WARTIME WASHINGTON

By Congressman Eugene Worley

Prior to the short breathing spell, Congress completed action on the following bills which have been sent to the White House for approval:

(1) The forty five billion dollar War Appropriation Bill, popularly known as the "Hitler-Tojo Message of Death."

(2) A measure which is designed to curb the use by government agencies of unnecessary mail, circulars, pamphlets, etc. Each agency will be required to request appropriations from Congress for this purpose and will have to justify their position.

(3) Also finally passed was a bill raising the pay of expert infantrymen $5 a month and combat infantrymen $10 a month. Additional pay consideration was given for glider pilots and fighters.

(4) Legislation providing for sale by Post Offices of "postal notes." These may be used to transmit through the mails any sum up to ten dollars for a flat fee of five cents each. Postmasters will have this information and forms shortly.

(5) A bill extending the Civilian Pilot Training Program for two years also was passed and sent to the White House.

(6) The President has signed legislation authorizing temporary appointments and full officer status of Army nurses who now hold relative ranks and are accorded all officer privileges.

(7) The House adopted a Resolution authorizing the Secretary of Commerce to conduct a survey of postwar needs for airports in the United States, its territories and possessions.

The much vaunted (by the Nazis) robot plane has excited considerable interest. This was one of the "secret weapons" which the Nazis had long bragged about. As a matter of fact, however, both the British and American Intelligence Services were fully aware of the existence of this instrument. Both the United States Army and Navy had previously experimented with a similar device but abandoned the idea because these rocket bombs actually do little military damage. They have a wingspan of about sixteen feet and are slightly more than twenty five feet long. It is a jet-propelled rocket type "flying bomb" without a pilot. Most of them are controlled by radio. Our military authorities rejected these flying bombs in favor of more precise bombing, based on the accuracy and precision of our superior bomb sights.

Most of the damage to date has been of little military consequence. Washington officials believe the first threat was to scare and alarm those in the British Isles but even that objective has fallen flat.

There are four ways to combat this new type weapon: (1) Heavy bombing of the rocket plane take-off spots across the Channel, (2) Sending Allied fighter planes out to shoot them down (since the robot planes cannot shoot back our own fighter planes can come in at closer range and fire more accurately) (3) Anti-aircraft defenses (4) Possible jamming of the radio controls by radio interference.

The Nazis will have to develop a better "secret weapon" than the "flying bomb" if they hope to stop the Allied drives.

Mrs. H. L. Riley and son, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Riley returned from Longview Sunday, bringing with them Cpl. H. L. Riley, Jr. who has been in the Harmon General hospital there. Cpl. Riley will return to the hospital for medical care after a 21-day furlough here.

LIBRARY NOTES

By Mrs. C. A. Burton

The books we are reading are certainly being typed by the lives we are living these days—war stories, stories of the invasion—coming from the press in a steady stream. One wonders sometimes if anybody reads them all. But they bring home to us the realization that our boundaries are expanding in many ways—that geographically the world is every day becoming just a neighborhood and the Poles and the Chinese and the Brazilians our neighbors.

An illustration of that is a statement in the A.L.A. Bulletin that $100,000 worth of books and periodicals have been sent to South America under the Books for Latin America Project—a part of the Good Neighbor policy.

Cultural Service Cars are said to be a familiar feature on the Soviet front, maintained at the expense of the front-line Red Army clubs. Besides a movie outfit and a victrola there is a librarian with each car who circulates books at all stops.

The New Zealand government has granted an extra allocation of paper for the publication of "New Zealand" by Walter Nash, the country's deputy prime minister. Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "The Steep Ascent" is still among the best sellers though it is a few months old. True to her type, she has written a flying story, but it is a novel as well.

Ellin Berlin, wife of Irving Berlin, presents her first novel "Land I Have Chosen." She has become familiar to the public through her short stories in magazines.

