A Common Paper For Common People

NEW TIRE HOUSE WILL OPEN HERE NEXT 30 DAYS

Wholesale and Retail Firm Will Have Branches In Four Towns and Buy In Car Lots

A lease has been taken on the Cantelou building by the Panhandle Chain Tire Stores, a new firm which will be ready for business within the next thirty days. Homer McElvaney, formerly with Smith Brothers, will occupy the position of general manager.

Federal tires of all sizes will be kept in stock for wholesale and retail trade and branches maintained at Memphis, Wellington, Shamrock and McLean with a headquarters store here in Clarendon.

Tires will be purchased in car lots in assorted sizes, a car of which is now rolling. The building is being put into condition and changes made to properly display the stock and be in readiness for opening upon arrival of the first car which is expected at an early date.

The company is largely financed by local capital whose names we are not at liberty to divulge at this time. The manager, Mr. McElvaney, has resided here with his family for several months and is a hustling young business man and skilled accountant.

Clarendon is fortunate in having business men with sufficient capital to put over a deal of such magnitude and work out a plan whereby standard castings may be sold on a price competitive basis with mailorder houses thus keeping this business at home.

Work Being Pushed On New Presbyterian Church

The contractor, O. W. Latson, is pressing into service every available carpenter meeting his requirements that the church may be ready for the first service the second Sunday in September.

Curbing and sidewalks have been laid and this week the painters are finishing up their part of the job.

Marine Test People Await Actions Of Local Men

Efforts are being made to raise funds sufficient to continue the depth of the Marine test north of town. The land holders near the well agree to put up half of the required amount of $7500.00 to put the hole on down to a depth of 4000 feet.

Others are expected to raise the other half of the required amount. Some few have responded, and with the return of Mr. C. W. Bennett from Corpus Christi, it is expected that the remainder will be raised, as the public is of the opinion that C. W. Bennett and C. H. Wisdom's endorsement will go a long way toward establishing confidence in the project from now on.

The hard gray lime formation at the bottom of the hole bodes well for a pay hole and those most interested are loathe to let this opportunity for a thorough test slip by at this time.

NEW COTTON IS ORIGINATED IN DONLEY COUNTY

Beginning With One Stalk In 1924 Now Has One Hundred Acres In Prime Condition

Preston's Cluster, is the name of a new variety of cotton originating on the farm of L. P. Preston seven miles south of McLean in 1924. A lone stalk that was especially well loaded that year attracted the attention of Mr. Preston, who wished to give the matter a trial just to see if the variety would come up to that standard of production the next season. It did so and the seed was again carefully selected with the result that in 1927, three acres were planted which produced five bales.

This cotton was run thru the Smith Bros. gin at McLean with special care to keep the strain pure. In 1928 forty acres were planted which produced seventy-nine bales. From this lot some thousand bushels of seed was sold, some of it being bought by farmers of the Goldston community. It appears to stand the drought as well as any other variety and is much more prolific in production, the amount of bolls at this time being especially noticeable when compared with older varieties.

Mr. Preston has a hundred acres at present which bids fair to yield a bale to the acre despite the unfavorable weather conditions of this season. While the original Preston test ground is on subirrigated land, that near Goldston is on high land and the test is being watched by a large number with interest believing that an extra good variety has been developed.

BRONCHOS READY TO ESTABLISH HIGH RECORD

Coach Hutton Is Enthusiastic Over Prospects For Good Athletic Record

Coach John C. Hutton announces that the Prospects for the 1929 Broncho football team looks very promising at the present time. The outlook for a winning team is better than it has been for the last four or five years. With a wealth of new material and the nucleus of last year's team back, the Bronchos look like a formidable aggregation.

Only three men were lost from last years team, Dillard, Estlack, and Smith, and although their loss will be keenly felt there will be a wealth of new material to fill their places.

The backfield, with Noble, Nichols, Baird, Tucker, and McCrary should be as good as any in the district. To supplement these men there will be Watson, Andis, Bourland, and a number of others striving for places.

In the line there are Pete Morris, Fred and Cecil Combest, Nath Heiton, Everett Johnson, Jim Cornelius, Ben Morgan, John Zeiger, and Poole Carroll from last year's team. The addition of the two Jackson boys, Clarence and J. D. from Memphis, Bill Woods of Henrietta, Sam Davis of Oklahoma City, and Granville Guthrie, Greer Cottingham and Orville Mayo of Lella, will strengthen the team a lot. Clarence, the elder, played on the 1927 Broncho team, and both Jacksons played on the 1928 championship Memphis team. They should be a valuable addition to the Bronchos.

Besides these there will be a number of others striving for positions including Adams, Gattis, Beville, Smith, Martin, Davis and Watson.

Coach Hutton was somewhat handicapped last season for a lack of equipment and on account of a limited number of men. There will be a plenty of good material this season, both raw and experienced and we are backing the Bronchos first, last and all the time.

Game dates will be published just as soon as a possible schedule is worked out.

Cowboy Artist Will Exhibit Paintings at Dalhart

Harold Bugbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bugbee of this city and widely known in artist's circles and to the people of the southwest, will be presented in an art exhibit at Dalhart from August 31st to September 3rd.

His choicest pictures are already being placed in the beautiful show rooms of the Atkinson Motor Company.

Mr. Bugbee's sales this summer have been exceptionally good in the east and especially so in Boston and New York City. These paintings are done at the family home northwest of town, the artist finding little time away from his chosen profession and for which he has exceptional talent and skill.

A part of the year is spent in the artist's colony at Taos, New Mexico where the most noted painters of the world gather to study and paint celebrated pictures that bring the highest prices of productions of modern day work.

NEW AUTO LAW IS INVOKED HERE IN CO. COURT

County Court Grinds Out Grist In Last Friday Session

Judge J. J. Alexander as county judge presided over a session of county court Friday in which county attorney R. Y. King represented the state. The occasion being the trial of O. C. (Sook) Sargent in which he defended himself.

