and is also Secretary of the Ministerial Association of Greater Miami. He will be assisted by his wife and daughter, who will have charge of the music. There will be special music or songs at each service.

Rev. Gaines is a native of Brown County, his parents and also his grandparents were among the very early settlers of the county. He has a large number of relatives who live in Brownwood and throughout the county. He served as pastor at Bangs, and also as Coleman for several years in the early part of his ministry.

The subject of his first sermon on next Sunday morning will be "The Hub Truth of the Bible." At

HUNTER SAYS ALLRED IS RESPONSIBLE FOR DELAY IN PENSIONS

Responsibility for failure to pay everyone in Texas over 65 years of age an old age pension was charged to Governor Allred by Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for Governor. Mr. Hunter spoke in Brownwood Monday night in the interest of his candidacy. It is the third time he has been a candidate, and in each of his two other races he carried this county. He was introduced Monday night by Rex Gaither of Brownwood.

Hunter charged the Governor was afraid to call a special session of the legislature for adequate old age legislation, "because the tax might cut into the purse of the big boys who financed his campaign two years ago." He charged the old age assistance administration is spending money with a wastrel hand, while the old folks wait for the crumbs.

Hunter was particularly caustic in his discussion of the Liquor Control Board and the Old Age Assistance Board, which he called "Jimmie's two new bureaus." They have nearly 700 employees, Hunter said, and are "eating up all the money intended for the old people. These employees are his E-Men, the E standing for Electioneers. The liquor tax to pay the pensions has brought in $1,150,000 to date, but the two boards have spent half a million dollars on administration, notwithstanding the fact that the law allows only 5 per cent for administration cost. In May, the administration cost amounted to 42 per cent. The pensions ought to and could have been paid in February, if Governor Allred had submitted the evening hour it will be "Alice in Wonderland Christians" or "Where Art Thou?"

Strike Guards Find Haven in Jail

Rushing company guards from the besieged Black and Decker Tool Co. plant in Kent, O., Police Chief St. Clair West here is shown speeding fugitives into the city jail, where they were held for protection from an enraged crowd of strikers. Forty-one guards were taken into custody after a bullet and gas battle in which nearly a score of combatants were wounded.

COMMITTEES CHOSEN FOR ENCAMPMENT OF BROWN COUNTY CLUBS

Committees were named to complete plans for the annual encampment of Brown county home demonstration clubs, to be held at the Lake Brownwood State Park, August 5, 6, and 7, at a meeting of the clubs council Saturday afternoon. Every effort to make the three day program interesting and entertaining is being made, according to Miss Mayesie Malone, county home demonstration agent, and more than 200 women, representing every home demonstration club in the county, are expected to attend. Committees named include the following:

AQUATIC SCHOOL TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

A life saving course and aquatic school will be conducted all next week by the Brown County Chapter, American Red Cross, under the direction of Hilton Gilliam. The course will be free for both juniors and seniors. Classes will be held daily, from 4 to 6 p. m.; the first three days at Lakewood swimming pool and the last three days at Hot Wells. Both pools are opening the pool free to those taking instruction on these days.

Scouts also will be given for boy scouts and girl scouts desiring credits toward merit badges.

A QUARTER-CENTURY OF Experience

FEDERAL TIRES

Today's FEDERAL tires are the product of a quarter-century of expert workmanship. Their high quality is the result of constant research and experimentation. FEDERAL tires of today have benefited by the EXPERIENCE gained in making the FEDERAL tire of yesterday.

As the automobile industry has progressed—so too have FEDERAL tires advanced. As the demand for speed, comfort and safety has grown, FEDERAL has produced tires capable of meeting every such demand satisfactorily.

While FEDERAL tires have risen step by step in quality, it has been possible for FEDERAL to keep the price so low that FEDERAL tire today cost even less than did the tire of yesterday.

FEDERAL's give over-riding—long-life—sure grip—slow wear—maximum safety. Summed up this means—EXTRA SERVICE.

Don't buy any tire at any price before you see John Parker.