A students' reference library of 2,000 volumes was recently presented to Southern Normal School a college preparatory school for negroes, as a memorial to a former superintendent.

In the midst of all our war books and pictures it is refreshing to find a picture of the Swangey, New Hampshire farm house when Joyce Kilmer once spent a summer with his mother and when he wrote the little twelve line poem which we hear quoted so often, "Poems are written by fools like me; Only God can make a tree."

The story goes that one day Joyce Kilmer was sitting on the veranda, looking across the valley at a group of maple trees. He picked up a brown paper bag and wrote the twelve lines which are so well known. The little poem was published in "Poetry" in August 1913 and then we know the tragic ending—that Kilmer was killed in action on French soil in 1918.

Another interesting little story is that every year a song festival is held on the lawn of the "Old Kentucky Home" on July 4, Stephen Foster's birthday. People from the community and others who travel many miles gather near the stately old mansion and sing the familiar Stephen Foster songs. This home which is said to be the finest example of Georgian Colonial architecture in the state, was the home of Senator John Rowan, a cousin of Foster's. The bricks for the building were brought from England in 1795 and conveyed from the boat at Newport News, Virginia on sledges drawn by oxen. After his marriage in 1852, Foster and his bride spent several weeks here. The mansion stands on hill in the midst of 225 acres of beautiful woodland—and is open to the public.

It was here that Stephen Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home."

A Switch in Time saved Mine...

Now I'm over 33,000 mi.

I used to trade cars around 25,000. But if you'd offer me a new one today—unless it was free—I'd think twice. This '39 model gives me quite some pride, still running as sweet as it does. I know of people trying a dozen different oils and nearly everything else, to make their cars last. Some things worked; plenty didn't. In my case I played the hunch of OIL-PLATING my engine by switching to Conoco Nth motor oil, so as not to let engine acids get an upper hand. That worked! And why not? I knew that deadly corrosive acids are a regular part of every engine explosion. I had my faith in Conoco Nth oil's modern synthetic that attaches OIL-PLATING to working parts—like a close-fitting shield. There's the stuff that puts up a real battle against corrosive acids. You're giving your car its chance to live, as soon as you change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Get Conoco Nth oil, that's all.

The Texan's share in this war is truly a big one. Of every 18 men in the Army, Navy and Marine corps, one is a native of the Lone Star State. Recent reports show approximately 650,000 Texans in the services.

Every dispatch from the fighting fronts reminds us that the descendants of the heroes of the Alamo are first-string scrappers. The recruiting officer who told the boys up north that they should "join the army and help Texas win the war" was not too far from the truth!

Here's the latest on some of the Texas fighting men:

Capt. John A. Paul of Kerrville is wearing a bronze star won in the hard fighting at Bougainville. Lt. Bill Hogan of Clarksville, now recovering from wounds, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism in wiping out an anti-tank gun crew—and the same medal has gone to Lt. Delbert C. Gates of Joinerville, with a citation which attests his "extraordinary heroism" in fighting off a Jap attack while armed only with an automatic rifle.

Lewis Schatz of Dobbin, who is back home for hospitalization after being twice wounded in Italy, met his brother, Pfc. August Schatz, at Salerno. August is still in Italy chasing the retreating Nazis.

"Lucky boots" have carried Lt. E. W. Bridwell of Winters through 23 bombing missions over Europe. The high-heeled Texas footgear, first worn by Capt. L. A. Brumley of Del Rio, were passed on to Lt. Bridwell. When he completes his flying stint, they will go to Lt. Bob Deveney of Waco, who thinks they will bring him luck, too.

"Commando" Kelly, the Yankee Irishman who became a Texan and won the Congressional Medal of Honor by fighting heroically with Texas' 36th division, stopped off in Austin recently to thank the "home folks" for their contributions to the war effort.