The state had charged Mr. Sargent with the willful removal of parts from an automobile belonging to B. F. Crawford of this city. The offense is alleged to have taken place in the Rowe pasture several days ago, when the defendant in company with five other young men accosted the Crawford car occupied by John Henry Crawford, Eugene Estlack and Raymond Reavis.

It is alleged that the four offending parties purposely ran into and chugged and removed a tire cover and back bumper from the Crawford car. The three boys being outnumbered by older fellows and a numerical strength of two to one, came back to town and reported the matter to the sheriff's department, giving the car number of the car driven by their attackers.

The following day Sheriff Mosley and deputy A. M. Peabody rounded up Sook Sargent, Homer Cooper, Bryan McPherson and Walter Johnson and charged each with the offense of removing parts from an automobile. The boys readily made bond and the case was set for a hearing the following week.

In the interim, the boys charged with unlawful conduct discharged their bondsmen and voluntarily came up to enter jail, which they did. After a few days the sheriff was apprised of the fact that his guests desired to have a hearing in court and their request was readily granted.

Sook Sargent acting as his own attorney in the case, went to trial Friday morning in Judge Alexander's court with the following jury: John H. Clark, Ben Andis, J. N. Riley, W. A. Creamer, Hugh Riley and C. C. Oakley.

After hearing the evidence, the jury reported a verdict of guilt and assessed the punishment at a fine of fifty dollars and costs. At this time the other boys charged with the same offense asked to be allowed to plead guilty and such pleadings were accepted by the county attorney and fines of fifty dollars and costs each agreed upon.

The boys asked for time in which to get up their fine and cost money which was readily agreed to by the officials and a time limit set.

This is the first case to come up in Donley county under the new laws known as the "hit and run act" as passed by a recent session of the legislative law making body of the state.

Miss Valera Black of Canyon is visiting in the S. W. Lowe home other relatives and friends here.

PASTIME THEATRE WILL INSTALL A TALKIE MACHINE

Combination Movie-Vitaphone Machine Will Be Installed Within Next 60 Days

The Mulkey name has been associated with the picture show business in Clarendon since 1908 when Homer Mulkey established his present business with a very limited equipment.

In 1910 the business had outgrown the small frame and a larger and more substantial building was constructed for the home of motion pictures under the ownership of Mr. and Mrs. Mulkey. This building was outgrown again with the advent of the season of 1918, and the large brick displaced the cheaper building. This building remains to this day pretty much as it was constructed except that it became necessary to build on an addition or extension in the rear in 1922.

With that addition, the Mulkey building easily became one of the best looking structures on the entire street. This building is of such dimensions that a portion of the ground floor is being used as a confectionery and space to spare for a candy kitchen.

During this time, nine picture machines have been purchased. With each purchase a better machine was found necessary, the last ones costing around $1500. Only this week, Mr. Mulkey in company with his operator, Mr. Lee Casey visited Dallas and looked over a complete stock of talking picture machines.

After mature deliberation, Mr. Mulkey came to the same conclusion as in other purchases—nothing too good for his customers—and purchased a combination movie-talking and vitaphone machine costing over five thousand dollars. The expense of installation of a "talkie" does not stop with the purchase of the machine. The interior of the building will have to be remodeled to produce the best auditory effects. An especially trained engineer in acoustics will be here within the coming week to lay plans and make suggestions, after which work will begin looking to the installing of the "talkie" machine.

During all of these years never has the show failed to open on regular schedule except during the flu epidemic. At that time all places of business were asked to close and the picture show was among the first to accede to the request of the health official.

Much of the success of this institution is due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Mulkey who has always taken an active interest in assisting Mr. Mulkey in giving the people the best show possible. Mr. Casey began as a barefoot janitor in his kid days, grew up with the business and is said to be one of the best informed men in the show business in the state. Mr. Casey is also an electrician of note, his suggestions being frequently sought by men high in electrical circles.

The owner of the Pastime Theatre is a member of the present state association and has been a director on the board of the association for more than five years. He is also numbered among three of the oldest show men of the state in point of service.

It is the policy of the Pastime Theatre to buy the cleanest and best pictures on the market. And we might say at this time that it is also the policy of the owners to improve their show business with the earnings that Clarendon and Donley county may have a show place on a par with the best in the Panhandle.

Lella Lake Truckers Raise Big Crop Of Tomatoes

The truck growing firm of Reynolds & Cruse of Lella Lake are now marketing one of the biggest tomato crops in their history. This fruit is choice and includes a number of varieties of the large reds and also the small yellow pear or bell that is said to be the best preserving tomato grown.

Mr. and Mrs. Reagan Bryan of Turkey spent Sunday night with his sister, Mrs. W. A. Land.

Canadian Family Pays Visit To Relatives Here

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hebbard of Biggar, Saskatchewan, Canada spent the week end here visiting in the home of the lady's brother, Mr. Geo. A. McCleskey.

Mr. Hebbard is an engineer on the Canadian National railway and has been for a number of years. Although both grew up near Weatherford, they like Canada very much and it is interesting to learn that a large colony of wheat growers near his home town moved to that section from Denton and Cooke counties of Texas.

Mr. Hebbard also stated that some five hundred native Texans lived in his home town and that twelve engineers on the run out of Biggar were native Texans. Mr. Hebbard invested in wheat lands of that country before the rise in land values, and is now numbered among the large land holders of that wonderfully productive wheat belt.

Wilson Markets First Brice Cotton Here Thursday

The first bale of cotton to be delivered here this season was brot in by C. A. Wilson of near Brice. The bale was ginned there and sold to the ginner of Brice.

Also grown, ginned and sold in Hall county, local men contributed to a fund of $60.00 to be paid Mr. Wilson for having the distinction of producing the first bale in this trade territory. Altho he left town before he could be paid, the money awaits him in a local bank.