"We know Texans are behind us," he told Wayland D. Towner, manager of the United War Chest of Texas, "because we got National War Fund services even up close to the front lines. USO camp shows, War Prisoners Aid and other agencies are doing a great job, thanks to the $5,000,000 given by Texas last year. Keep up the good work, and we'll keep hitting the enemy hard!"

The Nazis in Normandy made a mistake when they made a Texan mad one day last week. When a German bazooka knocked out his tank, Lt. Dick Martin of Fort Worth got sore, jumped on top of the stranded machine, cut loose

Rome in June, 1944

In the grounds of a Roman palace an American gun crew is set up for action. They didn't know it then, but it was to become a race to catch up with the German Army which right then was high-tailing it North. Like Montgomery, Lt. Gen. Mark L. Clark uses plenty of artillery when he really goes into action. Have you gone into action during the 5th War Loan by buying Extra War Bonds? From U. S. Treasury

An Open Letter To the People of Donley County:

I noticed a piece in the Leader last week concerning Ennis Favours, our present Representative who is seeking reelection for a third term, in which Mr. Favours claims to be an ex-service man. I was interested in that statement and I think you are entitled to know the facts about how Mr. Favours is trying to confuse the people. He is trying to make you think he is a veteran of some war. Ennis Favours could not be a veteran of the last war because he was only 13 years old when the war was over. He is only 38 years old now and it is certain that he has never had any part in this present terrible conflict. He may have worn a uniform in times of peace, but he shied away from a uniform in this war. Since I am a veteran of World War I and since he has tried to confuse you into thinking he was a veteran I think it doubly important that he make an explanation in view of the fact that he is using this innuendo against a man who was disabled in this war.

ple. In spite of all his talk and all his professions of friendship, the plain facts are that old age pensions are less than they were two years ago. Personally I do not think R. L. Templeton could do any worse on pensions than Ennis Favours has done, and there is the strong possibility that he might do much better.

I am writing this letter because I feel that you people are entitled to the facts about these two men. One has done no fighting but is trying to confuse you into thinking he is a veteran. The other is a young man whose battle record in the skies over Germany is known all over this section of the country.

I recommend R. L. Templeton as a young man of sound common sense, and ability and unquestioned courage. He fought for us over Germany; give him a chance to fight for us as our Representative in Austin.

Lt. Dan Gilmore, whose home is Luling, has made six bombing runs over Berlin, and still is in there pitching. Now he holds the DFC for heroism and the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters.

Lt. Neilan Bemis of Denison is towing more glider troops to France, after winning the DFC with cluster. Lt. Winfred Alfred of Commerce is back home after 28 missions over Europe as a Flying Fortress pilot. Sgt. Julian Bark-

HAVE YOU A TRUE PICTURE OF YOUR ELECTRIC BILL?

MANY folks don't. They're as far from the real facts as this photo in an amusement park mirror!

Proof? In a nation-wide survey, 42% of the people sharply overestimated the amount of their last electric bill. 59% didn't realize that rates had been reduced in the last fifteen years—and 95% didn't realize how much!

Actually, the average American family gets about twice as much electricity today as it did fifteen years ago for the same money.

"For the same money." That's the clue. You don't realize that rates are down, because your bill may be as much as it was fifteen years ago—or perhaps even more. But you have more electric appliances now. You're using more electricity—and you get about twice as much for what you pay.

Growing Forage For Livestock

To obtain good quality hay, rich in protein, mineral, and vitamin "A", most crops should be harvested about the bloom stage while they still are leafy and green.

It is not too late to plant forage crops for harvesting this year, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A&M College Extension Service. Such crops would include grain sorghums and sweet sorghums for hay, silage and cured bundles feed, or even a little late grazing; and sudan grass, cowpeas and soybeans for hay and grazing. Grain sorghums also could be planted for grain where corn was omitted, or where corn crops were ruined by flood.