COUNTY CLUBS TO CELEBRATE LAST DAY OF SHOW

Second Day of Donley County Poultry and Club Show Is Selected as Club Day

At a meeting of the Council of the clubs here Saturday last, it was decided to designate the second day of the Poultry and Club Show, or September 18th as "Club Day."

Invitations are being extended Home Demonstration agents and their club members of Hall, Collingsworth, Carson and Armstrong counties to be present for the afternoon and night programs of Club Day.

The Council also voted that since it is too difficult to judge cotton rugs against wool, or either of these against the gunny sack (hempen) rugs, that all clubs would exhibit hempen (gunny sack) rugs in club booths at the Donley County Poultry and Club Show.

Cotton and wool rugs, if they be offered, will be exhibited in the open class division for women.

A committee consisting of the president of each Home Demonstration Club was appointed to meet with Miss Thompson to draw up plans for size and arrangement of club booths.

The plan for entertainment for both nights as sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Band Committee, met with the hearty approval of those present and the club representatives present voiced their desire to at once get their community to take action in securing a place in the contest, a full report and explanation of which is given in another column.

COUNTY COUNCIL WOMEN'S CLUBS MET SATURDAY

Subject Of Home Markets Is Given Close Attention In Committee Reports

One of the most interesting sessions of the Donley County Home Demonstration Council was held at the club rooms of the municipal building here Saturday beginning at 2:30 p. m.

The various clubs of the county was represented by twenty-six members. Upon hearing the report of the Investigation Committee appointed some time ago to devise plans for home marketing, it developed that an excellent plan had been worked out whereby the local manager of the West Texas Utilities Company, Mr. T. D. Norred, had offered the use of one whole display window and all the refrigeration space necessary for the display and storage of products the members might wish to offer for the sale which is to be held Saturday, the 31st.

This as one of the many expressions of real helpfulness of the Utilities company in considering the needs of the home people, is deeply appreciated by the club members of Donley county.

The market will open at 8:30 a. m. and remain open all day closing at 8 p. m. The privilege is granted any member of the clubs of the county having standard packs of vegetables or fruits canned. Fresh products may be offered and dressed chickens weighing 1½ pounds or more may be included. Each product offered will be labeled with the name of and guaranteed by the producer.

A standardization and a sales committee will have the matter in charge and offer suggestions when asked or deemed necessary for the success of the project. It is suggested that products to be offered be brought in between 5 and 6 p. m. Friday or up until 10 a. m. of the day of the sale. An urgent invitation is extended the public by the Council to come in and make their necessary purchases on this sales day, the first of its kind under the auspices of the county clubs to be held in Donley county.

SPECIAL PROGRAM EACH NIGHT OF THE BIG SHOW

Six Communities Will Compete For Sixty Dollars Cash In Six Special Programs

Special entertainment sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Legion band committee in which sixty dollars in cash prizes will be offered, is a special feature that will be given the public both nights during the Poultry and Club show.

The first six communities to apply for a place on the program will be given the preference. Each community may select their own form of entertainment. Three communities will be given a forty-five minute period each night.

The first prize for the best program each night will be $15.00, the second $10.00 and the third, $5.00. The audience will largely act as judge of the occasion, the matter of winning to be decided by the amount of applause. The total amount of cash to be given away for this purpose is $60.00—$30.00 each night.

Only rural communities are eligible. No town programs will be permitted. Also the local band will assist with special band music for any occasion when requested. Communities desiring the services of the Clarendon band, should let the secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce know at once so that arrangements can be made. The special band service is free to the contestants.

A platform will be erected outdoors near the old grammar school building in which the exhibits are to be housed so that the crowd will be convenient to the place of entertainment.

Clarendon People Are Thank- ed By Brice Farmer Sat.

When Mr. C. A. Wilson of the Brice county came to town Saturday, he was presented with his premium of $60.00 for having marketed the first bale of cotton here this season.

Mr. Wilson was profuse in his thanks for the liberality of the local people in contributing to the fund as a matter of their appreciation of his willingness to make this his trading point.

Methodist Revival Will Begin At Local Church Sept. 8th

Announcement is made by Rev. Sam E. Allison that a revival service will begin at the Methodist church Sunday, September 8th. Rev. Thornton B. Price of Junalaska Camp will have charge of the services.

The music and song service will be conducted by local talent throughout the revival of two weeks duration.

A Sunday school rally will be held at the church next Sunday. It will be known as "pick up" day according to the pastor. It is hoped to have four hundred in attendance picking up in number somewhat over the attendance during the summer. Special programs have been arranged also for this day.

Shooting Stars

The News editor talked with Congressman Marvin Jones at Amarillo, Wednesday and this Honorable gentleman, said he would be at Clarendon September the 9th to make that Oratorical Address, in repose to a request from our Popular Supt. I. H. Turney of Clarendon High School. He said he would shoot at the stars if we desired him to.—Claude News.

That's what most of the folks are kicking about—his shooting at stars and not looking after the interests of his constituents if one may judge from the reports coming in from the forks of the creek.

The people of this section have not forgotten the service rendered them by Senator Small at Austin and they feel like with a wider scope of usefulness at Washington, backed by his sincerity of purpose, the citizens of this district might fall heir to a real representative of the common people.

That Cotton Crop Report

When that government crop report came out a short time ago, farmers of west Texas felt that they were seved up as they realized that they did not and could not have a bumper cotton crop. They naturally felt that the rest of the country was going to make a big crop and run the price down.

Watch for the next report September 8th—right ahead of us. Within two weeks after that last report was out, cotton production had dropped thousands of bales. Just what would be hard to guess.

Reports are now coming in from all over the cotton belt. They all tell the same story. These reports are handed in by your neighbors—people who have been visiting south and east of here. They report the crops spotted and very little cotton. The price is bound to be high this fall. In fact the farmer will get as much for a half crop as he would a full crop because of the extra high price. Hold your cotton.

THAT POKER FACE

Not every man wears a poker face, but I do believe that there is a certain amount of gambling spirit in every man. The man who would rebel at the thots of a back alley crap game will buck the oil game perhaps even tho it be limited to a small acreage lease.

The past week, Aubrey Dobbs, editor of the Wellington, Texas Standard bet 112 citizens of old Collingsworth county that it would rain by midnight Sunday night.

It came about in this way, Friend Dobbs contributed a page of ad space to which was pledged the names of 112 citizens who had agreed to each donate a dollar to the cause if it rained by midnight of Sunday, August the 25th. If it rains, they each pay a dollar and win big even at that. If Bill Gofforth's prayers in addition to the urgings of Aubrey Dobbs fails to make it rain, Dobbs loses. That's gambling some. Now if it rains, gambling is right because the larger number loses—no they don't for they win in either sense. The more one thinks about it, the less one can figure it out as to just who pays the penalty. Oh yes, the newspaper man does, as he often does, and that makes no difference anyhow as he is used to it.

Wearing the Big Bell
Mighty few big people want to wear the scalled big bell. Many smaller fry want to attach to their egotistical personages the biggest bell and make the loudest noise possible that the whole world will hear about them.

Some are not even content with the bell idea. They go even farther by having cuts made from their photos and impose this cut on their friends in any manner possible to get it before the public.

We are not anxious to get any big guns in a writeup unless that gun deserves it but we want all the folks who really do something worth while to let us know about it that we may tell their friends. The world is interested in knowing about folks who do things.

What do you call doing things? Well, glad you asked that question. Here is my idea, I know a lady who has taught school many, many, years. She is now teaching the grandchildren of her first pupils. A long record and a successful record. Lives like that are worth exploiting. It should become common knowledge.

If you happen to be a farmer and have an extra big melon or most anything that is extra good, tell us about it. You are the fellow we are looking for. If you know of some man or woman who has done humanity a good deed, tell us about it.

Gathering news is interesting. So often people tell the news gatherer that they know nothing. Only recently in another town a representative met a lady on the street and asked her if she knew anything new. After some deep thinking she replied that she knew nothing as she had been so busy waiting on a sister that she had not been around much for the past week. When asked about the sister, it was learned that the house had burned and the sister jumped out of the window and broke her leg but the woman had no news. If you can't call at the office, phone it to 386 and tell us about it. Yes, we want to know about your visitors and your visits out of town or country too.

CAPITAL WEEKLY PRESS

Vann M. Kennedy

Much less generous with your money than the Third Called Session of the 41st Legislature, Governor Moody Saturday vetoed $2,925,306 from general appropriation measures. All branches of the government felt the knife.

The biennial expenses of the government are held down to the figure of $45,000,000 through the thorough application of the pruning knife. This included the $5,000,000 appropriation for rural aid and minor claims bills.

The $2,925,306 reduction affected the five major appropriation bills as follows:

- Eleemosynary, $593,396
- Judiciary $43,200
- Educational $1,525,037
- Departmental $573,484
- Claims $391,190

Tax Rate Fixed

The State Automatic Tax Board was scheduled to meet Monday to fix the annual valorem tax rate. This important body is composed of Governor Moody, State Comptroller Sam Houston Terrell, and State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher. Early forecasts were that the rate would be between 27 and 30 cents on the $100 property valuation. The present rate is 22 cents.

Water Survey Approved
Governor Moody approved an item of $25,000 for an underground water survey. The Federal government will match this amount to carry out the work.

A bill providing for the withdrawal of University and other public unsurveyed lands from the market and the retention of all mineral rights to the State, was filed without the Governor's signature. He regarded the bill as inadequate.

Schools Hit

Appropriations for buildings for the Southwest Texas Teacher College at San Marcos, University School of Mines, El Paso; C. I. A. at Denton; Texas Technological College at Lubbock, were eliminated. However, the Governor allowed buildings for the teacher colleges at Commerce and Alpine.

The budget of the University of Texas was reduced by $109,000. This included: Contingent fund for adjustment of salaries and additional teachers, $70,000; $10,000 for geologic mapping and $20,000 for making topographic surveys etc., each item to be matched by Federal funds; $3,000 for business administration school; $2,500 main tenance fund, etc.

Worm Damage Cut

The largest item eliminated from the general claims bill was $150,000 voted to repay cotton farmers for costs and damages to cotton crops caused by the enforcement of pink boll worm quarantine. The Governor also vetoed $16,674 in increased salaries for the district and appellate judges. The salaries were raised in 1927 by the Legislature and the comptroller issued a blanket warrant to make the payment, the vetoed item being carried in the claims bill to repay the blanket warrant.

Numerous other smaller claims were struck out. Most of these were against the State Highway Department; many for personal injuries.

Confederate Home

The Confederate Home lost; $7,500 addition to dormitory for women attendants; $5,000 for sewer system; $2,400 for employees. From the Confederate Women's Home was eliminated salaries of telephone girls, laundry workers, engineer, and $15,000 for construction of attendant's quarters.

Items totaling $16,000 were cut from the deaf, dumb and blind school for negroes.

State Departments

State administrative departments lost a total of $573,484. Salaries were the principal items affected.

The various departments were treated in the following manner:
Adjutant General: $7,200 for automobile maintenance for state ranger force.

Department of Agriculture: $7,000 for salaries of chief nursery inspector, and seed analyst.
Banking Department: Law enforcement $1,800.

Attorney General: $5,400 for Supreme Court suits.

Board of Control: Salaries for clerks and extra help, $4,600; furniture and collection expenses $3,500. Also, items of repainting Capitol building, $24,000.

Health Department: $16,200 for law enforcement; salaries for book keepers and clerks; vital statistics, etc.