Since sudan grass seed is not plentiful this year, planting may be limited to not more than 10 pounds an acre in three-foot rows. The plants will adjust themselves to available moisture and plant food by stooling. Good stands often are obtained with as little as five pounds of seed to the acre, especially if moisture conditions are favorable.

Some good varieties of cowpeas are Brabham, Iron, Whipoorwill, Chinese, Red, Blackeye, Groit and New Era. The Brabham and Iron are resistant to root knot caused by nematodes and to wilt, and are excellent on the sandy soils of east Texas where these diseases are prevalent.

Laredo, Ototoan and Avoyelles are suitable varieties of soybeans for hay, especially Laredo which produces a good quality of hay if cut before maturity. As hay, most of the feed value is in the leaves.

Miller recommends inoculating soybean seed with bacterial culture inasmuch as Texas soils contain few bacterial which produces nodules on the roots which utilize nitrogen from the air.

James E. Bell Writes Home From France

EDITORS NOTE—The following letter was written by James E. Bell who is with the armed forces somewhere in France. James Eugene Bell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bell of this city and is well known here, having attended the Clarendon schools.

France July 7, 1944

My Darling Mother, Dad and Sister:

I sincerely hope this letter finds all three well and very happy for the sake of us in the Service. I am well and doing fine. Kenneth is still in England and doing fine, but I hope we get together again soon. I have only received one letter since I got here and it was from Ethel, but I expect a bunch of letters at one time. Mother, I am still doing the same type of work, but I would really like to do more than I am to get this thing over with sooner if possible.

Dad, I had the good luck of being present at a Presidential Citation of a Fighter Group and also got to see a three star general. The boys received several medals including the Silver Star and Flying Cross, so the whole affair was grand and it really made us feel proud of those pilots, who have done an excellent job and deserve those medals.

I am still having some difficulties in speaking and understanding French, but we seem to get along with our hands, ha! ha! If we just had a little of the background of French we could get around a lot better.

Their money is very simple, and it is counted in decimals just as our own U. S. A. money is counted. They count in Francs and we count in dollars and cents. I will send you a ten Franc note in this letter, so you can keep it for a souvenir.

Jean, I don't have any German souvenirs, but will try and send you some small item. I have seen plenty of things for souvenirs, but I am not too eager to pick it up. Oh! yes, Jean, I never have heard a word from Richard. Do you still get letters from him? I sure would like to see him, for it has been about two years since I last saw him; and that was at good old Lubbock Army Air Field. It would be nice to be there now, but still I am not so bad off.

Mother, Dad and Jean, I am also sending you the first copy of our little paper printed on the Fourth of July in France. Just twenty-five years ago, our boys were in this same country doing what we are today, but we intend for this to be the last time for a job like this to be done over here. What I have seen, this country is very pretty. I will close now, looking for a letter from you soon. I would like some wash cloths and shampoo when you send another package. May God bless, guide and protect us all and unite us again very soon.

All my love, Your son and brother James Eugene

Warning Issued to Truck Operators

Operators of commercial motor vehicles were warned today by N. F. Nelson, of Amarillo, district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation, that the manner in which they operate and maintain their vehicles in conformity with good maintenance practices may be a factor in determining whether or not they are entitled to new equipment.

There continues to be evidence that many motor trucks and motor truck tires are being abused and prematurely worn out by some truck operators even though the great majority of the operators are doing a very good job in conserving their equipment, Mr. Nelson said.

With the new streamlined procedure for allocating trucks by the ODT district offices, each of which has a maintenance specialist on its staff, the ODT is considering an inspection of the condition of old trucks which are to be replaced with new trucks in order to determine if the past maintenance work has been ample, it was explained. Operators must conserve their present trucks, it was emphasized, and operators who do not do so should not be granted new vehicles.

Many items can be used as criteria in judging the quality of maintenance on an old vehicle, it was pointed out. An operator who has very poor results with tires can be assumed to be a serious offender insofar as over-loads and speeds are concerned. Evidence of insufficient and irregular lubrication can be observed directly on vehicles. The operator's purchases or requests for new parts to replace parts which have been broken or obviously abused may be another indication of poor maintenance and abusive operation.