State Comptrollers Department: Stenographer to Sheriff's Division, $3,000; chief tax supervisors, $6,000; assistants to liquor permit clerk, $3,000; four assistant Confederate Pension clerks, $12,000; equipment, $5,400; contingent, $1,800.

Various boards and commissions likewise felt the weight of the axe.

Miss Marie Thornton returned from Dallas Friday where she has been a student and recently received her degree in S. M. U. She will be a member of the public faculty at Memphis this next term.

Creek Bed Case Now Before Courts Civil Appeals

The State has filed briefs in the Bradford land suit and Senator Small's riverbed bill in the Civil Courts of Appeal. This is an attempt on the part of the state to determine the constitutionality of the bill.

Should the Small bill be declared unconstitutional, the beds of Barton, Caddo, Calf, Chalk, and Carroll creeks in Donley county from the mouth up the source so long as a width of thirty feet from bank to bank measure extends, would be considered "navigable streams" within the meaning of the law as passed by state solons many years ago.

Bull Run creek in Armstrong county is also included among the so-called navigation roads for steamers.

If the state wins in this contest, applicants may secure mineral rights to these creek beds from the state direct. The present owners would have nothing to say in the matter—in fact the state contends they are not owned by any one individual at present.

Donley County Man Is Taken To Huntsville Thursday

Will Bales, whose trial here last year resulted in a hung jury, and who was tried at Childress on a charge of venue and given three years at the last term of court, was transferred to Huntsville by agent Bud Russell who called at Childress Thursday.

This trial grew out of the killing of Alonzo Keasler in the northeast part of Donley county in January of last year in a dispute over some cows according to testimony offered by the defendant at the trial.

Bud Russell transfers all prisoners to the state penal institutions by use of a special made truck bearing the following letters: "One way truck." In his experience of many years in transferring over three thousand men to the pen, Russell has never yet lost a man.

THEN WHAT

Mike: "Yes, indeed! I found that out my first day at sea."

The past week John Eady, local carpenter, was called out to make some needed repairs to their school building. This building is on a par with any in a community serving a like number of people and is used as a community center in addition to the regular school work.

It is here that the largest union Sunday school of the county is held. It is here that the various entertainments are held.

In addition to the improvements made to the building, the grounds received a bit of attention that the pupils might have a better ball court and plenty of useable space for various other school games.

The school has its own water system. The fences have been painted and other outbuildings received a coat that gives their most valuable asset a general inviting appearance.

Hatchery Makes Poultry Folks Dandy Good Offer

Eggs have been coming in right along since the hatchery started their fall run but they want to live things up a bit more.

In order to do this they are offering to hatch chickens on the shares. Read their ad in this issue and find out all about it. Most any one has plenty of eggs, and there is sure to be a good market for fryers hatched at this season so say the chicken growers.

Rev. McKee In Revival Near Alanreed Reports Success

Rev. Robt. S. McKee, local pastor of the Presbyterian church returned Sunday to fill his pulpit Sunday night after spending a week in a revival near Alanreed.

The minister reports the meeting a success and the people very hospitable in that section, where they get up with the chickens, but don't go to bed with them. Services were held only at night due to the hot weather and the fact that the people were busy with their crops.

GOLDSTON WOMEN

Tuesday afternoon the club met in the home of Mrs. S. E. Harris of the Goldston community. The session was especially lengthy with three demonstrations to be given.

The first consisted of the use of dyes. Materials sufficient to cover several lessons was dyed at this time. The second demonstration consisted of color blending the Demonstrator instructing the class in how to select colors most suitable for interior decoration, blending of rugs with other materials in the room, etc.

The third demonstration which took up the afternoon until six o'clock, consisted of instruction in the actual braiding of hempen materials, sewing of braids to base materials so that the rug would lie flat, etc.

ASHTOLA GIRLS

The Demonstrator consumed the morning of Wednesday visiting in the homes of many of the industrious girls of the Ashtola community. Preparations of fancy can packs for exhibit purposes was the principal subject. There is to be a lively contest among the girls in placing exhibits at the Poultry and Club show. This idea is not limited to any one community either.

ASHTOLA WOMEN

The women of the Ashtola club turned out twenty strong Wednesday afternoon, the source of their enthusiasm being a new sealing machine for putting up fruit in tin cans instead of glass jars.

The Demonstrator gave some timely instruction in the canning of corn at this time and the ladies are enthusiastic about their exhibits for the Club show.

MCKNIGHT GIRLS

The girls of the McKnight community did not get off to an even start with some of the other communities, but they are doing some very effective work. Twelve of the young misses were present at the schoolhouse Thursday morning to greet their Demonstrator.

Like other girls of the county at this time, the principal enthusiasm centered on preparing exhibits for the Poultry and Club show.

GILES WOMEN

When the Demonstrator reached Giles Thursday, she was somewhat taken by surprise when the ladies informed her that they had already planned their booth for the Club show. Not only that—they had selected a decoration committee.

The afternoon period was taken up in demonstrating the better methods of fancy can packs. Some time was also devoted to the methods of preparing exhibits for the Poultry and Club show.

MARTIN WOMEN

The members of the Martin Demonstration Club met in an all day session Thursday at the home of Mrs. M. L. Pittman. A full attendance of members added to the enthusiasm, also a number of visitors were present.

Plans for the exhibit at the Donley County Poultry and Club show was discussed along with the regular lesson.

The women of this community have an unusually good club, the attendance is regular, and they naturally get effective results.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cannon returned Wednesday from an extended visit with relatives and friends at Vernon, Willis Point and other places. Mrs. J. F. Cannon accompanied them as far as Vernon where she visited her son Sam Cannon.

The TRAIL OF '98 A Northland Romance

by ROBERT W. SERVICE

Illustrations by Irwin Myers

I WAS lying in bed, and a heavy weight was pressing on me, so that in spite of my struggles, I could not move. I was hot, insufferably hot. The blood ran boiling through my veins. My flesh was burning up. My brain would not work. It was all cobwebs, murky and stale as a charnel house. There came the dreams.

There was always Berna. Through a mass of grimacing, greed-contorted faces gradually there formed and lingered her sweet and pensive one. I struggled to go to her. She was waiting for me, breaking her heart at my delay. Then the fever, the ravings, the wild thrashing on my pillow, all passed away, and I was left limp, weak, helpless, resigned to my fate.

I was on the sunny slope of convalescence. As I turned and twisted on my narrow cot it seemed as if the time would never pass. All I wanted was to get better fast, and to get out again. Then, I thought, I would marry Berna and go "Out-side." I was sick of the country, of everything.

"Say, mate," he said, "I piped you off soon's I met me lamps on you. Don't you know me?" I looked at the bandaged face wonderingly. Then, with a great start, I saw it was the Worm.

"Tain't no horse done me up," he said in a hoarse whisper; "twas a man. You know de man, de worst devil in all Alaska, Black Jack. Bad luck to him! He knocked me down and give me de leather. But I'm goin' to get even some day. I'm just layin' for him."

"The man's eyes glittered vengefully between the white bandages. "Twas all on account of de little girl he done it. You know de girl I mean. Black Jack's dead stuck on her, an' de farder she stands him off de more set he is to get her. Youse don't know dat man."

"Tell me what's the matter, for Heaven's sake." "Well, when youse didn't come, de little girl she got worried. I used to be doin' chores round de restaurant, an' she asks me to take a note up to you. So I said I would. But I got on a drunk dat day, an' for a week after I didn't draw a sober breath. When I gets around again I told her I'd seen you an' give you de note an' you was comin' in right away."

"Heaven forgive you for that." "Yep, dat's what I say now. But it's all too late. Well, a week went on an' you never showed up, an' meantime Locasto was pesterin' her cruel. She got mighty peaked like, pale as a ghost, an' I could see she cried most all her nights. Den she gives me anudder note. I said she could lay on me dis time. I was de hurry-up kid, an' I starts off. But Black Jack must have cottoned on, for he meets me back de town an' takes me wid takin' a message. Den he sets on me like a wild beast an' does me up good and proper. But I'll fix him yet."

"Where are the notes?" I cried. "In de pocket of my coat. Tell de nurse to fetch in me clothes, an' I'll give dem to youse." The nurse brought the clothes. There were the notes, folded very small and written in pencil. There was a strange faintness at my heart, and my fingers trembled as I opened them. Fear, fear was clutching me, compressing me in an agonizing grip.

rage, struggled for mastery on her face. "It's him," she cried, "him." "Berna," I gasped hoarsely. "What are you doing to her, you devils? Give her to me. She's mine, my promised bride. Let me go to her, I say."

All at once I realized that the air was heavy with a strange odor, the odor of chloroform. Frenzied with fear, I rushed forward. Then the Amazon roused herself. With a cry of rage she struck me. Savagely she and her husband came for me. I struggled, I fought; but, weak as I was, they carried me before them and threw me from the door. I heard the lock shoot; I was outside; I was impotent. Yet behind those log walls. . . Oh, it was horrible! Could such things be in God's world? And I could do nothing.

I was strong once more. I ran round to the back of the cabin. She was in there, I knew. I rushed at the window and threw myself against it. Crash! I burst through both sheets of glass. I was cruelly cut, bleeding in a dozen places, yet I was half into the room. There, in the dirty, drab light, I saw a face, the fiendish, rage-distorted face of Locasto.

He turned at the crash. With a curse he came at me. Then, as I hung half in, half out of the window, he clutched me by the throat. Using all his strength, he raised me further into the room, then he hurled me ruthlessly out onto the rocks outside.

I rose, reeling, covered with blood, blind, sick, speechless. Weakly I staggered to the window. My strength was leaving me. I felt the world go blank. I swayed; I clutched at the walls; I fell. I had lost!

"No, no, I'm all right. Really I am. Please leave me alone. You want me to laugh? Ha! Ha! There! Is that all right now?" "No, it isn't all right. It's very far from all right, my boy."

"It was in the big cabin on Gold Hill, and the Prodigal was addressing me. He went on: "Now, look here, kid. I'm giving you a straight line of talk. Ever since the start I've taken a strong notion to you. We've been in tight places together; we've been stacked up against hard times together; and now I'll be go-darned if I'm going to stand by and see you go downhill, while the devil oils the bearings."

"Oh, I'm all right," I protested. "Yes, you're all right," he echoed grimly. "In an impersonation of an 'all-right' man it's the hook for yours. I've seen 'all-right' men like you hitting the hurly trail for the honeydew before now. You've lost your grip, my boy. You don't care whether school keeps or not. In fact, if it wasn't for your folks, you'd as lief take a short cut across the Great Divide."

"It's all very well for you to preach," I said; "you forget I've been a pretty sick man." "That's no nursemaid's dream. You almost cashed in. Typhoid's a serious proposition at the best; but when you take a crazy streak on top of it, make a midnight get-away from the sick-ward and land up on the Slide looking as if you'd been run through a thrashing machine, well, you're sure letting death get a short option on you. And you gave up. You didn't want to fight. You shirked, but your youth and constitution fought for you. They were a great team, and they pulled you through. And you weren't one bit grateful—seemed to think they had no business to butt in."

"My hurts are more than physical." "Yes, I know; there was that girl. As I camped there by your bedside listening to your ravings, and getting a strangle-hold on you when you took it into your head to get funny, you blabbed out the whole yarn. Oh, sonny, why didn't you tell your uncle? Why didn't you put me wise? I could have given you the right steer. But you kept mum as a nunny. Wouldn't even tell your old pard. Now you've lost her."