HOME ORCHARDS

Since most of us wanted to put up some fruit this summer but changed our minds upon asking about the price, it encourages us to start thinking about setting out a home orchard or a few trees for home use.

Fruit trees and berries, have certain characteristics or traits that must be understood to obtain the best results.

PEACHES: Early Wheeler—made 8 out of 10 crops near Wellington. It is a Cling and matures about July 20. Very resistant to insect and diseases.

Early Rose—cling, matures about July 15.

South Haven—Freestone—should be as good as Early Wheeler.

CHERRIES: Early Richmond, Montmorency, English Morello.

These are all sour cherries, and are self pollinators. Most resistant sour cherries are budded to Mahaleat Root Stock. Sweet cherries are not self pollinated and to produce fruit must have at least one sour cherry to 10 sweet cherries.

PLUMS: Saper—most prolific and consistent producer, purple skin and meat, matures about July 15.

Wanta—Red with yellow meat, good jelly plum, but poor eating qualities.

American—Good plum for home use.

APPLES: Golden Delicious—Self pollinator.

Red Delicious—needs pollinator, such as King David, planted at rate of 1 King David to 10 Red Delicious apples, tolerates more water than most fruit and can be planted on sub-irrigated plots. Other fruits should be planted on hill sides with deeper water table. STRAWBERRIES: Everbearing Mastadons, Everbearing Wonder. GRAPES: Carmen—heads list, no blight or diseases. Prolific and heavy producer. Ready to harvest when turns black. Bailey and Extra are also recommended grape varieties.

Worley—

(Continued from Front page) en, or a tin cup on the street corner," Worley said, who himself saw naval duty in the Southwest Pacific during the first year of warfare. "The returning veteran," Worley continued, "may have his old job back, may resume his schooling, will have the best hospitalization that can be provided, and Uncle Sam will help him secure a small loan for his own business or to buy a farm of his own." Worley was very active in supporting these measures and, as a member of the House Post-War Committee, is taking an active interest in the part the Texas Panhandle will play in the post war world.

"The scrap isn't over yet, as we all know," Worley said, "but with the Allied forces converging on the Nazis from three points, and with the greatest naval forces we've ever had in the Pacific, there is good reason to hope the defenses of the enemy cannot hold out too long.

"And there's bound to be a peace this time which will prevent the awful convulsions of war in the future. We've just got to find ways to outlaw war," he concluded.

Worley plans to spend all of the time allowed him during the current Congressional breathing spell, in the Panhandle.

"Crops are looking fine," the Congressman stated, "and Donald Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board, recently stated that we could expect more farm machinery and repairs as rapidly as the requirements of the war and navy will permit."

Texas Schools Face Shortage Of Teachers

According to surveys made by the Texas State Teachers Association the school year just closed has been one of the most difficult in the history of the Texas public school system. Since the beginning of the war more than 20,000 of the 48,000 Texas teachers have either resigned or changed their place of teaching. Several thousand teachers did not return to the schoolroom last September. In many cases smaller schools operated with a skeleton personnel or were forced to close because they could not obtain teachers. The surveys conducted by the Teachers Association disclosed that 153 common school districts, in 151 counties studied, closed during the year for lack of teachers. The common schools in these counties employed 1900 teachers with sub-standard qualifications. An average of more than 200 positions were not filled at any time during the year. A few districts were unable to provide any instruction for their children.

The independent school districts also had their difficulties. Of 613 independent districts studied it was found that 574 teaching positions could not be filled. In addition, more than 650 teaching places were abolished or consolidated. These districts were forced to employ 2500 teachers with sub-standard qualifications.