"Yes, I've lost her." "Did you ever see her after you came out of the hospital?" "Once, once only. It was the first day. I dragged along wearily, leaning on a stick. I was thinking of her, thinking, thinking always. Then suddenly she was before me. She looked like a ghost, poor little thing." "Yes, what did she say?" "Say, she said nothing. She just looked at me. Her face was cold as ice. She looked at me as if she wanted to pity me. Then into her eyes there came a shadow of bitterness, of bitterness and despair such as might gloom the eyes of a lost soul. It unnerved me. Then she drew a great, gasping breath, and turning on her heel she was gone."

ing being were to tell me she wasn't good I would tell them they lied, they lied. I would burn at the stake upholding that girl." He looked at me thoughtfully. "I say, old man, do you ever hear from your old lady?" "Every mail."

"Why not go back? That's your proper place; go back to your mother. She wants you. You're pretty well healed now. You'll be comfortable; you'll devote yourself to the old lady; you'll be happy again. I hate to see you go. I'm really sorry to lose you; but it's your only salvation, so go."

"Never had I thought of it before. Home! How sweet the word seemed. Mother! Yes, mother would comfort me as no one else could. She would understand. Mother and Garry! A sudden craving came over me to see them again. Home! That was the solution of it all. Ah me! I would go home."

"Yes," I said, "I can't go too soon; I'll start tomorrow." So I rose and proceeded to gather together my few belongings. In the early morning I would start out. Jim came in and sat down quietly. The old man had been very silent of late. Back in Dawson there was a man whom he hated with the hate that only death can end, but for the peace of his soul he strove to conquer it.

"I've been a-thinkin' out a scheme," said Jim suddenly, "an' I'm a-goin' to put all that twenty-five thousand of mine back into the ground. I can't quit this minin' business." "What's your scheme, Jim?" "It's just this: I'm goin' to install a hydraulic plant on my Ophir creek claim. I'm goin' to begin a new era in Klondike minin'."

"Well, I've written out for Ophir a monitor, an' next spring I hope I'll have the plant in workin' order. The stuff's on the way now. Hullo! Come in!" The visitors were Mervin and Hewson on their way to Dawson. These two men had been successful beyond their dreams. They were offensively prosperous; they reeked success.

"I paid I went on with my packing I said little heed to their talk. What mattered it to me now, this babble of dumps and dust, of claims and clearings. I was going to thrust it all behind me, blot it clean out of my memory, begin my life anew." Then all at once I pricked up my ears. They were talking of the town, of the men and women who were making it famous (or rather infamous), when suddenly they spoke the name Locasto.

"He's gone off," Mervin was saying; "gone off on a big stampede. He got pretty thick with some of the Peel River Indians, and found they knew of a ledge of high-grade, free-milling quartz somewhere out there in the Land Back of Beyond. So he's off with an Indian and one companion, that little Irish satellite of his, Pat Doogan. They'll be away all winter."

"What'll become of that girl of his?" asked Hewson, "the last one he's been living with? You remember she come in on the boat with us. Poor little kid! That was a good girl before he got after her." Hewson growled like a wrathful bear, but Mervin smiled his cynical smile. "Oh, you mean the Madonna," he said; "why she's gone on the dance halls."

They continued to talk of other things, but I did not hear them any more. I was in a trance, and I only aroused when they rose to go. "Better say good-by to the kid here," said the Prodigal; "he's going to the old country tomorrow." "No, I'm not," I answered sullenly; "I'm just going as far as Dawson."

He stared and expostulated, but my mind was made up. I would fight, fight to the last. . . Berna on the dance halls—words cannot convey all that this simple phrase meant to me. For two months I had been living in a dull apathy of pain, but this news galvanized me into immediate action. For although there were many degrees of dance-hall depravity, at the best it meant a brand of ineffaceable shame. She had lived with Locasto, had been recognized as his mistress—that was bad enough; but the other—to be at the mercy of all, to be classed with the harlots that preyed on the Man with the Poke, the vampires of the gold camp. Berna—Oh, it was unspeakable! The thought maddened me.

no man. I despised them, and, to back me in my bitterness, I had twenty-five thousand dollars in the bank. I was still weak from my illness and my long nush had wearied me, so I went into a saloon and called for drinks. I felt the raw whisky burn my throat. I tingled from head to foot with a strange, pleased warmth. Where was that bitter feeling now? As I drank it all seemed to pass away. Magical changed. What a fool I was! What was there to make such a fuss about? It was all a farce anyway. What would it matter a hundred years from now? Again I drank.

How wonderfully strong I felt! I smashed my clenched fist against the bar. My knuckles were bruised and bleeding, but I felt no pain. I ached to fight some one. Then all at once came the thought of Berna. It came with tragic suddenness, with poignant force. Intensely it smote me as never before.

I was drunk, deplorably drunk, and I was bound for the Tivoli. To the right as I entered the place was a palatial bar set off with burnished brass, beveled mirrors and glittering, vari-colored pyramids of costly liquors. Up to the bar men were bellying, and the bartenders in white jackets were mixing drinks with masterly dexterity. To the left I had a view of the gambling room, a glimpse of green tables, of spinning balls, of cool men, with shades over their eyes, impassively dealing. There were huge wheels of fortune, keno tables, crap outfits, faro layouts, and, above all, the dainty, fascinating roulette. Everything was in full swing. In front of me was a double swing-door painted in white and gold, and pushing through this, for the first time I found myself in a Dawson dance hall.

I sat down on a seat at the very back of the audience. Before me were rows after rows of heads, mostly rough, rugged and unwashed. Their faces were eager, rapt as those of children. They were enjoying, with the deep satisfaction of men who for many a weary month had been breathing the free, unbranded air of the Wild. The sight of a woman was thrillingly sweet; the sound of a song was ravishing. Looking at many of those toll-grooved faces one could see that there was no harm in their hearts. They were honest, uncouth simple; they were just like children, the children of the Wild.

A little girl was singing, a little, winsome girl with a sweet childish voice and an innocent face. How terribly out of place she looked in that palace of sin. She sang a simple, old-world song full of homely pathos and gentle feeling. As she sang she looked down on those furrowed faces, and I saw that many eyes were dimmed with tears.