During the year teacher training institutions in Texas were able to supply only one applicant for each seven calls for teachers. At the beginning of the war the average salary for all classroom teachers in Texas was a little over $1100 annually. Although living costs have advanced more than twenty-five per cent, the average salary increase for Texas teachers has been only ten per cent.

The prospect for next school year promises no relief. The surplus of certificated teachers has been absorbed. Enrollments in teacher training courses in the institutions of higher learning in the state have declined approximately sixty per cent since 1941, indicating that thousands of young persons in choosing a profession reject teaching because of the low money value placed on their services by society.

Human Hair 25,000 Times Size Of Invisible Platinum Wire

Invisible platinum wire, so small only its shadow can be seen, is being used experimentally at the General Electric Company in Schenectady. The wire is but 13 millionths of an inch thick and approximately 25,000 strands would be needed to equal the cross-sectional area of a human hair.

Harley Longan Writes From South Pacific

EDITORS NOTE—Harley C. Longan, now in the South Pacific theatre of war, writes the following interesting letter to his mother, Mrs. Edith Longan.

July 13, 1944

Dear Mom,

Of recent date we were part of a tremendous task group made up of all types of combat ships. We were out to find the enemy and do him damage, and that is just what we accomplished. The aviators on our carriers are the lads that deserve great praise for the remarkable work that they did and especially the damaging blows which they inflicted on Tojo's navy. Several times during one day we saw our enemy's planes go down in fire and smoke as they made futile attempts to damage our forces. One sight that will not be forgotten was one night when one of our fighter planes shot down an enemy bomber. For some time it looked just like a flare of white light as it plunged to the sea and then as it hit it burst into red flames that covered the water for several minutes.

One enemy plane flying low on the water, far out near the horizon was sighted and immediately we opened fire upon it. There are many who claim that we shot it down, but others say no. It was so far out that it was difficult to tell, but one thing for certain he did not get anywhere near the task force.

Once again we are in port and though liberty boats are few and far between, many of us have gotten ashore at least once. There is not much to do, but a good hike on dry ground, or a swim in the surf makes for a pleasant afternoon. It is hard to believe sometimes that the enemy lived here at one time.

Last Sunday afternoon our newly organized band played for us on the fantail. They were really tops and they deserve a lot of credit. There are a couple of the fellows in the band that do some writing of songs. They played one called "There's Tomorrow", which was really swell. Another part of the program was one of the mess attendants that works in the Officer's Wardroom he did a couple of dances, golly, but he sure shuffled his feet around.

There is a big beautiful moon right now and each night as we get together for the movie on the fantail that old moon makes our thoughts turn homeward and especially to those we love. It is just like all the beautiful sunsets we have out here they are wonderful, but there is always something lacking, I wonder could it be you?

That seems to be it for this letter, maybe soon there will be another. Until then we will continue to do our part in getting this all over with and then we will be home again.

With love,
Harley

Blood Plasma For Civilian Use

Texas, one of the first states in the Union to establish a blood plasma program for civilian use, operates, through the State Department of Health, a well equipped and efficiently manned mobile bleeding unit which is sent upon request to any community desirous of its services.

Blood plasma banks have been proved an invaluable aid to all towns and hospitals where established. The giving of blood does not cause any ill effects to the donor and blood donors are usually pleasantly surprised at the painless simplicity of the bleeding. The process usually takes about thirty minutes from the beginning of the donation to the resumption of normal activities, and is without discomfort to healthy individuals who, incidentally, are the only ones from whom blood is accepted.

Regarding the importance of the blood plasma program, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has stated that the man at the front has long since learned to appreciate the value of plasma and would no doubt be grateful to know that it is available for use as needed by the family he has left, and to his home community.

Dr. Cox pointed out that the State Department of Health merely collects the blood and processes it into plasma, and then it is returned without cost to the community from which it came. Any civic group or other organization interested in public health may sponsor this program locally. Contact should be made with the local health officer who can make arrangements for this service wherever requested.