As the last echo died away the audience rose as one man, and a shower of nuggets pelted on the stage. Here was something that touched their hearts; stirred in them strange memories of tenderness, brought before them half-forgotten scenes of fireside happiness. The curtain fell. Men were clearing the floor for the dance, so I went downstairs, pressed my way to the door, and stood there staring and swaying, but whether with wine or weakness I knew not. In the vociferous and flamboyant street I could hear the raucous voices of spicers, the jiggling tunes of the orchestras, the click of ivory balls, the popping of corks, the hoarse, animal laughter of men, the shrill, inane giggles of women.

And as I stood there wretchedly a timid little hand touched my arm. Use The Classified Column A few cents spent in the classified column of this paper will rent your house, find you the house you want, locate lost articles, sell your live stock, find a market for your products, etc.

The Yellow Cab company broadcasted Sunday night that their company was organizing a yellow aircraft company to connect up all the principal towns and that the fare would compare favorably with rail rates.

"Where's Berna?" She gave a violent start. There was a quality of fear in her bold eyes. Then she laughed, a hard, jarring laugh. "In the Tivoli," she said. "Strange again! Now that the worst had come to pass, and I had suffered all that it was in my power to suffer, a new sense of strength and mastery had come to me. The greatest evil had befallen me. Life could do no more to harm me. I had everything to gain and nothing to lose. I cared for

WONDERFUL SAYS AMARILLO WOMAN

WANTS EVERYBODY TO KNOW ABOUT THE GOOD ORGATONE HAS DONE HER.

"It is certainly wonderful how a few bottles of Orgatone restored my health after I had spent many dollars on other medicine that did me no good," said Mrs. F. C. Floyd, 1613 Pierce Ave., Amarillo, Texas.

"For fifteen long years my stomach gave me no end of trouble, and though I was constantly trying to get relief by taking something or other I was steadily getting worse. I didn't have a bit of appetite and just had to force down what little I did eat. After every meal my food soured on my stomach and I could hardly breathe. At times my head would feel flushed and throb something terrible. In the mornings I would get up feeling so tired and worn out it was all I could do to drag myself about the house."

"From the statements I read in papers I was led to think that Orgatone might do me some good, so I bought a bottle. I was surprised to see the way I began to pick up before I had finished my first bottle, and my improvement continued till after taking two bottles my stomach is in first class shape and I can eat heartily of anything I plant and not suffer the least discomfort from gas or anything else. My nerves are all right, I sleep like a baby and wake up in the morning feeling as fresh and bright as I ever did. My troubles are now at end and I am so grateful for what Orgatone has done for me that I want everybody to know about it."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Clarendon at the Stockings Drug Store. Mrs. C. R. Slayer and Mrs. R. T. Foster of Groom were shopping visitors with the Harned sisters Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dyer from the Jordan ranch, left Saturday for a two weeks vacation trip in Oklahoma.

Christian Church Again Asks Dr. Tyndall To Return

Due to the fact that his efforts have met with hearty appreciation of both the people of his church and the public at large, the members of the First Christian church by unanimous vote Sunday expressed a desire to have Dr. John W. Tyndall back again.

In response to this request and token of high appreciation, Dr. Tyndall will again accept the invitation and conduct a revival here next summer all thru the month of August.

As a result of the revival this summer, the membership of the church feels that the material increase in membership, increased interest in the church work in general, the friendly feeling toward the various churches encouraged by Dr. Tyndall warrants them in making bigger preparations for the coming year on a much larger scale.

It is the consensus of opinion that no minister of this denomination has ever done more for the church or more in cementing friendship in the cause he represents than he. People of other denominations voiced their appreciation of his efforts by constant attendance on his meetings and were much pleased with his ability, frankness and fairness and his brotherly spirit.

We appreciate these items very much as do our readers and regret to the utmost when they arrive late.

Secretary Pro-Tem Edlington Has Very Busy Time

During the absence of secretary Boykin of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. H. J. Edlington, a member of the board, has been filling that position. He seems to fit into the position nicely being a same business man with plenty of energy and judgment.

Since taking over the work, Mr. Edlington has become an information bureau and what he can't tell you about what is going on, he can easily find out. His obliging nature is highly appreciated by the public.

Mr. Edlington could tell the folks of this county an interesting story of how he put a creamery on its feet in the Grand Junction, Colorado territory. In fact he has a good knowledge of how to make cows and chickens pay as well as many other things with which he has had a lot of practical experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stocking returned Saturday from a honeymoon trip to Colorado points and are now at home to their friends in the Geo. Bagby apartments.

Miss Bess Compton is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Latson.

Lelia Lake Man Makes Money Trucking Products To Plains Markets

Among the many Donley county farmers who market their truck crops on the Plains, no one has a bigger variety to offer than M. L. Bunn of Lelia Lake.

For the past three years Mr. Bunn has found a ready market at good prices for canteloupes, melons, peas, roasting ears and other truck products. The greater part of this crop is trucked to Amarillo.

It is no uncommon sight to see this farmer pass thru Clarendon every other day with a truck loaded to the guard with a choice line of produce that means a cash income when it is needed most. Mr. Bunn is off the one crop idea for life according to a statement made here Friday.

Local American Legion Post Sponsors Traffic Laws

After mature deliberations and conferences with many other than members of the local Post of the American Legion, that organization are to attempt persuasive measures to secure a better observance of traffic on our streets.

Stop signs, racing streets by day and the main streets by night; U turns, cutting corners and a few other habits of indifferent drivers will receive their consideration.

Double parking may also come in for a share of attention since it is almost impossible to get past the Postoffice at times when autos are parked four deep and often in three different directions.

Several have come out openly voicing their approval of the interest being taken by the Legionists and certainly wish them luck in their good intentions to attempt to save life and limb.
